After a rugged life of years, perhaps, as third and second officer, you get to be first, and there for years may hang on the ragged edge of promotion, a captainey coming to you in the end or not, as fate decrees. There is compensation in this, however, that the longer your promotion is delayed the more savagely can you vent your ire and spleen upon the second and third officers, thus maintaining an equilibrium, as it were, or balance of power, so to speak; not letting your hand forget its familiarity with the belaying pin, even when the captainey is secured.

Now, my lad, if you like this unfinished picture to crude oil of "life on the ocean wave," this marine view of affairs, whose side you must perforce take at a very low ebb, roughing it long against head-winds and crosses seas—this is metaphor, but the reality is before you on the "rolling deep"—are you catch on to the flood which leads to the goal to which you aspire; if you are prepared to wrestle with sickness, the champion causeless of all that flesh is heir to, which is pretty certain to tackle you—it gets on to many sea-farers every time they enter upon a voyage—when you will want to go home very badly, or be "homesick aboard," you don't care which; if you hanker for pre-natatic hard tack, by courtesy yclept "shipbread," if you yearn for the tailbone lobscouse, the "salt horse" of leathery toughness, the rancid mess pork, and other pleasantries of the fo'c's'le feasts—being at our soul's in arms, as it were, and eager for the roaring gale when seasick nauseate you, and you are down into caverns sheol deep; if you sign at the rolling roll and pitch of the disabled ship in the trough of the angry sea; if you jump for the hospitable lee shore, off which the breakers chant a gleeful welcome; if you long for the dry dromedary mounted upon the ship but are forced to go through a very unsavory course of sprouts, in a majority of cases, and when they reach the quarter deck they generally make it out for those under their command as they found it themselves when subordinates, and thus they get revenge; if not on those who wrecked them about with belaying-pins and marline-spikes, nevertheless revenge, which is said to

Around the County.

Eastport.

An Eastport fishing party recently caught a muscalonge over four feet long, which weighed 25 pounds

Mrs. H. F. Blakely has gone south, visiting friends.

Eastport literary society begins Friday evening, Oct. 23. Everybody should attend this winter and make it interesting.

The ladies of Eastport have organized a helping hand society, an auxiliary to the Congregational church of this place, with the following officers: President, Mrs. N. C. Dreyer, vice president, Mrs. C. B. Zerne; secretary Mrs. J. R. Child; treasurer, Mrs. J. Newell; executive committee, Mrs. J. R. Child, Mrs. H. Pearl, Mrs. J. Newell. They have an autograph quilt in the course of construction. We also learn that the Congregational Society here intends building a church in the near future.

Events still crowd in upon us. Last Tuesday Miss Nellie Williams of this place and Mr. John Winters, of Milton, were married at the residence of the bride's parents. There were about 100 friends present,—some from Canada,—to witness the ceremony. A very enjoyable time was had. Rev. Mr. Coulter officiated. Many valuable and useful presents were tendered them. The reporter succeeded in getting a piece of the wedding cake. Here's hoping that they may live to enjoy the pleasure and comfort of many Winters.

Burgess.

One of our respected citizens spent Sunday in the cooler at Charlevoix. Too much tanglefoot.

Mr. Leeds, from Louisville, Ky., is spending a few days with his family, who have been at Mr. Gibson's all summer.

Mr. Cooper who lost some money week before last, has found the thief and has him in the lockup at Charlevoix. The trial comes off Wednesday before Justice Kane.

Some of your readers want to know what became of the first chapters of the continued article in your last paper. [Ask the compositor who substituted "five" for "four."—Ed.]

There is a prospect of some of our school districts having a surplus of officers the coming winter.

Roy Hamlin, wife, and baby, were visiting relatives in Hayes the first of the week.

Moss Cooper has his new barn completed.

Thos. Murry, Esq., threshed last week. He had about 550 bushels, all kinds.

Mr. Hale has the largest squash so far, it is 4 feet 9 in. one way and 4 feet 6 in. the other at circumference.

There is some talk of purchasing the Ross school house for a town hall.

Miss Minnie Whitford and Byron Crum were married last Sunday, Rev. Mr. Whitman officiating.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. C. V. Cook.
First Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. Iddings.
Third Vice President—Mrs. C. F. Van Auken.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. D. C. Loveless.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. R. Sutfell.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Two Fortunes.

"Be not among winebibbers; among riotous eaters of the flesh. For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty; and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags." Prov. xxiii, 20-21.

I'll tell you two fortunes, my fine little lad,
For you to accept or reject;
The one of them good, the other one bad;
Now hear them, and say which you choose.

I see by my gifts, a little rough of way hand,
A brunette fight fair to behold;
A house and a hundred good acres of land,
With the harvest-fields yellow as gold.

I see a great orchard, with boughs hanging low,
With apples, green, russet and red;
Sweet stores of cattle, some white and some brown,
But all of them sleek and well fed.

I see droves of cattlers about the farm door,
See the farming self whistling so fast;
I see them threshing the wheat on the floor—
And now the bright picture has passed.

I see idling dismally up in the place
Of the beautiful house and the land,
A man with a frowzed nose on his face,
And a little brown jug in his hand.

O, if you choose him, my lad, you would wish
That he were less wretched to see;
For his pockets they gape like the mouth of a fish,
And his trousers are out at the knee.

In walking he staggers, now this way, now that,
And his eyes they stand out like a bug;
And he swears an old oath, but a half-civilized,
And I think that he drinks like a jug.

For the text says the drunkard shall come to be poor,
And "Oil and wine" follow men with rags,
And as Solomon knew man is liker unto a bee,
Who has honey hard stuck in his bags.

Now which will you have? To be thrifty and strong,
And to eight side up with your dish;
Or with your eyes like the eyes of a hog,
And your shoes like the mouth of a fish?

Alice Cary.

One day last week, John Wallace, of Bellaire, while under the influence of "druggists' whiskey," brutally assaulted and nearly killed his wife, striking her repeatedly in the face, and pounding it to a jelly.

Lost Their Lives While Intoxicated.

Fowler, Ind., Sept. 24.—Geo Lingreen, a farmer living in Ambia in this county, was found dead on the track of the Lake Erie & Western railroad this morning, having been cut to pieces by a passing train. He had been drinking heavily last evening.

At East Park, in this county, Wood Burton attempted to jump from a moving freight train and was thrown beneath the cars. He was horribly mangled and soon died. He was intoxicated at the time.

Swing-Skittles.

The good old English game of skittles, perhaps from its constantly being associated with the idea of beer, ranks somewhat low among popular amusements; its chief votaries will be found among the frequent visitors to suburban tea-gardens or of roadside public houses. It is useful in its way as providing opportunities for the display of a certain amount of address, combined with more or less physical exercise, according to the energy of the players; but there is a general roughness and want of nicety about the game which will account for its not having made its way into favor as an adjunct to our country-house gardens, especially as these defects render it ill-adapted for the gentler sex.

The American form of the game, the bowling or ten-pin alley, is a very good improvement. The necessity for physical strength is reduced, while that of skill is increased, thereby making it better adapted for both sexes; but it must be played indoors, or at all events in a covered alley, in order to prevent the "table" from being damaged by exposure to the weather; and, moreover, the weight of the balls and the length of the pins render the construction of this "table" somewhat costly. Further, it is almost impossible to play for any length of time without having a boy constantly at the end of the alley to pick up the pins and send back the balls to the players.

In southern Germany a different form of game is very much in vogue; the ball, instead of being bowled, is swung by a rope suspended from a sort of gallows, and thus returns by its own momentum to the player's hand after every stroke. Nothing in the way of a table is required beyond a small square frame on which the pins stand, and this may be made of stone or wood sufficiently strong to defy the weather. The pins and all the adjuncts of the game can be made by any ordinary village carpenter, and may be left out of doors during the whole summer without taking any damage. A very small space is required, a plot of ground twenty-four feet long with a breadth of sixteen feet being amply sufficient; this there is scarcely any garden in which a corner might not be found with room enough.

This game is to be seen in the gardens of almost every "Wirthschaft" in the Black forest—gardens that differ very much from those of our purely houses in that they are frequented and civilized by the presence of the wives and daughters of the men of the lower and middle classes, who after workings hours spend the long summer evenings in these resorts. Many of the hotels have one of these skittle-grounds attached to them in some shady nook, adding much to the attractions of the busy life of an enforced sojourn at a German bad; and they are frequently also to be seen in the gardens of private residences, showing that the game is by no means practiced only by the lower classes. It has been long known in England on the toy and miniature scale, and has even in its fullness been sometimes imported here by some of those who have found it an agreeable pastime in Germany; and wherever it has been introduced it has met with favor in the neighborhood.—London Saturday Review.

Industrial Use of Natural Gas.

The practical application of natural gas, as an article of fuel, to the purpose of manufacturing glass, iron, and steel, promises to work a revolution in the industrial interests of America—provided it to work a revolution; for, notwithstanding the fact that, in many of the larger iron, steel, and glass factories in Pittsburg and is vicinity, natural gas has already been substituted for coal, the managers of some such works are shy of the new fuel, mainly for two reasons: 1. They doubt the continuity and regularity of its supply; 2. They do not deem the difference between the price of natural gas and coal sufficient, as yet, to justify the expenditure involved in the furnace changes necessary to the substitution of the one for the other. These two objections will doubtless disappear with additional experience in the production and regulation of the gas-supply, and with enlarged competition among the companies engaging in its transmission from the wells to the works. At present the use of natural gas as a substitute for coal in the manufacture of glass, iron, and steel, is in its infancy.—George Worthington, in Popular Science Monthly for June.

Farm for Sale or Exchange.

One hundred acres of the best farming land, in open improvement, over one hundred bearing, good buildings, seven miles from Charlevoix, will exchange for such, or will sell on long time and easy payments. For further particulars inquire at this office. 1m17

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati lv.	.....	7 40am	7 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, ar.	6 45pm	2 50pm	1 30am	7 15am
Fort Wayne, lv.	.....	2 55	1 35	7 20
Kalamazoo, ar	7 25am	7 50	5 50	12 20pm
Kalamazoo, lv.	7 30	8 00	5 55	12 35
G'd Rapids, ar.	8 40	9 08	7 00	1 55
G'd Rapids, lv.	8 50	9 15	7 05	2 05
Mil H & W ar.	11 40	11 15	7 35	5 00
Howard City	12 52pm	12 26am	8 50	6 27
Big Rapids	1 42	1 14	9 40	7 14
Reed City, ar.	2 32	.....	10 11	7 42
Reed City, lv.	2 37	1 44		7 55
Cadillac, ar.	3 05	2 47	11 21	9 00pm
Cadillac, lv.	3 10	2 52	11 26	.....
Walton	4 56	3 46	12 12pm	.....
Kalkaska, lv.	5 50	4 36	12 56	.....
Mapes	6 21	4 55	1 25	.....
Boyne Falls	7 12	5 45	2 08	.....
Pelosky, ar.	7 35	6 10	2 36	.....
Harbor Springs	.....	.....	.....	.....
Mackinaw City	9 00pm	7 40	4 15pm	.....

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 8	No. 4
Mackinaw City	8 30am	8 10am	.....	1 00pm
Harbor Springs	.....	.....	.....	.....
Pelosky, lv.	9 47	9 25	.....	2 25
Boyne Falls	10 20	9 57	.....	2 57
Mapes	10 39	10 16	.....	3 16
Kalkaska	11 51	11 19	.....	4 23
Walton	12 26am	12 00pm	.....	5 05
Cadillac, ar.	1 37	12 58	.....	6 10
Cadillac, lv.	1 50	1 05	6 00am	6 25
Reed City, ar.	.....	2 02	7 05	7 25
Reed City, lv.	3 00	2 07	7 50	7 35
Big Rapids	3 29	2 36	8 18	8 02
Howard City	4 19	3 27	9 06	8 49
Mil H & W ar.	5 28	4 48	10 15	10 17
G'd Rapids, ar.	8 45	8 05	10 30	10 30
G'd Rapids, lv.	8 55	8 10am	11 00	12 50pm
Kalamazoo, ar.	9 50	9 20	1 15	3 45
Kalamazoo, lv.	9 55	7 50	1 40	4 05
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 40am	11 30	.....	7 35
Fort Wayne, lv.	1 00	12 10am	5 50am	7 50
Cincinnati, ar.	7 45pm	7 30am	12 30pm	.....

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. Agent.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Hannah, Lay & Co.'s Pleasure Steamers,

SEASON OF 1885.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.
CAPT. O. E. WILSON.

Going North every morning—Leave Traverse City 6.00, Northport 6, Northport 11.00, Charlevoix 12.00, Pelosky 1.20, arrive at Harbor Springs 1.45.

Going South every afternoon—Leave Harbor Springs 2.00, Pelosky 2.30, Charlevoix 4.40, Norwood 5.00, Northport 6.20, arrive at Traverse City 7.00.

T. S. FAXTON,
CAPT. A. G. ALBRIGHT.

Going South every morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Pelosky 7.30, Charlevoix 9.45, Torch Lake 12.00, arrive Traverse City 2.30.

Going North every afternoon—Leave Traverse City 3.00, Torch Lake 5.45, Charlevoix 8.15, Pelosky 9.15, arrive Harbor Springs 9.45.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City with the C. H. & P. R. R. for Ludington and the N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. for Detroit on Monday mornings between the CITY OF TRAVERSE from Chicago and the CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS going north; and on Wednesday between both the T. S. FAXTON and CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS going south, and the CITY OF TRAVERSE to Chicago.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS PRIANT.
CAPT. R. VANDERHOEF.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.30.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.30.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. Robert Orton.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 8.30, leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

A PRESENT

To any reader of this paper who will engage a few hours to pay for mailing and wrapping, and answers of two letters. Address, Hero & Novel, Finish Parlor Engraving of all our Presidents, Generals and Statesmen, size proofs, worth $4.00, Address Elder Pub. Co., Chicago, Ill.

CATARRH. A NEW REMEDY. Quick, Positive and Pleasant. One application relieves. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail. Sample free. Address, Ely's Cream Balm, Oswego, N. Y.

We cordially recommend Ely's Cream Balm as the product of skill and care, and to possess the qualities claimed for it in a high degree satisfactory.—The Medical Record, N. Y. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists. Elmira, N. Y.

For Sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

THE HOWE MACHINE CO.

AT THE FRONT.

OUR LATEST SUCCESS.

An Entirely New High Arm.

Easy Running Sewing Machine

IT HAS

The Most Room under the Arm.
The Best Self-Setting Needle.
The Largest Bobbin.
The Easiest Shuttle to Thread.
The Most Perfect Tension.
The Most Reliable Feed.
The Best Self-Acting Take-up.
The Best Bobbin Winder.

IT IS

SIMPLE, STRONG, DURABLE & HANDSOME

Runs Rapidly, Very Light, Very Still, and without Vibration.

Before you purchase, please examine the NEW HOME at the office of Mrs. M. Litney, Agt., Charlevoix

J. MILO EATON,
DEALER IN
Real Estate
OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

Ironton, Mich.,

Are Full in all kinds of General Merchandise.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES — KEEP YOUR ON THE Right Place

For Bargains in Hardware,

Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Doors, Sash, PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm implements, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishing tackle, Revolvers, Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Tinware, Woodenware, Rope, Fishing Supplies, and Ship chandlery. Job and Tin work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

I have purchased the Meat business of Armstrong & Co., and will continue at the old stand, with the freshest and best goods in the market.

T. E. CHAMBERLIN.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

I have purchased the Stock of

Drugs, Chemicals

STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.

of O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to so conduct the business as to merit a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and ask my prices.

PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,
Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 117. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1885.—TEN PAGES. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING
Dr. CROUTER'S
BAKING POWDER
Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.
If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.
It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.
It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Grease of Tartar of the shops.
It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by
Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,
Chemist and Druggist,
BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR F. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

BUCKSHANK & GRIFFIN, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Mitchell Block, Charlevoix, Michigan. C. J. GRIFFIN.

EAST & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents, Lake st., east of postoffice Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. BOYNE CITY, MICH.

H. J. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake St. Boyne, Mich.

J. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WANGER, Attorney at Law and Notary Public. Also Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan Mich.

W. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a specialty.

F. X. CARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sabbath services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday School at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. C. P. VAN AUKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.

A. L. TRUESDELL, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

SUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARINGTON, M. D.—Office at residence, 1 west of new block.

J. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office as in his residence, Mitchell's, Mich.

W. H. FENTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

JOSIAH S. HARRIS, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Baxter Post No. 112, meets second Monday in each month at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Charlevoix Tent No. 97, meets every Thursday every month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

G. A. R.—True Blues No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon, in Masonic Temple, second floor.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 345, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Cashier.

BROWN & CO.'S
BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

With superior facilities and prompt attention we have a safe, large and growing exchange. Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Collections have our prompt attention. Special efforts to collect doubtful claims. Interest allowed on time deposits. Mortgages and other securities for sale. Tickets to and from all points in Europe by first class.

CORRESPONDENTS.
Chase National Bank, New York.
First National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

OFFICERS.

President—Byron Ware.
First Vice President—Robert W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Robert Miller.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Financial Secretary—H. Suffell.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cheeseboro, and J. L. Hurd.
Corresponding Committee—H. Lee Iddings, W. A. Brown, and C. V. Cook.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Bartholomew, Dr. Geo. W. Crouter, Dr. Geo. Spencer, R. N. Miller, A. M. Sisco, W. C. Newman, E. M. Clark, H. Berdan.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to advance the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix village on the last Tuesday of each month, at 7.30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
Upright & Harlbut Addition,
Charlevoix.
HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Hanger,
And Decorator.
PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

FREE.—We have for distribution a number of copies of the annual report of the Michigan Horticultural Society for 1881, which may be had by subscribers of the JOURNAL on application at this office.

BUTTER AND EGGS wanted on subscription for the JOURNAL. Weed and produce of all kinds taken at market rates.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,
ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,
Charlevoix, Michigan.
This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

THE GREAT GRANT BOOK.
Life and Personal Memories of Gen. Grant in one volume only $1.75. Our agent sold 47 first day, 10,000 sold first week. A $4 engraving 3x26 inches of all "the Presidents" FREE to each subscriber. Think of this! Some persons realized $50 in one hour, for until and engraving had become too familiar, these sold on sight. Agents wanted. Outfit and engraving free. Address, Ben Wilson, Ave., Chicago, Ill. 12w

MISS L. SPAULDING,
DEALER IN
MILLINERY
AND
Fancy Goods.
Dressmaking Done in the Latest Styles.
Special attention given to
CHILDREN'S GARMENTS.
We would call the attention of the ladies to our STAMPING DEPARTMENT.
Stamping to do our work well and at Reasonable Prices. Come and see for yourself.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

W. M. WAGAR. O. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Confectionery. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

NEW HARNESS SHOP.
John Litzau has opened a harness shop in the building formerly occupied by Chalmpka's hall alley north of the bridge. A stock of new goods on hand, and repairing of all kinds done on short notice. Come and see me, north of the bridge.
JOHN LITZAU.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. R. JERRUE, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in connection with the House. 28

FARMERS' HOTEL,
W. S. JOHNSON, Proprietor.
Antrim Street, near Bridge Hall, Charlevoix.
Location convenient for mechanics working in the shops on the Mount Marie dock, and for farmers trading in town. Feed stable for teams will be provided.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, - Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of the harbor and lake. Convenient to the depots for Petoskey and Gk Rapids Stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,
THATCHER & BLAIR, Proprietors.
East Jordan, - Michigan.
Those having business at the county seat will find this the most convenient place to stop, and the proprietors will spare no pains to give the best satisfaction. TELEPHONE CONNECTION.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,
A. J. HALL, Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton Mich.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

Money to Loan
On sums of $200 and upwards, at reasonable rates of interest, on approved real estate security.
H. C. Miley,
Boyne City.

Picture Frames
Made to Order.
A FINE ASSORTMENT OF MOULDINGS
To Select From.
O. I. WHEAT,
Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Mich.

Well-Digging.
JOHN SHRIER
Charlevoix, Mich.,
Is prepared to do all work in the line of well-digging, cistern building, pump repairing, well drilling, and similar work.

WOOD WANTED.
Two or three loads of good black wood wanted at this office immediately.

Death of Anne Boleyn.

EXECUTED MAY 19, 1536.

The hour is come! Grim wails reluctant seem
To yield their captive to the treacherous block,
And never gift more fair, With royal mien
She greets the vassals of th' Inconstant King.
Cromwell, false debtor to her last estate,
Now triumphs in her fall. But all in vain
Her pleadings, for her life, for a respite brief
Far sigh, for fall'ring step, or secret tear.
In sonber robes, fit symbol of her woe,
And white, sweet emblem of her innocence,
The victim comes. With tender words and low,
She calms her maidens' grief, then to the block
"Good people, hither am I come to die,
According to the will of England's King.
To die, and thus to yield unto my lord,
My lord, the King, obedience to his will.
May God preserve your sovereign long to reign
Over you and yours. To me he ever seemed
A good and gentle prince, a generous King.
Christ Jesus, have mercy on my soul!
And say unto his grace that he hath been
Most zealous ever in advancing me,
A private gentlewoman of his realm,
He made me marchioness, he crowned me queen
And now he leaves me higher rank of fame,
Show he is pleased unto my innocence
To give the halo of a martyr's crown.
Alas, poor maid! Alas, lone Christ, a prince
And thou with unshrinking pillow in the dust.
But as in life thou didst not merit well
Of this, thy servant, so, thy guiltless death,
To now it hath not God thy debtor been.
Thou even such a mournful doom as this,
And yet, my damsels, who have ever shown
Yourselves so faithful in my cause—my stay
In this my final hour and agony—
In better fortune ye were loyal friends,
Ye have been faithful in adversity's hour,
Be ye faithful in prosperity's more glorious,
Be of good comfort, faithful to your King,
And to the one whom, with much haggard fate,
Perchance in future you may have as Queen.
Entering right your lower better far than life,
And now farewell! Tis thus I take my leave;
Tis thus I farewell to life, the world—and love.
The queenly head that for so frail a price
Had proudly borne St. Edward's jewelled crown,
Drooped low. How softly veiled those wonderous eyes!
A tear—a sigh—and royalty was free.
—Alice M. Bradford, Appleton, Wis.

DIVING AFTER CORAL.

Queer Creatures that Make Their Home in the Branches of Coral Trees.

"Too much?" repeated a Conch, as he held up a big bunch of coral in the cabin of a schooner near Fulton market. If you had to git it up you wouldn't think so.

"You know," said the man after the would-be purchaser had crawled up the companionway ladder, "some folks git the idee that I bring this stuff on for fun, and give it away. I div a like o' fifty feet for that piece, and that chap wanted to take it for 25 cents."

"So you dive for these specimens?" asked the writer.

"Yes, the best are fetched up that way," was the reply; "but a good many are taken with coral hooks. Me and my brother takes a trip off and on. One of us collects the stuff and the other sells, and between the two, and acting as cook for the steamer, we make it pay.

"You see, there's some curious sights, but we git used to 'em. We go to what they call the 'Markeys,' about forty miles or so the west'ard of Key West. You can git coral any time, but the summer's the best; then there is little wind a-blowin', and you can see the bottom in forty feet. In the winter we use a boat with a glass bottom, so we can set and drift along and look down through, and when we see anything git over for it.

"There's half a dozen kinds of coral that grows on the reefs, and mostly they grow apart and in certain places. What we call branch coral is found all over the flats, where there is sandy bottom, growing kind of low like; but when it gits along toward the edge of the channel the branches grow longer, and look like regular branches of a tree, and matted so thick that you can't see the bottom or git your list in between 'em. Sometimes, when we want to git out a fine piece of branch, we dive down into the channel, and, I tell you, it's a fine sight. When you git down thirty foot, say, it's as light as day when there's a good sun right overhead, and there you are in front of a wall of these 'ere coral points, a solid front, all of a browning or olive color. If you git way down to the bottom you'll see crawfish-whips wavin' to and fro. They live under the coral, and on top and in between the black spots are big sea-eggs, with spines six inches long. The coral's covered with fishes of all kinds—parrots, angels, yellow tails, and grunts. The fishes have a down or more colors, and one kind that I think beats 'em all is pure blue from head to foot. It's only about six inches long, and I never saw them away from the big heads.

"After practice you can stay down three or four minutes, and by swimming along with your eyes open you can git a mighty fine lot, and then try and break off a branch with a boat-hook of iron. Sometimes we have to go down four or five times to git a piece; then, if it's big, put a rope around it, and haul it up. Most of the small coral can be picked up with a hook that looks like a pair of oyster-hooks, but it's apt to break it, so I generally go overboard when the coral ain't too thick. There's one place I know where for a hundred acres is so thick that there ain't a place to put your foot—some big field of branch coral. The big heads generally grow on the edge of a flat that's covered with grass, right near the edge of the channel, and I can take you to a spot where there's coral heads that are ten foot across and six high. Some of the big ones weigh over one thousand pounds. When they get big they often die away on top, and finally git hollowed out and look like big vases holding angel fishes, crawfish, and a little of everything. You never see the big heads here, because vessels can't git near 'em, and a small boat wouldn't hold one. In water about twenty to twenty-five foot deep we git the best pieces, what they call rose coral. I git them by divin', as they're so small you can't see 'em hardly. I've got bunches not bigger than your hand, and got $10 for 'em. Pretty din't no name for 'em. The last one I got came near cleaning me out."

"How so?"

"Well," replied the coral diver, "we have a fish on the reef called the alligator; it's as flat as your hand, with two side wings that move up and down as it swims along. They are about two or three feet wide and six or eight feet long. The tail is just like the lash of a whip, and right where it joins the body there are three strings of bone, one right above the number, fifty or six inches long, with edges like a saw. They have a way of slinking down to the bottom, and with a shuffle something like that of a hen in the dust, covering themselves with sand. This day I speak of I was drifting along in about three fathoms, layin' in the boat looking through the glass, while my mate was at the oars ready to stop her when I sang out. All at once I clapped my eyes on a beauty head of rose coral, and over I went. I reckon it was about fifteen foot jest there, and I went down with such a rush that I went near the bottom right over the little brown head. I grabbed at what I thought was a bunch of weed, to hold on while I picked up the coral, I got it, and then let my feet down on to the bottom to give myself a shove up, when blim! blim! came something around my legs, and I'm dogged if I didn't think they were off at the knees, and a big stingaree flew up by me, takin' me on all sides. The next I knew I was in the dingy, but how I got there I didn't know. Bob said he looked over and saw blood in the water and the fish, and thought a shark had me. The fish raised such a dust that for a minute he couldn't see nothing, but he grabbed the grains, then seein' me on the bottom put 'em into my drawers, and hauled me up. I'd fainted, clean gone, as sure as you're alive. I looked like that old fish market over yonder, all streaked with gore. There was a dozen gashes across my legs, like a red-hot iron had been put on, and if I'd been alone it would have been a gone case."

"Do you ever have trouble with sharks?"

"I never worry 'em, and they don't worry me, but they're as thick as flies in fly time on the reef.

"Yes, the coral business is tol'able. All the schools and colleges take collections, if they can git 'em cheap enough, and we sell a heap to the seaside resorts. The country people think they come out of the water right along shore; it's all the same to them. The wealthy land of Lyons coral, branch, pepper, leaf, and rose-shaped coral. Florida coral brings a big price. It floats after it's bleached, and pepper coral tastes like pepper after it's dead. Then we fetch sea fishes, sea eggs, sharks' jaws, gulls' eggs, hawksbill turtles, and a little of everything. Corals sell by the piece from 25 cents to $5.—New York Sun.

The Soprano's Predicament.

In one of the hill towns of old Litchfield county is a soprano of a Congregational church and her lover's voice. The other Sunday the white-haired old choirmaster lined out the opening hymn, and the organist, sister a lingering glance at his pencils in the little mirror, cocked his head on one side, ripped out both hands down on the keys and to the chancel, and, I tell you, it's a fine sight. When you git down thirty foot, say, it's as light as day when there's a good sun right overhead, and there you are in front of a wall of these 'ere coral points, a solid front, all of a browning or olive color. If you git way down to the bottom you'll see crawfish-whips wavin' to and fro. They live under the coral, and on top and in between the black spots are big sea-eggs, with spines six inches long. The coral' b covered with fishes of all kinds—parrots, angels, yellow tails, and grunts. The fishes have a down or more colors, and one kind that I think beats 'em all is pure blue from head to foot. It's only about six inches long, and I never saw them away from the big heads.

"After practice you can stay down three or four minutes, and by swimming along with your eyes open you can git a mighty fine lot, and then try and break off a branch with a boat-hook of iron. Sometimes we have to go down four or five times to git a piece; then, if it's big, put a rope around it, and haul it up. Most of the small coral can be picked up with a hook that looks like a pair of oyster-hooks, but it's apt to break it, so I generally go overboard when the coral ain't too thick. There's one place I know where for a hundred acres is so thick that there ain't a place to put your foot—some big field of branch coral. The big heads generally grow on the edge of a flat that's covered with grass, right near the edge of the channel, and I can take you to a spot where there's coral heads that are ten foot across and six high. Some of the big ones weigh over one thousand pounds. When they get big they often die away on top, and finally git hollowed out and look like big vases holding angel fishes, crawfish, and a little of everything. You never see the big heads here, because vessels can't get near 'em, and a small boat wouldn't hold one. In water about twenty to twenty-five foot deep we git the best pieces, what they call rose coral. I git them by divin', as they're so small you can't see 'em hardly. I've got bunches not bigger than your hand, and got $10 for 'em. Pretty din't no name for 'em. The last one I got came near cleaning me out."

"How so?"

"Well," replied the coral diver, "we have a fish on the reef called the alligator; it's as flat as your hand, with two side wings that move up and down as it swims along. They are about two or three feet wide and six or eight feet long. The tail is just like the lash of a whip, and right where it joins the body there are three strings of bone, one right above the number, fifty or six inches long, with edges like a saw. They have a way of slinking down to the bottom, and with a shuffle something like that of a hen in the dust, covering themselves with sand. This day I speak of I was drifting along in about three fathoms, layin' in the boat looking through the glass, while my mate was at the oars ready to stop her when I sang out

THE JOURNAL
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Ferdinand Ward, the ex-banker of New York, has been interviewed. He declares that he has been made a scapegoat for the use of others, and promises to give the public a statement, prepared some time since, showing in detail all the transactions of the firm of Grant & Ward. Gen. Grant, he says, had no knowledge of its affairs.

The Cape May challenge cup was won by the English yacht Genesta.

Coleman S. Adams, cashier of the Framingham (Mass.) Savings Bank, who embezzled and lost a month ago, was a defaulter to the extent of $225,000.

The Attorney General of New York decides that the State of Georgia is a defaulter, and prohibits savings banks from investing in Georgia bonds.

Jordan, Marsh & Co., the Boston dry-goods merchants, who have been attached by New York cloak manufacturers for $600,000, says the proceedings are the result of a conspiracy in which some of their employes is involved.

Sanford & Co., a well-known banking and brokerage house of New York, declared, with preferences of about $70,000.

A number of Wheeling citizens had startling explosions fell on a farm in Jefferson Township, Pa., near the West Virginia line. The stone is ashen in color, streaked with red, and is said to be thirty feet square. People are flocking from surrounding sections to examine the wonder.

At the meeting of the Northwestern Anthracite Coal Association, at Erie, no change was made in the price of coal for October, and the product for the month was fixed at 550,000 tons.

WESTERN.

Judge Powers, of Provo, Utah, instructed the Grand Jury that a separate indictment could be found for each day during which a polygamic marriage had with more than one wife since the passage of the Edmunds act.

A citizens' meeting at Seattle, in Washington Territory, adopted strong resolutions in favor of the vigorous enforcement of the Chinese restriction act, deploring the presence of the Mongolians, and urging the use of all legal means for their removal.

Christine Lagrange, a young woman, committed suicide by poison at Neenah, Wis. In her dying moments she confessed that while driving home from a dance with John Kerwin, aged 21, he dragged her from the buggy and beaten her person, and that she could not outlive the disgrace. Kerwin was arrested.

Hog cholera is doing much damage in the counties of Red Wing, Minn., and Janesville, Wis.

At Saylorsk, McLean County, Ill., Dr. Harris shot and killed Dr. Herron. Both were prominent practitioners in that locality.

Judge Chipman, of the Detroit Superior Court, in a decision just rendered, holds that newspapers are not privileged to print complaints filed in court, and so in doing must assume the responsibility for all the slanderous contained therein.

For unlawful cohabitation, Bishop Hiram R. Clawson was sentenced at Salt Lake City to six months' imprisonment, $300 fine, and costs—the full extent of the law.

Patrick Hartnett, a Cincinnati wife-murderer, was hung at the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus. The fall resulted in almost total decapitation, the head hanging to the body only by a small strip of skin at the back of the neck. The scene was a most sickening one, and it was with great difficulty that the executioners could summon courage to take the body down. Hartnett killed his wife Jan. 31, last, in Mount Auburn, a suburb of Cincinnati.

Frank S. Covey, a bookkeeper of Joliet, has unexpectedly fallen heir to an estate valued at from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, left by his paternal grandfather, a Kentucky planter.

Rosenfield & Kaufman, clothiers, of Cincinnati, assigned, with preferences of nearly $40,000. The liabilities are estimated at $100,000 and the assets at $50,000. Russell Hinckley, banker and auctioneer, of Danielsville, Ill., has suspended. His indebtedness, which is heavy, will, it is believed, be fully covered by his assets.

The Wisconsin State Convention of the Woman Suffrage Association, in session at Whitewater, elected the Rev. Olympia Brown, of Racine, President; Mrs. N. James, of Madison, Treasurer, Vice President, Mrs. W. J. Tripp, of Whitewater, Secretary; and Miss Lo Moore, of Milwaukee, Treasurer. The convention pledged its support by Alvira Cullum on school suffrage, and by Dr. Monroe on the dress question, and by an address by Prof. H. B. Mayou, of the State Normal School at Stillwater, on the education in the way of woman suffrage. The Rev. Mrs. Brown also made an address on the prospects of the movement.

At a crossing near Brightwood, Ind., a collision of trains occurred, one man being killed and fourteen cars demolished. The financial loss approximates $10,000.

SOUTHERN.

Imports of merchandise for the year ended Aug. 31 reached $571,235,315, against $557,611,716 for the previous year.

A horrible tragedy was enacted at Austin, Texas, in which a negro man and three negro women were brutally murdered by having their skulls crushed with an ax. They were servants in the family of Mr. W. H. Burnham, editor of the Texas Daily Democrat Reporter, and occupied a shanty in the rear of his premises. The names of the victims are Orange Washington, his wife (known as Grace Vance), Pattinson, and Lucinda Buddy. From the testimony and surrounding circumstances it appears that the assassin entered the room of the sleeping occupants through a window, and before any of them awoke succeeded in striking all four of them on the head with an ax. The author of the bloody deed, a negro named Ike Wood, was pursued and arrested.

The Postmaster General has decided to continue the steamboat mail service between Louisville, Ky., and Evansville, Ind. The contractors have agreed to reduce the charge for the service $5 a trip per year, making the annual expense $10,000.

Four negroes, one of them a woman, who were accused of several murders, were taken from jail and hanged by a mob, in Chatham County, North Carolina. The evil doers were known down and the four victims were each put on a horse with a dropped man astride behind. The men made no outcry, save to protest their innocence, but the mount of the woman were heartrending. She was unlady-like and, as the cavalcade stopped in a grove, the negroes were tied hands and feet and made to stand upon their horses. They were given five minutes to make confessions and to pray. They protested their innocence to the last, and as they prayed the horses were drawn out from under them, and they were left hanging to the trees.

WASHINGTON.

Secretary Manning has ordered that all moneys due or become due to the Central Pacific Railroad Company for Government transportation be covered into the Treasury and applied toward the extinguishment of the indebtedness of that corporation to the Government.

The Postmaster General decides that the salaries of postal employes can not be attached for debt.

Statements prepared at the Treasury Department show that the amount of silver dollars put in circulation directly from the mints during the past two or three months is nearly double the amount similarly issued during the corresponding period of last year. The issue from the mints during the week ended Sept. 26 was $726,500 as against $155,000 issued during the corresponding period of last year.

A Washington dispatch says: "Advices were received from Capt. Lee, agent in charge of the Cheyennes and Arapahoes in the Indian Territory, that a number of entlemen showed the expulsion to remove their lands. The number of entire thus held on the reservation is several thousand, and some trouble is anticipated in effecting their removal. Thus far no force has been required, and over half the lands unlawfully present have been driven off. Capt. Lee has a troop of cavalry with him, and today he was authorized to use any forcible means that he might deem best to effect the departure of the trespassers."

POLITICAL.

Ex-Congressman Flower has declined the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor of New York.

General E. S. Jones, of Binghamton, has been chosen to be the candidate of the New York State Democratic ticket, vice Flower, who, in declining just mentioned, lands that newspapers are not privileged to print complaints filed in court, and so in doing must assume the responsibility for all the slanderous contained therein.

For unlawful cohabitation, Bishop Hiram R. Clawson was sentenced at Salt Lake City to six months' imprisonment, $300 fine, and costs—the full extent of the law.

Patrick Hartnett, a Cincinnati wife-murderer, was hung at the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus. The fall resulted in almost total decapitation, the head hanging to the body only by a small strip of skin at the back of the neck. The scene was a most sickening one, and it was with great difficulty that the executioners could summon courage to take the body down. Hartnett killed his wife Jan. 31, last, in Mount Auburn, a suburb of Cincinnati.

Frank S. Covey, a bookkeeper of Joliet, has unexpectedly fallen heir to an estate valued at from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, left by his paternal grandfather, a Kentucky planter.

Rosenfield & Kaufman, clothiers, of Cincinnati, assigned, with preferences of nearly $40,000. The liabilities are estimated at $100,000 and the assets at $50,000. Russell Hinckley, banker and auctioneer, of Danielsville, Ill., has suspended. His indebtedness, which is heavy, will, it is believed, be fully covered by his assets.

The Wisconsin State Convention of the Woman Suffrage Association, in session at Whitewater, elected the Rev. Olympia Brown, of Racine, President; Mrs. N. James, of Madison, Treasurer, Vice President, Mrs. W. J. Tripp, of Whitewater, Secretary; and Miss Lo Moore, of Milwaukee, Treasurer. The convention pledged its support by Alvira Cullum on school suffrage, and by Dr. Monroe on the dress question, and by an address by Prof. H. B. Mayou, of the State Normal School at Stillwater, on the education in the way of woman suffrage. The Rev. Mrs. Brown also made an address on the prospects of the movement.

At a crossing near Brightwood, Ind., a collision of trains occurred, one man being killed and fourteen cars demolished. The financial loss approximates $10,000.

SOUTHERN.

Imports of merchandise for the year ended Aug. 31 reached $571,235,315, against $557,611,716 for the previous year.

A horrible tragedy was enacted at Austin, Texas, in which a negro man and three negro women were brutally murdered by having their skulls crushed with an ax. They were servants in the family

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The "straight Greenbackers" of Iowa held a convention at Marshalltown, and nominated the following ticket: Governor, Elias Doty, of Dallas County; Lieutenant Governor, J. K. Clark, of Mount Pleasant; Supreme Judge, M. E. Cornwallis, of Lyons; State superintendent, J. B. Rutledge, of Oskaloosa. J. K. Eckert was chosen a member of the National Committee, and a full State Central Committee was appointed. Resolutions supporting the Indianapolis National platform of 1881 and denouncing fusion with the Democrats were adopted.

Seven hundred coal miners in the section of the Union Pacific Company at Carbonado, Wyoming, and Louisville, Colorado, have struck on account of Chinese labor by the company. Strictmen drivers and conductors in Pittsburgh demanded a reduction of working hours from fifteen to twelve daily.

Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, will reintroduce his educational bill in the senate early in the session, and expresses confidence in its passage.

William Page, formerly President of the National Academy of Design, died at his home on Staten Island. Ex-Congressman Richard J. Hobbems, a brother-in-law of Secretary Thompson, expired at Hartford.

The following is a recapitulation of the debt statement issued on the 1st instant:

Interest bearing debt:
Bonds at 4 per cent	$250,000,000.00
Bonds at 4½ per cent	737,795,450.00
Bonds at 5 per cent	737,795,450.00
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent	227,507.00
Pacific railroad bonds at 6 per cent	64,623,512.00
Principal	1,290,571,962.00
Interest	22,174,187.00
Total	$1,312,746,149.00
Debt on which interest has ceased since maturity:
Principal	$5,871,280.40
Interest	221,383.40
Total	$6,092,663.80
Debt bearing no interest:
Old demand and legal-tender notes	$346,738,865.00
Certificates of deposit	22,765,000.00
Gold certificates	119,127,509.00
Silver certificates	93,826,776.00
Fractional currency (less $4,275,957.00 supposed to be lost or destroyed)	25,725,452.00
Principal	$608,183,594.00
Total debt
Principal	$1,921,526,213.40
Interest	22,395,571.40
Total	$1,943,764,522.80
Less cash items available for reduction of the debt	$26,922,674.70
Less reserve held for redemption of United States notes	100,000,000.00
Total	$126,922,674.70
Total debt less available cash items	$1,816,841,848.10
Net cash in the Treasury:
Held, less cash in Treasury, Oct. 1, 1882	$1,605,934,182.37
Held, less cash in Treasury, Sept. 1, 1883	1,473,692,267.52
Decreased debt during the month	$132,242,065.85
Decreased debt since the commencement of the Treasury statement of debt on the 1st instant	$1,703,168,582.58

The payments to the sinking fund on bonds accounted to about $7,500,000, and will reduce the decrease of the debt to about $5,500,000.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$4.00	@ 6.00
SHEEP	4.00	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.97	@ .98
No. 2 Red	.97	@ .98
CORN—Ungraded	.58	@ .59
OATS—White	.48	@ .51
PORK—Mess	19.00	@ 19.50
LARD	11.25	@ 11.50
BUTTER—Dairy Western	.12	@ .18
CHEESE	.07	@ .08
EGGS	.19	@ .20
HAY—Choice Prime	1.00	@ 1.05
PETROLEUM—Crude	.05½	@ .06
TOBACCO—Lugs	.03	@ .05
COTTON—Middling	.10½	@ .10¾
FREIGHTS—To Liverpool	.12	@ .15

CHICAGO.

HOGS—Inferior to Prime	5.75	@ 6.25
Good to Choice	5.60	@ 5.70
BEEVES	5.00	@ 5.50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 5.00
FLOUR—Winter Extras	3.80	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.90	@ .91
No. 3 Spring	.83	@ .84
No. 2 Red	.97	@ .98
CORN—No. 2	.57	@ .57½
OATS—No. 2	.41	@ .41½
RYE—No. 2	.56	@ .57
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.19	@ .20
Choice Dairy	.15	@ .16
CHEESE—Full cream, new	.07½	@ .08
EGGS—Fresh	.18	@ .19
BROOM CORN—Hurl	.04½	@ .05
POTATOES—Per bush, per bu	.35	@ .40
PORK—Mess	18.50	@ 18.75

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 1	.92	@ .93
No. 2	.90	@ .91
CORN—No. 2	.57	@ .57½
OATS—No. 2	.41	@ .41½
RYE—No. 1	.56	@ .57
PORK—Mess	18.50	@ 18.75

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—No. 1	.92	@ .93
No. 2	.90	@ .91
CORN—No. 2	.57	@ .57½
OATS—No. 2	.41	@ .41½
RYE—No. 2	.56	@ .57
PORK—Mess	18.50	@ 18.75

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.92	@ .93
CORN—Mixed	.56	@ .57
OATS—No. 2	.40	@ .41
PORK—Mess	18.75	@ 19.00

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.96	@ .97
CORN—No. 2	.58	@ .59
OATS—No. 2	.43	@ .44
RYE—No. 2	.57	@ .58
PORK—Mess	19.00	@ 19.25

DETROIT.

BEEF CATTLE	3.50	@ 5.00
HOGS	5.75	@ 6.00
SHEEP	3.50	@ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.97	@ .98
No. 2 Red	.97	@ .98
CORN—No. 2	.61	@ .61½
OATS—No. 2 White	.45	@ .46

INDIANAPOLIS.

WHEAT—No. 2	.95	@ .96
CORN—No. 2	.57	@ .58
OATS—No. 2	.43	@ .44

EAST LIBERTY.

CATTLE—Best	5.25	@ 5.75
Common	3.75	@ 4.50
HOGS—Best	5.75	@ 6.30
Common	5.50	@ 5.60
SHEEP	3.75	@ 4.50

BUFFALO.

CATTLE	4.50	@ 6.00
HOGS	4.25	@ 6.15
SHEEP	3.00	@ 4.75

HOADLY AND FORAKER.

Correspondence Between the Democratic and Republican Candidates for Governor of Ohio.

[Columbus (Ohio) dispatch.]

Judge Foraker, Republican candidate for Governor, in his speech at Dunkirk, yesterday, became exasperated over the fact that some Prohibitionists asked him to declare himself on the temperance issue, and immediately announced that he would challenge Governor Hoadly to a discussion on the issue of the campaign. This was on the ground, as he claimed, that Governor Hoadly had been unwilling to bring the questions put to him by outsiders within the scope of the discussion. The following correspondence in relation to the matter has been made public.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 28.

Hon. Thomas E. Powell, Chairman, etc.:

DEAR SIR—As Gov. Hoadly, through you, allows all your party calling themselves Prohibitionists has crept in to propound questions to our candidate for Governor at long range, I am authorized to challenge him to a discussion of the issues of the campaign with Judge Foraker, at such times and places as may be agreed upon by us. Yours very truly,

A. S. HUMPHREYS.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 26.

Hon. A. S. Humphreys, Chairman, etc.:

Your letter has just been received, in which you state that the Prohibitionists, as allies of my party, have propounded certain questions to our candidate for Governor. The Prohibition party is not an ally of the Democratic party. We are allies in the Prohibition party. They, as the other parties, are entitled to ask questions. Judge Foraker will decare whether he is an ally or enemy to prohibition, and whether he is in favor of prohibition or against it, and I will stand or speak as I said the Chairman of the Prohibition State Central Committee, in a letter in response to all three candidates upon this and all other questions involved in the present campaign. Yours truly,

T. E. POWELL.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 26.

Hon. Thomas E. Powell, Chairman, etc.:

DEAR SIR—By your favor of this afternoon I am pleased to see that you are now that Gov. Hoadly, through Prohibitionists, has just received from Judge Foraker, the following, which ceased to be a secret the moment it was received:

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25.

To Hon. A. S. Humphreys:

DEAR SIR—Your letter just now has been received. Gov. Hoadly has not been engaged in the work of prosecuting Judge Foraker, through Prohibitionists or anybody else, nor does he now. He has been willing, however, to offer to discuss the issues, but the manager of the campaign on the public press. If your candidate for Governor is in favor of prohibition and temperance, and you and your associates, if you can induce Judge Foraker to answer the questions given out in his speech at Dunkirk, or if your committee will answer them for him, we will be pleased to accept your challenge for a joint discussion in our interest. Yours respectfully,

A. T. BRICKER, Chairman.

DAYTON, OHIO, Sept. 26.

Hon. A. S. Humphreys, Columbus:

DEAR SIR—I telegraphed you last night from Piqua, asking you to challenge Governor Hoadly to a joint discussion of the issues involved in this campaign. I now write to say that some of prominent men in this section, who have seen the telegram, have suggested that I request you to challenge Governor Hoadly to a joint discussion of the issues involved in this campaign. I know that what has

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Notes and News.

C. D. Hampton, father of Hon. Chas. S. Hampton has been appointed postmaster of Harbor Springs.

The Branson Journal sums up the building and improvements in that town during the past year at $88,100.

Lansing, October 1.—The sale of the state printing office was completed this morning. Messrs. Thorp and Godfrey arrived from Detroit last night and all papers to the transfer were executed this morning. The consideration is about $30,000 and the sale includes the Lansing Republican. Possession is to be given January 1 next.

The republican press is just now crying out loudly against democratic "bossism," as if "bossism" was something terrible. They seem to forget how many "bosses" the republican party had during its era of success. The real trouble, however, is that they are afraid the democratic party will become thoroughly organized and harmonious. Let them howl.

The commissioner of labor says the total loss to wage-workers by the stoppage of the mill in the Saginaw valley last summer was over $226,000, but neglects to state how much was gained by reduction of the hours of labor without reduction of pay. Representatives of labor organizations claim that "besides this substantial gain from the strike there is the experience which the mill owners have had with the temper and purposes of the men, which will be a moral suasion upon them in their future actions."

The Law of Libel in Michigan.

A curious libel suit came to an end in Detroit on Wednesday with a verdict of six cents damages for the plaintiff. This was a case in which a newspaper—The Detroit Free Press—in the exercise of what it deemed its duty as a publisher of the news of the day, and according to the universal usage of American dailies had printed a synopsis of a declaration filed in a divorce case in the Superior Court, district of Detroit. The Judge ruled subsequently to the defendant throughout the proceedings. He annunciated it as the law that the publication of a declaration or complaint filed in court on the commencement of a suit is not privileged, and held that the newspaper which published it must prove the truth of the declaration or suffer in damages if it fails to do so; that it must justify in order to escape punishment. We believe this is the law laid down in the books and bequeathed to the generation by the harsh and unfriendly precedents of the English courts, made in many instances by judges who themselves deserved to suffer, or perhaps had suffered, the castigations of the pamphleteers of their day. It seems, however, from the verdict of the jury in the Detroit case and in several others which have recently been decided, that in practice the law is not so stupid and vindictive as the judges of some of the courts would like to have it. Juries, when composed of reasonable and dispassionate men, will not impose cruel or unusual punishment upon any publisher who, in the course of his business as a collector and disseminator of the news, shall in good faith and without malice print a colorless synopsis of a declaration filed in court in a suit at law.—[Chicago Tribune.

Boston Herald: There is nothing small about the average republican partisan. If his party can hold all the offices for 25 years and by its own administrations and retain them under a democratic president he won't grumble. The earth and the fullness thereof will satisfy him for the present.

Indianapolis Times (Rep): Our present tariff is protection run to seed. It is a mass of condition, and calls for radical revision. A revision of the present tariff does not necessarily mean free trade; it means commercial reform. The tariff should not be reformed in the interest of a theory, but in the interest of business.

RESTORED BY MAGIC.

Has the lake air and wind spoiled your complexion? Do you long for a preparation that will completely remove Moth, Tan and Pimples and leave the skin clear and soft? If so, you have but to buy a bottle of Hunt Hop's Oriental Balm, which is simply unrival in the effect and perfectly harmless. It is used in all the best families and gives unbounded satisfaction. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by the G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

MME. PATTI AT HOME.

The Queen of Song in the Castles of Craig-y-Nos Castle.

The diva is a charming hostess of the castle of Craig-y-Nos, Wales, writes a correspondent to the Philadelphia Press. On her arrival at Liverpool Mme. Patti takes four-wheelers to a special train, which, heading southward, is soon whirling through the loveliest possible country. After a quick transatlantic passage the prima donna can not put up with the regular Welsh train, the pace of that conveyance being, it seems, a sort of market-going jog, with halts made whenever the engineer or guard wants to chat with some of his numerous relatives along the road.

About 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Cray Station being near, where we were to leave the train, a roar and a crash were heard away to our right. "That's the Krupp," explained Mme. Patti, and she went on to tell us that the head keeper always fired it in salute when she returned home. At Cray, which is but a mile or so from the castle, we found a dozen or so carriages of every description, from a dog-cart to a landau, in waiting, and a crowd of people, who cheered like a republican rally. I have not had much experience in regal receptions, but I am sure a queen could not have been more heartily welcomed than Patti was by those whom she affectionately calls "her people." There were arches of flowers across the road, more arches at the castle gates, flags flying, flowers filling the air, guns booming, and people shouting, until we began to appreciate the fact that Patti was la diva at her home as well as on the stage. As soon as Patti's carriage turned into the driveway the band struck up "Home, Sweet Home." The tears came into Patti's eyes then, and I remembered her farewell singing of that song in America.

Footmen in livery were stationed on the porch and assisted madame—as I find she is always called here—and her five guests to alight. There was a marked absence of ceremony, and everyone was made to feel at home at once. Wood fires burned in the great open fireplaces, and there were maids and men servants in every room, while the unpacking was going on. At dinner, over which Patti presided with wonderful grace and tact, there were fireworks and music by a band from Swansea, the festivities continuing until midnight. At 9 o'clock the next morning breakfast was served in the conservatory. Madame looked as fresh and happy as a child. No sooner was breakfast begun than the footman brought in the letter-bag, and gave it to madame, who unlocked it and distributed the mail. No excuse is needed for reading letters here—sensible fashion!—and so for a while everyone was busy. Everyone, too, would read out whatever he or she thought would be interesting to the others, so that it was more like a family party than anything else. The morning was chiefly devoted to correspondence and lounging round. After lunch the ladies changed their wrappers for warmer dresses, and the gentlemen donned coats, hats, and gloves, while the horses were being brought around for all to take a drive. Patti started off in her high Tecart, driving and handling the lines like a coachman. Wherever we made our appearance, no matter what they were doing, the people would stop their work and "drop a courtesy." As we drove along the old people would flock to the doors and dip and drop, while even the babies playing in the road would scurry away, and then bob up and down with the solemnity of marionettes. The lands of Craig-y-Nos must be almost a dukedom, for in all our drive that day we did not go outside of the courtesying of the Patti tenantry.

The castle of Craig-y-Nos is perched high up on the cleft of a beautifully wooded mountain, and limpid lakes lie in the valley below. The castle is built after the common fashion of all Welsh castles, with low windows, and what is called a curtain between, that is, a straight line of wall adjoining two semicircular towers. The walls, which are of the grayish-green slate so plentiful here, are topped with battlements and covered here and there with ivy, while the windows are under arches or gabled. Spreading away in front are the gardens and lawns, all terraced because of the precipitous character of the ground, and so comes gradually down to the little valley along which we had just driven. Through this valley runs a tumbling river, with an unpronounceable name, spanned with pretty bridges and well stocked with fish. The valley opens into the great Swansea valley, while the whole country around is extremely mountainous and abounding in game.

The castle contains twenty-two rooms, none of them very large, but all warm and cozy, as they should be in this climate. Patti's own is hung in blue silk, all the upholstery being to match, while attached to it is a little dressing-room that is complete enough in its appointments for a princess. The drawing-room is charming, and he must be a dull person who could not find something to interest him there. It contains two grand pianos, albums, statuettes, pictures, and offerings from admirers, chief among the latter being an exquisite inlaid cabinet containing gold and silver coronets, with which almost every nation in the world has crowned the diva "queen of song." The morning room contains a picture of the lakes of Albany, with his autograph across the top, and a manly, modest letter begging Patti to accept his picture in return for one she had sent him. In the billiard-room is an immense orchestrion, which is set playing every night after dinner.

The conservatory leads out from the dining-room proper, and this in turn leads to the winter-garden, which I consider the great beauty of the estate. This is a garden of great size, entirely covered in with glass, and containing fountains, gravelled walks, and rustic seats. Adjoining the winter garden are the hothouses—one in which nothing but grapes are cultivated, the second devoted to pineapples, cucumbers, and strawberries, and the third for flowers. A short distance from the third conservatory is the gasolene, where, under the superintendence of two men, gas for the whole establishment is manufactured.

Then come the stables, containing ten or twelve horses and carriages and carts of all descriptions, while adjoining each other are an immense flower-garden, kitchen-garden, orchard, a farmyard with cows and chickens of all sorts, and a "pleasantry," which, as its name indicates, is filled with pleasants. You will easily imagine that such an establishment as this is not run without considerable "help." There are, indeed, twenty servants, not including the gamekeepers and gamers, distributed as follows: Two cooks, two chambermaids, two butlers, five gardeners, two coachmen, two footmen, two stablemen, madame's two maids, monsieur's valet, and the women of the laundry, whose number varies according to that of the guests.

Abundance and good cheer are on all sides, while Patti rises a new and more lovable side of disposition in her anxiety to please everyone alike, and to make all around her happy and at home.

An odd amusement craze is reported from Philadelphia, where it is said that "young ladies and gentlemen go out with table knives, baskets, and tin pails to dig out the weeds from lawns." They are called dandelion parties.

A gentleman in Dickson, Tenn., claims to have in his possession the banner with which General Andrew Jackson's horses were shod while on his way to New Orleans.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the sum of one hundred and twenty dollars, mortgage money and no suit or proceeding having been instituted to recover the debt so secured, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative:

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage, dated the twenty-ninth day of November, 1882, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, of the County of Charlevoix, in liber "A" of mortgages on page 177 on the 8th day of August, 1883, and assigned to the undersigned to secure the whole amount of principal and interest due.

AND WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, is the sum of One Hundred Eighty (one hundred and eighty) dollars, and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt so secured, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the house in the village of East Jordan, in the county of Antrim, and state of Michigan, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court in Charlevoix County, on the village of East Jordan, Charlevoix County, Mich., on the 10th day of December next, at 10 o'clock forenoon, of said day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: All that parcel of land being in the township of Melrose, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, and comprising all of the north-west quarter (¼) of section number thirteen (13), in township thirty-three (33) north, range five (5) west, containing forty acres.

Dated Sept. 24, 1885.

RODRIGO W. ELLISTON,
Mortgagee.

PALTSHOW & GEORGE,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.

Petoskey, Mich. 127

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, in the state of Michigan, made and dated on the twenty-third day of February, A. D. 1885, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Ira Davis is complainant, and Nelson Davis, Mary Ann Davis, et al., defendants, notice is hereby given, that I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Lovejoy's Hall, in the village of East Jordan, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, that being the place of holding the circuit court in said county, on Friday, the 20th day of November, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much thereof, as may be necessary to raise the amount due to the said complainant, for the principal of said mortgage, interest thereon, and costs of said cause, the following described parcel of land, viz: Lots numbered one (1) and two (2), situated in the township of Peninsula, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake that may be found by running north forty-eight (48) degrees east, seven (7) chains and twenty four (24) links, from the south-west corner of section four (4), in said township, seven (7) chains and twenty (20) links east, from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north and south quarter line of section three (3) in township thirty-three (33) north, range six (6) west, intersects said beach, thence north forty-five (45) degrees west, twenty (20) chains to a stake, thence fifty-four (54) degrees east, six (6) chains to a stake, thence south forty-two (42) degrees east, ten (10) chains to the channel bank of Pine Lake, thence south forty-four (44) degrees west two (2) chains and fifty (50) links to the place of beginning, containing one hundred (100) acres of land, with all the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto now or hereinafter belonging or in any wise appertaining and thereupon situated, in accordance with the terms of said decree.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

JOHN E. EWING,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.

CHRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 117

A FINE STOCK OF

SILVERWARE

JUST RECEIVED.

C. R. BELLINGER.

FOR SALE.

The place known as
THE BEATTIE FARM
Near McGeagh's Mill.
For particulars inquire at the office of
J. MILO BATON.

Good Goods and Low Prices
ARE BOUND TO WIN

If you don't believe it, come and see my SPRING STOCK You will see that I am up to the times in styles, and have as fine an assortment of MEN'S, YOUTH'S and CHILDREN'S SUITS, as you will find in any City I defy any House to show any nicer line of NECK WEAR and

Furnishing Goods

My aim is to HOLD THE CLOTHING TRADE, by carrying a Large Stock so I can please you all. PRICES TALK Come and see my Large Spring Stock before buying elsewhere.

GEO. W. MILLER.

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

BOYNE CITY

CLOTHING AND DRY GOODS

By Car Load,

Have arrived, and more to follow within a few days, for the

STAR

Clothing & Dry Goods House

Of Boyne City.

All or nearly all of the goods will be placed in position and ready for inspection on the 8th inst.

We cordially invite each and every purchaser of Dry Goods and Clothing to come and examine our STOCK and learn our PRICES, and compare with others and judge for yourself for the best of your interest. We are confident that you will be WELL REPAID FOR YOUR TROUBLE.

Our Motto is: Strictly One Price to All, and Every Article as Represented or Money Refunded, at the

Star Clothing & Dry Goods House,

BOYNE CITY, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 9, 1885.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, corrected every Wednesday evening, by Vermont & Emery, general dealers:

Flour, per bbl., $5.50, $5.75, and $6.00.
Corn Meal, per cwt., bolted $1.00; unbolted $.95.
Rye, per bus., 60@65.
Oats, per bu., 45@50c.
Graham Flour, per cwt., $1 40@1.50.
Bran, per cwt., 90c.
Middlings, per cwt., $1.00.
Potatoes, per bu., 35@45c.
Hams, per lbs., $1.00@1.50.
Butter, per lb, 20@25c.
Eggs, per doz., 18c.
Lard, per lb, 12@c.
Hogs, Hogs, Shoulders 8c.
Ham Dried, 8c; Dry Salt Side, 8c.
Salt Pork, 8c.
Mackerel, 15c.
Cheese, per lb 12½c.
Codfish 11½. White Wine, 20c.; Legal Tr. 20.
Farmers produce in good demand.

Fresh and Cured Meats.

Beef—Steak 10@12c; Roast 10@12½c; Stew 6@8c.
Pork—Steak 10c; Roast 10c.
Mutton—Chops 10@12½c.
Lamb 10c.
Sausage 12½c.
Tallow 4@5½c.

Circulation this Week, 938.

☞The agent for "Crum's Unrivaled Atlas of the World" will call on you in a few days with the best work of the kind ever published, and for the least money. D. W. C. Durgin, president of Hillsdale College, says: "From the examination I have given it, I am prepared to say it is the rarest combination of valuable statistical and geographical matter I have ever met with for the price." It is a book for everybody. You cannot afford to be without it.

F. W. Wilcox still lingers at Charlevoix. He is building more boats than any other two builders in the county, and he will keep right along. He has completed one of the handsomest boats ever put afloat in Michigan waters. It is made of eight different kinds of native wood and is painted with copper cans, making only a little, if any, impossible to sink.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

☞"Now is the time your horses need physic, the best of all physic is one that eases and tones up the system you will find Pormelee's Condition Powders unequalled. Full pounds 35 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton. 10-141

☞"At private sale by W. P. Orrell: lot of furniture, carpets, tables, bedstead, bedroom set, parlor suite, organ, sewing machine, stoves, lamps, glassware, dishes, cooking utensils, baby carriage, clothes wringer, washtubs, etc.

☞"The price of "Black Pommery's Glucose" is $2.00 a year. By an arrangement with the publisher we can furnish it with the Journal, for $2.65 per year, cash in advance.

☞"Now is the time to buy a hat. Upright & Emrey have five dozen left and must sell them. Any one of these hats will sell for 50 per cent discount.

☞"Five Mill sawes and a span of horses for sale cheap. Apply at the village of East Jordan, in the county of Antrim, and state of Michigan, and that being the place of holding the circuit court in said county, on Friday, the 20th day of November, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much thereof, as may be necessary to raise the amount due to the said complainant, for the principal of said mortgage, interest thereon, and costs of said cause, the following described parcel of land, viz: Lots numbered one (1) and two (2), situated in the township of Peninsula, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake that may be found by running north forty-eight (48) degrees east, seven (7) chains and twenty four (24) links, from the south-west corner of section four (4), in said township, seven (7) chains and twenty (20) links east, from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north and south quarter line of section three (3) in township thirty-three (33) north, range six (6) west, intersects said beach, thence north forty-five (45) degrees west, twenty (20) chains to a stake, thence fifty-four (54) degrees east, six (6) chains to a stake, thence south forty-two (42) degrees east, ten (10) chains to the channel bank of Pine Lake, thence south forty-four (44) degrees west two (2) chains and fifty (50) links to the place of beginning, containing one hundred (100) acres of land, with all the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto now or hereinafter belonging or in any wise appertaining and thereupon situated, in accordance with the terms of said decree.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

JOHN E. EWING,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.

CHRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 117

ALL PREPARED FOR THE FALL CAMPAIGN.

We have just placed upon our counters a choice assortment of

Dress Goods, Woollens, Suitings, Etc., Etc.,

For fall wear, at very tempting prices.

NEW DEPARTURE IN TEAS.

Spring Crop, from Japan.

Commencing Saturday, Aug. 29,

We will offer, FOR CASH ONLY, 25 Chests new sun-cured Japan at 35 Cents, by the pound or chest. We guarantee this to be equal if not superior to any fifty-cent Tea.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to Amos Fox.

SCHOOL BOOK DEPOT.

School Bags, School Books, Slates, Pencils, Pens, Ink, Rulers, Blank Books, Teachers' Registers,

AND IN FACT

Every Article Used in the School Room.

F. G. HINES & CO.,
Druggists and Stationers.

N. N. Card made us a call on Tuesday, while on his way to Norwood to touch school this winter.

Max Gerott, of Norwood, raised White Russian oats this year, with heads over 15 inches long.

Mike Linney and wife, and Mills Kanagy went to Traverse City on Wednesday, to attend the fair.

Old Mr. Thomson was knocked over by a cow one night last week, and had one of his ribs broken.

The Primet missed her trip on Saturday, on account of the storm but came over Sunday morning with a load of freight.

A. R. Upright and Isaac Stauffer have bought Philbrick's flock of Shropshiredown sheep, mentioned on our supplement.

G. W. Crouter starts on Monday to attend the annual meeting of the Michigan Pharmaceutical Association at Detroit, next week.

W. E. Clark left a stool of barley at this office Saturday containing 22 stalks, all well headed, and the heads well filled with good plump kernels.

Charlie Pass has just received news from his home, at Mt. Clemens, of the birth of a big boy. Charlie has four boys now,—four out rowed crow.

Attention is called to the card of the Pine Lake Iron Co. in this paper. They have an unusually large stock of yarns and woolen goods for this region.

The ladies of the M. E. Church will hold another of their popular ten-cent teas at the church next Wednesday evening, Oct. 14th, from five to nine o'clock.

A congregational society was organized at Ironton, Monday, and a church will be erected in the near future. Under the ministry of Rev. C. F. Van Auken phut community seems to be prospering.

The wrecking schooner Experiment is in port this week, gathering up the lot of chains and anchors left here some time ago. The captain expects also to take on part of a cargo of potatoes for Milwaukee or Chicago market.

Frank Shaubut has leased the U. S. Hotel at Boyne City, and moved to that place on Tuesday. Having in mind the popularity of his house here, we can assure the citizens of that burg that he will make of the U. S. a first class hotel.

The Star Clothing and Dry Goods House, Boyne City, takes a space in the Journal this week to call attention to their stock. This is a new firm recently from Cadillac and from the reputation which has preceded them, we have no doubt of their ability to please all they advertise.

While in Lansing recently, Rev. C F. Van Auken purchased for the congregational society of Charlevoix, 225 yards of carpet for the auditorium of the church, which is expected here in a few days. The portion of the floor occupied for socials is to be covered with heavy matting.

A. R. Upright and Isaac Stauffer will use the Shropshiredown sheep purchased of J. S. Philbrick for a beginning from which they intend to supply the county with thoroughbred stock. When crossed with the Lincolnshire they give a good fleece and make excellent mutton. They are reasonably hardy, and are believed to be just the thing for this country.

"The Charlevoix county fair held at East Jordan, which is the county seat at present, was not a success. Farmers and others from the western part of the county failed to put in an attendance and the premiums offered were too small to invite exhibitors."—Detroit Journal. If it were generally known who furnishes items for the Journal from this county, the animus of the above would be better understood.

A young people's association was organized at the M. E. church Wednesday evening, a constitution and by-laws adopted, and officers elected. The objects of the society are religious and social improvement. The business and literary meetings of the association are to be held at the M. E. church every Tuesday evening, and the religious meetings at 6 o'clock every Sunday evening. The officers elected on Wednesday evening were: President Jos. J. Goss; vice president, Miss Alice Cochran; secretary, Wm. Stover; treasurer, Miss Sadie Miller.

Death of Mrs. Lewis Miller.

Last Saturday morning our citizens were shocked by the announcement that Mrs. Lewis Miller had been found dead, having apparently fallen down with paralysis of the heart or some kindred disease while about her usual morning work. She had been left but a short time before in her usual health and excellent spirits. She was found by her son Archie about ten o'clock, and though the body was yet warm, life was extinct.

The funeral services were held at the Congregational church on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. C. F. VanAuken. The discourse took the form of an answer to the question, "What is life?" using the text: "God is not the God of the dead, but of the living." Matt. 22:32.

The attendance was quite large, nearly every seat in church being filled. Numerous floral tributes adorned the casket

Mrs. Miller was born in Ireland, and was left an orphan when quite young. Having no exact record of her birth, the best information places her age at about 65 years at the time of her death. She was the first while "bride" in the Traverse region, and at the time of her death was the oldest white lady in the region who had resided here continuously since her first visit.

Mrs. Miller has borne six children, two boys and a girl,—four of whom are still living: Henry, now in Butte City, Montana, Edward, in Traverse City, Archie and Geo. W. in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Miller had many friends wherever she has lived, who will sympathize with the husband and sons in their great bereavement.

The following account of Mrs. Miller's early life and marriage, taken from the Herald's history of the Traverse region, will be of interest in connection with the news of her death.

The first bride who came to the Grand Traverse country on her wedding tour, was Mrs. Lewis Miller, formerly nee Miss Catherine Kiley. She was a native of Limerick, Ireland, and, like her husband, had been left an orphan. Somehow she had found her way to America, and then to the output of civilization at Mackinaw. During Mr. Miller's frequent visits to that place, an attachment had grown up between them which finally resulted in marriage. The wedding took place in September, 1845.

Immediately after the marriage, they set sail in the little sloop Lady of the Lake, for their home in the wilderness. Mr. Miller had chartered the vessel for the occasion, and had loaded her with goods for the Indian trade, furniture, and supplies for housekeeping.

The Lady was but a bit of a craft, but she was a perfect duck on the water, and fleet before anything like a favorable wind. The Fates, however, if the Fates have anything to do with regulating wedding trips, decreed a long and tempestuous voyage. It was the season when the god of the winds, on the northern lakes, delights to ornament their surface with foam-capped waves, and tantalize the impatient mariner with variable breezes and the most disappointing kinds of weather.

The first day, they made the island of St. Helena, where they were compelled to seek the shelter of the harbor. There were a dozen sail or more there, waiting for a favorable change. Several times the Lady ventured out, but was as often compelled to put back. Finally, seizing the most favorable opportunity, she was able to reach Little Traverse. Here she was compelled to remain four days. The newly married couple went on shore, and found comfortable quarters in an Indian House. The woman of the house had been brought up in a white family at Mackinaw, and being able to understand the wants of her guest, was in a degree successful in her kind endeavors to make their stay pleasant.

Leaving Little Traverse, the vessel reached the mouth of Grand Traverse bay, when she was again driven back. At the second attempt, she was obliged to heave to, in the mouth of the bay, the captain remaining all night at the helm. As Miller came on deck in the morning, dull, leaden clouds obscured the sky, and the air was filled with snow flakes. He proposed to take the captain's place at the helm, while the latter should turn in for a little rest. The captain gladly consented. Once installed in authority, Miller made sail, and let the captain sleep till the Lady was safely moored in the harbor at Old Mission.

A young bride, coming for the first time to the home of her husband, naturally looks with a great deal of interest at the surroundings. Sometimes there is disappointment. There was certainly no serious disappointment in this case, but it is a part of the traditional family history, that as Mrs. Miller came on deck, that gloomy September morning, and looked around upon the scene, beautiful in its gloominess, and saw only the forest-skirted shore and the smoke curling upward from the log-houses of the whites and a few Indian wigwams, the first question she asked her husband was, "Where is the town?"

Mr. Miller's oldest son, Henry L., was the first white child born in the Grand Traverse country.

Historical Society

The first meeting of this society, as provided for by the constitution, was held at the parlors of Major and Mrs. E. H. Gross, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 6th. The attendance was good and much interest manifested. The constitution and by-laws as revised by the committee who were appointed at the last meeting of last year were adopted. The regular night of meeting was by vote of the society changed from Tuesday to Friday evening in each week. The next regular meeting of the society will be held on Friday evening, Oct. 16th, at the parlors of the Bridge Street House. All are requested to be present, as the annual election of officers occurs on that night, for the ensuing year. F. A. Sayer, Secy.

Card of Thanks.

The family of the late Mrs. Lewis Miller desire to return their heartfelt thanks to the many friends who showed such kindness to us and ours during our bereavement.

LEWIS MILLER AND SONS.

Local Notes and News.

First snow October 4th.

Jos. Clark's eight months old boy was buried on Monday.

C. J. Grier went to Grand Rapids Monday, on legal business.

J. Boyd Emry is in Chicago, and Mrs. Emrey is in Manistee.

Rev. C. F. VanAuken and wife returned home Friday morning.

The frame of the fourth story of the four mill was raised yesterday.

The front of E. H. Green's block is being laid this week, with white brick.

Salutatory.

Of the new ecclesiastical year next Sunday, at the M. E. Church, the pastor will give the key-note for the next twelve month's ministry. You are cordially invited to be present at 10.30 a. m. and 7 o'clock p. m.

Keynote to Health.

Health is wealth. Wealth means independence. The key-note to health is Kidney Cough and Lung Syrup, the best Cough Syrup in the world. Cures Coughs, Colds, Pains in the Breast, Bronchitis and Primary Consumption. One dose gives relief in every case. Take another. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter.

THE KEYS.

The Kidneys and Liver are the keys to woman's health. If these organs are in a healthy condition no foul secretion of sickness, for the system will cleanse itself of impure matter. If you have Headache, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Pains Back or Side, Failing Strength, Languor, Excessive Flow of Urine, &c., remember they are the advance guard and give warning to more serious trouble such as Diabetes, Bright's Disease, &c. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is a sure cure for all these diseases. Price only $1.00 large bottle.

Sold by the G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

ALWAYS USEFUL

If you have Rheumatism, Neuralgia or any Sprains, Stiff Cords, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Cuts or Lameness, Parmelee's Universal Liniment will cure quickly and surely. If your Horse has Bone Spavin, Sweeny, Sprain, Bruises or Lameness of any kind, Parmelee's Universal Liniment is the best, positive remedy you can use. Large bottles 50 cents, ordinary size 25 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

NO SCROFULA

Can be so deep-seated, so malignant and stubborn, but Parmelee's Blood Purifier will not be found helpful. It will effect a cure, if cure be possible. And if you are troubled with Boils, Salt-Rheum, Pimples, Roughness, or any humor whatever, just give the Purifier a thorough trial and you cannot fail to receive benefit from it. Price $1 per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, such as costiveness, loss of appetite, etc. A sensitive, raw, excoriated, protruding, very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by G. W. Crouter.

A Reliable Article.

For enterprising men and a desire to get such goods as will give the trade satisfaction, we know W. H. Comstock, of Ionia, recommends Dr. Bosanko's Compound Lung Syrup, because it is the best Medicine on the market for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Primary Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Samples free.

CASH CLUB RATES.

Those of our readers who send a copy for the coming year can be accommodated by the JOURNAL'S club list. To get the benefit of these reduced rates, all orders must be paid to date of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

Price.	With the Journal.
$1 00 Detroit Weekly Free Press	$2 00
1 00 New York Weekly World	2 00
2 00 Pomeroy's Democrat	2 65
75 Detroit Echo, weekly	1 75
1 00 Chicago Weekly Herald	2 00
1 50 The Cottage Hearth (monthly)	2 25

Sample Copies furnished on application.

BOTTOM PRICES for Paster printing at this office. The best work for the least money.

MORTGAGE NOTES kept on hand or printed to order on short notice at this office.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where Advertising contracts may be made for it IN NEW YORK.

JESSIE'S AWAKENING.

BY JENNIE S. JUDSON.

"Rather uncouth, is he not?" asked Whitney DeVane of his cousin Jessie Barnes.

"I had never thought of him as such," answered Jessie; "but when a moment later she compared Frank Graves, the subject of their remarks, with this elegant, city-bred cousin, she thought the description might perhaps apply.

Frank lived on the adjoining farm, and Jessie had known him from early childhood.

He had been a constant visitor at her home until since the arrival of the city cousin, when his visits gradually grew less, and now had almost ceased.

Whitney DeVane had neither seen nor visited his country relatives before this summer, but being worn out, as he said, with city life, he had come to spend his vacation with them.

He stated that he was corresponding clerk in a large bank, and that the close, confining labor to which he had been subjected had worn upon his health.

He professed to be delighted with his surroundings and the country air and fare, and evinced by the most flattering manner that his cousin Jessie had made a deep impression on his heart. Jessie had been well educated, and was as pretty and sprightly a girl as the country afforded.

She was quite dazzled by the attention and flattery bestowed by her elegant cousin, and had grown almost discontented with her country life and friends.

Before her cousin's arrival Frank Graves had been her ideal of manly strength, and it spoke much for the change that had been wrought in her that she would have mentally agreed to her cousin's comment that he was "uncouth."

"Thanks, Jessie," Frank had said the night previous, as he bade her good-night at an evening party. "I shall call on you, perhaps, after your cousin's visit has terminated, unless you should have decided to go with him; but adieu, Jessie."

Jessie felt a little stung at this careless reply, and the whole conversation was not conducive of the intimation it contained.

Her cousin leaned gracefully against a tree running by, during this conversation. "Could he have heard Frank's remark?" she asked herself. His manner was unusually tender as they walked home through the moonlight.

"Thank heaven! I've managed to get rid of that bear," the courtly Mr. De Vane said to himself as he entered his room that night; "he promised to be the greatest obstacle to my plans."

Jessie had gone to the woods one day, a short time afterward, to gather ferns to adorn the parlor.

"Whitney admires ferns so much, I shall gratify his tastes," she thought as she plucked the long, cool fronds, when a conversation carried on in the road near by, broke upon her musing.

A woman and child stood talking to a man on horseback.

"He has never paid me one cent for his washing this four weeks, Mr. Frank, and puts me off again to-day. Aside from my labor, I have been at the expense of wood, soap and starch for him, an expense I can ill afford to bear."

"Contemptible creature," muttered Frank.

"Besides, he has poisoned Annie's mind with his flattery, with the pipes he has brought her to read, and with his talk of city life. Do you think it would do any good to speak to Miss Jessie about him? She is always kind."

"Do speak to her, Mrs. Bennett," replied the man, with a short, unmirthful laugh; "Jessie is more infatuated than Annie, and, I judge, proposes for herself a life of misery by marrying him."

Can't you talk with her, sir? It seems a dreadful pity."

"Talk with her?" bitterly. "I have no influence. I am only a clodhopper compared with her city cousin."

And then their voices were borne away, but what had been revealed to Jessie was enough, for she felt stunned and humiliated.

She hurried home and was glad to hear her father say, "Well, Jessie, I have decided to go to Stanton to-morrow, to make the purchases we have so long talked of, and will take you instead of mother, as she is not feeling well."

Stanton was seventy miles away, and was the place to which Mr. De Vane had stated that he resided.

"Well, call on Wintrey's employees and give them an account of his conduct," he added, laughingly. "Get any letter or message you may have to send ready to-night, Whitney, as we shall start on the ten o'clock train from the village to-morrow."

Whitney gave a startled glance at this intelligence, but soon assumed his usual self-possessed manner.

"Curse the luck!" he muttered, on reaching his room; "I would have married the girl and got some property in that way, little grandeur that she is; but if the old duffer goes to Stanton and finds out I've never seen the place, that'll end that matter. So I'll be forced to get at the strong box, when I know he keeps a gold pile. The old lady is feeble, and can be easily managed. Frank Graves and his father are away threshing, so there'll be no fear from that quarter. I'll go over to Lehigh to-morrow for my old pal, Charles Douglas, tell the old lady I'll be gone for two or three days, but come back late in the afternoon, and finish up the job."

He left early in the morning, telling Jessie that the sunshine of the house would depart with her presence, and that he did not expect to "live" but merely to "drag out a blank existence" until he saw her again.

A fortnightly gleam of distrust in the eyes which hitherto had only cast on him admiring glances, served to further confirm his purpose of carrying out his plans that day.

At nine o'clock a carriage drove to the door, a curly head was thrust from the window, then a dainty little foot was seen on the step, and soon a fury form was rushing up the walk.

"Why, Dollie," cried Jessie, ecstatically, as she hastened on to the porch, "is it really you come at last, and when I least expected you? How glad I am!"

They entered a fervent embrace and the interchange of many kisses.

"Yes," said Dollie, breathlessly, "I was in Stanton visiting a cousin, and I would not go back home without coming to see you."

This welcome arrival quite changed Jessie's plans, and it was hastily decided that Mrs. Barnes should accompany her husband, and the two girls stay at home.

They were enchanted with the prospect of a long, happy day to themselves, in which they would talk over old school-days, girlish secrets, new dresses, and many other charming things.

The day passed all too rapidly, and late in the afternoon they betook themselves into the parlor to play duets and sing until the early twilight fell, when supper-getting was in order.

"Don't you feel afraid to be alone, Jessie?" asked Dollie, once.

"Oh, no, mamma and papa will come back on the eleven o'clock train, and we can put a lamp in the port-hole window if we feel alarmed, and Frank Graves will come over. We made that arrangement with each other two years ago, but it never has been necessary to carry it into effect."

"I always carry a little pistol when I travel, and it is in my trunk now; so we can defend ourselves, since you are such an expert at target practice," said Dollie.

A half-hour later a pair of sinister eyes peered at the young girls through the window-blinds, as they still sat in the parlor.

"Jessie and another girl" was the startled mental comment of the intruder. "Tush, the game is not so easy as I thought. Cursed creatures, what are they doing here? I'll sneak out to the barn and tell Charlie how the land lies."

"Jessie, I hear footsteps," said Dollie, in a low tone; "let us go quickly and lock all the house. It may be some tramp who knows we are alone."

The girls acted hastily upon this suggestion, and the front and back doors were closed and bolted, and mamma as the two men issued from the barn.

A torrent of muttered curses greeted the sound of the closing doors.

"They suspect something," whispered Douglas. "Are you sure there are but two of them? I heard some one answer from up stairs a while ago when one of them called."

"Oh, well, suppose there are three, I know there are no fire-arms in the house. Come on; we can manage them."

Twilight had fallen, but the movements of one of the stealthily approaching figures, as Jessie watched it from the side-lights of the back door, were strangely familiar, and her heart sank within her.

Some intuition warned her of what drop as the days went by.

"Dollie, get your pistol, quick," she said, "and I'll get mine. We haven't a moment to lose. I'm sure the house will be attacked."

"I'm thankful I never mentioned to Whitney that I had a pistol," she thought.

No lamps were lighted, and the girls kept their ears on the alert to catch any sound.

"They are on the porch," whispered Dollie, "fortunately the house is so large and can be more easily guarded."

The windows were the first point of attack.

The parlor shutters were turned and a hand thrust through. The window would next have been broken, when suddenly a pistol-shot rang on the air. Dollie had aimed at the casement opposite the hand and hit it a parcel.

The enemy was evidently taken by complete surprise by this movement and for a long time all was still.

Jessie ran swiftly up the steps in this interval and set the signal light in the port-hole window.

"Watch on that side and I will watch on this," was Dollie's command when she returned, "and we may baffle them yet."

The crash of breaking glass at the dining-room window, warned Jessie that that point was being attacked, and she hastily fired.

A terrible oath showed that some mischief had been wrought by the shot, and then all was still.

"There are three of them," whispered Douglas, "one is my shiner guarding that point, and there is a man among 'em; let's give it up, Jack; so much firing 'll bring people."

"Coward!" hissed the other, "I tell you I'll have some money or die."

Meantime, the young girls sustained by the courage of desperation, watched every loophole. A half-hour of tense expectation elapsed.

"Ah, Jessie, who does not your friend come?" asked Dollie, in an anxious whisper. "I can't hold out much longer."

"They may have climbed the veranda, and turned a window-catch up when without our hearing. I'll slip up and see."

"No! Jessie, don't, for heaven's sake. I beg you not to go," said Dollie.

But it was too late. Jessie was already speeding noiselessly up the steps.

A struggling ray of light from the signal lamp in the hall window revealed a man in the room opposite rifling the drawers. His back was toward her, but his every gesture was familiar. Paralyzed for a moment by terror she could not moved. Then she flew forward to lock the burglar in; but at the sound he turned and fired, and she fell unconscious on the hall.

"I didn't mean to hurt the little fool," he muttered, "but it couldn't be helped."

"Hist! some one is coming from the outside. I'll get out of this while I can. Little devils, they've delayed and thwarted me after all."

The sound of horses' feet rapidly approaching caused him to hasten; but he was too late. Two men on foot were already in the yard, and after a terrible scuffle he was taken by them, pinioned and led away.

"Open to friends," cried Frank Graves' deep voice as he knocked at the front door.

Dollie, whom terror was almost overpowering from hearing the firing alone and the noise in the yard below, dragged herself forward and unbolted the door, then fell fainting in her rescuer's feet.

She was lifted by strong arms, and when a light was obtained was placed upon the sofa.

Frank's surprise was great at seeing a stranger's face upon the pillow, and he rushed to the feet of the sleeper and called out, "Jessie, where are you?"

No response came, and he ran swiftly up the steps to find the one he sought lying in marble beauty on the floor, while a red stream trickled to his feet.

"He has killed her!" he cried, and with despair, and lifting her tenderly bore her to the light where he looked in wild haste for her wound.

The pretty arm was all lacerated and torn, but no other hurt could be discovered.

With a great sigh of relief he placed her on the bed, and sent one of the men for a physician.

In the meantime poor, wilted little Jessie returned to consciousness, crying out, "Where is Jessie?" She was tenderly soothed, and was soon able to give an account of the "terrible" injury she had sustained.

Her words would depict the record and amazement of Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, when they had returned, at what had occurred, nor express their deep gratitude to Frank Graves and those he had brought to the rescue.

"Father and I came home very late," Frank said, "or we would have relieved you much sooner. It was a lucky thing for us that we met Dr. Douglas, a fellow-student of mine, and he kindly consented to come home with us."

"Douglas!" cried Frank enthusiastically, "there's quick and persevering assistance worthy of a medal. I can never be thankful enough that I gave Jessie that little pistol, and taught her to shoot."

Dollie soon recovered from her fright, and on a day or two was as bright and sunshiny as ever. But though Jessie's wound was slight and grew rapidly better, she seemed to pine under the days spent.

Frank called every morning, but after a brief inquiry as to her health, would depart, seemingly much relieved.

They sang duets together, while Jessie lay listening, and Frank sang back rides where, from the window, she could see them start; they brought her flowers and fruit and books, but "They were very kind, of course," said Jessie musing to herself, pettishly; "But why should they do everything together?"

Frank had never seemed so dearly to her, nor so handsome. His voice had become more rich and full, nor his manner so filled with strength and tenderness as when she saw him with Dollie.

She felt humiliated at what she imagined his opinion of her to be. "He looks my weakness in contempt, I know," she often thought, "and can never really respect me again," which thought bore for her more bitterness than the remembrance of her rude awakening.

One day, however, a sudden change was wrought in her, both mentally and physically. It was brought about through a short conversation.

"To think," said Dollie, indignantly, one morning, "that that rascal should have pretended to be corresponding clerk in the bank at Stanton; why, Jessie," with a blush and a drop of the pretty head, "I am engaged to the corresponding clerk in the bank at Stanton myself, and I assure you he is very nice, indeed."

"Engaged!" cried Jessie, rising upon her elbow, while a subject then spread upon her cheek; "I thought you were engaged to Frank Graves."

"Oh! me," with a pout and little laugh, "he is in love with—some one else."

Jessie lay down again with quickened breath.

"You know who it is, Jessie. Now don't you think, dear, you made a great mistake in preferring Whitney De Vane to one so noble and manly as Frank Graves?"

"Preferred him!" cried Jessie, "in my heart I never preferred him. I was only foolish and silly, and allowed myself to be dazzled by fine dress, a good appearance, and plausible tongue. Frank is worth ten thousand such, but he despises me, I know he does, whereupon she burst into a flood of tears.

"Indeed, darling, he does not," cried Frank, coming forward at this juncture and taking her in his arms; "look at me once and see."

"Forgive me for eavesdropping," he begged, a moment later, when Jessie's tears had been kissed away. "Miss Dollie and I have been carrying out a preconcerted plan for days, and I could not resist being present to hear what you had to say in answer to her remarks this morning."

Jessie was too happy not to forgive anything to her handsome lover, and all through the future years she spoke with him felt a keen sense of gratitude that she had met her "awakening" at the time and in the way she had, terrible though it had been.

Whitney De Vane, alias Jack Parker, who had once before been convicted, was sent again to the penitentiary, and Jessie never saw him afterwards.

The other burglar could not be found.

In a Mexican Restaurant.

From the Military Plaza in San Antonio, a half-dozen narrow streets branch off. Down the narrowest of these, which seems but a passage-way between the rows of sombre houses that line either side—for this is "crooked street"—is a restaurant. The jar sizing genius of the place is an old Mexican, whom, whose unctuous complexion glistens in the glow of the charcoal fire that blazes softly in a capacious, horizontal slit in the gigantic adobe. It is like no other cooking arrangement that ever was seen, and the method of the chef "is beyond comparee." Dozens of shiny saucepans and skillets, set upon the coals, crowd the opening, save room for a generous pipe, with its cross-legged ogre's mouth, and in each of the little skillets and saucepans is the portion for one person.

The treasures of earth could not inclose that city cook, in a quadrilateral dishes, and more especially to fry more than one egg at a time in his cayenne; his laws are fixed and unalterable, and he "commits the profanity of his gazels against cold eggs" compared to consorting with Mexican indifference.

Thirteen plates for the broiling waiting customers stand ready to his hand, and the hospitable frying-pans makes thirteen separate journeys with thirteen separate eggs, the while that two more are being served in his capacious pans, which are spread finally over the chilled eggs and cold oil and placed before the hungry people, whom a day's adventure had last prepared to accept anything with gratitude. In lieu of a fork a very flat pancake, or "tortillas," is doled out to each one. Years of practice are required for the successful manipulation of this most useful article, which, when you have done with as a scoop and knife, plate and fork, successfully chased the particles of food in the sea of oil that fills your plate, you are expected to eat as a final course—a most cleanly and labor-saving arrangement. John Rathbyre, in Home Journal.

Contagion by Mail.

The possibility of the communication of contagious diseases by mail has more than once been proven, but a physician of Watertown, N. Y., reports a case which should be undersoured. A little girl dying with scarlet fever visited to a dying friend, who, in little time, died. The present, her by, is in a letter which her mother had written to a friend, and in the circle was drawn around the spot that was kissed. The letter passed through the mail, and the little friend received the message of love by kissing the circumscribed spot on the letter. It was could be more natural and affectionate? Shortly afterward the child was attacked by the scarlet fever and died, and as it was the only case in the place the physician believes that the contagion was communicated by the letter. Cases have been reported of the transmission of certain diseases in books that were read by sick persons. No time nor distance serves to destroy the germs of contagion, and there is some reason to believe that paper is quite as likely to absorb them as cloth or any other porous materials. One who has seen the individual germs of disease multiplying under a microscope can readily understand how a single germ, though only one twenty-thousandth of an inch in length, communicated by a letter or a paper or a book, may carry disease or death in its train. People receiving letters from places known to be infected with small-pox or scarlet fever or diphtheria would do well to take their own precautions against contagion. Fumigation with sulphur is generally effective to kill the germs. Better, perhaps, is exposure to steam-heat. Heat of the degree of boiling water is fatal to the microscopic life.—Springfield Union.

Plain Cook Heating.

"Incense" may do with people who never saw one of these animals, but those who hunt them are not going to use the word. What would you think of a man who would invite you to a "raccoon hunting" with him? You would know at once he was a dude idiot, when you saw an old-time darky, with one gallus on, a horn worn smooth with long use slung over his shoulder, and a pair of coarse brogans, with the tops of his pantaloons tucked in them, in the room, it there was room for them, when it was.

"Ah, Sam and with dust the black charger, you stay."

"Ah, fresh of bib rye and bile red nostrils rise."

Second to the whole great army to say.

Have brought you fourteen at the way.

From Winchester down, to meet the day."

"Make the cold woods of an on Gettysburg of old and been thirteen is up." "Ah, Sam, I'm in the Shenandoah Valley on that morning a few phrase like Lookin' at Shiloh, on be ride a fast coach up and down the lines."Death, Sam, dyhonor never," thrills the lazy blaze of a trumpet. The band played that heroic song, "Marching Through Georgia," quickens his gait, and the "Ah, Sam" morning fled and women wept, and all for the sake which would not die.

"But this is not all, Mr. Chairman, that the Rebellion was a rebellion against the South of our land.

"Ah, Sam, it was found by the Union of our people that the "peculiar institution" was equal to the Big Bell Tennessee, and in the View of the camp, that their distinguishing amongst the well being of the state. Re-circumstances were those times! They came back home, and they found a new kind of Rebellion against the Union, and they at the time and brought in. They come like the cousins, raise on our what hikes, which add to their volunteer and cultivated, from their people. Ah, laugh, for that time who found! for the Big know, who found! Ah, Sam, respect for law and administration is authority.

It is said that when Cromwell's Ironsides were disbanded in Ireland, and Charles II. have until of many against the people of the treaties, only to the Ironsides, and the Ironsides by the exercises of their work, so that it became a proverb, when any latter is a Ironsides, "Ah, Sam, I know your manner, that Ironsides, to have been drawn one of Cromwell's men. I think this is true of the soldiers of the rebellion. We find them everywhere, in humble vocations as well as positions of honor and trust, and, whether life is taught or not, they are distinguished by their service or exercise of the principles of the Ironsides. Ah, Sam, respect for law and administration! Their performances have been higher than that of the same number of citizens. I has been said that since reunion, which, it is certainly true that arose borne in the Ironsides, the Ironsides, the solid of a Ironsides, the Ironsides.

Unhappy is the time when heroes are developed, but happy is the time when a country which claimed supply them; when the times demand, the men are found; when, the men are found in her, and heroes flock to the leaves of the forest and the fields of the country.

It is a time when the times demand, and a country which claimed supply them; when the times demand, the men are found; when, the men are found in her, and heroes flock to the leaves of the forest and the fields of the country.

There is no safety in depending upon any kind of trusts, whether in banks, or in gold, or in anything else. Nothing is safe, but a disciplined people, and that disciplined people is safe.

Ah, Sam, respect for law and administration! Respect for law and administration! Ah, Sam, respect for law and administration! Ah, Sam, respect for law and administration!

BIRDS-EYE VIEW OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH., SHOWING HARBOR AND SUMMER RESORTS.

The above is a geographically correct view (though containing but a small portion of the buildings) of Charlevoix, Mich., a village of over twelve hundred inhabitants, rapidly growing in favor and reputation as one of the most delightful Summer Resorts and safest harbors in northern Michigan. Several lines of steamers concentrate here, connecting at all hours of the day with all surrounding towns, fishing streams, picnic parks, and other places of interest, health, and pleasure. Unequaled inducements are also offered the permanent settler who desires to invest his capital in manufacturing enterprises where it will bring the best results. The resources of the county are being developed so as to bring the richest returns.

The following table shows the nature and amount of shipments from the Pine Lake region during the season of 1884, as reported from the custom house in Charlevoix:

Hardwood lumber, feet	14,760,500
Pine lumber, feet	112,000
Lath, pieces	225,000
Square timber, feet	235,000
Broom handles	43,000
Torchlight handles	41,000
Railroad ties	117,000
Cedar posts	47,000
Telegraph poles	2,000
Wood, cords	18,000
Bark, cords	6,000
Pig iron, tons	14,000

This does not include a daily shipment of over 1,000 pounds of fresh fish, which during the present season of 1885 has increased to over 3,000 pounds daily.

During the past two years a large amount of building has been done, which the JOURNAL summarized on September 10th, as follows:

Manufacturing establishments	$35,000
Public Buildings	8,800
Business houses	13,000
Residences	28,650
Charlevoix resort	12,850
Chicago resort	6,000
Additions and Improvements	3,000
Warehouses and docks	1,500
Barns	1,200
Government work	11,000
Miscellaneous improvements	10,000
Total	$131,150

For any other information regarding the village or surroundings, address

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE JOURNAL is an eight-page newspaper, devoted to the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix county in general and Charlevoix village in particular. Published weekly, $1.50 per year. CHAS. J. STRANG, Publisher.

Around the County.

Burgess.

Your correspondent has been confidentially informed by intimate friends of Jenks that he ought to be intimately acquainted with the anatomy of the "wind bag of Hayes," and if he says there is a "hole in it," "so mote it be."

Wild geese have begun their flight south.

Mrs. Leeds lost two children by scarlet fever last week, one being buried Thursday, and the other Saturday. The disease settled on their lungs.

There is a talk of building a stone basement to the new school house in the Arnold district.

Harris Pierce has leased the Philip Howe place, including team and cows, for next year.

Mrs. Henry Baker will have a birthday party and "quilting" next Saturday.

Just 146 days without snow,—from May 10 to October 4.

Eskimo Patience.

The number of years the Eskimo will spend in peddling away at the most simple things shows them to be probably the most patient people in the world.

When we were near King William's Land, I saw an Eskimo working upon a knife-blade, as nearly as I could ascertain, had engaged a good part of his time some six years preceding that date. He had a flat piece of iron, which had been taken from the wreck of one of Sir John Franklin's ships, and from this he was endeavoring to make a knife-blade, which, when completed, would be about twelve inches long. In cutting it from this iron plate, he was using for a chisel an old file, found on one of the ships, which it had taken him two or three years to sharpen by rubbing the edge against stones and rocks. His cold-chisel finished, he had been nearly as many years cutting a straight edge along the ragged sides of the irregular piece of iron, and when I discovered him he had outlined the width of his knife on the plate and was cutting away at it. It would probably have taken him two years to cut out this piece, and two more to fashion the knife into shape and usefulness.

The file which he had made into a cold-chisel was such a proof of labor and patience that it was a great curiosity to me, and I gave him a butcher's knife in exchange for it. Thus almost the very thing he had been so long trying to make he now unexpectedly found in his possession. When I told him that our factories, or big tipiocs, could make more than he could carry of such butcher-knives during the time we had spent in talking about his, he expressed great surprise.—Lieut. Schwatka, in St. Nicholas for June.

Warned Against Persian Receptions.

When the Secretary (Bayard) told him that, above all other things, he must stear clear of a public reception by the Persians, Judge Hanna, for the hundredth time, looked puzzled, and, for the thousandth time during the week, said to himself: "Well, I'm—d." The Secretary explained:

Several years ago, when the Persian Mission was created, a man named Benjamin of Ohio was sent out to draw the $500 per year and to look after the missionaries. The Persians were delighted over the recognition given them by the United States Government. To have a resident Minister was magnified by them into a high honor. Mr. Benjamin was not outside of Teheran and conducted into the city with all the pomp and ceremony of a great procession, in which there were camels and elephants and triumphal cars enough to outfit a scge of modern menageries. Mr. Benjamin was banqueted and feted in grand style. After a time he settled down to the humdrum routine of hearing missionaries' stories. One day a Persian diplomat walked into the Legation offices, and with Oriental politeness presented to the astonished Minister a bill for the procession and the entertainment given him. The items footed up over $6,000. Poor Mr. Benjamin received the account, and, with forced composure, told the diplomat it should receive attention. He got the Legation together and asked for advice. Nobody could respond. Perhaps the unfortunate Minister wept over the bill. Probably he prayed over it. Unfortunately he wished he had never left Ohio. At length, in despair, he forwarded to the State Department the terrible document. There was more consultation and liberal abuse of the Persian idea of hospitality. The upshot was an appropriation from the contingent fund, taking the greater part of it to pay for Mr. Benjamin's reception. For the rest of that year the department was run with due regard to the fact that this Persian investment necessitated reduction of incidental expenses to the lowest possible figures.

The Secretary told Judge Hanna the whole story, and, in concluding, said he trusted that the new Minister would now appreciate the imperative necessity of getting into Teheran without an escort of elephants and camels, and that he would, with Jeffersonian, simplicity, decline to be made a lion by the Persians at the expense of his own Government.—Washington Dispatch.

Wanted to be Sure.

"Do you mean to say I'm a liar?" said a tall man bracing up to a sawdoff specimen about as big as a keg of nails.

"That's just what I mean," replied the little one, standing square on his pegs, and not fluctuating to any appreciable extent.

"Well, that's all right," continued the tall man, not advancing from his original position, "that's all right. I just wanted to be sure whether you meant it or not, for so many men are liars nowadays that really I don't know who to believe. Let's have something to drink."—Merchant Traveler.

Nothing New.

Paul Boyton's prank in placing a dummy torpedo against the British war ship Gorgon in New York harbor brings to mind Sergt. Lee's attempt to blow up Lord Howe's flagship, the Eagle, in the same waters in 1776. He had a torpedo-boat invented by David Bushnell, afterward a captain in the patriotic army. It had been tried with success experimentally, and gave promise of being useful in serious warfare. The first opportunity for such use occurred when the British fleet took possession of New York harbor. The Bushnell boat was more like a barrel than a boat. It was of oak, iron banded, and only large enough for one person. When floating upright, the navigator's head was a little above the level of the water. By means of two force pumps, worked by the occupant's feet, the vessel could be made to sink or rise in the water by forcing water out or in, and so changing its specific gravity. Its progress horizontally was governed by two revolving paddles in front, turned by a crank inside. The torpedo was fastened to the back of the boat by a screw, the release of which set in motion a clock connected with a gun-lock and flint. After the predetermined interval of time had elapsed, the clock would strike and ignite the powder.

The torpedo carried by Lee against the Eagle was charged with 150 pounds of powder (some say 130 pounds), and the clock was set to explode the charge in thirty minutes after the torpedo was placed. Lee was towed to the neighborhood of the fleet by a party in whale boats, and then proceeded to attack the lion alone. He succeeded in reaching the Eagle, a sixty-four gun ship, undetected, and spent a long time in a vain attempt to fasten the torpedo to her bottom with hooks and screws—a band of iron at the edge of the copper sheathing proving an especially serious obstacle. As daylight approached he was compelled to leave the fleet and return to the city. Of Governor's island he was intercepted by a British barge, when, to avoid capture, he exploded his torpedo, escaping from his pursuers during the panic which the explosion excited. If the torpedo had been provided with a strong plugged, the strip of iron which thwarted him would have insured the success of his undertaking, and the use of torpedoes in naval warfare might have been hastened half a century.—Scientific American.

A contribution to an English magazine says that it was formerly the trick of the English countryman to substitute a cat for a sucking pig and bring it to market in a basket, and that to which careful examination made a hasty bargain, was said to buy a pig in a poke (we might get a cat in a bag, and a discovery of this cheat gave rise to the expression "letting the cat out of the bag" as a premature and unlucky exposure.

The art of making paper from wood was carried on long before man ever dreamed of it. On a drowsy summer's day the wasp strips away to his hind leg all the wood fibre he can gather. This he mixes with saliva and works into a substantial paper covering for his nest.

The Cowboys and Thomas.

Miss Materna has told a German newspaper man in San Francisco all about the performance Mr. Thomas concert troupe had to give for the benefit of a band of cowboys. She says: "We were stopping in Coalinga, N. M., for dinner. Some twenty cowboys were at the depot, and when they heard that musicians were on board they immediately demanded that they be given some music. They pleaded that no circus had been in that vicinity for over a year, and that they were hungry to hear some music. I felt rather nervous, as the fellows looked rather wild in their fantastic dress, with broad-brimmed hats, and armed to the teeth. I told them that I could not sing in English, when one of them in broad Bavaria dialect offered to me that German singing would be quite acceptable to him. Still I did not feel like singing, pretended to be unwell, and sent them to Miss Jhuk. She told them that under her convent rules she was not permitted to sing for any one unless Mr. Thomas had given his consent in writing. Then one of the cowboys, probably in fun, drew a revolver and so frightened Miss Jhuk that she at once began to sing 'Home, Sweet Home.' I don't think she ever sang that air with more real feeling. The cowboys were delighted with Miss Jhuk's singing, but called for more. Then Mr. Thomas, who had been a highly-amused observer of the scene, called for a violin and played the 'Arkansaw Traveler' for the boys. You should have seen the fellows! They were so happy and delighted. We became fast friends, and when the train came as of the cowboys fired a parting salute from their revolvers."

A Korrobboree in Australia.

After dinner, which was at 6 p. m., we went to see a korrobboree, the Black fellows were encamped at a short distance from the house. There were two tribes of them, and about 20 of them in all. They were painted with white and black streaks across their face and chest, and put up in correct style with skins and spears and boomerangs, and by the light of the fires which were kindled in a circle around they looked sufficiently hideous. The tribes danced alternately, and the watchwords in their songs appeared to be half English, half native. A great deal of the action of the dance consisted in striking the ground at the same moment, so as to cause an echoing thud with their feet. One of the repeated actions seemed the numerous efforts of the men to quiver simultaneously from the waist upward, but of course many worthy articles may have escaped my notice. We would like to have given the names of all exhibitors, but could not get them.

The officers for the ensuing year, and the directors for three years were elected on Saturday, as follows:

President, John Nicholls, of Charlevoix.

Secretary, James B. Stone, of East Jordan.

Treasurer, James B. Palmiter, of East Jordan.

Directors, Robert Trimble, of Norwood; Nathan L. Clark, of Eveline; Joseph R. Dixon, of Charlevoix; and Alonzo J. Stroud, of Evangeline.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

Real Estate

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1873.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,

IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Random.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Random.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.

GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Dark Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 8, 1885.

A SUCCESS.

First Annual Fair of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society.

Held at East Jordan, October 1, 2, and 3, 1885.

This society, which was but recently organized, has carried to success, in quantity and quality of the exhibit, and financially, their first annual exhibition.

Altogether there were 735 entries, and the attendance was good on the first and second days, and would have been better on the third but for the rain. We hoped to give the number of entries in each class, but the officers were so busy they could not furnish them.

The officers have worked hard, and with everything against them; with no grounds, no buildings, and but very little time to work in. Like every new enterprise, there have been plenty to stand around in the way, and predict its failure; but those who had the management determined to make it a success if it lay in their power. They were fortunate in having a building like the rink which could on so short notice be transformed into a Floral Hall, and it made an excellent substitute, with the one exception of the lack of light. However this was partially overcome by the free use of lamps. The exhibition was all that could have been expected by the most sanguine in every instance, and in the fruit and vegetable exhibit, was a big surprise even to men accustomed to seeing fine exhibits in the southern part of the state.

Temporary stocks shed were erected on the lot south of the rink, which answered the purpose very well.

To the objection raised by some that it was not a county institution, because nearly all the officers and directors, as well as most of the superintendents were from Jordan, people from has said that the exhibit represented the whole county as well as if located at any other point when got up on so short notice. Some of the best features of the exhibit were from Charlevoix, and of the new officers, the president and one of the directors are from Charlevoix. Charlevoix has had plenty of opportunity to organize and maintain a society and an annual exhibition, but for various causes has not done so. The society is now organized, has passed through the initial stages of development, and if the people pull together as they do this season, it will give every one to the measure of giving us greater and better advertising than we have ever had. When it is known what products of the soil succeed best, it will be easier to induce men and means interested in that particular crop to come here and invest, when they will not come here to experiment. The easiest way to determine this is to make comparison,—just such a comparison as an annual fair affords.

When Charlevoix and Boyne City have held and helps East Jordan make her fairs a success, she will in return, we have no doubt, consent to lobbing a fair share of the exhibits in these towns and give their numbers a chance to advertise,—that is an excellent chance to advertise, no one will deny.

In the following paragraphs we have attempted to briefly notice the most important exhibits in each department, but of course many worthy articles may have escaped our notice. We would like to have given the names of all exhibitors, but could not get them.

HORSES.

The raising of thoroughbred stock has hardly commenced in this county, and will not be prosecuted with any great amount of vigor until a spirit of rivalry is brought out by these annual exhibits. To thoroughly interest people in the horse show there must be a race track, which of course will come in time.

In class 1, thoroughbreds, John Hammond entered a three-year-old stallion.

In class 2, roadsters, there was one entry, a three-year-old mare.

In class 3, carriage horses, A. LeClair entered a pair of four-year-olds.

In class 4, horses for all work, there was an exhibit of mare and foal, one two-year-old stallion, one two-year-old mare, one three-year-old stallion (exhibited by James Hudings of Charlevoix), two five-months-old colts, one Morgan and French mare two years old (exhibited by Henry Newland), one span eight years old, one mare with colt four months old, one span matched horses, one yearling stallion (Kentucky Whip, owned by C. G. Lewis, of Boyne), one four-year old mare, and one three-year old mare (entered by G. Moblo).

CATTLE.

In this department there were 20 head entered in the various classes.

In class 1, thoroughbreds, there were two Jersey bull calves, one grade heifer calf, one grade two-year-old bull, besides Jos. R. Dixon's Holsteins; bull 18 months old, weight 1,120, and heifer 17 months old, weight 940.

In class 2, working oxen or steers, there were two yokes of two-year-old steers, and one yoke of four-year-old matched steers, the latter exhibited by Chas. Mathlocks.

In class 3, herds of cattle and milch cows, there were eight entries, of three cows, two heifers, and three calves.

In fat stock Mr. Lalonde exhibited a cow and a five months old calf that were good.

SHEEP.

J. S. Philbrick, of "Mountain Home" stock farm, exhibited 16 head of Shropshiredown, and there was one pen of three grade Cotswold ewes. This department needs considerable encouragement and care to get much of an exhibit in the future. The country is too new to expect much for several years.

SWINE.

There were 18 head entered in this department. A few of the specimens looked well, when it is considered that heretofore there has been but little to induce close and careful breeding, but the most of them would be inferior at any show in a county further south. The breeds represented were Chester white, Poland China, Berkshire, and Jersey reds.

We learn that considerable amusement was afforded on the last day by an exhibit not down on the bills, and not usually found at county fairs. It was announced as a "Durham hog," was taken from his stock. Next to King, we find FRUIT.

This exhibit was also small, but included some fair specimens of bronze turkeys, Pekin ducks, and Plymouth Rock Scotch dominic, black Spanish, and buff Cochin fowls and chicks, in pairs and trios.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.

In this department Charlevoix county will at once take a place in the front rank with other counties in the state. In the time allowed since the society was organized, it was not possible to get together as great a number of entries as may be possible in the future. The specimens on exhibition elicited from the visitors frequent exclamations of surprise at their excellence in every feature. Every sample shown is the natural product of the soil, and not the result of forced growth for the sole purpose of exhibition.

We did not get the number of entries, and counted only the plates of apples. Of these there were 41, all large, smooth, well-colored, handsome fruit. There were a few fine samples of pears, quinces, and grapes.

Of canned fruit there were about 50 specimens—in appearance very attractive, in quality we did not have a chance to sample.

Of tomatoes there were ten entries, all large, smooth, fine specimens.

Of potatoes, beets, carrots, and other roots, the number of entries was very respectable, and the exhibit cannot be beaten anywhere. In several years attendance at the Central Michigan Fair at Lansing, we never saw finer specimens, when size, form, smooth surface, and general appearance are considered, and in point of yield to the acre we do not believe this county can be beaten by any other in the state. F. W. Higby, of Charlotte, for a number of years prominently connected with the Eaton county society, expressed substantially the same comparison with his fair. And Messrs. J. R. Hall, of Bellevue, Ohio, and E. G. Fay, of Bryan, Ohio, said the vegetable exhibit was of better quality in every feature than they found in the Ohio state fair.

There was a small exhibit of corn, about equally divided between dent and flint varieties.

The samples of pumpkins were not numerous but of squashes there were a large number, all excellent in size and quality. Several were very large, one shown by A. H. Rinehart (called a pie squash,) weighing 93 pounds. Others looked to be fully as heavy, but we did not learn the weight, or name of owner.

The specimens of onions were very large. A. H. Rinehart, of South Arm, exhibited some extra large samples of red Wethersfield and yellow globe Danvers.

There were a few excellent samples of cabbages, cauliflower, and celery.

There were but a few samples of grain, though the specimens exhibited were of plump, full berry, and indicate that this county can raise as good grain as any, when the people wake up to its importance.

O. F. Ball exhibited a ten quart tin pail full of large potatoes, said to be from one hill, the tops of which were still green and over four feet long as they hung from the wall.

Geo. Bellinger exhibited some extra large samples of Hubbard squash.

There were ten samples of very large smooth tomatoes.

Mrs. J. H. Stone exhibited 20 samples of canned fruit.

W. L. Marshall exhibited samples of hops and parsley, and two bottles of very fine raspberry and blackberry wine.

THE MERCANTILE EXHIBIT.

The mercantile display was arranged along the south side, the west end, and a portion of the north side of the hall, with a few distributed along the center. It shows who are the most enterprising among East Jordan merchants. Beginning at the entrance we first find with a choice selection of standard groceries, and a fine exhibit of decorated china, majolica, and colored glass ware, and oling attractive samples taken from his stock. Next to King, we find with samples of his large stock of dry goods, boots, shoes, shawls, cloaks, dress goods, etc. The boots, shoes, and slippers were arranged on shelves rising from the front and ends, and the dry goods piled at either end, while the walls of the space were hung with shawls, cloaks, dress goods, hosiery, fine lace, silk, and linen handkerchiefs, and other goods in the counter was filled with books and stationery.

H. W. KING

JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

H. WILENSKY

filled the next space with an assortment of clothing, ladies' goods, shawls, laces, fine linen, and silk handkerchiefs, and many other fine samples from his stock, which also includes a line of boots and shoes, and winter goods of every description.

In the center of the space occupied by the stood a glass case containing an assortment of dress goods, and dress, principally of black and old gold, so arranged and combined as to call special attention from the visitor. The walls were hung with a fine assortment of dress goods, laces, silks, and most attractive samples from a large stock of dry goods.

STOUPLE LUMBER CO.

J. C. GILES

occupied the next space with a generous selection from his complete stock of general merchandise, principal of which were a case of shoes and slippers, a good assortment of clothing, and an attractive display of crockery and glassware.

The entire front of the hall not used by the officers of the society was occupied by and devoted to an exhibit of parlor furniture, pictures etc., tastefully arranged.

C. W. DUNHAM & CO.

The first exhibit on the north side was that of which included the Paragon Jewel parlor stove, Home Jewel cook, and Jewel Oak office stove. Attached to the wall was a fine display of edge tools, over which the firm name was formed of screws of various sizes. In one corner of the space was an exhibit of tin work by Joe Rauschell from Loveday & Co.'s shop. The exhibit also contained other samples from their extensive stock of hardware.

B. C. LOVEDAY & CO.

FRENCH & SUTTON

occupied the next space with samples from their large stock of horse cloth ing. A case filled with sadlery hardware and ornaments occupied the center, and the walls were hung with an assortment of harnesses, blankets, etc. The exhibit included trunks and other goods usually found in a harnessmaker's stock.

H. L. PAGE

exhibited a varied assortment of hardware, including the Banner cook stove, the Round Oak office, and the Wood Cottage parlor stove, besides heaters, copper, tin, and iron work. A fine exhibit of edge tools was made.

M. S. MOULTON & CO.,

jewelers, occupied a space in the center, just east of the first pyramid of house plants, attention to which was directed by a large music box. One account of the lack of sufficient light to properly show the goods, a brilliant lamp was suspended over the show case. Their exhibit was by far the largest we ever saw of this class of goods in a county fair, and embraced but a small portion of their immense stock. One large show case contained trays of pins, ear drops, rings, and charms, with pearl, garnet, topaz, onyx, black sapphire, and diamond settings; gold and silver watches, chains, bracelets, pens, and pen holders in great variety; plated spoons, forks, knives, etc., assorted in trays by grades, the plain goods being separated from the pearls and rich stone settings, each style or grade of goods occupying a tray by itself. Optical goods, opera glasses, and toilet sets in pearl and gold. Clocks in cases of bronze and gilt statuary, and French black marble, with fine-toned cathedral bells, added to the richness of the exhibit. There was a case of silver-ware containing water set, caster, toilet sets, fruit dishes, etc., and a case of curiosities, among which were a powder horn carried through the revolution, a pair of teeth of the sperm whale, and a pair of walrus tusks. Over the exhibit, the firm name was printed on a card enclosed in a frame made of over 2,000 pieces of wood, principally out of cigar boxes, and securely fitted and locked together.

MRS. E. F. EMPEY

made an exhibit of millinery goods.

A. BISTON

exhibited a case of boots and shoes, the counter was filled with boots and shoes, showing him to be master of his trade.

A. E. PICKERD

exhibited two nicely-arranged cases of standard groceries, selected from his large stock.

A. P. BRADLEY, of Charlevoix, was represented by a large case of photographic work, which will draw to this town all who are seeking a "shadow" of themselves finished and mounted in the highest style of the art.

C. W. SMITH,

of Charlevoix, advertised his agate works with a large case full of specimens.

W. H. FILDWIN,

of Petoskey, exhibited a line of agricultural implements adapted to this region, including five styles of plows, three of feed cutters, two root cutters, besides mowers, rakes, harrows, etc. As with many others, the short time in which he had to prepare did not permit him to bring and set up samples of many of his agricultural implements, which would have added much to the interest and value of the exhibition. Another year it is probable that this feature will be very attractive, as he has the goods and the disposition to show them.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The exhibit of ladies' fancy needle work was very large, and included many rare pieces. Mrs. W. A. Brown, of Charlevoix, made a large number of entries of linen and worsted work, and brought home numerous premiums. One set of hair pin-work curtains, tidies, etc., fourteen pieces, an outfit for a "blue room," attracted much attention.

There was a small display of curiosities, mostly in the line of old china. A pair of hand-painted cups and saucers bearing the portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Barber, were admired by all who saw them. There were several pieces of old-fashioned china with blue pictures, one cup being 89 years old and a platter 77 years old. There was one pair of white wedding slippers 50 years old.

Two large pyramids of house-plants were located near the entrance, and contained numerous handsome plants. One of the pyramids was filled almost entirely by Mrs. J. H. Stone. Mrs. Stone also made numerous exhibits in other departments, and labored hard for the success of the fair.

There were several cases of mounted birds to add to the attractiveness of the show, a large portion of which, we understand, was furnished by Charlevoix parties.

Besides his Holstein stock Jos. R. Dixon, of Charlevoix, exhibited samples of his creamery butter, five varieties of potatoes, two of tomatoes, parsnips, carrots, beets, celery, and wheat.

T. H. Goddard exhibited samples of tools made of steel, polished, showing him to be master of the black smith trade in the matter of fine finished work.

Harry Stevens exhibited a well-proportioned, neatly executed pencil drawing of a locomotive, which attracted the attention of every person interested in mechanics and art.

Mr. J. L. Allen exhibited much patience and skill in the work on two inlaid boxes, the design and combination of color making them very handsome.

The exhibit of paintings and drawings was quite large, and included many well-executed pieces. In this department Charlevoix took a prominent place.

A sunflower was exhibited fifteen inches across the face with a stalk nearly as large as a man's arm.

One very pretty crazy quilt was exhibited, but we failed to learn the name of the exhibitor.

Mrs. J. C. Jordan exhibited a crochet sofa tidy, representing the British coat of arms.

W. A. Brown, exhibited a hand-painted dressing gown, the work of Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. S. Fast exhibited an "ocean wave" patchwork quilt, containing over 2,000 pieces.

There was a creditable exhibit of bread, butter, cakes, pies, canned fruit, etc.

J. C. Jordan exhibited a rose geranium over three feet across.

J. W. Rogers exhibited a pine apple geranium six feet tall.

J. C. Jordan exhibited several heads of fine celery.

G. W. Fast had a wax begonia seven feet high.

In the ladies' department was a very pretty wreath composed of dry moss, everlasting flowers, etc., and continued numerous specimens from the growth on the bark of old trees.

NOTES.

The performance of the East Jordan band show every evidence of frequent and careful practice under a competent leader. On the second day of the fair they received a lot of new caps with lamps attached.

J. S. Philbrick offers his herd of Jersey cattle and flock of Shropshire-down sheep for sale. Those desiring to introduce this blood in their herds should write him at East Jordan for particulars.

The Charlevoix band gave an excursion to East Jordan on the Clara Belle on Friday evening, and entertained the citizens there with some of their excellent music.

Even the waters of Lake Michigan furnished their portion of the attractions in the form of three or four Mackinac trout nearly four feet long.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. L. Cook,
First Vice President—Mrs. J. E. Allen,
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Jennings,
Third Vice President—Mrs. C. F. Van Aken,
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. D. C. Loveday,
Recording Secretary—Mrs. B. Sutfelt,
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Why Should I Belong to the W. C. T. U?

It is a question busy women ask each other, and themselves. "We have all the duties there is time and strength to perform. Shall we neglect our homes and children for the W. C. T. U?" say some of our best women when they are asked to become members of the Union. There are two distinct reasons why every intelligent Christian woman should, because of her relation to the home, belong to the W. C. T. U.

1. Home is the center and source of life, and woman is the home keeper. Whatever concerns the home, therefore is of vital importance to her. 2. The enemies of home are her enemies and she is called upon to defend both it and herself against them. Intemperance is acknowledged to be the greatest enemy of the home, the leader of vices in whose wake many deadly foes follow. "But why is woman called to combat the evil? Why cannot men regulate the affairs of the world and leave us to the management of the homes?" Partly because they cannot; partly because they will not. The world is simply a collection of homes. Possibly for every ten happy and well-ordered households, where man is industrious and temperate, there are five where man is intemperate. The women of these homes are helpless, the children grow up in a tainted atmosphere, and so go out to curse the world by their own sinful lives, and by their influence counteract much of the good otherwise existing. It is very plain. The mother-love that shields her own child must also shield her neighbor's child. She is prompted to do this by her own self preservation and that of her home, and by that love—Christ-like—which for the sake of the lost, seeks to save them. "But intemperance has always been combated by good men and women. Why is the W. C. T. U. a better organization than any other? Because it is organized mother-love, and "In union there is strength," in organization there is power. Nearly two hundred thousand Christian women in the United States have banded together and say, "We are the home-keepers; the children are ours; the saloon is our enemy, and our SALOON MUST GO." "How has all this been brought about?" The Crusade was the first personal work of woman for temperance. True societies existed and much work was done in reclaiming drinking men. The Crusade women virtually said: "The drunkard need not be made. We will pray the saloon-keeper not to sell intoxicating drinks. We will save our husbands and sons and brothers." The Spirit of the Lord was upon and great good was accomplished. Into the temperance work a strong spiritual element was introduced, and women were shown the power of organized effort. The W. C. T. U. was the outgrowth of the Crusade. So ready were women for this work that twelve states responded to the call for the first national convention held at Cleveland in 1874. The blessing of the Lord has been constant, and the earnestness and devotion of the women without parallel. The national W. C. T. U. is now organized in every state and territory, with more than 6,000 local unions. Much of this success is due the untiring labors of the national president, Miss Frances E. Willard, but much also to the faithful women, who make up the rank and file of the army. By means of these unions, the homes of these women themselves are directly influenced, children are better taught, public opinion is educated, a large amount of temperance literature is circulated, and the power of the liquor traffic undermined. Moreover, in many states, scientific temperance education is required by law in all public schools, and this has been done directly through the influence of the W. C. T. U. And their good work has just begun.

Why SHOULD I belong to the W. C. T. U? 1. Because the cause is worthy of my name, money and influence. 2. Because it is my duty to do all I can for "God, and Home and Native Land."—Esther T. Housh, National Supt. Press Department W. C. T. U.

The American Rock-Elm.

This tree, says Prof. Sargent in "Notes on Trees and Tree-Planting," is found growing with the common American elm, and in situations similar to those selected by that tree, from the southwestern county of Vermont westward to Illinois, and from the Ohio northward into Canada. It is common in New York, along the banks of the Mohawk and its tributaries, in Yates county, near Penn Yan, and occurs in many parts of Ohio and Illinois, but it is in the southern peninsula of Michigan, Wisconsin, and the province of Ontario that the rock-elm is most frequently met with. This species will be readily distinguished by the disposition of the flowers, which, unlike those of other elms, are borne in racemes on inch to two inches long, and composed of several clusters of from two to four flowers together. It may be distinguished also from the common American elm at all seasons of the year by the thick corky ridges which extend along the young branches.

The wood, too, will be found to be very dissimilar from that of American elm. Its specific gravity is .832, while that of the American elm is but .649, or 22 per cent lighter. It is almost as heavy as the best eastern hickory, 4 per cent heavier than the best San Domingo mahogany, and 26 per cent heavier than second-growth eastern white oak. The wood is fine grained, compact, and shows but little of that inclination to splinter which renders the wood of the American elm unfit for many purposes of construction. The heartwood, which is buff in color with reddish tints, is susceptible of high polish, and is warm and agreeable in tone. Architects and cabinet-makers, to whom specimens have been submitted, speak of it with unqualified praise for furniture-making and interior decoration, for which purposes its hardness, strength, and beauty seem to particularly adapt it. The wood of this tree is unknown in the eastern markets, but considerable quantities of what is called Canadian rock elm are annually exported into Great Britain from Canada, but, judging from the descriptions of it, I am inclined to think that this is nothing but American elm, or perhaps a mixture of the two, as lumbermen do not well distinguish this species, calling all elms grown on high and dry land rock elm, and all that is produced along the river banks and in damp situations, hasteed elm.

Although still unknown in the east, the wood of slippery racemosa is highly valued in those portions of the western states where it is abundant enough to form an article of commerce. It is very largely employed in the manufacture of heavy agricultural implements, such as plows, mowing, and threshing-machines, and similar articles, in the construction of which the best white oak is used in the east. In spite of its weight and strength, this wood is very flexible, and when properly seasoned, retains any shape into which it has been bent, a quality which finds for it important employment. In some parts of Michigan rock-elm is largely used for the framework of chairs, and for the hubs of wheels and the heavy beams of stamp-pulliers it has no equal. It is used for the slats of stock-cars, and for this and other purposes large quantities are annually consumed by the railroads. Indeed, the wood of this tree is generally employed wherever it can be procured, and where a material combining at once strength, toughness, and solidity is required. Should it reach the eastern markets, the qualities which have caused it to be eagerly employed wherever it is known will find for rock elm a ready sale here, while, unless the opinion of those experts to whom specimens have been submitted is a mistaken one, it will be one of the most valuable, as it is one of the most beautiful, of American woods for the architect and cabinet-maker.

Taking the standard of weight as the best test of the heat-giving quality of any wood and of the length of time it will continue to burn, rock elm is barely surpassed as fuel by hickory itself. The specify gravity of eastern second-growth hickory is .838, that of rock elm .832, and that of second-growth eastern white oak .662; so that, applying the test of weight, rock elm, as fuel is worth only 1 per cent less than hickory, while it is worth 26 per cent more than white oak, the best fuel which now reaches this market in any quantity. Actual experiments show that this wood burns slowly, with a bright, steady flame, and without snapping; ash equal to .67 of 1 per cent of the dry wood consumed is left after burning. As is expected of a tree yielding such heavy, close-grained wood, the rock elm grows very slowly. Never a common tree, the rock elm is fast disappearing from even those parts of the country where formerly it was most abundant, and steps should be at once taken to propagate the plant.

William F. Laffan, who succeeds the late Isaac W. England as publisher of the New York Sun, is the "Owl" of the Tile Club, and edited Harper's "Christmas."

Farm for Sale or Exchange.

One hundred acres of the best farming land; 60 acres improved, over 40 apple trees bearing; good buildings, seven miles from Charlevoix. Will be sold cheap for cash, or will exchange for good property. For further particulars inquire at this office.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv	.....	7 40am	7 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	4 00pm	2 20pm	1 20am	5 40am
Fort Wayne, lv	.....	2 30pm	1 30am	5 45
Kendallville, ar	4 25	3 05	2 00	6 22pm
Kalamazoo, lv	7 30	9 00	5 10	9 15
Grand Rapids, ar	8 30	10 10	7 00	10 25
Grand Rapids, lv	11 50	11 00	7 20	5 05
Howard City, ar	12 45pm	12 15am	8 20	6 10
Howard City, lv	12 55pm	12 25am	8 30	6 20
Big Rapids, ...	1 47	1 14	9 49	7 14
Reed City, ar	2 32	.....	.....	7 42
Reed City, lv	2 42	1 44	10 11	7 55
Cadillac, ar	3 52	2 47	11 19	8 60pm
Cadillac, lv	4 00	2 45	11 25	.....
Wexford, ...	4 36	3 21	12 03am	.....
Kalkaska, ...	5 05	3 56	12 38	.....
Mancelona, ...	6 21	4 55	1 32	.....
Boyne Falls, ...	6 12	4 45	1 22	.....
Petoskey, ar	7 47	6 19	2 56	.....
Harbor Springs,	.....	.....	.....	.....
Mackinaw City,	9 00pm	7 40	4 15pm	.....

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City,	8 30pm	8 00am	.....	1 00pm
Harbor Springs,	.....	.....	.....	.....
Petoskey, lv	9 47	9 15	.....	2 55
Boyne Falls, ...	10 23	9 50	.....	3 34
Mancelona, ...	10 31	9 58	.....	3 42
Kalkaska, ...	11 41	10 57	.....	4 52
Wallton, ...	12 30am	12 02pm	.....	5 45
Cadillac, ar	12 55	12 35	.....	6 10
Cadillac, lv	1 50	1 00	8 20am	6 20
Reed City, ar	2 00	2 05	9 30	7 35
Reed City, lv	.....	2 20	9 50	7 55
Big Rapids, ...	3 30	3 02	10 38	8 32
Howard City, ...	4 10	3 37	2 04	9 06
Howard City, lv	5 28	4 45	10 15	10 17
Grand Rapids, ar	6 45	5 55	10 36	10 36
Grand Rapids, lv	7 15am	6 30	11 45	2 30pm
Kalamazoo, ar	8 15	7 35	12 45pm	3 45
Kalamazoo, lv	8 20	7 50	1 40	3 55
Fort Wayne, ar	12 40pm	11 20	.....	7 35
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00	11 30am	5 50am	7 45
Cincinnati, ar	7 00pm	7 25am	12 50pm	.....

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. Agent,
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Hannah, Lay & Co.'s Pleasure Steamers,

SEASON OF 1885.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.
CAPT. O. E. WILDER.

Going North every morning—Leave Traverse City 7.00, Northport 8.30, Norwood 11.00, Charlevoix 1.00, Petoskey 1.30, arrive at Harbor Springs 1.45.

Going South every afternoon—Leave Harbor Springs 2.00, Petoskey 2.50, Charlevoix 4.45, Norwood 5.00, Northport 6.30, arrive at Traverse City 9.00.

T. S. PAXTON,
CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

Going South every morning—Leave Harbor Springs 8.00, Petoskey 8.30, Charlevoix 9.45, Torch Lake 11.00, arrive Traverse City 2.30.

Going North every afternoon—Leave Traverse City 3.00, Torch Lake 5.45, Charlevoix 7.45, Petoskey 9.15, arrive Harbor Springs 9.40.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City with the C. H. & P. R. R. for all points on the G. R. & I. R. R.; on Monday mornings between the CITY OF TRAVERSE from Chicago and the CITY OF CHEBOYGAN going north; and on Wednesday between both the T. S. PAXTON and CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS going south, and the CITY OF TRAVERSE to Chicago.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS FRIANT.
CAPT. E. VANDERBILT.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.00. Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.00.

Connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE, Capt. ALEXIE TIDGEN.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 8.30; leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive East Jordan 4.00; leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

A PRESENT.

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps will pay for mailing sample copies of two book agents, will receive free a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all our Presidents including Cleveland, size 22x28, worth $4.00. Address Elder Pub. Co., Chicago, Ill.

Catarrh Cured. 50 CENTS. Guaranteed not to contain Mercury, Opium or any poisonous drug. Sold by Druggists. Price 50 Cents. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

We cordially recommend Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy as the Best Cure for Catarrh. We have seen remarkable results every case in the given months. Ayer & Lish, Boston, N. Y. Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00.

For Sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

THE HOWE MACHINE CO.

AT THE FRONT.

OUR LATEST SUCCESS.

Easy Running Sewing Machine

IT HAS

The Most Room under the Arm,
The Best Self-Setting Needle,
The Largest Bobbin,
The Easiest Shuttle to Thread,
The Most Perfect Tension,
The Most Reliable Feed,
The Most Perfect Take-up,
The Best Bobbin Winder.

IT IS

SIMPLE, STRONG, DURABLE & HANDSOME

Runs Rapidly, Very Light, Very Still, and without Vibration.

Before you purchase, please examine the NEW HOWE at the office of Mrs. M. Litney, Agt., Charlevoix

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

I have purchased the Stock of

Drugs, Chemicals,

STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.

Of O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to so conduct the business as to merit a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and see my prices.

PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,
Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

I have purchased the Meat business of Armstrong & Co., and will continue at the old stand, with the freshest and best goods in the market.

T. E. CHAMBERLIN.

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE Right Place

For Bargains in Hardware,

Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Pictures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Doors, Sash.

PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm bells, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishing tackle, Revolvers, Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Moustrys, Tubs, Wooden ware, Rope, Fishermen's Supplies, and Ship chandlery, Job and Tin work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Photographs!

I have located my

New Photograph Gallery

OVER

UPRIGHT, & EMREY & Co. S STORE,

And am prepared to do

All Kinds of Photographic Work,

From the

Miniature Picture to Life Size

Any Old Picture Copied and Enlarged.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

DAVE BRADBEER,
Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 12

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

Is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more used than any other plug in the State. It is always in good order; NEVER TOO DRY AND NEVER SWEETS. GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION. TRY IT. TRY IT. TRY IT. NIMROD is THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER never sticks on the dealer's hands. Tids cannot mold of any other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.
Petersburg, Va.

$100 REWARD FOR Every Ounce of Adulteration IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,
Made only by
GOWANS & STOVER,
BUFFALO, N. Y.
For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

CASH CLUB RATES.

Those desiring a publication to be sent to them for the ensuing year can be accommodated by the JOURNAL'S club list. To get the benefit of these reduced rates, all arrears must be paid to date of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

Price,	With the
$1 00 Detroit Weekly Free Press	2 00
1 00 New York Weekly World	2 00
2 00 Pomeroy's Democrat	3 25
75 Detroit Echo, weekly	1 75
1 00 Chicago Weekly Herald	2 00
1 50 The Cottage Hearth (monthly)	2 00

Sample Copies furnished on application.

The Grand Rapids

Daily Democrat,

The Leading Newspaper of Western Michigan.

ENLARGED AND IMPROVED

Sent by mail at 50 cents per month.

GET THE BEST

If your neighbors want a clean, handsome weekly newspaper, giving the latest and most complete news from all parts of the country, have them send 25 cents for this paper, which will be sent to any address nine months, 25 cents, or six months, $1.50 per year. Address

The Charlevoix Journal
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co.'s Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it IN NEW YORK.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 118. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR F. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

BROWNSHANK & EBIER, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Mathews' Block, Petoskey, Mich.
A. J. BROWNSHANK. J. C. EBIER.

HUST & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

REUBEN W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. PETOSKEY TO LOAN.

H. A. JENKS, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

L. CEWERBY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OLE F. WINNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Western District. East Jordan, Mich.

W. N. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Mich. Collections a specialty.

W. N. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. C. P. VAN AKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.
J. T. INGHAM, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

RUFFSELL, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Homeopathic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

J. A. CARINTEEN, M. D.—Office at residence, corner of Mill and Mason streets.

I. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. W. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

BRACE S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Cadillac.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. L. E.—Baxter Post, No. 113, meets second Saturday in each month, at 1153 Jefferson st.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 291, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent, No. 136, meets second Thursday every month, at Odd Fellows hall.

I. O. L.—True Blues No. 127, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Barnard's school house.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over Hamilton's.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst Cashier.

BROWN & CO.'S
BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,
Capital, $25,000.

With superior facilities and prompt attention we have large and growing patronage. Drafts on Europe, Collections promptly made, Interest allowed on time deposits. Special attention to collect dividends and coupons on Michigan and Wisconsin securities (Government papers). Good securities bought and sold. Money in and from all points in Europe by best lines.

CORRESPONDENTS.

Chase National Bank, New York.
First National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants' and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit.
North National Bank, Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

OFFICERS.

President—Byron See.
First Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Robert Miller.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cronkhite, and J. L. Hurd.
Correspondence—Geo. Meredith, W. A. Brown, and C. V. Chase.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, D. B. Barnhart, M. J. Hackney, R. Cooper, Geo. W. Vogler, R. W. Miller, S. M. See, W. C. Newnan, W. Clark, H. Bricker.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to advertise the natural growth and prosperity of this and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

All interested, Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7.30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
Carpenter & Horse Shoeing Shop, Charlevoix.

HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Hanger,
And Decorator.

FINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

☞We have for distribution a number of copies of the annual report of the Michigan Agricultural Society for 1884, which may be had upon application at this office.

BUTTER AND EGGS wanted on subscription for the JOURNAL. Send and procure of all sales at market rates.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING
Dr. CROUTER'S
BAKING POWDER
Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.
If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.
It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.
It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops.
It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by
Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,
Chemist and Druggist,
BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,
ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,
Charlevoix, Michigan.
This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Daily sample room in Charlevoix.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. TERRILL, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Hood Stable in connection with the House. 12

FARMERS' HOTEL,
W. S. JOHNSON, Proprietor,
Antrim Street, near Village Hall, Charlevoix.
Location convenient for mechanics working in any of the factories on Round Lake, and for farmers coming to town. Feed stable for teams will be provided.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix - Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and reach. Express office, and headquarters for Petoskey and Boyne City traffic. Good sample room for commercial travelers. Adjoining hotel.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,
THATCHER & BLAIR, Proprietors.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Those having business at the county seat will find this the most convenient place to stay, and Manufacturers and Travelers will give the house their patronage, if they know it to be to their interest. TELEPHONE CONNECTION.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,
A. J. HALL, Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

Picture Frames
Made to Order.
A FINE ASSORTMENT OF MOULDINGS
To Select From.
O. I. WHEAT,
Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Mich.

Well-Digging.
JOHN SHRIER
Charlevoix, Mich.
Is prepared to do all work in the line of well-digging, cistern building, pump repairing, well drilling, and similar work.

THE GREAT GRANT BOOK.
Now and Personal Memories of Gen. Grant in one volume only $1.75. One agent sold 41 first day, 20,000 sold first week. A $1 engraving free to every purchaser. Agents wanted everywhere. Sales ten times more than any other book. Agents report sales of 20 to 100 per day. Address Bradley, Garretson & Co., Brantford, Ont., Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., Kansas City, Mo., Atlanta, Ga., or Dallas, Tex. 12m

"TERRACE FARM,"
Charlevoix, Mich.
J. R. & J. S. DIXON,
DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.
Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins
A SPECIALTY. 19

NEW HARNESS SHOP.
John Litzau has opened a harness shop in the building formerly occupied by Chalmpka's ball alley north of the bridge. A stock of new goods on hand, and repairing of all kinds done on short notice. Come and see me, north of the bridge. 17tf
JOHN LITZAU.

MISS L. SPAULDING,
DEALER IN
MILLINERY
AND
Fancy Goods.
Dressmaking Done in the Latest Styles.
Special attention given to
CHILDREN'S GARMENTS.
We would call the attention of the ladies to our TARPSICHOREAN DEPARTMENT.
☞We endeavor to do our work well and at Reasonable Prices. Come and see for yourself.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
47
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

W. M. WAGAR. W. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Third door west of Bridge Street House, whole-sale, Mich.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

Bound to Find Fault.

Because the secretary of the treasury lets contracts to the lowest responsible bidders, as required by the law, republican journals find fault with him and not with the law under which he acts. Bids for requiring the revenue cutter Crawford at Baltimore were recently made, but protests were presented against awarding the contract to the lowest bidder because, it was alleged, such bidder would employ imported labor. The matter was referred to the law officer of the department, who decided that the lowest bidder must have the award. What ever fault there is rests with the law, and not with the secretary of the treasury whose plain duty is to abide by it. If the law is wrong, change it. But suppose the secretary had let the contract to the highest bidder in defiance of law? Would not these same journals have charged him with favoritism—for squandering the people's money—for disobedience to the plain requirements of law? Certainly they would. They cannot be pleased. They will not be pleased. Whatever is done, they are agreed to howl uproriously at everything. When John Roach, late republican master, was carrying on a shipyard at Chester, Penn., and contracts were let to him, he being the lowest bidder, by the late republican secretary of the navy, did these journals condemn the secretary for his action? Not so far as heard from. And yet seven eights of the workmen employed by Roach were imported. He had Poles, Hungarians, Bohemians, etc., of recent importation, on his pay rolls. The law did not bar him from taking contracts then, nor does it bar the Baltimore firm now. The law gives the contracts to the lowest responsible bidder; and there, if anywhere, the faultfinders should let their anathemas fall.—Patriot.

Ovid Union: The past five years have been years of close competition in business, farm produce, of all kinds, ruled low, and cheap goods were demanded by everybody seeking to make new purchases. Manufacturers sought to supply that demand, and in fact, gave such a spur to the business of manufacturing cheap articles that that the market became flooded with a class of merchandise which was cheap in nothing else; the fidelity turning however, as those who sought economy in the purchase of cheap wares have found to their cost that they are dear at any price and now demand better goods at reasonable rates. The manufacturers will be only too glad to meet this demand and from a point where goods that cost them hard hold together were put upon the market, we are to return to more substantial articles of commerce, and best of all better times; not sudden, jerking, unnatural booms, but to a period reached after a long and tedious season of doll-paying, undertrading, natural business depression, and it is safe to say every class, the country over, will welcome a return of better and more healthy times.

The city papers find no end of fun in what they call the provincialism of country journalism. When the country journalist announces that Mr. Jones has built a new hen coop, that Mr. Brown is the father of a new baby, or that Mr. Robinson has been laid up with the ague, or that Mr. Smith has painted his back fence, it is very funny to the smart Alec who does the stealing from the country papers for the dailies. All the same we notice that the most successful metropolitan dailies are the ones that deal the most lavishly in these same kind of personalities. The only difference being that in a metropolis there are comparatively few who are known to the public, hence whose doings interest the reading public, while in the village everybody knows everybody and everybody takes an interest in everybody, and Brown, Jones, Robinson and Smith are of far greater importance than the Noodle Fitzsoodles who figure in the personal columns of a daily journalism.—Cheboygan Democrat.

The Grand Ledge Independent rightly says: Draw poker is correctly named. Besides drawing a man's money from him, it draws him from his family, drawn him from respectable and elevating society, draws him into evil and vicious associations, and too often results in his being drawn home dead drunk. Young man, isn't draw poker and its invariable surroundings, a pretty good game to draw away from permanently?

An exchange gives our idea exactly, when it says: "If you want your town to prosper, pull together. Differ as much as you please in politics and religion, but when it comes to matters pertaining to your interest and the prosperity and growth of your town, unite and pull together. If your neighbor proposes a measure that is calculated to promote public good, don't hold back because you didn't propose it yourself; but give it your hearty support and pull together. Don't hang back when your neighbors are working for your interest as well as theirs. Don't sneer and talk about "big heads," but take hold with a will and pull together. That town succeeds the best the citizens of which take pride in it, work for its success, each in his way, but all pull ing together, encouraging new comers and new enterprises."

Protection of American labor, indeed! Why, one-third of the population of Massachusetts was born in foreign lands. Take a look through the factories of the state and you will find almost no "American labor."—Jackson Patriot.

The era of prosperity is not coming on the run. It is feeling its way and halting sometimes for a surer foothold. But it is coming.—[Kansas City Journal.

The democratic party has had many trials, but it is relieved of the heavy business of trying to excuse Halstead for writing his '63 letters.—Dallas News.

Ben Franklin, one of the most successful diplomats ever sent to a foreign court, never forgot that he was an American.—Boston Globe.

Newspaper Notices.

DECEMBER PAGINA.—As soon as it became apparent that Moses King, the young publisher, of Harvard square, at Cambridge, Mass., had met an unprecedented success with his book called "Students' Songs—the sale already reaching nearly fifty thousand copies—several publishers brought out collections of so-called student or college songs. Some of them are legitimate competitors; but some appear so similar in shape, in title, in design or general make up, as to mislead a casual buyer or who may be intending to get a copy of the original "Students' Songs," which was edited by Wm. H. Hills, of the Harvard class of 1880, and published by Moses King of the Harvard class of 1881, the names of both appearing on the title page of the genuine collection only. The success of this collection is due chiefly to the freshness of its sixty copyrighted songs; comprising those jolly and melodious tunes and peculiar phrases which, within the last few years, have arisen and become generally popular among the students of all American colleges. The low price, too—fifty cents—and the attractive appearance, also, have had their influence in making "Students' Songs" the most successful book of its class ever published in this country.

The New York Evening Post offers its semi-weekly edition to new subscribers for the last three months of this year for 25 cents. Its make up includes, besides the matter in the full weekly, the leading editorials of the daily edition, foreign and domestic correspondence, personal, political and religious notes, book reviews, musical and dramatic criticism, farm, household, and fashion hints, selections from the best current foreign literature, etc. Owing to its throughly independent attitude upon all political questions, the views of the Evening Post are more eagerly sought and more widely copied than those of almost any other newspaper in the country. This was the case in the last presidential campaign, when, for reasons which it gave in advance of the nomination, it found itself unable to support the republican candidate. This has been the case also since the election, for the paper has again demonstrated its independence by promptly denouncing all departures of the new administration from the reform pledges upon which it was intrusted with power.

The October Babyhood gives its usual variety of topics relating to parents, by its well known editors, Marion Harland and Dr. Leroy M. Yale, and a corps of able contributors. Among the principal subjects are "The Precocious Baby" "Nipcy Cookery," "The Care of Baby's Eyes," "Contagion in Throat Troubles," "Art in the Nursery," "Thoughts on Home Training," "The Diet of Nursing Mothers," "Systematic Weaning," "Autumn Styles for Baby's Ward robe," etc. A letter from Vienna on Austrian baby matters in general, and another from an American mother in Japan, will be read with interest. 15 cents a number, $1.50 a year. 18 Spruce Street, New York.]

☞The price of "Bacon" Pomeroy's DEMOCRAT is $2.00 a year. By an arrangement with the publisher we can furnish it with the JOURNAL for $2.65 per year, cash in advance.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The courts have refused to set aside the assignment of Hitchkopf Brothers, clothing manufacturers, of New York, who failed for $1,000,000.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has made permanent the injunction recently granted restraining the sale to a syndicate of $5,000,000 of Pittsburgh municipal bonds at par with 1 per cent. commission.

Miss Emma Faulkner, of State College, N. Y., presented the contents of a lamp over her head and shoulders, then set fire to herself, and ran shrieking around the house. The fire was not extinguished until nearly all her clothing had been burned from her body. She died shortly after. She had attempted suicide before.

Four men armed with revolvers took possession of a Pennsylvania express train near Allegheny Junction, Pa., and while three of them stood guard over the passengers the fourth relieved them of their valuables. The conductor was lastly beaten, and one of the passengers was stabbed in the hand. The miscreants escaped to the woods, but were hotly pursued.

Eastern mills report an active demand for steel rails at $30 to $31 per ton.

Ex-Governor Talbot, of Massachusetts, died at Lowell, aged 77. Judge Theodore H. Wentworth, of the New York Supreme Court, was found dead in bed at a Troy hotel.

President Garrett of the Baltimore and Ohio asserts that his company has no idea of abandoning the construction of a New York line.

Ex-Governor James E. English, of Connecticut, was married in New York to Miss. A. R. Morris, of Brooklyn. He is 73 and she a bright brunette of about 30.

At the meeting of the trustees of the Peabody Educational Fund at New York it was shown that $35,000 had been paid the Southern States during the year. President Cleveland and J. Pierrepont Morgan were elected members of the board, succeeding General Grant and Samuel Wheltmore.

WESTERN.

A large amount of stock has died from hydrophobia in Gallatin County, Iowa. Hog cholera is thinning out the herds of farmers in Moultrie County, Illinois. State Veterinarian Hickcock, of Kansas, reports that hog cholera prevails in between thirty and forty counties in Kansas.

Four cars broke away from the first section of a circus train near Fergus Falls, Minn., and running down on a heavy grade struck the engine of the second section. Five men were killed and many others seriously wounded. Nearly two hundred men were asleep in the wrecked cars at the time.

There were 299 deaths in Chicago last week, against 256 for the preceding week.

At Bloomington, Ind., the jury in the case of Chesley Chambers, accused of the Smithville express robbery on April 29, disagreed, and was discharged.

The earnings of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway for the month of September were $2,785,000, an increase over the same month last year of $86,000. The earnings of the Chicago & Alton for the same time were $1,054,000, a decrease of $166,672.

Isaac Grove, Alfred Best, David E. Lewis, Charles Seal and Andrew W. Coboy were sentenced in the Third District Court at Salt Lake for unlawful cohabitation. All refused to pledge themselves to obey the law, and were sentenced to the full limit—six months' imprisonment and $300 fine.

The Grand Island Stag at Green River, Wyoming, after an investigation of the arsenic charge at Rock Springs, adjourned without returning any information.

In the town of Campton, Kane County, Ill., Albert Cook shot his wife and mother-in-law, killing the latter, who was 74 years old, instantly. Mrs. Cook, from whom her husband was divorced, is fatally injured. The murderer escaped.

The annual meeting of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad Company was held in Chicago. The gross earnings for the past twelve months were $1,000,112, an increase of 2.53 per cent. An increase of $38,318 is reported by the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad in its earnings for September as compared with those for the corresponding month of last year. Illinois Central earnings show an increase of $71,276, while the earnings of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad fell off $12,115.

A colored ex-Alderman of Matteoon, Ill., who refused to shave a negro living in that town, has been sued by the latter for $5,000 damages under the civil-rights law.

Capt. Thomas H. Hooles, for thirty years an officer in the United States navy, died at Bowling Green, Mo.

The new Egan election law has been declared unconstitutional by the Michigan Supreme Court, the full bench concurring.

As the inauguration of reform in his city and hatchet, George Cash, a grocer of Clinton, Ill., took all of his spotting paraphernalia to the public square and set fire to them.

Mrs. William McClusky, of Urbana, Ohio, poisoned herself and babe with morphine, the husband finding both in bed, carried in their best clothing. Both are dead.

SOUTHERN.

T. W. Hooper, late Judge at Helena, Ark., is charged with having issued bogus bonds to the amount of $7,000.

At Gallatin, Tenn., a livery stable was fired, supposedly by an incendiary, and all its contents, including twenty-one horses, burned.

The street-car drivers at Wheeling, W. Va., adopted a novel method of throwing stones and dynamite cartridges into the cars, and badly injured a working driver.

The negro Mahone, who outraged and killed Mrs. Walker near Milton, North Carolina, a few days ago, was taken from the officers who were conveying him to Danville and lynched.

The report that sixty convicts in camp near Larkin, Tex., had escaped, and that twenty-five of the fugitives had been killed by officers in pursuit, proves to have been greatly exaggerated. There were sixty convicts in camp, all of whom made mutinous demonstrations, but only fifteen had the courage to break through the lines and run. Nine of the latter were instantly killed, seven were severely wounded, and seven escaped.

The cotton crop of the Memphis district, embracing portions of Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Alabama, will exceed that of last year only in the extent of the increase in average acreage, or 47 per cent.

WASHINGTON.

Commodore Queen has been appointed to the command of the Washington Navy Yard, to succeed the late Commodore Sessions.

The Postmaster General has decided that no special deliveries of mail shall be made on Sunday.

Capt. Fred M. Crandall has been directed by the War Department to carry out the instructions of the Secretary of the Interior for the removal of unauthorized persons on the Cherokee lands in the Indian Territory west of the Arkansas River.

In attempting to put luck upon Brittsall, colored, who had come into the United States in violation of the restriction act, a customs officer on the Northwestern frontier has been confronted with a Canadian statute which provides that a fee of $50 per capita shall be paid for Chinese redumitted into the Dominion. A new situation has resulted, and the State Department is wrestling with the peculiar international question involved.

Washington telegram: "Information which has been received here privately shows beyond question that the Apache scouts employed by Gen. Crook were leading the soldiers on a wild-goose chase, affording Geronimo every opportunity to visit the reservation he deserted to supply himself with women, bacon, and ammunition. A sensational report working up in the Interior and War Departments which it is believed will eventually lead to the removal of Gen. Crook to another command and the substitution of an Indian-fighter with less faith in Indian truthfulness."

Chief Justice Waite has derived very great benefit from his three months' trip abroad, most of which time he spent in Rhenish baths, and he will shortly resume his duties. He will eventually feel to the removal of Gen. Crook to another command and the substitution of an Indian-fighter with less faith in Indian truthfulness."

Chief Justice Waite has derived very great benefit from his three months' trip abroad, most of which time he spent in Rhenish baths, and he will shortly resume his duties.

POLITICAL.

The President has appointed the following-named Presidential Postmasters: Benjamin F. Tessers, at Hillsdale, Kan., vice Hallman, resigned; Thomas M. Nelson, at Ottumwa, Iowa, vice Thomas Vanzyke, resigned; Samuel T. Carlton, at Harper, Kan., vice James G. Graham, resigned; Thomas R. Lowe, at Williamsburg, Kan., vice J. Coffman, resigned; Colin Campbell, at Florence, Kan., vice William Hubbard, resigned; Thomas Jackson, at Coldwater, Kan., vice James C. Tomlitt, resigned; Edward C. Hess, at Xenia, Ohio, vice Thomas Melleck, resigned; Forrest B. Wisden, at Tiffin, Ohio, vice Daniel Hubbard, resigned; C. Hathaway, at Red Sonia, Colo., vice W. H. Jackson, resigned; Jacob Rickenbaugh, at Dunkirk, Ohio, vice B. Hitsman, resigned; C. S. Clark, at Tombstone, Arizona, vice J. Chase, resigned; Charles W. Dingee, at Lansing, Mich., vice J. B. Emery, resigned; Thomas H. Fraser, at Lansing, Mich., vice W. L. Stevens, resigned; Henry S. Isaac, at Stockbridge, Mich., vice Charles Seymour, resigned; Ira M. Barker, at Lowell, Mass., vice Edward F. Jewett, resigned; A. H. Dustin, at Princeton, Kan., vice Robert M. Thomas, resigned; William E. Small, at Belvidere, Ill., vice Charles L. Loop, resigned; Lewis Ross, at Lincoln, Ill., vice Jacob Bogardus, resigned; Andrew Jackson Foley, McAlister, at Grand Rapids, Mich., vice G. Y. White, resigned; Postmaster Thomas Bowman, at Council Bluffs, vice Philip Armour, resigned; James W. Hoffin, at Marshall, Mich., vice Edward S. Rouse, resigned; Chas. Hoffman, at Ann Arbor, Mich., vice Chas. Mann, resigned; John H. Hill, at Goldsboro, N. C., vice Hiram Grant, suspended; Wm. H. Hessler, at Columbus, Neb., vice H. J. Hudson, suspended; Henry P. Howard, at San Antonio, Tex., vice J. N. Newcomb, suspended; Lafayette Lindsey, at Lyons, Mo., vice E. M. Kimball, suspended; E. L. Pennington, at Ottumwa, Iowa, vice Thomas Vanzyke, suspended; John B. Waterman, at Rockford, Ill., vice Thomas C. Lawler, suspended; J. C. Briggs, at Wyoming, Ills., vice H. I. Hornton, suspended; Walter W. Mercier, at Eureka, Kan., vice Thomas Bard, suspended; Charles Ashby, at Washington, Kan., vice Thomas Ashby, suspended; Isaiah Harrell, at Monmouth, Ill., vice A. H. Dibner, at Olympia, W. T., vice James W. Hale, suspended.

The nominations of over one thousand postmasters will come before the Senate at its next session. At the present rate of progress it will require two years to change all the Presidential postmasters in the country.

The Massachusetts Democratic Convention was held at Worcester, with John E. Fitzgerald as Permanent Chairman. Ex-Mayor Frederick O. Prince, of Boston, was nominated by the first ballot, was unanimous for Governor on the second ballot. The remainder of the ticket is as follows: Lieutenant Governor, H. H. Gilmore; Secretary of State, Jeremiah Crowley; Attorney General, Henry K. Braley; Treasurer, Henry M. Cross; Auditor, James E. Delaney. The platform congratulates the country upon the election and inauguration of a Democratic President and Vice President; expresses confidence that Mr. Cleveland's policy will establish the civil service on a broad basis of justice and equality, "not creating an official class which shall intrench itself and the people, but giving to all honest and capable citizens the right to be appointed for public employment; commends the Australian system of the Commonwealth, adoption of which the administration, and demands the enactment by the Legislature of various measures for the benefit of laboring men.

Judge B. M. Curry, of Virginia, has been appointed United States Minister to Spain, and Charles A. Zollinger as United States Treasurer Agent at Indianapolis. A Washington special says the appointment of Mr. Curry as Minister to Spain creates some surprise, mainly because the appointment of a clergyman to any political office is unusual.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Over four hundred deaths from smallpox occurred in Montreal during the week. Illness gathered around the Exposition Buildings, which had been used for nine months as a smallpox hospital, intending to destroy the building. They shot and severely wounded the sentry, when the Victoria Rifles, which occupied the grounds, appeared, and the others took to the woods.

Rains, drought, and worms have done much damage to cotton and corn in Yazoo County. Heavy rains prevailed South and East. In Virginia wind and rain did considerable damage to persons and property. Heavy frosts visited portions of the West on Saturday, but no damage is reported. Cotton plants in bloom were killed in the State of Mississippi and slightly were treated on Sunday in a severe snowstorm.

The fire losses for September in the United States and Canada are computed at $6,325,000—$3,750,000 less than during the corresponding month of last.

The Dominion Commissioners appointed to settle the fishery dispute between the United States in violation of the restriction act, a customs officer on the Northwestern frontier has been confronted with a Canadian statute which provides that a fee of $50 per capita shall be paid for Chinese redumitted into the Dominion. A new situation has resulted, and the State Department is wrestling with the peculiar international question involved.

Washington telegram: "Information which has been received here privately shows beyond question that the Apache scouts employed by Gen. Crook were leading the soldiers on a wild-goose chase, affording Geronimo every opportunity to visit the reservation he deserted to supply himself with women, bacon, and ammunition. A sensational report working up in the Interior and War Departments which it is believed will eventually lead to the removal of Gen. Crook to another command and the substitution of an Indian-fighter with less faith in Indian truthfulness."

Chief Justice Waite has derived very great benefit from his three months' trip abroad, most of which time he spent in Rhenish baths, and he will shortly resume his duties. He will eventually feel to the removal of Gen. Crook to another command and the substitution of an Indian-fighter with less faith in Indian truthfulness."

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

At San Francisco, a building owned by Charles Crocker, on the Central Pacific Railway, and occupied by a wholesale machinery and printing firm and other concerns, was burned with the contents, the loss exceeding $200,000. Four men were buried in the ruins.

A Salt Lake telegram says: "Trials for polygamy and unlawful cohabitation in this Territory have come to an end for this year. Several cases were put over till the next term of court, in the latter part of December, but it is said there will be no more trials till February. W. H. Newman, whose polygamous wife has been in the penitentiary for months for contempt in refusing to tell who was the father of her child, was released from the penitentiary on his unlawful cohabitation, involving five years and six months in the penitentiary and $800 fine, if the Judge imposes the maximum sentence, as he invariably does when the prisoner shows no disposition to repent. Sentence will be pronounced next week. F. H. Hansen, over six months and $300. While the trials have closed, the grand jury is steadily finding indictments. The Mormons first sent to the penitentiary are now about coming out, and no effect is being made by the Government to reimburse them for what loss of the law between the two juries intervened and trial. The Mormons show no inclination to stop, and the Government is more determined than ever to punish polygamists."

Five white men and two Indians who were engaged in the recent anti-Chinese riot near Seattle, Washington Territory, have been indicted for murder in the first degree.

The street-car strike at St. Louis culminated in a serious riot. The mob, which numbered several thousand, began work on Pine street, between Sixth and Tenth, and in an extremely brief space of time succeeded in wrecking twenty cars. All the conductors escaped, but a driver who was knocked down and thrown under the wheels cannot live. A number of males were so badly injured that they had to be taken to the hospital. The mob, when the Superintendent Scullin of the Union Depot line was knocked down. An attempt to secure his assailants brought on a fierce fight between the mob and police, which ended in the triumph of the latter, over fifty arrests were made while the original outbreak was at its height, and many more followed in the evening. The men have no sympathy other means of wreaking vengeance on the streetcar companies, and the outbreak night proved a turbulent one for the city.

The first joint debate between Gov. Foraker and Judge Dickson, candidates respectively for Governor of Ohio, occurred at Toledo on the evening of the 9th inst., and drew an immense crowd. A Toledo dispatch says: "In the course of Hoadly's remarks he said that Abraham Lincoln died a martyrdom. What he intended to say was that if he had lived three months longer he would have been a Democrat. When Foraker recited his record, Hoadly began to interrupt, and said that Lincoln, instead of dying a Democrat, died by the hand of a Democrat. Much excitement prevailed during the last part of the debate, but it soon quieted."

The following letter from Secretary Manning explains itself:

WASHINGTON, OCT. 8, 1885.

Allen R. Parker, Esq., Chairman Executive Committee Democratic State Committee, New York City:

DEAR SIR—It is my intention to go to Albany next month, for the purpose of voting for the Democratic ticket, which should be, and I believe will be, elected. I have no doubt that President Cleveland will do likewise. While Governor of the State he never failed to go to Buffalo to exercise the right, and I am sure he feels it to be his duty to do so. Certainly I feel it to be a matter for the success of the ticket headed by Gov. Hill as he has for the last three years, and I have been asked to vote for twenty three years mon. Yours sincerely yours,

DANIEL MANNING.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK
BEEVES	$4.00	@ 6.35
HOGS	4.60	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.90	@ .90
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.96	@ .97
CORN—No. 2	.47	@ .47
OATS—No. 2	.28	@ .28
PORK—Mess	9.50	@10.00
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	3.75	@ 4.25
HOGS—Packing and Shipping	4.50	@ 5.00
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 4.50
FLOUR—Spring Extras	4.00	@ 4.50
FLOUR—Winter Extras	3.75	@ 4.10
WHEAT—No 2 Spring	.77	@ .78
CORN—No. 2	.42	@ .43
OATS—No. 2	.26	@ .26
RYE—No. 2	.59	@ .60
BARLEY—No. 2	.59	@ .61
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.22	@ .23
Fine Dairy	.15	@ .18
CHEESE—Full Cream, new	.09½	@ .10
EGGS—Fresh	.20	@ .21
POTATOES—Carlots per bu	.45	@ .50
PORK—Mess	8.90	@ 8.95
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2	.81	@ .81
CORN—No. 3	.38	@ .38
OATS—No. 2	.27	@ .27
RYE—No. 1	.58	@ .59
BARLEY—No. 2	.60	@ .61
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—No. 2	.85	@ .86
CORN—No. 2	.43	@ .43
OATS—No. 2	.28	@ .28
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.85	@ .86
CORN—No. 2	.37	@ .37
OATS—No. 2	.24	@ .25
RYE—No. 2	.56	@ 5.00
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.95	@ .95
CORN—No. 2	.43	@ .43
OATS—Mixed	.27	@ .28
RYE—No. 2	.60	@ .61
PORK—Mess	8.50	@ 9.00
DETROIT.
BEEVES—Choice Cattle	3.75	@ 4.00
HOGS	3.75	@ 4.25
SHEEP—Fair to Good	3.00	@ 3.50
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.91	@ .92
CORN—No. 2	.45	@ .45
OATS—No. 2	.29	@ .29
INDIANAPOLIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.85	@ .85
CORN—Mixed	.41	@ .41
OATS—No. 2	.27	@ .27
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Best	4.00	@ 4.60
Fair	4.00	@ 4.00
Common	3.50	@ 3.75
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP	3.75	@ 4.25
BUFFALO.
CATTLE	4.00	@ 4.60
HOGS	4.00	@ 4.50
SHEEP	3.50	@ 4.75

MICHIGAN AFFAIRS.

—Reform takes the shape of dime tea, prunes—no, as at Sault Ste. Marie.

—Hogans City people are trying to persuade Congress to build a breakwater at that port.

—Lansville is to have a second paper—a monthly—to be published in the interest of the schools.

—Ind. for Hill Democrats—Said to be out there was not a manual store to rent this year, and there will be no more trials till February. W. H. Newman, whose polygamous wife has been in the penitentiary for months for contempt in refusing to tell who was the father of her child, was released from the penitentiary on his unlawful cohabitation, involving five years and six months in the penitentiary and $800 fine, if the Judge imposes the maximum sentence, as he invariably does when the prisoner shows no disposition to repent. Sentence will be pronounced next week. F. H. Hansen, over six months and $300. While the trials have closed, the grand jury is steadily finding indictments. The Mormons first sent to the penitentiary are now about coming out, and no effect is being made by the Government to reimburse them for what loss of the law between the two juries intervened and trial. The Mormons show no inclination to stop, and the Government is more determined than ever to punish polygamists."

—Five white men and two Indians who were engaged in the recent anti-Chinese riot near Seattle, Washington Territory, have been indicted for murder in the first degree.

—The street-car strike at St. Louis culminated in a serious riot. The mob, which numbered several thousand, began work on Pine street, between Sixth and Tenth, and in an extremely brief space of time succeeded in wrecking twenty cars. All the conductors escaped, but a driver who was knocked down and thrown under the wheels cannot live. A number of males were so badly injured that they had to be taken to the hospital. The mob, when the Superintendent Scullin of the Union Depot line was knocked down. An attempt to secure his assailants brought on a fierce fight between the mob and police, which ended in the triumph of the latter, over fifty arrests were made while the original outbreak was at its height, and many more followed in the evening. The men have no sympathy other means of wreaking vengeance on the streetcar companies, and the outbreak night proved a turbulent one for the city.

—Miss Alice B. Doddin, of Coldwater, a graduate of the academic and law department of the University of Michigan, has entered the Yale College Law School. She is the first lady ever entered in any department of Yale outside of the art school.

—William Thingand and William Imbaring, of Freeland, died somewhat suddenly of their homes Saturday, aged 71 and 78 years, respectively. They were fast friends, had resided in the county for thirty-five years, respectively, and were buried in the same grave.

—General Phil Sheridan and Lieut Silas Seaver Fifteen—Fifteen—Fifteen—

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

The Ohio Election.

At time of going to press Thursday morning we have nothing definite from Ohio, but private dispatches announce the republicans ahead by a small majority.

Notes and News.

One of the most compact and complete statistical volumes we have ever seen concerning Michigan has just been received from the general passenger department of the Michigan Central Railway Company, at Chicago, entitled "Facts and Figures About Michigan." It not only contains a vast amount of valuable information in regard to the state at large, but a full roster of national, state and county officials, with a statement of the condition and business traffic of the various railways, lists of railway officials, railroad stations with mileage and telegraph facilities, express companies, the newspaper press, post offices and political and economical statistics. It is just such a publication as every business man should have at hand, and can be secured by sending 15 cents to O. W. Ruggles, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago.

The American Missionary Association, which is to hold its thirty-ninth annual meeting at Madison, Wis., Oct. 27-29, is a national benevolent society, almost entirely supported by Congregationalists. Its work is chiefly educational, and mainly at the south among the colored people. Its schools and churches are to be found in every southern state. It is the largest society of its kind in the country. It spends in its work about $300,000 annually. The meeting promises to be one of unusual interest. The papers and discussions will relate chiefly to the educational aspects of the negro and Indian problems. Prof. Albert Salisbury, of the Whitewater, Wis., State Normal School, will present a paper. Gen. W. Cable, Esq., Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlin, of Maine, and many other distinguished men are to attend and address the conference. Ex-Gov. Washburn, of Massachusetts, is its president.

Breeze's Herald gives a two column "explanation" of some of the bottom facts of the publication of the Cleveland scandal in the Detroit Journal last year. It seems that a majority of the stock of the concern was held by republicans, who were anxious to make the paper a Blaine organ, to which Breeze objected. Having payments then coming due for the new perfecting press, advantage was taken of his circumstances to compel him to accept help from the republican state central committee, through Wm. Livingstone, Jr., in return for which the Journal was to publish certain matters favorable to the republican party. At the time of the publication of the scandal in the Buffalo Telegraph, Breeze was so thoroughly in the clutches of the agents of the republican state central committee that he could not prevent its publication. About a week after its publication, it will be remembered, an editorial was published, headed "Not Proven." Breeze had instituted an investigation, and desired to give the public the truth. This was the cause of his trouble which ended in throwing him out of the Journal company entirely. If this statement is true, and surface indications in the past seem to prove it, it lies the responsibility of the publication of the scandal clearly enough, and also defines the position of the Journal politically, notwithstanding its claim of independence.

The editors of the state, on the occasion of their meeting the past summer, were entertained by Hon. Perry Hanmh in a truly sumptuous manner. A committee selected for the purpose has prepared, for present from to the gentlemen, a badge, of which the following is a description. In size this elegant testimonial is five and one-half by two inches. The design is composed of various emblems and inscriptions upon a ground of elegant white satin. At the upper end the satin ground is crossed by a bar of yellow gold bearing the name of the recipient in raised polished letters; beneath the bar is a handsome engraved scroll, depending from this bar is the center pendant containing the inscription "From Michigan Editors," with an ink bottle and two quill pens crossed, these emblems being raised in differently hued gold. Beneath this device is a second bar of yellow gold having upon it in raised letters the dates "July 6, 7, 8, 1885." From this bar is suspended the principal emblematic pendant. This has a flat back of yellow Roman gold, on which is raised in full relief the old time hand press. The press is worked up in very fine style, each part being placed in position as in the full sized machine from which it was copied. The press is surrounded by a wreath of gold, one side representing laurel leaves, the other oak. The wreath is fully up to the rest of the workmanship of the badge, being put together leaf by leaf. We will add that no description can do justice to this gem of art. It must be seen and studied to be appreciated."—Newspaper Union.

Collector Watson.

The democracy of this gentleman having been questioned, a writer in the Grand Rapids Democrat gives the following concerning his record:

Mr. Watson's record as a democrat shows that since he became a voter in 1878 he has been selected by the democrats of Ottawa county, in convention assembled, to represent them in every democrat state convention held in Michigan and every congressional convention held in the Fifth district and has also been appointed each year on the democratic county committee. In the summer of 1884 he was chairman of the democratic county convention, which selected delegates to attend the democratic state convention at Detroit, and was made chairman of the Ottawa county delegation to the democratic congressional convention which met at Grand Rapids last fall.

The democrats of his town have elected him a delegate to every democratic county convention held during the same period, and for four years past he has been the chairman of the democratic committee of his township.

If any man in fifth or ninth districts can show better certificates of democracy, let him come forward.

PRIVATE ADVERTISING.

Why Cards, Circulars, and the Like, Are Failures as Advertising Mediums.

Within the last few years it has become the fashion with some people to do their advertising in their own private way, instead of through the newspapers. Some distribute cards, some circulars, some pamphlets, some even almanacs and some inconceivable monstrosities of orthity, circulating them by the hundreds or thousands through the mails. The printer's art has been taxed to the utmost to gratify the tastes of these advertisers. Some of the times as well as some of the finest specimens of the arts of engraving, of chromo-lithographing and of color-printing as being produced for these purposes, and every conceivable style of fancy paper is brought into requisition. The advertiser vies with each other in the elegance of their designs and the cuttiness of their devices, taking it for granted that the receivers will conform their estimate of the status of the advertiser to the artistic pretensions of his advertisement. Some people may hope that the noble art of printing, at the period of its highest achievement should be subjected to such debasing use; but, to those who thus employ the art, it should be equally a matter of concern that the debasement so completely fails of the object for which it was intended. With him who notices such advertisements at all, the first feeling on receiving one of these superb specimens of typography or engraving is apt to be one of disgust that it refuses to the artistic pursuits of his butcher or his boot maker, or that the antiquities of his elegant illustrations are chairs and tables, refrigerators and brooms, he throws it down with an indefinable grudge against the man who has been guilty of such a ridiculous prostitution of art, and, without exactly knowing it, he is distinctly convinced that a tradesman who spends so much money in such an incongruous way is not likely to be endowed with the common sense of a good man of business or to sell cheaply.

In truth, however, those who take any notice whatever of this flood of announcements form but a very small percentage of those who receive them. They have come to be the nuisances of both the parlor and the counting-room. At home they are never opened but with disappointment, because they come in the place of letters really hoped for. In the office the merchant finds his morning mail stuffed with these intrusions upon the serious affairs of his business, which he invariably curses or impatiently consigns to his waste-paper hemp. In short, if a public vote should be taken, it would unanimously declare these drumming missives to be an intolerable nuisance that should be denied the privilege of the mails.

Men of business who resort to this method of advertising can not be ignorant of the fact that the people whom they would reach have become numbed with it. They must be aware that they themselves disregard all such appeals for patronage; and what reason have they to suppose that others receive their applications with more patience? Sagacious advertisers are beginning to see this, and are returning to the old method of public announcement. The newspaper is, in every sense, the best medium for advertising, and, for a given result, it is by much the cheapest also. It reaches a far greater number of possible customers than any private announcement can; and it is more certain to receive attention. The private circular is thrown aside as a thing which people have come to regard as a bore, and which is neglected because its recipients have no time to attend to it. The newspaper is used in each day's hour of leisure, and readers find interest in reading its advertisements as well as its news, because of the variety they present and the information they convey respecting a wide diversity of interests. It may be safely estimated that an announcement made through the press is noticed by fifty readers, where, made in a private way, it would reach but one. If, therefore, the same amount were expended in either case, the result would be fifty-fold better from the former method than from the latter. There can, undoubtedly, cases in which the circular is a better medium than the newspaper. Such, for instance, as where the matter is necessarily lengthy and the cost of newspaper space would therefore be very large. But such cases are quite exceptional; and the sooner advertisers learn the folly of their present large expenditures in seeking publicity through private means, the better for their pockets and their success.—New York Commercial Bulletin.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS default has been made in the payment of the interest on the money secured by a mortgage bearing date the second day of August, 1881, executed by Jesse H. Meade and Sarah Meade his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary Ann W. Edmonds, of New York City, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, of the County of Charlevoix, in Liber A of Mortgages, on page 365, on the sixth day of August, 1881, and the said mortgage has elected to consider the whole amount of principal and interest due.

AND WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, is the sum of One Hundred Eighty (180) Dollars, of principal and interest, and the further sum of Twenty (20) Dollars, attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no proceeding in law or equity having been instituted to recover the debt so secured, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that in virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the place of holding the circuit court in said County of Charlevoix, on the twenty-second day of December, 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of that day; which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, viz.: The East half of the South West quarter of Section Nineteen (19), in township Thirty-four (34) north of range Seven (7) west, containing forty acres more or less.

Dated Sept. 24, 1885.

GEORGE W. EMERSON,
Mortgagee.

PALMBORG & GEORGE,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Petoskey, Mich. 127

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, made on the 4th day of June, made and dated on the twenty-ninth day of February, A. D. 1885, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Frank E. Fitch is complainant, and Martin V. Dyer, and Ezra S. Knowles are defendants, notice is hereby given, that I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the place of holding the circuit court in the village of East Jordan, in the township of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and that being the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Friday, the 20th day of November, A. D. 1885, at twelve o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise the amount due to the said complainant, of principal and said mortgage, interest thereon, and costs of said cause, the following described parcel of land to wit: All that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Evelyne, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake, may be found by running north forty-eight (48) degrees east, seven (7) links and north six (6) degrees east, thirty-seven (37) links and north forty-eight (48) degrees east, five (5) links and two (2) links to a stake from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north and south quarter stake of section thirty-two (32) in township thirty-four (34) north range six (6) west, intersects said beach, thence south forty-two (42) degrees west three (3) chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east, twenty-five (25) links to a stake, thence south forty-two (42) degrees west, twenty-six (26) links to the channel bank of Pine Lake, thence south forty-four (44) degrees east two (2) chains and fifty (50) links, to the place of beginning, containing one and 5-10 acres of land together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining, and the rents, issues and profits thereof, and all the buildings and improvements thereon situated, in accordance with the decree of said decree.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FITCH,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.
CRICKMAY & SON,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 117

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the twenty-sixth day of August, A. D. 1881, by Elias Pelegrams, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of the first part, to William S. Sargent, of Rock Island, Illinois, of the second part, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the county aforesaid, on the twelfth day of September, A. D. 1881, in liber "S" of Mortgages, on page 296, which mortgage was on the second day of March, A. D. 1885, assigned by said William H. Sargent to Margaret K. Hackney, of Berrien county, Michigan, said assignment being recorded in said office of Register of Deeds, in said liber "S" of mortgages, in the registry of said county, on page 426; by virtue of which default the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative, and whereas, at the date of this notice, there is claimed to be due upon said mortgage for principal and interest the sum of Two Hundred Eighty (280) Dollars, no suit or proceeding to collect said debt instituted or to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now pending, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and the statutes of Michigan in such cases made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, to wit: Lots one (1) and two (2) in block thirty-three (33) north of range five (5) west, containing 16 acres more or less

Dated Sept. 24, 1885.

GEORGE W. EMERSON,
Mortgagee.

PALTSBORG & GEORGE,
Attorney for Mortgagee,
Petoskey, Mich. 127

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, made on the 4th day of June, made and dated on the twenty-ninth day of February, A. D. 1885, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Frank E. Fitch is complainant, and Martin V. Dyer, and Ezra S. Knowles are defendants, notice is hereby given, that I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the place of holding the circuit court in the village of East Jordan, in the township of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and that being the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Friday, the 20th day of November, A. D. 1885, at twelve o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise the amount due to the said complainant, of principal and said mortgage, interest thereon, and costs of said cause, the following described parcel of land to wit: All that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Evelyne, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake, may be found by running north forty-eight (48) degrees east, seven (7) links and north six (6) degrees east, thirty-seven (37) links and north forty-eight (48) degrees east, five (5) links and two (2) links to a stake from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north and south quarter stake of section thirty-two (32) in township thirty-four (34) north range six (6) west, intersects said beach, thence south forty-two (42) degrees west three (3) chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east, twenty-five (25) links to a stake, thence south forty-two (42) degrees west, twenty-six (26) links to the channel bank of Pine Lake, thence south forty-four (44) degrees east two (2) chains and fifty (50) links, to the place of beginning, containing one and 5-10 acres of land together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining, and the rents, issues and profits thereof, and all the buildings and improvements thereon situated, in accordance with the decree of said decree.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FITCH,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.
CRICKMAY & SON,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 117

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the twenty-sixth day of August, A. D. 1881, by Elias Pelegrams, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of the first part, to William S. Sargent, of Rock Island, Illinois, of the second part, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the county aforesaid, on the twelfth day of September, A. D. 1881, in liber "S" of Mortgages, on page 296, which mortgage was on the second day of March, A. D. 1885, assigned by said William H. Sargent to Margaret K. Hackney, of Berrien county, Michigan, said assignment being recorded in said office of Register of Deeds, in said liber "S" of mortgages, in the registry of said county, on page 426; by virtue of which default the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative, and whereas, at the date of this notice, there is claimed to be due upon said mortgage for principal and interest the sum of Two Hundred Eighty (280) Dollars, no suit or proceeding to collect said debt instituted or to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now pending, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and the statutes of Michigan in such cases made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, to wit: Lots one (1) and two (2) in block thirty-three (33) north of range five (5) west, containing 16 acres more or less

Dated Sept. 24, 1885.

GEORGE W. EMERSON,
Mortgagee.

PALTSBORG & GEORGE,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Petoskey, Mich. 127

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, made on the 4th day of June, made and dated on the twenty-ninth day of February, A. D. 1885, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Frank E. Fitch is complainant, and Martin V. Dyer, and Ezra S. Knowles are defendants, notice is hereby given, that I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the place of holding the circuit court in the village of East Jordan, in the township of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and that being the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Friday, the 20th day of November, A. D. 1885, at twelve o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise the amount due to the said complainant, of principal and said mortgage, interest thereon, and costs of said cause, the following described parcel of land to wit: All that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Evelyne, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake, may be found by running north forty-eight (48) degrees east, seven (7) links and north six (6) degrees east, thirty-seven (37) links and north forty-eight (48) degrees east, five (5) links and two (2) links to a stake from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north and south quarter stake of section thirty-two (32) in township thirty-four (34) north range six (6) west, intersects said beach, thence south forty-two (42) degrees west three (3) chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east, twenty-five (25) links to a stake, thence south forty-two (42) degrees west, twenty-six (26) links to the channel bank of Pine Lake, thence south forty-four (44) degrees east two (2) chains and fifty (50) links, to the place of beginning, containing one and 5-10 acres of land together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining, and the rents, issues and profits thereof, and all the buildings and improvements thereon situated, in accordance with the decree of said decree.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FITCH,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.
CRICKMAY & SON,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 117

A LARGE STOCK OF

New Goods

JUST RECEIVED.

Particulars Next Week.

GEO. W. MILLER.

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

BOYNE CITY

CLOTHING AND DRY GOODS

By Car Load,

Have arrived, and more to follow within a few days, for the

STAR

Clothing & Dry Goods House

Of Boyne City.

All or nearly all of the goods will be placed in position and ready for inspection on the 8th inst.

We cordially invite each and every purchaser of Dry Goods and Clothing to come and examine our STOCK and learn our PRICES, and compare with others and judge for yourself for the best of your interest. We are confident that you will be WELL REPAID FOR YOUR TROUBLE.

Our Motto is: Strictly One Price to All, and Every Article as Represented or Money Refunded, at the Star Clothing & Dry Goods House.

BOYNE CITY, MICH.

Provision Market.

(Retail prices to consumers, corrected every Thursday evening, by DEMOREST & EMREY, grocers.)

FLOUR, per bbl., $5.50, $5.75, and $6.50.
CORN MEAL, per cwt., bolted $2.00; unbolted $1.75.
RYE, per bbl., $3.00.
BUCKWHEAT, per bbl., $3.00.
POTATOES, per bbl., 200@40c.
APPLES, per bbl., $1.00@1.50.
ONIONS, per bbl., 200.
BEANS, per bbl., $1.80@2.00.
BUTTER, per lb., 18@20c.
EGGS, per doz., 18c.
LARD, per lb., 12@c.
PORK, per lb., 9@10c.
HAMS, per lb., 12@c.
SHOULDERS, per lb., 8@9c.
SALT PORK, per lb., 10@12c.
DRIED BEEF, 20c.
CHICKENS, per lb. 12@c.
KEROSENE OIL—Water White 20c.; Legal 18c.
Eggers' produce in good demand.

Fresh and Cured Meats.

BEEF—Steak 10@12c; Roast 10@12½c. Stew 6@c.
PORK—Steak 10c; Roast 10c.
MUTTON—Chops 10@12½c.
LAMB 12c.
VEAL 12c.
HAMS 12@c.

Local Notes and News.

Mr. C. Pemble has moved to his farm.

Call and see O. I. Wheat's new spring frames.

F. W. Wilcox returned to Kalamazoo Tuesday.

Board of supervisors in session at Jordan this week.

M. Washburn's new house begins to assume fair proportions.

Song service at the M. E. church next Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A. G. D. McCabe bought three fat cattle week, to supply his market.

The iron columns for the front of Cook's building were raised yester day.

John Hogan is out again after his health will rheumatism for nine weeks.

Speaking at M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening. All invited.

A. Leonard returned home from Chicago, on the Lawrence, Monday morning.

John Allen expects to commence next week to build a new machine shop in South Arm.

J. Stockman walks lame now; a piece that dropped on his foot while hoeing for him.

From the top of the new mill one gets a magnificent view of Charlevoix and surroundings.

D. D. Wand is doing some good work this week, especially on Bay, Mason and Clinton streets.

Elk Rapids has three delivery wagons running nearly all the time, and supports three drugs.

Election of officers of the Historical Society at the Bridge Street house to-morrow night.

Young people's meeting at the M. E. church next Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, to be led by William Stover.

R. P. Potter is selling from house to house a good quality of knit goods, —socks, mittens, etc. Give his goods a trial.

Bellaire Breeze: Fred W. Mayne, attorney, of Charlevoix, visited Bellaire, Monday, with John and Harry Nicholls.

W. J. Stevenson is enclosing the basement of his shop, which was recently raised up three feet, and will convert it into a store-room for material.

Beaver Island farmers now market their wheat at Elk Rapids. When the Charlevoix mill is completed, we shall expect to get a portion of their crop here.

Judge Baxter, of Grand Rapids last Friday sentenced Henry Curkendall, of Boyne City, to four years in the Detroit house of correction for counterfeiting coin

The American Pharmacist for October contains an excellent portrait and brief biography of our townsman, G. W. Cromter, president of the Michigan Pharmaceutical Association.

Mrs. Bardeen and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Bishop returned to Kalamazoo on Monday. Miss Sutliff started on Tuesday. But two families now remain at the resort.

Elk Rapids Progress: As iron has been found near St. Ignace it is about time that some enterprising man should inspect the petroleum fields on S. S. Spaulding's place near Norwood.

Bellaire Breeze: Mr. Stigar has his schooner, the Fair Play, at Charlevoix, where he is getting a cabin built the whole length of her, and expects to start for Florida the 18th of October.

Rev. E. H. Day publishes an open letter to W. R. Stinchcomb in the Traverse Journal strongly sustaining the recent charges made by the Journal. That paper seems to be proving its statements.

We have received from the retiring secretary the proceedings of the Michigan Press Association, held at Traverse City last July, including an account of the excursion, and the feast at Charlevoix.

The following curious sentence contains all the letters of the English alphabet: "A quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog." Can any one of our boys or girls find a shorter one embracing the required letters.

Clare News: Judging from what we see in the Charlevoix Journal, Geo. W. Jefferies, a former old Clarite, must be doing considerable building at Charlevoix, for the week ending Tuesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1884:

	1885.	1884.
Hardwood lumber, feet	270,000	50,000
Shingles	400,000
Railroad ties	4,400
Cedar posts	5,200
Wood, cords	530	200
Pine lumber, feet	500
Pig iron, cwts	300
Anchors, chains, oil iron, etc., tons	26

The Smallest Watch in the World.

A small, gold pendolder, resting in a rich velvet case, lay on a jeweler's showcase in John street, last week. The end of the holder was shapped like an elongated cushion, and was an inch long. A faint musical ticking that issued from it attracted a customer's attention. The jeweler lifted the holder from the case, with a smile, and exhibited a tiny watch that, 1-16th of an inch in diameter, set in the side was two other dials almost as small. One indicated the day, and the other the month of the year. The tender did not tick off seconds, minutes, and hours.

"This is the smallest watch ever made," the jeweler said, "and the only one of its kind in the world. It took a Geneva watchmaker the better part of two years to fit the part together so that they would work accurately. It has been exhibited in London and Paris."

The works of the watch were so that they fitted together in the holder. The mainspring was an elongated coil of steel fitted to the wheels by a tiny cross, and worked like an old-fashioned clock weight. The works were wound by means of a little screw of gold on the under side of the handle. A good jun was fitted into the holder, and the jeweler wrote with it without disturbing the operation of the fairy watch.

"What's the price?" the customer asked.

"A round $500," replied the jeweler, laughing.—New York Sun.

The Friant has seven carloads of machinery and one of house-hold goods to draw from Harbor Springs to South Arm this week, for the Wilson Hoop Co. Next week she will have from four to six carloads of flour and feed for the East Jordan merchants.

L. D. Bartholomew & Co. have enlarged their salesroom by cutting a large double door way into the rooms formerly occupied by Brown & Co.'s bank, and moving their office and a portion of their stock. This change is necessary to accommodate their large and increasing trade.

At the meeting of the council last week, Chas. Swallow was elected trustee to fill the unexpired term of Chas. Ely. The marshal was instructed to keep the crosswalks clear of all obstructions. The resignation of street commissioner Johnson was requested, and has since been handed in.

Mrs. Litney is moving her millinery goods to the new building this week. She has associated with her, Mrs. Carr, of Sutton's Bay, and the firm will add to the present stock, with the intention of making it the largest and finest stock of millinery in the county, if not in several adjoining counties. They will be ready for business again by Saturday.

Masonic Resolutions.

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Great Architect of the Universe to remove from our midst our late brother Lemuel W. Skinner, and

WHEREAS, It is but just that a fitting recognition of his many virtues should be had, therefore it is

Resolved, By Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, that while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn for our brother who has been taken from us.

Resolved, That in the death of Lemuel W. Skinner, this Lodge bassens the loss of a brother who was ever ready to proffer the hand of aid and the voice of sympathy to the needy and distressed of the fraternity; an active member of this society, whose endeavors were exerted for its welfare and prosperity; a friend and companion we dear to us all.

Resolved, That the heartfelt sympathy of this Lodge be extended to his family in their affliction.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Lodge and a copy thereof be transmitted to the family of our deceased brother, and to each of the newspapers of Charlevoix.

RICHARD COOPER,
W. C. NEWMAN,
H. LEE IDDINGS,
Committee.

Shipments.

Below we give a summary of the shipments as reported from the customs house, Charlevoix, for the week ending Tuesday evening, and for the corresponding week of 1884:

Hardwood lumber, feet	180,000	394,000
Shingles	402,000	50,000
Railroad ties	4,400
Cedar posts	5,200
Wood, cords	530	200
Pine lumber, feet	500
Pig iron, cwts	300
Anchors, chains, oil iron, etc., tons	26

New Goods

JUST RECEIVED.

Read our New Ad. Next Week.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Successors to Amos Fox.

SCHOOL BOOK DEPOT.

School Bags, School Books, Slates, Pencils, Pens, Ink, Rulers, Blank Books, Teachers' Registers,

AND IN FACT

Every Article Used in the School Room.

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

THE KEYS.

The Kidneys and Liver are the keys to woman's health. If these organs are in a healthy condition no fear need be entertained of sickness for the system will cleanse itself of impure matter. If you have Headache, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Lame Back or Side, Failing Strength, Languor, Excessive Flow of Urine, &c., remember they are the advance guard and give warning to more serious trouble such as Diabetes, Bright's Disease, &c. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure is a sure cure for all these diseases. Price only $1.00 large bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

ALWAYS USEFUL.

If you have Rheumatism, Neuralgia or any Sprains, Stiff Cords, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Sore Throat, &c., Parmelee's Universal Liniment will cure quickly and surely. If your Horse has Bone Spavin, Sweeny, Spavin, Bruises or Lameness of any kind, Parmelee's Universal Liniment is the best possible remedy you can use. Large bottles 50 cents, ordinary size 25 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

NO SCROFULA

Can be so deep-seated, so malignant and stubborn, that Parmelee's Blood Purifier will not be found helpful. It will effect a cure, if cure be possible. And if you are troubled with Boils, Salt-Rheum, Pimples, Rough Skin, or any humor whatever, just give the Purifier a thorough trial and you cannot fail to receive benefit from it. Price $1 per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, such as costiveness, pain in the stomach, etc. A sensation like a cocked hat, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm in a room or at a meeting, is a common symptom. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bigelow's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the part affected, dissolving the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter. 102

Farmers and Mechanics.

Save money, feed and deter bills. Relieve your wives and Sisters from a class of poisonous or Medicinal Tonics, Cordials, Cordials, Bitters, Tonics, Cordials, Cordials, Cordials

ADVICE TO BOYS.

BY CHARLES H. BARNETT.

You may wish for the fun
You may wish for the fun,
And work for fame at the mill,
Make it down a Saxon truth,
Nothing results from toil.

If you would have this,
If you would have this,
And have it all secure,
Accept it as a simple fact,
Knowledge you must labor for.

If you have earned this,
If you have earned this,
And it is all your own,
You deserve all the credit,
To be not a rolling stone.

If you work for this,
If you work for this,
And labor with a will
The result will be glorious,
And such will make your skill.

You may read this book,
You may read that book
But read the larger book,
You must read a model book,
Or you be only wasting time.

You may drink this glass,
You may drink that glass,
Till you quench the liquor craze
Forever and that is the road
You'll find a drunkard's grave.

You may go to this,
You may go to that,
You may go to the devil to boot,
Without tools I have in your hand,
The devil will get you sure.

UNCLE SI'S FAMILIAR EPISTLES TO INQUIRING YOUTH.

2—Setting it Hot for a World-be "Keeper."

An immature New York tough writes to me as follows:

"Mister Uncle Si ime in a snide Shine Store 20 years old I am a butt waiter for a Keyer Kopp fur short wich is pleasing to the place X sam gits outn it Rich Cos its a Bully Racket X ime gonter be a Kop if You wan Men wood you Impressum You Ken Blood de Quinby Blokes X Blowers X make a Stake every Day inst gum fur it Sure wood You, if you flown on fellers yer Ken Lay for um X Neck de Stuffin outen Im in a Dizzy Jackit X ime gonter See One wooden't You few was Woo, yer kun work de Gin sale to de Quoans taxt X lee hi Pye wil all do Dazy survent gurls X Play it swant on de Aped wommen fur Peanutts X jeaches yer Ken fish de Lushes pokes X ran em in for Drunk X Disorrily X swipe many a flimsy X de Salry is Hang up 1200 Dollers Yeer X Kountt Mee in every Time."

Well, sir, I turned you an "immature tough," but, replenishing your uncouth screed, I must say that your immaturness is not that of the new-born chap or unfledged tadpole, not at all. All you require is a slight experience in the field contiguous to you to become a blooming tough of the first water; of hickory incorrigibility; it is in you, and all it wants is an outing.

It is evident that the "Shine Store"—whether it or you is twenty years old or twenty months old by your letter, but I presume you refer to your own age—is a place for your capabilities. What you most urgently require is a place in the field most congenial to your warped nature; and the more immediately the better, as you will the sooner reach the end of your tether, young man, it being morally certain that you would go it with a rush from the start, without any discretion whatever, thereby being the more quickly brought down by the ringbolt, much to the relief of your fellow-citizens and a portion of the cost of mankind, probably. As such galoots as you—your letter justifies the use of this term, and the application of it to you—can't be jerked up and jugged for what they are capable of doing, the best way is to give them every chance possible of showing their capacities, as a quick means to the desired end—the squelching of such galoots by gallows and rope, or the secluding of the same in stone penitentiaries of the State; therefore, if you can't emulate Tim McCarthy, of Oak street, your city, young man, and become a divekeeper of like consciousness of caliber, by all means do the next best thing, and get appointed to the "finest police force in the world," as a "chief" once termed it, and which it fondly imagines itself to be, but which is thus ironically termed by the citizens at large, with others not "at large," many of whom, in furance vile, are better, morally, than the same number of the "finest," picked at random.

As a New York "cop," young man of innate consciousness of soul, you will have opportunities to follow your natural bent, which is cussedness of eighteen carats, fully equal, if not superior, to those displayed by divekeepers of the McCarthy stamp, and I feel convinced, from your letter, that you will be fully able to take advantage of said opportunities, and make the most of them. You may not pull together as big a hoodle as Tim McCarthy, the Jay Gould of dive-keepers, has corralled in the same length of time, but a fellow of your internal shoulderless can do well until he runs the thing into the ground, as it were, which you are bound to do sooner or later. Should you ever rise to a captaincy in the "finest," your opportunities for harvesting a hoodle will increase in number and volume, and the amount of filthy lucre you can live for a "rainy day"—this is a figurative term for an indefinite period, as understood—need never be known to anyone not inside your own waistcoat, and will only be limited by your desires in the direction of wealth, be they moderate or the reverse.

The captain of your 29th precinct, a "blue nose" from the kingdom thereof, which is located somewhere in the fogs of old cheese density that enshroud the far eastern portions of this otherwise blest and happy hemisphere, has, it is alleged, by following the course of economy and foresight, not to mention high-light, and strict attention to business"—it is a cold day when he doesn't attend to "business"—had by a store of the needful sufficient unto the end of his days, even should these run up into the hundreds of years, as did those of the late lamented Mr. Methuselah, of Palestine, or some ranch contiguous; and this lay-by was erected on the foundation of a $2,000 yearly salary, and in a few short years; which goes to show that frugality is not confined to Congressmen, and that a New York police captain may frugalize a fortune proportionally as great as that of an M. C. by the same methods of thrift. It also goes to show that, to become men of multitudinous "rocks" on moderate salaries, we must be men of serviceable "sand," "sand" as it may seem, and that the aforementioned police captain has no dependance of this sort of "sand," goes without saying.

But all police precincts are not alike. Not all are highly productive "sugar plantations;" not all rich, auriferous "placers" for the organizement of the lead "prospectors." While all "pan out" more or less, in the great metropolis-by-the-sea, there is but one fairly entitled to the tart for "productiveness" and, as happy must be the captain in whose precinct the gam'lers, crooks, and lagnie-keepers most do congregate, provided said captain has abundance of serviceable "sand in his craw," then now the captain of the aforementioned police precinct of New York is happy for he can "round up" more cattle of the breeds mentioned, in the square acre, than any other police captain of the continent, probably; and this kind of stock is very profitable, if well handled; and what this captain doesn't know about handling stock of the varieties mentioned wouldn't be worth knowing to any one else. Verily there is but one 29th precinct—in all the land, let us hope—and the "sports" and the "crooks" and the lagnie-keepers are its profit, and ever will be, else and I no prophet.

But why speak of captaincies to you, unfledged bird of evil intent, uncooked in a "snide shoe store"—it is "snide," I suppose, because it doesn't offer opportunities enough for your healthy and billking propensities—why to you speak of captaincies, when, fledged in the field of promise, that of police provision you will fly to certain destruction, and go to meet Crowley's ghost before long if you spent the chevrons of a sergeant, even.

You—why, you are a moral rattlesnake, a moral hyena, a moral tiger, a moral octopus—this means "devil-fish," understand—in short, a "moral leper," thus which nothing worse can be said of a human. When a man gets to be a "moral leper" he has struck bottom, as it were, and rests—no, he can't rest, he flounders about in the blackest slough that turpitude ever opened on the pasture of civilization; and there just where you are floundering, you must "decidedly," you Your letter proclaims you a combination of moral monstrosities; a whole moral menagerie of wild and carnivorous beasts and reptiles, every one of which is worse than the other; and that you should so commit yourself in black and white argues that the doctrine of total depravity was not founded on the baseless fabric of the cosmic phantom of irreconcilableness, or any other period in the far-away whereness of ancient previosity, but on the solid bedrock of innate consciousness, an integral portion of which is represented in your person. Now, put that in your pipe and smoke it, depraved galoot of sheolish virus, into your glass and "drink it down," or to the size of the former. Your letter is any way to get it into you, I care not how.

Your letter shows you to be a fatty degeneration of triple X depravity; a combination of the "sand" in you, in fact, thief, and everything that is frowned upon in respectable circles. If not already a practical thief, your letter shows that you are on more or less intimate terms with the vernacular of thieves in regular standing, and that if you cannot "pater flash" with the most accomplished of the fraternity, you can catch on to the lingo readily, and finish your education in that line at short notice; and let me tell you, sir, that no well-regulated citizen would ever be on terms of intimacy with the flash of thieves, and don't you forget it.

It is evident that you have studied into the marrels, "makes," manoeuvers, and mysteries of that portion of the political economy of civilization which absorbs policing—if you haven't as yet, "lift into" it, as old man Shingle "fit into the Revolution," it is morally certain that you would fit into a policeman's coat and place, and, in time, rise to the highest of a crowd nothing if not tough.

It is a "lully Hackit," you say, "A sun gits outn it Rich." Such is not in your vernacular, I must say that you have got the matter "dead to rights"—a "lully racket" for such as you the force, going down through the slums in Mulberry bend, and into going business on the great thoroughfares, and many do "get outn it rich," the slums understood. You can "Bleed de Quinby Blokes X Blowers X make a Stake every Day," you say. Yes, you festive tarantula, you can do these things, which are done every day, and you and the centipede that will never fail in doing. You lay for fellers if yer Down on em X Neck de Stuffin outen em," you say. Of course you can; it is done every day, and you are just the "larrier" to go for em; your ruffianly, brutal nature will have a wide scope for operation, and will never be backward in coming forward, I am satisfied.

As you say again, you can "work de Gin mills to de Quoans taist X lee hi pye wid all de Dazy survent gurls." Of course you can, and, as you say, sponge on the apple women, fish the pockets of "lushers," and "swipe many a flimsy." True, too true, you shovel-nosed shark, for they "all do it," and you are not going to be left, to any great extent. You say the "Salry is Hangup 1200 Dollers Yeer" Right you are again, you book-lalled vulture; chafing in a "snide Shine Store." It is a "hang-up salary" for such material as gutters it is. Not one in fifty, the whole force through, could command the half of it in any other sphere of action, the same being too low to work at their trades, while the remainder could command only the low pay of unskilled labor. Yes, you are right, I say, again; it is a "hang-up salary," and you are just the sort of grappling iron to get outo it with your hooks.

You wind up your glowing dispatch with what has been the slogan of every individual, from Jack back before the time of one Adam of Eden, and which is—"Kount Mee in every Time"—me with a capital M and double e, you warped and carnal parasite in human form!

Count you in, eh? I do; make no mistake. You will "get there" as surely as the bald-headed buzzard of Bermuda to the banquet on an overripe carcass of a mule defunct, or other feast of carrion; but it is gratifying to know that you will overgorge yourself in quick time, and, figuratively speaking, succumb to indigestion; in other words, you will sow the wind and reap the whirlwind. I know you will, for Sabe's sort of reaper you are, and don't you forget it.

But there, your screed makes me tired—you make me tired—and I must clear through. Go and be a "Keyer" at once, and stand not on the order. The sooner you get on the "force" the sooner you will mount the gallows, or be retired to a State prison, for you are of cussedness abnormally crossed. Salut!

P. S.—If you fail to become a graft on the New York "Finest," light out on the double-quick for London, where, according to late revelations, there is a "library" police force, enrolled in which organization you would soon become a shining light, out-Horsling Horsl, as it were.—Uncle Si, in Chicago Ledger.

How Bills Are Carried.

The Tico meter, for measuring the product of whisky-stills, received the approval of scientific experts, but it was necessary to carry through the House a clause in a bill requiring their use by distillers. An adroit lobbyist, known as Heynton, undertook to secure a favorable report from the Committee on Ways and Means, of which Gen. Schenck was Chairman. He ingeniously arranged for a quiet game of draw-poker in a parlor at Willard's Hotel. Gen. Schenck, Tice the inventor, Heynton, and another member of Congress made up the quartet. The game was a high-toned affair, "all blind," and a "straddle" if anybody felt reckless enough to try it on. When the game broke up it very happened that was rolling back the sombre-hued curtain of night and ushering in another day, and old Tice's wallet was empty. He was apparently very much crestfallen, and Gen. Schenck was correspondingly happy. The next day the Ways and Means Committee reported in favor of the Tice meter, and the bill became a law, very much to the sorrow of the distillers. The meter was a fraud of the first water. Each one cost from $1,000 to $5,000, giving Tice a margin of $1,000 to $2,500, according to the size of the meter. Scores of distillers were compelled to pay for the "blatted fraud," as they all called it, and not one succeeded in running a gallon of whisky through the so-called meter. Tice, however, was not to blame—he had. His meter was a good machine, as he invented it, but the committee of scientific men who sat upon it under the act of Congress directed various improvements to be made, which rendered it impossible for a drop of high wines to get through it.—Boston Indep.

Labor Statistics.

A building was in process of erection opposite a public building, in Washington City. One of the clerks, who had been looking out of the window for some time, said to another clerk who was reading a newspaper:

"I have been watching that workman out there, and he has not done a bit of work in all that time. I wonder what he gets paid for?"

Just about the same time the workman remarked to a fellow workman:

"Just look at that Government clerk over there. He hasn't done anything for about two out of the one hour for the last half hour. No wonder the country is going to the dogs."—Texas Siftings.

He Preferred Vermont Railways.

"How far is Albany?" asked a countryman at the Grand Central Station.

"One hundred and forty-four miles."

"Just how long does it take to get that?"

"Three hours and twenty-five minutes by fast line."

"An how much does it cost?"

"Ten dollar and forty-four cents."

"Good! I reckon I'll take forty-four cents for ridin' less'n four hours. Why, up in Vermont I kin ride half a day on a railroad for less money than that, an' not go near as far, nuther."—New York Sun.

A PITTSBURGH lady cooked Lafayette's dinner when he visited America in 1824. It will be remembered that the Marquis never returned.

A PLAN is proposed to light southern vamps by electricity.

HUMOR.

Cowboys on a Drive.

A picturesque, barely lot of fellows, these wild cowboys," as they sit on the ground by the fire, each man with his can of coffee, his fragrant slice of fried bacon on the point of his knife-blade, or sandwiched in between two great chunks of bread, rapidly disappearing before the onslaughts of appetites made keen by the pure, invigorating breeze of these high plains. See that brawny fellow with the crisp, tightcurling yellow hair growing low down on the nape of his massive neck rising straight and supple from the low collar of his loose flannel shirt, his sunbrowned face with the piercing gray eyes looking out from under the broad brim of his hat, his lower limbs clad in the heavy "chaps"—or leather overalls—fastened down the outside with a leather and exposure to wind and weather, his revolver in its holster swinging from the cartridge-filled belt, and his great spurs jingling at every stride, as, having drained the last drop of coffee, he puts down the can, and turns from the fire toward the horses, picking up as he goes the huge heavy leather saddle, with its high pommel and strengthening thongs of rawhide, that has served him as a pillow during the night. Quickly his "mount" is saddled, the great broad hair-rope girths tightly "cinched," the huge bit slipped into the unwilling mouth, and with a bound the native fellow is in the saddle. Paw, prance, snort, turn your free will the whites show; lay your pointed ears back; spread and kick to your heart's content. Oh, buck away! you have found your master; for the struggle does not last long. The practiced hand, the heavy spurs, and stinging whip soon repeat the almost daily lesson, and with one last wicked shake of the head the wiry "cayuse" breaks into his easy lope, and away go horse and rider to their appointed station on the flank of the great drove.

The others soon follow, camp is broken, the wagon securely packed ready for the road, and the work of the day commences. The cattle seem to know what is coming. On the edges of their scattered masses the steers lift their heads and gaze, half stupidly, half frightened, at the flying horsemen; as the flanks are turned they begin moving in toward one another, moving up in little groups to a common center. Now and then a steer or some young bull, more headstrong or more terrified than his comrades, breaks away and makes off aimlessly over the prairie, in a moment he is pursued, headed off, turned, and driven in toward the herd again. As they "close in mass"—to use an apt military phrase—"round up" for all sales by the well-trained cowboys, they are gently urged onward by the drivers in the rear, until the whole herd is slowly moving forward, feeding as they go, in a loose wide column, headed toward the break in the mountains that indicates the mouth of the canon through which it is to pass.

Very slowly and cautiously the herd moves forward; sometimes there is a halt in front; those in the rear crowd up more closely; very gently, and with soothing cries, the experienced cowboys urge them on again. It is ticklish work, for a momentary panic may throw scores of them down the precipitous sides of the mountain.

And now the canon widens, and, ascending the steep rock walls and grand trees, its sides gradually merge into gentle rising, grass-covered slopes; the river, too, is broader, its surface shining like polished silver, and betraying its swift current only by an occasional soft ripple and low lap-lap of the water against its overhanging banks; from which, breathing out the sweet fragrance of thousands of newly-opened buds, the wild vines hasten hang down their slender branches. Away up the slopes, dancing and nodding like the pretty heads in the soft breeze, the gay-colored wild flowers—yellow sunflowers, daisies, blue harebells—mingle their bright hues, melting into one another on the distant round hill-top, covering them as with a carpet of the soft red velvet.—F. Zoghaum, in Harper's Magazine.

Useful Hints to Fleshy People.

Recourse to starvation, anti-fat, diet by measure, and the swallowing of acids is not only absurd but suicidal. Mr. Banting's dietary is so depleting to the system that for one relieved thereby a dozen suffer positive injury. Any one can reduce his flesh by not eating sufficient food to repair the waste that is constantly going on. The cure, however, in this case is worse than the disease. Starvation reduces fat by wasting the substance upon which fat means a sacrifice of albumen as well as fat, and anemia ensues.

A strict regimen is the only cure for obesity. A dietary, however, that robs the system of its nutrition should be avoided. Fat is supposed to produce fat. Such is not the case. Fat, combining with the carbo-hydrates and nitrogenous compounds, operates directly against obesity. No dyspeptic need fear to eat fat so long as too much is not taken. Fat does not disintegrate waste and appeases thirst as well as hunger. The great thing to dietary in order to correct corpulence is to abstain from eating starchy and saccharine foods. Vegetables rich in albumen, however, make desirable articles of food. Potatoes should be eaten. Fish and all kinds of meats can be eaten at pleasure, but beer and malt liquors generally should be avoided, in consequence of the carbo-hydrates contained therein. Those who are excluded will do for the corpulent what no medicine can do—that is, make them thin.

PAPER flour barrels, a recent invention, are coming into favor in some parts of the West.

Getting His Eyes Opened.

Jim Doolittle, a Texas man, has not married very young, but there are already some rumors of an impending blow-up. He comes from that his wife has a very bad temper.

"When did you first get acquainted with your wife?" asked a friend.

"I have known her for a good while but I didn't get really acquainted with her until after we were married," replied Jim, with a sigh.—Texas Siftings.

Water and Spirit.

"I don't think my religion will bear any obstacle to our union," he urged; "I am a spiritualist."

"I am afraid it will," she replied. "Papa is a prohibitionist, you know."

A Boy's Hat.

Nothing as close dold of sin over gets used up quicker than a boy's hat, unless it may be a Congressman's reputation or wealth in a powder mill, and no sight between the missing bottle and the winding sheet is more rare than one with the semblance of newness in active service on a week day. There is something in a boy's soul that rebels and kicks in mutiny at having to wear a hat of unnatural shape, and the only possible chance of preserving the shape of a new one unimpaired during the first day of its use, would be to strap the boy's arms fast to his sides, pinion his legs, push the hat down to his ears, and make him stand in an empty flour barrel, amply sobered from all walls or shrubbery against which he could bump his head. This may be a little rough on the boy, but it will save the hat. If any other plan has been adopted with success we have not been apprised of it, or furnished with working plans of the same. We have seen a boy who had been carefully nursed—with body shingle and slipper—go forth in the morning under a lot of gladsome look and expensive texture, and in the evening of the same day we have seen that same child of promise march into the house with all the glory of Ichabod taken out of his finery, his head a completely as a combination trip-hammer and threshing machine could have made it, without spending the least of the attempt. What agency suggested him to the operation of a tattered collapsedness we cannot say, the mortal man knows not, and probably never will until the day of knowledge has been plucked bare, and its ory roots washed up by the tears of the disinhabitant. It doesn't matter a pin how lambike a boy may be, and wooden-headed he may be, and how far he has made sunlight lingers in his hair, he is the remorseless foe of all new hats, as you will find to your cost by the time he is big enough to throw a stone through a light of glass in the kitchen window. If you have a boy whose hats are not compressed entirely of milk, who doesn't fulfill this foregoing, skip your hand down the back of his neck, and examine the points of his shoulder-blades for incipient wings. They ought to be developed in that neighborhood somewhere. Why this is thus is beyond our ken, but that it is so is expensively apparent to every parent who has small pantaloons in the family. The subject is a deep, long one, seems to differ even more than day and night, or man and wife, from all other known forms of motive force outside of a street-car stable, in not being amenable to the same laws that seem to control the remainder of the universe, and, although boys have been in existence long enough to accumulate as stars in the Milky Way, we know ten times as much about the motive power of the former as we do of the faintest ray of light in that celestial footpath so much about the devious ways of our ever-changing and ever-changeable boys. Very slowly and cautiously the herd moves forward; sometimes there is a halt in front; those in the rear crowd up more closely; very gently, and with soothing cries, the experienced cowboys urge them on again. It is ticklish work, for a momentary panic may throw scores of them down the precipitous sides of the mountain.

And now the canon widens, and, ascending the steep rock walls and grand trees, its sides gradually merge into gentle rising, grass-covered slopes; the river, too, is broader, its surface shining like polished silver, and betraying its swift current only by an occasional soft ripple and low lap-lap of the water against its overhanging banks, from which, breathing out the sweet fragrance of thousands of newly-opened buds, the wild vines hasten hang down their slender branches. Away up the slopes, dancing and nodding like the pretty heads in the soft breeze, the gay-colored wild flowers—yellow sunflowers, daisies, blue harebells—mingle their bright hues, melting into one another on the distant round hill-top, covering them as with a carpet of the soft red velvet.—F. Zoghaum, in Harper's Magazine.

Useful Hints to Fleshy People.

Recourse to starvation, anti-fat, diet by measure, and the swallowing of acids is not only absurd but suicidal. Mr. Banting's dietary is so depleting to the system that for one relieved thereby a dozen suffer positive injury. Any one can reduce his flesh by not eating sufficient food to repair the waste that is constantly going on. The cure, however, in this case is worse than the disease. Starvation reduces fat by wasting the substance upon which fat means a sacrifice of albumen as well as fat, and anemia ensues.

A strict regimen is the only cure for obesity. A dietary, however, that robs the system of its nutrition should be avoided. Fat is supposed to produce fat. Such is not the case. Fat, combining with the carbo-hydrates and nitrogenous compounds, operates directly against obesity. No dyspeptic need fear to eat fat so long as too much is not taken. Fat does not disintegrate waste and appeases thirst as well as hunger. The great thing to dietary in order to correct corpulence is to abstain from eating starchy and saccharine foods. Vegetables rich in albumen, however, make desirable articles of food. Potatoes should be eaten. Fish and all kinds of meats can be eaten at pleasure, but beer and malt liquors generally should be avoided, in consequence of the carbo-hydrates contained therein. Those who are excluded will do for the corpulent what no medicine can do—that is, make them thin.

PAPER flour barrels, a recent invention, are coming into favor in some parts of the West.

A Modern Solomon.

The strained relations which existed under the Folger regime between Assistant Secretary New and Appointment Clerk Butler were matters of public comment, and frequently led to hilarious scenes. Appointments made in the department required to be countersigned by the Assistant Secretary after they left the appointment division. This led to endless bickering and quarrels. One day a laborer employed in the vaults of the Treasury applied to Mr. New to be detailed to do some work less trying to his health. He wanted to be transferred to the top story of the building, he said. As he was a protege of New, his request was granted without trouble, of course. New directed an order to be drawn and indorsed on the back.

"This man goes up stairs. John C. New, Assistant Secretary."

In due course of time the order reached the appointment division. Butler saw New's indorsement. That was enough. He at once sent for the man.

"You want to go up stairs?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you have been the Assistant Secretary about it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I'll have something to say about this."

Before the astonished man could recover his breath Mr. Butler had put under Mr. New's indorsement the words:

"This man goes down stairs. J. B. Butler, Appointment Clerk."

The paper was sent back to the office of the Assistant Secretary. Mr. New looked with some surprise at Mr. Butler's order countermanding his own. Then he quietly drew his pen across it and once more wrote:

"This man goes up stairs. John C. New, Assistant Secretary."

Again the paper went back to the appointment division. Butler glanced at it for a moment, and again he wrote:

"This man goes down stairs. J. B. Butler, Appointment Clerk."

This harmless little game was kept up for some time, until the paper had been filled with Messrs New and Butler's indorsements. Then, at last, these gentlemen thought it best to refer the matter to Secretary Folger. He listened coldly to the statements of the case, and after a few moments of reflection gave the following judgment, worthy, surely, of a Solomon: "Gentlemen," he said, "I shall order the man to be employed on the elevator. This will be in the nature of a compromise, for half of the time there will be upon down stairs, the other half up stairs. The case is dismissed."—New York Tribune.

The Sexes in a Russian Province.

In the Russian province of Courland etiquette is extremely rigorous. Still leaves form the nearest approach to complete freedom between young unmarried people of opposite sexes. Opportunities are afforded them of being better acquainted. Even at dancing parties the gentleman is supposed to pick his partner immediately on the conclusion of a polka or waltz. Lessons, too, have just published a love of the heiress to this enormous wealth. Reader, cast a dolorous and sympathetic forward you this valuable List; and if you find by it that you are entitled to the prize, we congratulate Your own. COX & CO. will show you the way.

WHEN suffered to my bed with rheumatism, unable to move, I used Dr. Benson's Rheumatic Cure, and in three days was all well, and have not been troubled since. Address, Chairman, Box 1, Grocery, 822 West Lake street, Chicago, Ill.

LYON'S Patent Metallic Stiffeners prevent boots and shoes from wearing out, ripping in the seams, or wearing unevenly on the heels.

Gems for our Home Under Glass Been sold, and the demand increasing continually. Harmon, Nellis, & Co., Agents, Chicago, Ill.

RED STAR TRADE MARK COUGH CURE

Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons

A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough.

Asthma, Colney, Patients Chest, relief.

Price 25 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00 per Bottle.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

TECOPHY Consumption, Asthma and Catarrh. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail, 50c. Dr. Wm. Ward, Parkersburg, W. Va.

WANTED An active Man or Woman in every town to introduce a popular article of great merit. Large remunerative profits. Address, with stamp, Crescent Mfg. Co., Cincinnati, O.

VINEGAR BITTERS Vinegar Bitters, a purely medicinal preparation, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all alcoholic stimulants. They are the great Blood Purifier, a gentle Purgative, and a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Vinegar Bitters are a gentle stimulant when required, and are recommended by their manufacturers for the sick, weak, nervous, and those whose occupations cause them to be subject to fevers, bowel complaints, etc. Vinegar Bitters are a mild Diaphoretic, Cathartic, Diuretic, Alterative, Nervine, Sedative, Tonic, Nutritive, Antiseptic, Antidote, Counter-irritant, Stimulant, Sudorific, Anodyne, Alterative, Diaphoretic, Cathartic, Diuretic

Around the County.

Boyne City.

From the Statesman

It is stated on good authority that Boyne City will have a railroad within a year.

The bridge over Boyne River near the Pine Lake house will soon undergo considerable repairs. A new foot-bridge also is to be built there.

Mrs. Chas. Shepard was severely injured by a fall on the sidewalk last Friday. Mrs. Edwards, her mother, came from Charlevoix Saturday morning to see her.

A rare avis was recently found in the woods near Boyne City by C. Schaub. It presents the aspect of an owl of some species and is on exhibition at W. J. Lewis' meat market.

The United States Hotel has a new proprietor. Mr. Frank Shumbut of Charlevoix has taken possession and will henceforth serve up the good dinners. He is well known as a successful caterer to the public appetite.

At the Statesman office may be seen a sample of the kind of potato that is grown in this county. It was raised by Israel Mackelwee, and weighed four pounds when dug, which was only one of twenty five that came out of the same hill, the smallest weighing ¼ of a pound. Who can beat it?

In addition to the large quantity of lumber, etc., that has been shipped from Boyne City this season the following shipment of wood and bark his been made: C. C. Batchelloer; wood, 200 cords, bark, 150 cords. W. J. Lewis, wood, 127 cords, bark, 347 cords; J. C. Schaub, wood, 1,747 cords, bark, 1,200 cords; R. R. Perkins & Co. wood, 2,100 cords, bark, 500 cords; also 1,200 cedar posts and ties, making 4,174 cords of wood and 2,174 cords of bark

Burgess.

As Wm. Baker was backing his wagon out of the barn by hand last Saturday, the wheel struck against a post and the tongue of the wagon came around and struck him in the side with such force as to throw him down and cut the back of his head severely.

Four new school houses are to be built in Hayes at a probable cost of $500 each.

The foundation for the school house in district No. 2 is finished. The work was done by Frank Kane.

Richard Cooper, who has been sailing, has got enough of the "bring" for this fall.

We hear that Rev. D. H. Pierce is appointed to preach in the Elmira district.

There is quite a dissatisfaction in district No. 2 on the location of the school house.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. C. Y. Cook.
First Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Jennings.
Third Vice President—Mrs. C. P. Van Antwerp.
Recording Secretary—Miss Ella E. Lawton.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. E. Stillwell.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Liquor Traffic.

I will tell you my idea of the liquor traffic very briefly. God forgive me, I do not speak of it knowingly, for my sin is ever before me; seven years of my life were a dark blank. I know what the burning appetite for stimulant is; I know all about it, and I have sat by the dying bedside of drunkards; I have held their hands in mine; I have tried to lead them at the last gasp to the Saviour who never turned my away that came to him and yet, in the light of my own experience and the experience of others that I have received through my observation, I could say, "Father in heaven, if it be Thy will that man shall suffer, whatever sentence goes in Thy sight of temporal evil, impose it on me; let the bread of affliction be given to me to eat; take from me the friends of my old age, let the hut of poverty be my dwelling place; let the wasting load of disease be laid upon me; let me walk in the whirlwind, live in the storm; let the passing away of my welfare be like the flowing of a stream, and the shouts of my enemies like rain on the waters; when I speak good let evil come on me—do all this, but save me, merciful God, save me from the bed of a drunkard! And yet, as I shall answer to Thee in the day of judgment, I had rather be the veriest sot that ever reeled through the streets than I would be the man who sold him his liquor for a month." [Applause.] I think it is the most awful business that a man can possibly engage in. There is no good in it. How much benefit is it to a town that a man should start a saloon? I wish Mr. Bowen, when he gives the next grand entertainment, would invite some of the liquor-sellers of Connecticut to come here and show the benefits of their business to this people. Let them bring a few specimens of their work. They can't do it. The raw material is always worth more than the manufactured article; always.

As a boy said: "I know so-and-so's saloon is finished." "How do you know it?" "I saw a fellow coming out of it drunk!" A liquor-seller was very angry with a boy who, when he saw a drunken man had fallen down in front or a saloon, said, "Mister, your sign has fell down." There was in Connecticut, I think, a man named Solomon Camp, who put up a sign "S Camp's." The painter forgot to put the dot in after the initial S, and everybody read it "Scamp's tavern." It nearly broke up his business; he had to have a dot put in; but that didn't do, as the letters were too close together, and he had to have a new sign painted with wider spacing and the dot in. Let them show the benefits that are derived from the sale of intoxicating liquor in this country. I hate it because we have no redress. There is not a mother here that has any redress. A woman went into a grog-shop—and I give you the facts that I can prove—to plead with the liquor-seller not to give her husband any more liquor. He took a tumbler of dirty water and threw its contents in her face. She told her boy, and he thrashed that liquor-seller so he was on his back several days. Then the liquor-seller prosecuted the boy for assault and battery and got the damages. They tried to prosecute him for throwing water in the woman's face. They failed, because she was intruding on his premises. There is not a liquor-seller that can't sell your husband a drink, and you may plead with him if you will. You talk about moral suasion. Make it your own case. A young man once said to me: "I believe in moral suasion. I believe we have no right to attack those men." I told him a little fact that occurred, and I asked him: "Suppose that was your mother that was kicked out of the rum-shop when she came to plead with Mr. Leonard not to give her boy drink, and when he made her little boy nine or ten years old drunk and sent him home out of spite, because she tried to prevent his selling liquor to her boy, what would you do?" He said: "I would shoot him as I would a woodchuck." I said: I would not. I believe in the simple way. I believe in the annihilation of the traffic intoxicating liquor; and the sooner we get rid of it the better."—From John B. Gough's Fourth of July Speech at Woodstock, Conn.

Life is a terrible problem. With its convictions of duty on one hand, and its natural desires on the other, that are to make or mar the future happiness of the soul. It seems a fearful thing to live or attempt to live this life. And ever since the struggle began and the two powers good and evil have been seeking to rule the soul, life has been one long battle. While christianity, that inward light from above, has sought to raise and redeem from death by all the sweet means within her power, and had one vice been kept from earth, the wound of the serpent in the garden of Eden might have seemed curable, but the cup of ardent spirits having come in to the world, the sorrows of man seem beyond remedy. But, with the senses steeped in this innocent cup of wine, the most repulsive vice assumes seductive forms, siren voices whisper in the ear, slumber steals on while the fair, blinds stronger and stronger the new ropes which no Sampson's strength can break, and thus leads into captivity the bravest and fairest in the land. Gradually all commence this battle of life; our young men are strong and fair to see as were the athletes of Greece and Rome or those old warrior heroes whom Lycurgus led forth to battle, nay, with their fine physical development, do they not surpass those old warriors sleeping in Olympian dust? Aye, if it were not for one thing, and that the sad ravages of intemperance, which attacks at one time the money, the body, and the brain of its victim. It leaves nothing untouched, but like the "stream of molten lava rolling down the mountain side into a tropical valley, scorches all things and leaves not a leaf of green, a drop of water or dew, but true-from a pure-rise into an iron rock." So the passion for strong drink blights the young man's world and leaves nothing but the dust and ashes of former hopes which were as high as the sun, and that glorious strength which dared the world and in which he so rejoiced yesterday, to-day are all gone, and all over the world there is the desolate home, the weary tears and mothers who looked so finally on their sons, for whom they toiled and sacrificed, and whose hopes for their success were the very breath of life, they too have only dust and ashes. Ah, is it any wonder that an invisible host, terrible as an army with banners, is rising, terrible in its strength, whose every soul has tasted the bitterness of death through the sea-surge of strong drink, and who with deathless purpose, with breast bared to the foe, are marching on, determined to sweep from the face of the earth this dragon of our woes.

RESTORED BY MAGIC.

Has the lake air and wind spoiled your complexion? Do you long for a preparation that will completely remove Moth, Tan and Pimples and leave the skin clear and soft? If so, you have but to buy a bottle of Hamilton's Oriental Balm, which is simply magical in its effect and perfectly harmless. It is used in all the best families and gives unbounded satisfaction. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Proper Treatment for Coughs.

That the remedy may fully understand what one of the most prominent cough and lung syrups we will say that we have tried all the best and most remedies yet discovered. These ingredients with several others equally as efficacious, enter largely into Dr. Bonsack's Cough and Lung Syrup. This making it one of the most reliable now in use. Sold by all. Only 50 cents, and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter. 7

FirstClass Agent

Wanted in This County

To represent our beautifully illustrated family magazine. Special terms and permanent engagement given to the right party. Any smart man or woman who is willing to work and has the ability to push the magazine can secure a splendid position. Write at once giving age, particulars of past work and territory desired. Address, COTTAGE HEARTH CO., Boston, Mass.

Hannah, Lay & Co.'s Pleasure Steamers,

SEASON OF 1887.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.
CAPT. D. E. WILSON.

Going North every morning—Leave Traverse City 7.00, Northport 8.20, Norwood 11.00, Charlevoix 12.40, Petoskey 1.30, arrive at Harbor Springs 2.45.

Going South every afternoon—Leave Harbor Springs 2.00, Petoskey 2.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Norwood 5.00, Northport 6.30, arrive at Traverse City 9.00.

T. E. PAXTON,
CAPT. A. G. ALBERTS.

Going South every morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 7.30, Charlevoix 8.45, Torch Lake 9.00, arrive Traverse City 11.15.

Going North every afternoon—Leave Traverse City 3.00, Torch Lake 5.45, Charlevoix 7.45, Petoskey 9.15, arrive Harbor Springs 9.45.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both the City of Grand Rapids and T. E. Paxton steamers, leaving Chicago and the CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS going north; and on Wednesday between both the T. E. PAXTON and CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS going south, and the CITY OF TRAVERSE to Chicago.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS FRIANT.
CAPT. E. VANDERBILT.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.30.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.00.

Close connections at Petoskey with D. & M. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 8.30, leave East Jordan 9.00, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, arrive East Jordan 4.00, leave East Jordan 4.30, arrive Charlevoix 6.30. Stopping at intermediate points.

A PRESENT

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping, and name of two book agents, will receive free a Steel Plate Engraving of silver Presidential Dollars of Washington, size 22x28, worth $4.00. Address Elder Pub. Co., Chicago, Ill.

Cures in 1 to 3 days the worst cases of Gleet, Whites, Strictures, Diseases of the Urinary Organs. Not a cure, no pay. Sold by druggists, or sent by express, prepaid, $1.00. Circular sent free on request. Sold by druggists generally.

Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00.

Cincinnati, O. Chicago, Ill.

For Sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

THE HOWE MACHINE CO.

AT THE FRONT.

OUR LATEST SUCCESS.

An Entirely New — High Arm.

Easy Running Sewing Machine

IT HAS

The Most Room under the Arm.
The Best Self-Setting Needle.
The Largest Bobbin.
The Easiest Shuttle to Thread.
The Most Perfect Tension.
The Most Reliable Feed.
The Most Perfect Take-up.
The best Bobbin Winder.

IT IS

SIMPLE, STRONG, DURABLE & HANDSOME

Runs Rapidly, Very Light, Very Still, and without Vibration.

Before you purchase, please examine the NEW HOWE at the office of

Mrs. M. Litney, Agt., Charlevoix

THIS PAPER may be found on File at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), New York, where advertising may be placed for it in NEW YORK.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

Real Estate

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,

IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Random.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Random.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.

GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

I have purchased the Stock of

Drugs, Chemicals,

STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.

of O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to so conduct the business as to merit a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and ask my prices.

PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,

Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH

I have purchased the Meat business of Armstrong & Co., and will continue at the old stand, with the freshest and best goods in the market.

T. E. CHAMBERLIN.

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES

KEEP YOUR ON THE Right Place

For Bargains in Hardware,

Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Ducts, Sash, PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Paper-hanging Goods, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishing tackle, Revolvers, Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Tubs, Wooden ware, Rope, Fishermen's Supplies, and Ship chandlery, Job work, Tin work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

$100 REWARD

FOR

Every Ounce of Adulteration

IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more used than any other plug in the State. It is always in good order. NEVER TOO HARD NEVER TOO SOFT. NEVER SPOILS BY DRYING OUT, and not a box of it is sold without NIMROD IS THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER; never sticks on the dealer's hands. This cannot said of any other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.

Petersburg, Va.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE RODD WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

A FINE STOCK OF

SILVERWARE

JUST RECEIVED.

C. R. BELLINGER.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 149. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ALBERT E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

CHAS. S. SLAVENS & GERRIT, Attorneys at Law and Counselors in Admiralty. Office in Sullivan's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
CHAS. S. SLAVENS. GEO. A. GERRIT.

HART & HALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Charlevoix, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Petoskey. Office before present occupied by COLLINS & TOBIAS.

H. J. JEFFERY, Attorney and Postmaster at Boyne City. Office on Lake St., Boyne City.

L. A. MORELLETT, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Office in Probate Office, Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

GEO. E. WINNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Boyne City. Real Estate Agent.

W. S. MORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

E. VALLETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7.00 p. m. Sunday School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. REV. E. VAN ANDEL, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.00 o'clock. Preaching evenings at 7 o'clock. J. T. JENNINGS, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

KEEFER HALL, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humor in Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

A. J. GREENLEIN, M. D., Office at residence, Mich. st., East Side.

L. GEORGE, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Office in the Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. E. MCDONALD, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HEMAN N. HARMON, Notary Public, Real Estate Agent and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Lake Land Post, No. 124, meets second and fourth Mondays in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 263, meets every Saturday evening, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

K. O. T. M.—Record Tent, No. 136, meets second and fourth Saturday each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 342, meets on or before full moon in Barnard's school house.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 262, meets Saturday on or before full moon, in Masonic Hall, over Stone's store.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

BROWN & CO.'S

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,

Capital, $250,000.

With superior facilities and prompt attention to all business entrusted to our charge. Drafts drawn upon the principal cities of the world. Collections promptly made. Interest allowed on time deposits. Loans and investments made on first mortgages upon farm property. Money loaned on approved notes. Checks issued from all points in Europe by the CITIZENS' NATIONAL BANK, New York.

Pine National Bank, New York.
Merchants' National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

OFFICERS.

President—Byron Sen.
First Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Henry Miller.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Corresponding Secretary—E. Stillwell.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEES.

Finance Committee—J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cruikshank, Geo. P. Rowell.
Publication Committee—H. Lee Hilliges, W. A. Brown, and C. Y. Cook.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Bartholomew, J. A. Sackrison, H. Cooper, Geo. W. Gibson, W. Miller, S. M. Saer, W. C. Newman, E. R. Clark, H. Herdon.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to promote the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

Alternately—Village Hall, on the Third Monday in each month, at 7.30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

Upright & Parlour Additions,

Charlevoix,

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

FREE.—We have for distribution a number of copies of the annual report of the Michigan Pomological Society for 1884, which may be had by subscribers of the JOURNAL on application at the office.

PAPER AND PAGE BINDERS.—Subscription for the JOURNAL. Wood and pockets of all kinds kept at market price.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING

Dr. CROUTER'S

BAKING POWDER

Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.

If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.

It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.

It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops.

It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by

Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,

Chemist and Druggist,

BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERIVE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in connection with the House. 25

FARMERS' HOTEL,

M. S. JOHNSON, Proprietor.

Antrim Street, near Village Hall, Charlevoix.

Location convenient for merchants working in any of the factories on Round Lake, and for farmers coming to town. Feed stable for teams will be provided.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lakes and resorts. Express office, and headquarters for Pleasure and Fishing Supplies. Good sample rooms for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

TRATCHER & BLAIR, Proprietors.

East Jordan, - Michigan.

Those having business at the county seat will find this more convenient place to stop, and the proprietors will spare no pains to give the best satisfaction. HIP-POWER CONVEYING.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

Picture Frames

Made to Order.

A FINE ASSORTMENT OF MOULDINGS To Select From.

O. I. WHEAT,

Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Mich.

Well-Digging.

JOHN SHRIER

Charlevoix, Mich.

is prepared to do all work in the line of well-digging, stone building, pump repairing, well driving, and similar work.

THE GREAT GRANT BOOK.

Life and Personal Memories of Gen. Grant in one large volume. Over Sixty Special and 48 Fine Steel Engravings. Over 600 Pages, containing 2248 inches of all "Our Presidents." Agents to each subscriber. Think of this! Some persons should send 50 cts. for outfit and engraving and secure this territory. Book now and can wait long for commissions. Address ELDER PUBLISHING CO., 304 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 13

WOOD WANTED.

Two or three loads of good block wood wanted at this office immediately.

"TERRACE FARM,"

Charlevoix, Mich.

J. R. & J. S. DIXON,

DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.

Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins

A SPECIALTY. 118

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 42

W. M. WAGAR. G. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Third door east of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

CASH CLUB RATES.

Those of our readers who want a city paper for the coming year can be accommodated by the JOURNAL club list. To get the benefit of these reduced rates, all arrears must be paid to date of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

Price.		With the Journal.
1 00	Detroit Weekly Free Press	$2 80
1 00	New York Weekly World	2 00
2 00	Pomeroy's Democrat	2 65
1 50	Detroit Echo, weekly	1 75
1 00	Chicago Weekly Herald	2 60
1 50	The Cottage Hearth (monthly)	2 25

Sample Copies furnished on application.

GET THE BEST

If your neighbors want a clean, handsome, weekly newspaper, giving all the latest and most complete news from all parts of the county, have them send 25 cents for this paper thirteen months, 50 cents for four months, 75 cents for six months, $1.50 per year. Address

The Charlevoix Journal,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association.

This association, of which our townsman G. W. Crouter was president during the past year, held its annual session in Detroit last week. We have not room for even a synopsis of its work, beyond what may be gleaned from the following brief abstract of President Crouter's address as published in the daily Free Press:

When two years ago a company tively few earnest men met at Lansing and determined upon organizing a State Pharmaceutical Association, their most sanguine expectations fell far short of the magnificent success of this society and the brilliant achievements so soon to be recorded in the statute book of the State.

For years a state pharmacy law was thought of only as a dim possibility. The futile efforts made by our immortal namesake and predecessor, in former years, only served to make the prospects of success more shadowy and remote. But then came a time when the druggists of Michigan were aroused from their lethargy. Organization had secured legislation in many other states—Michigan was being made the receptacle for the sweepings of her more fortunate neighbors. Pharmacy was being degraded by the contact. Education without regulative legislation was esteemed as good enough for visionary enthusiasts, but hardly worth the serious attention of a practical man of business. Professional competency was also a very desirable thing, but it was regarded as too expensive a luxury for busy, money making druggists, who found that it rarely yielded a satisfactory cash equivalent.

The situation excited the apprehensions of all interested in the welfare of pharmacy in Michigan. Our beloved state, they declared, shall not be the refuge of charlatans and incompetents of other states. Michigan must maintain her high educational rank in the army of states and pharmacy shall be honored with the dignity of legal recognition and protection. The forces of progress were duly marshaled and after a stubborn by contested fight in the legislature, the victory was won by the enactment of a law which for completeness, strength and efficiency will, we may believe, be found to be without an equal in the country.

The bill passed through a tremendous fire but a single section was materially injured and this section, though it permits general trading to general dealers in the sale of certain drugs, is emphatic against any person selling himself a pharmacist or dispensing a prescription unless he be actually registered. This is the essence of the legislation demanded and with it, the law cannot be regarded otherwise than as a triumph for progressive pharmacy.

The president continuing with his address, recommended a legal existence for the association at as early a date as possible; that article 3 of the by-laws be changed to read, "The intention fee shall be $1, which shall be paid to the secretary," that the Michigan association send delegates to the other states' Pharmaceutical Associations, and that the secretary be empowered to pay the annual dues of the members of the association out of the treasury, the necessary funds for the railway journey; although, to be credit be it said, they as a rule do manage to solve this difficult problem some way or other, and before their husbands have fairly settled down in their new quarters they are generally located in a lodging within easy distance of the harbor gate.

Incredible as it may seem, not very many years ago as many as three or four soldiers' families had to accommodate themselves in a single room in barracks, the only division being curtains stretched across. After a time the authorities awoke to the fact that this state of things was not quite what it should be, and a single room to each couple has long been the order of the day.

Powdered rice is said to have a great effect in stopping bleeding from frescoes. The rice powder is sprinkled upon it-st, each as then applied as a compress.

The Wives of English Soldiers.

The general reader knows more, probably, about the solar system than about the details of regimental life; though he is always ready to listen to a tale of wrong like that which was lately told about soldiers' wives. It will be news to many that a soldier cannot lawfully get married, or is not recognized as lawfully married, until he has completed six years' service and is also the possessor of a good conduct badge. Having served the allotted period, he has to be obtained from the commanding officer of the regiment; but as a rule permission is granted readily enough. But even then it may be some time before the newly-selected benedict can avail himself of the privileges of "free quarters."

The proportion of married men for whom accommodation is provided by Government is about 10 per cent of the total strength of the regiment, and when a man has obtained the necessary permission (neither the body estate it may happen that the "married strength" of the regiment is already above the limit, in which case he has to support his wife out of his regimental pay and rations. But he is allowed the privilege of "living out of mess"; that is to say, instead of taking his meals in barracks with the other men he is permitted to draw his rations and do his best to make three-quarters of a pound of meat per diem and one pound of bread fill two mouths instead of one. How the men contrive to make both ends meet under such circumstances is a mystery; but they do, and as a rule the married men of a regiment contrive to keep up a better kit than their unencumbered companions. Of course there are exceptions; and many an officer will be able to call to mind some startling effects encountered in his subaltern days on the occasions of "kit inspection"—as when what to all intents and purposes seemed to be a neatly folded linen shirt or flannel vest has proved on closer inspection to be the remains of an article of female attire not usually worn by the male sex.

When once a married man has become enrolled on the "strength," his position is materially improved. He has his single room in barracks, with coal, gas, and wood free; his wife gets a share of the regimental washing, and if she is a good laundress frequently has some of the mess and officers' linen to wash. By the practice of strict economy a soldier's wife can, under such conditions, enjoy a more comfortable existence than if she is mated to an agricultural laborer or mechanic. But even under the most favorable conditions it is hard to lay by for a rainy day; and we may be sure that many of the wives of the brave fellows who have lately set out for the Soudan had not more than a few shillings to make a fresh start with. In civil life a thrifty housewife will endeavor to lay by a small store against bad times occasioned by slackness of work, when the breadwinner may, through force of circumstances, be compelled to enjoine a spell of enforced idleness; but with the soldier's wife this necessity is not apparent. So long as her husband remains in the service (illness or well) so long will he receive a certain amount of daily pay; and although the contingency of his services being required abroad may at times present itself to her mind, the possibility of such an event is usually overlooked until it arrives to find her quite unprepared.

Putting aside the men married "with leave," there are in nearly every regiment a large proportion of men who have got married without the necessary permit to do so. Although they do not actually offend against military law, their status as married men cannot be recognized by the authorities. The man who marries without sanction is to all practical intents and purposes looked upon as single. He is compelled to continue to mess with his comrades in barracks, although as a rule a certain amount of laxity is observed in allowing leave to sleep out of barracks. When a regiment moves from one station to another the wives of such men often find it a matter of extreme difficulty to secure together the necessary funds for the railway journey; although, to their credit be it said, they as a rule do manage to solve this difficult problem some way or other, and before their husbands have fairly settled down in their new quarters they are generally located in a lodging within easy distance of the barrack gate.

Incredible as it may seem, not very many years ago as many as three or four soldiers' families had to accommodate themselves in a single room in barracks, the only division being curtains stretched across. After a time the authorities awoke to the fact that this state of things was not quite what it should be, and a single room to each couple has long been the order of the day.

Hymeneal.

At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Wm. Sherman, in Charlevoix, on Wednesday, October 14, 1885, by the Rev. E. Van Andel, Mr. Frank Sherman and Miss Ella Sherman, all of Charlevoix.

The happy couple have the congratulations of their friends, and the JOURNAL joins in the chorus.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Five residents of Buffalo, N. Y., most of whom are connected with a branch of the Standard Oil Company, have been indicted for conspiracy to burn the subtreasury works at that city.

The performing elephant Empress, now in winter quarters at Philadelphia, killed her third man last week, striking him twice with her trunk, crushing his chest with a tent, and disembowelling him with a tusk. The victim was a watchman named Robert E. Watts.

A boat containing W. S. Neale, Deekie and Annie Neale (sisters), and Mary Neale, their cousin, sank near Millville Dam, Pa., the three girls, who were on their way to church, being drowned. The young man escaped after a terrible struggle with his drowning relatives.

Natural gas is being rapidly substituted for coal at Pittsburgh. Another rich strike has been made near the city.

The total exports of produce from New York for the last week aggregated at $8,115,928.

The demand for iron and steel at Philadelphia during the week was exceptional, but prices were nearly held. Nails are in short supply, and have advanced to $2.50 to $2.60.

Officers of the Secret Service raided a camp of eleven counterfeiters in Clarion County, Pennsylvania, capturing six of them, who were taken to Pittsburgh and committed for trial. The others escaped into the woods. The gang has been extensively engaged in manufacturing and circulating spurious silver dollars.

James Gilbert Thorpe, of Eau Claire, Wis., and Miss Annie Longfellow, daughter of the poet, were married at the Longfellow mansion, Cambridge, Mass.

After the wedding feast of Harry S. Bulin, of Chicago, and Harriet B. Watson, at Honesdale, Pa., thirty of the guests were taken violently ill, with indications of poisoning. The physicians who attended the patients said that potted ham caused the trouble. At last reports no fatal results were anticipated.

WESTERN.

At Chico, Cal., wheat was burned in two houses valued at $12,000.

For the first nine months of 1885 there were 2,016 building permits issued in Chicago, representing an expenditure of $15,776,116. Over three-fifths were for residence property.

Could promises the people of St. Louis a new indoor depot when satisfactory arrangements for the Iron Mountain depot shall have been made.

The net earnings of the Central Pacific for July were $675,000—an increase of $135,291 over the corresponding month of last year.

In a fight with gloves, at Louisville, between Burke and Cole, the latter, the Canada champion, the result was a draw. The former had agreed to knock the latter out in four rounds, and not only failed but was very severely punished.

Fifteen horses belonging to A. H. Truman were killed under the direction of the Joint Stock Commission at Lincoln, Neb., lst. Four of them had the glanders, and the others had been exposed to the contagion. It is thought that the disease is stamped out, so far as Illinois is concerned.

W. M. Jasper, ex-candidate for County Treasurer, made an attack on Col. B. H. Anthony, of the Leavenworth Times, striking him with his cane, and attempting to strike a second time with a white lead, but the interference of a bystander averted what might have been a fatal blow.

The body of a young Presbyterian minister, the Rev. T. Heatherly, of Nashville, Tenn., was found on the eastern shore of the Houston (Miss.) section, on the hands grasping a clasped pistol. It is supposed that he committed suicide.

The town of Lincoln, Neb., has voted $50,000 to Lincoln and in the extension of the Missouri Pacific to that point.

A Chinese laundry at Oakland, Cal., burned, five inmates perishing in the flames.

H. W. Shaw, known to fame as "Josh Billings," died at Monterey, Cal., of apoplexy.

The Wisconsin Supreme Court has decided that a wife is entitled to sue for alimony, even though her husband had been granted a decree of divorce.

SOUTHERN.

Clarles Wright and Jasper Owens fought a duel with knives in a cotton field in Clark County, Arkansas, the latter being mortally wounded. Wright, who is well connected, gave himself into custody.

Lost March a press association sent out an item to the effect that — Hixon, tax collector of Blount County, Alabama, in attempting to rob his own house at night, had been shot and killed by his wife. The Huntsville Times copied the paragraph from another paper, and Dixon sent for him, the jury at Huntsville last week returning a verdict of $5 damages, the small amount being owing to Judge Key's favorable ruling on the Times' construction of the law of libel. Hixon intends to prosecute every paper that published the item.

A reign of terror exists in portions of Bienville Parish, Louisiana, resulting from a neighborhood feud of several years' standing. Two men have been dangerously wounded, and several others, both black and white, have been bitten nearly to death by snapped mad dogs. It is reported that several of the miscreants have been arrested.

Excitement has been caused in Louisville by the exposure of an alleged scheme, to which the Mayor and other municipal officers are said to be parties, to rush an ordinance through the Council giving a subsidy of $1,000,000 to the Louisville Southern Railroad, without submitting the question to a popular vote or complying with the general charter.

Gen. William Howard Irvin, a veteran officer of two wars, has become hopelessly demented, and has been placed in an asylum at Louisville.

WASHINGTON.

The items of "ginger ale," "lemonade," and "champagne" were stricken from the expense account of the stick-carrying commission by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Only five complaints regarding the foreign mail service have been lodged with the postoffice department since the American steamship lines refused to carry the mails at the rates offered, about sixty days ago.

The Postmaster General has decided that guarantee associations can not become sureties on the official bonds of postmasters.

Payment of the claims of the State of Colorado for unclaimed the result of taking the first enumeration of the territory on the ground that the State is indebted to the United States to a larger amount on account of the direct tax of August 5, 1861, treasuring the claim of Dakota Territory a deficiency has been made on similar grounds.

Over $600,000 has been pledged for the establishment of a Catholic university at Washington, and the promoters expect to have $1,000,000 secured by Jan. 1. Work on the buildings will begin within a few weeks.

The Postmaster General has made a ruling to the effect that in cases where railroad companies carrying the mail are subject to forfeiture in lieu and recovery it from product, from which responsibility applies in stations where the postoffice is within eighty rods of the stoppage-place of the train, the employees carrying the mails between the station and office are not employes in the postal service, and need not be sworn in. The department, however, requires the railroad company to employ for this purpose persons over the age of 18 years and of suitable intelligence and character, and postmasters are directed to report any violations of this requirement.

POLITICAL.

On the 1st of December there will be nearly one hundred vacancies in Presidential postoffices, caused by resignations and the expiration of commissions.

It is rumored at Washington that Charles E. Codman, a Massachusetts mugwump, will succeed Truman H. Aldrich as Civil Service Commissioner.

The bill passed by the last Michigan Legislature, prohibiting the employment of school-teachers, has been held on constitutional grounds by a court judge.

Richard S. Bennett, of Illinois, has been appointed surveyor-general of the territory of Utah, John H. Evans, one of the last office at Salt Lake City, Geo. Q. Cannon, Lloyd T. Boyd, Receiver of Public Moneys at Hailfield, Wyo. The President has declared the following Postmasters, the incumbents of their predecessors having expired:

Daniel Stewart at Walla Walla, W. T.; Jerome H. Thomas at Watertown, D. T.; Charles A. Parker at Mahone, N. C.; Colonel Benton at Caldwell, Kan.; Charles Hoffman at Marion, Kan.; Dr. De F. Blair at Great Bend, Kan.; L. W. Jeanes, San Diego, Cal.; William Newcomb, Paso Robles, Cal.; Elliott T. Earl at Clarinda, Iowa; Jacob Sharp at Independence, Iowa; Samuel W. Tomeck at Lancaster, Ky.; W. W. Watkins at Lebanon, Ky.; William McPolin at Bowlington, Ky.; James G. Pressland at Alton, S. C.; Charles J. Strain at Blackstock, S. C.; J. B. Carter at Mullins, S. C.; Geraldine Hewstis at Dunbrook, Va.; Thomas J. Jones at Cape May, N. J.; Ferd Ziegler, Sauk Center, Minn.; Wesley Walker at Chittenandy, Mo.; David M. Bennett at Jefferson, Iowa; M. Stephenson at Winterset, Mo.; H. F. Tallman at Lanark, Ill.; C. C. Bonney at Galesburg, Ill.; Charles Stewart at Algona, Iowa; Andrew J. Chakenpoint at Kalamazoo, Mich.; Michael D. Baker at Unionville, Da.; Miss Sanders Clark at Hiner, Neb.

The following Postmasters have been appointed by the President:

John Sneedy at Big Springs, Texas, office lately Presidential; John Cram, at Augusta, Montana, office lately Presidential; Frederick Dorman at Ennis, Montana, office lately Presidential; R. W. Hill at Jewell, Kan., office lately become Presidential; Jos. H. Dawson at Ellensburg, Pa., vice Samuel James, suspended; David T. Rogers at Perkinson, N. Va., vice Lewis T. Jackson, suspended; Henry C. Terrell at Hillsboro, Kan., vice John F. Hall, suspended.

The official figures of the Indianapolis municipal election are as follows: Mayor—Denny, Republican, 8,082; Dufford, Democrat, 8,033. For Clerk—Brenning, Republican, 8,066; Shields, Democrat, 8,085. The Prohibition vote was 157, and the Greenback, 85. The Republicans have one majority in the Council, and the Board of Aldermen is a tie. At the charter election in Newark, N. J., Mayor Haynes, Democrat, was reelected by 251 majority. The Republicans carry all the other city offices, and elect nine out of fifteen Councilmen, the same number of School Commissioners, and eight out of fifteen chosen freeholders.

The municipal election in Chattanooga, Tenn., was closely contested. The entire Republican ticket was elected by a reduced majority.

The Nebraska Republican State Convention met at Lincoln on the 11th inst. Amasa Cobb was renominated for the Supreme Bench. For Regents of the University, Lorenzo Dunshee and Charles H. Gere were nominated. Both now hold the same positions. The platform denounces the administration and the Democratic party, inside on a protective tariff, and refuses to submit the prohibition question.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The race for the base-ball championship of America this year has been the most exciting within the history of the League. After a most stubborn contest the Chicago Club wins the coveted pennant by the narrow margin of two more lost games than her great rival, the New York Club. The percentage of the chicagos was .754, which has only been exceeded twice—in 1876 and 1880—and then by themselves, and they came out of the contest as sound both in batting and fielding, and with 15 more runs to their credit than any of their competitors. The following table shows the number of games won and lost during the season by the eight contending clubs:

CLUBS.	Chicago.	New York.	Philadelphia.	Providence.	Boston.	Detroit.	Buffalo.	St. Louis.
Chicago	—	11	11	14	10	14	14	12
New York	9	—	12	12	11	13	13	12
Philadelphia	9	8	—	8	9	11	11	9
Providence	6	8	7	—	7	13	8	12
Boston	10	9	11	13	—	12	12	12
Detroit	6	7	9	8	8	—	9	9
Buffalo	6	7	9	12	8	11	—	8
St. Louis	8	8	11	8	8	11	12	—
Games lost	54	57	67	65	61	75	75	74
Games won	84	82	72	74	78	63	63	64

The St. Louis Club captures the American Association pennant, the record standing as follows:

CLUBS.	St. Louis.	Louisville.	Cincinnati.	Brooklyn.	Baltimore.	Pittsburgh.	Metropolitan.	Columbus.
St. Louis	—	10	12	12	12	12	12	12
Louisville	8	—	11	12	12	12	12	12
Cincinnati	8	7	—	11	12	12	12	12
Athletic	7	8	7	—	9	10	11	10
Brooklyn	6	6	6	3	—	9	10	10
Baltimore	6	6	6	2	3	—	9	10
Pittsburgh	6	6	6	1	2	3	—	9
Metropolitan	6	6	6	1	2	2	3	—
Games lost	52	49	54	42	52	60	69	73
Games won	72	75	70	82	72	64	55	51

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

A special dispatch from Washington to the New York Times says:

There is a rumor here that some of the Republican senators have formed a scheme of a combination between themselves and the Democrats to defeat the President has made, which is intended to action when the appointments come before the Senate for confirmation. As an instance of how this scheme is said to be working, it is stated that the Republican caucus of some prominent Republicans from the West which the information was communicated. Philetus Sawyer, of Wisconsin, is outlining the lights concerning the removal of Postmaster Pradding, and will take charge of the matter. The confirmation of Sedgwick, Mr. Spalding's successor, is said to be in doubt, and the Senate Democrats propose to indeed upon an agent. The confirmation.

The obsequies of Cardinal McCloskey in the grand cathedral at New York were of the most impressive character. Five thousand persons were admitted to the building, and the adjacent squares were blocked with carriages. The Papal Zouaves were in position about the cathedral. Two hundred priests and bishops chanted the office of the dead, and a choir of one hundred voices chanted a requiem mass. Archbishop Corrigan celebrated pontifical mass, and Archbishop Gibbons preached the funeral sermon. The remains were deposited in the crypt beneath the altar of the Archbishop.

There are 100 cases of diphtheria and typhoid fever at S. Hanning, Pa., and fifteen deaths from these diseases have occurred within ten days. In many instances whole families have been stricken down.

Mr. Cyrus W. Field, by his will, gives $1,000 to the Hospital for the Relief of Poor Women and Children, and $1,000 to the Society for Relief of Ruptured and Crippled.

Since 1880 the assisted immigration to whence has cost Canada $3,980,000.

A concealed man, giving the name of Jones, attempted to secure a casino in a jewelry store at Louisville, about midnight, and waited for a pressure to shake loose that he desired a home in the penitentiary for a few years, having suffered unbearably long enough.

The Turkish Government has refused the green powers that the renewal of Greece's access to peace. The Porte has purchased 1,500 cartridges in Hungary, to be delivered at once.

The Nebraska Democratic State Convention convened at Lincoln Oct. 6. Frank Morrison was nominated for Supreme Judge and E. B. Dickinson and John E. Zelle for Regents of the State University. The platform demands the construction of a canal equal to any in the world, and a comprehensive system of irrigation. It asks for the further cutting of forest, and demands the exclusion of the Chinese.

In relation to the Ohio election, a Cincinnati dispatch of Oct. 13, says:

While there is no material change in the State, there is more encouragement to the Democrats than there was last fall over the doubtful issues of the day. The Democrats have made a vigorous fight on the issue, and perhaps on the issue coming up, particularly in the Northern counties, and it will be fully as strong on this part of the Republican State ticket. The Democrats have no hope of a Legislature, and, if we read the signs aright, they will not make the effort to carry the State. The Republicans are sanguine that they will carry the State, and are working for the Legislature, and, if they do, it will be a very close shave. The Democrats

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Proceedings of the October Session, 1885.

Monday, Oct. 12, 1885.

Board met in Loveday's hall, East Jordan, and was called to order by chairman Platteplace. Roll called: present:

Bear Lake—E. C. Platteplace.
Boyne Valley—Wm. Nelson.
Chandler—A. P. Hensley.
Charlevoix—Oscar Upright.
Evangeline—H. A. Jersey.
Eveline—Ava Smith.
Hayes—
Hudson—Jas. McKibbin.
Marion—John Ward.
Melrose—J. B. Jordan.
Norwood—
Resort—C. J. Wooden.
South Arm—J. A. Kent.
Springvale—A. W. Aldrey.
Wilson—Geo. W. Bailey.

A communication from state board of corrections and charities was read and referred to committee on ways and means.

On motion the apportionment of state taxes was read and referred to committee on ways and means.

Mr. Kent moved that the committee on printing be instructed to ascertain the cost of 200 copies in pamphlet form, of report of county clerk and county treasurer. Carried.

On motion the claims presented were referred to the committee.

Adjourned.

Tuesday, Oct. 13.

All present except supervisor Burgess.

H. A. Jersey offered a resolution asking the board to make corrections in the descriptions of certain pieces of land in the township of Evangeline as made by the supervisor. Carried.

Adjourned.

Wednesday, Oct. 14.

Roll called: full board present. Minutes read and approved.

A resolution by Mr. McKibbin appropriating $300 to assist in the construction of the Boyne Falls and Hudson state road to be expended from the east line of section 17, town of Hudson, as far eastward as the same will extend. Was referred to the committee on roads, bridges, and dams.

On motion of Mr. Ward, W. C. Newman was reappointed superintendent of poor.

Adjourned.

Thursday, Oct. 15.

Roll called: full board present. Minutes read and approved.

Mr. Smith presented a petition signed by 114 citizens of Eveline, asking that H. E. Sheldon be released from further obligations to the county in the capacity of chartered ferryman at Ironton, and that the county establish a free ferry at that place. Referred to special committee, to report at next meeting of board.

The committee to settle with the superintendents of poor reported amounts expended as follows:

Food	$880 98
Transportation	389 80
Superintendents' quarterly reports	10 25
Advertising	5 50
Clothing	69 53
Medicine and medical attendance	423 18
Stationery	1 25
Nursing	88 45
Burial	35 50
Telephone	85
Supervisors' fees	6 98
Total	$1,912 57

The amount expended by townships in support and care of poor is: $6,618.88, making the total $2,281.17.

The committee recommended the appropriations of $1,700 for the present year.

Report accepted and adopted.

The appropriation for the Boyne Falls and Hudson state road was carried by a vote of 11 to 4.

Committee on equalization reported recommending as follows, which was adopted:

TOWNSHIPS.	Personal Assessed.	Real Est. Assessed.	Total as Equalized.
Bear Lake	$805	$58,906	$59,835
Boyne Valley	6,117	107,837	109,715
Charlevoix	14,267	393,837	477,760
Chandler	1,140	56,571	57,847
Evangeline	10,560	219,279	230,159
Eveline	27,600	225,938	251,956
Hayes	1,240	119,259	121,300
Hudson	3,595	168,026	174,811
Marion	4,200	112,950	117,450
Melrose	1,200	111,256	112,499
Norwood	13,590	92,915	105,865
Resort	1,740	37,508	38,580
South Arm	12,240	264,461	305,003
Springvale	1,200	36,246	37,446
Wilson	2,260	154,065	156,528
Total			$2,262,578

The committee to settle with county treasurer reported books and vouchers correct.

Bill of W. S. Johnson for board of Michael Dooney was disallowed.

Bill of G. Bennett for witness fees was disallowed.

Bill of Dr. Carlstein for medical attendance of Michael Dooney was rejected.

Mr. Harris moved that hereafter 50 cents per day be allowed for board of prisoners. Carried.

Bill of Sheriff Jordan laid over one day, to allow committee to further investigate.

A resolution by Mr. Hensley asking that $250 be appropriated to assist in completing the state road on section lines between section 13 and 14, 23 and 24, 25 and 26, town 33 north, range 4 west, was lost by a vote of 6 ayes to 9 nays.

The superintendents of the poor were directed to use the rent of the poor farm in improving the farm, in their discretion.

Adjourned.

Friday, Oct. 16.

Full board present. Minutes read, corrected, and approved.

The committee on rejected and charged-back taxes reported recommending that the several amounts be spread on the rolls according to statement from the auditor general. Report adopted.

Messrs. Kent, Smith, and Ward were announced as the special committee to examine into the construction of a ferry at Ironton.

The committee on printing reported that 200 pamphlets containing the reports of the treasurer and clerk would cost $100; that certain portions of the clerk's report was required by law to be published in some newspaper in the county; that in the opinion of the committee the pamphlets would be an unnecessary expense; and recommended that the printing be given to the Charlevoix Sentinel at $75 for the reports, and the circuit court calendars for the same price as heretofore allowed.

Mr. Kent moved to amend the report so as to allow the work to be let to the lowest bidder. Lost:—ayes 3, nays 12. The report was then adopted.

Mr. Upright presented a petition from the common council of the village of Charlevoix, asking that a certain strip of land owned by the county, and formerly occupied by the old court house and jail, be conveyed to the village to be used for opening and extending Hurlbut avenue. On motion of Mr. Kent the petition was granted.

On motion of Mr. Ward, the clerk and chairman were directed to convey the land described in the petition.

The clerk read a communication from the county treasurer, stating that the county did not own a burglar proof safe, in which to keep the county funds, and asked that one be purchased or rented.

On motion of Mr. Kent, the treasurer was instructed to rent such a safe.

Mr. Kent presented a communication from the township board of South Arm, offering the use of the new town hall for county purposes for an annual rental fee of one dollar per year; also a resolution instructing the county clerk to make a lease of the same with the township board; and designated the town hall of the of the township of South Arm as the place for holding the circuit court for this county. Resolution adopted by the following vote: Ayes—Platteplace, Smith, Burgess, Ward, Harris, Kent, Abley, and Bailey, 8; nays—Upright, Hensley, McKibbin, Wood-en, Nelson, Jersey, and Jordan, 7.

Sheriff Jordan explained some features of his bill as presented.

A recess was taken till 2 o'clock p. m.

On reassembling a motion was made to take a further recess until 4 o'clock. Carried.

At 4 o'clock the committee on claims reported, which report was adopted. The following claims were allowed as recommended by the committee:

	Claimed.	Allowed.
A. J. McLeod	$33 25	$16 25
J. T. Pickard	2 00	1 50
Jas. Clish	2 00	1 50
Geo. Chamberlin	2 00	1 50
S. M. Rose	2 00	1 50
A. J. McLeod	4 25	4 65
C. Keller	2 00	2 00
H. Newman	2 00	3 00
C. Crain	2 00	1 50
S. Chatterton	2 00	3 00
Geo. Wood	2 00	3 00
J. A. Heath	2 00	3 00
A. R. Noyes	18 75	9 25

The following bills were allowed at amounts claimed:

T. F. Nelson	$35 00	M. Linnemeyer	5 65
Ed. Platteplace	33 00	C. W. Miller	2 00
W. Nelson	19 50	J. Pechoutte	1 15
A. E. Hendryx	21 00	A. Wilson	1 50
H. Cortright	20 40	C. Collis	2 45
H. A. Jersey	19 50	B. M. Culp	1 00
Ava Smith	18 54	R. R. Miller	1 00
J. H. Burgess	20 25	H. Bennett	3 00
J. McKibbin	25 22	J. Redpath	3 75
J. Ward	20 50	H. Thompson	1 50
J. B. Jordan	20 50	Z. N. Graham	4 50
W. Harris	21 00	D. Caton	50
J. A. Kent	20 50	D. Dougherty	50
A. A. Reed	20 50	J. H. Wickerell	50
A. W. Aldrey	22 00	J. E. Sisson	6 50
C. W. Bailey	19 00	J. H. Pomeroy	50
E. W. Kane	8 35	S. B. Thatcher	14 40
Billing Bros.	108 50	J. H. Stone	1 50
Statesman	5 50	A. McNawby	2 10
J. S. Dodge	2 00	J. H. Pomeroy	50
J. N. Clifford	2 00	J. H. Pomeroy	50
Geo. Pappin	4 95	R. M. Winslow	50
A. A. Cross	4 25	H. Winfield	50
D. C. Haight	1 00	E. N. Cook	50
E. Lisher	1 00	S. M. Rose	50
E. Calnor	1 00	J. W. Rogers	1 00
J. Clish	1 00	J. Chatterton	50
J. Chisholm	1 00	W. C. Newman	2 75
C. Tillotson	1 00	Wm. Black	23 82
Tom Bay	85	F. C. Benner	33 33
J. Simpson	85	Jas. Dunn	17 95
J. Prater	85	H. C. Cooper	26 75
W. Prater, Sr.	85	J. A. Corbelin	76 00
W. Prater, Jr.	85	J. H. Porter	2 00
Mrs. Hardy	85	S. Whitford	2 00
Jack Healy	85	F. E. Fogg	6 20
S. McFlamm	85	W. L. Wright	26 75
John Cranklow	85	G. W. Jefferis	1 50
J. J. Stevenson	5 00	J. Porter	1 50
H. Parsons	208 62	J. W. Bennett	5 00
H. W. Wood	1 00	J. H. Porter	2 00
H. W. Wood	1 00	Chas. Parker	1 00
J. W. Rogers	3 30	Mich. Journal	7 25
J. Trumble	2 75	W. McAllister	85
C. A. Eberhart	1 00	J. Garland	85
Geo. Crawford	1 00	S. A. Kent	41 00
H. Blake	1 00	Jackman & Id-Sullivan	16 77
D. L. Lansing	1 00	O. Hile	6 45
D. F. Caton	1 00	Richmond Backus & Co.	102 29
D. Brown	1 00	Kalamazoo Pub. Co.	130 15
J. Maddock	1 00	F. A. Foster	26 00
J. Hamilton	1 00
A. J. McLeod	17 25
A. J. McLeod	17 25
W. C. Newman	6 00

Mr. Jersey offered a resolution authorizing the supervisor from the township of Evangeline to reassess upon certain descriptions of land in said township the taxes for 1884.

On motion of Mr. Harris, the clerk and chairman were authorized to convey to Mr. Mason for $50 a strip of land cut off from the old court house lot by the extension of Hurlbut avenue.

The committee on ways and means recommended that $11,813.87 be raised as a county tax for the current year, being five mills on the dollar of taxable property in the county. Report adopted.

Adjourned.

Saturday, Oct. 17.

Roll called; full board present; minutes read and approved.

The committee on apportionment reported as follows, which was adopted:

TOWNSHIPS.	State Tax.	Co. Tax.
Bear Lake	$893 78	$719 17
Boyne Valley	335 12	268 58
Charlevoix	826 56	2,266 78
Chandler	117 55	59 75
Evangeline	1,185 49	1,215 25
Eveline	876 43	1,325 06
Hayes	209 95	656 56
Hudson	1,251 54	900 00
Melrose	194 03	562 42
Marion	263 13	338 25
Norwood	167 03	1,176 75
Resort	163 64	179 67
South Arm	1,128 18	1,728 42
Springvale	163 11	202 22
Wilson	248 40	390 00
Totals	$8,067 60	$11,813 87

On motion of Mr. Jersey, the several supervisors read the amounts to be raised in their respective townships as follows:

TOWNSHIPS.	Contingent.	Bridge.	School.	High-way.
Bear Lake	$200 00	$365 00	$720 17	$320 17
Boyne Valley	400 00	500 00	317 22	317 22
Charlevoix	1,000 00	1,000 00	1,266 78	1,266 78
Chandler	250 00	242 00	300 00	300 00
Eveline	1,000 00	1,250 00	1,576 24	1,576 24
Evangeline	1,000 00	2,230 72	3,017 02	3,017 02
Hayes	700 00	793 13	696 56	696 56
Hudson	300 00	440 00	576 63	576 63
Marion	300 00	361 00	562 42	562 42
Melrose	300 00	500 00	562 42	562 42
Norwood	500 00	1,000 14	1,176 75	1,176 75
Resort	175 00	227 00	196 67	196 67
South Arm	750 00	1,100 00	1,728 42	1,728 42
Springvale	200 00	490 00	202 22	202 22
Wilson	350 00	1,126 00	776 91	776 91

Charlevoix $600 special highway; Chandler $375 special highway, $90.63 rejected tax, $15 dog; Evangeline $90 bridge; Hudson $2,331 rejected tax; Marion $191.12 bridge, $956.17 drain; Melrose $15.70 rejected tax, $150 cemetery; Norwood $75 special highway; Resort $75 special highway; South Arm $23.53 rejected tax, $225 bridge; Wilson $72 special highway, $40.75 rejected tax.

Bills of supervisors for per diem and mileage were read and allowed.

The thanks of the board were extended to the chairman, E. C. Platteplace.

Adjourned sine die.

ALWAYS USEFUL.

If you have Rheumatism, Neuralgia or any Sprains, Stiff Cords, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Sore Throat, &c., Parmelee's Universal Liniment will cure quickly and surely. If your Horse has Bone Spavin, Sweeny, Sprain, Bruises or Lameness of any kind, Parmelee's Universal Liniment is the best possible remedy you can use. Large bottles 50 cents, ordinary size 25 cents.

Sold by Dr. C. W. Crosier, Charlevoix, and Crosier & Harris, Ironton.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Notes and News.

Ann Arbor Argus: It is truly laughable to witness the spirituing on the part of the republican press, whenever an officeholder is removed, no matter if he has feasted at the public crib for 24 years. Those fellows who have long enjoyed snug berths and their friends appear to think that they have a sort of divine right to hold office during their natural lives. Well, it may be hard; but wasn't it hard for the other fellows, each and every one of whom had to go within six months after Lincoln was inaugurated.

The Ovid Union mentions a reunion of reform school boys at the residence of W. H. Faxon, which was quite a novel affair, all things considered. Mr. Faxon is agent for Clinton county for the reform school, and has procured good homes for sixteen or eighteen young men, from 14 to 17 years of age. He and his daughter Miss Carrie planned for a social gathering and dinner for these boys, and gave them a surprise by inviting their old superintendent, C. A. Gower, of Lansing, to be present. This is an excellent supplement to the plan of work adopted by Mr. Gower for the benefit of boys who are sent to the institution. There is very little of the appearance of a prison in their surroundings and treatment, yet the discipline is really strict and of a character to make good men of the boys who might, if left to themselves, soon make the worst kind of criminals. Years ago we knew Mr. Faxon as superintendent of the Lansing M. E. Sunday school, and he seems to be still engaged in the good work for humanity.

The Ohio Election.

Cincinnati, October 16.—Complete unofficial returns on the head of the ticket in Ohio have now been received. The counties not given last night are: Brown, 889 plurality for Hoadly; Hamilton, 300 for Hoadly; Ottawa, 1,129 for Hoadly. This makes a total of 23,201 for Forakter, 35,513 for Hoadly; Forakter's plurality, 17,688.

BOTTOM PRICES for Poster printing at this office. The best work for the least money.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 29, 1885.

Provision Market.

Retail prices to consumers, corrected every Wednesday morning, by Lemont & Emmons, general dealers.

Flour, per bbl., $5.50, $5.75, and $6.00.
Graham, per cwt., bolted $2.00, unbolted $1.95.
Meal, per bbl., $80.12.
Oatmeal, per bbl., $4.00.
Meal, per cwt., $1.60.
Feed, per cwt., $1.60.
Middlings, per cwt., $1.60.
Potatoes, per bu., 30@40.
Beans, per bu., $1.90@1.95.
Butter, per lb., 20@25.
Eggs, per doz., 18@20.
Lard, per lb., 8@9.
Hams, per lb., 10@12½c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9.
Side Meat, per lb., 8@9.
Salt Pork, per lb., 8@9.
Dried Beef, per lb., 12@15.
Chickens, per lb., 10@12.
Turkeys, per lb., 12@15.
Ducks, per lb., 12@15.
Geese, per lb., 12@15.
Tallow, per lb., 3@4.
Salt, per bbl., $2.
Salt, per sack, $1.25@1.50.
Vinegar, per gal., 30c.
Cranberries, per bu., $2.50.
Apples, per bu., 40@50.
Onions, per bu., 75@80.
Turnips, per bu., 25@30.
Cabbage, per doz., $1.50@2.00.
Apple Cider, per gal., 10@15.

Fresh and Cured Meats.

Dressed hogs, $4.00@4.50.
Beef, per lb., 2@6.
Veal, per lb., 4@6.
Mutton, per lb., 4@6.
Lambs, per lb., 4@6.
Turkeys, per lb., 12@15.
Chickens, per lb., 10@12.
Ducks, per lb., 12@15.
Geese, per lb., 12@15.
Tallow, per lb., 3@4.
Salt Pork, per lb., 8@9.
Ham, per lb., 10@12½c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9.
Side Meat, per lb., 8@9.
Dried Beef, per lb., 12@15.

Fish and Game.

Salmon trout, per lb., 10@12½c.
Bass, per lb., 8@10.
Pickerel, per lb., 6@8.
Pickerel, per doz., $1.00@1.50.
Pickerel, per half bbl., $6.00@7.00.
Pickerel, per bbl., $12.00@14.00.
Pickerel, per half bbl., $7.00@8.00.
Pickerel, per bbl., $14.00@16.00.
Pickerel, per half bbl., $8.00@9.00.
Pickerel, per bbl., $16.00@18.00.
Pickerel, per half bbl., $9.00@10.00.
Pickerel, per bbl., $18.00@20.00.
Pickerel, per half bbl.,

AUTUMN.

BY WILLIAM HAUGHTON.

His foot fall is as gentle:
He comes with so much grace;
And such a pleasing sweetness
Lights up his shadowy face—
We hail him so he comes,
And at his side we stray
Wherever calls Humanity
To friend mankind's play.

Dabbled blue burns the glory
Of subduing cold and gray;
The woodland robes to meet him
Are tinted with a crimson stain—
And wine of a rich sun shadows
His velvet coat, and
Where purple violet wonders
Are melting round his bed.

I saw him kiss the summer,
Ere she had paled her face,
She trembled at his embrace,
Then blushed and turned away;
She wrapped his mantle round her
To hide her virgin brow—
So flight of heart he bound her,
So sad of heart her vow.

Can he will from summer,
And side by side House
The lithe pine and the willow
With unbelting gold and bloom—
Can bind the mound breathing
Sweet sough among a pen-fit fold,
And lay the sleeping stalking
Of crimson and of gold?

Then Hast and her fellows
O'er mountain, moor and lea—
Cry to the Spirit of Life
Whose power is all in
He transpires the wild leaves
The hollow leaves of dying;
He chills thy tinted flowers,
And mars the fair web of song.

Oh, Summer, linger near me—
Stay for one little week while
He if comes thee with a garland,
And thou shalt be a bride
Then while he adorn thee
The wintry blossoms bind
Nor fly him when he presses
His cold lips to thine!

WHAT DID IT MEAN?

BY THE AUTHOR OF "THE PROBATION OF JOHN-THY-THAKING," "FAR-FAMED."

St. James' Hall was crammed, stalls, balcony, orchestra seats, all were full; one vast mass of humanity; and yet it was only one of the ordinary Saturday Popular Concerts that was about to take place, there, concerts that have taken such a hold on the hearts of the London public, that they have lost to be neglected, and footfeeds their charms is insured.

But this afternoon the hall was unusually full; one of its old favorites—and the London public is very faithful to its favorites—was about to resume his visits after months of long and tedious illness, and was to be greeted with that storm of applause with which the habitues of St. James' Hall love to give to those who have ministered so faithfully to their pleasures.

Just as the clapping and cheering would be very bright, when the whole large room was vibrating from end to end with the tumult, and the hour of the occasion was passing, had to long hang, half off like a mirror over his face as he bowed again and again to acknowledge what of the plaudits, a little old man, with quite white hair, red, fragile, and well-dressed, walked noiselessly up the room, and took up his position in one of the outside stalls, sitting down quietly amid the tumult, and letting his bright keen old eyes rove on though in search of some one far over the head of the learning violinist to the seats behind the orchestra.

They were densely packed, as they usually are, with thousands of good music who are content to wait patiently for an hour or more to hear the sounds their souls delight in for the moderate sum of one shilling. There was not much beauty among them—there seldom is among musical people—so that the one face for which the little old man was seeking so eagerly stood out among its surroundings as some beautiful picture in a crowd of commonplace mediocrities. It was a sweet, fair face, but with a depth of sadness in the large gray eyes, that looked out of place in one apparently so young.

She—for it was a woman—was dressed in mourning, and had just laid aside a hook in which she had been absorbed when the great violinist came in. As she settled herself in her seat after the tumult had subsided, and the business of the afternoon was about to commence, she became aware of the gaze fixed so earnestly on her. She did not seem surprised, all last year at these same concerts, all this year up to the present time, she had felt those same eyes riveted on her, until she began to look on them as a matter of course, having forgotten both the annoyance they had caused her at first and the amusement of a later period.

Latterly, she had made up her mind that this little old gentleman was an amiable lunatic, as time after time, in whatever part of the hall she chanced to be, his quick eyes found her out, and kept her in a full state throughout the whole performance.

Just nothing more; no meeting her at the door, no following her as she walked home; no. She said to herself, he was a lunatic, but a gentleman, and with that reflection perhaps the music would begin, and she would forget all about him. But today, as she smiled to see the face she imagined as used to that she missed if by a rare chance she were absent, she could not but remark that it had, as it were, aged since the last week; the lines of age that formed a network over the delicate, sensitive old face seemed to have deepened and widened, the eyes to have lost somewhat of their bird-like brightness.

How yet old gentleman has aged this last year!" she thought carelessly to herself, as she drew in, with exquisite delight, the sweet wail of the violin, followed by a master-hand, that quickly drove all other thoughts out of her head.

Two hours later the concert was all over, and Helen Spencer was descending the ancient Westminster staircase that leads from the orchestral seats, with her aunt still ringing in her ears Beethoven and Schumann, and a vision of an old gentleman and his one hope, utterly forgotten for the little old gentleman. She was in hurry, for she was not the mistress of her own time, and was walking down Piccadilly as fast as conveniently will allow you to walk in a crowd, thoughtless who her passage across the street to the Green Park was stopped by a string of carriages. The boy from that hansom immediately in front of her was small and prettily appointed, and for one moment Helen caught a glimpse of its occupant. It was her little old gentleman, but he did not see her for he took naught the cushions, with his eyes cast and a look of deep abstraction on his face. This look, a young short through the girl's heart; how old he looked, and how lonely he seemed! almost as lonely as she was. * * And then there was a move; the carriages had passed on, and the policeman was motioning to her to take advantage of her chance of crossing.

Another ten minutes brought her to her destination, a house in Grosvenor place, and as the door was opened to her by a solemn butler, she asked anxiously, "Is Mrs. Fane come in yet?"

"No, miss," he answered, and with a lightened heart the girl ran quickly up the staircase, and entered the drawing-room almost as though afraid to pause.

Even as a flash of lightning there passed over her face a smile of intense pleasure, to be succeeded at once by her usual serene gravity, as she perceived that the room was not untenanted; a tall, fair-haired man was in one of the window-seats, reading the day's paper, and for his sake the tea-table, with its inviting load, Helen had thought of retiring, but the sight of the tea was too much for her. She was so tired—music always exhausted her, her cause she loved it so well; there could be no harm in sitting down for five minutes, even if he was there, and drinking a cup of tea in his company; so she advanced into the room. The fair-haired man pounced up at once.

"How is your beloved Dopsher, Miss Spencer?" he asked. "Then you must be tired," and almost before she could answer him, he had poured out a cup of tea and placed it in her unresisting hand. How sugar she was with him! Could Helen also not speak? Why did she feel inclined to cry? Why was she so fo-fish as to enter the room at all?

"Yes," she said, with an effort, "I have been to the 'Popular,' and we you come from Wandsleigh?"

"I suppose so," he answered, with an amused smile, "and this time for a fortnight."

"For a fortnight?"

"Yes. Does that displease you?" gently. She gathered her senses together.

"It can be nothing to me either one way or another," she answered rather bitterly, and put her cup down.

He looked at her in amazement, and was about to speak, when a loud knock at the door caused him to go to the window.

"It is my mother," he said, as he turned toward the room again, and then perceived that he was a-one. Miss Spencer had fled. Before he had time to assume his grave way to a muttered exclamation there was a rustle on the staircase, a rustling of silk and satin, heralding the approach of a person full of her own importance. It was Mr. Fane's mother. She came into the room from handsome, moneyed, arrogant—one glance at her told you all this. A strange contrast she, and quiet man whom she called her son, and whom she looked at complacently.

"You are alone, Edward," she asked.

"It appears so, mother," he answered, with his quiet smile, which kind her and put a cloak for her.

"I was afraid that designing girl had raced home from her concert to be alone with you, for Jesse tells me she is home in."

Edward Fane frowned. "The designing girl is a lady, mother," he said.

"Is—is she not, Edward? Jesse is a prudent one; I would, indeed, like to marry my son, but I should be very sorry to impress on her, that unless you marry with my full approval, not one—"

"I have heard that before, mother; there is no necessity to repeat the lesson, he said gravely; and Mrs. Fane for once felt the rebuke, and changed the subject.

Meanwhile, up-stairs in her bed-room, Helen Spencer was walking up and down in a state of agitation that her afternoon's employment hardly warranted. Four hours were a very long and though, also, consumed in a short time, and yet she had her appearance. He would be left, she thought, Jesse who it was that was going to the opera, and she, shamed, ashamed, when that functionary, with outward gravity but with inward glee, had ushered in those words of her name. Mrs. Spencer who was hunting, "Lady Fane," he added, after a pause.

"What, she has gone in?"

"Yes, miss; I saw Jesse did not know."

To a very nice lady-like and genuine a lady face of the luggage-laden cab were sought up and followed to the drawing-room was the work of a minute, and soon Edward Fane found himself driving close behind Helen Spencer through a network of strange and thoughtless that led to that far-famed region the East of London. Past Shoreditch Station, the Bethnal Green Museum, down the Hackney road, visiting the Victoria Park, until the cab stopped at one of those little villas with two windows, which in those days, uniformly turns the Mile End Road in that part of London.

As Helen stepped out of her cab, Edward did the same from his; and as she turned to speak, she found herself so advanced to address her. He had meant to attend her but the sight of her face, as she faced towards him with a deep blush, "I have to thank you for the time to find out that we had gone to some sort of conduct.

"Yes," she said, with an effort, "I have been to the 'Popular,' and we you come from Wandsleigh?"

"I suppose so," he answered, with an amused smile, "and this time for a fortnight.

"For a fortnight?"

"Yes. Does that displease you?" gently. She gathered her senses together.

"It can be nothing to me either one way or another," she answered rather bitterly, and put her cup down.

He looked at her in amazement, and was about to speak, when a loud knock at the door caused him to go to the window.

"It is my mother," he said, as he turned toward the room again, and then perceived that he was a-one. Miss Spencer had fled. Before he had time to assume his grave way to a muttered exclamation there was a rustle on the staircase, a rustling of silk and satin, heralding the approach of a person full of her own importance. It was Mr. Fane's mother. She came into the room from handsome, moneyed, arrogant—one glance at her told you all this. A strange contrast she, and quiet man whom she called her son, and whom she looked at complacently.

"You are alone, Edward," she asked.

"It appears so, mother," he answered, with his quiet smile, which kind her and put a cloak for her.

"I was afraid that designing girl had raced home from her concert to be alone with you, for Jesse tells me she is home in."

Edward Fane frowned. "The designing girl is a lady, mother," he said.

"Is—is she not, Edward? Jesse is a prudent one; I would, indeed, like to marry my son, but I should be very sorry to impress on her, that unless you marry with my full approval, not one—"

"I have heard that before, mother; there is no necessity to repeat the lesson, he said gravely; and Mrs. Fane for once felt the rebuke, and changed the subject.

Meanwhile, up-stairs in her bed-room, Helen Spencer was walking up and down, in a state of agitation that her afternoon's employment hardly warranted. Four hours were a very long and though, also, consumed in a short time, and yet she had her appearance. He would be left, she thought, Jesse who it was that was going to the opera, and she, shamed, ashamed, when that functionary, with outward gravity but with inward glee, had ushered in those words of her name. Mrs. Spencer who was hunting, "Lady Fane," he added, after a pause.

"What, she has gone in?"

"Yes, miss; I saw Jesse did not know."

To a very nice lady-like and genuine a lady face of the luggage-laden cab were sought up and followed to the drawing-room was the work of a minute, and soon Edward Fane found himself driving close behind Helen Spencer through a network of strange and thoughtless that led to that far-famed region the East of London. Past Shoreditch Station, the Bethnal Green Museum, down the Hackney road, visiting the Victoria Park, until the cab stopped at one of those little villas with two windows, which in those days, uniformly turns the Mile End Road in that part of London.

As Helen stepped out of her cab, Edward did the same from his; and as she turned to speak, she found herself so advanced to address her. He had meant to attend her but the sight of her face, as she faced towards him, with a deep blush, "I have to thank you for the time to find out that we had gone to some sort of conduct.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. E. Y. Cook.
First Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. Y. Hodges.
Third Vice President—Mrs. C. F. Van Ankeren.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. R. C. Loveridge.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. R. Sulfield.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Fathers, Where are Your Boys?

Prof. Hopkins has asserted that one-fourth of the dram drinking in the country is done by boys under 21 years of age. Often the habit is formed at so early a period that the boy is a drunkard in miniature before the suspicions of friends are excited.

To illustrate this and also to show the criminal thoughtlessness and easy-going indifference of so-called christian men, the speaker related the experience of a friend who was elected president of a village of about 7,000 inhabitants in the state of New York. Soon, in the discharge of his official duties, he became aware that the serious were raising a large proportion of the boys and young men, and he formed the determination to close them by invoking the aid of the best citizens. Going to a good deacon, he urged first upon him the necessity of aggressive action. The deacon deplored the presence of the drameseller, knew he was a great curse to the community, but to meddle with him would stir up an uncomfortable commotion, great difficulty would be found in getting evidence, and, in short, it was easier to tolerate the nuisance than to incur the odium of taking steps to abate it.

Becoming a little exasperated at this so-fresh easy-going indifferentism, the official said: "Your boy was in a certain saloon last Sunday night drunk." "You are mistaken sir, my boy is a good boy, he never drinks." Just at this moment the boy came in sight, was summoned, questioned and denied the charge. The gentleman hunted up another good deacon, told him also that his boy was drunk on that Sunday night, and met with the same or even more indignant reception. So he went on, meeting indifference, incredulity and resentment until thoroughly aroused, since his veracity was called in question, he had eight youths brought into court, and their three "best boys in town, sons of the first families," when put under oath, swore that they were all in that saloon on that Sunday night, and, moreover, that they were all drunk. Then, having verified his charge, he may almost be pardoned for saying, as he did say, "Now, sirs, if you christian fathers are so lazy, so selfish, so indifferent that you will not risk a little trouble and a little expense to save your sons and the sons of your neighbors, they may go to the devil for aught I care.

This story, undoubtedly a true one, while it illustrates an extreme case, is yet indicative of a spirit all too prevalent among respected citizens, good fathers and sincere christians. Their principles are unquestioned, their personal habits are irreproachable, and it hardly occurs to them as possible that the sons or such fathers are themselves can be led astray and enslaved by insidiously by temptations which are no temptations to them. Other good christian citizens, having no sons to weaken their majesty, are selfishly blind to their obligations to remove temptation from the sons of little neighbors. A little thoughtful study of the life and teachings of the Master whom they profess to serve would clear their vision and healthfully quicken their consciences.

THE KEYS.

The Kidneys and Liver are the keys to woman's health. If these organs are in a healthy condition no four need be entertained of sickness, for the system will cleanse itself of impure matter. If you have Headache, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Lame Back or Side, Failing Strength, Languor, Excessive Flow of Urine, &c., remember they are the advance guard and give warning to more serious trouble such as Diabetes, Bright's Disease, &c. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diuretics, Kidney and Liver Cure is a sure cure for all these diseases. Price only $1.00 huge bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

NO SCROFULA

Can be so deep-seated, so malignant and stubborn, that Parmelee's Blood Purifier will not be found helpful. It will effect a cure, if cure be possible. And if you are troubled with Boils, Salt-Rheum, Pimples, Rough Skin, or any humor whatever, just give the Purifier a thorough trial and you cannot fail to receive benefit from it. Price $1 per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, often setting warm, is a common attendant. Of the many remedies for itching piles yield more to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the inflame itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter. 152

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the interest on the money secured by two mortgages, dated the second day of August, 1881, executed by Lucius H. Meade and Cornelia Meade his wife, of Charlevoix County, Mich., to George W. Eglestion, of New York City, which said mortgages were recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Charlevoix, Mich., Liber A, of Mortgages, on page 369, on the 8th day of August, 1881, and the said mortgages has elected to consider the whole amount of principal and interest due.

Now, therefore, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgages at the date of this notice, is the sum of One Hundred Eighty-Four Dollars for principal and interest, and the further sum of Twenty-five Dollars as an attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding in law or equity having been instituted to recover the said debt, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises described therein, at public auction, to the highest bidder (subject to front door, or outer entrance to Loveridge's Hall) that being the place of holding the Circuit Court in Charlevoix County, in the village of East Jordan, in said County, Mich., on the Twelfth day of December, 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of said day, of the premises mortgaged in said mortgage as follows, viz: All that parcel of land being in the township of Bellaire, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, and described as all of the north-west quarter (¼) of section twenty-five (25), in town thirty-three (33) north of range five (5) west, containing 160 acres more or less.

Dated Sept. 24, 1885.

GEORGE W. EGLESTON,
Mortgagee.

TAYLTHAW & HEGMAN,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Petoskey, Mich. 137

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, made and entered on the 29th day of June, in the twelfth judicial circuit, made and dated on the twenty-fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Harold S. Fox is complainant, and Maria C. Dyer, and Ezra S. Knowles and Mary Knowles, his wife, are defendants, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Loveday's Hall, in the village of East Jordan, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, said Hall being the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Friday, the 20th day of November, A. D. 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of said day, the premises in said decree mentioned, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said decree, to wit: Principal and interest due on said mortgage, interest thereon, and costs of said cause, the following described parcel of land to wit: All that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake thence running north forty-eight (48) degrees east, seven (7) links and twenty-four (24) links, thence south thirty-eight (38) degrees east, forty links and twenty-seven (27) links to a stake from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north-east corner of section twenty-five (25) thirty-one (31) in township thirty-three (33) north, range six (6) west, intersects said beach, thence south forty-six (46) degrees west, forty (40) chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east five (5) chains to a stake, thence one (1) degree east twelve (12) links, thence north forty-four (44) degrees west four (4) chains and fifty (50) links to the place of beginning, containing one and 75-100 acres of land together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining and the reversion, remainder, rents, issues and profits thereof.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FORD,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.
CHRISTENSEN & CHRISTENSEN,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 137

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the twenty-fourth day of August, A. D. 1881, by Julia Dyer, of Charlevoix, Mich., to Ezra S. Knowles, the first party, to William L. Sarsons, of Rock Island, Illinois, of the second part, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, by said county of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of September, A. D. 1881, in Liber "A" of Mortgages, page 256, which mortgage was so discharged on the 27th of March, A. D. 1882, assigned by said William R. Sarsons to Margaret K. Blackburn, of Herrin county, Michigan, said assignment being recorded on the fourth day of March, A. D. 1885, in liber "M" of mortgages, in the register of said county of Charlevoix, and the said mortgage with the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative, and whereas, at the date of this notice, there is claimed to be due upon said mortgage for principal and interest the sum of forty-five and 50-100 dollars ($45.50), and whereas, no suit or proceedings have been instituted to recover the said debt, or any part of the mortgage, or any part thereof, now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and of the statutes of the state of Michigan in such cases made and provided, the undersigned will sell at public auction or vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Loveday's Hall, on the 12th day of December, 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of said day, at the place of holding the circuit court for said county of Charlevoix, the following described parcel of land, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said mortgage, interest thereon, and costs of sale, to wit: All that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake standing one rod from the north forty-eight (48) degrees east, seven (7) links and twenty-four (24) links, thence south thirty-eight (38) degrees east, forty links and twenty-seven (27) links to a stake from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north-east corner of section twenty-five (25) thirty-one (31) in township thirty-three (33) north, range six (6) west, intersects said beach, thence south forty-six (46) degrees west, forty (40) chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east five (5) chains to a stake, thence one (1) degree east twelve (12) links, thence north forty-four (44) degrees west four (4) chains and fifty (50) links to the place of beginning, containing one and 75-100 acres of land together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining and the reversion, remainder, rents, issues and profits thereof, as provided in said decree.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FORD,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.
CHRISTENSEN & CHRISTENSEN,
Solicitors for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 137

Photographs!

I have located my

New Photograph Gallery

OVER

UPRIGHT & EMREY & CO.'S STORE,

And am prepared to do

All Kinds of Photographic Work,

From the

Miniature Picture to Life Size

Any Old Picture Copied and Enlarged.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

DAVE DRADBERR,
Charlevoix, Mich.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it IN NEW YORK.

FirstClassAgent

Wanted in This County

To represent our beautifully illustrated family magazine. Special terms and permanent engagement given to the right party. Any smart man or woman who is willing to work and has the ability to push the magazine can secure a splendid position. Write us at once giving age, particulars of past work and territory desired. Address, COTTAGE HEARTH CO., Boston, Mass.

Hannah, Lay & Co.'s Pleasure Steamers,

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.
CAPT. O. E. WILDER.

SEASON OF 1885.

Going North every morning—Leave Traverse City 7.00, Northport 9.20, Norwood 11.00, Charlevoix 12.00, Petoskey 1.00, arrive at Harbor Springs 1.30.

Going South every afternoon—Leave Harbor Springs 2.00, Petoskey 2.30, Charlevoix 4.00, Norwood 5.00, Northport 5.30, arrive at Traverse City 8.00.

T. S. FAXTON,
CAPT. A. G. ALDRICH.

Going South every morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.45, East Jordan 10.30, arrive Traverse City 2.00.

Going North every afternoon—Leave Traverse City 2.00, Torch Lake 3.45, Charlevoix 5.30, Petoskey 6.15, arrive Harbor Springs 6.45.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night lines for Chicago, G. R. & I. R. R. also on Monday morning only, for Toledo, via the D. G. H. & M. R. R. and on Wednesday between both for Detroit, and on Wednesday between both for Cleveland, via the D. & C. Navigation Line; both for Buffalo, via the D. & B. Line; also on Monday morning only, for Detroit, via the D. & M. R. R. and the C. & W. M. R. R. for Chicago, and the C. & W. M. R. R. for Milwaukee.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS PRIANT.
CAPT. R. VANDERVEEN.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7.00, Petoskey 8.00, Charlevoix 9.30, arrive East Jordan 11.00.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 1.30, Charlevoix 3.00, Petoskey 5.30, arrive Harbor Springs 6.30.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Morning—Leave Charlevoix 6.30, arrive East Jordan 7.30, leave East Jordan 8.30, arrive Charlevoix 11.00. Afternoon—Leave Charlevoix 2.00, leave East Jordan 3.00, arrive Charlevoix 4.30.

Close connections at Charlevoix with the D. & M. R. R. trains, north and south.

Alex A. Lisa,
Agent,
Boston, N. Y.

Cancer Cured Without the Use of Knife, Blood Poison or Loss of Time.

Tumors, Tumors, Tumors,

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Small-pox has caused two deaths at Harlington, Va., and there are said to be several patients in the pest-house or in sequestered dwellings. The disease was carried directly from Montreal in the clothing of a convalescent.

The number killed by the railway collision near Jersey City is twelve. It is believed that five of the wounded will die. Thomas E. Pratt, the telegraph operator who it is claimed caused the disaster, has been arrested, and is held to await the action of the Coroner's jury.

The graveyard insurance companies of Pennsylvania have been succeeded by a new kind of enterprise, in which the policy holders are divided into classes of five hundred members each. Whenever a birth occurs in the family of a member, the other members in the class are assessed twenty-five cents each. This sound a live fund of $125, $400 of which goes to the beneficiary and $25 to the company for collecting, etc.

The total exports of produce from New York last week were valued at $4,128,665.

Near Williamsport, Pa., two passenger trains collided, two employes being killed and several persons severely injured.

Malcolm Hay, recently First Assistant Postmaster General of the United States, died last week of consumption, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

An assignment has been made by Morton C. Warren, a tea importer of New York, when gave preferences for $100,000.

A minor at Plymouth, Pa., entered a dangerous prithee of a mine with a naked lamp on his head, causing an explosion which killed one man and fatally burned fourteen others.

The Vanderbilt and Pennsylvania interests contemplate a reorganization of the Reading Railroad. Under the plan in view the debt is to be scaled down $50,000,000 and the stock assessed twenty per cent.

There is said to be an unprecedented emigration to the Dominion of Canada and Nebraska from the vicinity of Hillsboro, Illinois, on account of several crop failures.

An alleged infernal machine—a piece of gas-pipe filled with powder—was found on the street-car track at St. Louis, it was being so managed that a crowded would explode the missile.

Thomas Whiteley and his wife, who had been married less than a week, were found dying in a room of a Lincoln (Neb.) hotel, having taken morphine, it is supposed, with suicidal intent. The woman may survive.

A frame house at No. 1,425 Wabash avenue, Chicago, fell to pieces while undergoing repairs. E. C. Gilmore, an engineer, was killed, and John Green was injured internally.

The Cincinnati Price Current states that the number of hogs handled by Western packers from March 1 to date is 4,875,000, against 4,700,000 last year. The movement at the principal points since March 1 is as follows:

Chicago	2,270,000	Indianapolis	170,000
Kansas City	750,000	Cedar Rapids	400,000
Cincinnati	500,000	Decatur	300,000
St Louis	175,000	Cincinnati	140,000

WESTERN.

The brick cottage of Wm. S. Bates, in Vernon Park place, Chicago, was set on fire by the ignition of a firework in shape of a gasoline stove. The frightened girl leaped the house and was not found for hours. Mrs. Bates took her infant to the house of a neighbor, and returned alone to meet a horrible death. While Mr. Bates endeavored to extinguish the flames, his wife, two sons, and nurse-maids were suffocated, and their charred bodies were found by the firemen. Mr. Bates was picked up in the alley, seriously burned and bruised.

Casper Butz, the noted German revolutionist, died at Des Moines, from blood-poisoning aged sixty years. He was a resident of Chicago before the war. He took an active part in the agitation against slavery. Later in life he was City Clerk of Chicago, and one of the Commissioners of the Illinois Penitentiary.

A difficulty has arisen at Eau Claire, Wis., owing to the closing of the schools by the Mayor and Board of Health, who found a spread of diphtheria, thirty-four cases of which are reported. The School Board and school officers protest, and intend to prosecute the policemen who prevented pupils and teachers from entering the buildings.

Chicago elevators contain 12,608,364 bushels of wheat, 478,941 bushels of corn, 206,000 bushels of oats, 237,231 bushels of rye, and 87,893 bushels of barley—total, 14,022,431 bushels of all kinds of grain, against 8,526,162 bushels a year ago.

The people of Cleveland are greatly puzzled over the lunacy of a German family of eight persons living on Brooker avenue. Not one of them has been outside the house in the daytime for eight years, and for most of that time they have paid no taxes. Tax officers found the pipe in good order and the children well dressed.

A mob of fifty men took from the jail at Winchester, Ill., R. H. Ludlow, charged with assaulting two ladies last June. The men shot him in the arm, when he escaped in the darkness.

Professor Edward S. Holden, of Wisconsin University, has been elected President of the University of California.

In a justice's court at Mattoon, Ill., the jury refused to award damages to a colored man, for having been refused a shave by a negro barber.

A foot of snow is reported from nearly all parts of the peninsula of Michigan, blockading the railroads. There was a light fall at Gladwin and Monmouth, Ill.

Messrs. Alvin Hulbert and Willis Howe, of Chicago, have leased the Lindell Hotel at St. Louis for five years from Jan. 1st next, at a rental of $5,000 per annum.

In the criminal court at Indianapolis, a colored man named Harrison Tasker was arraigned for a criminal assault upon a German domestic named Helen Hoendling. As the prisoner was being led out to trial, he was fatally shot by a young brother of the wronged girl.

At Fourth and Olive streets, St. Louis, Mr. A. J. Cooper, of Chicago, and certain other gentlemen propose to erect a tenementary structure that will surpass any building west of the Alleghenies. Mr. Stephen Hitch, the New York architect, has been intrusted with the plans. When completed, the building will be occupied by a bank, Western Union Telegraph Company, safety deposit vaults, and the Jacesnd Jewelry Company.

At Youngstown, Ohio, Mrs. Mary Muldoon reported to the police that she had been robbed of over $2,000, and that her fourteen-year-old son, Tom, was missing. Before midnight Tom was found in a shed adjoining. His pockets were weighted down with silver, and $2,000 in bills found on his person. He was near the railroad, and it is supposed he was intending to leave the city. The money was restored to his mother, and the boy locked up.

A dispatch from Winchester, Ill., says that "Fred Homer, who was shot by a mob last week, died at his home. When he was dressed for burial four shot wounds were found in his back. These wounds were not discovered by the physicians who attended him. He died protesting his innocence of the crime for which the mob killed him."

SOUTHERN.

In the vicinity of Somerville, Ala., it is reported in regard to the division of property, Wesley Hopper wound his left arm around James Edmonson, and deliberately cut the throat four times from ear to ear.

The death is reported from Baltimore of Capt. Alexander Haley, the only colored man who ever commanded a vessel in the ocean trade of this country. He was eighty-six years of age.

The fourteen Southern States report the expenditure of $25,000,000 within the present year in organizing new and extending enterprises, or enlarging old plants.

Squirrels are emigrating by millions from Mississippi to Arkansas, swimming the rivers in large bodies. A similar begins took place in 1857.

By the explosion of a boiler in a sawmill at Hogeville, S. C., three persons were killed and three others received a mortal wounding.

A party of about one-hundred men took from the jail at Holly Springs, Mississippi, and hanged to a tree a man named Jackson, who last August opposed his wife. While the lynching was in progress, Dewey's mother, partially dressed, came rushing to the scene, yelling like a maniac.

A mob surrounded a wooden building used as a jail in Murfreesboro, Ark., in which one Churchill, a murderer was confined. After smashing the structure with sledge and iron, Churchill, pertaining to his crimes. The victim made piteous appeals for mercy.

WASHINGTON.

A special dispatch from Washington to the New York Times says:

There is a rumor here that some of the Republican Senate have formed a sort of a coalition with the Democrats, and that Senators Cameron, Logan, Plumb and Spooner, upon which the President has made, with a view to breaking up what is believed to be a combination of Republicans, and thus to secure the confirmation of Senator Hill, of New York, for Secretary of the Treasury, Senator Beck, of Kentucky, for Postmaster General, and Senator Vilas, of Wisconsin, for Secretary of the Interior. The rumor is that Collector Jesse Spalding, and will take charge of the Department of Justice, and that Mr. Spalding's appointment, which is now before the Senate, for complete information. It is said that the President is anxious to get the nominations through this session, and is willing to make some concessions to the Democrats in order to secure the confirmation of Senator Hill, Senator Beck, Senator Vilas, and Senator Spalding.

Mr. Frank Wilson, who has gained notoriety by converting a part of Northern Scotland into a deer park, was indicted and crossed last Sunday by train Guidebounce.

Prince Alexander has ordered out for immediate defensive service all the national militia of Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia. Thirty thousand men of the Greek reserves have been called, and the Greeks are in warlike action. The Greek Government announces that it cannot passively permit a change favorable to Bulgaria and Servia, and has made preparations to land ninety thousand men in the Bulgarian seaport of Varna on a day's notice.

The Turkish frigate Iskender has been dispatched to the island of Crete with a force sufficient to repress a revolt.

The Pope is said to have decided to give Lavert Cardinal Gibbons Quebec an impress equal to that of the American colleges at home, and ecclesiastics can then complete their theological studies on this side of the Atlantic.

An attempt to assassinate Estrupin, the premier of the Danish Cabinet, was made at Copenhagen by a young compositor named Brandstrom, who fired two shots from a revolver, neither of which took effect, and was in the act of shooting a third time when arrested by detectives.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

President Cleveland has appointed E. V. Long, of Indiana, to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of New Mexico, in succeed Judge Vincent, resigned. Nine following Federal appointments are also announced from Washington:

Robert P. Warling, to be Assessor and Collector of Internal Revenue for the district of Tennessee, Va.; E. Q. Washington, of the District of Columbia, to be a commissioner to examine a section of railroad constructed in the Northern District of Indian Territory; Joseph Jones, to be Collector of Customs at Cuyahoga Falls, O.; Joseph, of New York, to be Assistant Judge of the Supreme Court of the Territory of Dakota; Wm. S. Tenney, of Illinois, to be Assistant Attorney of the Interior; Thomas Cooley, of Michigan, to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of Arizona; Lewis Crews, of Michigan, to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of Utah; Lewis Cass Ledyard, of New York, to be Assistant Treasurer at Boston; Daniel W. Lull, to be Assistant Treasurer at Chicago; Ill.; Wm. Dorsheimer, of Buffalo, to be Collector of Customs at Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Edward Bangs, of New York, to be Assistant Appraiser of Merchandise at Boston; Edward Dodge, of New York, to be Collector of Customs at Sag Harbor, N. Y.; Jacob Vanderbilt, of New York, to be Collector of Customs at Perth Amboy, N. J.; Wm. Dorsheimer, of Buffalo, to be Collector of Customs at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

A Cincinnati dispatch of Oct. 23 says: "The official count of the vote of Hamilton County has been completed, but it will be some time yet before it is ready. The completion of the ohio legislature hinges upon a decision in two cases. If gives the Republicans a majority in the Democratic legislative candidates will receive the certificates, if the Republicans appeal to the courts, they will have all the Representatives but one. The unofficial returns show a majority for Hoadly's plurality 236. Kennedy Republican, for Lieutenant Governor, has a plurality of 224. M. F. Wilson has the highest vote for Senator on the Democratic ticket, 3,825, and Hendricks the highest on the Republican ticket, 34,401. Hardacre is the lowest on the Republican ticket, having 34,149, and Hendricks, on the Democratic ticket, 33,564. For Representatives the variance is not so great, but the Democratic figures are all higher than the highest Republican vote."

Two daughters of Alexander H. Stephens were married at Washington last week, the bridegrooms being Edward A. Quinnard, of Tennessee, and Walter M. Brodie, of Mexico.

President Cleveland will not, it is said, recommend a removal of the entire civil service to the ordinary categories, but while preserving the civil system as to the subordinate courts, clerkships, and offices of the Indians will bring in the experience, integrity, and eventually capacity of the army officers to provide and distribute food and supplies. This idea is substantially that which is proposed to be carried into the House well than to fight idiots.

At a meeting of the directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company in New York, Norvin Green was re-elected President, and Geo. L. T. Ewart General Manager, Robert T. Lowery, of Chicago, was elected Vice President and made a member of the Executive Committee.

Rev. D. MacGregor has returned to Chicago from a tour of the Highlands and Islands of Scotland, made in behalf of the mission centers. He reports the people as inclined with much determination to obtain their rights, and he finds the crofters in their grievances to be accompaniment of the Land Leagues.

At New York, descendants of the Huguenots celebrated the tercentenary of Admiral Coligny, in the order of Nantes, Mr. John Jay presiding. After an historical address by Prof. Henry M. Baird, Secretary Bayard offered a series of resolutions, recalling with the best to France occasioned by the revocation; thanking God that the Huguenots came to America; hoping that America, with a more tolerant Christianity, would prosper and bless mankind; and that separation of church and state was the only true policy of Christian countries.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Washington special to the New York Evening Post says of the Depew letter:

The author of Mr. Cleveland's letter on the civil relations between Gen. Grant and President Arthur, is Mr. Depew himself. The letter was written by Mr. Depew, when Johnson's stenographic secretary, who is still with Gen. Grant, and was submitted to Gen. Grant and Mr. Moore says that in his opinion Gen. Grant noted certain of the political views of Mr. Depew's letter. Depew in Mr. Depew's statement, Mr. Depew says that President Johnson, Secretary Seward, and Gen. Grant agree. As to the title to Mexico, Gen. Grant, Mr. Depew says, has in his possession the original of the correspondence between Johnson and Seward and Grant, and he says that these notes show that Johnson, Seward and Grant were in Mexico, whatever it may be, and he says it stated that the latter would not be required to be absent from Washington on the meeting of Congress. This, Colonel Moore says, is the substance of the letter, in his story. As to the charge of Johnson's sympathies with the Southern secessionists, Mr. Moore says that from the personal knowledge he can could be freer from such an accusation. Mr. Depew's statement, Mr. Moore says, is that Johnson's sympathies were in the White House retained that.

A special to the Chicago Tribune from St. Louis says:

Gen. Sherman, when asked what he thought of the Depew letter in regard to Grant's charges against Andy Johnson, said that he knew all about it. Johnson, he said, was what part of the time in Mexico, and he did know of no charges against Johnson. Gen. Sherman said he was a Democrat, but he was a Democrat of course yet to give them to the public. Whether the charges were true or false, he could not say that Grant had made the charges, and that present to organizing mines and extending manufacturing enterprises, or enlarging old plants.

Watkins, Lincoln, Neb., the J. C. McBride, Nashville, Tenn., the Chas. Ellis, Louisville, Ky., the Wm. Ward, Nashville, Tenn., the Geo. Ward, Nashville, Tenn., the Nathan, commission expired; J. D. Pickett, Sandy, Utah, office, Secretary Presidential; Wm. Porter, Bradford, Mass., office Income Internal Revenue; Geo. J. Livermore, Cal., office Income Internal Revenue; J. S. Fowler, Stroudsburg, Neb., office Income Internal Revenue; Wm. Swan, Martinsburg, Tenn., vice J. D. Wilson, resigned; W. E. Norton, Tullahoma, Tenn., vice Geo. Hickman, resigned; Wm. Williams, Schoolcraft, Mich., vice E. J. Smallworth, resigned; Wm. Lewis, Pittsburgh, Pa., vice T. C. Reynolds, resigned; Jacob Ammon, Iowa City, Iowa, vice J. P. Dyke, resigned; Geo. Shelton, Jones, Iowa, vice John Waite, resigned; John S. Finley, Holly Springs, Miss., vice Mary Ann Wilson, resigned; Walter P. Scott, Memphis, Tenn., vice W. F. Perry, resigned.

General Alexander H. Lawton, of Georgia, has been offered the mission to Vienna, in which case a vacancy will be made for the retention of Mr. Kasson in political disabilities. Lawton was nominated Minister to Austria, but his name was withdrawn when it was discovered that he had never asked to have his disabilities removed.

The Republicans of Dakota, in convention at Huron, nominated the following ticket: Governor, A. C. Mellette; Lieutenant Governor, A. E. Frank; Secretary of State, H. S. Murphy; Auditor, Frank Alexander; Treasurer, D. W. Biggs.

MICHIGAN AFFAIRS.

—Reading roller mills are turning out sixty-five barrels of flour per day.

—One ton of dumb-bells has been ordered for the students at Ann Arbor.

—Ann Fowles, one of the pioneers of Ontonagon, is dead, at Cleveland, Ohio.

—C. T. Barber is teaching his fifteenth consecutive term of school near Mount Hermon.

—Warren Chipman, an actor, died in Flint. His family resides in San Francisco.

—As high as $26 per month has been offered at St. Ignace for men to work in the woods.

—A lady connected with the St. Joseph Herald, of Niles, has cured 120 bushels of apples a day.

—Grand Rapids Universalists will hold off their debts this year, and will build a new office next year.

—An even dozen of Bay City ladies have weighed 151 pounds; the same number of Saginaw early growth weighed 20 pounds.

—There are 923 school children in Traverse City, and $17,000 has been invested there in school buildings. The high school is to cost $20,000.

—A Grand Rapids M. D. claims to have cured his child of epileptic fits by presenting the summary of death therewith. If there be any who can consistently pollute, excuse, or condemn the rottenness, the jobbery, the theftcy, and the profligacy of the Republican party when in the zenith of its power, they surely ought not to be shocked by anything the present minority may do. The corruption and devilry of the party in power, which could not have been expelled from the Republican ranks, and that has brought on its garments the stains of blood, and the stench of the grave, which it could be found. Over the action of Republicans who could not

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Democratic Newspaper Postmasters.

That there is a keen appreciation by the administration of political affairs in Michigan is apparent from the appointments made every little while by President Cleveland and Postmaster General Vilas of those connected with democratic newspapers. The Herald can recall quite a number of the appointments already made in Michigan, and without exception they do honor to the administration and to the democracy. Hon. A. P. Swineford, of the Marquette Mining Journal, was made governor of Alaska, and is now discharging his duties. D. R. Waters, of the Grand Rapids Leader, will commence the duties of United States marshal for the western district on the first of November. Among the appointments of postmasters in four respective cities are Col. Geo. P. Sanford, late of the Lansing Journal, Maj. W. W. VanAntwerp, of the Jackson Patriot; Willard Stearns, of the Adrian Press; Andrew J. Shakespeare, of the Kalamazoo Gazette; M. Lacy, of the Marshal Expounder; W. T. B. Scisenerhorn, of the Hudson Gazette; and Charles J. Strang, of the Charlevoix Journal; while L. D. Sale, formerly of the Detroit Free Press and one of the best newspaper men and democratic orators in Michigan, is now librarian at the patent office in Washington. The appointments already made, and others to follow, are wise ones, and fitting under the circumstances. Michigan has for many years been kept in the republican column by the system of organized federal patronage and support from the "machine." For a democratic paper to hold its own against an opulent republican editor backed by tax sales, nine times out of ten by republican county patronage, and in a majority of places the editor himself emeshed in the postoffice, has been the severest kind of a task, and more often resulted in failure than success. To this might be added the jeers and scoffings of the seemingly perpetual majority party, with social ostracism predominating and the county democratic editor endeavoring with each successive election to rally the scattered and discouraged forces, and giving freely of his time and scanty means to the cause of democracy, and in many cases having to charge to profit and loss a part or perhaps the whole of his printing bill—truly the life of the democratic editor in Michigan has not been all sunshine for a quarter of a century. But the clouds are breaking away, and the appointments already made indicate that the democratic press in Michigan has a warm spot in the heart of the people's administration.—Big Rapids Herald.

Evidences of Patron Harmony in Northern Michigan.

Washington, October 21.—Hon. C. S. Rankin returns home to-morrow well pleased with the result of his visit to Washington. He states that he has received satisfactory assurances from the powers that be that Philip B. Wachtel will be appointed postmaster at Petoskey within two or three weeks. Mr. Vilas was impressed by the strength of Mr. Wachtel's indorsements, which include practically state leaders in addition to the solid local democracy, and promised to take up the case as soon as the president has finished filling the vacancies he is now working upon. Mr. Hampton says that the settlement of his case shows the harmonious manner in which the business of northern Michigan are arranging the difficult question of patronage. There were several deserving applicants for the Petoskey postoffice, including Col. Isaac Toll, a popular and leading democrat, but realizing that Mr. Wachtel had the best claim and the strongest backing the others cheerfully gave way to him.

News and News.

Mr. Cleveland has written a short democratic letter to a democrat. In it he signifies his desire for Governor Hill's election by sending his check for $1,000 to aid in it. This is not a political assessment. No one asked Mr. Cleveland for the money as Carlisle asked for it for Brady. It is a voluntary contribution, made for the purpose of accomplishing a much desired object. Money talks.—World.

John C. Shields, formerly of Lansing has been appointed chief justice of Arizona vice Sumner Howard removed. The appointment gives universal satisfaction in Michigan.

Robert Bonner, the owner of Maud S. and the New York Ledger, began life as a type-setter, without friends or influence; but with a determination to succeed he finds himself now at sixty odd, the possessor of one of the best paying newspaper properties in the world, and a fortune of between $3,000,000 and $6,000,000.

There will be a special election held in Harbor Springs, November 5th, to vote on bonding the town for $5,000, to erect a building to be used for a town hall, court house, and county offices. Petoskey tried to capture the county seat by offering the board of supervisors to provide suitable rooms for court house and county offices free of rent. The Harbor Springs people made an offer to erect a new building for the purpose free of rent, and they want the $5,000 with which to do it.

Report of the County Clerk.

The following is a brief abstract of some of the principal items contained in the report referred to last week as having been neglected by the board of supervisors, and not heretofore published in this paper:

During the year ending Oct. 16, $8,543.20 were drawn from the county treasury for its purposes on orders issued by the clerk.

At the January session the board of supervisors audited bills to the amount of $[illegible], at the special, May 25, $882.86, June 12, $314.72; total $[illegible].

Total number of convictions in the circuit court, October term, Jan. 1, 49; number to be tried, 7; amount of county fees for filing in court, $52.

The civil court is now audited and allowed in the county for the years, for $50 per year, the county's part being paid in advance, and paid to the county treasurer.

From Jan. 1 to Oct. 16, 14 marriages were reported to the county clerk. In the year ending Dec. 31, 1884, 12 births and 8 deaths were reported to the clerk for this county.

From Jan. 1 to Oct. 16, 35 affidavits filed declaring to license statutes.

COSTS ON THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Last February term contained 32 cases on the calendar, as follows: Criminal 3, Issue of fact 8, issue of law 6, chancery fact, class 6, second class 8, fourth class 3. Expenses of term as follows: Paid jurors $24.00, paid witnesses $28.75, sheriff and deputies attending court $[illegible], serving calendar $[illegible], total $[illegible].

MISDEMEANORS AND FEES.

The following table shows the number of misdemeanors reported and fees collected in the several townships of the last reporting division:

	Reported.	Fees.
Bear Lake	3	12
Boyne Valley	194	192
Charlevoix	47	46
Chateaugay	46	36
Eveline	290	290
Hayes	162	128
Hudson	26	26
Marion	102	102
Norwood	61	52
Nowland	5	5
Sheldon	45	45
South Arm	102	102
Springvale	44	44
Wilson	12	12
Totals	1,239	1,096

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Forty-four witnesses joint testimonials of 1882, 11 from state board of Health 565, 12 agricultural Reports 186, 12 Vital Statistics 182, 12 cent. four hundred and five, 405. Supplement to Green's Township Laws.

To Check Bleeding.

The natural process by which bleeding is stopped is the formation of a blood clot which plugs the orifice of the divided vessel. When an artery is divided the out end retracts or shrinks so that the formation of clot is facilitated, but the blood current is so strong, unless loss of much blood has diminished the force of the circulation, that it bursts the coagulation. It should, therefore, be the aim of an assistant to check or stop the flow of blood from the artery in order that the beginnings of clot formation may not be swept away by the current. This may be accomplished by pressing upon the orifice of the vessel in the wound, or by pressing the edges of the wound firmly together, or, in cases where the is not easy and cleanly, by compressing the artery of which supplies the part from which the hemorrhage is taking place in some part of its course between the heart and the injury. The main arteries supplying the head by in the neck, one on each side of the windpipe, where their pulsations may be readily felt. In case of a wound of an artery in the neck the end of cloth of the vessel should be compressed with the finger, if possible, or otherwise, hour below and above the wound, should be pressed firmly backward against the backbone. Unless skilled surgical aid can be speedily obtained there is little hope of saving life in case these great vessels are wounded.—Scientific in Good Housekeeping.

GLEANINGS.

Wisconsin has a larger tobacco acreage this year than ever before.

Queen Victoria is tender than most people of the great American oyster.

A law has been acted by the Alabama Legislature fining a man $100 if he gets drunk out of his own house.

The drink bill of England last year was $621,746,280, an increase over the previous year of $4,350,000.

There about about 200,000 commercial travelers in this country. Their average salary is $1,500 a year and expenses.

Placing gold fish in salt water for a space of thirty minutes will kill the fungus which often afflicts them to such a great extent.

A New Yorker predicts that the day is not far distant when the speed of the roller skater, by means of improved skates will be increased to forty miles an hour.

Mr. Cameron, the special correspondent of the London Standard, was, when killed in Egypt, receiving a salary of $2,000 a year, and the Standard has provided for his mother.

The power of Niagara Falls, exclusive of the velocity with which the water reaches the brink, is calculated to be 5,000,000 horse-power, or nearly one-fourth of the miscellaneous power of the earth.

The new kind of paper on which the New Orleans Picayune is printed is called bagasse, the crushed refuse of the stalks of the sugar cane. The paper is fine and soft, with almost a silk-like surface.

The lamp which Gen. Sherman carried from the time he entered the army, in 1861, until he camped on the south bank of the Potomac in 1865 is now preserved at the Soldiers' Home at Dayton, O.

Linear drawing has been introduced, by recent enactment, into all the elementary schools of England. The theory is that a knowledge of this kind of drawing is useful in almost every kind of trade or handicraft.

Certain Nevada residents persist in cutting down telegraph poles for firewood to such an extent that the telegraph company threatens to cut them off from telegraphic communication with the rest of the world.

Senator Don Cameron says that Prof. B. B. the pedaloptic man, once offered him a controlling interest in the stock of his company for $6,000. The Senator declined. Last year the company's profits were over $1,500,000.

James K. Kenne was born in Virginia. His failure in Wall street is attributed to a desire on his part to humble Gould. Kenne's friends think that he will ere long recover his position as a great operator, for he is only 46 and as full of resources as ever.

Several thousand houses, ranging in cost from eight to twenty dollars and provided with every modern convenience, are to be built in Philadelphia, besides a number of French flats; seven large and costly churches, and half a dozen or more public institutions.

While the keystone was being placed in the principal arch of the Manhattan bridge on the road from Zanzibar to Ujiji and Bonvenuto, Mexico, the arch gave way, and the thirty workmen were buried in the ruins. Only four men were rescued alive.

A child with two tongues is said to be living at Yonkers, N. Y. The second has grown from the nest and on top of the first. The nether first ceased to grow when the child was three days old. It was then quite small, but now that the child is two years old, it is nearly as large as the real tongue.

A society has been formed called "The National Society for Preserving the Memorials of the Dead in the Churches and Cemeteries of Great Britain, for preventing the neglect and wanton destruction which so often overtake not only tombs and monuments of the dead but curious, interesting, and even sacred relics."

Some very interesting autographs were recently sold at auction in London. The original autograph copy of Burns's "Tam O'Shanter" went up to "forever" fetched $85; the originals of Burns' "Tam O'Shanter" and "Lament of Mary, Queen of Scots," together fetched $75; one of Lord Chesterfield's letters to his son, $75; thirteen letters of Dean Swift, from $88 to $85 each, and one of Charles Lamb, from Paris, $[illegible].

A correspondent who has had a quarter of a century's experience of traveling in hot countries writes the London Builder, "A man should always try to be as long as ever he can in the early part of the day without drinking; if he does then some he becomes thirsty again in half an hour. I have often rode hard, under a blazing sun, in clouds of dust, from daylight until 11 o'clock, and never felt the slightest inclination to drink, but once tempted to take a drink, have not been able to abstain for half an hour at a time."

A Mexican historian makes a new attempt to show that America was discovered in the 8th century, A. D., by a party of Benedictine monks from Alphanistan, of whom one, Brendan, returned to Asia after an absence of forty-one years. Another account of the land which he visited, supposed to be Mexico, was included in the official history of China. There is proof that Hwui Shan actually visited some unknown eastern region, and the traditions of Mexico contain an account of the arrival of monks.

In days gone by there was often heard a cry from Ireland for a royal residence, for of late "No royalty nor apple" has been the prevailing sentiment. There may yet be seen the results of an abortive attempt at a royal palace at Jigginstown, near Naas. On account of the excellence of the brick the walls and vaulted cellars have stood down to our day. Stratford built it, and Wentworth, governing his Majesty should not have a house of his own here." Perhaps Prince of the house of Darnal may yet occupy it.

Under the Mexican law a creditor can have a debtor arrested on the day when the debt falls due. The prisoner is detained to a post five days, guarded by an officer. At the end of the time, if the money is not forthcoming, the man is taken back to the Government for 10 cents a day for as many days as will be necessary to discharge the obligation. The miserable debtor is sent to the silver mines, where he is chained to a gang of felons and compelled to work underground. He sleeps underground, and never sees daylight again until he is restored to freedom.

Prof Blackie is not the only eccentric member the young band of Edinburg University have met and ever mean. Professor Christison—whose son became eminent in the Edinburg Medical School—once having caught a student sinking in his Latin class, ordered him to stand up and spoke as follows: "No marvel, young sinning, and, above all, no tipping of the wink for such things are lurking in youneckes, lamented to the republic, and will bridge down the gray hairs of your parents with sorrow to the grave. Hound by the way, that's a very pretty sentence; turn it into Latin, sir."

As the war in Egypt has already made guna nuhie scarce and high in price, those who have peach or plum trees can make their own mucilage. Instead of gum will be found on every tree, which, when dissolved in water, makes a most excellent substitute. I have been using it all Summer, and find it to answer the purpose first-rate. If the same juice was strained, and while in the milk stirred sweetened with pure sugar and a little spice, it would be much better to eat than the perishable stuffs that are sold by confectioners as gum drops, and which are, no doubt, made of some animal offal, and doubtless put up with chemicals, and which should have gone to the glue pot at the start. There have been times here, after rainy weather, that peaches could leave been laundered.—Samuel Miller, in Farm World.

Mr. Motor Keely has discovered to a select committee of Philadelphians an "wave plates," "disintegrators," "etheric vapor," and "bellicloses," and is almost patiently heard him through and silently went away without killing Keely.

The true name of Ulina is said to be Chinapee, "the center kingdom of the world." This term was by mage corrupted into Chinapee, and from this word the Portuguese gave it the name of China.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The New York Weekly World

IS THE

Best Democratic Weekly Newspaper Published in the East.

CLUBBED WITH

The Charlevoix Journal

FOR

$2.00 per Year, $1.10 for Six Months, Cash in Advance.

Sample Copies at this Office.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

Painter & Painter Addition, Charlevoix.

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

A FINE STOCK OF

SILVERWARE

JUST RECEIVED.

C. R. BELLINGER.

CASH CLUB RATES.

These of our readers who want a city paper for the ensuing year can be accommodated by the following cash list. To get the benefit of these reduced rates, all arrears must be paid to date of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

Price.	With the Journal
$1 00 Detroit Weekly Free Press	$1 85
1 00 New York Weekly World	2 00
2 00 Pomeroy's Democrat	2 85
1 75 Detroit Tribune, weekly	1 75
1 00 Chicago Weekly Herald	1 85
1 50 The Chicago Daily Inter-Ocean	2 25

Sample Copies furnished on application.

MORTGAGE NOTICE—Blank forms for sale at this office, 10 cents per dozen.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Oct. 29, 1885.

Provision Market.

Dried prices to consumers, corrected every Wednesday evening, by Pinney & Parks, grocers:

Pork, per bbl., $[illegible], $[illegible] and $6.00.
Corn Meal, per cwt., bolted $2.00; unbolted $1.[illegible].
Flour, per bbl., $[illegible].
Hay, per ton, $[illegible].
Potatoes, per bu., [illegible].
Onions, per bu., [illegible].
Beans, per bu., $1 [illegible]-1.50.
Butter, per lb., [illegible].
Eggs, per doz., [illegible].
Lard, per lb., [illegible].
Hides, Green, per lb., [illegible].
Hides, Cured, per lb., [illegible].
Tallow, per lb., [illegible].
Wool, per lb., [illegible].
Wood, per cord, $[illegible]-[illegible].
Shingles, per M., $[illegible].
Lumber, per M., $[illegible].
Wheat, per bu., $1 [illegible]-[illegible].
Corn, per bu., [illegible].
Oats, per bu., [illegible].
Rye, per bu., [illegible].
Buckwheat, per bu., [illegible].
Timothy Seed, per bu., [illegible].
Clover Seed, per bu., [illegible].
Apples, per bu., [illegible].
Apples, per bbl., [illegible].
Apples, per lb., [illegible].
Apples, per ½ bbl., [illegible].
Apples, per ½ bbl., [illegible].
Apples, per ½ bbl

SADNESS AND GLADNESS

There was a cloud in my house,
And it is dead;
There was a tone in my heart,
And it is fled.

And when I sit and think of him,
I am so sad,
That half it seems that sweetness
Can I be glad.

If you had known little baby mine,
He was so sweet,
You would have gone a journey just
To see his feet.

He could not walk a single step,
But catch a word
But then he was as little and gay
As any bird.

That ever sat on orchard bough,
And trilled its song,
Until the heart hearing it
Its sweet had strong.

As if from his air angels he
Had borne it flow;
Such music then thy heard I could paint,
Sing, he!

You cannot think how many things
He learned to lisp
Before the swift, well angel came,
And bade him go.

So that my neighbors said of him,
"Well, it is best
That he should never grow for earth,
Too fair to stay."

But I would not believe a word
Of all that they said;
Nor will I even now, although
My love is dead.

I'm glad would he most worked, it,
Of all the earth;
Is in the travail of a new
And heavenly birth.

As often as a little Christ is bound,
With human swath,
He, like another Herod, should resolve
Upon its death.

But should you ask me how it is
Business goes one day,
Though mine most spread his little wings,
And fly away.—

I could but say that God, who made
This heart of mine,
Must have foreknowed that he'd love
Beside its shrine

Of His own love, and that if He
Can think it right
To turn my joy to sorrow, and
My day to night.

I cannot doubt that he will turn
In other ways,
My winter darkness to the light
Of summer days.

I know that God gives nothing to
Us, but in love;
That which he gives He never cares
To take away.

And when He comes and seeks to make
Our joy lose,
It is that he shall by we may
The more possess

That He has made it brighter than
It was before;
A glory shining on and on
For evermore.

And when I sit and think of this,
I am so glad,
That half it seems that sweetness
Can I be sad.

For evermore.

And when I sit and think of this,
I am so glad,
That half it seems that sweetness
Can I be sad.

SLY WIDOW BISBEE.

BY LILY M. CURRY.

There was nothing remarkable in the fact that the Misses Asher had never married. Wealth abundant was theirs, and friends and the esteem of the community entire. They lived the most serene life imaginable. They never disagreed—and there were three of them, of ages ranging from thirty-six to forty-two years. They never irritated one another. Abigail, Dora, and Fidelia were their respective names. Their individualities blent as happily as white and amber and sea-shell pink. Their existence was one harmonious round of entirely affection, unostentatious charity, and devotion to their three pet cats.

That is, until Cosgrove appeared. Cosgrove was the new organist of Trinity, the most important church in Potterville, and the church whereof the Misses Asher were communicants. Trinity Church stood directly across the wide street from the Asher residence, a noble old house with its colonnade ornately sheltered by superb horse chestnuts. However, the ladies in question had taken a decided fancy to the new organist, and evinced a disposition to second his efforts at obtaining a choir of boys. After a little they had even prevailed upon Mr. Cosgrove to come and make his home with them. Mr. Clinton Cosgrove was a dark, handsome-browed and handsome-eyed gentleman of thirty-three. His other features could not in strict truth have been termed handsome, though a graceful drop of mustache barely concealed a mediaeval curve of lip which many had found attractive.

But there were, as the new organist discovered after a time, a number of the congregation not thoroughly in sympathy with his boy-choir arrangement. This it was which pointed the desirability of a compromise. Mr. Cosgrove determined upon a soprano soloist, and wrote at once to the metropolis.

And so one balmy day in June Joy Folsom came to Potterville. Cosgrove had never met the lady, but she came highly recommended.

He hardly knew what he thought, when he had had his first interview. "Slim, timid, and a face like Saint—somebody's," he said rather indefinitely, as he walked slowly home to dinner at Asbers', where he now made it his home. He wondered if she could really have such a sweet voice in that slight body.

The Misses Asher were much interested to hear about the new soprano. In personal appearance there was little difference between Miss Abigail and Miss Dora, or between Miss Dora and Miss Fidelia. A few more gray hairs, a deeper wrinkle, a lower voice, perhaps. Their toilets were quite similar, sedate, steel-colored silks, soft laces, and some quaint, old-fashioned jewels. Yet they were large-minded women; a little art—oh, never so little art—might have transformed Fidelia at least.

But Cosgrove was not thinking of this. His mind dwelt upon the new arrival, and the probabilities of her filling acceptably the position in question. Supposing she should fail. How he would dislike telling her she would not suit. The big brown eyes that looked so earnestly at him that afternoon—he could not forget them.

"Joey," said Miss Abigail, "I suppose that is a shortening of Josephine."

"No—not Joey," said Cosgrove, slowly; "Joy, odd name, is it not? But I think we shall like Miss Folsom. I suppose you ladies will call on her."

"If, to be sure," said Miss Fidelia.

Joy Folsom sang her first solo the following Sabbath, and sang it to the satisfaction of the organist. Slightly tremulous at first, her voice grew steadier by and by, and some clear and pure as the voice of an angel. Everyone said afterward how beautiful she looked—dressed in pure white, and with such an innocent countenance. There was no question as to her suiting the people. Cosgrove felt vastly relieved. He got on excellently with Miss Folsom. She had no "quirks" about her, as have most musical individuals. She felt everything to his judgment.

It was the most natural thing in the world that they should become friends. And he felt he became friends, it was quite so natural that she should call him Aunt herself. She was an orphan; she had been supporting herself as music-teacher in the great city. She had practiced the strictest economy that she might continue to study under a good teacher. She was poor! " "

The summer hid slowly drifted by. Happy hours are not always swift. Sometimes so much occurs in short space that one comes to realize the actual length of time. They are days that seem like months—so full are they of strange surprise and joy.

That was the way Joy Folsom found it. In the late August days she walked with quick step and bounding pulse. She sang with a new thrill in her voice. She was nineteen and tasting the happiness of first love. Ah, yes! In all the after years nothing half so sweet or pure may come to woman. One never again may know the same feeling of perfect trust and security. Look back to it through tears. O you who have once lived and suffered, who have learned to doubt and to dread, who have stood face to face with selfishness, heartlessness, betrayal!

He loved her. They had not as yet discussed marriage, but he loved her. That was sufficient.

Joy had made any number of friends since coming to Potterville. Or, to speak more accurately, had accepted them. For she was by nature too slid and retiring to make advances in any quarter. The Misses Asher had called upon her, and she had spent more than twice or thrice. But they were all so much older than herself and so stately in dress and manner that she had not become very intimate with them. She felt a certain awe in their presence, which was to no means lessened at the thought that they were so friendly to Clinton Cosgrove.

Among others who had made kindly overtures to Miss Folsom was an elderly soul named Bisbee. She was a widow, and somewhat of a gossip. Perhaps she had her eye on the organ and the organist. Perhaps she had a vague notion how Trinity organ loft stood veiled in shadow those still mid-summer afternoons, when Joy Folsom's slim white-clad figure in the gloom moved slowly to and fro like a lily, and Clinton Cosgrove played off interludes and whispered tender sentences while Fidelia stood looking over his shoulder. The gas burned dimly.

Joy retreated softly to the little vestry. She could not bear to look at the face them. She felt as if she had lost her self-control. She must go to Joy's boarding-place. And there Joy had gone straight to her own room, dazed and choking.

Mrs. Bisbee had naturally enough spoken of church affairs of the minister of Mr. Cosgrove; of the boy-choir; and of the Misses Asher's devotion to the organist.

"Every one understands it, of course," the wily widow had said, carelessly. "And really it is a very good arrangement, you know. He has nothing but his salary; he is as poor as any one."

"You mean Mr. Cosgrove is poor," said Joy, a sudden color creeping up over her cheeks. "I don't quite understand what arrangement you mean, though."

"You don't? Why I thought everybody knew—I mean about Fidelia, of course. She is a year or two older than he is, but that doesn't matter much considering her fortune. Oh, yes, Miss Fidelia will be the making of him.

" " I don't quite know what the marriage is to occur."

"Miss Fidelia to marry Mr. Cosgrove," Joy repeated slowly, as if the intelligence were too stupendous for comprehension.

"Why, I supposed every one knew," the widow made answer.

Then, as they had reached Joy's home, no more was said.

The girl went slowly up the board walk to the house. It was as if a thunder-cloud had settled upon the fair world. Everything was black and hideous. All the sweetness had gone out of the flowers; the very trees seemed to hang stupidly, as if death had touched their life source.

Suspicest? true. Then he had only been trifling with her. He had never asked her to marry him, because he had meant to marry Miss Fidelia Asher, who was rich. He had amused himself with Joy Folsom, because she was poor. Ah, yes! she was poor. In the city her home had been an attic chamber, bleak in winter, stifling in summer. Her work had been hard and incessant. Her progress had been so slow. O, life had been a pitiful struggle. And now the cup of happiness was dashed from her lips. The world was made suddenly dark and terrible.

Joy remained all day in her room to suffer. Pride came to her assistance, and, thought it made the pain no easier, was something of a prop. The other they get over—by facing it. Sometimes they get over it too much. I knew a woman whose husband had deserted her and swears he will never live with her again, and tells her he wishes she would die, because he has loved her, but married her against his will. And yet that woman goes writing to him and pleading with him to come back. That woman has gotten over having pride—too far.

Joy felt that her life was wrecked completely. He should never again put chance to amuse himself with her. She would leave Pottersville at the earliest opportunity. She hoped she need not sing too many more Sabbaths. She hardly knew how she could ever sing again—she felt so crushed so hopeless.

The afternoon were slowly by. She was forced to appear at tea-time, lest her aunts be remarked. After tea she had promised Cosgrove to meet him at the parsonage a new solo.

The Ashers always dined at seven. Their midday luncheon was a most informal repast. Cold meats and fruits and pastry were set forth, from which one should help himself precisely as he felt inclined.

At luncheon that particular morning the ladies had been consulting Miss Fidelia in connection with an entertainment that to be given for some charity.

"She would sing, I suppose," Miss Abigail remarked.

"I, certainly, she would sing!" said Miss Fidelia, the most energetic of the three.

Miss Dora offered no objection, but continued to make her luncheon off cheese and some hard ginger cake.

Mr. Cosgrove spoke absently.

"I presume she would gladly take part."

"If I were not so warm, I should call on her this afternoon," Miss Fidelia declared.

"We practice to-night," said Cosgrove, as absently as before.

"Then," said Miss Fidelia, "I will come over to the church and see her."

"We shall have a heavy rain to-night," Joy heard some one utter this prophecy, as she went down the board walk, when tea was over. She heard the words, yet gave them scarcely a thought. She cared little for gathering shadows in the sky; her world was black enough, yet gave them scarcely a thought. She cared little for gathering shadows in the sky; her world was black as night, yet gave them scarcely a thought. When evil news is brought, one always reaches out for little outward circumstances to witness or disprove its truth. Joy had been tortured all the afternoon with the recollection of a thousand trivial acts and sayings of her lover, and so she had little interest in the color of the sky or the way the wind began to blow up the dusty the street. She went on, an unconscious of the sky, then a single drop of rain dying against her cheek, on toward the church. She went in, as usual, through the little door facing toward the vestry. She heard voices in the organ-loft, and felt no surprise at discovering Miss Fidelia in conversation with Clinton Cosgrove.

But all the bitterness she had choked down during the day seemed now to rise up and suffocate her. She hurried; they had not heard her enter. Cosgrove was playing his favorite "Large"—playing very softly, and Miss Fidelia stood looking over his shoulder. The gas burned dimly.

Joy retreated softly to the little vestry. She could not bear to look at the face them. She felt as if she had lost her self-control. She must go to Joy's boarding-place. And there Joy had gone straight to her own room, dazed and choking.

Mrs. Bisbee had naturally enough spoken of church affairs of the minister of Mr. Cosgrove; of the boy-choir; and of the Misses Asher's devotion to the organist.

"Every one understands it, of course," the wily widow had said, carelessly. "And really it is a very good arrangement, you know. He has nothing but his salary; he is as poor as any one."

"You mean Mr. Cosgrove is poor," said Joy, a sudden color creeping up over her cheeks. "I don't quite understand what arrangement you mean, though."

"You don't? Why I thought everybody knew—I mean about Fidelia, of course. She is a year or two older than he is, but that doesn't matter much considering her fortune. O, yes, Miss Fidelia will be the making of him.

" " I don't quite know what the marriage is to occur."

"Miss Fidelia to marry Mr. Cosgrove," Joy repeated slowly, as if the intelligence were too stupendous for comprehension.

"Why, I supposed every one knew," the widow made answer.

Then, as they had reached Joy's home, no more was said.

The girl went slowly up the board walk to the house. It was as if a thunder-cloud had settled upon the fair world. Everything was black and hideous. All the sweetness had gone out of the flowers; the very trees seemed to hang stupidly, as if death had touched their life source.

Suspicest true. Then he had only been trifling with her. He had never asked her to marry him, because he had meant to marry Miss Fidelia Asher, who was rich. He had amused himself with Joy Folsom, because she was poor. Ah, yes! she was poor. In the city her home had been an attic chamber, bleak in winter, stifling in summer. Her work had been hard and incessant. Her progress had been so slow. O, life had been a pitiful struggle. And now the cup of happiness was dashed from her lips. The world was made suddenly dark and terrible.

Joy remained all day in her room to suffer. Pride came to her assistance, and, thought it made the pain no easier, was something of a prop. The other they get over—by facing it. Sometimes they get over it too much. I knew a woman whose husband has deserted her and swears he will never live with her again, and tells her he wishes she would die, because he has loved her, but married her against his will. And yet that woman goes writing to him and pleading with him to come back. That woman has gotten over having pride—too far.

Joy felt that her life was wrecked completely. He should never again put chance to amuse himself with her. She would leave Pottersville at the earliest opportunity. She hoped she need not sing too many more Sabbaths. She hardly knew how she could ever sing again—she felt so crushed so hopeless.

The afternoon were slowly by. She was forced to appear at tea-time, lest her aunts be remarked. After tea she had promised Cosgrove to meet him at the parsonage a new solo.

The Ashers always dined at seven. Their midday luncheon was a most informal repast. Cold meats and fruits and pastry were set forth, from which one should help himself precisely as he felt inclined.

At luncheon that particular morning the ladies had been consulting Miss Fidelia in connection with an entertainment that to be given for some charity.

"She would sing, I suppose," Miss Abigail remarked.

"I, certainly, she would sing!" said Miss Fidelia, the most energetic of the three.

Miss Dora offered no objection, but continued to make her luncheon off cheese and some hard ginger cake.

Mr. Cosgrove spoke absently.

"I presume she would gladly take part."

"If I were not so warm, I should call on her this afternoon," Miss Fidelia declared.

"We practice to-night," said Cosgrove, as absently as before.

"Then," said Miss Fidelia, "I will come over to the church and see her."

"We shall have a heavy rain to-night," Joy heard some one utter this prophecy, as she went down the board walk, when tea was over. She heard the words, yet gave them scarcely a thought. She cared little for gathering shadows in the sky; her world was black as night, yet gave them scarcely a thought. She cared little for gathering shadows in the sky; her world was black as night, yet gave them scarcely a thought. When evil news is brought, one always reaches out for little outward circumstances to witness or disprove its truth. Joy had been tortured all the afternoon with the recollection of a thousand trivial acts and sayings of her lover. And so she had little interest in the color of the sky or the way the wind began to blow up the dusty the street. She went on, an unconscious of the sky, then a single drop of rain dying against her cheek, on toward the church. She went in, as usual, through the little door facing toward the vestry. She heard voices in the organ-loft, and felt no surprise at discovering Miss Fidelia in conversation with Clinton Cosgrove.

But all the bitterness she had choked down during the day seemed now to rise up and suffocate her. She hurried; they had not heard her enter. Cosgrove was playing his favorite "Large"—playing very softly, and Miss Fidelia stood looking over his shoulder. The gas burned dimly.

Joy retreated softly to the little vestry. She could not bear to look at the face them. She felt as if she had lost her self-control. She must go to Joy's boarding-place. And there Joy had gone straight to her own room, dazed and choking.

Mrs. Bisbee had naturally enough spoken of church affairs of the minister of Mr. Cosgrove; of the boy-choir; and of the Misses Asher's devotion to the organist.

"Every one understands it, of course," the wily widow had said, carelessly. "And really it is a very good arrangement, you know. He has nothing but his salary; he is as poor as any one."

"You mean Mr. Cosgrove is poor," said Joy, a sudden color creeping up over her cheeks. "I don't quite understand what arrangement you mean, though."

"You don't? Why I thought everybody knew—I mean about Fidelia, of course. She is a year or two older than he is, but that doesn't matter much considering her fortune. O, yes, Miss Fidelia will be the making of him.

" " I don't quite know when

Around the County.

Burgess.

Miss Hannah Bell is to teach school in district No. 4 the coming winter, commencing Nov. 9th.

Mrs. Leeds, who has been visiting at her father's, Mr. Gibson, started for her home in Louisville, Ky., one day last week.

Capt. Bennett will take his vessel to Florida the coming winter.

It is thought by some in district No. 2 that other residents of the same district missed their calling by not being showmakers; then when they wanted bristles all that would be necessary would be to reach over their backs and pull them.

The Lewis boys have let their place and are talking of going to Washington Territory.

About another week will finish up the threshing in Hayes if the weather is good.

585 bushels of wheat and 334 beans from one of each, is the latest agricultural report from Hayes.

Mrs. W. C. Arnold is reported on the sick list.

Mr. Peter Long who has been staying with his sons in Evangeline the past summer, is going back to his old home in Flint the coming week.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. C. Y. Cook.
First Vice President—Mrs. J. E. Allen.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Hidings.
Third Vice President—Mrs. C. P. Van Alstine.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. H. G. Loveridge.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. E. Sofield.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

Satan's Five Degrees.

One of the most numerous of the great classes of civilized society is the D. O. D., which may be otherwise expressed as the Dependent Order of Drunkards. It comprehends persons of all grades and classes of society. It draws its membership from bar and pulpit, from forum and senate, from office and shop, from home surroundings, ability or culture, they are brought into one fellowship and reduced to one common level. We lay before the readers the five principal degrees of the D. O. O. D.

First, we see the young man, intelligent, courteous and polite, accepting the cup at the hand of some young lady, and drinking her health in liquor that ruins his own. Well dressed, respectable, with fair promise and bright prospect before him, we see nothing that should hinder him from rising to the highest stations and occupying the most influential positions were it not for that cup which contains within itself the promise and power of all sorrow, degradation, shame and death.

The scene shifts and another degree is taken, and he who learned his first lesson in the parlor of the gay and refined, has taken another in the gilded saloon, where jovial visitors, necessary company and vulgar jokes and baseless vices wait to drag the unwary victim of intemperance down to the tomb. A little later we see him again: a third degree is taken; he drinks deeply, and his battered hat, buttonless vest, patched garments and look of general vagrancy tell us the effect of the maddening poison upon him.

A short journey brings him to another degree. The relics of his old gentility are gone; careless and ragged, his shaking hand and gross and reddened countenance shows that he has drank up everything that made life joyous or this world a place of peace and blessing.

One more degree shows us what strong drink will do for the strongest man. No man was ever mighty enough to wrestle with the bottle. He is always thrown at last. His body a mass of blunted disease, his heart a den of foul and beastly passions, his countenance marred and sensualized beyond all power of description, in rags and tatters, homeless and friendless, he travels his short journey to the darkness of the tomb. Some day the tidings come that he is found dead—dead by the wayside, with the bottle in his pocket; dead in the snowdrift, coming home from a drunken debauch; dead in his wretched hovel, with no one to smooth his dying pillow or minister to him in his closing hours. The end has come; the warnings of God and man have been in vain; he has passed through the varying degrees of evil habit; he has been initiated into the mysteries of satan's lodge, and at last his existence is wrecked, his life is lost, and he awaits the sentence of the mighty Judge who has taught us that no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven.—T. Dewitt Talmadge.

THE KEYS.

The Kidneys and Liver are the keys to woman's health. If these organs are in a healthy condition no female can be entertained of sickness, for the system will cleanse itself of impure matter. If you have Headache, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Lame Back or Side, Falling Strength, Languor, Excessive Flow of Urine, &c., remember they are the advance guard and give warning to more serious trouble such as Diabetes, Bright's Disease, &c. Parmelee's Dyspepsia, Diuretics, Kidney and Liver Cure is a sure cure for all these diseases. Price only $1.00 large bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Hardy, Boyne City.

A Delicable Article.

For enterprise, push and a desire to get such goods as will give the best satisfaction, Geo. W. Crouter the druggist leads all competition. Dr. Moffett's Teething and Lung Syrup, because its the best Medicine on the market, by Druggists Dr. Moffett's Cure Consumption, Throat Sores and Colds. Sample free.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Ezra Bennett, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to William H. Sizemore, of Rock Island, Illinois, of the second part, recorded in Liber 5, of Mortgages, on page 208, on the 5th day of October, 1882, and the said mortgage has been duly assigned by the said mortgagee to the undersigned and sealed, and

WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, is the sum of One Hundred Eighty (180) Dollars, of Principal and Interest, and the further sum of Twenty (20) Dollars as an attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, in case of a default proceeding in the equity having been instituted to recover the debt so secured, or any part of it, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative;

NOW, THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given, that, by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door, or outer entrance to Lovejoy's Hall, in the village of East Jordan, in the township of Jordan, in Charlevoix County, in the village of East Jordan, Charlevoix County, Mich., on the twenty-second day of December, 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of that day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, viz: All that parcel of land being in the township of Jordan, in the County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, and being the south-west quarter of section number thirty-six (36), in township thirty-three (33) north, range five (5) west, containing forty acres more or less, according to the United States Survey thereof, together with all the tenements and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., October 8th, 1885.

MARGARET E. BLACKMAN,
Assignee.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage. 118

Hannah, Lay & Co.'s Pleasure Steamers,

SEASON OF 1885.

CITY OF GRAND RAPIDS.

CAPT. O. E. WILKER.

Going North every morning—Leave Traverse City 7:00, Northport 7:20, Norwood 8:00, Charlevoix 8:40, Petoskey 9:20, arrive at Harbor Springs 10:00.

Going South every afternoon—Leave Harbor Springs 2:00, Petoskey 2:40, Charlevoix 3:20, Norwood 4:00, Northport 4:40, arrive at Traverse City 5:30.

T. S. FAXTON,

CAPT. A. C. ALDERTON.

Going North every morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7:30, Petoskey 8:00, Charlevoix 8:45, Point Lake 9:00, arrive Traverse City 9:30.

Going South every afternoon—Leave Traverse City 2:00, Point Lake 2:45, Charlevoix 3:05, Petoskey 3:45, arrive Harbor Springs 4:45.

GOOD CONNECTIONS will be made at Traverse City and Petoskey with both day and night trains on the G. R. & I. R. R.; also on Steamer Lake Michigan for Manistee, Ludington, Milwaukee and Chicago and the City of Alpena for Detour, Mackinaw, and all points on Lake Huron; also at Petoskey with the City of Grand Haven going south, and the CITY OF TRAVERSE for Chicago.

Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Charlevoix and East Jordan.

STEAMER THOMAS BRIANT.

CAPT. R. VANDERBURG.

Morning—Leave Harbor Springs 7:30, Petoskey 8:00, Charlevoix 8:30, arrive East Jordan 11:30.

Afternoon—Leave East Jordan 12:30, Charlevoix 3:30, Petoskey 4:30, arrive Harbor Springs 5:00.

Close connections at Petoskey with G. R. & I. R. R. trains, north and south.

Charlevoix and East Jordan.

Steamer GAZELLE—Capt. Robert O'Neil.

Steamer—Leave Charlevoix at 7:00 a.m., leave East Jordan 8:30, leave East Jordan 9:00, arrive Charlevoix 10:30, leave Charlevoix 2:30, leave East Jordan 4:00, leave East Jordan 4:30, arrive Charlevoix 6:00. Stopping at intermediate points.

A PRESENT.

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps will pay for mailing and specimen copy of two book, agents, will receive free a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all our Patented, including Cleveland, size 22x28, worth $1.00.

Address Esther Pub. Co., Chicago, Ill.

Cures in a Day. Warranted not to injure the Scalp or Skin. Sold by Druggists. Cincinnati, O.

Gloss. Nine Shades. Sold by Druggists.

Gloss. Nine Shades. Sold by Druggists.

Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00.

For Sale by F. G. HENN & C., Charlevoix.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 30am	7 30pm
Fort Wayne, ar	4 30pm	2 10pm	1 20am
Fort Wayne, lv	4 45	2 40pm	1 25am	8 45pm
Kalamazoo, ar	8 45	7 40	5 45	12 25pm
Kalamazoo, lv	8 55	7 50	5 50	12 35
Grand Rapids, ar	9 45	8 45	6 45	1 35
Cadillac, ar	7 10am		10 20	4 20
Petoskey, ar	7 55		12 50pm	6 20
Harbor Springs	8 20		1 20	6 50
Howard City, ar	5 20		12 50pm	4 20
Mt. Pleasant, ar	6 40		2 05	5 40
Reed City, ar	9 55		5 05	7 30
Traverse City, ar			5 45	8 10
Cadillac, ar	11 00		3 40	9 30
Manistee, ar			5 15	9 00
Luther, ar			4 30	8 20
Scottville, lv			5 34	11 22
Manistee, ar			6 40	12 30am
Baldwin, ar			7 34	1 06
Grand Rapids, ar			10 35	4 45
Battle Creek, ar			12 40pm	6 55
Michigan City			9 50pm	3 25am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 8	No. 4
Muskegon City		7 00am	9 20pm
Muskegon, lv
Petoskey, lv		9 00	1 00am
Harbor Springs		9 35	1 35
Manistee		9 03	11 35am
Kalkaska		10 37	1 36
Walton		11 04	2 04
Cadillac, ar		12 20pm	3 10
Cadillac, lv		12 35	3 20	1 05pm
Reed City, ar		1 50	5 40	2 30
Howard City, ar		2 20	6 20	3 00
Mt. Pleasant, ar		3 35	7 35	4 20
Grand Rapids, ar		5 34	9 01	5 53
Kalamazoo, ar		6 40	10 15	7 05
Grand Rapids, lv		8 00	10 30	10 05
Battle Creek, ar	7 10am	9 05	11 35
Michigan City, ar	10 00	12 05pm	1 40pm
Kalamazoo, lv	9 10	7 50	1 40
Fort Wayne, ar	1 00	11 40pm	5 50
Cincinnati, ar	7 00pm		6 30am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. Agent, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Photographs!

I have located my

New Photograph Gallery

OVER

OPDYKE'S STORE.

And am prepared to do

All Kinds of Photographic Work,

From the

Miniature Picture to Life Size

Any Old Picture Copied and Enlarged.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

DAVE BRADBEER,
Charlevoix, Mich.

GET THE BEST

If your neighbors want a clean, handsome, weekly newspaper, giving all the news and most complete news from all parts of the world, they can have the CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL for this paper two months, 50 cents; for four months, 75 cents; for six months, $1.50; per year, $3.00. Address

The Charlevoix Journal,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

Real Estate

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,

IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Random.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Random.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.

GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE Right Place

For Bargains in Hardware,

Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grind stones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Doors, Sash PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm bell, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishing tackle, Revolvers, Guns, Ammunition, Sponge, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Tubs Wooden ware, Rope, Fishermen's Supplies, and Ship chandlery, Job and Tin work.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

I have purchased the Stock of

Drugs, Chemicals,

STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.

of O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to so conduct the business as to merit a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and ask my prices.

PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,

Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

I have purchased the Meat business of Armstrong & Co., and will continue at the old stand, with the freshest and best goods in the market.

T. E. CHAMBERLIN.

$100 REWARD

Every Ounce of Adulteration IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more used than any other plug in the State. It is always in good order; NEVER THREATENS; NEVER SWELLS; GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION, and we also sell it to everintend NIMROD THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER. Ask your dealer for it. Insist on your dealer buying of you. Sold by all leading jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.

Petersburg, Va.

The Grand Rapids Daily Democrat,

The Leading Newspaper of Western Michigan.

ENLARGED AND IMPROVED

Sent by mail at 50 cents per month.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 121. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Conveyancing promptly attended to.

ALDRICH & CROZIER, Attorneys at Law and Practicers in Chancery. Office in Sutton's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

C. J. SMITH, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agent. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

PERRY G. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Real Estate business promptly attended to. PERSONAL TO LOAN.

H. L. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office on Second st., Boyne, Mich.

ALEX. DERBYSHIRE, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OTTO F. WINNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Boyne City, Mich.

W. A. MORRIS, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Collections a specialty.

N. SABOURET, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday School at 12 m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. C. P. VAN ALSTINE, pastor.

CHRISTIAN REPUBLICAN CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting evenings. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. HIDINGS, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

BUFFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humoeopathic Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. CRESSON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARDIN, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. A. H. Harbor Post No. 119, meets second Wednesday in each month, at 1350 Fellows' Hall.

ORIENT Council Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

L. O. L. Star Rises No. 157, meet Saturday on or after each full moon, at 1350 Fellows' hall.

MANISTEE Chapter, Lodge No. 252, meets at Masonic temple before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

W. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

BROWN & CO.'S

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,

Capital, $25,000.

With ample capital and every accommodation consistent with safe banking, invite the patronage of the public. Special attention given to the interests of the farming community. Special facilities to collect doubtful claims. Insurance agent and real estate dealers. Sell foreign exchange, buy and sell government bonds and stocks. Make loans and discounts in Europe by the hour.

CORRESPONDENTS.

Chase National Bank, New York.
Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

OFFICERS.

President—Byron Sears.
First Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Robert Miller.
Third Vice President—Chas. J. Strang.
Treasurer—Geo. R. Suffold.
Secretary—Jas. Sutton.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—Jas. Sutton, A. D. Cronkright, and J. T. Hidings.
Finance and Audit Committee—H. Lee Iddings, W. A. Smith, and A. Cook.
Hospital Committee—P. W. Mayne, L. D. Bartholomew, M. J. Stockman, R. Cooper, Geo. R. Suffold, R. W. Miller, S. M. Cole, W. C. Newman, S. W. Cook, H. Frisbie.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to enlarge the business, growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7:30 p.m.

COMMUNICATIONS SOLICITED.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Our Blades,

WAGON TOUGHES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

BOOKS.—We have in stock a number of Scribner's and Lumbermen's Scales, Decimal Scales, 50 cents for four months, 75 cents for six months, $1.50 per year. Address

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING

DR. CROUTER'S

BAKING POWDER

Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.
If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.
It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.
It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops.
It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by

Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,

Chemist and Druggist,

BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,

ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,

Charlevoix, Michigan.

This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. H. JERRUE Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in connection with the House. 25

FARMERS' HOTEL,

W. S. JOHNSON, Proprietor.

Antrim Street, near Village Hall, Charlevoix.

Location convenient for mechanics working in any of the factories on Round Lake, and for farmers coming to town. Feed stable for teams will be provided.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and resorts. Express office and boat quarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages. Large sample room for commercial travelers. Special efforts to collect doubtful claims. Insurance agent and real estate dealer. Sell foreign exchange, buy government bonds and stocks. Make loans and discounts in Europe by the hour.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

TRAPHAGEN & BLAIR, Proprietors.

East Jordan, - Michigan.

Those having business at the county seat will find this the most convenient place to stop, and the proprietors will spare no pains to give the best satisfaction. TELEPHONE CONNECTIONS.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,

A. J. HALL, Proprietor.

Boyne City, Michigan.

This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton, - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

Picture Frames

Made to Order.

A FINE ASSORTMENT OF MOULDINGS

To Select From.

O. I. WHEAT,

Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Mich.

Well-Digging.

JOHN SHRIER

Charlevoix, Mich.,

is prepared to do all work in the line of well-digging, cistern building, pump repairing, well drilling, and similar work.

THE GREAT GRANT BOOK.

Life and Personal Memoirs of Gen. Grant in one volume only $1.50. Agents wanted. Sells day, grows said first week. A $4 engraving 2848 inches of all your Presidents" FREE to each subscriber. Thirsh of thirl Some person should send Sorts, for outfit and engraving and full particulars free. Address Excelsior Publishing Co., 361 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 18

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertisements may be made for it in NEW YORK.

Cleveland Sustained.

Glorious Democratic Gains Everywhere.

New York Sustains Cleveland's Administration, and Elects Hill Governor by 30,000 Majority.

MAHONEISM REBUKED IN VIRGINIA.

Lee Elected Governor by 20,000 and the Democrats Carry Both Branches of the Legislature.

Large Democratic Gains in the Connecticut Legislature.

Maryland Gives 15,000 Democratic on State Ticket.

A Day of Glory in Detroit.

The election on Tuesday demonstrated beyond any new full show of administration of Grover Cleveland has strengthened democracy ever where.

In New York, instead of democratic defeat, as has been freely predicted, Hill is re-elected over Irv Dave court, republican by about 30,000, and the democratic lieutenant governor, secretary of state, comptroller, attorney general, treasurer, and other officers are elected by good majorities.

In Virginia the democrats elect Fitzhugh Lee governor by 20,000, and will have two-thirds of the senate, and at least 60 out of 100 in the lower house, which will insure a democratic successor to Senator Mahone.

Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Iowa are still republican, but by reduced majorities.

The city election in Chicago shows democratic gains.

The republicans of Massachusetts elect governor, but the democrats make large gains in the legislature.

In Connecticut the democrats gain four senators and sixty two representatives in the legislature.

In Maryland, the democratic majority on state ticket is 12,000 to 15,000.

Detroit makes the entire democratic city ticket except one.

We have received from George Stinson & Co., of Portland, Maine, the well-known Art Publishers, a magnificent, full length, steel engraving of General Grant. It is after Anderson's celebrated photograph, which was made while the general was still in full vigor, and represents him in his sturdy, manly strength, as the people wish to remember him. It is, undoubtedly the best portrait ever made of the general. Messrs. Stinson & Co. are in need of agents for several important, popular, new publications, and offer inducements that should be heeded by those in need of profitable work; those who write to them will receive, free, full particulars.

The Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

New Goods!

I would call the attention of the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity to my new fall stock of

MILLINERY

AND

Fancy Goods.

Have also just received a fine stock of materials for dress work, such as Felts, Cretonnes, Jet borders, Silks, Damsk and Table Scarf ornaments, Stockings, Gloves, Corsets, Embroideries, Handkerchiefs, and Collars. Call and examine my stock. I design to sell cheap for cash.

Dress-Making Done to Order.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

McCABE'S

Livery and Hack Line

DRAYING TO ORDER.

Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.

AT

McCabe's Livery Barn,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

W. M. WAGAR. G. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars And Smoking Tobacco. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Groceries. Delisle, Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture an iron wagon of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

THE OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE and Mower and Reaper combined, for sale.

LEECHES.

The History and Present Condition of a Peculiar Trade.

Of the two firms in London—and there are only two—to whom the foreign leeches are consigned from Hamburg, one practices as a dental surgeon and the other sells pipes, tobacco, and other trifles. Both are of sufficient standing to recall to bona fide fancy pauses of the trade, the great times of indiscriminate blood-letting, when, whether the patient suffered from a black eye, a headache, a liver, or a heart, he lost a couple of ounces of blood and was declared to be better. Now scarcely one is used where a century ago a hundred were bled, and the shrewdest book of even so recent a date as 1860 has fallen in something less than a halfpenny at wholesale price.

No complete proof of the popularity of the leech with the early practitioner can be afforded than by the fact that the verb "to leech" means to treat with medicine and to bleed, while the doctor himself, even so late as the days of Shakspeare, borrowed the name of his favorite instrument of healing. The slender, meager, hungry leech comes from Turkey, within a radius of fifty miles of Constantinople, and from Buda-Pesth, where the country people bring them in, like watercress, by thousands from the ditches and sell them to the dealers. They are found there in all ditches and ponds, and wherever there is pure running water, weeds for shelter, and muddy banks and bottoms. They are, as a rule, tested in nets prepared with bait, though we are also informed that it is not rare for the lazy peasant to walk barefoot through the water and strip them off as fast as they can adhere to the calf.

However they are caught,—by plain, honest fishing or by human artifice,—from Buda-Pesth, without distinction of age or size, they travel to Hamburg, where they lie in vast ponds or reservoirs until the time for their selection arrives. In those reservoirs they lie generally for a year, and during all that time, if they are properly cared for, they should receive no food, or rather no more than they can find for themselves in the water. But this is a rule that is not always observed as it should be, for there are many merchants who give them blood, and some liver, so that all tastes may be satisfied, the entire body of a horse thrown among them; with the result that on arrival in this country their appetites are fastidious, and they are found to need certain stimulants to performance. From Hamburg, when their time of probation is over, they are imported here direct in kegs and boxes, and at the back of the surgery in Pentonville or among the pipes and tobacco of Hounsditch they lie in shallow earthen vessels tightly covered with gauze or linen, the halting stage on the way to the wholesale druggist and the hospital.

With the importer they rarely tarry for more than four or five days, but are sent out almost as fast as they come in, in small wooden boxes similar to those used by fruiterers for honeycomb. From the wholesale druggist they pass again to the chemist and apothecary, and when the perils of travel and the variations of climate they go through are considered, the intending purchaser must not be surprised if he finds himself asked sixpence for an animal that cost the first dealer a shilling for a couple of hundred. Many die on the voyage and many in the short time they remain with the importer, and though in theory the selected leech will stand an extremest heat or cold, many of the five-and-twenties and fifties ordered by the chemist, carefully treated as they are, do not live to fulfill what seems to be the sole reason of their existence—that of drawing blood.

The leech should never properly be applied more than once, and can be applied anywhere. It fills in about a quarter of an hour, and will absorb altogether from forty to eighty-five grains of blood, or in all about half an ounce. There is an ingenious instrument known as the artificial leech, now occasionally used, but now scarcely ever met with. It consists of a small, sharp steel cylinder worked by a spring, with which a circular incision is made, and with an interior glass cylinder capable of being exhausted by a piston worked by a screw. It is not a good instrument, and is, as we say, not used now. There is a specimen to be seen in the museum of the College of Surgeons among the "Surgical Instrument Series." In England there is a less powerful species commonly found, though now never used. It is known as the bare leech, from its habits of attaching the membranous lining the mouth and nostrils of animals drinking at the pools it haunts. It is in its way venomous and, when applied to the human subject, inflammation, leading to erysipelas, has been known to follow its bite. There must be something in our waters unfavorable to the growth and culture of the parasite, for not only is the indigenous leech useless, and indeed harmful, but the foreign specimen which efforts have been made to acclimatize have never come to any good. Thirty years ago a prominent English firm projected and founded a farm at Norwood for the breeding and cultivation of the Turkish and Hungarian leech, but, either from ignorance of treatment or changefulness of climate, they all sickened and died, and the scheme collapsed.—Gentleman's.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

A horrible story of fire and loss of life comes from Hebron, Delaware County, New York, which is lost both in the wood of Martin Julseck, a 12-year-old girl, who gives the following details to the Coroner's jury:

The day before the fire my mother and the baby and myself went up to the house. The baby had only on the ground and piled a lot of dry brush together. She took some matches out of her pocket, and said she intended to burn herself and baby on the brush pile, and that if I told on her she would kill me. She made a small hut on some brush, and placed the down and burn, too. I ran down the road and met a man and two the ladies up in my sister, and would not matter have him, and I ran to the house with me. On the morning of the fire I woke up, hearing baby cry. The house was all in a blaze. I jumped out of bed and called for mother. She did not answer me. I ran to her door and it was locked. I could hear her smashing face and crying. I ran back to my room and waked my 3 brothers. I dressed myself quickly. I then went to get them out of the house, as I knew it must be on fire. When I got to the door, I found it locked. I found that a barrel of flour had been placed against it, so that it could not be opened. I heard her crawling, and was almost choked with smoke. I do not know how I ever moved enough to open the door. I had to do it, though, or see them burn, as we could get out. When I got me brothers out of the house, I ran a window in my mother's room and locked it. I could hear the baby screaming. The room was black with smoke, and mother was lying on the floor. She had throwed piled up around her, and had set fire to it. I thought sight of was awful. I think I might have gone crazy, for I do not remember anything more. When Mr. Hanford asked me where mother and baby were, and I told him they had gone to the hill, I think the men with mother and the house pile, and what she said there, must have been a dream. We all three lately to epileptic seizures.

The case of Ferdinand Ward, the New York bank wrecker, was given to the jury at New York on the evening of the 24th ult., and a verdict of larceny in the first degree was returned about midnight. The penalty may be imprisonment for ten years.

Boston Buck, aged 70, and half a dozen of his gang of counterfeiters, who for years have been operating in Clarion and Forest Counties, Pennsylvania, have just been sentenced at Pittsburgh to terms in the penitentiary.

Emory Thayer, who resided near Hamilton Station, N. Y., was awaken at night by burglars, and in attempting to grapple with one of the robbers, Thayer was shot dead.

Stephen MacPherson (colored) at Fairfield was attacked with a knife by Harvey J. Peck, Treasurer of the Press Company, fracturing his skull. The victim, who had been for several years capitain and trainer of Yale College crews, had removed MacPherson for permitting gas to escape.

WESTERN.

August Hemlow, who was arrested in Cleveland for passing counterfeit money, hanged himself in the cell.

The city of Evansville has failed to pay the interest coupons on $200,000 of water bonds. The holder of the security in an Eastern life insurance company, which is participant to take possession of the waterworks as its pleasure.

An interview lasting an hour was held in St. Louis, between Samuel N. Brooks, of Hyde, Enfield, and his son, Hunt B. Brooks, who is charged with the murder of C. Arthur Preller. Only a deputy sheriff witnessed the scene. The elder Brooks expresses his belief that the trial will result in an acquittal.

The order of the Chief of Police of Cleveland, Ohio, closing all saloons on Sunday, was promulgated on Saturday.

The four year of a Wabash passenger train left the track near Laporte, Ind., bumping over several times and rolling to the ditch. Thirteen persons were serious injured.

C. J. Hayes and S. O. Prescott, of Chicago, have commenced suit against the city of Waterloo, Iowa, for $50,000 damages, to test they were arrested and imprisoned for seven days for peddling goods without a license. The point made is that the ordinance under which they were prosecuted is Prince upon civil rights. The ordinance in question is based upon Iowa statutes, but the latter does not provide for punishment in case of refusal to pay license.

Without cause, J. C. Henning shot and killed his mistress, Mrs. Lottie Venne, at Rockville, Ind. The murderer, who is a peculiar character, and by some considered insane, attempted to commit himself, but there a different search by citizens he was captured and placed in the jail. The murder occurred in the house, determined upon a beaching, but was unknown previously, though for years the greatest excitement was exhibited. The husband of the victim was shot and killed two years ago by charles Hutchinson, a prominent relative of Mrs. Venne, whom her husband considered to be unduly intimate with Hutchinson.

Eighty lodges, representing several States, celebrated at Cleveland, Ohio, the seventieth anniversary of the organization of the A. O. U. W.

Chicago elevators contain 12,953,000 bushels of wheat, 1,091,432 bushels of corn, 227,413 bushels of oats, 248,428 bushels of rye, and 126,033 bushels of barley; total, 14,527,306 bushels of all kinds of grain, against 9,772,653 bushels a year ago.

At Chicago A. P. Burrus shot and fatally wounded Miss Lillian Walker and Mrs. Ray Good while the young ladies were leaving the office of B. G. Dun & Co.'s mercantile agency, at No. 14 Monroe street. The day before Burrus had been dismissed from that office because he gave offensive to the person remarks about the character of the victims, and the shooting was done in sudden revenge. Burrus fled after the shooting, and was chased by a great crowd of people who wanted to lynch him, even after police officers had taken him in custody.

SOUTHERN.

Jacob Kauffman, a well-known merchant, committed suicide at Beaver, Ohio, by dressing himself of his clothing and crawling several times back and forward through a barbed-wire fence. When discovered the body was shockingly mutilated, the fence being covered with blood and shreds of skin and flesh.

While R. J. Shay, a prominent real-estate dealer of San Francisco, was at dinner in the Nevada restaurant with Mrs. James C. Brown, of Redlands, Cal., the husband of the latter walked in, drew a revolver and fired two bullets into him. Shay's wounds are believed to be fatal. Jealousy caused the trouble.

E. M. Coy, a prominent lawyer of Petersburg, Va., whose health has become greatly impaired, killed himself with a revolver. He left a large family, and carried life insurance to the amount of $15,000.

A Fort Worth, Texas, official says a contract has been made with an English syndicate for the delivery on the wharf at Galveston, forthwith for the next five years, of 300,000 cross sections of beef cattle. The price stipulated is at most a little more than the beef, and mine cents for the hides. The delivery, it is reported, will begin at once.

Prairie fires are raging in Texas, and have so far burned over 50,000 acres.

J. C. McFerran, a noted bourbon-breeder of Kentucky, died on his farm near Louisville, aged 73 years. He leaves an immense fortune.

The Catholics of Richmond have taken steps to inform the Spanish Government in regard to the appearance of Rev. Dr. Curry, recently appointed Minister to Madrid.

John Thompson, a murderer, was taken from jail at Kingston, Tenn., and hanged by a mob.

The Governor of Arkansas has granted amnesty of having prisoners exonerated by mobs in Chico County, and has offered rewards for the capture of the persons who have taken beyond the wooden jail.

The wholesale and retail grocery business at Augusta, Ga., having been monopolized by Chinamen, the citizens are petitioning the Council to devote means to stop the further tide of immigration.

WASHINGTON.

The Naval Board appointed to examine the unfinished cruiser, the construction of which was begun by John Roach, report that the fair market value of the Chilean is $725,000; amount necessary to complete the vessel, $500,000. The value of the Atlanta is fixed at $620,000; amount necessary to complete the vessel, $41,500. The Boston is worth $410,000; amount necessary to complete the vessel, $50,105.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue appointed Godfrey Jaeger, of Illinois, Chief Clerk of Internal Revenue Agent, vice John W. Phelps, resigned.

The Secretary of the Interior has made the following appointments: Special Examiners in the Pension Office: under the civil-service rules, Eben E. Clark, of Maryland; Tracy E. Bradley, of Missouri; Thos. A. Stockinger, of Kansas; John H. Anthony, of Illinois; George F. Smith, of Kansas; E. B. Gunillon, of Virginia; F. W. Edwards, of Illinois; Jacob E. Klugh, of Pennsylvania; Arch McDonald, of Illinois; Q. E. Brown, of Illinois, and Howard S. McCandlis, of Virginia.

It has been ordered that the postal cards bearing a special delivery stamp shall be delivered the same as letters with the extra stamp.

The Postmaster General has decided that only free-use mail matter—that is, letters, postal-cards, and sealed packages—shall have the benefit of the special delivery service. Clerks who may be employed to deliver special-delivery letters will not be entitled to compensation therefor unless they are paid out of the private funds of the Postmaster. The words "special delivery" must be written by the Postmaster on the dispatching envelope in which a registered letter or package is placed.

POLITICAL.

The following was promulgated by the President on the 27th ult. for the information of the public:

For nearly eight months a large share of the time of the President has been devoted to the hearing of applications for office and the determination of the question of fitness. In all this time scarcely has an incompetent or unfit man been appointed to office. The time thus so spent has necessarily abstracted the public from their business, and some of it has been sacrificed to the indulgence of people in their business upon useless interviews, and some of it has been unpleasantly used. The public will have such a due regard for the claims of those who have sacrificed their business and have disappointed with office-holding, fairness, trusty demand that in the future the time of the President shall be differently employed, and he confidently expects that all good citizens will approve in the propriety and necessity of the following plan adopted in this end:

After June 1 the President will devote all interviews of those seeking public positions or public affairs to Friday of each Wednesday and Friday, during that month, from 10 to 12 o'clock. Those who have business with the office pertaining to the public business, and at the same days, at 1 to 3 in the afternoon, he will meet those who merely desire to pay their respects. On all other days and times during that month he will receive only Cabinet officers and heads of departments.

James Hopes (Democrat) has been elected Mayor of Baltimore by a plurality of 2,876 over the fusion candidate, the vote being one of the heaviest ever cast. Both branches of the City Council have Democratic majorities.

The work of reorganizing the civil-service commission is found by President Cleveland to be one of great difficulty, especially as the salaries are limited to $3,200 per annum. Among a number who have declined to serve are M. L. Wilmoth and Charles Codman, of Massachusetts.

The Louisville Courier-Journal publishes a lengthy interview with Senator Beck upon the Johnson-Grant-Depew matter.

HERE AND THERE.

First Auditor Chenoweth is still engaged in putting his investigations into the operations and expenditures of the scientific bureaus supported by the Government. He finds additional evidence in his case alone of an utter lack of knowledge on the subject of legal disbursements, which will, in his opinion, result in suits for recovery, similar to that brought against ex-Commissioner Loring, of the Agricultural Bureau, for perverting an appropriation.

Noah Porter has tendered his resignation as President of Yale College, to take effect at the next commencement. He has held the position since 1871.

Mormon missionaries continue to make their appearance in Central Illinois, to deny the charges, and appeal to the charitable for subsistence.

In the Grand Street Museum at Brooklyn, the elephant, which has on occasions exhibited a great dislike for the lion, burst his shackles and made an onset on the lion's cage. The latter beast seized the elephant's trunk and a fierce fight ensued, the elephant being finally put under control by the keepers, but not until he had smashed both tusks and suffered lacerations of the head, one of the lion's legs is broken, and Keeper Gossman is confined to his bed from bruises which he received during the conflict.

The Loyalist Unions in Ireland have already arranged to put twenty Parliamentary candidates in the field to oppose the Parnellites.

A gang of burglars entered the residence of Sir Frederick Fitzhugh Graham, at Netley, England, and had packed up nearly all the valuables when a servant frightened them away by a fight pole plunge between the robbers and the police, in which several the latter were fatally wounded.

An attempt was made at Paris to assassinate the Spanish Minister, Prince Arenas, by a Frenchman who had recently been discharged from the Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs. The shot proved harmless, and before the culprit could fire again he was arrested by a police officer. When the would-be assassin was examined at the police station he confessed he did not know M. de Freycinet personally, and confessed he gave his name or occupation.

The President has appointed Frederick H. Wines, of Chicago, to be Minister Resident and Consul General to Persia.

Carl Schurz is said to have made overtures for the purchase of the Boston Post, but refuses, with a view to making it an independent paper.

The assignment of Jacob Kuhn, manufacturer and wholesale dealer in jewelry, of Louisville, is announced, with liabilities of about $60,000.

A frightful accident is reported from East Saginaw, Mich., the particulars of which are contained in the following dispatch from that city: "Five tracks and outbuilding, belonging to the dock about two miles north of Saginaw, gave way, and a large number of persons rushed upon the bridge to witness the fire. The frame gave way, and the bridge broke, carrying a number bodies of people with it. It was a scene of horror and confusion. The exact number of the bridge-gang is not known, but it is estimated that twenty-five or thirty were on the bridge, and a large number of persons crowded upon the bridge to witness the fire. The frame was open to let the fire-tugs through, and persons in have a portion of the bridge-gang. Many were carried down stream with the wreck, principally forty to sixty people into the water, and many were drowned. The number is not known, but it is estimated at from twenty to twenty-five. The bridge

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Bontecou's Nose.

The last Petoskey Record pitches into Hon. C. S. Hampton, and attempts to show that he alone was wholly responsible for the change in postmaster at Charlevoix, and for the appointment of Mr. Strang instead of Mr Eaton. The only thing proven by the article is that neither Mr Bontecou nor those who "posted" him know anything about the matter. That Mr. Hampton hastened the settlement of the question is a fact, but that is all he did do. Mr. Strang was appointed on the petition of Charlevoix democrats, and without any opposed opposition. We believe the appointment is entirely satisfactory to the democracy of Charlevoix. The only "kicking" we have heard of is by those republicans who hope to blind the facts and create a factional fight and a division of the local democracy. Mr. Eaton's services for democracy in the past are well known, and from present indications his rewards are likely to be just as substantial as those of any other man in the county. Mr. Hampton is a greenbacker, a fusionist, and a shrewd, successful manager. He is feared by the republicans more than any other man in the district. As to his meddling propensities as charged in the bluster to the Record article, Bontecou better make no comparisons. Bontecou's nose is frequently found poking into other people's business. He is all the time meddling. He meddles with Petoskey democracy as well as Charlevoix democracy. He is to-day, we are told, in collusion with certain dissatisfied democrats trying to influence appointments. If democrats must accept the assistance of Mr. Strang instead of Mr. Eaton. The only thing proven by the article is that neither Mr Bontecou nor those who "posted" him know anything about the matter. That Mr. Hampton hastened the settlement of the question is a fact, but that is all he did do. Mr. Strang was appointed on the petition of Charlevoix democrats, and without any opposed opposition. We believe the appointment is entirely satisfactory to the democracy of Charlevoix. The only "kicking" we have heard of is by those republicans who hope to blind the facts and create a factional fight and a division of the local democracy. Mr. Eaton's services for democracy in the past are well known, and from present indications his rewards are likely to be just as substantial as those of any other man in the county. Mr. Hampton is a greenbacker, a fusionist, and a shrewd, successful manager. He is feared by the republicans more than any other man in the district. As to his meddling propensities as charged in the bluster to the Record article, Bontecou better make no comparisons. Bontecou's nose is frequently found poking into other people's business. He is all the time meddling. He meddles with Petoskey democracy as well as Charlevoix democracy. He is to-day, we are told, in collusion with certain dissatisfied democrats trying to influence appointments. If democrats must accept the assistance of Mr. Strang outside their own party, it is certainly better to listen to the advice of those working for the cause and and purpose as themselves, than to submit to those pretended friends who are at heart their enemies, and are leaving nothing undone to destroy them as a party. Bro. Bontecou, just keep your own nose at home, and remember, when Charlevoix democrats make up their mind to accomplish something, they don't ask advice of their enemies, but quietly go to work and do it themselves.

The Death of Gen. Geo. B. McClellan.

Major Gen. Geo. B. McClellan died at 2 o'clock Thursday morning at Orange, N. J., of neuralgia of the heart. He had for the past two weeks suffered occasionally from pains at the heart. Wednesday he felt in good spirits and with his wife and daughter visited friends in the neighborhood. Before returning to his home he made an appointment with a gentleman to meet him this morning at 11 o'clock. On his return home he ate heartily and spent the evening in conversation with his wife and daughter, retiring at 10 o'clock. At 11 o'clock the pains returned so severe that a messenger was dispatched on horseback to the general's physician. The doctor came at once, and for four hours endeavored to give him relief. His efforts were unsuccessful. At 2:10 A. M. the sufferer sighed, smiled and said, "Thank God, I have pulled through. I am now feeling relieved." A moment later he raised himself up on one hand, opened his eyes, looked about the room, and fell back dead. He was 59 years of age.

A great and chivalrous spirit has passed from earth. One of the most brilliant soldiers of modern times has him down to rest. Simple and single hearted in his private life, frank, brave and knightly as a Chevalier Bayard in his military character George B. McClellan was a model citizen and a commander worthy to be loved as no other commander of the union armies was.

Whatever may have been his faults, Gen. McClellan's partial failure as a commander was not due to his own lack of ability to cope with a foe like Lee. He was not cordially sustained by the administration. Political enemies at Washington were constantly seeking to poison the mind of President Lincoln against him by depreciating his qualities as a military chieftain. They even went farther than that. They pretended to question his loyalty to the union cause! As strong a partisan as James G. Blaine tardily concedes in the first volume of the superb historical work on which he is still engaged, that McClellan was the victim not only of the government's half-hearted confidence in him but also of the machinations of political enemies at the national capitol. We are profoundly convinced—and it is the deliberate opinion of the best military authorities—that if McDowell had been allowed to re-inforce McClellan, Richmond would have fallen within a week after the junction. That was the greatest blunder of Lincoln's administration. McDowell himself protested against the order directing him to return to the Shenandoah Valley to intercept Stonewall Jackson. He clearly pointed out that he could not get back in time to inflict any damage on Jackson. The latter's descent in the valley was simply a ruse of Gen. Lee to alarm the government and frighten it into recalling McDowell's force to the defense of Washington. The truth is, the Zach. Chandlers and the Ben. Wades, the fierce political warriors who were denouncing McClellan as a traitor, etc., were nearly scared out of their wits when they imagined that their precious carcasses were in danger, and they got around the president and by their frantic appeals influenced him to order McDowell to retrace his steps. This the redoubtable political warriors believed would serve a double purpose, viz., it would keep Jackson away from Washington, thus insuring their own personal safety, and it would weaken McClellan and force him to abandon the campaign against Richmond. They were afraid of "Little Mac's" prestige with the people, and they wanted to crush him.

At 36 years of age Gen. McClellan was called to the exalted and responsible position of commander-in-chief of the union armies. He organized the Army of the Potomac into one of the best fighting forces the world ever saw. He gained the love and confidence of his troops; he inspired hope and enthusiasm where before had been fear and distrust; he forged into the ablest general in the confederate service to the fortifications of Richmond; he fought a score of severe battles and never lost one; he whipped Lee at Antietam in a square fight, and he would eventually have crushed him if he had not again been relieved by an administration when weakly listened to the evil counsels of the politicians. He retired to private life, but not to flaunt his real or fancied wrongs in the face of the public at every opportunity. He quietly and unostentatiously entered upon an honorable civic career as ever graced the annals of American citizenship. He was nominated for president by the democratic party in 1864, but was defeated. He engaged in business pursuits, and in 1877 was elected governor of New Jersey, serving with distinguished credit in that honorable office until 1881. The last four years of his life were devoted to his family, his domestic relations being of the happiest character. He was a good husband and good man, and his fame will become the proud heritage of a grateful people.—Lansing Journal.

Plants Used by Man.

It is stated that the number of plants used by man at the present time does not exceed three thousand. Of these about 2,500 are cultivated in America. The varieties used for food do not exceed 600. Of edible fruits and seeds there are 100 classed as vegetables, 100 as roots and bulbs, 30 various cereal grain, about 20 of which produce sugar and syrup. In addition to this perhaps 30 kinds will yield oil, and 6 kinds wine. The number of medicinal-supply plants is nearly double that of the fruit-yielding, amounting to 1,100, about 500 of which are employed in the various branches of industry. Of the latter, 76 furnish dyestuff, 8 wax, 18 salts, and more than 40 supply food for cattle. There are no fewer than 250 kinds of poisonous plants cultivated, among which are only 68 of a narcotic sort, the remainder being classed as deadly poisons.

Ex-President Mark Hopkins, of Williams College, although over eighty-two years old, preserves his mental faculties unimpaired. He recognizes with ease the faces of men who were his pupils half a century ago.

Proper Treatment for Coughs

That the reader may fully understand what constitutes a good cough and lung syrup, we will say that for age Wild Cherry is the best, as it produces yet discovered. These ingredients with several others equally as efficacious, enter largely into Dr. Bonsher's Cough and Lung Syrup, thus adding it one of the most reliable now on the market. Price 50 cts. and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by A. W. Conover

STUDY OF LEGS.

Living on a Hill Advantageous to Calves—Langtry's Crooked Limbs.

The women and the men too, of course, who live on the hilly side of town, have calves shaped entirely unlike the calves of those who live on the flat. It results from a cause which every man who has paid much attention to physical training understands. Hill-climbing develops the muscles on the side and upper portion of the calves, which level walking never exercises, and which consequently never develop. Olympic club men, to develop side and upper muscles on the lower leg, do trembling-board exercise, springing from the balls of the feet. In that exercise the same muscles are prominently employed as in walking up hill, hence the hill women have legs developed in such form as to reduce, by comparison, the size of the ankles. The swell of the calf is more pronounced in the dwellers on the flat side of town, who are sometimes open to the criticism made by a local French shoe-dealer, who, speaking to the reporter of a wealthy patron, said: "Madam has a beautiful foot, but her leg begins too soon."

In the days when men, at least, were given full license in the room, by exhibiting their legs to show them and their taste to full advantage, the French had this proverb: "Cela fait bel le jambe," literally, "That makes him a handsome leg." This was said of a man's fortune. "He has 100,000 francs of his own and 200,000 which his mother left him." Answer—"Cela fait bel le jambe." In those days it is plain that the kind of beauty that money took the place of was the beauty of the leg; therefore, how highly prized the handsome leg. By an easy reversal might not a handsome leg take the place of a fortune in furthering a man's success in life? As it is now, a man with a love of a muscular, soft, brown, curling, but with an unspeakable leg, will make more headway in a ballroom full of marriageable girls than a man with a perfectly-shaped leg, legged up in straight-cut breadcloth. This is obviously wrong. One's barber controls one's moustache, but the shape of the leg depends upon the manner of life, the habits and practices of the owner of the leg. That beauty of face indicates simply nothing as to the beauty or ugliness of the leg was signally proven by the case of Mrs. Langtry. After during two continents with the beauty of her face, the famous lady once played Rosalind in proper costume, and has ever since played it, to the amazement of the critics, in a costume including a skirt, which came below her knees. The reason for this is that it would be an easy trick to hang your hat on either of the Lily's knees. An uglier leg than hers was never undrayed before an astonished audience. Possibly Lily never knew how ugly her legs is. This commonly occurs, and for a very simple reason. Every man or woman examining his or her legs does so from a front and upward point of view. This is very deceptive, as the side muscles of the calves thus seen give an impression of rounded contour which a side view may totally lack.

The beautiful Langtry might have taken a front view of her legs until the end of time without discovering the dreadful forward bend of her knees. It is a side view that makes the test. Then the side muscles are no longer deceptive, and the knee, if it is too prominent, stands out, literally, like the nose on a face. Therefore, women, stand in front of your pier mirror, or, if you have more, lean a workshand mirror against the wall, resting it on the floor, taking care to stand, yourself, so as to get a profile view of your legs. It may give you a surprise. A front view you are of course familiar with, and know whether or not your legs have an accentuated attraction for each other at the knees. Man has only a limited opportunity to study this peculiarity—why so many women are knock-kneed. Even his opinion that so many are bow-legged is sometimes largely confined to the stage, and it is possible that there may be an affinity between the stage and women with knock-knees. Of course, the professional girl and burlesquer are not included in this study, as they have all been trained how to stand in order to overcome any disposition on the part of their knees to come together. But when the legitimate actress for the first time dons "shape" clothes, a new pair of curving knees is disclosed. Those who remember Belle Pateman's performance as Hamlet will remember as straight a pair of legs as has ever carried a legislature across a California stage, yet there was a noticeable tendency to flock together displayed by the small, shapely legs. Whether this peculiarity obtains in the same proportion among women in private life as among actresses will only be known when women dress so as to display as much from the feet up as they do now from the head down. If it ever does, of dress, totally hiding their legs, which makes the woman so much more difficult to study than man. Who ever looks at Toby Rosenthal's Constantede Beverly it is her legs which indicate not only her feelings at the moment when she is portrayed but an index of her character.—San Francisco chronicle.

Hewather is Pennsylvania there is to be a limit to the erection of "tall towers" and tenement homes skyward, a bill having passed the assembly providing for a legal limit to eighty feet.

A new profession has made its appearance, namely that of "floral adorner." The ladies who have graduated in the art will, for a fee of $6, adorn the table for the dinner to be given, also the house for an evening reception.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

The New York Weekly World

IS THE

Best Democratic Weekly Newspaper Published in the East.

CLUBBED WITH

The Charlevoix Journal

FOR

$2.00 per Year, $1.10 for Six Months, Cash in Advance.

Sample Copies at this Office.

Dyeing Silk.

Dyeing silk is always a hand process, as the color of each skein is judged aggregate; machinery does not allow that to interfere. Large troughs fill the sloppy and steamy room, in which the great skeins of silk yarn are dipped from cross-sticks, by putty-colored Japanese beings, who move them ceaseously to and fro to make sure all parts have a fair chance. The muddy hues suggest little of the brilliancy of color that is to be the glory of the completed fabric, and we will not enter into any trade secrets of their composition. But there is good dyeing and bad dyeing, honest dyeing and false dyeing, and a silk-maker who has intent to deceive can make his yarn take 300 per cent of extra weight by the use of metallic substances in the dye-pot. This accounts for some of the cheapness as well as the bad wear of certain foreign fabrics which look as well at first sight as goods at a much higher price. Some of the foreign black silks are so slightly "loaded" with nitrate of iron as to give color to the belief in "spontaneous combustion" in silk which caused the North German Steamship Company in 1879 to refuse the weightier foreign silks. The carbon of the silk and the nitrate make a compound closely parallel to gun-cotton, which is simply cotton-wool dipped in nitric acid. American manufacturers challenge consumers to test the purity of their fabrics, which may be done by raveling the silk into threads. If heavily loaded they will break easily, feel rough to the touch because of the particles of dye-stuff, and the balances of this season, carrying fish for S. H. Davis & Co.

The New York Weekly World

IS THE

Best Democratic Weekly Newspaper Published in the East.

CLUBBED WITH

The Charlevoix Journal

FOR

$2.00 per Year, $1.10 for Six Months, Cash in Advance.

Sample Copies at this Office.

The Independent

The Largest, the Ablest, the Best

RELIGIOUS AND LITERARY WEEKLY.

The most influential religious organ in the States—The Spectator, London, Eng.

THE INDEPENDENT is one of the best papers in the world. Its great points are many and striking. Its ability, have to be stated to be appreciated, and for proof of any claims appeal to the world. Its ability to do its mission for the world, and its fitness for the large sphere it occupies, are marked.—Christian Ledger.

ABILITY, VARIETY AND INTEREST.—The great thinkers, the great story writers, the great poets, the great preachers, and the great journalists of Christendom knowledge, make up a list of contributors, known, admired, and loved wherever intellect, knowledge, wisdom, and all conceivable hopes are embassied in the vocabulary, and everybody, old or young, learned and unlearned, without regard to sex, employs a language which all can understand.—Christian Ledger.

COMPREHENSIVENESS.—It is a religious, a literary, a political, a scientific, a commercial, and a practical journal.—Ibid.

PURITY, CANDOR, EARNESTNESS.—The Independent is the best representative of the religious, and especially of the evangelical church. It is free, thoroughly free, from sectarian bigotry, and yet is, in the main, orthodox. It is not perverted by fear or favor. It is a vigorous, outspoken, fearless, Christian journal. It practices Christian charity, and certainly supports all moral reforms. It is a family paper, and a place as well as the proper place, free from everything of doubtful or questionable character. No matter what a person's religion, politics, or profession may be, if he desires to see the best specimen of what he thinks is wrong, let him obtain the Independent, and then he will know what he is arguing against, and which the world at large is doing.—Independent The Independent.

TERMS TO SUBSCRIBERS:

Three months	$1.00	Six months	$2.00
Four months	1.00	Five years	10.00
Six months	1.00	Five years	10.00

Can any one make a better investment of $2.00 or $5.00 than one which will pay

52 Dividends During the Year?

Every intelligent family needs a good newspaper. It is a necessity to parents and children.

A great way to make the acquaintance of The Independent is to send 25 cents for a "Trial Trip" of a month.

SPECIMEN COPIES FREE.

No papers are sent to subscribers after the time paid for has expired.

The Independent's Clubbing List will be sent free to any person asking for it. Any one wishing to subscribe for one or more papers or magazines, in connection with The Independent, can save money by ordering from our Club List, address

THE INDEPENDENT,

P. O. Box 2797, New York.

The Clinical Record says that after the Chief Engineer of the Water Department of Philadelphia printed out the poor quality of the water and the glaring defects in its supply, he was requested by the authorities "to refrain from any further expression of his opinions on the subject, as neither he nor great the general public interest in it."

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Nov. 5, 1885.

Provision Market.

[illegible] prices to consumers, corrected every Wednesday evening by Uhlmann & Emmet, Grocers.

Eggs, 20 cts. [illegible] 25 cts. Butter, [illegible] cts., packed $2.00, unpacked [illegible]

Hay, [illegible]

Oats, [illegible]

Potatoes, [illegible]

Flour, [illegible] per cwt., $4 [illegible]

Beans, [illegible]

Apples, [illegible]

Onions, [illegible]

Turnips, [illegible]

Beef, [illegible]

Pork, [illegible]

Mutton, [illegible]

Chickens, [illegible]

Turkeys, [illegible]

Ducks, [illegible]

Geese, [illegible]

Venison, [illegible]

Fresh and Cured Meats.

Smoked sausage, finest imported, [illegible]

Pickled pigs feet, [illegible]

Pickled tongues, [illegible]

Lard, [illegible]

Sausage meat, [illegible]

Dressed hogs, [illegible]

WANTED SOME CASH.

During the next two weeks we have got to raise about one hundred dollars in cash and would like all who owe us a bill on their subscription to pay.

We know it is time to buy a hat. Uptight & Emmey have five thousand more or less, which they are closing out at 50 per cent discount.

Best unbleached cottons, prints, shoe laces, handles, jerseys, hosiery, gloves etc., at Uptight & Emmey.

Parties having potatoes to sell will find it to their advantage to call at Uptight and Emmey's.

The highest market price given for potatoes, at Uptight and Emmey's.

Wanted 1,000 bushels of potatoes at Uptight and Emmey's.

Cedar and pine shingles for sale by Uptight & Emmey.

Fresh Oysters at Jefferies' market.

Best fried butter at Jefferies' market.

Boneless Ham, at Jefferies' Market.

Local Notes and News.

Geo. Brown returned home from Detroit last week.

R. B. Kane and wife have gone to Lansing to visit friends.

O. D. Hilton will get settled in his new house in the week.

Jesse Fox is building a barn on his lot adjoining Dr. Carleton's.

A Bath-house has been invented a gentleman that hoists the world.

Mrs. Dr. Crouter returned Saturday from her visit with friends in Canada.

H. H. Harris will settle his family in Fox house recently occupied by Lewis Miller.

Manuel for new school district No. 1 Hayes, was got out at the factory last week.

Geo. F. VanAnken will preach at the Rose school house, next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Union temperance meeting at the Congregational church Sunday evening, addressed by Rev. C. F. VanAnken.

Miss Anna Finding, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Manning returned to her home in Boyne Falls Tuesday.

On her last trip to Chicago the City of Traverse, took over 10,000 bushels of potatoes, besides lumber and other freights.

Elmer Mayne is limping around on crutches, having severely sprained an ankle while at work on Al Washburn's house last week.

The gas house raised 150 bushels of Beauty of Hebron potatoes from less than one acre of ground, one of which weighs six at five pounds.

Bluestone Sam: The propeller Brown will run between Thompson and Charlevoix, the balance of this season, carrying fish for S. H. Davis & Co.

President Cleveland has appointed Thursday, Nov. 26th, as Thanksgiving day.

Harry Briggs, foreman of the Elk Rapids Progress, and Miss Nellie McCauley, of St. James, Beaver Island, were married by Fr. Gallagher on Oct. 26th.

The captain of the schooner Wollin shipped and fell on Tuesday afternoon, breaking one of his legs. He was taken to the Bridge street house to be cared for.

The manager of the rink is making improvements this week by building a chimney, putting up a stove, and boarding up the basement outside so as to make it comfortable for winter.

Fred See is preparing to move his family to Acme, Grand Traverse county, where he will settle on a farm. Fred has been one of the reliable men in the factory, whose place cannot be filled every day in the week.

Fire caught in the attic of John Ackert's house Wednesday afternoon, but was extinguished before the department arrived. Probably a defective chimney, as it caught once last winter in about the same place.

If anyone hereafter misunderstands what an open saloon means in this state it will not be the fault of the supreme court. The very clear opinion written by chief justice Morse and concurred in by the other members leaves no room for evasion or subterfuge. The saloon must have all its doors closed and locked and no one must be inside at such time, as the law calls for closing, or there is an infraction of the statute.

Mrs. Margaret O'Neill was stricken down with paralysis on Monday morning, and died Wednesday afternoon. She was 63 years old, and leaves a husband and eight children to mourn her death. The family moved to this place seven years ago from Dor county, Wis., and have made many warm friends who will extend sympathy in their great bereavement. Funeral services at the house on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Fr. Pinss, of Petoskey.

What our boys need is less spice and more earnest beef. Good solid reading which makes them feel that they are in their glory when they are furnishing the brass on the shop door because it is the first step in the upward climb, is what they ought to have. A single book which makes drudgery delightful because it is a good beginning is better than a thousand which inflame the fancy and render real life tasteless. The dime novel is the right bower of the devil when he is playing for a boy's heart and heart.—New York Herald.

Ayer's American Newspaper Annual for 1885 is received. It gives a list of all newspapers and periodicals in the United States and Canada, including general characteristics, year of establishment, size, circulation, and advertising rates. From it you can learn the character of the surface, the nature of the soil, and its adaptability to the growth of the various agricultural staples, of every state, territory, and county in the United States, and each of the Canadian provinces. It enumerates the leading manufactures of each state and county, and also gives the number of manufacturing establishments, the amount of capital invested, the number of hands employed, and the value of annual products in each state, territory and county. Price $3. N. W. Ayer & Son Philadelphia.

Editorial correspondence Harbor Springs Independent: "At Beaver Fall just as day was breaking I saw the first natural gas I had ever seen burning. The gas is brought from the gas wells some miles away in large pipes and is burned in the furnaces of the manufactories instead of coal. The pressure on the pipes is so great that the flow of gas can not be shut off when it is not needed in the furnaces, and consequently it is burned at the waste pipe, sending up a ruddy flame to a great hight, and brilliantly lighting up the vicinity. Lying in my berth and watching it through the window a brilliant idea struck me. Now there is my good friend Brother Bontecou. He is an inexhaustible natural gas well. His gas cannot be shut off at the end of the campaign but he continues gassing just the same. Why not tap him and light Petoskey with natural gas instead of electricity? Any one is welcome to apply this invention. I don't care to. I limped Bontecou for a quarter one time and he didn't have it."

Shipments.

Below we give a summary of the shipments as reported from the custom house, Charlevoix, for the week ending Wednesday evening:

Hardwood lumber, feet	535,000
Wood, cords	38
Bark, cords	50
Ties, pieces	500
Potatoes, bu	15,500
Barley, bu	300

We also give a summary for the month of October, 1885, and for the corresponding month, 1884:

	1885	1884
Hardwood lumber, feet	1,195,000	2,200,000
Shingles	300,000	.....
Hooping	29,228	.....
Railroad ties	4,400	.....
Cedar posts	10,500	3,500
Wood, cords	1,595	1,195
Bark, cords	304	150
Poles, cords	.....	125
Ties, pieces	800	1,000
Alsikes, clovers, and old iron	76	.....
Potatoes, bu	24,456	.....
Turnips, bu	500	.....

M. E. Church.

"Is eternal punishment of the finally impenitent biblic doctrine?" This subject, assigned by the district meeting, will be considered by the pastor of the M. E. church next Sunday 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. Iddings will preach at Ironton next Sunday afternoon, at the usual hour.

Rev. Mr. Putnam will preach at Black's school house next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Young people's service at M. E. church next Sunday at 6 o'clock led by Jos Goss. All invited.

Song service at M. E. church next Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Charlevoix Postoffice.

Before another week the postoffice will probably be transferred to the new postmaster, and the office removed to Eaton's building, one door south of the present JOURNAL office.

There will be no material change in the arrangement and disposition of postoffice boxes during this quarter.

To Our Readers.

We cannot too strongly urge upon our readers the necessity of subscribing for a family, weekly newspaper of the first class—such, for instance, as The Independent, of New York. Were we called to select one publication for habitual and careful reading to the exclusion of all others, we would unhesitatingly The Independent. It is a newspaper, a magazine, and a review, all in one. It is a religious, a literary, an educational, a story, an art, a scientific, an agricultural, a commercial, and a political paper combined. It has 32 folio pages and 22 departments. No matter what a person's religion, politics or profession may be, no matter what the age, sex, employment, or condition, there is something in The Independent will prove a help, an instructor, an educator. Our regular price is one dollar, but we send a postal for a free specimen copy, or for thirty cents the publisher will send a month, enabling one to judge of its merits more critically. Its yearly subscription is $3.00 for two years for $5.00.

Address, The Independent, 251 Broadway, New York City.

Nor is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 50 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton. 87-93

When in want of any kind of stationery, call and inspect the new stock just opened at this office.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, such as costiveness, flatulency, disordered stomach, etc. In some cases there are very disagreeable itching and pulling sensations, in a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, assuaging the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Sweetser.

CASH CLUB RATES.

Those of our readers who want a city paper for the coming year can be accommodated by the JOURNAL'S club list. To get the benefit of these reduced rates, all arrears must be paid up to date of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

	With the Journal.
1 00 Detroit Weekly Free Press	2 60
1 00 New York Weekly World	2 60
2 00 Pomeroy's Democrat	2 65
1 75 Detroit Echo, weekly	1 75
1 90 Chicago Weekly Herald	2 65
1 50 The Cottage Hearth (monthly)	2 25

Sample Copies furnished on application.

WOOD WANTED.

Two cords in part of good block wood wanted at this office immediately.

J. L. HURD & CO.

DRY GOODS.

We offer a large invoice of woolen goods, dress goods, underwear, hosiery, flannels, etc. Suitable for winter wear.

These goods were bought at bottom figures during the summer, and before the late advance in values, which at present is from 15 to 20 per cent.

We shall give our trade the entire benefit of our fortunate purchases. Now is the time to buy in Winter Supplies cheaper than goods have ever before been offered. Do not expend a dollar before at least looking over our Stock and Prices.

CLOAKS. CLOAKS.

We are showing an elegant new line of Cloaks at fully one third lower prices than last season.

TEAS.

MAYFLOWER TEA,—OUR OWN IMPORTATION. Another Invoice of Spring pickings just received. The only strictly pure unsolored Japan Tea in the market.

A few weeks ago we placed on sale 25 chests of new 50 cent Japan Tea at THIRTY-FIVE cents, just for fun. Only a few packages of this Tea are left, and we shall hereafter limit the quantity to 5 pounds. Not more than 5 pounds sold to any one buyer.

We desire to return thanks to our many friends, for their liberal patronage of the past year. OUR SALES for the past month were ONE THIRD GREATER than for the corresponding time last year. With a gratifying increase of business we are satisfied with a very small profit margin.

J. L. HURD & CO.

SCHOOL BOOK DEPOT.

School Bags, School Books, Slates, Pencils, Pens, Ink, Rulers, Blank Books, Teachers' Registers,

AND IN FACT

Every Article Used in the School Room.

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern portion of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial

---

The Chicago Daily News

Has the Largest Daily Circulation in America.

Its issue for the year 1884 averaged 125,178 copies daily, and it is now regularly printing over 130,000 papers a day.

This magnitude of this unequaled circulation is best appreciated when it is said that it exceeds the circulations of all other Chicago dailies combined. Taking from the three standard newspaper directories—Ayer & Son's Annual, Rowell's Directory and Hubbard's Directory—the quotations which most nearly represent the actual circulations of the Chicago press, the following diagram correctly illustrates their relative positions as to extent of circulation.

From these figures it appears that the circulation of THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS exceeds the combined circulations of all the other Chicago dailies by 19,873 copies daily. The reasons for this phenomenal success are obvious:

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

is a complete newspaper in all that constitutes the best type of American journalism.

It is a member of the Associated Press, and is the only 2 cent paper in the West that possesses this first essential to a complete news service. In addition, it has its own private wire day and night from the Western Union Telegraph Co. connecting its Chicago office with New York and Washington, at both of which points it has its own news bureaus. THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS puts ALL the news.

It is an independent paper. It recognizes the utility of political parties as means for the accomplishment of proper ends, but it declines to regard any mere party as a fit subject for unquestioning adoration. It solicits the patronage of intelligent, thoughtful, honest people, who love country more than party.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

is a "short and to the point" paper. It believes that newspaper reading is but an incident of the day, not its chief business. It accordingly leaves to the "blankets-sheets" the monopoly of tiresome and worthless amplification. It asks to say all that the reader should care to read, and to say it in the shortest possible manner. It is a daily paper for busy people.

It is a cheap paper—2 cents per day, 12 cents per week, 50 cents per month, $6.00 per year. Sold by all news dealers throughout the Northwest. Mailed to any address, post paid, upon receipt of price.

Where the circulation of a daily mail are not enjoyed THE CHICAGO WEEKLY NEWS is recommended as "the next best." It is a large 8 page, 64 column paper, carefully made up to meet all the varying needs of the family circle. It is the largest "dollar weekly" in America. It is equal to the best.

ANOTHER INVOICE

JUST RECEIVED.

SILVERWARE

CLOCKS,

JEWELRY.

C. R. BELLINGER.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

Upright & Herbert Addition, Charlevoix,

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

FINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

Do you want an eastern paper? The New York Weekly World is one of the best democratic newspapers in the United States. Furnished with the JOURNAL for only $2.00 per year.

The price of Pomeroy's DEMOCRAT is $2.00 a year. By an arrangement with the publisher we can furnish it with the JOURNAL for $2.65 per year, cash in advance.

Farm for Sale or Exchange.

One hundred acres of the best farming land, acres improved, over a couple trees bearing, good buildings, within from three to [illegible] Will be sold cheap, for cash, or other property. For further particulars, call at this office. 8363

HER LOVERS.

BY RACHELLE EFN.

My lovers are very fond, my sister says Will,
A handsome fellow, with curling brown hair,
And twenty years. I have to look a big man,
Ale wear consideration and settled there,
A b ut I know a lot, for her—her—her!
Her footfall is here he used to be!

The second, dapper little, he said he had
The first night that we met.
He carried off my glove
We sat out half the dances in the hall,
And flirted in the most outrageous way.
Ah, me! how mother scolded all next day.

The third woke up my heart. Four night th morn,
I from morn till night I dreamed of him,
I trembled up a rosebud he had worn:
My lover and I knew each his private sign.
Whenever that I caught feet the odd, old flame,
Above I remembered I had—that was his name.

The fourth and fifth were brothers—twins so they!
Good fellows, kind, devoted, clever, too.
Ah, which to choose, which to refuse there was
Both in one heart, that what else could I do?
My heart was child, and I was a child, I said
Laughs sailing with the Minos Gardens.

He never cared for me—I found that out—
Despite the foolish clingings of my heart.
I knew it when I proved I was beloved a day.
Knew that my heart I could not give or mope,
But insisted myself in spite of all I know;
To grave his wishing when the cards were seen.

He knew were all my loves. My husband? Oh,
I met him down in Florida one fall—
Ah, Florida! Ah, Florida! Ah, I know;
He asked me, I accepted; that was all.
A kind, good soul, he worships me; but then
I know—I can from is with other men.

THERE'S DANGER IN DELAY.

BY STELLA CARR.

The sun had never shone upon so fair a dame. The skies were never so blue, the flowers so sweet, the breezes so soft, the hours so rosy. So thought Lorraine Lorrimer.

She lifted her eyes to her companion's face at that moment, and met his looking down at her. The eyes into which she looked were merry—full of laughing and blue, but their expression was intensified just now. Dark and soft, there was an electrical fascination in their gaze that caused the warm blood to tingle in her cheeks and flush over her forehead. Her eyes drooped swiftly. He smiled, and passed his hand caressingly over the small brown head that lay on his arm.

"They were not lovers, those two; they were only friends," as Lorraine would have said. Then

They were pacing with slow, lingering footsteps a long country road, which was shaded by arching trees that met and embraced far above their heads.

The air was charged with the odor of honeysuckle, and vibrant with the song of a lark which had escaped the confines of mortal vision, and was beating its little heart out somewhere beyond the curtained fringes of foliage, in the depths of ethereal blue through which the setting sun was pouring a glory of gold and red; but these facts, though instinctively recognized as fragments of the general harmony, made no very distinct impression upon the consciousness of either of them.

That dusty highway, with its tall enclosing hedges and its whispering leafy avenue, might have contained the whole sum of life, so little their desired or thought of anything beyond it.

But life holds more than a succession of peaceful footsteps, even on a fair June day. A few steps more brought them to a stile, and it had to be crossed.

"You are tired," said the young man. "Sit on this stile and rest awhile. I will not let you fall."

He leaned on the stile beside her, and held her hands, until his eye was attracted by some flowers that grew luxuriantly in the hedge on the opposite side of the road.

"I must get you some of that woodbine," he said; "I like the pale-colored bloom better than that tinged with red; it is a season. I'do move until I return."

She sat still and watched him. He came back soon, with a fragrant, creamy-hued cluster in his hands.

"Do you like them?" he said, smiling up at her, and caressing her cheek with the dainty blossoms.

Between them they fastened them into the folds of her helm. Lorraine tried first, but her hands trembled, and the flowers fell, and were scattered into her lap.

He smiled as he gathered them up, and held them while she secured them.

"Everything is better done when we do it together, Lorraine," he said, as he again folded her hands in his.

"Shall we come home?" he asked softly.

"I am ready," she said.

"Yes, Lorraine, we must go," he answered, yet still he lingered, while the sweet, nameless odors of the summer twilight hovered about them, the red flush of the sunset fell over them like a benediction, and the warm air palpitated with the last thrilling notes of the weary warbler as he sank toward his nest.

"Lorraine, you look happy."

"I feel happy. Everything is so beautiful to-night," replied the girl, dreamily.

"Yes, everything—the trees, the birds, the sky, the sun, the flowers, and—you, Lorraine, I don't want to go home."

He drew closer, and again his eyes sought hers, with the subtle, indefinable magnetism in their depths which caused the color to stir so uneasily in her cheek.

"Rex, we must go home," she said, nervously.

"Come, then; let me lift you down."

"No, Rex; please don't," she said, startled.

"Why not?" he whispered. And lifting her in his arms he held her close and kissed her.

* * * * *

Eight weeks later, Lorraine stood in her bed-room, reading a letter from Rex. She was paler and thinner than she had been in June, and there was a heavy, wistful look in her large eyes which then had been strange to them.

She read the letter through twice, and then she put it down. It was a rambling letter for Lorraine and Rex to correspond, but this was the first letter he had written since they had met in June. It was a long letter. A large part of it was filled with a half-serious, half-jesting apology for the long silence. "You will see," wrote Rex, "that my holiday has been exactly all my time."

My holiday has been exacting all my time!" Lorraine's lip curled with something like contempt, or herself and of Rex, too. "How great must Rex's regard for me be!" she said; and then the memory of the June evening which was second to none very far swept over her, and the tears fell over her lashes like rain.

At Christmas she saw Rex again. He came and went in the same day.

"Lorraine," he whispered as he hold her good-by—"Lorraine, do not forget me!" and he was gone; while she stood trembling, with his kiss warm upon her lips.

For awhile Lorraine was happy. No word had Rex spoken, but the language of eye, and hand, and voice was unmistakable. Every gesture, every glance, every intonation said to Lorraine's heart, "You belong to me, and I belong to you." And Lorraine's heart responded. That was enough.

But week after week went by, Easter came and passed; Lorraine had many letters, but the one so constantly looked for never came.

Lorraine sought distraction in study. Far oftener than not, her light burned late into the night. Foolish, was it? Yes, very foolish. Years of eager spirits are so apt to be foolish until life's stern discipline has taught them how best to be wise.

By June, Lorraine was very ill. During the first days of her illness came the letter which had tarried so long. "I hear that you have been ill," it said; "I am sorry for that. You have been working too hard. If life is short, there is no need to deprive one's friends of one's presence any earlier than is absolutely necessary."

He was sorry that he had kept her letter waiting an answer so long; he was always sorry for that. He spoke pleasantly of an anticipated holiday in Dakota. Between friends who talked in ordinary degree, the letter would have passed muster; from Rex to Lorraine, at the hour of Lorraine's extremity, it was heartless.

Lorraine crushed it under her pillow, and turned her face to the wall. She knew the truth at last.

It was not so much the loss of Rex that she grieved over. She could have borne that. She would have thought scorn of a love that placed its own happiness before that of its object. It was the loss of her faith that she mourned—the loss of her faith in Rex; and through him of her faith in all things human. She almost lost her faith in God. Ay, she did lose it for awhile. She groped in the darkness that shrouded her for a hand to hold by, and she found none. It was a bitter time for Lorraine.

And, meanwhile, what of Rex? He meant no harm. He had the best of intentions. He was not wicked; only weak.

The idol and darling of half the women he knew, perhaps he was at fault. He carelessness of the mischief wrought by his beautiful face, his bewildering smile, and rare charm of manner.

Easy, luxurious, self-approving, he suited him to be worshiped by women. He liked change; it was a necessity of his nature. Change of scene, change of friends—these things cased life of its monotony. It pleased him to see fair faces flush and fair eyes droop at his eloquent glances and exquisitely modulated words—such study of human nature interested him.

He possessed the faculty of attaching himself to people easily; let the large, long-suffering, hopeless-hearted love of a heart such as Lorraine's was beyond his comprehension. When he was with Lorraine he was honestly "in love" with her—for the time. When he left her, his passion cooled. In his normal condition of mind, such an idea as that of allowing himself to be entirely appropriated by one woman seemed preposterous.

Ten years later, Rex and Lorraine met again. It was again June; Rex was waiting for Lorraine in her own summer parlor. It was a pretty room—made beautiful by all the graces which a woman of refined nature and delicate tastes gathers about her instinctively.

The years had brought Lorraine their success. The seed sown in sorrow and tears so long ago had brought forth an abundant harvest—as the world counts abundance. Lorraine had waked one morning to find herself famous; the finger of material want could never touch her while she had power to use her pen.

To Rex, as he paced restlessly backand forward in the room, it seemed a long time that he waited.

At last he heard a light, slow step, and the rustle of a woman's dress. The quiver that ran through his strong frame told him that Lorraine was coming. The man's very hands trembled.

Half-way across the room she stopped. He rose; and they stood and looked at each other.

She held out her hand. Rex bent low over it, and touched it reverently with his lips.

For a little they talked of old times, and of old friends whom they both had known. Then Rex said:

"Lorraine, I have come with the hope that it is not yet too late for us to live the old days over again." She read his meaning in his eyes. Lorraine, was it not to be happy together? let me be happy again. You think I have been long in coming; but tell me it is not too late. Let me claim what is mine—mine by the right of love."

He stopped in eager suspense. She looked so pale, so cold, as she sat there. But she did not speak.

"Lorraine," he continued, gathering courage from her silence, "you love your work, but it does not satisfy you. You are contented, but you are not happy. Your face tells me that. Do not refuse my love; let my wife—my life shall be spent in the care of yours. For the sake of our old friendship give me what I ask, Lorraine."

The words were warmly, passionately spoken, but they made no impression upon Lorraine's marble calm.

"I am sorry you spoke of this, Rex," she said. "I have chosen my path in life, and chosen it deliberately; it is too late to change it now."

"Do you fear that I should not give you sympathy in your work? Lorraine, my greatest, my most constant sympathy shall be always with you in this thing, as in all others. Ah, Lorraine! you used not to be so hard to move in the old days."

"I am sorry you should have been like to me then," she said; "now I have learned to live without it."

Rex's forehead flushed. "Perhaps I have deserved this; I have deserved it; but you cannot think that I should have come to you all the same now had I found you in different circumstances? Lorraine! I wish I had. You would not have misjudged me then."

"No," she said slowly, "I do not believe that. I never have thought that you intended to do an injustice, except perhaps at first. I was young, and you attracted me; and my eager spirits are so apt to be foolish until life's stern discipline has taught them how best to be wise.

By June, Lorraine was very ill. During the first days of her illness came the letter which had tarried so long. "I hear that you have been ill," it said; "I am sorry for that. You have been working too hard. If life is short, there is no need to deprive one's friends of one's presence any earlier than is absolutely necessary."

He was sorry that he had kept her letter waiting an answer so long; he was always sorry for that. He spoke pleasantly of an anticipated holiday in Dakota. Between friends who talked in ordinary degree, the letter would have passed muster; from Rex to Lorraine, at the hour of Lorraine's extremity, it was heartless.

Lorraine crushed it under her pillow, and turned her face to the wall. She knew the truth at last.

It was not so much the loss of Rex that she grieved over. She could have borne that. She would have thought scorn of a love that placed its own happiness before that of its object. It was the loss of her faith in Rex; and through him of her faith in all things human. She almost lost her faith in God. Ay, she did lose it for awhile. She groped in the darkness that shrouded her for a hand to hold by, and she found none. It was a bitter time for Lorraine.

And, meanwhile, what of Rex? He meant no harm. He had the best of intentions. He was not wicked; only weak.

The idol and darling of half the women he knew, perhaps he was at fault. He carelessness of the mischief wrought by his beautiful face, his bewildering smile, and rare charm of manner.

Easy, luxurious, self-approving, he suited him to be worshiped by women. He liked change; it was a necessity of his nature. Change of scene, change of friends—these things cased life of its monotony. It pleased him to see fair faces flush and fair eyes droop at his eloquent glances and exquisitely modulated words—such study of human nature interested him.

He possessed the faculty of attaching himself to people easily; let the large, long-suffering, hopeless-hearted love of a heart such as Lorraine's was beyond his comprehension. When he was with Lorraine he was honestly "in love" with her—for the time. When he left her, his passion cooled. In his normal condition of mind, such an idea as that of allowing himself to be entirely appropriated by one woman seemed preposterous.

Ten years later, Rex and Lorraine met again. It was again June; Rex was waiting for Lorraine in her own summer parlor. It was a pretty room—made beautiful by all the graces which a woman of refined nature and delicate tastes gathers about her instinctively.

The years had brought Lorraine their success. The seed sown in sorrow and tears so long ago had brought forth an abundant harvest—as the world counts abundance. Lorraine had waked one morning to find herself famous; the finger of material want could never touch her while she had power to use her pen.

To Rex, as he paced restlessly backand forward in the room, it seemed a long time that he waited.

At last he heard a light, slow step, and the rustle of a woman's dress. The quiver that ran through his strong frame told him that Lorraine was coming. The man's very hands trembled.

Half-way across the room she stopped. He rose; and they stood and looked at each other.

She held out her hand. Rex bent low over it, and touched it reverently with his lips.

For a little they talked of old times, and of old friends whom they both had known. Then Rex said:

"Lorraine, I have come with the hope that it is not yet too late for us to

HUMOR.

EVERY year is sleep-year with a politician.—Texas Siftings.

A WOMAN'S GRAVE—the gambler who stocks the cards.—Texas Siftings.

"FORTUNE smiles" upon those who have winning ways.—Stockton Maverick.

THE rule of modern society is to be notorious and not known.—Barber's Gazette.

"Why he married her he explained: "Wot at last?" When he got a divorce he explained: "One at last!"—White-hall Times.

"TAX as you go," says a philosopher. "But what would be the use of going at all, then?" remarks a Canadian journalist.—St. Paul Herald.

THE prodigal son spoken of in the Bible, who filled his belly with husks, was, no doubt, troubled with a husky voice the remainder of his life.—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

IT is claimed that an able-bodied white man can go all day without getting tired. An able-bodied lawyer can do the same thing, but it makes the jury very tired.—Chicago Ledger.

JOBBING remarks of his neighbor's vintage, that Tom Bacon seemeth to hears sightly from the neighborhood of Cedar Hill, is be cultivating the cat-and-dog crop.—London Grafter.

"YOUNG PULLER" wants to know if we can recommend an opening for a dentist. Why not try the tomatoes of the Mississippi? It is said to be full of old stags.—Burlington Hawkeye.

AMERICANS pretend to sneer at titles, and yet tuft-hunting is so peculiarly adapted to their nation of sovereigns that a deputy constable's deputy can hardly escape the profit. Hon.—Indianapolis Herald.

"YOU have no heart," sighed a lovesick swain to a pretty coquette who had dozens of admirers. "Oh, yes, I have," she replied. "I have heart enough to accommodate every good looking man I meet."—Merchant Traveler.

"Was did the Apostle Paul go to Athens?" asked a Sunday-school teacher. "Please, sir, was it to throw the detectives off the track?" answered a Canadian tourist's little boy whose pops had him behind.—Brooklyn Times.

IF there is anything more irreprehsible than a fly interviewing a bald head, it is the man who having once had a letter accepted and inserted in the paper, thinks that the genius of composition is shown within him.—Fall River Advocate.

AN avant critic says of a vocalist that "when she sings her heart comes into her eyes." She must have either a very small heart or very large eyes. If she is one of these singers who charge $5,000 and half the receipts of the house, her heart is small enough to go anywhere.—Norristown Herald.

THE Indian census report says: "During the preparations of a "squaw" lightning dance, the medicine men put 20 dollars, small, 25 inches; over the hips, 30 inches; over the knees, 20 inches; around the waist, 9 inches; around the ankles, 12 inches; around the calves, 8 inches; over the hips, 32 inches; waist, 22

Around the County.

Burgess.

D. O. Ely has been improving the house on the Flickenger place by putting on a new roof and new gable ends.

The steam thresher owned by Van-Auburg & Leish has been finishing up a few jobs in this town. It is reported that they do splendid work.

They have the location for school site in district No. 2 loaded on a wagon but will have to get it on to sleighs if this kind of weather continues.

Mrs. Ely, of Indiana, is visiting with her son, D. O. Ely.

There is a paper in circulation to pay Thomas Murry money to buy Rev. D. H. Pierce a horse to replace one he lost a short time ago. Come down with your shekels.

We have been informed by those who know that Mrs. Tillotson of Petoskey, who was visiting with her son, Oscar Tillotson, (whom she had not visited before in three years) on starting for home was violently thrown from the carriage in which she was riding and broke two of her ribs. She intends to sue the town for damages on account of the bad roads.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. J. V. Cook.
First Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Billings.
Third Vice President—Mrs. G. F. Van Auken
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. D. G. Lawton.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. H. Suffield.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for the election of officers will be held next Friday at 3 P. M. at the house of Mrs. G. W. Jefferies on the south terrace. All the ladies are cordially invited to be present.

SECRETARY.

A Temperance Calendar.

For several years past authors' calendars, having a quotation from a favorite author for every day in the year, have been a favorite article of household adornment. A new contribution to this class of literary ornament is a temperance calendar, designed by Mrs. Helen R. Olin, of Madison, and issued by the Women's Temperance Publication Association, the artistic work being done by J. Pyngé & Co.

The calendar cards are 7½ x 11 inches in size, and bear a handsome and appropriate lithograph in sixteen colors and tints, with a temperance sentiment from some noted man or woman for each of the three hundred and sixty-five days. Much statistical and other temperance information is also furnished by the calendar.

The work has been examined and highly commended by many prominent people, among them John G. Whittier, Miss Cleveland, John B. Gough, Neal Dow, and others equally well known.

The calendar will be sold for $1. It can be obtained of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the state.

The Bittorest Curse.

The saloon is an institution which makes the poor poorer continually. If only half the expenditure of the wage-earning classes upon drink were saved the elevation of those classes would proceed by leaps and bounds. The saloon however is ever lying in wait for the venal or the social wage-earner. In this great city, on any of the main avenues, he can not walk a block without passing a manufactory of misery. At every turn the purveyor of drink entices him, gets between him and his family, between him and his manhood, between him and his happiness. The pervading influence of rum pursues the slaves of appetite unceasingly, and makes their lives a constant struggle or a succession of disastrous falls.

The subtle, prevalent influence is the bitterest curse that rests upon modern civilization, and it will destroy civilization if it is not itself destroyed. For the discontent, the anarchic tendencies, the seditious doctrines, the dangerous dispositions that are manifesting in centers of population, together with the vices of administration, which alarm the thoughtful and the diffidence in the way of reform, which are due to the intractability of the material dealt with—all have their spring and origin in that habit of drinking, that potent drink influence, which baffles the enthusiasm of the reformer and laughs to scorn the appeals of religion, of reason and of self respect. This evil influence is degrading and brutalizing society, and progress will be slow and unsatisfactory until a public opinion is formed which refuses to loiter with the abuse longer.—N. Y. Tribune.

THOROUGHLY TRIED.

After many years of experience in my own family and upon my horses and cattle I am constrained to say that Parmelee's Universal Liniment is the most complete remedy for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, lame back, sore throat, &c., in the human family and of bone spavin, sweeny, ringbone, spavins, bruises, on horses; caked bag, sore teats &c., on cattle, that I have ever known and take pleasure in recommending to others. Large bottles 50 c. common size 25 c.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

WHY SUFFER?

With dyspepsia, when Parmelee's dyspepsia, diabetes, kidney and liver cure will work wonders, relieving you at once. Do not wait till dyspepsia has overcome and diabetes has taken full possession of your body but remember that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This fine preparation will also tone up the kidneys and liver and cleanse the system of all impurities. Price $1.00 per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

BY NEGLECT

What is at first but a slight cold, becomes a cough, straining and exhausting the lungs till soon an inflamed condition exists, that powerful remedies are not always able to stop the disease and the person goes into consumption from mere neglect. Do not be so foolish but use Hamilton's cough balsam which removes the impure matter from the throat and lungs and exerts a healing influence on the diseased parts. Even those who are but the wrecks of their form or selves receive wonderful help. In croup and whooping cough it is invaluable. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

DO YOU KNOW?

That the Horse and Cattle Powders prepared by E. M. Parmelee and composed of the very best and purest materials, Licorice, fenugreek, blood root, elecampane, for coughs, colds, spizootic, distemper, &c., sulphur, mandrake, gentian, salph. magnesia for impure blood, includes many other ingredients especially adapted to the cure of colic, worms, heaves, and all diseases of horses, cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry. Buy no other. Full pounds only 35 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the sum of Two Hundred and Twenty dollars in a mortgage, dated the second day of August, A. D. 1881, executed by Lorine H. Meade and Sarah Meade his wife, of Charlevoix County, Mich., to George W. Eglesston, of New York City, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Charlevoix, in Liber 3, of Mortgages, on page 270, on the 29th day of August, 1881, and the said mortgagee has elected to consider the whole amount of principal and interest due.

AND WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, is the sum of One Hundred Eighty one Dollars, of principal and interest, and the sum of Twenty-five Dollars as an attorney fee, stipulated for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding in law or equity having been instituted to recover the debt so secured, or any part thereof, or the money secured and stipulated in said mortgage has become due and payable.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the said power of sale and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, at the Village of Charlevoix, at the front door, or outer entrance to Lowell's Hall, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for Charlevoix County, in the village of East Jordan, Charlevoix County, Mich., on the twenty-second day of December, 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of that day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: All that parcel of land being in the township of Melrose, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, and described as all of the northwest quarter (¼) of section number thirty-six (36), in township thirty-four (34) north of range five (5) west, containing 160 acres more or less.

Dated Sept. 24, 1885.

GEORGE W. EGLESTON, Mortgagee.

PALTCHOV & GOODSELL, Attorneys for Mortgagee, Petoskey, Mich. 127

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, made on the twenty-ninth day of February, A. D. 1885, in a chancery suit pending wherein Lucy B. Fox is complainant, and Maria V. Dyer, and Ezra S. Knowles are defendants, notice is hereby given, that I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Lowell House, in the village of East Jordan, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, said Hall being the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Friday, the 26th day of November, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much of the premises as may be necessary (subsequently to the sale of a portion thereof, made by said mortgagee, interest thereon, and costs of said cause, the following described parcel of land to wit: All that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as follows, to wit: Commencing at a stake that may be found by taking twenty (20) links in a direct west, seven degrees and twenty-four (7 24) minutes south from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north line of section twenty-five (25) in said township intersects the beach; thence south, thirty-three (33) north range six (6) west, it being the section line between said sections, six degrees west, sixty-six chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east five chains to a stake, thence one forty-two (42) degrees north six (6) chains to the beach of said lake, thence one forty-two (42) degrees west two (2) chains to the place of beginning, containing one and one-half acres of land together with tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto now or hereafter belonging or in any wise appertaining and the rents, issues and profits thereof, subject to said sold dower.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FOGG,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.

CHAUNCEY S. ZIMMER,
Solicitor for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 117

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage made by Frederick Fisher, dated the twenty-sixth day of August, A. D. 1881, of Ellsworth, Petoskey, Charlevoix County, Michigan, of the first part, to William B. Garner, of Rock Island, Illinois, of the second part, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for said county of Charlevoix, on the twenty-fifth day of Sept. A. D. 1881, in Liber 3 of Mortgages, on page 36, which mortgage was on the second day of March, A. D. 1885, assigned to said William B. Sargent to Margaret K. Blackmer, of Berrien county, Michigan, said assignment being recorded on the 20th day of March, A. D. 1885, in the county of mortgages, in the records of said county, on page 36, and the said Margaret K. Blackmer is the owner of the said mortgage and assignment and the power of sale in said mortgage contained, and whereas, at the date of this notice, there is claimed to be due upon said mortgage for principal and interest the sum of Two hundred and twenty dollars ($220.00) and no suit or proceeding now been instituted at law to recover said debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and of the statutes of the state of Michigan in such cases made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises thereby described, at public auction or vendue, to the highest bidder, on Tuesday, the Nineteenth day of January, A. D. 1886, at 12 o'clock noon of that day, at the front door of Lowell's Hall in the village of East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix, that being the place for holding the Circuit Court for said county of Charlevoix, of so much of said mortgage, or sufficient thereof to satisfy said indebtedness, interest thereon, and costs, solicitor's attorney's fee, and expenses of said sale, said premises being described in said mortgage as follows: The east half of the southwest quarter of section number thirty-six (36), in township thirty-four (34) north of range five (5) west, containing 80 acres more or less.

Dated Sept. 26, 1885.

HERMAN W. EGLESTON,
Mortgagee.

PALTCHOV & GOODSELL,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Petoskey, Mich. 127

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, made on the twenty-ninth day of February, A. D. 1885, in a chancery suit pending wherein Lucy B. Fox is complainant, and Maria V. Dyer, and Ezra S. Knowles are defendants, notice is hereby given, that I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Lowell House, in the village of East Jordan, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, said Hall being the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Friday, the 26th day of November, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, all or so much of the premises as may be necessary (subsequently to the sale of a portion thereof, made by said mortgagee, interest thereon, and costs of said cause, the following described parcel of land to wit: All that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Eveline, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as follows, to wit: Commencing at a stake that may be found by taking twenty (20) links in a direct west, seven degrees and twenty-four (7 24) minutes south from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north line of section twenty-five (25) in said township intersects the beach; thence south, thirty-three (33) north range six (6) west, it being the section line between said sections, six degrees west, sixty-six chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east five (5) chains to a stake, thence one forty-two (42) degrees north six (6) chains to the beach of said lake, thence one forty-two (42) degrees west two (2) chains to the place of beginning, containing one and one-half acres of land together with tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto now or hereafter belonging or in any wise appertaining and the rents, issues and profits thereof, subject to said sold dower.

Dated October 7th A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FOGG,
Circuit Court Commissioner,
for Charlevoix County, Michigan.

CHAUNCEY S. ZIMMER,
Solicitor for Complainant,
Charlevoix, Michigan. 117

Farmers and Mechanics.

Save money and doctor bills. Relieve your blisters, Wives and Sisters by a timely purchase of Dr. Rosadalis Cough and Lung Syrup, best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Consumption. Sold by Druggists. Relieves Croup in one night, may save you hundreds of dollars. Price 50 cts. and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter.

J. MILO EATON,
DEALER IN
Real Estate
OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

A PRESENT.

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and expense of two book agents, will receive free a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of an our Price crisis, including Cleveland, size 22x28, worth $4.00. Address Elder Pub., Chicago, Ill.

We cordially recommend Tutt's Liver Pills to all the long remembered friends of the family.
We have sold candidly for years and know it to be a benefit to our patrons.
Selected in Good Faith,
Medina, N. Y.
Sold by Druggists.
Price $1.00.
For Sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.	.....	7 00am	7 00pm	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	6 30pm	7 40pm	1 30am	.....
Chicago, ar.	.....	12 05n	6 00am	6 40pm
Kalamazoo, ar.	.....	3 45	3 50	12 10pm
Kalamazoo, lv.	.....	3 55	3 50	2 15
Otsego, ar.	.....	4 28	4 20	2 50
Otsego, lv.	.....	.....	.....	2 54pm
Gun Plains, ar.	.....	.....	.....	3 09
Gun Plains, lv.	.....	.....	.....	3 11
Grand Rapids, ar.	7 15	5 20	4 45	3 45
Grand Rapids, lv.	7 20	5 30	4 50	10 30
Ionia, ar.	8 00	6 15	5 35	11 15
Stanton, ar.	8 20	.....	12 50pm	11 54
Greenville, ar.	8 35	.....	1 05	12 08
Howard City, ar.	8 50	.....	1 20	12 26
Reed City, ar.	9 05	.....	1 35	12 40
Cadillac, ar.	10 00	.....	2 30	1 35
Cadillac, lv.	.....	.....	2 51	2 40
Wexford, ar.	.....	.....	3 15	3 05
Kalkaska, ar.	.....	.....	3 45	3 35
Manistee, ar.	.....	.....	5 50	5 40
Boyne Falls, ar.	.....	.....	4 20	4 05
Petoskey, ar.	.....	.....	7 30	7 00
Mackinaw City, ar.	.....	.....	9 50pm	9 25am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City, lv.	.....	7 00am	4 50pm	.....
Harbor Springs, lv.	.....	.....	.....	.....
Petoskey, lv.	.....	9 30	11 12	.....
Boyne Falls, lv.	.....	9 55	11 37	.....
Manistee, lv.	.....	10 25	12 05	.....
Kalkaska, lv.	.....	10 37	1 30	.....
Wexford, lv.	.....	11 23	2 15	.....
Cadillac, ar.	.....	12 20pm	3 15	.....
Cadillac, lv.	7 25	5 15	7 00	6 10pm
Reed City, lv.	8 05	5 50	7 36	7 50
Howard City, lv.	8 20	6 05	7 51	8 05
Greenville, lv.	8 34	6 20	8 05	8 20
Stanton, lv.	8 47	6 33	8 18	8 33
Ionia, lv.	9 00	6 45	8 30	8 45
Grand Rapids, ar.	9 45	7 25	9 10	9 25
Grand Rapids, lv.	10 00	8 05	11 45	.....
Gun Plains, lv.	10 08	8 25	1 40pm	.....
Otsego, lv.	10 11	8 28	1 43	.....
Kalamazoo, ar.	10 40	8 55	2 10	.....
Kalamazoo, lv.	.....	9 00	2 20pm	.....
Chicago, ar.	12 40am	12 40pm	7 35pm	.....
Fort Wayne, ar.	7 40am	4 00	1 30am	.....
Cincinnati, ar.	.....	7 00am	7 00pm	.....

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. Agent.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Photographs!

I have located my

New Photograph Gallery

OVER

UPRIGHT, EMREY & CO.'S STORE,

And am prepared to do

All Kinds of Photographic Work,

From the

Miniature Picture to Life Size

Any Old Picture Copied and Enlarged.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

DAVE BRADDEER,
Charlevoix, Mich.

A GIFT Send me your address and we will send you free a royal, valuable box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money at once than anything else in this world. Some of our workers have made over $50 in a single week, and the business is so honorable that we can not offer a single cent less than we do. Many have made their fortunes by devoting their whole time to our business. It is the easiest, most honorable and best business that any one can enter upon. Any one can do the work. We have no capital to start you as we do all the business ourselves. You can do it as well as others. Address at once, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

GET THE BEST

If your neighbors want a clean, handsome, weekly newspaper, giving all the latest and most complete news from all parts of the country, and the best stories, you can get it by sending 50 cents in stamps, or coin for four months. 52 weeks for six months, $1.00 per year. Address

The Charlevoix Journal,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,
IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Rinalou.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Random.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.
GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY
IRONTON, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES
KEEP YOUR ON THE Right Place
For Bargains in Hardware,
Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Doors, Sash, PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm bells, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishing tackle, Revolvers, Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Tubs, Wooden ware, Ropes, Fishermen's Supplies, and Shipchandlery. Job and Tin work.
L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

HENRY C. COOPER
Undertaker!
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.
Come and See my Stock of Furniture.
ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!
I have purchased the Stock of
Drugs, Chemicals,
STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.
Of O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to so conduct the business as to merit a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and ask my prices.
PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,
Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

I have purchased the Meat business of Armstrong & Co., and will continue at the old stand, with the freshest and best goods in the market.
T. E. CHAMBERLIN.

$100 REWARD
FOR
Every Ounce of Adulteration
IN THE
U. G. Soap
The Great 5c Cake,
Made only by
GOWANS & STOVER,
BUFFALO, N. Y.
For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

"Facts to be Remembered."
NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO
Is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and most popular Plug in the market. IT IS WARRANTED TO GIVE SATISFACTION, and NEVER SWELLS; GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION, and not a box of it is ever returned. NIMROD IS THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER; never sticks on the dealer's hands. This can not be said of any other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.
S. W. VENABLE & CO.
Petersburg, Va.

The Grand Rapids
Daily Democrat,
The Leading Newspaper of Western Michigan.
ENLARGED AND IMPROVED
Sent by mail at 50 cents per month.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 122. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Notary Public, Will do Conveyancing promptly attended to.

CHRISTIANSEN & SHIELD, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Offices in Gaslight Block, CHARLEVOIX.

H. E. CASELL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Insurance Agents. Lake st., east of post office. Petoskey, Mich.

WM. M. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate Business promptly attended to. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

H. J. HERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office on Lake st., Boyne City.

J. A. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

C. VAN ZWEDEN, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

FRANK T. WINNER, Attorney at Law and Circuit Court Commissioner, Notary Public, East Jordan, Mich.

A. WOOD, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Absentee a specialty.

A. MARBURT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 A. M. and 7:00 P. M. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00. F. VAN AUKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday Services at 10:30 A. M. and 7 P. M. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. A. T. DOWNS, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

LETTS CO. Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Domestic Cases, etc. Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. SCHENSON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

ISRAEL'S HABISH, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Harbor Post, No. 122, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows Hall.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge, No. 293, meets Friday evening, on or before full moon. Visiting brothers cordially invited. J. E. CHAMBERLAIN, Sec.

I. O. O. F.—Star Lodge, No. 167, meets every Tuesday evening in Hayward's school house.

I. O. O. F.—Ironton Encampment, No. 102, meets 2 Tuesdays on or before full moon. Hall over post office.

B. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.

BROWN & CO.'S
BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,
Capital, $25,000.

With ample capital and experience we have a long, and growing patronage. Drafts drawn on Europe and principal cities of the world, collections receive prompt attention. Interest allowed on time deposits. Individual accounts and first mortgages upon farm lands, are specialties with us. We invite attention to our facilities for parties in Europe by bill letter.

CORRESPONDENTS.

Chase National Bank, New York.
First National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

OFFICERS.

President—Byron Sunset.
First Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Henry Beiner.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Financial Secretary—H. Suffield.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Finance—Albert A. Mills Lisson, A. D. Crotchmann, and J. L. Hurd.
Correspondence Committee—H. Lee Iddings, W. A. Brown, and C. W. Cook.
Business Committee—C. W. Mayne, L. D. Bartholomew, Chas. Sherman, R. Cooper, Geo. W. Crouter, E. M. Morse, M. Joe, W. C. Newman, E. W. Clark, H. Brown.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to bring the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday evening of each month.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON BOXES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.
NOTE—We have for distribution a number of Michigan Lumbermen's Guides for 1885, which may be had free upon application at our office.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING
Dr. CROUTER'S
BAKING POWDER
Or Quick Yeast.
If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.
If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.
It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.
It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Grade of Tartar of the shops.
It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.
Directions for using furnished with every package.
Price 40 Cents per Pound
Manufactured and Sold only by
Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,
Chemist and Druggist,
BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of
BOOTS AND SHOES.
FOX & MILLER.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,
ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,
Charlevoix, Michigan.
This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely refitted and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in connection with the House. 73

FARMERS' HOTEL,
W. S. JOHNSON, Proprietor.
Antrim Street, near Village Hall, Charlevoix.
Location convenient for mechanics working in any of the factories on Round Lake, and for farmers coming to town. Feed stable for teams will be provided.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, Michigan.
Pleasant location in town, among good view of lakes and resorts. Express office, and headquarters for Pinkney and Gile Hunting Shanties. Good sample room for commercial travelers. Rates moderate.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,
THATCHER & BLAIN, Proprietors.
East Jordan, Michigan.
These having business at the county seat will find this the most convenient place to stop and the proprietors will spare no pains to give the travelling public a home. REPUBLICAN.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,
A. J. HALL, Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
This house is finely located on the Boyne River, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton, Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

Picture Frames
Made to Order.
A FINE ASSORTMENT OF MOULDINGS
To Select From.
O. I. WHEAT,
Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Mich.

Well-Digging.
JOHN SHRIER
Charlevoix, Mich.,
Is prepared to do all work in the line of well-digging, cistern building, pump repairing, well drilling, and similar work.

THE GREAT GRANT BOOK.
Life and Personal Memories of Gen. Grant in one volume only $1.75. One agent sold 41 first day, 10,000 sold first week. A $1 engraving with each book. Agents wanted. "Our Prospectus" FREE to earnest workers. Don't waste time on worthless things. Such now sold cut-out well selling for commissions. Address FRANK PETTIGREW, Chicago, 364 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 128

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it in NEW YORK.

"TERRACE FARM,"
Charlevoix, Mich.
J. R. & J. S. DIXON,
DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.
Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins
A SPECIALTY. 118

BLANKETS
AND LAP ROBES.
A Good Stock Cheap.
JOHN LITZAU.
Harness Shop in Chalmpsky's building, north of bridge.

New Goods!
I would call the attention of the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity to my new fall stock of
MILLINERY
AND
Fancy Goods.
Have also just received a fine stock of ladies' fine shoes, such as Felts, Canvass, Embroidery, Felt Boots and Tablets. Also a full line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Dongola and Leather Shoes, Handkerchiefs, and Notions. Call and examine my stock. I desire to sell cheap for cash only.
Dress-Making Done to Order.
MISS L. SPAULDING.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43
W. M. WAGAR. G. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. 1 door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best materials, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CASPERSON, BARTHOLOMEW & CO'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

The ORIGINAL MOVING MACHINE and head for sale. 44

An Echo.

Time was when Life and I linked hands together,
A time so light as wind-blown thistledown,
Joy danced when hope breathed o'er the fields of pleasure
A nobly blue crown.

Time was when Love and I roved smiling, laughing,
Amid lofty castles built by Fancy fair,
On eight wings of joy and of glimmering stars were straddling
On summer's fragrant air.

Time came when both and I sank down together,
Wearied from the dark I rose, a specter there
Beside the dead; I gazed and wondered whether Aught left could ever seem fair.
—Hilda Silver in the Boston Transcript.

COWARD AND SNEAK-THIEF.

An Animal that Even the Indian Dogs Look Upon With Contempt.

The first experience of the eastern traveler on the Northern Pacific railway, write a correspondent at Green River, Wyoming, to the New York Sun, usually has some reference to the coyote. As the train gradually ascends the plateaus that merge into the Rocky mountains on the way west from Omaha, the first form of animal life observed is the coyote standing on some distant knoll or half hiding in the sentry sage brush and gazing vistfully at the passing train.

The coyote is the sneak-thief, the pickpocket of the Rocky mountain region. Although the dog belongs to the same genus of animals, yet the hunters and trappers in expressing their contempt for a Digger Indian will compare him to a coyote, but never to a dog. Even the Indian dog, which is a cop-tailed mongrel, has generations, despises his ancestor and fights him at every opportunity with great show of contempt. So cowardly is this animal that he never dares to seize a bird which flies him, but springs when its back is turned.

The dismal bark of the coyote at night reminds one of the jackal of the Orient. My first experience with these animals was when sleeping in a tent after a hard day's ride in Wyoming on the back of a broncho. The night was dark and threatening. Suddenly a chorus of mournfully sounds came from a high rock overhanging the tent.

"What on earth is that?"

"Coyotes," said the guide, with a curse, turning over for renewed sleep.

I took a shotgun and a cartridge of heavy slugs and blazed away at half a dozen figures dimly outlined on the rock above. If there were any more strange noises that night I slept too soundly to hear them. In the morning two dead coyotes were found near the tent, of which the remainder of the pack, and perhaps other animals had managed to carry off during the night. The coyotes followed us wherever we travelled, for five hundred miles, through the mountains, always sneaking away in the distance, and at night, somewhat emboldened, stealing into camp and eating the refuse of our meals. I shot a number of these animals and dissected them. If anyone can mention an edible article in existence that a coyote will not eat, he ought to give it to the world at once as a curiosity. To my knowledge they are carnivorous, insectivorous, herbivorous, granivorous, frugivorous, and the rest.

The antipathy between the coyote and the Indian dog is one of the features of life on the west that attracts general attention. Some naturalists have been in haste to use this fact to prove that the latter has a descendant from the former. Plainly, the antagonism between the animal is proof that they are identical species. The Indian dog has been trained through long generations to protect the interests of his master. The coyote is in opposition to the interests of man, and makes it his business to steal and plunder. The interests of the wild and tamed coyote are consequently antagonistic, and it is natural that they should fight. A western artist has a photograph which shows an Indian dog and a coyote side by side. Anyone who can point out any difference in looks is welcome to the fame of his discovery.

Sportsmen, in the absence of game, often rule down the coyote, and find the chase brief and with few features of foxhunting. A coyote once down, but never repeated the operation.

In the fights between the Indian dog and the coyote the dog usually gets an unmerciful thrashing, particularly if he stays far from camp. The dog and coyote also fight with neighbors, and the encounter ends upon the dog and other kill him. If the coyote is alone and can obtain no help, he makes haste to sneak away, and between his legs. The Indian dogs and the coyotes, however, hunt in packs commonly.

The coyote is found over a very wide section of country. Evidently their range is from sea level to ten thousand feet above. I saw large numbers of them in Wyoming, Idaho, and Montana, between six thousand and eight thousand feet above sea level. When first seen they are usually standing motionless on some slight elevation or among the sage brush. If no harm is likely to come to them, they will stand and scrutinize the traveler from a very near point. In fact, they are safer near by than at a distance, as one is apt to take them for Indian dogs if they appear tame. In Idaho I saw them hunting, in their usual sneaking way, the large sage hens. Indeed, when I had taken the trouble to shoot one of these birds I was surprised to see a nimble coyote step out from under a tall sage brush, seize the bird, and dash away. At that time I was riding through the mountains in a double buggy, and was unable to give chase. One day I climbed an almost perpendicular elevation of about fifteen hundred feet. On the narrow top was a coyote, who, in his haste to escape, leaped too far, and fell over the precipice on the opposite side, several thousand feet deep. In captivity the coyote is the most servile and despicable rascal imaginable. How the Indians ever had patience to domesticate them and make outrageous and faithful dogs of them I can not imagine. Although the Indian may be wileless and spiritless, he is never dogless.

Bismarck's Religious Belief.

A belief in God, in a divine order of the world, and in a personal existence in a future state and, to a certain extent, in revelation, seems to form for him a sort of rude basis of religious belief, with which he has remained satisfied without raising on it the superstructure of any definite creed. In religion, as in politics, he confesses that he has arrived at successive stages of development. In the days when he was known as the toile Junker he was first a rationalist and, apparently for some time,

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

A coal train on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad crashed into a freight train which was standing on the bridge across White Deer Creek. The engine and thirteen cars were hurled into the creek below, a distance of thirty feet. The engineer and fireman were swept with the engine, but were uninjured.

Ferdinand Ward was sentenced in New York to ten years' imprisonment on the charge of larceny, of which he was lately convicted. Ward showed no feeling when sentence was pronounced, though the Judge was especially grave and severe in his reference to the prisoner's criminal exploits. Ward was taken at once to Sing Sing.

The funeral of Gen. McClellan was held in the Madison Square Presbyterian Church in New York. A few dozens at the altar were the only outsiders at morning. The remains were escorted to the church by the Loyal Legion and the survivors of Meagher's brigade, but no military display was permitted. Gens. Hancock, McDowell, Joseph E. Johnston, and Fitz-John Porter were among the pallbearers. A special train conveyed the corpse to Trenton.

It is not true that Mr. John Kelly, of New York, has had a serious relapse. He is able to attend to business, and intends to visit Florida and Mexico during the winter.

The Andre monument, which Cyrus W. Field had erected on the Hudson River at Tappan, N. Y., was blown up the other night by dynamiters. Both bases were blown into atoms, and the iron fencing that inclosed the monument completely demolished. The shock was so great that it broke the glass in houses a mile away. In a field half a mile distant it broke the globes on the lamps, and the West Shore Railroad depot was jarred and several panes of glass broken.

The stockholders of the New York Central Road have ratified the guarantee of $6,000,000 first-mortgage bonds of the West Shore Company.

A natural gas company, covering several counties in Pennsylvania, with capital of about $5,000,000, is being formed. It proposes to pipe the gas to other states.

An agent of the Connecticut Humane Society broke into the house of George Peck, Jr., in New Haven, during the absence of the family, and released Mrs. Caroline Brooks, widow of a soldier of 1812, who was being cruelly pinioned under a contract with the township of Southington. She was in rags, and had received only one meal of cold mackerel and potatoes each day.

WESTERN.

William Harper was hanged at Paragould, Ark., for the murder of John Sellers a year ago.

While hunting near New Philadelphia, Ohio, Theodore Thompson shot his brother for a squirrel, and gave him a full charge of shot, inflicting a dangerous wound.

The White Earth Indians, of Minnesota, have taken preliminary steps toward commencing on one reservation all the scattering tribes in that State, numbering 2,800 persons.

Cholera has, within a few weeks, swept away a thousand hogs in one township in Champaign County, Ill. It is said to be rapidly spreading.

A gold-headed cane was the tribute paid to the citizens of Fan Fan, Ill., on their retiring Postmaster, who served them continuously for thirty-five years.

A telegram from Detroit states that when the tug Frank Moffat was making fast to the wharf at Sarnia, on the Canada side of the St. Clair River, her bolts exploded with terrific force, blowing away her upper works and part of her deck and shattering her hull. John Ward, first engineer, of Detroit; William Miller, second engineer, of Port Huron; John Wiley, fireman, residence unknown; and Walter Fisher, fireman, of Detroit, were instantly killed. Their bodies were blown into the river, and have not yet been recovered. Capt. Thomas Curry had his leg broken. Andrew Reed and Frank Purtap were badly scalded, and Richard Goodman, the mate, who was ashore with the line, was blown over a wood pile and badly injured.

Governor Pierce, of Dakota, has made his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior, showing the material progress of that Territory during the last year. The population of the Territory is now 150,000, as against 137,180 when the Federal census was taken in 1880. The year has been a very prosperous one for the Territory, and nearly all the crops have been excellent, but the prices commanded have been very much in advance of those realized a year ago. The result is a buoyancy of feeling on the part of the people most encouraging and reassuring. In the whole the farmers were never so prosperous as at present.

The Federal Court at Indianapolis has affirmed the judgment of $1,975,000 in railroad aid bonds issued by the city of Evansville.

Samuel Newton, a Choctaw Indian, was lately found to death by exposure near the Choctaw Nation, Indian Territory.

The existence of pleuro-pneumonia in Ohio is denied by the State Veterinarian. Within a short period 5,000 logs have died of cholera in Logan County, Illinois, and the disease shows no signs of abating.

The Chinese were expelled from Tacoma, W. T., but no violence was offered. Chinese storekeepers were given additional time in which to pack their goods. A number of the refugees are camped at Lake View, nine miles south of Tacoma.

Cyrus Yandes was found dead on his father's grave at St. Paul, having committed suicide by shooting. The father, who left an estate estimated at about one million dollars, had been dead but a few days. It is supposed the suicide became insane through grief at his father's loss and in brooding over his responsibility in settling the property.

SOUTHERN.

A rainstorm of eighteen hours' duration caused floods in the Shenandoah Valley, Va., more water falling than in the two previous years. Near Lexington, a trestle not lapped under a train, the engineer and fireman being killed, but the passengers escaped. Washouts on the Baltimore and Ohio found lodged and with the passage of trains.

The Kanawha River rose to an unexpected height, sweeping away 600 coal barges stationed at Charleston, W. Va., and damaging property valued at $150,000.

Silver coin of the value of $20,000 has been unexpectedly found in plantation of John Chenault, in Wilkes County, Ga., where a Confederate treasury train is said to have been robbed.

The Rev. Thomas Tennant died last week near Evansville, Ark. He was 115 years old. He was born in 1771, and removed to Arkansas in 1818. He represented Washington County in the Legislature in 1840, and had been a Methodist Minister for ninety years.

Miss Katie Tabb, a society favorite in Louisville, set her clothing on fire while kneeling in prayer, and received injuries which resulted in her death.

WASHINGTON.

Secretary Lamar and the Commissioner of Patents will sit as a board to hear arguments of representatives of the Bell Telephone Company, who protest that the decision of the United States may be used to bring suits against the Bell telephone patents.

A proclamation designating November 25 as a day of public thanksgiving has been issued by President Cleveland.

For the fiscal year ended June 30 last the expenditures on account of the navy amounted to over $17,000,000.

The purchase of the steamer Dolphin from the navy yard at John Roach has at last been consummated by Secretary Whitney.

Acting upon reports of agents in Indian Territory, Secretary Lamar has requested the War Department to remove the "boomers" from the Oklahoma lands. The information contained in the agents' reports is to the effect that a large number of persons, supposed to be "boomers," are claiming to be foreigners, are crossing the hannas border into the Indian Territory.

Commissioner Sparks, of the General Land Office, believes from reports received that a large part of the homestead entries in Dakota are fraudulent. He has issued advertisements offering ex-Union soldiers or sailors homesteads without the formality of living on them, and copies of railroad tickets with homestead entries under the timber-culture act attached as gratuitous coupons. The Commissioner says he will not certify any entries until convinced that they are regular. He will ask Congress for funds enough to do the work speedily.

POLITICAL.

The following Presidential Postmasters have been appointed by the President:

James W. Lewis at Hampshire, Ala., vice W. White Jones, suspended; John H. Christian at Columbia, Ala., vice J. H. Houston, suspended; Thomas W. Carroll at Hooker's Hill, Ill., vice Y. Y. Hooker, suspended; Wm. Ward at Rockford, Ill., vice C. Sumner, suspended; D. A. Spaeth at Mount Carroll, Ill., vice J. Wolfkill, suspended; Joshua Kirkwood at Monticello, Ill., vice J. Cantlon, suspended; Patrick Gibbons at Kendall, Ia., vice S. M. Clark, suspended; H. Bodgman at Frankfort, Ky., vice C. Hatchett, suspended; H. C. Bell at Hopkinsville, Ky., vice J. W. Bell, suspended; Wm. Ward at Rockford, Ill., vice Y. Y. Hooker, suspended; Wm. Ward at Rockford, Ill., vice Y. Y. Hooker, suspended; Thomas Holliday at St. Louis, Mich., vice J. M. Chaney, suspended; D. Shearer at Ionia, Mich., vice J. Wilkinson, suspended; Wm. Williams at Ionia, Mich., vice Wm. Ward, suspended; Wm. Ward at Ionia, Mich., vice Y. Y. Hooker, suspended; Frank Harris at Beaver, Pa., vice Newton Wells, suspended; Wm. Ward at Beaver, Pa., vice Y. Y. Hooker, suspended; J. B. Kemp at Beaver, Pa., vice J. Tinker at Beaver, Pa., vice J. S. Morrow, suspended; J. M. H. Shoffel at Hanover, Wis., vice J. E. Welch, suspended; D. C. Blakeley at Dunkirk, Wis., vice J. Cole, suspended; Wm. Ward at Joseph Twiss at Pacific, Wis., vice E. Dale, suspended; Alvin S. Shadle at Ashland, Wis., vice M. H. McNitt, resigned; J. H. Van Horn at Oshkosh, Wis., vice J. D. Lewis, resignation expired; E. Evans at St. Joseph, Mo., vice Frank M. Tracy, resignation expired; T. B. Mitchell at Ionia, Mich., vice Wm. Ward, resignation expired.

The President has appointed Owen T. Reeve, of Missouri, to be United States Attorney for the Territory of Arizona.

President Cleveland went to his home in Buffalo and voted the straight Democratic ticket in the Ninth Ward. A dispatch from Buffalo says: "The President arrived by special train on the Lehigh Valley Railway. He was accompanied by William C. Pinkney, his law partner, A. W. Stedman, chief engineer of the road, and John B. Jeter, Doorkeeper of the Capitol. The President is looking finely and the party played a pleasant game of 'Sixty' on the train from Buffalo to Buffalo. All along the line of travel large crowds gathered, and as Dayus Reynolds were shot off, left the train did not dodge. Only such distinguished men as these had part of the route. At the Buffalo depot the President was met by a crowd, but no demonstration was made.

The amendment to the constitution of Ohio relative to school sections was carried by a majority of 327,000.

A. P. Edgerton, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and William F. Trenholm, of Charleston, S. C., have been appointed to the places on the Civil Service Commission made vacant by the retirement of Dorman B. Eaton and Dr. Gregory.

The President returned to Washington immediately after the election in New York. A Washington telegram says: "His face wore a broad smile all day and he feels that his administration has been indorsed by the State of New York. Telegrams to confirm his opinion have been arriving all day, and the President feels that his policy has been approved by his party. Upon reaching the Executive Mansion he went immediately to the library and found two or three hundred telegrams congratulating him on the result of the election in New York State. Before reading them the President wrote and sent to Governor Hill a telegram warmly congratulating him on his election."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Small-pox still continues to spread throughout the Province of Quebec. The disease has broken out in numerous small towns.

A lunar-ball playover baseball game is being formed in the East, and rumor has it that the League and American Associations are about to consolidate.

At the Women's National Christian Temperance Convention, in Philadelphia, the reports showed that the receipts for the year had been $49,955 and the expenses $8,819.

The lady of Otto Funk, the Public Library thief and "crank," was buried by the authorities of Cambridge, Mass., as her relatives in Chicago refused to bury her.

The elevators in Chicago hold 13,172,000 bushels of wheat, and the quantity in sight throughout the country is reported at 51,592,000 bushels.

Edward Hudson, the cayanan, indignantly denies that he made overtures to Tenner to sell the race between them. Hudson has had published denunciations written by Tenner, the import of which is that Hudson was ready and willing to "sell out." In a note dated September 2, Tenner says: "If you are in no condition I will do anything you can honorably to win the race."

The internal troubles in Hayti have caused the British and French representatives in that country to telegraph their respective Governments to send men-of-war to Hayti to protect foreign residents.

A certificate has been issued by the Panama Canal Company, intended to allay the suspicions of stockholders, who have recently been amazed at the figures of a report which announces that the final period of work on the canal will commence on Jan. 1. Just what this means is not clearly understood. A copy of the circular has been received at Washington, and was read with a good deal of curiosity at the State and Navy Departments, and the general opinion is that it is a piece of diplomacy to begin, again and stockholders into sinking more money into the bottomless undertaking.

FOREIGN.

A naval officer who was sent from Washington to visit the principal arsenals in Europe reports that the steepest powers have each now in hand one or more torpedo-boats, and their coasts are divided into districts. France has twenty-four dry-docks, completely equipped, while Great Britain is largely outnumbered in dry-dock facilities by the naval powers, with 700 vessels, and Germany has within twenty years risen to the fourth place.

A Berlin cablegram chronicles the appointment of Count Herbert Bismarck as Secretary of State.

The Cork Packet Company offered £5,000 for the impounding cattle-dealers to resume shipments, but the money was not promptly tendered.

Mr. Gladstone has had a conference with Lord Granville, the late Foreign Secretary, and it is reported that the policy agreed upon includes recognition of the union of Bulgaria and Roumelia as an accomplished fact, the larger territory being consulted a further against Russian aggression. It is also said that an alliance with France and Italy will be advocated as an offset to the tripartite alliance of Russia, Austria and Germany.

Lord John Manners, the British Postmaster-General, was returned a learned by the election of Leicester. In the disturbance that ensued several heads and claws were smashed.

It is reported that a large rebel army is marching northward from Upper Egypt and that the watchword of the hordes is "Down Cairo."

Three thousand workmen have been laid off at Lanarew, a village in the Caucasus, in Wales. The men are workers in the slate quarries.

Hostilities have broken out at Bahia, on the Cayapan Sea, between Moslems and Christians, in which several of the latter were killed and wounded.

Russia is reported as really opposed to the union of Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia, and knowledge of the fact seems to lend significance to the recent visit of Ignatieff.

M. De Lesseps has asked from the French Government permission to issue further Panama Canal bonds to the amount of $120,000,000, to defray necessary expenses in excess of the original estimates.

A medical examination has been made of Mathi, the man who sought to assassinate M. de Freycinet, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the prisoner has been declared insane.

The robbery of Netherby Hall, at Carlisle, England, which resulted in the death of three policemen, was planned in London, the funds being furnished by a receiver of stolen goods, who sending his agents to the houses were six in number, one being a Texas cowboy named Bishop, and four of them have been arrested. The amount of silverware and jewelry worth $250,000.

It is announced that the eldest daughter of the Comte de Paris is betrothed to a brother of the Emperor of Brazil.

In a London court judgment has been given against Mrs. Langtry for refusing to pay her homeseed debts while living with her husband.

The first prize of $1,250 for a design for a monument to Martin Luther, at Berlin, has been awarded to Herr Otto.

Matthew Arnold is to be sent by the British Government to inquire into the system of free schools in France and Germany.

The Rev. William Robinson Pirie, Vice Chancellor of the University of Aberdeen, is dead.

The total strength of the Turkish army now mobilized is 250,000 men. The Servian troops will remain on the Bulgaria pending the decision of the Balkan conference.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

The President appointed Dorman B. Eaton to be a member of the Civil Service Commission, in place of Judge Thomas, whose resignation was accepted to take effect Nov 1. The appointment is but a temporary one, however, as it is proposed to nominate a permanent successor to Judge Thomas in a short time.

The Postmaster General has solicited bids for the publication of a map of the postal routes for New York and its vicinity. Should that the Langtry and American Associations are about to consolidate.

Montreal has expended $75,000 in attempts to suppress small-pox, and it is not at present being granted to 1,000 persons. There are now cases in the hospital at Quebec.

The Government of Venezuela has contracted with an English company to build a railway on a breakwater to cost $600,000, payment to be made from special duties on merchandise crossing the work for the next ten years.

The name of Prince Alexander of Bulgaria has been stricken from the Russian army lists, and the Prince has been appointed his Colonelcy of the Russian Rifle Battalion, to which he was appointed by the Czar.

At Salt Lake City, Utah, Frederick A. Benson was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and $200 fine for unlawful cohabitation. John Bodenhamer pleaded guilty of unlawful cohabitation and was fined in $1,500 and the costs, the latter being the result of the legal contest.

Agents of the General Land Office are looking up frauds in the Mormon Church acquisition of 20,000 acres of land in Sanpete County, Utah, some years ago. They claim to have discovered a simple-minded Indian.

Master Workman Pinkerton, of the Knights of Labor, and six others have been arrested on charges of conspiring recent explosions on the street car tracks.

Samuel Chase, a bright youth of 16, died yesterday in the employ of Henry S. Robert at 1738 Penn street, New York, was stabbed to the heart and almost instantly killed while playing with one of the clerks in the shop. Jeremiah Cunningham, 17 years old, had an issue in his hand, which Chase fell against the day blade, piercing his heart. The lads were friends, and the killing was accidental. Cunningham's grief was terrible, he was held to await the action of the Coroner's jury.

At an up-town station of the Elevated Railway, in New York, Henry Ward Beecher was robbed of a gold watch valued at $400.

Pattern mills having given the anti-cream advocates of ten per cent. it is expected that at the next meeting of the Western Soil Association the demand for the new soil will be granted, and the strike, which is now in its sixth month, ended.

Ferdinand Ward's business in Sing Sing Prison is to absent aides from underlying fellows. To a reporter who called at the prison he said: "I find it pretty hard work for me. I am not used to this kind of thing. I don't know how long I can stand this, but I am doing my best. I can bear anything and do everything I can hold to the best of my ability. I get up early and I retire early."

The vote of Massachusetts, with two towns to hear from, is Robinson, Republican, 105,000; Butler, 70,000; Tetlow, Prohibitionist, 7,500; Sumner, Labor, 2,000.

Complete returns from every county in Nebraska, give Gage, Dem., for State Treasurer, over Gray, Rep., by 2,000 plurality. Gage's plurality over Dec. 44,177. The official return of the vote for Congressman in the Second District of Pennsylvania, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William Mutchler, shows a plurality of 3,020 for Joseph Dean over Blair, Rep.

The Prohibition vote in Nebraska is less than double the St. John vote of last year. There are gains everywhere except in Douglas County. The Prohibition Superintendent of Public Instruction, who was voted in Douglas County. Superior gives a Prohibition majority in each Democratic and Republican on the county ticket.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$3.00	@ $4.75
HOGS	3.50	@ 5.00
FLOUR—No. 1 White	4.25	@ 4.50
No. 2 Red	3.75	@ 4.25
CORN—No. 2	57½	@ 57½
OATS—Mixed	34	@ 35
PORK—Mess	10.00	@ 10.50

CHICAGO.

BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	5.25	@ 5.75
Good Shipping	4.75	@ 5.25
Common	3.25	@ 4.00
HOGS—Packing	4.00	@ 4.50
Choice Light	4.60	@ 5.00
FLOUR—Winter Wheat	4.00	@ 5.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	78	@ 78½
No. 3 Spring	71	@ 75
No. 2 Red	78½	@ 79
CORN—No. 2	39	@ 39½
OATS—No. 2	26	@ 26½
RYE—No. 2	50	@ 50½
BARLEY—No. 2	60	@ 62
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	28	@ 29
Fine Dairy	19	@ 22
CHEESE—Full Cream	10½	@ 11
Skimmed Flats	3½	@ 4
EGGS—Fresh	18	@ 19
PORK—Mess—Old Style	9.75	@ 9.87½
New Mess	10.00	@ 10.25

MILWAUKEE.

WHEAT—No. 2	78	@ 78½
CORN—No. 2	39½	@ 40
OATS—No. 2	27	@ 27½
RYE—No. 1	50	@ 50½
BARLEY—No. 2	60	@ 61
PORK—Mess	9.90	@ 9.95

TOLEDO.

WHEAT—No. 2	78	@ 78½
CORN—No. 2	41	@ 41½
OATS—No. 2	28	@ 28½
RYE—No. 2	50	@ 50½

ST. LOUIS.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	77	@ 78
CORN—Mixed	37	@ 37½
OATS—Mixed	24½	@ 25
PORK—Mess	10.00	@ 10.25

CINCINNATI.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	77	@ 78
CORN—Mixed	41	@ 41½
OATS—No. 2	29	@ 29½
RYE—No. 2	50	@ 51
PORK—Mess	8.50	@ 9.00

DETROIT.

HEAT CATTLE	4.50	@ 5.25
HOGS—Shipping	4.50	@ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 1 White	1.00	@ 1.02
WHEAT—No. 2 Wild	1.04	@ 1.05
CORN—No. 2	41	@ 42
OATS—No. 2	31	@ 32
RYE	50	@ 52

INDIANAPOLIS.

WHEAT—No. 2 Red	81	@ 83
CORN—Mixed	37	@ 38
OATS—No. 2	25	@ 26

EAST LIBERTY.

CATTLE—Best Shipping	4.80	@ 5.00
Fair	4.60	@ 4.75
HOGS—Common	3.75	@ 4.00
Good	3.80	@ 4.25
SHEEP—Fair	3.75	@ 4.00

BUFFALO.

WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	1.00	@ 1.02
CORN	48	@ 49
CATTLE	4.50	@ 5.50

MICHIGAN AFFAIRS.

—T. H. Lyon's salt-well at Ludington is down nearly 400 feet.

—An Episcopal church was consecrated at Hillman by Bishop Harris.

—Pontiac had boys "plug tobacco" at the school room by the Pontiac dailies.

—Lewis B. Adams and wife, of Rockford, recently celebrated their golden wedding.

—Clare County Board of Supervisors have set off a new township to be called Hamilton.

—James McMillan, of Detroit, has given a Shakspearean library to the University of Michigan.

—Howell clerks are happy. They have suspended, and now don't have to work after 7:30 in the evening.

—The State tax for Lenawee County is some $25,000 more than last year, an increase of nearly 100 per cent.

—A corpse in an advanced stage of decomposition was discovered in a trunk by a railway baggageman, at Sturgis, Mich.

—Donald McMillan, an old Highlander who spoke nothing but Gaelic, died at the point of death in Detroit, aged 105 years.

Notwithstanding the fact that thousands of Lansing's street-lighting has long given the gas company, the electric light company will erect a tower in that city.

At East Saginaw the residence of W. H. Wisner was burglarized and a gold watch and chain and a diamond ring valued at $140 was carried off. The burglars also broke into a safe and pocketbook with quite a large sum of money from the residence of Robert Weir.

The Supreme Court of Michigan has made a decision which reduces to Mrs. Pauline W. Crawford, of Detroit, a legacy of $200 a year of London the chair of Lake Huron, to which her son Thomas, deceased, left by bequeath a chair. Mrs. Crawford is over 70 years of age.

While picking cranberries in a swamp near Lake Superior, Wednesday, a young man named Jacob Kaiser fell into a bear and his dog ran to the house. It would seem as if the bottom ought to be reached with a season on sight, although they may be difficult to hear.—Exchange.

The Grand Haven Park Association have some down much with frame in work undoing the track and otherwise improving the grounds. A grand stand will be erected, and the grounds fenced in some in practical fit. It promises to be one of the finest tracks in the State.

Thomas Yates, a heavy, 41 Scotch weaver, employed at the Reed City Woolen Mills, was a member of the Thirteenth Light Dragoons, who were a portion of the guard at Balaklava during the famous charge at Balaklava during the Crimean war, where only 78 out of the 600 escaped.

A Macon farmer sold a load of potatoes to a Tecumseh dealer. The might before dinner the honest old granger pinged the dealer's house and said he had come to make them weigh twenty-five pounds heavier each, when just upon the sudden he discovered that the dealer had overslept himself. Yutes is an uncommon.

A Michigan paper has been that $5 could be cured of snoring somewhat by a bellows. Hitherto the cure of snoring has not been considered a matter of life and death, and we think that nothing be used for the purpose. That might be considered left into 8.30 a.m. Hitherto the cure has been considered a matter of life and death, and we think that nothing be used for the purpose of being disposed of in the morning

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

"Speak the Truth."

Our esteemed contemporary, the Sentinel, takes up the cudgel in behalf of the board of supervisors and against a "county exchange" because the "exchange" criticised certain actions of the board. If the Sentinel's remarks were toned down so as to come within the injunction contained in the heading, it would lose much of its apparent force. The Sentinel says: "The statement that the board knows nothing about the orders drawn by the clerk is a malicious falsehood, conceived in ignorance and brought forth in malice and spite." (The italics are ours.) This is about as effective argument as that usually contained in a school boy's "you lie" and "you're mother." The information on which the JOURNAL's remarks were based, was obtained from a perfectly reliable source, and if necessary can be proven. The Sentinel further says: "The committee on claims appointed by the board, carefully examine the vouchers to the orders at every session." The package of vouchers to which our attention was called, aggregating several hundred dollars, may have been those which the board are not required to audit, but they were drawn by the clerk and paid by the treasurer, and the board had no official report of them from the clerk, and did not examine them.

"The doctor's fees alluded to, are those allowed by law." We have searched diligently for some statute prescribing fees in such cases, and find none. The doctor generally presents his bill and it is allowed or rejected by the board as they see fit. We have heard of cases where bills were presented nearly double the usual fee, expecting them to be cut down, while in other cases the instructions have been to allow at face or reject entirely. Further than this, we understand that there is a county physician employed at a stated salary, whose duties include, whenever called upon, those for which these bills were presented, and who will receive the same salary as if he had served on the cases mentioned. This is a question of economy for the board to consider.

This article, and perhaps others to follow will bring down on our head the wrath of all the supervisors in the county, but if we succeed in securing a careful examination of every bill of expense at the next and subsequent sessions of the board, and a saving of even one dollar in taxes, our labor shall not be in vain.

Turn a little more "steam" into this "offensive partisan machine," but be careful to so adjust the screws that the "argumentative" ground out will "speak the truth."

What Cleveland's Election Has Done.

According to the New York Tribune among the things which "Cleveland's election has done" has been to depress the price of narrow-fat beans 23 6 per cent., hops fifty per cent., eggs 4.39 per cent., tobacco 4.3 per cent., turkeys 8.3 per cent., etc., but, notwithstanding the terrible pressure brought to bear upon these commodities, we are gratified to learn that some other articles have held their own, being neither depressed or bulled by "Cleveland's election." Among these are "that Dutch cabbage," which sell now as high as a year ago, and also "Russian turnips," "green peas," "lewis," and potatoes. We are not advised by the Tribune what special methods Grover employed to preserve those articles from the general wreckage; but seeing the extent of the havoc which his election wrought in general commerce, it may be inferred on a priori principles that he and his followers were generous consumers of those specialties.—Louisville Courier Journal.

Here and There.

In his speeches in Virginia Judge Frazier speaks of confederate soldiers as "those heroic Virginians who fought with Lee and Jackson." Here in Ohio he sneered at them as "rebels" and "treason-stained" scoundrels.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Our Weak Point.

Our foreign trade is still our weak point and it must remain until we have a rational tariff once more.—Boston Post.

GLEANINGS.

The present value of cattle in Dakota is estimated at $8,000,000.

Capt. Howard of Gatling gun fame lately made $7,000 by a lucky speculation in cartridges.

Mobile, Ala., was founded by the French in 1711 and New Orleans by the same people in 1741.

Mrs. Frelinghuysen became so much attached to Washington during her residence there that she will probably remove thither permanently.

"This is my wife; she is very entertaining, and I am highly pleased with her," is the way a Natick, Mass., man, just married, introduces his wife.

An association of old soldiers, both Federal and Confederate at Atlanta, Ga., proposes to erect a monument to perpetuate the memories of the blue and the gray who fell around that city in the civil war.

China offers as attractive a field for the work of professional explorers as any other country on the globe. It has recently been ascertained that the Chinese coal fields occupy an area of 400,000 square miles.

Mrs. Porter Ashe of San Francisco has the good fortune to be the daughter of Mrs. Charles G. Crocker, who gave her a dowry of $600,000, which she has since supplemented by the gift of a completely furnished $300,000 house.

Whitelaw Reid says: "The mimicry of all newspapers is truth. In the seeking of this, and when found even at the hot end of the well, it should be guarded with a boldness that knows no fear and a courage that knows no surrender."

An establishment for reeling silk is to be established in Oakland, Cal., and a tract of fifteen acres of land has been secured near Piedmont, which is to be set out with mulberry trees to feed the silk worms. The enterprise is at the expense of the government.

It is stated as a fact that when the Governor of Georgia gives a state dinner one course is always baked "possum. The Governor avers that roast pig is juiceless diet as compared with possum, and prophesies that 'possum breeding is a coming industry.

Clara Morris is a Canadian. She was born in Montreal thirty-five years ago. Having lost her father, she became a ballet-girl in the Cleveland Academy of Music in that city at fifteen, to support her mother. She rose so rapidly in her profession that at nineteen she was leading lady in one of the Cincinnati theatres. The year following she was engaged at Daly's.

The Glasgow Philosophical Society has demonstrated that at about 122 degrees below zero, Farenheit, the flesh of animals becomes so hard as to ring like porcelain when struck, and also to be capable of being crushed to a fine powder. Microbes, however, living in the flesh before freezing have been found alive when thawing took place, after an exposure of 200 hours to this intense cold.

The North has taken care of its own. It easily can, for it won. The South has neglected, and still neglects, those to whom it owes all that a people can owe to the dead. The obligation is the more binding because we lost, and because, therefore, to individuals and societies and not to Governments must our fallen brothers look for respect, and love, and remembrance.—Charleston News.

A new cereal is announced by the Rural New Yorker, which, two years ago, produced a hybrid between wheat and the new grain, being very distinct from either. Last year a further cross was effected upon those hybrids by using the pollen of rye, so that the resulting grain is three-quarters rye. The plants are remarkably vigorous and the seed large and still very distinct from those of rye.

Pittsburg, like Philadelphia, has some wealthy colored people, including John Gaither, with an estate worth $35,000, who fled from Louisiana forty years ago; Robert and Emanuel Jackson, prosperous business men, who inherited $40,000 from their father, a slave; "Uncle" John Turley, whose wealth is put at $80,000; Mrs. William Jones, a widow of Allegheny, with a fortune of $60,000, and George Knox and his wife, who own property valued at $75,000.

Roscoe Conkling walks up Broadway every evening between 6 and 7 o'clock. He has a queer swing of the legs dated 1873, a sort of loose-jointed movement. Above the waist his proportions and carriage are those of an athlete. Below the waist he thinks more distinctly as if the power that propelled them was exerted at random. Conkling grows gray. There are few dark hairs now in either his close-cropped hair or carefully-trimmed whiskers. He still likes occasionally to don the boxing-gloves.

It is stated as a curious fact that when the late Empress of Russia was stopping with her daughter, the Duchess of Edinburgh, with a large suite, the Duke gave her to understand that he could not afford to entertain her, and he should be obliged if, on her departure, she would order the comptroller of the suite to pay an adequate sum for the expenses of her visit. At the moment of departure, after tea had been taken, the Duke of Edinburgh drew a paper from his pocket, on which he had noted down the estimated expenses of the Russian Empress, and he added the cost of the tea.

A Carson, Nev., man has gone and invented a machine to avoid the anti-treating law, which has been a dead failure thus far. A huge chunk of ice is slung in the centre of a revolving table, and beverages, beer, whisky, etc., are placed all over it. The citizens draw up their chairs all around, call for their drinks, and the game commences by the twirling of the revolving wheel or table. Whatever stops in front of each one's chair he must drink, and whoever fails to do so has the whole circle to pay for. The excitement grows more and more intense as the game progresses, and many a substantial Carsonite goes home to bed drunk.—San Francisco Alta.

Here is information regalant and interesting. The following is given by the Pall Mall Gazette as the ages of the well-known women named. The figures were obtained from a careful study of the dates contained in a recently-published English biographical dictionary: Miss Adam, 49; Mary Anderson, 26; Sarah Bernhardt, 41; Mrs. Besant, 38; Rosa Bonheur, 63; Miss Braddon, 48; Miss Gordon Cumming, 48; Lady Eastlake, 65; Empress Eugenie, 59; Emily Faithfull, 56; Mrs. Gladstone, 75; Julia Ward Howe, 66; Mme. de Novikoff, 43; Jenny Lind, 64; Pauline Lucca, 45; Helen Modjeska, 41; Florence Nightingale, 65; Christine Nilsson, 42; Mrs. Oliphant, 57; Ouida, 45; Adelina Patti, 42; Christina Rossetti, 55; Ellen Terry, 37; Mrs. Weldon, 48; Mrs. Henry Wood, 65.

Sunset Cox knows the value of advertisement. He went to the White House one day lately with the draft of a little letter in his pocket. "Mr. President," he said, "it would help the sale of my book very much if you were to write a few lines saying it is so and so; something pleasant, you understand." The President looked perplexed. "Why," said he, "I haven't seen it. I don't know what it contains, what——" "Never mind that," replied Mr. Cox, "I can tell you in a minute what the general drift——" "But," argued the President, "I don't know what to say." "Well, if you will simply write something like this, for instance,"—and Mr. Cox pulled the draft of the letter out of his pocket—"I will be satisfied. The President at first wished to sign only the statement prepared by the author of the "Three Decades," but Mr. Cox insisted that the whole statement should be in Mr. Cleveland's handwriting. And he carried his point.

Anecdotes of Grant.

Grant had no fear of responsibility, no fear of Secretary Stanton. I never knew him to show fear of anything. In September, 1864, while at Harper's Ferry returning from a visit to Sheridan, he learned that Wade Hampton had slipped in rear of the left flank of the army of the Potomac and carried off some pine-bed 2,500 head. When Secretary Stanton heard of the loss of the cattle he wanted somebody's scalp and telegraphed: "Who is responsible for the loss of the cattle herd?" To which Grant replied, "I am." There was no "hair raised" that time. For several days afterward the "rebs," with much "mooing" and "bowing," frequently called out, "Hello, Yanks, don't you want some beef?" While this was going on the "odd man" would jokingly say, "I have the best commissary in the army; he not only feeds my army but that of the enemy also." It was only a few months after this that he directed the same officer at Appomattox to feed Gen. Lee's famishing army. When shortly after this Sheridan made a big haul of stock in "the valley," Grant felt better. Though the animals were not so large nor in such good condition as ours, they were in such numbers and of such size as to stop Johnny Reb's mouth. On the morning of the day the army captured Petersburg Grant stopped to write a dispatch, leaning against one of the few fences left standing, near a house, the upper part of which had been abandoned by the women and children. These had taken refuge in the cellar, and were crying from fear as the house was being pelted by the confederate artillery. The writer stood near the general, thinking between shots that it was no place for him, but not seeing how he could leave while the lieutenant was composing his dispatch. When Grant had finished his dispatch, looking round and apparently appreciating for the first time what a hot place he was in, he quietly said: "I see no use in staying here," and moved off, very closely followed by his staff, to a place where the unscreened sun could feel cooler.—Cor. Boston Traveler.

The Farewell Symphony.

In 1761, Haydn was appointed capellmeister to Prince Esterhazy, a wealthy Austrian noble. His patron owned a beautiful country-seat, which, in addition to its natural beauties, included two theaters for musical recreations, and so lovely was the spot that the Prince arrived there early in spring and staid until the end of autumn. It made the members of the orchestra very unhappy to be so long away from their families, and Haydn, who had plenty of leisure for composition and numerous enough to perform his works, was the only happy one. He loved and sympathized with the men, and at last he wrote for them his "Farewell Symphony." They were very home-sick, and, as the Prince showed no signs of leaving, Haydn hit upon this novel plan to make him return. In this Farewell symphony the instruments, one by one, cease playing, as if in performance in his Prince's theater, as soon as a musician stopped, he left the stage. The Prince showed his appreciation of the music and the joke by returning to Vienna and allowing the musicians to return to their homes.—Agatha Tunis, in St. Nicholas for June.

A Durham, N. C., tobacco factory sends five thousand cigarettes to all church fairs that it hears of.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN } ss.
County of Charlevoix. }

In the matter of the estate of David N. Tillapaugh, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned, administrator of the estate of David N. Tillapaugh, deceased, by the Hon. Judge of Probate for the county of Charlevoix, on the third day of August, A. D. 1885, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the residence of the village of Charlevoix, in said county, in said State, on Saturday, the 26th day of December, A. D. 1885, at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, subject to all incumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of the death of said deceased, and also subject to the right of dower now of the widow of said deceased, the following described real estate, to-wit:

All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate and being in the township of Melmore, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, described as follows, viz: The south half of the southeast quarter (s½ of se¼) of section eleven (11), containing eighty (80) acres more or less, and the southwest quarter (sw¼) of the southeast quarter (¼ of section number five (5), containing forty (40) acres more or less, both description of land being in township number thirty-four (34) north of range seven (7) west.

Dated November 6th, A. D. 1885.

ALFRED P. HEASLEY,
Administrator.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
Upright & Horizontal Addition,
Charlevoix.

HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Hanger,
And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

ANOTHER INVOICE
JUST RECEIVED.

SILVERWARE
CLOCKS,
JEWELRY.

C. R. BELLINGER.

Cures in 3 DAYS. Guaranteed not to injure the system. Sold only by the Peck Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. We cordially recommend your Kidney remedy to the Medical Profession and Users. We keep said remedy in our Stores. Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00. Albert A. Lich. Buffalo, N. Y.

For Sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

The New York

Weekly World

IS THE

Best Democratic Weekly Newspaper Published in the East.

CLUBBED WITH

The Charlevoix Journal

FOR

$2.00 per Year, $1.10 for Six Months, Cash in Advance.

Sample Copies at this Office.

The Grand Rapids

Daily Democrat,

The Leading Newspaper of Western Michigan.

ENLARGED AND IMPROVED.

Sent by mail at 50 cents per month.

WOOD WANTED.

Two or three loads of good block wood wanted at this office immediately.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Nov. 12, 1885.

Provision Market.

Good prices to consumers, corrected every Wednesday evening, by LUNGHURST & EMREY, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Flour, per bbl. $3.25, $3.75, and $4.00.
Corn Meal, per cwt., boiled $2.00; unbolted $1.90.
Hay, per ton $9.00.
Oats, per bu. 30@35.
Wheat, Red or White, per bu., $1.00@1.05.
Beans, per bu. 80c.
Potatoes, per bu. 20@25.
Butter, per lb. 21@22c.
Eggs, per doz. 20c.
Pork, per lb. 5@6c.
Ham, per lb. 11@12c.
Shoulders, per lb. 8@9c.
Lard, per lb. 5@6c.
Tallow, per lb. 3@4c.
Chickens, per lb. 8@10c.
Turkeys, per lb. 10@12c.
Apples, per bu. 25@30c.
Onions, per bu. 40@50c.
Cabbage, per doz. 50@75c.
Hides, per lb. 3@4c.
Wood, per cord, $3.00@4.00.
Lumber, per M. $10@12.
Shingles, per M. $2.50@3.00.
Wool, per lb. 25@30c.
Wood Ashes, per bu. 15@20c.
Salt, per bbl. $1.00.
Salt, per sack, $1.00.
Water Lime, per bbl. Legal Ton.
Plaster, per ton $8 in demand.

Fresh and Cured Meats.

Dressed pork, veal, lamb and mutton, Boned hams, Smoked sides, Boiled ham, Sausages, Lunch tongue, Pickled pigs feet, Tongues.

WANTED SOME CASH.

During the past two weeks we have got to raise about one hundred dollars in cash and would like all who owe us a bill on their subscription to do so.

The Charlevoix Market cannot be undersold by any one. You can buy cheaper of us than from any farmer, at a wages that comes to town, but you must bring your cash. No more accounts will be made after this week.

Now is the time to buy a hat. Lunghurst & Emrey have five dozen left yet to close, which they are closing out at 50 per cent discount.

Just received,—cottons, prints, lonsdales, baseline, jerseys, hosiery, notions, etc., at Upright & Emrey.

Parties having potatoes to sell will find it to their advantage to call at Upright and Emrey's.

Cedar and pine shingles for sale by Upright & Emrey.

Fresh Oysters at Jefferies' market.

Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

Court at East Jordan next week.

Nichols' mill is expected to close this week.

Ben Weaver's house is ready for the plasterers.

J. L. Newberry, of Petoskey, was in town Tuesday.

Smith Campbell is building a new house on the south terrace.

Geo. Darance, of Muscodona, visited his friends in Charlevoix this week.

Eugene R. Savage was appointed postmaster at Muscelona on Monday.

Mrs. M. J. Stockman is visiting friends in Muscodona, Ohio, this week.

A J. McLeod and wife returned home last Saturday from their eastern trip.

The tow-cent tea at the M. E. church last night netted over $10 for the ladies.

The outside work on the basement of W. C. Newman's house is nearly completed.

A J. McLeod was appointed, on Tuesday, deputy U. S. Marshal for Charlevoix.

The machinery for the new mill arrived Wednesday morning on the Champlain.

Mrs. L. E. Allen and daughter are on a visit with Mrs. Allen's parents in Aurora, Ohio.

The Lelanau Enterprise is to be changed from a seven column folio to a five column quarto.

E. K. Brown arrived Saturday to spend a few weeks with the family of his son, W. P. Brown.

About 100 volumes of books have arrived for the township library, and will be ready for delivery on Friday.

The people have confidence in the democratic administration, if it is only eight months old.—Big Rapids Herald.

The sidewalk in front of the new mill has been lowered about two feet to correspond with the front entrance, and make a level drive way from Bridge street.

Mr. W. B. Bacon, of Escanaba, is visiting his brother H. Bacon, in Charlevoix, and will probably remain for the winter.

The Lottie Mason arrived in port Sunday with a cargo of grain for the new mill.—1,500 bushels of corn and 400 bushels of oats.

Frank Whitford's boy, four years old, fell on Wednesday from the second story of a new house through the joist, breaking his right leg.

J. L. Newberry has put a stone wall under his house on Main street, built a new sidewalk, and will paint and make other improvements.

Don't fail to attend the young people's meeting at the M. E. church next Tuesday evening. An unusually interesting exercise is being prepared.

Geo. Shapton's barn, containing over 800 bushels of grain, and about 18 tons of hay, burned early Monday morning. Loss $2,000; insurance $750.

At the M. E. church next Sunday, there will be preaching in the morning. Mrs. M. M. Johnson will speak at night. Song service at 7 o'clock, Saturday evening.

We are a little short of help this week (the right kind of help), and the JOURNAL will not contain the usual amount of fresh local until we get finally settled in our new quarters.

J. W. Glass, superintendent of construction of the Bell Telephone Co., for the western district, and G. W. Cromter of the Charlevoix exchange, inspected the lines and offices in this county last week, to prepare for winter.

Allen & Hastings have purchased H. Mitchell's planer, which will be put into their new machine shop in South Arm. They will put up a foundry in the spring, and will do a general foundry and machine business.—Enterprise.

In his recent trip south, Dan Jerome bought a number of fine horses to replenish his livery, and he finds it a good investment, having them employed nearly all the time carrying passengers and baggage to and from Boyne Falls.

The democrats have solid reason to feel happy over Tuesday's results, which lovely summed up means an emphatic endorsement of the democratic administration, and a scathing rebuke to republicans of the John Sherman "bloody shirt" gang.—Big Rapids Herald.

Last Tuesday evening the young people had a fine time at their meeting in the M. E. church. Next Tuesday there will be a mock trial of King Alcohol, three bringing out all the good it has done and three taking the opposite side. All are cordially invited to come and here it.

We are pleased to announce to our readers this week that C. G. Lewis, of Boyne City, removes to East Jordan in the very near future. He will occupy Louis Votruba's new store building on State street with a stock of gent's furnishing goods and lumberman's supplies.—Enterprise.

J. S. Smithson, of Chicago, has a tract of 30,000 acres of land in Kansas, and when he was here this week to inspect his new summer cottage, he left plans for estimates on the construction of 50 cottages to be got out here ready for erection and shipped to his Kansas estate. This will make a good winter's business for the boys.

J. S. Smithson, of Chicago, was here on Wednesday, inspecting his new cottage. He reports everything in good shape, and the work of the contractors entirely satisfactory. The door panels are to be hand painted with landscapes by members of his family, and will no doubt be very attractive. Next season he expects to come over in May and remain till November.

The schooner Marguaneett arrived this morning loaded with goods for the store.

Frank Noyes was home on a visit last Sunday.

The druggist of Ironton got badly left last Sunday night on account of the wind. Better hunt up a stray pony next time, J. M., instead of going in a mill boat.

The young ladies of Ironton have organized a sewing society under the name of the Willing Workers of the Congregational church. They meet every Saturday afternoon.

There is to be a debate in the school house next Tuesday evening. all are invited.

Ironton Schools.

The following is a list of the names of those pupils who have not been absent or tardy during the half month ending Oct. 30th, 1885:

Grammar department—F. Wm. Howe, Walter Bird, Hattie Cater, Cassie Box, Louzona Box, Katie Smith, Katie Besser, Lewis Hammond, Daisy Allen, Mary Knutson.

Primary department—Mary Harris, Frank Box, Ella Frizzell, Anna Frizzell, Henning Frizzell, Emma Bird, Netta Jackson, Grace Garland, Geo. Garland, Mary Boyer, Chas. Vaughn, Mary Vaughn, Celia Sanburn, Rosy Sanburn, Martha Sanburn, Willie McQueer, Arthur McQueer, Bertie Couzens, Peter Knutson, John Bar, Hugh King, Jarva Cater.

T. H. HOWE,
Principal.

To Our Readers.

We cannot too strongly urge upon our readers the necessity of subscribing for a family weekly newspaper of the first class—such, for instance, as The Independent, of New York. We we object to select one publication for habitual and careful reading to the exclusion of all others, we should choose unhesitatingly The Independent. It is a newspaper, magazine, and review, all in one. It is a religious, a literary, an educational, a story, an art, a scientific, an agricultural, a financial, and a political paper combined. It has 32 folio pages and 22 departments. No matter what a person's religion, politics or profession may be, no matter what the age, sex, employment, or condition may be, The Independent will prove a help, an instructor, an educator. Our readers can do no less than to send a postal for a free specimen copy, or for thirty cents the paper will be sent a month, enabling one to judge of its merits more critically. Its yearly subscription is $3.00, or two years for $5.00.

Address, The Independent, 251 Broadway, New York City.

Do you want an eastern paper? The New York Weekly World is one of the best democratic newspapers in the United States. Furnished with the JOURNAL for only $2.00 per year.

When in want of any kind of Clothing, call on or address the new stock just opened at this office.

Hard Times.

While money is close, wages and prices low Consumers are looking for economy in household affairs, the watch word for thrifty, level headed housewives, is always keeping in the house, a bottle of Dr. Bonsacker's Cough and Lung Syrup Stops a Cough instantly, relieves Consumption, cures Croup and pain in the Chest in one night. It is just the remedy for hard times. Price 25 cts., and $1.00. Samples Free. Sold by A. Crozier.

J. L. HURD & CO.

DRY GOODS.

We offer a large invoice of woolen goods, dress goods, underwear, hosiery, flannels, etc. Suitable for winter wear.

These goods were bought at bottom figures during the summer, and before the late advance in values, which at present is from 15 to 20 per cent.

We shall give our trade the entire benefit of our fortunate purchases. Now is the time to lay in Winter Supplies cheaper than goods have ever before been offered. Do not expend a dollar before at least looking over our Stock and Prices.

CLOAKS. CLOAKS.

We are showing an elegant new line of Cloaks at fully one third lower prices than last season.

TEAS.

MAYFLOWER TEA.—OUR OWN IMPORTATION. Another Invoice of Spring packings just received. The only strictly pure uncolored Japan Tea in the market.

A few weeks ago we placed on sale 25 chests of new 50 cent Japan Tea at THIRTY-FIVE cents, just for fun. Only a few packages of this Tea are left, and we shall hereafter limit the quantity to 5 pounds. Not more than 5 pounds sold to any one buyer.

We desire to return thanks to our many friends, for their liberal patronage of the past year. OUR SALES for the past month were ONE THIRD GREATER than for the corresponding time last year. With a gratifying increase of business we are satisfied with a very small profit margin.

J. L. HURD & CO.

SCHOOL BOOK DEPOT.

School Bags, School Books, Slates, Pencils, Pens, Ink, Rulers, Blank Books, Teachers' Registers,

AND IN FACT

Every Article Used in the School Room.

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need a good blood purifier, cleanse and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unsolved. Five pounds 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Cronter & Harris, Ironton. 92-143

The price of "HERCE" POOREY'S DEMOCRAT is $2.00 a year. By an arrangement with the publisher we can furnish it with the JOURNAL for $2.65 per year, cash in advance.

The Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present. Constipation, uneasiness of the stomach, with a variable appetite, are attended by a very disagreeable feature, which no one should shun, is a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Swanke's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, allays the tumor, stops the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Send by mail. 1-92

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix, and vicinity, especially the residents of the southwestern part of Iowa, and all coming to from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED.

GET THE BEST

If your neighbors want a clean, handsome, weekly newspaper, giving all the latest and most complete news from all parts of country, have them send 25 cents for this paper two months, $1.00 per year, or any three months for six months, $1.00 per year. Address,

The Charlevoix Journal,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

A GIFT Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free a gift, a valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money at work than anything else in America. Both sexes; all ages. Any one can easily make $5 to $10 and upwards at the time. Capital not required. We will start you. Immense pay for those who start at once. TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine. 1-92

Farm for Sale or Exchange.

One hundred acres of the best farming land, 40 acres improved, over 40 apple trees bearing, good buildings, seven miles from Ithaca. Will be sold cheap for cash, or will exchange for city property. Now further particulars address A. CROUTER, Charlevoix, Mich.

organized a sewing society under the name of the Willing Workers of the Congregational church. They meet every Saturday afternoon.

There is to be a debate in the school house next Tuesday evening. all are invited.

Ironton Schools.

The following is a list of the names of those pupils who have not been absent or tardy during the half month ending Oct. 30th, 1885:

Grammar department—F. Wm. Howe, Walter Bird, Hattie Cater, Cassie Box, Louzona Box, Katie Smith, Katie Besser, Lewis Hammond, Daisy Allen, Mary Knutson.

Primary department—Mary Harris, Frank Box, Ella Frizzell, Anna Frizzell, Henning Frizzell, Emma Bird, Netta Jackson, Grace Garland, Geo. Garland, Mary Boyer, Chas. Vaughn, Mary Vaughn, Celia Sanburn, Rosy Sanburn, Martha Sanburn, Willie McQueer, Arthur McQueer, Bertie Couzens, Peter Knutson, John Bar, Hugh King, Jarva Cater.

T. H. HOWE,
Principal.

Ohio went out of the October business just in time. Tuesday's election in New York and Virginia showed that her influence over other states had passed away. If she had defeated the constitutional amendment and were to hold an October election again in 1886 she would gain nothing by it. Neither party would select its candidate with reference to the probability of carrying or losing Ohio in the preliminary struggle. Her glory has departed and it is just as well that she abandons the pretense of glory.—Free Press.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need a good blood purifier, cleanse and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unsolved. Five pounds 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Cronter & Harris, Ironton. 92-143

The price of "HERCE" POOREY'S DEMOCRAT is $2.00 a year. By an arrangement with the publisher we can furnish it with the JOURNAL for $2.65 per year, cash in advance.

The Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present. Constipation, uneasiness of the stomach, with a variable appetite, are attended by a very disagreeable feature, which no one should shun, is a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Swanke's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, allays the tumor, stops the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Send by mail. 1-92

MAKING UP AFTER A QUARREL.

Four hands locked in fingers in white disdain;
Two souls with tenfold anthem in at stake;
And one soft word, half whispered, half in spoken,
Lo! they have passed from war to peace, through love's lists!

The hands that lent as one have learned to pray;
The tongues, whereby they two have come to speak,
Lone's chord in parfait for danger of their sweet rain.
They know not of a silent silence 'mid the chord
Yet sure, for souls in tune, the chord is sweet.
When, 'tis meet to make from both thy lips
Love.
And six each other a lips their anger dies,
Long has passed her golden hair is loosed,
And to his arms he clasps his lifelong mate.

GOLDEN FETTERS.

By Eben E. Rexford.

Celia Jane Warfield walked slowly down the orchard path, thinking. The wind from the valley, sweeping up this hill, bringing to her the scents of the late flowering clover from the meadow by the brook. Now and then an apple dropped from the branches of the gnarled old tree about her, and lodged in the long grass, forced by the hand of September until all its freshness had departed, or a crow had touched it, such a blighted thing positively overhead, as it sorrowing the summer's going. But it was one of those things she thought.

"I wish I knew what to do," she said to herself, as she went slowly down the hane. "It is so hard to choose between the man I love, who is poor, and the man I do not love, who is rich. But the choice must be made, and I must make it now. If I could only see Aunt Rebecca a little, I could know what to do. Would she be most happiness?"

Her father died when she was a little girl. Her father supported his family in style out of all proportion to his income, and when he died he left no money. Therefore, when she married, the man of her choice must have wealth to enable her to go on in fashionable life.

"Aunt Marsh is rich," she said, thinking of the man her father wanted her to marry. But the thought did not bring a pressed look into her face. It brought her a vision of an old, gray-haired man for whom she could have nothing but respect, and perhaps her little of that. Celia Jane, I fear, did not set much by other she because the old man's wife. He is rich, and can give me all that wealth can give. Robert Moore has nothing but his own manliness, and a great love for me. Oh, he knows! That love might be more to a woman than wealth and position. Love makes a home, makes me wavering and weak. If Robert Moore asks me, I may have Aunt Rebecca's money. Then how easily my conscience will be made. Things are never as they ought to be in this world.

The hard frame her back on a vacant lot, she had strayed with Lily. Why couldn't she have the man she loved, and the money of the man she did not love?

She heard a little whistle down the lane, and the sound of it brought a brighter glow to her face than the exercise of walking had given it. It made her heart beat a little faster.

"Why, oh, why, must I give up this great happiness?" she cried, thinking of what her life would be if she married Mr. Moore was also out of it. That question, asked of herself, answered her heart. She knew that she had drifted into make up her mind to have her love, or to be miserable. Perhaps she had hardly admitted it as yet. Perhaps she had been trying to put about what she had in the shape of a lot, like most of us, she had liked to have her cake and eat it, too, as the saying goes in plain speech.

"Good-morning," called out a pleasant voice, and a young man sprang over the orchard wall and joined her.

She made room for the visitor in the broad path, but she was silent for some time. The sight of Robert Moore's bright face made her weaker than ever. It set her heart to clamoring for that which she had resolved to deny it, and it seemed to her that a world would have emptied here.

"Perhaps I am intruding," he said presently. "I wouldn't have come if I thought I was disturbing you.

"I am glad you did come," she said, at last, "I wanted to say something to you that might hurt pleasure to hold now than by and by. Perhaps it ought to have said it long ago."

He looked at her inquiringly. He saw that her face was grave, that eyes had a pained look in them. He felt a sudden fear for a great shock. But she had declared to him on end to everything between them, at once and forever. There was no use in dallying with the matter. The sooner she told him the truth, the better it would be for both of them.

"Mr. Moore," she said, when they came to a little knoll at the end of the lane. "We can have our talk out here without any one's disturbing us."

He sat down, looking up at her in a perplexed way. He had never seen her in this mood before.

She broke a branch of golden-red from the sumach-bush near the stile, and, as she her fingers thousand slowly apart. She had a great deal to say, but hardly knew how to say it.

"I think I shall go back to the city in a day or two," she said at last, her eyes and look at him once, but kept her eyes on the purple hills and thought, with a swift, keen pain, of what life might look for her if this man could go through it by her side. Now that she had decided to speak, the cruel words of doom, the happiness she was rejecting seemed dearer, sweeter—more worth having than ever before.

"I know you would be going soon," he said. "But—I am face lighted up with pleasant anticipation—I shall see you before long. I shall spend the winter in the city, and I shall hope to see you often, and show you how known you have she called to go, for I will know that you are there will be an incentive to work that I have never felt before. In you think I would deny her constantly after you are gone?

She did not answer. It seemed to her that she could not. He would be near her. She would see him often, perhaps. There was a dangerous pleasure in the thought. But it must not be. He must be made to understand that henceforth there ways lay apart.

"There is something I have wanted to tell you in waves that I think you understand plainly enough, I fancy," he said. "I may as well tell it now—there is no use in waiting. Do you guess what it is I have to say?"

He looked into her face and half an eager tenderness in his eyes. He was sure he knew what the had to tell, and she was sure he was enough to prevent her telling it. Though she knew what her answer would be if it would be pleasant to hear him say, "I love you." She was free enough to let him say it.

"I love you, I ask you to be my wife in and lay, I am stations in life are different, and the prejudices of society might lend some to say I was presuming, but to my mind no honest man presumes towards who loves a woman and asks her to share his lot and life. Love makes all equal. Birth or no; love makes nothing to do with it. Since I love you, and, as I believe, you love me, I put all false delicacy, all deference to the opinion of others, entirely out of the question, and ask you to be my wife. Not now, not till I have proved myself, I hope, worthy of something for your sake, but shall give you the opportunity of that hereafter. I can work hard when I feel the incentive of love urging me on. I can wait till you are willing to come to me, if only you tell me to do so."

She listened with averted face. What a give. He wondered more than once if the father pressed more lightly now because he was a golden rule.

[illegible]

Five years went by. Three years wonderful years changes in their passage. They passed swiftly. To Celia Jane, at least, they seemed dreamed of. The thriving Western land known, too, that it was her duty to put an end to the intimacy between them while it was possible to do so, and save him from the cruelest pain it had ever felt. But she had found it piteous to deal with the tender and dreams than to be true woman. Celia Jane loved him she had thought never of her own selfish pleasure than of the pain she truly knew would be in his life at last.

"How's a young of letters to you" sung out one, late twilight, as he passed him. "Are you down to the postoffice?"

"Here's a letter for you," he threw them gave the mail to her, gave the other one to Robert Moore, and went on to the house chuckling over the interrupted whistle, that he told his mother about, as he sat on the doorstep somewhat bowed and intent.

Fashioning Wendell took up the letters and read them thoroughly. One was from her father, telling her that John Marsh had asked permission to propose marriage to her.

"I have given my approval, and trust you understand the advantages of such a marriage. Aunt Rebecca is failing fast, and the money is her to propose," he wrote.

Celia Jane's face was flushed when she looked up from her letter. Your father tells me you are coming home soon," he said. "I have a letter, too, from Aunt Rebecca. "If you accept my proposal I will leave all and marry the man you love, and accompany you home. It may be an old man's whim, but I have the money to do it, and I want it first, but I know that could not be which I may say for you, and I think you will not refuse me the pleasure a gratification of this kind. If I can make you happy I would give me.

Celia Jane Wadell's lip curled a little with contempt as she read this. To marry an old man who had enough to spend in gratification was worse. This letter is from the man I love dearly," she said, suddenly, as she was sitting on a pretty dressing-gown he knew, but not yet made. "Perhaps you will know what it makes the final picture. She did not look at him, but she felt the color come to her face, and her eyes dimmed, for the words hurt her cruelly. Perhaps it was a very cruel thing to do, but the only cruel here was the fatal error. Known.

He heard her voice sink to a low tone, "she wrote to me that I ought to be ashamed of myself for the wrong I had done you, and that I ought to make it up to you by marrying you. I have not seen her since I left her, and I know nothing of her feelings, but I know that I love you, and I ask you to be my wife. Will you?"

Celia Jane looked at him with a look in her eyes he had never seen before, and a little smile curved her lips. Then she drew a long breath, and spoke in a low, tremulous voice, as if the words were hard to utter.

"I have given my promise to another."

He sat as one stunned by a blow, and looked at her with a look of pain in his eyes that she could never forget. The moment was one of bitterness to him. He looked at her, as he saw in her face the signs of a struggle with himself, and felt that she was doing what she thought was right, and that the sacrifice was for his good, and he loved her the more for it. He was sorry for her, too, for he knew that she was suffering, and he was sorry for himself, for he had lost the woman he had loved with all the strength of his nature, and he was sorry for Robert Moore, who had lost the woman he had loved with the strength of his nature, and he was sorry for the man she was to marry, who could never be to her what he might have been if he had not been a fool.

"Celia Jane," he said, at last, "I am sorry for you, and I am sorry for myself, and I am sorry for Robert Moore, and I am sorry for the man you are to marry, and I am sorry for everything you know, and everything wrong. I wonder if anything ever sets things right?"

"Yes, truth and time never fail set wrongs sooner or later, but it we ignore them the skin of the gash into such a hopeless tangle that we never straighten it in many threads.

"Time does come," said John Marsh, smoothing the woman whose hand had been purchased by his money, and who was a cold, shivering creature with Miss Wadell, and smiled at the remark. "I have found it true in my case, and I wonder if it will be true in yours, and if I can make you happy in spite of the wrong I did you, when the diverging paths have grown so far apart."

"I have every confidence in the future of our married life," she said, with a very great effort, and the pleasure in this opinion of the wife, if you think it will make you happy, I would give me.

Celia Jane Wadell's lip curled a little with contempt as she read this. To marry an old man who had enough to spend in gratification was worse. This letter is from the man I love dearly," she said, suddenly, as she was sitting on a pretty dressing-gown he knew, but not yet made. "Perhaps you will know what it makes the final picture. She did not look at him, but she felt the color come to her face, and her eyes dimmed, for the words hurt her cruelly. Perhaps it was a very cruel thing to do, but the only cruel here was the fatal error. Known.

He heard her voice sink to a low tone, "she wrote to me that I ought to be ashamed of myself for the wrong I had done you, and that I ought to make it up to you by marrying you. I have not seen her since I left her, and I know nothing of her feelings, but I know that I love you, and I ask you to be my wife. Will you?"

Celia Jane looked at him with a look in her eyes he had never seen before, and a little smile curved her lips. Then she drew a long breath, and spoke in a low, tremulous voice, as if the words were hard to utter.

"I have given my promise to another."

He sat as one stunned by a blow, and looked at her with a look of pain in his eyes that she could never forget. The moment was one of bitterness to him. He looked at her, as he saw in her face the signs of a struggle with himself, and felt that she was doing what she thought was right, and that the sacrifice was for his good, and he loved her the more for it. He was sorry for her, too, for he knew that she was suffering, and he was sorry for himself, for he had lost the woman he had loved with all the strength of his nature, and he was sorry for Robert Moore, who had lost the woman he had loved with the strength of his nature, and he was sorry for the man she was to marry, who could never be to her what he might have been if he had not been a fool.

"Celia Jane," he said, at last, "I am sorry for you, and I am sorry for myself, and I am sorry for Robert Moore, and I am sorry for the man you are to marry, and I am sorry for everything you know, and everything wrong. I wonder if anything ever sets things right?"

"Yes, truth and time never fail set wrongs sooner or later, but if we ignore them the skin of the gash into such a hopeless tangle we never straighten it in many threads.

"Time does come, John Marsh

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. C. V. Cook.
First Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Gidings.
Third Vice President—Mrs. C. F. Van Aiken.
Recording Secretary—Miss Ella E. Lovejoy.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. E. Stifield.
Treasurer—Mrs. G. J. Strang.

What "Rum" is Doing.

Take up the daily paper and read the reports of the cuttings, stabbings, shootings, riots, assaults, wife-beatings, and all the other infractions of peace and good order, and ninety per cent of the sum total will be found to be occasioned directly by rum.

Go through your poor-houses and you will find that ninety per cent of the inmates were brought there directly by rum.

Go through your jails and penitentiaries and you will find that ninety per cent of the criminals were made so directly by rum.

Look over the list of executions for murder and you will find that ninety per cent of the food for the gallows was furnished directly by rum.

Make inquiry as to the cause of separations of husbands and wives, and domestic troubles generally, and you will find that ninety per cent of it all may be charged directly to rum.

Scan the corruption in government, in matters, the cases of mal-administration, corruption in elections and all that is undermining purity in government, and you will find that ninety per cent of it is chargeable directly to rum.

In brief, sum up all there is of brutality, violence, leggery, crime, and corruption, more than ninety per cent of the awful aggregate may be charged directly to rum.

Rum is the one agency that is undermining humanity, it is the one influence that makes the work of the church of no avail; it is the one agency that kills the good effect of education; it is the one weapon which the devil wields that is irresistible; the one agency that stands in opposition to everything that is good and fosters everything that is evil. It is death to the family, to business, to society, to government, and to the school and the church. It tears down faster than all agencies for good can build up.

There is crime and pauperism just in proportion as there are liquor shops. There is corruption in politics exactly in proportion to the amount of rum consumed. The cities, with their miles of rum shops, are plundered and tax-ridden, and the only salvation for the states containing them is the country, which is free from its demoralizing influence. Where rum is, votes can be purchased, and a rum purchased vote was never yet cast for a good object.

With these ghastly facts staring every decent man in the face, we are asked to let rum alone. It is with rum as it was with slavery, it is the one thing that must not be touched. Its right to go on debauching men and boys and demoralizing the world must not be questioned. Its right to kill men, to wreck boys, and ruin girls must not be touched. There is not a family in the United States that has not this danger constantly hovering over it. There are millions of dollars invested in a business the profits of which depend upon the number of boys that can be ruined annually. The vast financial structure is based upon the ruin of men. The more drunkards the interest can make the greater its profits, and as there is no limit to human cupidity, so there is no limit to its efforts in this direction.—Toledo Blade.

Mr. Cooper's Offer.

It is not every minister who would offer to pay the year's public expenses of a whole New England city. Yet that is what Rev. James B. Cooper, of New Britain Conn., is just reported to have done—on one condition! If the people of New Britain, he said, would stop drinking for one year, and give him the money, he would pay all the city taxes for them, including street, sewer, water, police, gas and electric light charges. He would also pay the school tax, doubling the salaries of the teachers, and building a new high-school building and a new house for the Young Men's Christian Association. Next he would pay off the whole city's indebtedness ($320,000), and throw in a barrel of flour to every poor family, and a suit of clothes to every needy person in town. Mr. Cooper's offer is still open; but at latest advices the citizens had not accepted it.—S. S. Times.

CASH CLUB RATES.

Those of our readers who want a city paper for the coming year can be accommodated by the JOURNAL'S club list. To get the benefit of these reduced rates, all arrears must be paid to date of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

Price.	With the Journal.
At we Detroit Weekly Free Press	$2 00
1 we New York Weekly World	2 00
2 we Pomeroy's Democrat	2 60
75 Inter-Ocean, weekly	1 75
1 we Chicago Weekly Herald	2 00
1 we The Cottage Hearth (monthly)	2 25

Sample Copies furnished on application.

THOROUGHLY TRIED.

After many years of experience in my own family and upon my horses and cattle I am constrained to say that Parmelee's Universal Liniment is the most complete remedy for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, lame back, sore throat, &c., in the human family and of lame quarter, sweeny, ringbone, spavins, bruises, on horses; caked leg, sore teats &c., on cattle, that I have ever known and take pleasure in recommending to others. Large bottles 50 c, common size 25 c.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

WHY SUFFER?

With dyspepsia when Parmelee's dyspepsia, diabetes, kidney and liver cure will work wonders, relieving you at once. Do not wait till dyspepsia has overcome and diabetes has taken full possession of your body but remember that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This fine preparation will also tone up the kidneys and liver and cleanse the system of all impurities. Price $1.00 per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

DO YOU KNOW?

That the Horse and Cattle Powders prepared by E. M. Parmelee and compound of the very best and purest materials. Licorice, fenugreek, blood root, elecampane, for coughs, colds, epizootic, distemper, &c., sulphur, mandrake, gentian, sulph. magnesia for impure blood; besides many other ingredients especially adapted to the cure of colic, worms, heaves, and all diseases of horses, cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry. Buy no other. Full pounds only 35 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

A PRESENT.

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping, and names of two book agents, will receive free a novel worth ten times the money, being a full and fair Dividing Chronology, giving the Birth, Reign, Address Elder Pide, Cos., Chicago, Ill.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table to effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 35am	7 30pm
Fort Wayne, lv	6 30pm	1 40pm	2 30am
Fort Wayne, ar		2 40	3 40	6 00am
Kalamazoo, lv		5 46	6 06	12 20pm
Kalamazoo, lv		7 25	7 30	2 15
G'd Rapids, ar		9 20	9 30	4 10
G'd Rapids, lv	7 00am		11 00	5 00
Howard City, lv	8 25		12 45	6 15
Howard City, lv	7 35		12 55pm	6 24
Big Rapids, lv	9 19		2 35	7 18
Reed City, ar			3 05	7 50
Reed City, lv	9 55		3 20	8 05
Cadillac, ar	11 00		4 41	9 40
Cadillac, lv			5 51	9 45
Manistee, ar			8 00	12 00pm
Manistee, lv			3 34	12 10pm
Manistee, lv			5 30	12 00am
Mancelona			7 31	2 16
Petoskey, ar			8 16	3 00
Harbor Springs				4 00
Mackinaw City			9 50pm	5 25am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City		7 00am	9 00pm
Harbor Springs				10 00
Petoskey, lv		8 20	11 12
Bay View		8 35	11 30
Mancelona		10 03	12 56am
Kalkaska		10 37	1 28
Walton		11 22	2 16
Cadillac, ar		12 20pm	3 15
Cadillac, lv		12 35	6 10am	8 00pm
Reed City, lv		2 05	7 40	9 35
Reed City, lv		2 20	7 50	9 50
Big Rapids		2 44	8 08	9 28
Howard City, lv		3 45	9 05	10 25
HC H & Morley		4 05	10 15	10 15
HC H & Merrill		4 15	10 30	10 30
G'd Rapids, lv	5 45am	5 20	11 45
G'd Rapids, lv	9 05	7 55	2 40
Kalamazoo, ar	10 15	8 55	3 40
Kalamazoo, lv	10 40	11 20	5 30pm
Fort Wayne, ar	12 40pm	1 20	8 00pm
Fort Wayne, lv	1 30	12 20am		5 20am
Cincinnati, ar	7 00pm	7 55am		10 00pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, Agent
Grand Rapids, Mich.

The Independent

The Largest, the Ablest, the Best

RELIGIOUS AND LITERARY WEEKLY.

The most influential religious organ in the States.—The Spectator, London, Eng.

THE INDEPENDENT is one of the best papers in the world. Its good points are many, very many. Its faults are few, and so slight as to be almost lost sight of. Its editorial articles may be taken as the type of the best editorial of the day. Its contributors are the best. The Independent will show that its contents are marked by—

ABILITY, VARIETY, AND INTEREST.—The great thinkers, the great story-writers, the great poets, the great critics, the great men of the world generally are THE INDEPENDENT'S staff of contributors. Religion, philosophy, art, science, literature, travels, discoveries, stories, and all conceivable topics are embraced in the contents, and everybody, old or young, learned and unlearned, without regard to sect, religion or politics, will find something of special interest in it.

COMPREHENSIVENESS.—It is a religious, a literary, an educational, a science, an arts, a temperance, an agricultural, a financial, and a political journal.

TRUTHFULNESS, EARNESTNESS.—The Independent is tied to no party, is subject to the orders of no clique or party in state or church. It is free, therefore, to discuss all questions, and to speak its mind candidly. It is not swayed by fear or favor. It is a vigorous champion of temperance, of the purity of politics, of Christianity, or the fourth day of Sabbath observance, of the rights of the laboring man as well as the rights of capital, of the Bible as well as the reading age, free from everything of doubtful or objectionable character. No matter what a person's religion, politics, or profession may be, if he desires to keep abreast of the times, he should read what others are thinking of, the things that are being talked, and what the world at large is doing—he should read The Independent.

TERMS TO SUBSCRIBERS:

Three months	75	One year	$3 00
Four months	$1 00	Two years	5 00
Six months	1 50	Five years	10 00

Can any one make a better investment of $2.00 than $3.00 for one which will pay

52 Dividends During the Year?

Every intelligent family needs a good newspaper. It is a necessity for parents and children.

A good way to make the acquaintance of The Independent is to send 25 cents for a "Trial Trip" of a month.

SPECIMEN COPIES FREE.

No papers are sent to subscribers after the time paid for has expired.

A Club Rate and Premium Listing List will be sent free to any person asking for it. Any one wishing to subscribe for one or more papers or magazines, is requested to write to THE INDEPENDENT, you save money by ordering from our Club List. Address

THE INDEPENDENT,
P. O. Box 2787, New York.

J. MILO EATON,
DEALER IN
Real Estate
OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,
IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Random.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Random.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.
GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY
IRONTON, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES
KEEP YOUR ON THE Right Place
For Bargains in Hardware,
Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Doors, Sash, Paints Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm bells, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishing tackle, Revolvers, Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Tubs, Wooden ware, Rope, Fishermen's Supplies, and Ship chandlery, Job and Tin work.
L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

HENRY C. COOPER
Undertaker!
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings
Always in Stock.
Come and See my Stock of Furniture.
ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!
I have purchased the Stock of
Drugs, Chemicals,
STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.
of O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to so conduct the business as to merit a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and ask my prices.
PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,
Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

I have purchased the Meat business of Armstrong & Co., and will continue at the old stand, with the freshest and best goods in the market.
T. E. CHAMBERLIN.

$100 REWARD
FOR
Every Ounce of Adulteration
IN THE
U. G. Soap
The Great 5c Cake,
Made only by
GOWANS & STOVER,
BUFFALO, N. Y.
For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

"Facts to be Remembered."
NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO
is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more used than any other plug in the State. It is always in good order. NEVER TOO HARD AND NEVER SWELLS; GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION, and not a lot of it is ever returned. NIMROD IS THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER; and you can find it in your hands. You cannot buy of any other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.
S. W. VENABLE & CO.
Petersburg, Va.

Photographs!
I have leased my
New Photograph Gallery
OVER
UPRIGHT & EMREY'S & CO. SEC STORE,
And are prepared to do
All Kinds of Photographic Work,
From the Miniature Picture to Life Size
—
Any Old Picture Copied and Enlarged.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
DAVE HARBER,
Charlevoix, Mich.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 123. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN
Entered at the Postoffice at Charlevoix, Mich., as Second-class Matter.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING
DR. CROUTER'S
BAKING POWDER
Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.
If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.
It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.
It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops.
It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by
Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,
Chemist and Druggist,
BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

CROUGHANS & STRIER, Attorneys at Law and Solicitors in Admiralty. Office in Kotlar's Block, Muskegon, Mich.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate Business promptly attended to. REMOVED TO LAPEER.

H. L. ROBERTS, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

J. E. SEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judgeof Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OSCAR F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Solicitor Unites States Circuit Court Commissioner, Second District. East Jordan, Mich.

W. S. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Mich. Office over Bank.

A. S. HARBUTT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday School at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. C. P. VANANDA, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7.
J. T. TIMMONS, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. S. FIFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Pocket Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. DENIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

ISAAC S. HARMON, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. H.—Hayes Post No. 119, meets second and third Monday in each month, at odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 293, meets every Wednesday evening, in Odd Fellows' Hall.

K. O. T. M.—Forest Tent, No. 138, meets second and third Tuesday evenings, in Odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. L.—Pine River Hive No. 157, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Barnard's school house.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 322 meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over Cook's.

E. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst Cashier.
BROWN & CO., 'S
BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,
Capital, $25,000.
With superior facilities for the transaction of business we have a large and growing patronage. Drafts drawn direct on Europe. Exchange still the best. Collections receive prompt attention. Interest allowed on time deposits. Money to loan on real estate mortgages, and on other good security. Good securities bought and sold. Refer to the Merchants National Bank, Chicago, and Merchants' National Bank, Detroit. Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.
OFFICERS.
President—Byron Ramsdell.
First Vice President—A. J. Smith.
Second Vice President—Robert Miller.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Financial Secretary—F. Stifield.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.
STANDING COMMITTEES.
Executive—Chas. J. Mix, Eaton, A. D. Crooks, and J. L. Hord.
Entertainment—Chas. H. Lee Siddings, W. A. Brown, and Chas. Hall.
Finance—Chas. F. W. Mayne, L. D. Bartholomew, M. J. Sinclair, H. Gaiger, Geo. W. Crouter, B. W. Miller, S. M. Sess, W. C. Newman, J. E. Clark, H. Bender.
OBJECTS.
To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to promote the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.
REGULAR MEETINGS.
At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7:30 p. m.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.
NOTE.—We have for distributing a number of copies of the annual report of the Michigan Horticultural Society for 1885, which may be had by any citizen of the JOURNAL on application at this office.

Come and See our Immense Stock of
BOOTS AND SHOES.
FOX & MILLER.

BRIDGE STREET HOUSE,
ROBERT MILLER, Proprietor,
Charlevoix, Michigan.
This house is centrally located, and its accommodations excellent. The table supplied with the best the market affords. Only sample room in Charlevoix.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. TERRYE, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely refurnished and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Hack to and from Depot in connection with the House. 75

FARMERS' HOTEL,
W. S. JOHNSON, Proprietor.
Antrim Street, near Village Hall, Charlevoix.
Location convenient for merchants working in any of the factories on Pine Lake, and for farmers coming to town. Feed stables for teams will be provided.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and boats. Express office, and depot quarters for Petoskey and Fix Rapids Stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,
MATHUSE & BLAIR, Proprietors.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Those having business at the county seat will find this the most convenient place to stop, and the proprietors will spare no pains to give the best satisfaction. TELEPHONE CONNECTIONS.

PINE LAKE HOUSE,
A. J. HALL, Proprietor.
Boyne City, Michigan.
This house is finely located on the Boyne river, at the head of Pine Lake. It is large and commodious, and is well adapted to the entertainment of the traveling public.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

Picture Frames
Made to Order.
A FINE ASSORTMENT OF MOULDINGS
To Select From.
O. I. WHEAT,
Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Mich.

New Grocery!
Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.
A. J. MUDGE
Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the north, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.
BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

"TERRACE FARM,"
Charlevoix, Mich.
J. R. & J. S. DIXON,
DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.
Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins
A SPECIALTY. 118

BLANKETS
AND LAP ROBES.
A Good Stock Cheap.
JOHN LITZAU.
Harness Shop in Chalmpkin's building, north of bridge. 123

New Goods!
I would call the attention of the ladies of Charlevoix, and vicinity to my new fall stock of
MILLINERY
AND
Fancy Goods.
Have also just received a fine stock of materials for fancy work, such as Felts, Canvas, Embroidery Silks, Patterns, Fancy Goods, Notions, Barbed Hooks, &c., also Embroidered Laces, Handkerchiefs, and Collars. Call and examine my stock, I desire to sell cheap for cash only.
Dress-Making Done to Order.
MISS L. SPAULDING.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
W. H. WAGAR. G. C. WAGAR.
Wagar Bros.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.
WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop.
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. Satisfaction as our motto. Prices as low as the lowest, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
The CHEMICAL MOTING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

The Offering.

Daily with feeble, eager hands I trim
The lamp of life, and with unceasing prayer
I offer it your, flickering flame to him
Who dwells our hidden lear.

Long, long ago its brightness slowly waned,
Long, long ago I ceased to look it clear,
Nor saw I aught of glorious to be gained
From your blue following year.

Yet for my master's sake, who bids me wait
Nor let my lamp go out, I trim it daily,
And still it burns, as now the years grow late
And deepen into night.

Not mine to ask why he doth will it so,
Not mine to quench this lonely burning fire,
Mine but to wait in patience and to know
The faithful heart, the hand, the desire.
—Springfield Republican.

Waste Places of the World.

The Russian explorer Prejevalsky said, after his recent journey to Northern Thibet, that an enormous amount of animal life was supported by the scanty herbage growing on these bleak half-sterile plains that form the highest plateau in the world, some 15,000 feet above the sea. He said the wild yaks there must number millions, and that a full-grown yak weighs from 1,600 to 1,800 pounds. Nature's economy evolves these great masses of flesh from the poor herbage of a region so lofty that its lakes are frozen over until nearly June, though they are 600 miles nearer the equator than we are.

Explorers tell us that not only does animal life abound, but that man can live in some of the most desolate parts of the globe. It is a mistake to suppose that the Sahara Desert is merely a sandy waste. Much of it lacks not so much cultivable land as industrious hands to make the vast expanse of withered grass blossom again. The Masselmann sect known as the Senoussi lans has for years been digging wells, irrigating the land, and turning many hundreds of barren acres into gardens. Twenty-four years ago it planted its headquarters in the desert near the western border of Egypt, built reservoirs, began plantations, erected convents, and now a population of 8,000 people live at Jarabish, where the soil has been pronted to fertility by their labors. There are large areas in the Sahara that need only rain or irrigation to cover them with verdure. Through these regions pass the caravan routes, along which the camels are carrying in the Saharan commerce bear their burden.

Mr. Anderson, the civil engineer, who last year completed sixteen years of exploration in South Africa, between the Orange and the Zambesi rivers, says that the rain that falls for a few weeks every year in the great region known as the Kalahara desert covers the blackened, verdureless plain with splendid vegetation. Game is abundant there, elephants, lions, leopards and ostriches, and he has counted in this desert twenty-two lions in a troop, and has seen 200 ostriches in one flock. Beasts and birds find sustenance in this region where only a few nomadic hunters live. Far northwest of them on the semi-arid steppes of the Jordan and Darfur millions of sheep and camels exist on the scanty pasturage of the desert region.

The earliest Arctic explorers found in the little Spitzbergen Archipelago—where, it is believed, no human being had ever lived—herds of reindeer upturning the snow with their hoofs and noses to get at the lichens on which they fed. Many reindeer live as far north as Lattelon Island, and several score of them were killed by the Hayes and Polaris expeditions. Musk oxen in their traves have been found along the shores of the great frozen sea as far north as explorers have attained. Look wood, far north of the supposed limits of animal life, found traces of this wonderful quadruped, which grows fat on the tender shoots of the Arctic willow, and plows up the snow for moss and lichens.

Of all parts of the earth the Antarctic regions alone are comparatively destitute of life. Few species of living things in the vegetable or animal kingdom can endure the rigor of the south pole region. No terrestrial quadruped inhabits the land within the Antarctic circle, and winnies and seals are the only mammals that enter its area. Summer in the Arctic regions, with its abundant life on land and in the air and sea, presents an animated and cheerful scene compared with the utter desolation that reigns perpetually in Antarctic waters.—New York Sun.

The Search for Gold.

When the discoveries were made on what is known as the Comstock lode gold quartz mining in California began to be neglected. The wonderful silver bonanzas of Nevada threw everything else in the way of mining into the shade. Silver mining stocks were sold at so much a foot, and the price mounted into the thousands. There has been a quarter of a century of mining on the Comstock lode. The operations there have been of a gigantic character. A few men became millionaires. As for the great army of operators they finally became poor. There is not a dividend paying mine to-day on that lode. Nor has there been one for a long time. When the silver-mining interests of Nevada fall down below the dividend-paying point and assessments all round were the order of the day, attention was turned to other mining fields. But, singularly enough, there was no real revival of gold quartz mining in California. The great mineral belts of Arizona and New Mexico began to attract attention. There were rich silver lodes there, and the impression was deepened that in Arizona, in particular, a mineral belt would be found exceeding in richness the famed Comstock lode. Many good mines have been found in Arizona, and no doubt there are many more yet to be developed. But no discovery has been made of anything like the importance of the silver discovery of Nevada a quarter of a century ago. A great deal of prospecting has been done in the Republic of Mexico, and many important mines have been acquired by Americans. But, while there is a possibility of a vast mining interest to be developed in Mexico in the interest of American miners, on the whole the mineral development has gone slow in that country. There are many drawbacks, the duties on supplies have been heavy, and the discount on silver, added to the various taxes, has gone a long way to keep down the profits. Yet it is probable that one of the greatest mining fields of the world will be within the limits of the Mexican republic. What is most worthy of observation today is the revival of interest in gold quartz mining in California. This has resulted in part from the decline of mining interests in Nevada, the heavy discount on silver, and the small number of dividend-paying silver mines in all the country usually designated as the Pacific coast. A large number of abandoned gold mines have been rehabilitated of late. The annual production of gold has fallen below twenty millions in this State, and a large part of that product was represented by the gravel mines. Slowly the gold quartz interest has been creeping up. There are just now no well defined gold-bearing lodes carrying from $16 to $20 a ton which are begging for purchasers. The processes for extracting gold have been greatly improved; machinery has been perfected, mining engineers and experts know how to get the last possible dollar out of the rock, and the yield of many of these low-grade mines has become very satisfactory. When it is once extracted there is no discount on the bullion.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Bishop Dudley on the Negro Question.

Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky, has a paper in the June Century, entitled "How Shall we Help the Negro?" We quote the following: "Still the problem remains, how shall these alien races dwell in safety side by side, each free and enfranchised in the pursuit of life and liberty and in the pursuit of its happiness? They are the descendants of one father, the redeemed children of one God, the citizens of one nation, employers with common interests, and yet are separated by the results of centuries of development, physical, moral, mental, and moral,—separated by inherited traditions, by the spirit of caste, by the recollection of wrongs done and suffered, though it may be in general as innocent in the perpetrator as in the sufferer. How shall the rights of all be guarded? How shall the lower race be lifted up to higher stages of human development, for only so can the rights of the superior race be made secure for the present and for the future, and this is the highest right of them who are now cast down?

"I answer, by the personal endeavors of individuals of the higher race by their personal contact with these, their ignorant and outcaught neighbors, exhibiting before their wondering eyes in daily life the principles of truth and justice, purity and charity, honesty and courage. Perhaps this may seem to be but the vocal platitude, the gush of sentiment, the twaddle of a maudlin religion, but in all truth and soberness I mean exactly what I say. Let me try to explain more fully.

"These people need help, that they may be lifted up. I mean, then, that in my judgment the help must be personal and not official, the hand of a friend rather than the club of an officer, the patient counsel of a neighbor rather than the decree of a court, the enactment of a Congress, or the proclamation of a President. The solemn sanctions of the organic law are thrown round about this liberty, and the rules of citizenship, full, perfect, and complete, with never seen nor rent, has been put upon it. The constitution has declared its inviolable character, and this decree affirms the negro, the liberated slave, a citizen. But does the declaration make him such? I mean does it, can it impart the intelligence, the moral consciousness which shall vivify the dead mass and make it a living member of the body politic? We have had abundant lessons from every department of the Government that the negro is a citizen; but they are as powerless to effect their purpose as were the otherpenated acts of the Confederate Congress to make the paper dollar worth more than two cents; as nugatory and vain as the old-time legislation of Virginia that there should be a town at such and such a designated cross-road. The negro is a citizen, and he has the rights under the Constitution and the laws that any white man has; and yet he needs help, though it may be the black and white demagogues would dislike him to think so—he needs help, personal, individual, patient, loving help, that he may be fitted to exercise his covenanted rights, and to do the duties which those rights impose."

Bishop Dudley on the Negro Question.

Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky, has a paper in the June Century, entitled "How Shall we Help the Negro?" We quote the following: "Still the problem remains, how shall these alien races dwell in safety side by side, each free and enfranchised in the pursuit of life and liberty and in the pursuit of its happiness? They are the descendants of one father, the redeemed children of one God, the citizens of one nation, employers with common interests, and yet are separated by the results of centuries of development, physical, moral, mental, and moral,—separated by inherited traditions, by the spirit of caste, by the recollection of wrongs done and suffered, though it may be in general as innocent in the perpetrator as in the sufferer. How shall the rights of all be guarded? How shall the lower race be lifted up to higher stages of human development, for only so can the rights of the superior race be made secure for the present and for the future, and this is the highest right of them who are now cast down?

"I answer, by the personal endeavors of individuals of the higher race by their personal contact with these, their ignorant and outcaught neighbors, exhibiting before their wondering eyes in daily life the principles of truth and justice, purity and charity, honesty and courage. Perhaps this may seem to be but the vocal platitude, the gush of sentiment, the twaddle of a maudlin religion, but in all truth and soberness I mean exactly what I say. Let me try to explain more fully.

"These people need help, that they may be lifted up. I mean, then, that in my judgment the help must be personal and not official, the hand of a friend rather than the club of an officer, the patient counsel of a neighbor rather than the decree of a court, the enactment of a Congress, or the proclamation of a President. The solemn sanctions of the organic law are thrown round about this liberty, and the rules of citizenship, full, perfect, and complete, with never seen nor rent, has been put upon it. The constitution has declared its inviolable character, and this decree affirms the negro, the liberated slave, a citizen. But does the declaration make him such? I mean does it, can it impart the intelligence, the moral consciousness which shall vivify the dead mass and make it a living member of the body politic? We have had abundant lessons from every department of the Government that the negro is a citizen; but they are as powerless to effect their purpose as were the otherpenated acts of the Confederate Congress to make the paper dollar worth more than two cents; as nugatory and vain as the old-time legislation of Virginia that there should be a town at such and such a designated cross-road. The negro is a citizen, and he has the rights under the Constitution and the laws that any white man has; and yet he needs help, though it may be the black and white demagogues would dislike him to think so—he needs help, personal, individual, patient, loving help, that he may be fitted to exercise his covenanted rights, and to do the duties which those rights impose."

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Work has been resumed at John Ericsson's shipyard on the cruiser Chicago, and at his New York shops 150 men are employed on the cruiser Atlanta and dispatch-boat Dolphin.

The managers of a charity fair at Reading, Pa., created a sensation by refusing to allow Hebrew women to participate.

Miss Mary Anderson was tendered a breakfast at Delmonico's, New York, by the ladies of the Scottish Club, at which covers were laid for 150 guests.

In August, 1885, Joseph Dyer, aged twenty, of Cape Elizabeth, Me., was thrown from a wagon and killed, the remains being interred a few days later. Recently the parents received word that their dead son was alive and well. They resolved to exhume the coffin, which was done, and removed it to the family residence. As the lid was about to be removed the supposed dead man walked into the house. He's surprised that medical students dig up the body, found that life was not extinct, and treat it well until he fully recovered.

General McClellan left his entire estate to his wife, his military accoutrements to his son, and his sword to his daughter. He appointed as his literary executor William C. Prime, of New York.

Fred Townsend, aged thirteen, killed Willie McCallister, aged five, at Troy, N. Y., by throwing lump of coal in the neck in a back of soft whitewash, where the child lingered twenty hours before death relieved him.

Ferdinand Ward complains of harsh treatment at the hands of his keeper in Sing Sing prison. He denies that he has any money left, but alleges that Warner received in excess of $1,000,000 from the firm of Grant & Ward.

WESTERN.

A long existing feud between two Democratic politicians, W. J. Elliott, editor of the Newburg Gazette, and the Hon. Emil Kiesewetter, State Auditor, culminated in the shooting of the editor by the Auditor at the Neil House, Columbus, Ohio, wounding him in the hand.

A bitter warfare is being waged against the Mongolian on the Pacific coast. At Seattle and Tacoma, in Washington Territory, the mob has gone forth that the coolies must go. A fire in the Chinese quarter of Los Angeles, Cal., caused the citizens to assemble and order the Celestials away. The latter at once purchased ground outside the city limits, began the erection of buildings, and quickly removed their property. Ten companies of infantry were dispatched from Vancouver to Seattle to protect the Chinese and preserve order. At Washington President Cleveland issued the following proclamation:

Whereas, It is represented to me by the Governor of Washington Territory that certain domestic disturbances within the said Territory, and that by reason of unlawful obstructions and combinations, and the assemblage of evil-disposed persons, it has become impracticable to enforce by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings the laws of the United States at Seattle and other places in said Territory, and that the peace, property and lives of peaceable citizens are thereby endangered and threatened and endangered; and

Whereas, The Legislature of said Territory cannot be convened, and in the judgment of the President an emergency has arisen and a case is now presented which justifies and requires the employment of the military forces of the United States, the employment of military force to suppress domestic violence and enforce the faithful execution of the laws of the United States, I do recommend and warning of this proclamation to disperse and disband forthwith.

Now, therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby command and warn all such persons and all persons who have assembled at any point within the said Territory of Washington for the unlawful purposes aforesaid to desist therefrom and to disperse and retire peacefully to their respective abodes on or before twelve o'clock meridian the 6th day of this present month.

And I do admonish all good citizens of the United States and all persons within the limits and jurisdiction thereof against aiding, abetting, countenancing, or lending any part to any such unlawful acts or acts of violence.

The St. Louis Crematory Society, organized by 300 business men, has received a permit for a building on Grand avenue, near Tower Park, to cost $11,000.

Chicago Knights of Labor repudiate the action of the dynamiting Knights in St. Louis.

About fifteen thousand persons attended the opening of the 1st stock and dairy show at Chicago last week. A feature of the exhibition was an ox-hide quilt 6 feet 4 inches in height, and weighing nearly 1,600 pounds. The National Butter, Cheese, and Egg Association was formally received and welcomed in Chicago by Governor Oglesby, Mayor Harrison, and others in the city Theater.

On his Palo Alto ranch, near Menlo Park, Cal., Senator Stanford proposes to establish a great university, which he will endow to the extent of $20,000,000.

The North American Telegraph Company proposes to compete as speedily as possible lines from Duluth to Chicago, via St. Paul, and will issue stock to the amount of $200,000.

At a meeting held in Seattle, Washington Territory, by the mercantile and professional classes, a committee of three hundred was formed to preserve peace after the withdrawal of the troops.

A revised list of the passengers and crew of the steamer Algoma, which was wrecked on Isle Royale, Lake Superior, shows that forty-five persons perished and fourteen were saved.

Near the corner of Halsted and Adams streets, Chicago, a cranky shoemaker named Mrs. Bittenberg shot and killed a policeman who entered his shop to quell a disturbance. Bittenberg then ran to his residence, and in the presence of his family put a bullet through his brain.

Judge Gresham has approved the decree of foreclosure against the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis Narrow-Gauge Road, which is mortgaged for $5,000,000, and weighed down by receivers' certificates for $1,000,000 or more. The divisions will be sold separately, at Indianapolis, about the end of December.

SOUTHERN.

At Daingerfield, Texas, a cyclone killed a colored family of six persons. A funnel-shaped storm cloud did great damage at Rusk, Cherokee County, Texas, blowing down a number of houses. The village of Hawkinsville, Sumter County, Ala., was almost obliterated by a tornado, many houses being blown away and others damaged. Wide swaths of destruction were cut in a similar storm through South Carolina. A cyclone at Inverness, Ala., struck two steamboats and did other damage. Corinth, Miss., was visited by the heaviest hailstorm ever known in that section. Heavy rains in the Carolinas caused great damage to cotton and late corn. Similar visitations in Tennessee are reported, railroads suffering accordingly on account of washouts.

Returns from the cyclone which swept through the Southwest some days ago show that thirteen persons were killed and large amounts of property were destroyed in the counties of Dallas, Perry, and Pike, in Alabama.

The body of Mrs. J. W. Taylor, of Louisville, which was interred six years ago, has been found completely petrified, with every feature life-like.

John Smith, a miner of Weston, West Virginia, had $1,000 in currency hidden in a hollow log in the woods. In attempting to add to the treasure he found it was gone.

George Schofer, a cotton-buyer at Hampton, Ga., has been forced by ill-health to suspend business. His liabilities are $120,000.

At Paducah, Clay County, Ky., a lad of 17 years, named Valentine Sanford, killed his mother with a rifle. He confesses having intended to murder his father, set the place on fire, and organize a band of stage robbers.

Confederate bonds are selling freely in Columbia and Charleston, S. C., at $1 75 per $1,000.

The Governor of Louisiana has granted a respite for thirty days to Patrick Ford and John Murphy, the murderers of Captain Murphy, a local politician.

WASHINGTON.

WESTERN.

A long existing feud between two Democratic politicians, W. J. Elliott, editor of the Newburg Gazette, and the Hon. Emil Kiesewetter, State Auditor, culminated in the shooting of the editor by the Auditor at the Neil House, Columbus, Ohio, wounding him in the hand.

A bitter warfare is being waged against the Mongolian on the Pacific coast. At Seattle and Tacoma, in Washington Territory, the mob has gone forth that the coolies must go. A fire in the Chinese quarter of Los Angeles, Cal., caused the citizens to assemble and order the Celestials away. The latter at once purchased ground outside the city limits, began the erection of buildings, and quickly removed their property. Ten companies of infantry were dispatched from Vancouver to Seattle to protect the Chinese and preserve order. At Washington President Cleveland issued the following proclamation:

Whereas, It is represented to me by the Governor of Washington Territory that certain domestic disturbances within the said Territory, and that by reason of unlawful obstructions and combinations, and the assemblage of evil-disposed persons, it has become impracticable to enforce by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings the laws of the United States at Seattle and other places in said Territory, and that the peace, property and lives of peaceable citizens are thereby endangered and threatened and endangered; and

Whereas, The Legislature of said Territory cannot be convened, and in the judgment of the President an emergency has arisen and a case is now presented which justifies and requires the employment of the military forces of the United States, the employment of military force to suppress domestic violence and enforce the faithful execution of the laws of the United States, I do recommend and warning of this proclamation to disperse and disband forthwith.

Now, therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby command and warn all such persons and all persons who have assembled at any point within the said Territory of Washington for the unlawful purposes aforesaid to desist therefrom and to disperse and retire peacefully to their respective abodes on or before twelve o'clock meridian the 6th day of this present month.

And I do admonish all good citizens of the United States and all persons within the limits and jurisdiction thereof against aiding, abetting, countenancing, or lending any part to any such unlawful acts or acts of violence.

The St. Louis Crematory Society, organized by 300 business men, has received a permit for a building on Grand avenue, near Tower Park, to cost $11,000.

Chicago Knights of Labor repudiate the action of the dynamiting Knights in St. Louis.

About fifteen thousand persons attended the opening of the 1st stock and dairy show at Chicago last week. A feature of the exhibition was an ox-hide quilt 6 feet 4 inches in height, and weighing nearly 1,600 pounds. The National Butter, Cheese, and Egg Association was formally received and welcomed in Chicago by Governor Oglesby, Mayor Harrison, and others in the city Theater.

On his Palo Alto ranch, near Menlo Park, Cal., Senator Stanford proposes to establish a great university, which he will endow to the extent of $20,000,000.

The North American Telegraph Company proposes to compete as speedily as possible lines from Duluth to Chicago, via St. Paul, and will issue stock to the amount of $200,000.

At a meeting held in Seattle, Washington Territory, by the mercantile and professional classes, a committee of three hundred was formed to preserve peace after the withdrawal of the troops.

A revised list of the passengers and crew of the steamer Algoma, which was wrecked on Isle Royale, Lake Superior, shows that forty-five persons perished and fourteen were saved.

Near the corner of Halsted and Adams streets, Chicago, a cranky shoemaker named Mrs. Bittenberg shot and killed a policeman who entered his shop to quell a disturbance. Bittenberg then ran to his residence, and in the presence of his family put a bullet through his brain.

Judge Gresham has approved the mission from 100 gentlemen. Sixty-four of them favor and sixty-five oppose changes in the laws governing silver coinage and certificates. Fifty-seven members desire a revision of the customs and internal revenue laws, and seventy-five oppose it. Fifty-seven Democrats are for Carlisle, and one for Randall, for Speaker. Thirty Republicans support Frank Hiscock, and twenty-three are for Reed, of Maine.

Samuel J. Tilden, Jr., has been appointed Internal Revenue Collector for the Fifteenth District of New York.

The President has appointed General Joseph E. Barbiet, of New York City, to be Second Deputy Commissioner of Pensions, in place of Louis C. Bartlett, resigned, on account of ill health; William H. Morgan, of Nashville, Tenn., to be manager of the Board of Indian Commissioners, in place of George Judd, resigned, and John C. Lee, of Philadelphia, to be Secretary of Legation at Constantinople. Dr. Lee is a friend of Minister Cox, and is understood to have been appointed to his per sonal solicitation. He is familiar with the Turkish language and is said to be peculiarly fitted for the place.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The mortality from smallpox in Montreal and vicinity during the week was 392, whereas only fifty-two or seventy-two of such the preceding week.

The reports of the Commissioners of Emigration for the State of New York show that during the year ended June 30 there arrived from foreign ports at New York City 356,906 passengers, them being 251,075 steerage passengers, most of the latter being destined for the Western States. During the year 5,9 passenger immigrants were returned to the country whence they came.

The iron steamer Algoma, belonging to the Canadian Pacific Road, struck a reef off Fort Arthur, Lake Superior, in a dense fog and went down. The loss of life is reported at thirty-seven. The crew of thirteen and two passengers were saved.

According to the figures of the New York Produce Exchange the visible supply of wheat and corn is as follows: Wheat, 46,766,634 bushels; corn, 5,826,938 bushels.

The nineteenth annual session of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, was opened at Boston on the sixth degree. All the officers were present except H. Wont Aiken, of South Carolina, who was confined at home by illness. The Committee on Credentials reported that twenty-nine States were represented. The Treasurer's books and certified to represent 1,800,000 members, the exact number of dues and the yearly report of the Executive Committee showed the order to be in a prosperous and healthy condition. Over 150 dormant Granges were revived during the year. Not unfrequently, says the report, the Executive Committee is appealed to by individuals for protection from "mutual and unauthorized assessments." Sixty-four of these fraud and sixty-five oppose changes in the laws governing silver coinage and certificates. Fifty-seven members desire a revision of the customs and internal revenue laws, and seventy-five oppose it. Fifty-seven Democrats are for Carlisle, and one for Randall, for Speaker. Thirty Republicans support Frank Hiscock, and twenty-three are for Reed, of Maine.

Samuel J. Tilden, Jr., has been appointed Internal Revenue Collector for the Fifteenth District of New York.

The President has appointed General Joseph E. Barbiet, of New York City, to be Second Deputy Commissioner of Pensions, in place of Louis C. Bartlett, resigned, on account of ill health; William H. Morgan, of Nashville, Tenn., to be manager of the Board of Indian Commissioners, in place of George Judd, resigned, and John C. Lee, of Philadelphia, to be Secretary of Legation at Constantinople. Dr. Lee is a friend of Minister Cox, and is understood to have been appointed to his personal solicitation. He is familiar with the Turkish language and is said to be peculiarly fitted for the place.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The mortality from smallpox in Montreal and vicinity during the week was 392, whereas only fifty-two or seventy-two of such the preceding week.

The reports of the Commissioners of Emigration for the State of New York show that during the year ended June 30 there arrived from foreign ports at New York City 356,906 passengers, them being 251,075 steerage passengers, most of the latter being destined for the Western States. During the year 5,9 passenger immigrants were returned to the country whence they came.

The iron steamer Algoma, belonging to the Canadian Pacific Road, struck a reef off Fort Arthur, Lake Superior, in a dense fog and went down. The loss of life is reported at thirty-seven. The crew of thirteen and two passengers were saved.

According to the figures of the New York Produce Exchange the visible supply of wheat and corn is as follows: Wheat, 46,766,634 bushels; corn, 5,826,938 bushels.

The nineteenth annual session of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, was opened at Boston on the sixth degree. All the officers were present except H. Wont Aiken, of South Carolina, who was confined at home by illness. The Committee on Credentials reported that twenty-nine States were represented. The Treasurer's books and certified to represent 1,800,000 members, the exact number of dues and the yearly report of the Executive Committee showed the order to be in a prosperous and healthy condition. Over 150 dormant Granges were revived during the year. "Not unfrequently," says the report, "the Executive Committee is appealed to by individuals for protection from 'mutual and

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

A National Convention of Free-Traders and Revenue-Reformers was in session at Chicago last week. Among the more prominent delegates were the Hon. J. Q. Smith, Ohio; Gen. R. M. Trumbull, Illinois; the Hon. Jeremiah Sullivan, Nebraska; J. B. Peabody, New York; Henry J. Philpot, Iowa; the Hon. Benjamin Butler, Ohio; Charles S. Cameron, Chicago; the Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Green, Chicago; F. W. Blake, Chicago; Hon. Frank Hurd, Ohio. Gen. Stiles made the welcoming address, saying that the delegates did not represent Presidential aspirations or hands, but simply so earnest men as are who could be drawn toward tariff reform. Henry J. Philpot, of Iowa, Assistant Secretary of the Legion, in an address reviewed the progress of the movement in the West. The convention displayed great enthusiasm over the declaration by Secretary Bowker that the American public anxiously awaits the birth of a great third party to assume control of the Government. The conference chose David A. Wells President, and R. R. Bowker Secretary. The resolutions adopted declare that under no pretense and under no circumstances is grant to attempts to increase protection duties, and that articles of the foundation of great industries should be freed from duty. Free ships are demanded, and the abolition of protective navigation laws. The conference also declared that no further reduction in the whisky and tobacco taxes should be countenanced until the national tariff has been brought to a strictly revenue basis. Two names proved from foreign ports at New York City 356,906 passengers, them being 251,075 steerage passengers, most of the latter being destined for the Western States. During the year 5,9 passenger immigrants were returned to the country whence they came.

The iron steamer Algoma, belonging to the Canadian Pacific Road, struck a reef off Fort Arthur, Lake Superior, in a dense fog and went down. The loss of life is reported at thirty-seven. The crew of thirteen and two passengers were saved.

According to the figures of the New York Produce Exchange the visible supply of wheat and corn is as follows: Wheat, 46,766,634 bushels; corn, 5,826,938 bushels.

The nineteenth annual session of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, was opened at Boston on the sixth degree. All the officers were present except H. Wont Aiken, of South Carolina, who was confined at home by illness. The Committee on Credentials reported that twenty-nine States were represented. The Treasurer's books and certified to represent 1,800,000 members, the exact number of dues and the yearly report of the Executive Committee showed the order to be in a prosperous and healthy condition. Over 150 dormant Granges were revived during the year. "Not unfrequently," says the report, "the Executive Committee is appealed to by individuals for protection from 'mutual and

GONE TO THE BOTTOM.

The Canadian Steamer Algoma Wrecked on Isle Royal, with Little Warning.

Thirty-seven Lives Reported Lost, Meeting Death Under Lake Superior's Waves.

A terrible marine disaster, resulting in the loss of thirty-seven human lives, occurred near Fort Arthur, on Lake Superior, on the night of the 8th inst., the particulars of which are embodied in the following telegraphic reports from the scene of the casualty: The steamer Algoma, one of the transfer steamers of the Canadian Pacific, left Owen Sound, Ontario, last Thursday. While rounding Isle Royale the strong Algoma sighted the fragments of a wreck on the treacherous reef. A rescuing boat was manned, and, after considerable difficulty, made the shoal, rescuing the crew—thirteen men—and two passengers of the ill-fated Alcona. They reported that four seven passengers had perished in the wreck, the survivors could not have endured the hardships of exposure and hunger much longer. When they were landed at Port Arthur by the Algoma, it was like dragging more of the wreck dangerously positioned. Port Arthur is on the extreme northwest coast of Lake Superior and distant from here nearly 600 miles. The scene of the wreck is southeast from Port Arthur thirty miles or more. The survivors of the disaster are gathered from personal despatches announcing the loss of relatives at Duluth, and from two telegrams to the Canadian Pacific officials, both confirming the account of the catastrophe. It appears that a heavy storm prevailed on the lake Sunday night, and one of its features being a dense fog. Shortly after the Algoma rounded into the strait which lies Royale skirting she crashed into a concealed reef, and a few moments later the land was discovered aground. It collapsed so quickly that many of the victims perished in their cabins, where they had taken refuge from the inclement weather. Others, who reached the deck, were given no assistance, and sought refuge in the lower portions, only to be swept away. The crew, frenzied by the disaster, thought only of saving themselves. With a quick rush for the nearest boat, they flocked in and swung it from the davits before the passengers could follow. This, however, contrived to crowd in, leaving the abandoned ones, among them several women and children, helpless and hopeless on the deck of the doomed steamer. The boat was capsized several times by the waves, but was righted again. The survivors succeeded in reaching land, almost dead from exposure and exhaustion.

The scene of excitement is terrible. It is impossible to get any well-defined or complete, connected story of the terrible disaster. Some of the survivors reached Port Arthur in a lumber schooner, others in a small boat

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Notes and News.

The republican managers in New York are taking their lessons to heart. Last year they swore off on Belshazzar's feasts and preachers, and this year they hope to die if they ever impart another Ohio bloody shirter.—Chicago Herald.

We are glad to learn from our exchanges that the high toned sportsmen who come up into northern Michigan to hunt deer with dogs are going back without them. These lily-fingered gentry are the men whose hired lobbyists defeated the game bill in the senate last winter, and every dog they bring ought to be shot on sight.—Independent.

A sickening suspicion is slowly percolating through republican minds that this American people is growing weary of the bloody shirt, and that as a political issue the sanguinous undergarment has outlived its usefulness. But what will the poor things do? Think of the immense amount of "posting up" that will have to be done if the republicans are forced to adopt a real live issue! It takes a long time to read up twenty years of American history.—Kalamazoo Gazette.

Chief justice A. B. Morse has just rendered a supreme court decision that is sound morally and legally. A Detroiter was convicted of keeping his saloon open on Sunday, and appealed. Justice Morse affirms the decision, on the ground that a saloon is "open" if any one is in there, no matter whether they entered before or after closing time, whether front or back doors were locked or unlocked, or whether any liquors were sold or not. Hereafter, there will be less appealing on this question.—Big Rapids Herald.

Why He Will Not Accept.

The Detroit Tribune of last Sunday contained the announcement that Gov. Alger was sick and tired of politics, and would under no circumstances accept a renomination. The reason assigned for the governor's decision is the pressure of private business and a distaste for the onerous duties of political life. This statement, coming as it does from the republican state organ, is probably made by authority.

But while accepting in good faith Gov. Alger's declination to run again, we must look elsewhere than in the Tribune for the reasons which impel him to this course. The fact is that a combination of his own unpopularity with the masses has at last dawned upon him—a condition of things which was apparent to observing men of all parties months ago. It is not strange, therefore, that he should wish to retire from office at the close of his first term rather than accept the barren honor of a renomination.

Alger's course ever since his inauguration has been that of a blundering egotist. Every one remembers the mass-meaty lunge with which he applied himself to the work of removing state officials who had been appointed by his predecessor, in a number of instances filling the offices thus made vacant with men of notoriously bad character and known unfitness for positions of trust. His appointment of John H. Brakeman, of Muskegon, as swamp land examiner is a case in point. The removal of Miss Parker the capable assistant state librarian, is another instance of his haste to reward personal favorites at the expense of tried public servants. His action in the recent strikes and his mean evasion of the ten-hour labor law are other causes which have combined to bring odium upon the present chief executive.

It is no wonder, then, that Gov. Alger feels indisposed to enter another state canvass. His candidacy would be a losing one from the start.—Lansing Journal.

Improvement in Trade.

The improvement in many important branches of industry which set in some months ago continues to make satisfactory progress. There is a decidedly hopeful feeling in financial and commercial circles. Business men had become so accustomed to depression year after year that it was naturally feared there would be a disposition to force the activity when a change came for the better. Thus far these views have not been sustained, and there is a low healthy reaction going on which is gratifying to the conservative classes. It is obvious that the country could not at once absorb the goods manufactured if all the mills were run to their full capacity and that over production could only end in another disaster. It is desirable that production should for a time at least be kept within moderate limits. When the demand which is created by returning confidence assumes larger proportions it will be time for manufacturers to think of further increasing their output.

Steel rails are quoted at $31.50 to $32 per ton, an advance of several dollars within a comparatively short time. The coal trade has also improved and the railroads are enjoying a larger traffic, as has recently been evidenced by the returns of many leading railroads of the west and south. The increased earnings show that the movement of merchandise is calling into use a larger amount of rolling stock, and the orders for additional cars placed within the last month or two have been unusually numerous, indicating that railway officials look upon the revival of business as permanent. All this is giving employment to labor and is adding to the internal trade of the country.—N. Y. World.

The New Northern Insane Asylum.

About two-thirds of the new northern insane asylum at Traverse City will be ready for occupancy by December 1. The first patients the asylum will receive will be removed to it from the institutions at Pontiac and Kalamazoo. The contracts for furnishing supplies were all let some months ago, and bills aggregating over $80,000 were audited and paid at the last monthly meeting of the board. The steam fixtures are not yet complete, but the pipes are now being put in by a Chicago firm. The furniture is arriving from the factories by the carload every day and being rapidly put in place.

Chicago Newspaper Union:

It is the live, intelligent local paper that stays in the race. It is seldom that an editor is found packing his trunk and moving away who has thoroughly filled the measure of a Journal of local information. We admit there are localities so nigh unto death that nothing in mortal hand can fetch forth life and activity—also that there are others in which the faithful chronicler must toil long for his reward; but a good local paper, steadily pushed at the public week after week, seldom fails to come out safely, and to conquer a place for itself among the valuable business properties of the town in which it is published.

GLEANINGS.

Fred Archer, the English jockey, has this season ridden fifty-seven winning and ninety-five losing horses.

About one acre in a hundred of the arable land in the country is occupied by zigzag fences.—Scientific American.

Victor Hugo will be among the midgets of French history as solitary as Napoleon at the Invalides.—New York Herald.

Of late jurors have become the victims of greater penalties than befall the criminals they are chosen to try.—Philadelphia Times.

"If a man could only catch fish as easily as he can lie about it!" laments a Texas editor. He could, if he only understood fishing as well as he does lying.

Where we see a man doing business without advertising it reminds us of the fellow that winked at his girl in the dark—no one else knew what he was doing but himself.

Premier Gladstone entertains a tired-feel every Thursday morning all the friends and celebrities who choose to call. The meal is a Scotch one, and is served at 10 o'clock.

An exchange has a long article on "Reform in Funerals. The trouble with a good many men is that they put off reforming until the day of their funeral.—Philadelphia Call.

It would impair the credit of any house should an instance of neglect for a single day to insure against fire come to the knowledge of commercial agencies.—The American Artisan.

Gen. Sheridan has added to his fame by inventing a new dish which epicures are said to like—a young pig's tail fried with oil, seasoned with cayenne pepper, and mounted with grated celery.

Ex-Secretary Belknap has just collected from the government a sum of $8,, arrears of pay due his father. The claim was the first case which he undertook when admitted to the bar in 1856.

It is somewhat remarkable that all the surviving Democratic candidates for the Presidency should now be citizens of New York; McClellan, Seymour, Tilden, and Hancock.—New York News.

The best thing that the Mormon chiefs can do under the painful circumstances is to receive a new revelation forbidding polygamy so long as it leads to the persecution of the saints by sinners in authority.—San Francisco Evening Post.

It is the emancipation from personal and sordid interests, characterizing the representative portion of the American press to-day, which shows journalism at its best and discloses something of its work for the future.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The true end of high journalism is to ennoble, to elevate, to teach, to bless, and that with a broad catholicity of tone and sentiment—that knows nothing of narrow divisions and pronounces no anathemas.—Wilmington (N. C.) Morning Star.

England's history contains several examples of fruitless military expeditions. But in all the British military annals there never was a darker page than the one which recounts Wolseley's expedition to the Soudan for the rescue of Gordon.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Many a mistaken marriage and many a needless and wrongful divorce would be prevented, even among people who have no real respect for religion, if the members of every denomination would not only teach but set upon the scriptural doctrine.—Illinois (Ill.) Tribune.

The fact is, very little can occur in this world that does not almost directly concern us in some manner. The great trinity of civilization, railroads, telegraphs and steamships have revolutionized all our old ideas of the dependence of nations upon each other.—The Center review.

Lawyers have their weaknesses like other men, but their interests are all on the side of clearness in the law, because their business depends on their being able to advise confidently, and on being able to make it clear to their clients when they lose their cases why they lose them.—The Nation.

At present the strong railroads are forced to carry and strengthen the weak. The outcome is receivership and bankrupt corporations; for the weak become only apparently strong while the strong become really weak, and popular prejudice is excited and becomes active against both the weak and the strong.—Arkansas Gazette.

We have seen the school advance to a public not few years ago, in place of the ignorant pedant who boarded round and taught the whole family out of one book, we have full-graded schools in backwoods districts where the scholars are so few that each pupil has to in himself make two grades, in order to have enough pupils to go around among all the grades.—The Patrol.

When Mr. Fawcett, the late postmaster general of England, retired on health after lying for a time at death's door, he noised than his illness had at least freed him for the fear of death. In the most serious part of his trouble he felt no misery, and did not fear, as he had in health, that the end would be preceded by great pain or a severe struggle. He felt that his heart would slowly, and without his knowledge, cease to beat.

In discussing the question of suffrage reform The Current rightly pronounces against property qualifications in any form, and adds: "Honesty and industry—not property and pride—should lie at the basis of the citizen's rights." Very true, but why not add intelligence to the list of qualifications? Honesty, industry and intelligence—these are measures that will move the nation most rapidly to the loftiest possibility of its future.—San Francisco Record-Union.

Bartholdi, the sculptor, has given the following statement of the exact dimensions of the Statue of Liberty: "From bottom of plinth to the top of torch, 151.11 feet; height of bottom foundation of pedestal above low-water mark, 15 feet; height of foundation mass, 52.10 feet; height of pedestal proper, 89 feet; total height of top of torch above mean low-water mark 306.12 feet." He emphatically denies the story that the statue was originally intended for Egypt.

It is said that John Wesley was once walking with a brother, who related to him his troubles, saying he did not know what to should do. They were at that moment passing a stone fence in a meadow over which a cow was looking. "Do you know?" said Wesley, "why the cow looks over the wall?" "No," replied the one in trouble. "I will tell you," said Wesley, "because she can not look through it, and that is what you must do with your troubles; look over and above them."

"Mr. Seymour has a charming home at Deerfield," says L. B. Proctor; "plain house, but ample and naturally arranged, and filled with curious historical furniture. His favorite chair once belonged to Daniel Webster—it came from Marshfield. He looks out of a window that came from Faneuil hall, and his grate fire burns within a fireplace of tiles and brick and stone that was once in the house of John Jay at Alinay. Mr. Seymour says that, winter evenings, as he sits dreaming at his old fireplace, he sometimes can almost imagine that Jay and other great men of the early days of New York's history are present."

☞"Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 35 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton. 32-tf

Keynote to Health.

Health is wealth. Weight means independence. Hundreds are dying with coughs and lung troubles who could obtain Scrop in the world, Cures Coughs, Colds, Pains in the Chest, Bronchitis and Pulmonary Consumption. One dose gives relief in every case. Take no other. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter.

☞"The Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

A Suitable Article.

For enterprise, push and a desire to get ahead you can't find a better publication. Gen. W. Crouter the druggist leads all competition. Dr. Bennett's Cough and Lung Syrup, beyond all the best Medicine on the market, for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Pulmonary Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Samples free.

Farm for Sale or Exchange.

One hundred acres of the best farming land, 40 acres improved, over six acre tree bearing, good buildings, seven miles from Charlevoix. Will be sold cheap for cash, or will exchange for other property. For further particulars inquire at this office. 30tf

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

The Charlevoix Journal
$2.00 per Year; $1.10 for Six Months, Cash in Advance.
Sample Copies at this Office.

The New York Weekly World
Best Democratic Weekly Newspaper Published in the East.
CLUBBED WITH THE

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!
I have purchased the Stock of
Drugs, Chemicals,
STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.
Of O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to so conduct the business as to merit a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and ask my prices.
PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,
Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER
Undertaker!
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.
Come and See my Stock of Furniture.
ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES
KEEP YOUR ON THE Right Place
For Bargains in Hardware,
Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Doors, Sash, PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm bells, Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Tubs, Wooden ware, Rope, Fisherman's Supplies, and Ship chandlery, Job and Tin work,
L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Charlevoix, Mich., Nov. 19, 1885.

Provision Market.

Some prices in our market, corrected every Wednesday morning by Lyman & Emery, wholesale grocers.

Flour, patents, $4.50 $4.75, and $5.00.
Graham, per lb., 3c.
Meal, per lb., 3c.
Oatmeal, per lb., 5c.
Cracked wheat, per lb., 5c.
Potatoes, per bu., 35@40c.
Onions, per bu., 40@50c.
Apples, per bu., 40@50c.
Beans, per bu., $1.60@1.80.
Butter, per lb., 20@22c.
Eggs, per doz., 20c.
Lard, per lb., 6@7c.
Chickens, per lb., 8@10c.
Ducks, per lb., 8@10c.
Turkeys, per lb., 8@10c.
Pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Fish, per lb., 5@6c.
Cranberries, per qt., 10c.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Flour, per bbl., $4.50@5.00.
Pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Lard, per bbl., $6@6.50.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Fish, per bbl., $4@4.50.
Cranberries, per bbl., $8@9.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Butter, per lb., 20@22c.
Eggs, per doz., 20c.
Chickens, per lb., 8@10c.
Ducks, per lb., 8@10c.
Turkeys, per lb., 8@10c.
Pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Fish, per lb., 5@6c.
Cranberries, per qt., 10c.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Flour, per bbl., $4.50@5.00.
Pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Lard, per bbl., $6@6.50.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Fish, per bbl., $4@4.50.
Cranberries, per bbl., $8@9.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Butter, per lb., 20@22c.
Eggs, per doz., 20c.
Chickens, per lb., 8@10c.
Ducks, per lb., 8@10c.
Turkeys, per lb., 8@10c.
Pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Fish, per lb., 5@6c.
Cranberries, per qt., 10c.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Flour, per bbl., $4.50@5.00.
Pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Lard, per bbl., $6@6.50.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Fish, per bbl., $4@4.50.
Cranberries, per bbl., $8@9.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Butter, per lb., 20@22c.
Eggs, per doz., 20c.
Chickens, per lb., 8@10c.
Ducks, per lb., 8@10c.
Turkeys, per lb., 8@10c.
Pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Fish, per lb., 5@6c.
Cranberries, per qt., 10c.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Flour, per bbl., $4.50@5.00.
Pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Lard, per bbl., $6@6.50.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Fish, per bbl., $4@4.50.
Cranberries, per bbl., $8@9.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Butter, per lb., 20@22c.
Eggs, per doz., 20c.
Chickens, per lb., 8@10c.
Ducks, per lb., 8@10c.
Turkeys, per lb., 8@10c.
Pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Fish, per lb., 5@6c.
Cranberries, per qt., 10c.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Flour, per bbl., $4.50@5.00.
Pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Lard, per bbl., $6@6.50.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Fish, per bbl., $4@4.50.
Cranberries, per bbl., $8@9.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.

Fish and Cured Meats.

Fish, per lb., 5@6c.
Cranberries, per qt., 10c.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Butter, per lb., 20@22c.
Eggs, per doz., 20c.
Chickens, per lb., 8@10c.
Ducks, per lb., 8@10c.
Turkeys, per lb., 8@10c.
Pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per lb., 5@6c.
Fish, per lb., 5@6c.
Cranberries, per qt., 10c.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.
Flour, per bbl., $4.50@5.00.
Pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Lard, per bbl., $6@6.50.
Hams, per lb., 10@12c.
Shoulders, per lb., 8@9c.
Salt pork, per bbl., $12@13.
Fish, per bbl., $4@4.50.
Cranberries, per bbl., $8@9.
Apples, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Potatoes, per bbl., $1.50@1.75.
Onions, per bbl., $2.50@3.00.
Beans, per bbl., $1.60@1.80.

☞Jefferies' Market cannot be undersold by any one. You can buy cheaper of him than from any farmer who comes to town, but remembering your cash. No more accounts will be made after this date.

☞Now is the time to buy a hat. Lyright & Emery have five thousand more or less, which they are selling out at 50 per cent discount.

☞Just received,—cottons, prints, ladies' skirts, hosiery, jerseys, hosiery, gloves, etc., at Lyright & Emery's.

☞Parties having potatoes to sell will find it to their advantage to call at Lyright and Emery's.

☞Just received, Notions, Whips and Red Caps.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW.

☞Cedar and pine shingles for sale by Lyright & Emery.

☞Fresh Oysters at Jefferies' market.

☞Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

Get your tax money ready.

Order tax receipts at the JOURNAL office.

Hitch up your snow shovel and get ready.

B. F. Ingalls, of Boyne, was in town Wednesday.

Circuit court is in session at East Jordan this week.

Indiana is to have a new M. E. church building.

Jefferies had fresh venison in the market on Monday.

Ed. Newman returned home last week to remain the winter.

J. W. Kane and wife returned from their visit to Saginaw.

The Lexington Enterprise is much improved by its change to a five column quarto.

Milton Savory, of this office, returned to his home near Olivet, Eaton county, this week.

Misses Flora and Clara Ainslie returned Friday from an extended visit with friends in Lapeer.

A. J. McLeod has leased the office formerly occupied by the JOURNAL, opposite Crouter's drug store.

The little hooker, Maud Benitou, of Fort Huron, came into port to-day with a cargo of apples and cider.

The store has Friday and Saturday interfered with the usual trimming of boats between this and outside ports.

Wm. Glover and family start for St. Andrews, Fla., this afternoon, where he expects to settle permanently.

Capt. "Sandy" Bennett started yesterday morning for La Grange, Ga., where he will spend the winter.—Traverse Eagle.

Chicken thieves robbed Jas. Washburn's roost one night last week, taking about a dozen of his best. It is truly early in the season for this fowl to begin.

A. J. McLeod has purchased his old market from Mr. Chamberlin and will be prepared to serve our people with the best the county affords. He will continue to buy fat stock, hides, pelts, etc., paying the highest market price, and will sell at retail at prices warranted to suit.

Thomas Hastings, of Petoskey, has purchased the steamer Nellie Booth. He will run her this fall on the East Jordan and Charlevoix route. This winter he will rebuild her so she can run on Lake Michigan.

We should have stated last week in connection with Smithson's cottages that Heath & Francis did the work on his summer house, and are making the plans and bids for the cottages to be erected on his Kansas estate.

T. E. Chamberlin has sold his meat market to A. J. McLeod, and intends to make California his future home. Mr. Chamberlin has run a good market and made many friends here who will be sorry to see him move away.

We understand W. S. Johnson, of Sutton's Bay, and the Grelick's will have telephonic communications between Traverse City and Sutton's Bay placed at their own expense. This will be a paying enterprise for the investors.—Enterprise.

A. D. Bradlaer advertises in another column that he will close his gallery in four weeks, after which he will depart for another field of work. As a consequence, all who want his work must come soon. We are sorry to lose him from our midst this winter.

The Union Temperance Meeting.

[By a misunderstanding last week, we gave a synopsis of Rev. Mr. Van Auken's morning discourse, intending to give instead a synopsis of his temperance sermon in the evening, which received much favorable mention from all who heard it. Our reporter gives below what we intended for last week.]

Text: "He not deceived." Gal. 6:7.

First he shows how God, in many portions of his word, warns the children of men in the language of the text, "He not deceived."

Should we by examination find that we have been deceived, let us turn over a new leaf.

Some say, speaking of this mighty foe, "it is a necessary evil," while it is morally wrong.

Hard times would come and property would depreciate in value if we were to do away with the saloons? Such were the statements, made on our streets on the day of our village election.

A business indispensable, that dethrones reason, that destroys the noble faculties, and all along the tide of time, scatters wreckload and ruined characters; A business indispensable, that breeds strife and tumult and furnishes victims for the almshouses, prisons and scaffolds.

Look at it in the line of dollars and cents. Here Mr. VanAuken gave the figures, enormous in number. The waste in drink, and expenses to the county and state, aggregates the enormous amount of one billion, six hundred and fifty million dollars annually.

The young men and boys should take timely warning from the example of the boy in Ohio, who, while standing on the scaffold, and the rope ready to be placed around his neck, said: "Let me implore you with my dying breath, to close the saloons. Close them for the protection of your boys."

When the boys of our own town, are seen upon the streets intoxicated, do not the words of the text come to us in tones of thunder, "Be not deceived."

I ask in the language of the great teacher, "What shall it profit a man if he should gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

We are often confronted with this saying: "We need the revenue." Be not deceived, the wise man has truly said: "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the ends thereof are the ways of death."

There are some who profess to believe that the growth and thrift of our town depends upon the saloons. O, deluded souls. Whoever heard of a man refusing to buy property in a town because there were no saloons there?

When men write articles of recommendation and speak in the most glowing terms of the great advantages of a place of business and enterprise, do they hold up before the public the saloons, how much whiskey is drank per day, how many ragged children are made by rum? No! No! They speak of the good society, churches, the schools, the activity and go-aheadativeness, and enterprise, of the citizens.

The speaker asked; "Did any of you ever see in the advertisements put out by real estate agents, "free whiskey," or "plenty of licensed saloons," also "drug stores where the educated and genteel (?) can get their drinks, as a preparatory step, for the degraded places of vice and filth?" Mention is often made of good water, but never of good whiskey. The argument that a village or city needs the revenue of saloons to beautify the streets, pave the walks for ladies and gentlemen to promenade, is an outrage on reason. You may give your children the best education and training, and yet they are exposed to the allurring serpent of strong drink. While you license the saloons, they are not safe. Permit me to read to you a short notice written by C. C. Otis. He says: "I have in my possession a letter from a mother back in one of the eastern states. She had heard of the death of her son out here, and wanted to know something of his last moments. He was the child of daily prayers. I am anxious to know that I may have a well grounded hope of meeting him in a better land. Poor mother, I can give her no consolation, for her son died in a drunken fit in a brothel, and was buried without a prayer, song, or word at the grave, and with no one to shed a tear. Such was the sad end of a young man who had a praying mother, and was a member of a christian family. "Be not deceived, God is not mocked," for he says "No drunkard shall enter the kingdom of heaven."

Nov. 17, '85. ALPHA.

A Spelling Contest.

Quite a lively tussel in orthography took place Friday evening at the Whitford School house, town of Hayes, between the young ladies and young gentlemen of that neighborhood and the scholars attending school. The champion speller got knocked out in the first round on the word belle. I suppose he thought it was Dakota hail, for that would knock any man out.

The small scholars acquited themselves grand, easily spelling down all outsiders.

Miss Alta Cramm, aged 13 carried off the honors by spelling the longest. Miss Addie Lewis, the teacher, is justly proud of her scholars.

Nix.

M. E. Church.

Prayer meeting on Thursday night. There will be no preaching at the church of the Epworth hymnal. Bring your books.

Hear the sermon at 10:30 a. m. Sunday, on the text from Hag. 2:14. Young people's meeting at 6 o'clock. Sunday evening. All are invited. Preaching from Luke 14:18 at 7 o'clock.

The pastor will preach at Black's school house next Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m.

To these services all are cordially invited.

Circuit Court.

The case of the people vs. Barry, Graham, Moore and Durgy, (the murder case) has been set down for trial on Dec. 15th next.

The judge will run off the civil calendar and adjourn to the 15th, and in the mean time he will have a special jury summoned for that time.

Court will probably adjourn to-day.

☞Dr. C. S. VIEDENBURG has opened an office in the Ferguson House and is prepared to offer greater inducements than ever before known in northern Michigan. A full upper or lower set best teeth for $8.50. Medium gold fillings $1.00. Amalgam or silver fillings 50 cts. All dental operations warranted first-class and satisfaction guaranteed.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, such as costiveness, loss of appetite, nausea, flatulency, bad complexion, producing a very disagreeable feeling after quitting water, is a common attendant. Blind, bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and giving immediate ease. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter. 152

☞Do you want an eastern paper? The New York Weekly World is one of the best democratic newspapers in the United States. Furnished with the JOURNAL for only $2.00 per year.

J. L. HURD & CO.
DRY GOODS.
We offer a large invoice of woolen goods, dress goods, underwear, hosiery, flannels, etc. Suitable for winter wear.
These goods were bought at bottom figures during the summer, and before the late advance in values, which at present is from 15 to 20 per cent.
We shall give our trade the entire benefit of our fortunate purchases. Now is the time to buy in Winter Supplies cheaper than goods have ever been offered. Do not expend a dollar before at least looking over our Stock and Prices.
CLOAKS. CLOAKS.
We are showing an elegant new line of Cloaks at fully one third lower prices than last season.
TEAS.
MAYFLOWER TEA,—OUR OWN IMPORTATION. Another Invoice of Spring pickings just received. The only strictly pure uncolored Japan Tea in the market.
A few weeks ago we placed on sale 25 chests of new 50 cent Japan Tea at THIRTY-FIVE cents, just for fun. Only a few packages of this Tea are left, and we shall hereafter limit the quantity to 5 pounds. Not more than 5 pounds sold to any one buyer.
We desire to return thanks to our many friends, for their liberal patronage of the past year. OUR SALES for the past month were ONE THIRD GREATER than for the corresponding time last year. With a gratifying increase of business we are satisfied with a very small profit margin.
J. L. HURD & CO.

SCHOOL BOOK DEPOT.
School Bags, School Books, Slates, Pencils, Pens, Ink, Rulers, Blank Books, Teachers' Registers,
AND IN FACT
Every Article Used in the School Room.
F. G. HINES & CO.,
Druggists and Stationers.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the post-office at Charlevoix, Mich., since Sept. 30. If not called for in one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter office. When calling for any of these, please say "advertised."

Allen, Mrs. E. L.
Allard, George.
Anderson, Mrs. John
Ayers, Mr. John W.
Ashley, J.
Averill, Miss Louisa
Bush, J. T.
Bush, Mrs. Helen
Bunker, Mr.
Bunker, Mr. and Mrs.
Bogue, Miss B.
Bogue, Mrs. A.
Davis, John S.
Davis, Mrs. E.
Davison, Mrs. D.
Davison, Miss D.
Dunlap, Mrs. Lucinda
Eckert, Robert P.
Ferguson, Minnie
Ferguson, Mrs. Amelia
Forsythe, Mrs. Ella
Forsythe, Miss Kate
Ferguson, Mrs. Amelia
Gilbert, A. S.
Gossling, Mrs. A. S. H.
Gilett, Mrs. M.
Grabing, Henry
Hill, Mrs. Addie
Hill, Mr. & Mrs. S. M.
Hawley, Mrs. A. D.
Hunter, Miss Agnes
Hutchins, Miss M. S.
Hunter, Miss Ella
Hunter, Miss Nettie
Hunter, Miss Ella
Jones, Mrs. Lucy A.
Hutchinson, Harvey
Ingalls, Byron
Jones, Mrs. Laura
Jones, C. W.
Kenny, William
Kenny, E. W.
King, J. C.
Lanthrop, Miss Lillie
Lanthrop, Charles A.
Lowder, Mrs. Henry L.
Lowe, Miss Libbie May
Miller, D. A.
Moore, Mrs. W. W.
Moore, Mrs. Ellen
Marrayat, Mr.
Marrayat, Miss Rosie
O'Donnell, Capt. John
Ofry, John C.
Pyne, Daniel M.
Potter, Hale.
Pierce, H. S.
Pedersen, Mrs. S. M.
Pedersen, Miss Minnie
Pitt, Mrs. L. E.
Pitch, Thos. C.
Phillips, L. E.
Pfeiffer, Mrs. L. E.
Price, W. J.
Parish, Dora
Parish, Mrs. S. J.
Sherman, Mrs. S. M.
Preston, Mrs. Minnie
Pfeiffer, L. E.
Richardson, Miss Lucy
Richardson, C. J.
Richardson, Miss Lucy
Rich, Sanford C.
Robinson, Cassie
Robinson, Cassie
Steele, Miss Julia
Turner, Mr. C.
Simpson, Mrs. Freda
Sharp, Mrs. C. H.
Sharp, Mrs. C. H.
Somerset, Mr. Claude
Somerset, Mrs. Tupperoth
Stair, Isaac W. T.
Spicer, Mrs. S. L.
Spicer, Mrs. W.
Spicer, Miss Ella
Porter, Miss Ada
Sumner, Mrs. Mary
Sutton, Amos
Trask, Mrs. C. W.
Turner, Mr. C.
Thompson, C. M.
Thompson, Mr.
Tuttle, Mr. S.
Vilinger, Mr. Laurence
Vilinger, Laurence A.
Wright, J. E.
Wright, Miss A. P.
Wilson, Miss Ada R.
Walker, Capt. Isaac
Waldo, Miss Rosie E.
Williams, Rev. E. P.
Wilson, Mrs. Margaret
Wadsing, Will

CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

NOTICE.

I will remain in Charlevoix about four weeks longer, after which time my Photograph Gallery will be closed. If you wish me to do any photographic work for you, please come soon. I have some fine cabinet photo frames I will sell cheap, also 9x10 frames. Four tintypes for One Dollar.

A. D. BRADBERY,
Photographer.

ANOTHER INVOICE
JUST RECEIVED.
SILVERWARE
CLOCKS,
JEWELRY.
C. R. BELLINGER.

The Grand Rapids
Daily Democrat,
The Leading Newspaper of Western Michigan.
ENLARGED AND IMPROVED.
Sent by mail at 50 cents per month.

WOOD WANTED.
Two or three loads of good beech wood wanted at this office immediately.

At the Old Stand.
A. J. McLeod
Can be found at the old stand with a full stock of Meat
of all kinds.
At Wholesale and Retail.
HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
Upright & Herbert Additions, Charlevoix.
HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Hanger,
And Decorator.
PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.
GET THE BEST
If your neighbors want a clean, handsome wood or tinted wall, giving all the latest and most complete designs of any paper in the country, have them send 25 cents for this paper two months, 50 cents for four months, 75 cents for six months, $1.50 per year. Address
The Charlevoix Journal,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE OLD MAN DREAMS

BY O. W. HOLMES.

O for a lease of youthful joys!
Give back my twelfth spring!
I'd offer birth a bright infant boy
Then to sign a new-found king.

Off with the spoils of wrinkled age!
Away with learning's crown!
Take out life's solution-written page,
And dash its treasure down.

One moment let my life-blood stream
From the heart's home—I faint!
Give me one glidey, reeling dream
Of life, all love and faint.

My listening soul! heard the prayer,
And calmly smiling, said,
If I but touch thy silvered hair,
Thy hasty wish has sped.

But is there nothing in thy track
To bid thee hastily stay,
While I call back yesterday's hours
Into the wicked to-day?

Ah, fount and of woman kind!
Without them what were life!
One bliss I cannot have behind!
I'll take—my—precious—wife!

The court took a capacious pen
And wrote in rainbow dyes
The sum would be a hot again,
And he a husband, too.

And in three setting set sunsid
Before the change sky-wave
Remember all their gifts long died
With those dissolving years.

Why, yes, for memory would recall
My fond parental joys;
I could not bear to leave them all—
I'll take my girls and boys.

The smiling angel dropped his pen,
"Why, this will never do;
The man would be a boy again
And be a father, too."

And so I laughed: my laughter woke
The household with its noise;
I wrote my dreams in merry joke
To please the gray-haired boys.

MISS CHURCHILL'S SUITORS.

A Romance of Beechwood Chase.

CHAPTER I.

Beechwood Chase was well named. The house was nothing but roomy and comfortable—a substantial stone mansion without architectural pretension, the county gentleman's ideal of—but the trees around it were the wonder and delight of the neighborhood and the pride of Lord Darley's heart. They were nearly all beeches, those fairest of forest trees, beside which oaks are clumsy and elms are stiff. The great smooth boles reached to magnificent girth; the drooping branches, all broidered with half-pipe-mud nuts that glowed like bosses of amber in the sun, spread themselves far and wide, and made great stretches of shadow on the soft grass below. Here deer couched, and squirrels ran about the laden boughs, pegging and slyly, humorous birds, that shunned the haunts of men, built their nests in green. The park was large, with a slope to a little stream that ran noisily over its pebbles, and mingled its lazy brawling with the rustle of the trees, and the cry of the wood-pigeons, and the song of linnet and thrush.

It was seldom that the solitude was broken by anything but the tread of a gamekeeper or woodcutter, except in the shooting season, but this year Lady Darley had been recommended country air and quiet, and had brought with her a train of distinguished guests, at whose appearance in the park the squirrels hid themselves, and the rabbits disappeared in their holes, and the browsing deer lifted startled heads, and scudded away into sylvan retreats, where no stray feet would either follow or find them.

With Lady Darley had come, as a matter of course, her special friend, Delia Churchill, she daughter and heiress of the late Sir John Churchill, banker and financier and reputed millionaire, and more young men than are prone to bury themselves in the country in June. "But where Miss Churchill is, there all the gallants be gathered together," said Coventry Smith, who wrote for society papers, and affected wit of a more or less degraded quality. Delia looked at him with the cold scorn her admirers knew so well.

"I don't think parodies like that are quite—reverent," she said, and then returned to the book from which her dark eyes had been for just a moment raised.

"Don't crush him quiet, Delia," said Lady Darley, laughingly. But Mr. Smith did not look crushed. He smiled jauntily and kissed his hand as he disappeared through the open window.

"Crushed? A mangle wouldn't do it!" said Delia. "I do dislike that man, self-satisfied, conceited creature that he is."

"I wonder if you will ever see any one you will like, my dear! It will not be for want of aspirants."

"No," said Delia, bitterly, and there was so much pain in her voice that Lady Darley looked at her inquiringly. "Do you think I do not know why?" cried Delia, with sparkling eyes. They were quite alone now, and she got up and began to walk about with an excitement that would have astonished those who only knew the proud and reserved Miss Churchill in society. "Ah!" she cried, "you cannot understand it, Bella—you, who were poor, who were loved for yourself! Ah! how I loathe these creatures who fawn and flatter and cringe, like that abject thing that crawled away just now."

"Delia, do you know, I think you are a little unjust, even to Coventry Smith?"

"Unjust! Very likely," said Miss Churchill. "What chance have I of being just? How can men do themselves justice when they are seeking not love but gold?"

"It is not fair to class them all together," said Lady Darley, who had her favorites among the aspirants, as she called them. "There is young Horner, for instance. He does not care about your money; or, at least, no more than is reasonable."

"Yes; it is a good little boy, and has an honest fit of calf-love, I believe," said Delia, smiling with a gentleness that quite changed the expression of her face; "but, all the same, I am not the 'plum' he will pull out of life's pie."

"Why, Delia, you are growing a bitter philosopher! Is there nothing better than a stone," said Lady Darley, laughing.

"Here is Darley," said Miss Churchill, who was standing by the window.

"And Maurice Arnold with him! There is another man, Delia, that I am sure you must acquit of fortune-hunting. He couldn't pay you less attention if you were as poor as a church mouse."

"No," agreed Delia.

"I couldn't imagine what brought him down here, but it seems he has some old aunt who lives in the village."

"Why?"

"So that must be it," said Lady Darley comfortably. "You know he talks of lady who goes about with all those dogs?"

"Yes."

"Well, that is—little Miss Mackey, you know. I believe she is getting a little childish, for she can't be less than eighty. She must be Mr. Arnold's great-aunt, I should think—should you?"

"Really, I don't think I should think about it," said Miss Churchill. She moved away from the window as she spoke, and the next moment the two men passed it and came into the room.

Lord Darley was short and dark and stout, and his companion was tall and slim and fair. Both were good-looking, but Mr. Arnold looked a little younger. He had a clever face, with a dash of sarcasm about the mouth, and gray eyes that expressed just as much or as little as their owner pleased. They were pleased to express very little just now. He did not see Miss Churchill, who had moved into the shadow of the curtain, and Lady Darley was not a favorite of his.

"I'll go and hunt up that book about the German names, Darley," he observed. "It somewhere in the library, I dare say."

"Well, if you must have it, I think you will find it on the third block on the right, bottom row," said Lord Darley; "but won't you come and make one at pool?"

"Not this morning, thanks."

He went away, and Darley turned into a laugh almost before the door had closed.

CHAPTER II.

"You'll never guess what we've been doing this morning," said Lord Darley, when Arnold had gone. "We've been to a dog's funeral—sacred dog, upon my honor! You never saw such a sight in all your life. Miss Mackey has lost one of those pigs of hers, and she took it into her head to have it buried in the park. Of course I had also might, for she's as fond of the little brutes as if they were children.

"I know," said his wife; "and calls them by such ridiculous names. That big mastiff that walks behind her class is Sir Galahad, and all the pugs and poodles are Sir This or Lady That. She is Lady Clara Vere de Vere, I know."

"Well, there they all were: and every dog of 'em had got a bit of crape round his left fore-paw. I declare I could have laughed my head off, except that the poor little woman was in such a state. One of the keepers had dug a hole down in the copse by the brook, and Arnold put the poor little beggar in, as grave as a judge, and then he walked Miss Mackey off home, and all those ridiculous dogs trotted at our heels. I was in fits, but Arnold never as much as smiled. I dare say he knew better—the old lady's got a pretty bit of money, and can leave it as she likes."

"Lord Darley!" cried Delia, in a tone of tremulous scorn. She came forward from her shadowed corner, and the light fell on her face, and showed it curiously disturbed; her mouth trembled, her eyes flashed indignant fire.

"Eh? what's all this about?" cried the unconscious little peer, facing this angry apparition with innocent wonder. "Lord Darley, indeed! What next?"

"Darley," said Delia, more gently, "I think you ought to mean that. There are plenty of men who would restrain their laughter or their tears, who would perjure themselves in any way you please for gold, but you know—you know!—that Maurice Arnold is not one."

Lord Darley did not answer, and something in his face made Lydia turn sharply round. One glance sufficed. In the doorway stood Maurice Arnold, looking almost as confused as herself. He had come back to ask something further about his book, and she got up rested at the sound of his own name.

"I—I beg your pardon," he stammered, but Delia had through the window, scarlet and abashed, and Darley exclaimed, with a laugh:

"You didn't know you had such a doughty champion, did you? We shall have you proposing to the heiress next, old man.

"I am much indebted to Miss Churchill," said Arnold stiffly; "but I think that would hardly be the way to justify her good opinion."

He went away with his question unasked, and indeed forgotten. The sight of Delia, flushed and moved in his defense, had been sweeter to him than he cared to own. Why, oh! why was she so rich, and his so poor, that to woo her would be to lose his self-respect? His only defense against the passion that had so often nearly mastered him, had been the assumption of indifference, that was all the easier because he believed her actually indifferent to herself. But indifference does not plead for the absent as Delia had pleaded for him, or fly shame-stricken at discovery as Delia had just fled. Could it be that she divined his unspoken love, and so turned it? There was delirium in the thought, and dismissed impossible happiness seemed to mock him as he dwelt upon it; but as the sweet summer days crept on the happiness began to seem less and less impossible. If he did not woo her, at least he did not avoid her, and the change in his manner thawed the coldness and reserve that had been, perhaps, as artificial as his own.

Delia was very happy in those bright June days that made the natural setting for love's young dream. Each day was beautiful, for each day held the sunshine of Maurice Arnold's smile, the meeting that was all the world to two people, the sweet and pleasant pain of her postponement of joy. And yet no word was spoken.

"One dance? and the other's afraid," said Lord Darley to his wife; and in a sense that observation was true.

Delia could not speak, and so long as Arnold kept silence, pride constrained her to deny him even the faint intangible signs that are as words to women; and Maurice Arnold was a man who shrank from the faintest semblance of impulse. He must be sure, beyond the security of other men, this man who was going to lay his proud neck to well-deserved Delia's yoke. Could she ever understand that she was as a princess, set aside from other women by the burden of her wealth, and that the kind signs of favor must come from herself? Only her own hand could open her lover's lips, if he were to escape the ignominy of seeming to seek "love, but gold."

If he could have looked into Delia's heart he would have known how groundless was the fear. She was not a woman who loved vortuously by halves, and even before there had been any question of love between them and he defended him from the imputation of mercenary motives. He sent, down daily to see Miss Mackey—but Delia did not think he went for news—and spoke more than she believed Coventry Smith when he laughed and hinted that there must be something more attractive than an old aunt in the village to account for the young man's visits. Delia listened with her coldest and most scornful smile, and went out into the park, where the sun was setting and the shadows were lying on the grass, and where Maurice—she felt sure of it—was lingering for her own haunt now—would be coming on his way from Miss Mackey's.

At last she saw the gray coat she had learnt to know so well moving among the trees, and stopped and indulged with innocent surprise. He was down by the brook, which was not the way from the village, and it struck her that there was something unusual in his attitude and occupation. She stepped silently on the soft, yielding grass, and saw that he was cutting something on one of the great beeches. Her name—of course it was her name—and he laughed at the thought. Perhaps it was a boyish and foolish thing to do, but no woman very deeply conscious of being in love with her sake.

She would not disturb herself, and wondered silly among the trees, gathering boughs for Lady Darley's beaux and bills. He had gone, and then she walked straight to the tree he had put left. There was a name upon it, but it was not hers, and she stood as if turned to stone. The moss he loved, the name he had cut—she came even when she was waiting for him, was not Delia—it was Elaine!

"And I thought he loved me for myself," said Delia, bitterly—"I have learnt the truth in time."

CHAPTER III.

It is six years afterward, and Delia is Delia Churchill still. It had not needed much to make so proud a man as Maurice Arnold withdraw a suit he had scarcely yet ventured to urge. A disdainful smile or two, a few bitter words, and he had left the Chase, and Delia was left to her sorrow and her pride.

The first pain is over now. The healing years have touched the wound, and perhaps only Delia herself remembers that it is there. Are there not some such scars in most lives—scars that are scarcely seen even by the nearest eyes, but that start and throb with a dull pain that will never cease at the touch of a greater healer than even time? Miss Churchill bears her scar bravely enough, fronting the world with smiles, and a tongue that grows a little bitter as the years roll on.

She hears nothing of Maurice Arnold. She wonders sometimes if he has married "Elaine," but she does not even know if he is alive or dead, and looking almost as confused as herself. He had come back to ask something further about his book, and she got up rested at the sound of his own name.

"I—I beg your pardon," he stammered, but Delia had through the window, scarlet and abashed, and Darley exclaimed, with a laugh:

"You didn't know you had such a doughty champion, did you? We shall have you proposing to the heiress next, old man.

"I am much indebted to Miss Churchill," said Arnold stiffly; "but I think that would hardly be the way to justify her good opinion."

He went away with his question unasked, and indeed forgotten. The sight of Delia, flushed and moved in his defense, had been sweeter to him than he cared to own. Why, oh! why was she so rich, and his so poor, that to woo her would be to lose his self-respect? His only defense against the passion that had so often nearly mastered him, had been the assumption of indifference, that was the easier because he believed her actually indifferent to herself. But indifference does not plead for the absent as Delia had pleaded for him, or fly shame-stricken at discovery as Delia had just fled. Could it be that she divined his unspoken love, and so turned it? There was delirium in the thought, and dismissed impossible happiness seemed to mock him as he dwelt upon it; but as the sweet summer days crept on the happiness began to seem less and less impossible. If he did not woo her, at least he did not avoid her, and the change in his manner thawed the coldness and reserve that had been, perhaps, as artificial as his own.

Delia was very happy in those bright June days that made the natural setting for love's young dream. Each day was beautiful, for each day held the sunshine of Maurice Arnold's smile, the meeting that was all the world to two people, the sweet and pleasant pain of her postponement of joy. And yet no word was spoken.

"One dance? and the other's afraid," said Lord Darley to his wife; and in a sense that observation was true.

Delia could not speak, and so long as Arnold kept silence, pride constrained her to deny him even the faint intangible signs that are as words to women; and Maurice Arnold was a man who shrank from the faintest semblance of impulse. He must be sure, beyond the security of other men, this man who was going to lay his proud neck to well-deserved Delia's yoke. Could she ever understand that she was as a princess, set aside from other women by the burden of her wealth, and that the kind signs of favor must come from herself? Only her own hand could open her lover's lips, if he were to escape the ignominy of seeming to seek "love, but gold."

If he could have looked into Delia's heart he would have known how groundless was the fear. She was not a woman who loved vortuously by halves, and even before there had been any question of love between them and he defended him from the imputation of mercenary motives. He sent, down daily to see Miss Mackey—but Delia did not think he went for news—and spoke more than she believed Coventry Smith when he laughed and hinted that there must be something more attractive than an old aunt in the village to account for the young man's visits. Delia listened with her coldest and most scornful smile, and went out into the park, where the sun was setting and the shadows were lying on the grass, and where Maurice—she felt sure of it—was lingering for her own haunt now—would be coming on his way from Miss Mackey's.

At last she saw the gray coat she had learnt to know so well moving among the trees, and stopped and indulged with innocent surprise. He was down by the brook, which was not the way from the village, and it struck her that there was something unusual in his attitude and occupation. She stepped silently on the soft, yielding grass, and saw that he was cutting something on one of the great beeches. Her name—of course it was her name—and he laughed at the thought. Perhaps it was a boyish and foolish thing to do, but no woman very deeply conscious of being in love is committed for her sake.

She would not disturb herself, and wandered silly among the trees, gathering boughs for Lady Darley's beaux and bills. He had gone, and then she walked straight to the tree he had put left. There was a name upon it, but it was not hers, and she stood as if turned to stone. The moss he loved, the name he had cut—she came even when she was waiting for him, was not Delia—it was Elaine!

"And I thought he loved me for myself," said Delia, bitterly—"I have learnt the truth in time."

CHAPTER III.

It is six years afterward, and Delia is Delia Churchill still. It had not needed much to make so proud a man as Maurice Arnold withdraw a suit he had scarcely yet ventured to urge. A disdainful smile or two, a few bitter words, and he had left the Chase, and Delia was left to her sorrow and her pride.

The first pain is over now. The healing years have touched the wound, and perhaps only Delia herself remembers that it is there. Are there not some such scars in most lives—scars that are scarcely seen even by the nearest eyes, but that start and throb with a dull pain that will never cease at the touch of a greater healer than even time? Miss Churchill bears her scar bravely enough, fronting the world with smiles, and a tongue that grows a little bitter as the years roll on.

She hears nothing of Maurice Arnold. She wonders sometimes if he has married "Elaine," but she does not even know if he is alive or dead, and looking almost as confused as herself. He had come back to ask something further about his book, and she got up rested at the sound of his own name.

"I—I beg your pardon," he stammered, but Delia had through the window, scarlet and abashed, and Darley exclaimed, with a laugh:

"You didn't know you had such a doughty champion, did you? We shall have you proposing to the heiress next, old man.

"I am much indebted to Miss Churchill," said Arnold stiffly; "but I think that would hardly be the way to justify her good opinion."

He went away with his question unasked, and indeed forgotten. The sight of Delia, flushed and moved in his defense, had been sweeter to him than he cared to own. Why, oh! why was she so rich, and his so poor, that to woo her would be to lose his self-respect? His only defense against the passion that had so often nearly mastered him, had been the assumption of indifference,

HUMOR.

AWL inspiring—a shoemaker.

A MAKER of men—the tailor.

A BELIEVER tracker—the circus joke.

HIGH words are often followed by low language.—Carl Pretzer's Weekly.

WHEN Ignorance knocks down, Genius the Jumpkinel crowd laughs.—Whitehall Times.

IT is surmised that folks who curse their luck never had any to swear by.—Barber's Gazette.

A DENTIST does not always have fair sailing. Sometimes he runs against a snag.—Texas Siftings.

"SHE'S not of my set," said the old beau when he chased a strange chicken out of the yard.—St. Paul Herald.

"I SUPPOSE you heard we lost our son?" "What! Is he dead?" "Oh, no; he's married."—Chicago Ledger.

EGNO OF MEN.

When lied about, scorned and placed under a ban,
He (scorn) turns out to be a man;
When lied-to scorned, he's a king, is the man Whose answer to injury's silence.
—Boston Gazette.

IT is not the man who thinks the bar the hardest that has the most money to pay for his drink.—Brooklyn Times.

WHENEVER I meet a man who claims to be an affinity, I generally feel like asking him how long he served and what the charge was.—Jeannette Argus.

PHOTOGRAPHS can now be taken in one one-hundredth part of a second, but some women can't hand their months slind long enough to get a good picture.—Kennebec Independent.

JUNE A JUNE went into business in Portland, Oregon, and the boys made single out of the name that the partnership was dissolved in six weeks. They ought to have changed out and kicked the bad boys crazy.—Detroit Free Press.

A MOSQUITO in a man's ear is not a pleasant thing to experience, but it is better than to have his black-haired wife find a trees of golden-hair tangled in the top button of the coat which her husband wore to the lodge last night.—Coll River Intelligencer.

JUPITER has been called the champion planet because he wears the belt. It seems to us, however, that there is a standing challenge from Saturn to contest for the belt, as the latter always appears in ring costume.—Boston Courier.

"WHY, Mrs. Good, what are you wearing mourning for? Weren't you only married two weeks ago?" "Yes, but you know Mr. Good, poor fellow, was killed in a railroad accident."—Texas Siftings.

THE time may come when politics will mean all that is noble and good; when a small boy will not yell he——" and then she stopped.

"You must ask no questions," said the old man, and he smiled as he stroked his daughter's hair fondly. Mr. Coolington was a man in no good too little matter which for the present must remain a secret."

"I know, papa," pleaded the girl, "but you might give me just a little hint of what it was—just a word, papa."

"Oh, well," he replied, indulgently, "since you must know, Mr. Coolington wished to borrow five cents to get to Harlem with."

At the Ball of the Season.

Young Farmer (just from the country and unused to city ways—"Good gracious, John, just look at that lady! Did you ever see anything like it?"

City Friend—"Which one? The one in white satin? Oh, yes; she's very charming. And what an elegant costume! Nearly all the ladies seem to be in full dress to-night."

Young Farmer—"Full dress! Well, I should say so! Full to the brim and running over."—Somerville Journal.

A Flat Contradiction.

Some one has told you that your catarrh is incurable. It is not so. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will instantly relieve you, and in a few days is very likely to cure you. Why have you to bear of a cure in which it did not triumphantly cure when faithfully used. Catarrh is a disease which it is dangerous to neglect. Get the cure promptly in your own hand. Avail yourself of it before the complaint becomes a more serious form. All Druggists.

A Puzzled Cherub.

"Mother, what do angels wear any clothes?" asked a little San Antonio (Tex.) girl of her mother.

"No, my daughter."

"Come at all, mother?"

"None at all."

There was a pause, and the little cherub asked:

"Where do the angels put their pocket-handkerchiefs?"—Texas Siftings.

Some Frank Confessions!

"Our remedies are unrelishable."—Dr. Valentine Mott.

"We have multiplied diseases."—Dr. Rush, Philadelphia.

"Thousands are annually slaughtered in the sick-room."—Dr. Hosack.

"The science of medicine is founded on conjecture, improved by murder."—Sir Astley Cooper, M. D.

"The medical practice of the present day is a mere philosophical war game."—Dr. Holbrook, Philadelphia.

"Dr. Hooker, who shows drugs as a true science, is a quack enough, know, and so, in my view, he shall remain."—Extract of the review of a recent work by a physician of the highest reputation, and in all respects entitled to the credit of being a man of honor and truth, and a man who knows what he writes and what he means, and who, moreover, is a man of no less than one such society.

As all proverbs agree, if a person dies within the services of a doctor, then a vacuum must be added to the pity, happiness and deserving from the cause of death, and if a doctor attended the case, then no one knows why the person died.—Boston Herald.

The Boy and the Bone-Setter.

Speaking of the bone-setters reminds a good story which occurred in the north of Scotland, where one of them had risen to great fame and no small fortune by his skill. A country lad passing a few miles off had got his leg hurt at one of the local festivities, and had been treated for some time by the local medical man without any good result. He was at last so far lost all faith in the neighboring bone-setter, wanted the lad to go to him, which he declined preferring, as he said, the "leg'lar feeltr." Eventually, however, his mother's anxiety prevailed, and he reluctantly consented to go. The bone-setter was a jovial fellow, and as bad for the invalid was extemporized on a cart, and, accompanied by his patient, he set out. The journey was a painful journey taken to the town where the bone-setter resided. The leg was duly examined, and it was found necessary to hand it very severely in order, as the bone-setter said, "to get the bone in." The lad was liberal with his screeches while this was going on, but eventually the bone was "got in," and he was told to go home and in a few days he would be all right and fit for his work. He was lifted upon the cart again, and, with his mother seated beside him, set off for their house. "Didn't Danny do his duty well?" said the proud old dame. "Yes, he did, mulder," said the lad, "but I was so sic a fool as to give him the sair leg." The "leg'lar feeltr" will, we have no doubt, appreciate the story.—Hibernian Decorer.

Consulting Her Father.

Young Mr. Charles H. Isidore Coolington, of Harlem, was plainly embarrassed by some sensitive business, and rested carelessly in his chair, and Miss Pearl, of Ninth street, near Second avenue, upon whom he was calling, knew what was coming—or thought she did—and was prepared—was sure of the taking of a clock.

"Mr. Good," he said and very favorably, "can I ask—see your father for a moment or two?"

"My father?" she repeated, with a blush, "certainly, Mr. Coolington," and excusing herself, she swept from the room.

Presently the old man came in, and, after a short conversation with Mr. Coolington, he stepped to the door and summoned his daughter.

"It is getting late," said Mr. Coolington, whose face radiant, and as a rose long rain before me, I think I will say good-night. Will I have the pleasure of finding you at home on Wednesday evening, Miss Smith?"

Miss Smith, blushingly assured him that he would, and young Mr. Coolington was on route for Harlem.

"Now, what did he want?" said he—" and then she stepped.

"You must ask no questions," said the old man, and he smiled as he stroked his daughter's hair fondly. Mr. Coolington was a man in no good too little matter which for the present must remain a secret."

"I know, papa," pleaded the girl, "but you might give me just a little hint of what it was—just a word, papa."

"Oh, well," he replied, indulgently, "since you must know, Mr. Coolington wished to borrow five cents to get to Harlem with."

Tommy Learned It.

"Papa, how do nations get into war with each other?" asked Tommy Sensonly.

"Sometimes one way, sometimes another," said the father. "Now, there are Germany and Spain. They came near getting into war because a Spanish mob took down the German flag."

"No, my dear," put in Mrs. Sensonly, "that wasn't the reason."

"But, my darling," said Mr. S., "don't you suppose I know? You are mistaken. That was the reason."

"No, dearie, you are mistaken. It was because the Germans——"

"Mrs. Sensonly, I say it was because——"

"Pelog, you know better. You are only trying to——"

"Madame, I don't understand that your opinion was asked in this matter, my dear."

"Well, I don't want my boy instructed by an old goose, papa."

"See here, you impudent——"

"Put down your cane, you old brute. Don't you dare bristle up at me, or I'll send this rolling-pin at your head, you old——"

"Now, ma'ed," interrupted Tommy, "I guess I know how wars begin."—Chicago News.

ERLER, the mathematician, could repeat the whole of Virgil's Æneid.

The Cause of Consumption.

Scrofula, manifesting itself in blotches, pimples, eruptions, salt-rheum, and other blemishes of the skin, is but too apt by and by to infect the delicate tissues of the lungs, and result in ulceration, thus ending in consumption. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will meet and vanquish the enemy in its strongholds of the blood and coat it out of the system. All druggists.

MONKEYS, dogs, and opera-singers never grow old in facial expression.—Carl Pretzer's Weekly.

"Little, but Oh My."

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are scarcely larger than mustard seeds, but they have no equal as a cathartic, in all disorders of the liver, stomach, and bowels they act like a charm. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, and inclosed in glass vials. Pleasant, safe, sure. By druggists.

MOTTO for bootblacks: After the rain comes the shine.

Every Invalid has an opportunity of knowing that Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS such as an invaluable specific in dyspepsia, liver complaints, kidney diseases, rheumatism, gout and all diseases proceeding from a disordered condition of the animal fluids. In deciding taking a sure remedy when sick, is to court suffering and invite death.

"None but the brave deserve the fair," remarked the conductor, bobbly pocketing the unregistered mule.

HENS are very cautious; at least each one takes to mind to her own nest.

Had a severe attack of catarrh over a year ago, and became so deaf I could not hear conversation. Dr. Sage's Remedy rapidly from coming in my head. I procured a bottle of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and in two weeks could hear as well as I ever could, and now I can cheerfully say to all who are afflicted with the worst of diseases, catarrh and influenza, take one bottle of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and be cured. It is worth $1,000 to any man, woman or child suffering from catarrh.—A. E. Newman, drug'st, Campbell's, Ills.

"Your Allsopiorus sells well and gives entire satisfaction. I always prescribe it for rheumatism or neuralgia," says A. B., Lore, a druggist of Bloomingdale, Ill., whose experience is identical with that of hundreds of other druggists.

To restore sense of taste, smell or hearing use Ely's Cream Balm. It cures all cases of Catarrh, Hay Fever, Cold in the Head, Headache and Deafness. It is doing wonders for us. I can not tell how many it has cured. It is a clean and pleasant remedy. It is easily applied with the finger. Price 50 cents at druggists, 60 cents by mail. Ely Bros., Oswego, N. Y.

THE Brown sensies have all the incal improvements. It is true economy to buy the best Borden, Selleck & Co., Agents, Chicago, Ill.

CHAPPED HANDS, Face, Pimples and rough Skin, cured by using Lazell's Pearl Ware, made by LAZELL, MARSH & CO., New York.

The latest of running grey hounds or shoes corrected with Lyon's Patent Heel Stiffeners.

2 months' treatment for 50c. Pim's Remedy for Catarrh. Sold by druggists.

40 SILVER FREE—Send 10c. for specimens and receive my matter free. A. A. Anderson, De Sand, Dakota.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife or pain. Cancer Book mailed free. A. Ackermann, F.C.P.S.M.D., Kansas City, Mo.

$5 A DAY, at home. Pleasing Sign. No expensive outfit required. We make plain or fancy cards, and do all kinds of Chromo Work. Send 10c. for Sample and Circular. Address, Gem City Card Works, Quincy, Ill.

ORANGE HIGHTS Healthiest Place in Florida. Lots given to Settlers. Address, C. F. BAILEY.

Gale's New Method Double-Entry Bookkeeping Taught in 1 Week. Sent by mail, $1. Gale's Shorthand Institute, 103 E. 125th St., N. Y.

$4 to $2 HOURS Business and Social Cards under any name, 10c. Gem Card Mills, Marion Station, Ill.

No JAMES BAILEY & Co. Conn. T. & M. R. R. Wallingford, Conn.

Ask for Ayer's Ague Cure. Ayer's Cathartic Pills. Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ayer's Hair Vigor. Ayer's Ink.

A Whole Night Plan's Remedy for Catarrh is the best. Relief in One minute. Complete cure in a few days. Sold by druggists. If not present at a druggists send 50 cents to Ely Bros., Owego, N. Y., and receive a package by return mail. Agents wanted. ATHOLPHOROS CO., 117 Wall St., New York.

THE DIRECT MEDICINE in the WORLD is probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's Celebrated Eye Water

"This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and I have found it to be the best of all the many eye waters I have used, for many other physicians have been introduced into the market, this one has stood the test of time, and I find it to be all it will do and more and. We particularly notice the absence of physicians in its recently Asher L. Thompson, Sole Agent, Troy, N. Y.

AGENTS WANTED in every city and town for Lazell's Vegetable Family Medicines. Will sell immense. Dr. Henry Mitchell, Kingsman St., Boston Manufacturing Chemists. Price and sample sent on receipt of $1. Address, The National Co., 25 Dey St., N.Y.

A BIG OFFER. Dyspeptics take these, we will send Dr. Sanford's Liver Pills, Dr. Sanford's Dandelion Vegetable Pills, Dr. Sanford's Liver Ink. Address, Sanford Medicine Co., Jefferson, Wisconsin.

OPIUM MORPHINE and CHLORAL HABITS Cured. Dr. Jaynes' Sanitarium, Chicago, Ill. Mention this paper.

PORTABLE GRINDING MILLS, combined with Corn Sheller and Feed Cutter. Grind Corn and Cob, Feed Ear Corn, Shell Corn, Cut Fodder, Shell Ear Corn. Sent on Trial. Catalogue Free. Mention this paper. Address, BAXTER MANUFACTURING CO., 50 to 58 S. Canal St., Chicago.

DO YOU SUFFER? Hedges Kidney Cure. Sure Cure for Kidney Complaints. Sample Free. Address, HEDGES & CO., New York.

The best of running grey hounds or shoes corrected with Lyon's Patent Heel Stiffeners.

2 months' treatment for 50c. Pim's Remedy for Catarrh. Sold by druggists.

40 SILVER FREE—Send 10c. for specimens and receive my matter free. A. Anderson, De Sand, Dakota.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife or pain. Cancer Book mailed free. A. Ackermann, F.C.P.S.M.D., Kansas City, Mo.

$5 A DAY, at home. Pleasing Sign. No expensive outfit required. We make plain or fancy cards, and do all kinds of Chromo Work. Send 10c. for Sample and Circular. Address, Gem City Card Works, Quincy, Ill.

ORANGE HIGHTS Healthiest Place in Florida. Lots given to Settlers. Address, C. F. BAILEY.

Gale's New Method Double-Entry Bookkeeping Taught in 1 Week. Sent by mail, $1. Gale's Shorthand Institute, 103 E. 125th St., N. Y.

$4 to $2 HOURS Business and Social Cards under any name, 10c. Gem Card Mills, Marion Station, Ill.

No JAMES BAILEY & Co. Conn. T. & M. R. R. Wallingford, Conn.

Ask for Ayer's Ague Cure. Ayer's Cathartic Pills. Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ayer's Hair Vigor. Ayer's Ink.

A Whole Night Plan's Remedy for Catarrh is the best. Relief in One minute. Complete cure in a few days. Sold by druggists. If not present at a druggists send 50 cents to Ely Bros., Owego, N. Y., and receive a package by return mail. Agents wanted. ATHOLPHOROS CO., 117 Wall St., New York.

THE DIRECT MEDICINE in the WORLD is probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's Celebrated Eye Water

"This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and I have found it to be the best of all the many eye waters I have used, for many other physicians have been introduced into the market, this one has stood the test of time, and I find it to be all it will do and more and. We particularly notice the absence of physicians in its recently Asher L. Thompson, Sole Agent, Troy, N. Y.

AGENTS WANTED in every city and town for Lazell's Vegetable Family Medicines. Will sell immense. Dr. Henry Mitchell, Kingsman St., Boston Manufacturing Chemists. Price and sample sent on receipt of $1. Address, The National Co., 25 Dey St., N.Y.

A BIG OFFER. Dyspeptics take these, we will send Dr. Sanford's Liver Pills, Dr. Sanford's Dandelion Vegetable Pills, Dr. Sanford's Liver Ink. Address, Sanford Medicine Co., Jefferson, Wisconsin.

OPIUM MORPHINE and CHLORAL HABITS Cured. Dr. Jaynes' Sanitarium, Chicago, Ill. Mention this paper.

PORTABLE GRINDING MILLS, combined with Corn Sheller and Feed Cutter. Grind Corn and Cob, Feed Ear Corn, Shell Corn, Cut Fodder, Shell Ear Corn. Sent on Trial. Catalogue Free. Mention this paper. Address, BAXTER MANUFACTURING CO., 50 to 58 S. Canal St., Chicago.

DO YOU SUFFER? Hedges Kidney Cure. Sure Cure for Kidney Complaints. Sample Free. Address, HEDGES & CO., New York.

BEFORE YOU BUY A

Wagon, Buggy or Sleigh

WRITE TO

HOTCHKIN CARRIAGE WORKS

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

CATARRH

Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

THE MAN who wants a Top Buggy Sulky, Two Horse Spring Wagon, Harness, Robes, Blankets, Whips, Etc., Etc., Cheap for Cash, Should write to the Manufacturer, Mention this paper. Address, ISRAEL BISHOP, Binghamton, N.Y.

FOR SICK HEADACHE. TAKE HOPS & MALT BITTERS. FOR SOUR STOMACH.

If you wish to be relieved of those terrible Sick Headaches and that miserable Sour Stomach, it will, when taken according to directions, cure any case of Sick Headache or Sour Stomach. It cleans the lining of stomach and bowels, promotes healthy action, and avoid secretions. It makes pure blood and gives it free flow, thus securing regularity in every function of the system. Unequalled for all such Vegetable Remedy as a Family Medicine for all diseases of the stomach and liver.

F. M. Moore, of Farmington, Mich., says: My suffering from Sick Headache and Sour Stomach was terrible. One bottle of Hops and Malt Bitters cured me.

Do not get Hops and Malt Bitters confused with other bitters of similar name. For sale by all druggists.

HOPS & MALT BITTERS CO., DETROIT, MICH.

TELEGRAPHY Learn here and earn good pay. Situations furnished. Write Valentine Bros., Janesville, Wis.

OPIUM to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. Lee, Lebanon, Ohio.

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE. Patents Advertised. O. A. SNOW & CO., Patent Attys, Washington, D. C.

R. U. AWARE THAT Lorillard's Climax Plug is selling a red tin tag? that Lorillard's Navy Plug is selling a red tag? and that Lorillard's Scotch, and that Lorillard's Scotch, are the best and cheapest, quality considered?

CLIMAX BRAND

No. 46—85

C. P. T.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR 1886.

The Companion itself hardly needs an introduction to the readers of this paper. Its subscribers number nearly 350,000. This is the fifty-eighth year of its publication, and the same time every village throughout the land, until it has become nearly a member of many households. The publishers have secured for the coming volume an unusual variety of entertaining and popular articles, and its Contributors already include nearly all the distinguished writers of this country and Great Britain, and some of those of France and Germany.

Illustrated Serial Stories.

A CAPITAL SERIAL FOR BOYS, by J. T. TROWBRIDGE.
IRON TRIALS, a Thrilling Story, by GEO. MANVILLE PENN.
AN ANONYMOUS LETTER, by M. R. HOUSEKEEPER.
QUEER NEIGHBORS, by C. A. STEPHENS.
AWAY DOWN IN POOR VALLEY, by CHARLES EGBERT CRADDOCK.

Adventures.

ARCTIC ADVENTURES, by Lieut. GREELY, U. S. N.
THE SLAVE CATCHERS of Madagascar, Lieut. SHUFELDT.
AMONG THE BREAKERS, by C. F. GORDON CUMMING.
CANADIAN ADVENTURES, by E. W. THOMSON.
ADVENTURES OF STOWAWAYS, by WM. H. RIDEING.
MY ESCAPE from Morro Castle, a Cuban Patriot, JUAN ROMERO.
A BOY'S ADVENTURES in Montana, by JAMES W. TOWLE.
MY ADVENTURE with Road Agents, FRANK W. CALKINS.
EXPLORING with Submarine Boats and Torpedoes in Naval Warfare, by T. C. HOYT.

Natural History.

INCIDENTS OF ANIMAL Sagacity, by REV. J. G. WOOD.
NEW STORIES from the Fisheries, by Prof. SPENCER F. BAIRD.
DOGS WHO EARN THEIR LIVING, by JAMES GREENWOOD.
RIFLE of Old Trappers and

Around the County.

Burgess.

Charles Hale, who has been attending school in the south part of the state for the last two years, returned home last Friday.

District No. 2 has another foundation laid for the school house and lumber on the ground but the school house is not yet built.

Roads are bad.

D. O. Ely is intending to remove to Indiana in the near future.

The school house in district No. 6 is nearly finished.

T. W. Dake has moved down to Pine Lake and is living with Philip Howe.

Mr. Hale has made an addition to his house.

Miss Emma Bell, who is engaged to teach in district No. 6, visited her sister, who teaches in district No. 4, one day last week.

Where is the non-resident inspector of schools? Echo answers, where?

Some of the tax payers of district No. 4 intend to refuse to pay school taxes on account of the illegality of detaching territory from that district.

How our poor representative Haughton must have suffered while smoking that pipe with those 400 braves!

Hamlin boys have just finished threshing one day last week.

Whitford & Crum are now prepared to make contracts for logs delivered in their yard.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. C. V. Cross.
First Vice President—Mrs. J. S. Allen.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Billings.
Third Vice President—Mrs. C. F. Van Allen.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. L. C. Loveday.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. B. Sulfold.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

How She Cured Him.

"What brings you here, Mary?" said Truesdell to his wife, as she entered the liquor shop.

"It is very lonesome at home, and your business seldom allows you to be there," replied the meek but resolute wife. "To me there is no company like yours, and as you cannot come to me, I must come to you. I have a right to share your pleasures as well as your sorrows."

"Just to come to such a place as this?" expostulated Tom.

"No place can be improper where my husband is," said poor Mary.

"Whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

She took up the glass of spirits which the shopkeeper had just poured out for her husband.

"Surely you are not going to drink that?" said Tom, in huge astonishment.

"Why not? You say you drink to forget sorrow, and surely I have sorrows to forget."

"Woman, woman, you are not going to give that stuff to the children!" cried Tom, as she was passing the glass of liquor to them.

"Why not? Can children have a better example than their father's? Is not what is good for him good for them also? It will put them to sleep, and they will forget that they are cold and hungry. Drink my children; this is fire, and bed, and food, and clothing. Drink; you see how much good it does your father."

With seeming reluctance, Mary suffered her husband to lead her home, and that night he prayed long and fervently that God would help him to break an evil habit and keep a newly formed but firm resolution.

His reformation was thorough, and Mrs. Truesdell is now one of the happiest of women, and remembers with a melancholy pleasure her first and last visit to the dram shop.—National W. C. T. U. Bulletin.

Worse than Wasted.

The Chicago Tribune, though not usually given to temperance of the right kind, has been making some calculations on the retail cost to consumers of whiskey and beer in this country, which are about as startling as those made by the "fanatics" of which it speaks so frequently. It says that "a careful canvass of the facts—in regard to whiskey—warrants the conclusion that the average price paid by a consumer is about $7.50 per gallon. This puts up a grand aggregate of $743,000,000, or very nearly ten dollars per head. Applying the same comparison as before, we see that this amounts to something like a dollar per week for each adult male in the United States of America. This is for whiskey alone. Allowing the very moderate sum of eighteen dollars per barrel as the average price paid by the buyer at retail, we have a further total of $506,000,000 for the beer that is consumed in the country each year." Put the two together, and we have $816,000,000—an appalling sum to contemplate as the worse than wastage of our people. The Tribune adds another item—that of tobacco—in all its forms, which belongs to the same category of unnecessaries. This is set down at $292,000,000. Thinking people should study these figures and comprehend if possible, this enormous drain upon the resources of the labor and business of our people. And then contemplate another $300,000,000 which has to be raised to pay the public and private expenses of crime and poverty caused by the consumption of these liquors! When these things are all considered we should end about for an efficient remedy for this tremendous waste of money, with the still more formidable attending evil.—Chicago Standard.

To Our Readers.

We cannot too strongly urge upon our readers the necessity of subscribing for a family, weekly newspaper of the first class—such, for instance, as The Independent, of New York. Were we obliged to select one publication for habitual and careful reading to the exclusion of all others, we should choose unhesitatingly The Independent. It is a newspaper, magazine, and review, all in one. It is a religious, a literary, an educational, a story, an art, a scientific, an agricultural, a financial, and a political paper combined. It has 32 folio pages and 22 departments. No matter what a person's religion, politics or profession may be, no matter what the age, sex, employment, or condition may be, The Independent will prove a help, an instructor, an educator. Our readers can do no less than to send a postal for a free specimen copy, or for thirty cents the paper will be sent a month, enabling one to judge of its merits more critically. Its yearly subscription is $3.00, or two years for $5.00.

Address, The Independent, 251 Broadway, New York City.

BY NEGLECT

What is at first but a slight cold, becomes a cough, straining and exhausting the lungs till soon an inflamed condition exists, that powerful remedies are not always able to stop the disease and the person goes into consumption from mere neglect. Do not be so foolish but use Hamilton's cough balsam which removes the impure matter from the throat and lungs and exerts a healing influence on the diseased parts. Even those who are but the wrecks of their former selves receive wonderful help. In croup and whooping cough it is invaluable. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

THOROUGHLY TRIED.

After many years of experience in my own family and upon my horses and cattle I am convinced to say that Parmelee's Universal Liniment is the most complete remedy for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, lame back, sore throat, &c., in the human family and of bone spavin, sweeny, ringbone, spavins, bruises, on horses; caked bag, sore teats &c., on cattle, that I have ever known and take pleasure in recommending to others. Large bottles 50 c. common size 25 c.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

DO YOU KNOW?

That the Horse and Cattle Powders prepared by E. M. Parmelee and composed of the very best medicinal materials. Licorice, fenugreek, blood root, elecampane, for coughs, colds, epizootic, distemper, &c., sulphur, manganese, gentian, sulph. magnesia for impure blood; besides many other ingredients especially adapted to the care of colic, worms, heaves, and all diseases of horses, cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry. Buy no other. Full pounds only 35 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

WHY SUFFER?

With dyspepsia when Parmelee's dyspepsia, diabetes, kidney and liver cure will work wonders, relieving you at once. Do not wait till dyspepsia has overcome and diabetes has taken full possession of your body but remember that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This fine preparation will also tone up the kidneys and liver and cleanse the system of all impurities. Price $1.00 per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

CASH CLUB RATES.

Those of our readers who want a city paper for the coming year can be accommodated by THE JOURNAL's club list. To get the benefit of these rotional rates, all orders must be paid in advance of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

Price.	With the Journal.
3 00 Detroit Weekly Free Press	$2 00
2 00 New York Weekly World	2 00
2 00 Pomeroy's Democrat	2 00
75 Detroit Echo, weekly	1 75
1 50 Chicago Weekly Herald	1 40
1 50 The Cottage Hearth (monthly)	1 25

Sample Copies furnished on application.

A PRESENT.

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping, and names of two local agents, will receive free a Steel Plate Parlor Engraving of about Pocahontas including Crevecoeur, size 22x28, worth $1.00. Address Elder Pub. Co., Chicago, Ill.

☞ When in want of any kind of stationery, call and inspect the new stock just opened at this office.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the interest on the mortgage hereinafter mentioned, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted to recover the debt now secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the whole sum of principal and interest and the further sum of Twelve Dollars as an attorney fee, stipulated in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding in any court has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door, or outer entrance to Dodge's Hall (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix), in the East Jordan, Charlevoix County, Mich., on the twenty-second day of December, 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of that day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows, viz: Commencing at the quarter post between sections 1 and 6 in township 33 north, Michigan, and described as all of the north half of section 6 and the south one hundred (100) acres of the south one hundred (100) acres of the south half of section 31, in township 34 north, range seven (7) west, containing twenty acres more or less, according to the United States survey thereof, together with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

Dated Petoskey, Mich., October 16th, 1885.

MARGARET E. BLACKMER,
Assignee.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage. 112

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss.
County of Charlevoix, }

In the matter of the estate of David N. Tillapaugh, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned, administrator of the estate of David N. Tillapaugh, deceased, by the Hon. Judge of Probate for the county of Charlevoix, on the third day of August, A. D. 1885, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the house of Perrien Dodge, in said Charlevoix, on the third day of August, A. D. 1885, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all the real estate of said deceased, or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise the amount hereinafter mentioned, and costs of sale, and charges of administration, which said real estate is described as follows, viz: All that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Eastport in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake that may be found standing north 1 degree and 40 minutes east, seven chains and twenty-four (24) links, thence south 1 degree and 40 minutes west, twenty chains and twenty-seven (27) links to a stake from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north and south quarter line of section thirty-four (34) in township thirty-three (33) north, range seven (7) west, intersects said lake, thence south forty-two (42) degrees and twenty (20) chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east five (5) chains to a stake, thence forty-two (42) degrees north six (6) chains to the place of beginning. Pine Lake, thirty (30) chains and forty (40) links, and two (2) chains and fifty (50) links wide, containing one hundred and twenty-five (125) acres of land together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto now or hereinafter belonging or in any wise appertaining and thereunto situated.

Dated October 19, A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FOGG,
Administrator.

Daniel Ostrander, Jr., Attorney for Administrator. 112

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance of a decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in chancery, in the matter of Mehlin Gage, made and dated on the twenty-fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Harold S. Fox is complainant and Mehlin Gage, Ann Gage, his wife, and others are defendants, notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of Lewis's Hall, in the village of East Jordan, in the county of Charlevoix, on the premises, on Friday, the 20th day of November, 1885, at the hour of two o'clock in the forenoon of the real estate in said decree described, or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise the amount due to the said complainant, for the principal and interest of said mortgage, inferred thereon, and costs of said decree, and the costs and charges of said sale, and all that piece or parcel of land situated in the township of Eastport in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and described as commencing at a stake that may be found standing north 1 degree and 40 minutes east, seven chains and twenty-four (24) links, thence south 1 degree and 40 minutes west, twenty chains and twenty-seven (27) links to a stake from a stake on the beach of Pine Lake, where the north and south quarter line of section thirty-four (34) in township thirty-three (33) north, range seven (7) west, intersects said lake, thence south forty-two (42) degrees and twenty (20) chains to a stake, thence forty-four (44) degrees east five (5) chains to a stake, thence forty-two (42) degrees north six (6) chains to the place of beginning. Pine Lake, thirty (30) chains and forty (40) links, and two (2) chains and fifty (50) links wide, containing one hundred and twenty-five (125) acres of land together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto now or hereinafter belonging or in any wise appertaining and thereunto situated.

Dated October 19, A. D. 1885.

FRANK E. FOGG,
Administrator.

Daniel Ostrander, Jr., Attorney for Administrator. 112

J. MILO EATON,

DEALER IN

Real Estate

OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the County. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1879.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,

IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray, White, Seal Brown.
Navy Blue, Wine, Scarlet Rainbow.
Blue Mixed, Scarlet, Blue Rainbow.
Medium Blue, Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.

GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinck, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

$100 REWARD

FOR

Every Ounce of Adulteration

IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

Is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more used than any other plug in the Market. It always in good order. NEVER TOO HARD NOR NEVER SWEEPS. GIVES GOOD SAY. NIMROD IS THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER. Ask your dealer for it. Take no other. Many of our other Brands Unsurpassed. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.

Petersburg, Va.

The Independent

The Largest, the Ablest, the Best

RELIGIOUS AND LITERARY WEEKLY.

The most influential religious organ in the States. Pre-Apostolic, Apostolic, Post-Apostolic.

THE INDEPENDENT is one of the best papers in the world. Its good points are many and striking. Many have only to be stated to be appreciated, and for proof of our claims appeal is made to the paper itself. Its contents for the year just ended number of The Independent will show that its contents are marked by the highest ability, VARIETY AND INTEREST.—The great thinkers, the great story-writers, the great poets, have all contributed articles to each department of human knowledge, make up its pages. Its editorials are fearless, able, and, generally, just and timely. Its correspondence, domestic and all conceivable topics are embraced in the department of Editorial Miscellany, and, clear and unbiased, without regard to sex, employment, or condition, it is a family paper, and yet a paper for the family, and something special for every member of it.

UNIVERSALISTIC SPIRIT.—It is religious, a Christian, and undoubtedly a factor in public life, as a religious, a financial, and a political paper.

BREADTH, CANDOR, EARNESTNESS.—It is broad, candid, and earnest. Its motto is "Truth for truth's sake, regardless of party or church. It is free, therefore, to discuss all questions, and to speak its mind candidly. It is not swayed by fear or favor. It is a vigorous defender of the Evangelical faith, it preaches practical righteousness, and earnestly supports the institutions of our Christian civilization. Being as well as its contributors free from everything of doubtful or objectionable character, it may be read in any family, church, or professional or business circle.

TERMS TO SUBSCRIBERS:

Three months ..... $1 | One year $2 00
Four months ..... $1 25 | Two years 5 00
Six months ..... 1 50 | Five years 10 00

Can any one make a better investment of $2.00 for $2.00 than one which will pay

52 Dividends During the Year?

Every Intelligent family needs a good newspaper. It is a necessity for parents and children.

A good way to make the acquaintance of The Independent is to send us a dollar for a "Trial Trip" of a month.

SPECIMEN COPIES FREE.

No papers are sent to subscribers after the time paid for has expired.

The Independent's Building List will be sent free to any person making the list. Any one wishing to subscribe for one or more papers or magazines, can ascertain the lowest price they can win money by ordering from our Club List, address

THE INDEPENDENT,
P. O. Box 2787, New York.

THE GREAT GRANT BOOK.

Life and Personal Memoirs of Gen. Grant in one volume only $2.25. One agent sold at first sight more sold last week. A $1 engraving free with each book. Agents wanted. Freight paid. Sample free to agents. Circulars free. Agents should send 50 cts. for outfit and engraving and secure this territory. Look now out—or waiting for commissions. Address Fortune Publishing Co., 301 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 128

☞ The price of "Birdie" Pomeroy's Democrat is $2.00 a year. By an arrangement with the publisher we can furnish it with the JOURNAL for $2.65 per year, cash in advance.

For Hard Times.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL

AND

DEMOREST'S

ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY

MAGAZINE

With Twelve Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR,

$3.10 (THREE TEN).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING Stories, Poems and other Literary Miscellany, including Articles, Scientific and Household matters.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

☞ Each Monthly contains a COUPON ORDER, entitling the holder to the selection of a Paper Pattern illustrated in that number, and to ANY SIZE.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is fully entitled to the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and the Best in Every Department. Its Patterns are worth to the Trade and Family Magazine, the publication is continually improved and so exquisitely it is place it in the Press rank of Fashion Periodicals and equal to any magazine, contains 52 pages, large quarto, 9 x 12 inches, elegantly printed on fine paper, and is published by Mme. Demorest, 17 East 14th Street, New York.

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Charlevoix Journal at $3.10 Per Year.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

The most popular Weekly newspaper devoted to Science, Mechanics, Mining, Manufactures, Inventions, and Industrial Pursuits of all kinds. It is profusely illustrated with entirely original engravings, and contains the Scientific Record of the world, including all the Patents issued by the United States Patent Office, and a large number of other papers with illustrations copied from all parts of the world. Terms, $3.20 a year, including the Scientific American Supplement, a weekly issue of 16 pages, containing about 160 columns of reading matter, and many illustrations. Also, the Scientific American Architect and Building Edition, a large 3 cent weekly publication, containing 40 numbers of 32 pages each, with illustrations, and large plates of new and elegant designs for Dwellings, Public Buildings, Churches, Banks, Stables, Farm Houses, Cottages, Barns, Sheds, Fences, Gates, Bridges, Furniture, Decorations, Parlors, Kitchens, Bathrooms, Cabinets, Mantels, Staircases, Windows, Doors, Hardware, Plumbing, Heating, Lighting, Ventilating, Painting, Specifications, Contracts, Estimates, Sanitary Information, Receipts, Recipes, Tables, Miscellaneous Matter, Information relative to Patents, Patents Granted, Decisions, Patent Laws, Hints, Suggestions, Correspondence, Notes, Queries, Replies, Patents Pending, Patents Reported, Patents Expired, Patents Extended, Patents Reissued, Patents Rejected, Patents Interfered, Patents Assigned, Patents Suits, Patents Decided, Patents Advertised, Patents Wanted, Patents Received, Patents Claimed, Patents Delayed, Patents Forfeited, Patents Renewed, Patents Reviewed, Patents Adjudicated

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Horace Brigham Claflin, whose reputation as one of the greatest merchants of New York extended throughout the country and to Europe, died of apoplexy at his country house at Fordham. Mr. Claflin was in his 74th year.

Portland, Me., is still agitated over the supposed resurrection of Joseph C. Dyer, who, it claimed, was taken from his grave by medical students, revived under their treatment, and is now somewhere in the land of the living. The story, on general principles, is probably a canard; besides an exchange remarks, Squamphy, one would imagine a lazy the most lazy person to stay dead.

Albert Fritz, an engraver residing at No. 183 Grand street, New York, recently had a few unusual words with his wife, which the incident of a child. Mrs. Fritz suffered so keenly from the incident that she killed two children and herself with cyanide of potassium.

Ten converts made by the Salvation Army were on Sunday baptized in the Merrimac River at Lowell, a crowd of five thousand throwing stones and hooting like wild beasts.

Cyrus W. Field has sued James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the New York Herald, and A. Oakey Hall, his London correspondent, for $50,000 damages. The suit grows out of statements published in the Herald regarding the Anglo-American Cable Company.

An ironworker at Johnstown, Pa., named H. B. Smith, while engaged in making repairs, was rendered speechless by gas, and fell building into the furnace, whence his charred body was lifted with hooks and ropes.

At a convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Easton, Md., Dr. George Williamson Smith, President of Trinity College, Hartford, gave a brief finding, consequent on his late Hebrew lore.

A party of Philadelphia surgeons and scientists, who gave the body of John Mytal lengthy thorough examination, found a disease due to blood poisoning.

WESTERN.

The mysterious robbery of the Nevada State Treasury, last spring, has been followed by a verdict of manslaughter against Detective A. L. Pound, who is believed to have robbed the same and then shot herself.

A prominent citizen of Montana asserts that the Marquis de Morès has sunk all his capital remaining outside the cattle business, putting $250,000 into refrigerators along the Northern Pacific, $150,000 into new paper ventures, and expending $25,000 on his trial for murder.

The Supreme Court of Illinois has affirmed the sentences of five years in the penitentiary imposed upon Joseph C. Mackin for perjury in connection with the Eighteenth Ward election fraud in Chicago.

At an explosion in the Boiler-room of the Bull Domingo Mineral Silver Cliff, Colo., ten men were killed.

Twelve members of the bar of Tuscarawas County, Ohio, united in a letter to Judge John S. Pearce requesting his resignation on account of personal habits and extreme nervousness. The judge proposes to hold the fort.

William A. Vincent, lately removed from the Chief Justiceship of the Supreme Court of New Mexico, has made a full exposure of his reasons. Try appointing N. W. Trimble, sense of the commissioners of forces, and he appeals to President Cleveland for a thorough investigation of his case.

Hugh N. Brooks, alias Maxwell, alias Dampner, was arraigned in the Criminal Court at St. Louis, and formally charged with the murder of Charles Arthur Pfaff.

John V. Snyder, who died at Green Bay, was the publisher of the first newspaper in the Territory of Wisconsin, having issued their issue 1833.

Engineers and firemen on the Rock Island road report seeing a disappointed bear leaping across the tunnel near La Salle, where no less than forty persons have lost their lives.

As the result of a quarrel over forty cents Mortimer Cockrell shot and killed his brother George on their farm near Lawrence, Kan. The Cockrells are said to be nephews of Senator Cockrell, of Missouri.

The dynamiters who attempted to destroy street cars in St. Louis were leading members of Cleveland Assembly Knights of Labor. The charter of the lodge has been revoked.

W. A. Vincent, ex-Chief Justice of New Mexico, was married at Springfield, Ill., to Miss Mary L. Eakins.

The First National Bank of Plankinton, Dak., has gone into voluntary liquidation because of the enormous taxation imposed by the town and county authorities. Depositors and stockholders will be paid in full.

The discovery has been made that thousands of Mexican silver dollars have been scrinched out of their business. Forged assignments purporting to be duly signed and witnessed, have been filed at Lorenzo, bearing aggregating $10,000 in $20,000 business sign go from Detroit and other banks.

Near Bidwaya, O., a wagon containing five persons fell from a bridge and three of the party, one a woman, were drowned.

James Dempsey reported at Helena, M. T., that his two companions—John Hogg, of Cleveland, and Jacob Schiller, of Lafayette, Ind.—had been drowned by unless slipping crossing the mountains. From his position in a tree Dempsey saw the men torn in pieces and devoured.

An evening train carried from Chicago to El Paso, Ill., Mrs. Ray Brooks and Mrs. Lillian Walters, the victims of the pistol of A. J. Borrows, last month. Both are terribly maimed and disfigured. In an interview granted a reporter the ladies denied ever having written amorous letters to Mr. Borrows, and declared that they would push the prosecution to a close.

SOUTHERN.

Rev. Dr. Clinton Locke, of Chicago, has been requested by a committee of Galveston to receive contributions for the sufferers by fire in that city. Jay Gould, the New York millionaire, was among the first to contribute for the relief of the sufferers, the amount of his donation being $5,000. C. P. Huntington gave a like sum.

Anderson Burres, a full-blooded Choctaw, who married his wife, was shot dead by the sheriff at Atoka, Indian Territory, in strict accordance with the sentence of the court.

A corrected report shows that 568 residences at Galveston were destroyed by the recent fire, and that the loss is fully $2,500,000. At a mass meeting it was resolved to accept proffered aid from other cities, the distributing much greater than at first estimated. Thus far $68,000 has been received, of which $25,000 has been assigned.

Col. H. W. Rogers, a United States Deputy Marshal, was shot and fatally wounded by some one on the street while standing near the window in the court house at Harlan, Ky. His assassin escaped, and no arrest followed.

A negro named Noah Cherry, who murdered a white school girl in Princess Anne County, Va., was lynched by residents of the vicinity.

At a hamlet in West Virginia, the arrival of several strangers in a buggy and a person started a fight in a family bearing the name of Drake. The old man dropped dead from heart disease before he had reached the carriages.

The business portion of the village of Hazelhurst, Miss., was destroyed by fire. Loss $100,000, with little insurance.

The steamer John H. Hanna, loaded with cotton, was burned on the Ouachita River. The loss was $40,000.

In an affray in Edgefield County, South Carolina, Robert Jones killed Edward Prosky and his sons, Edward and Charles, and their overseer, Lee the authorities.

WASHINGTON.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs says there have been a great many lessons in Oklahoma, but they are being rapidly removed by the military and serious trouble is not anticipated.

A. J. Edgerton, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Dakota, has resigned.

An official denial is sent out of the report that the Secretary of State is one of the movers in a diplomatic project to secure the neutrality of the islands of the Pacific which are not now occupied by Continental Powers.

Judge Durham, First Comptroller of the Treasury, has decided that each United States Marshal is entitled to compensation not exceeding $6,000 a year, including the fees of his office amount to that sum, after paying his deputies and all other office expenses. Deputy Marshals, he decides, are entitled to three months of the earnings after deducting necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of its duties.

The issue of the standard silver dollars from the mints during the week ending Nov. 11 was 828,117; during the corresponding period last year, 488,000. The disposal of fractional silver coin from Nov. 2 to Nov. 11 amounted to $317,146.

Chief Naval Constructor Wilson, in his annual report, estimates for completing the four double-turreted monitors as follows: For the Puritan, $600,000; for the Terror, $677,000; for the Amphitrite, $676,000, and for the Monadnock, $700,000. He also asks $5,000,000 for building the hulls of our steam cruisers.

Recently at Washington Ensign A. E. Halstead, who has just graduated from the Naval Academy, married Miss Bernadotte Camden, N. J., a woman old enough to be his mother, who bears social rank on the 14th. After the ceremony the groom departed on a three years' cruise.

The President is said to have called on the State Department for full details of our relations with Germany and Austria in regard to the treatment of naturalized citizens of the United States in those countries.

POLITICAL.

H. D. Beckley, an old colored messenger in the House of Representatives at Washington, has been given a gold headed cane for his services to the Democracy in the recent campaign in Virginia.

The annual report of Lieutenant General Sheridan showed at the date of the last consolidated returns the Penal States aggregate of 2,151 officers and 24,705 men.

Mr. J. Hipple Mitchell was chosen United States senator on the third ballot by the Oregon Legislature. He secured seventeen Democratic votes by promising to support Cleveland's administration.

W. W. Wheaton, ex-Mayor of Detroit, has made his appearance at Washington as a candidate for Sergeant-at-Arms, strongly backed by the Michigan delegation. Eugene Higgins, the personal Treasury clerk, says he has been urged to make the movement independently.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Eleven hangings are to take place in the Dominion of Canada within the next six weeks.

At Pittsburg on Monday the National Hebrew Convention of the Reformed Hebrew Church was called to order to consider the propriety of abolishing many of the traditional features of the Jewish religion, such, for example, as the belief of the orthodox Hebrews that they are all to go back to Jerusalem.

A public school-house at Kittanning, Pa., valued at $65,000, was destroyed by flames arising from natural gas. A fire in the Spring field School at Pittsburg was extinguished with a loss of $5,000. Three hundred children were moved out safely.

Reports from eight hundred points between Lake Erie and the Missouri River show a decrease in the area sown to wheat this fall. The prospects of the crop are favorable.

The Court of Common Pleas at Cincinnati issued an order that H. J. Jewett and associates turn over to the original owners the $27,000,000 of Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton stock for which they had issued equivalent bonds, leaving a net gain, per annum. The road is now under the exclusive management of the old owners.

The Substantial Convention of the Reformed Hebrew Church, in session at Pittsburg, adopted a platform setting forth their belief in one God, and maintaining that Judaism preserved the creed amid struggles and trials. They held that the antique laws regarding diet, dress, etc., are foreign to the present state of things; and that considering themselves no longer a nation, but a religious community, they do not expect to return to Palestine, nor to engage in sacrificial worship. They reject belief in a personal Satan and in hell, and heaven as places of future reward or punishment.

The half-breeds of St. Vital, Manitoba, held a meeting to arrange for the timely relief of Louis Riel, and sufficient money was contributed to pay the cost. Two days before the execution Riel's wife was delivered of a dead child. While the jury at Regina was viewing the body, locks of hair were cut from the head and beard, buttons were detached from the clothing, and the suspenders were hung out as a token when officers interfered. Jackson, Ind., bestowed throughout the rebellion in the Northwest Territory, was then known to be a jury and set to an asylum. He has now escaped and is thought to have reached the United States.

It is said that at the coming session of Parliament the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will ask further aid toward completion and development of the whole railway system of the maritime provinces.

FOREIGN.

Great relief committees have been formed to assist the Russian Poles, compelled to leave Prussia because of Bismarck's continued enforcement of his edict of exile, great suffering exists among the Poles, who in some cases are ordered to leave by thousands.

The marriage of the Infanta Eulalia of Spain to the son of the Duc de Montpensier is fixed for Feb. 11.

A dispatch from Belgrade says that the immediate cause of Servia's declaration of war against Bulgaria was a night between the troops of the two countries at Vinitsa. The Servian forces have captured Trn and occupy the heights.

Trains loaded with soldiers are constantly leaving Philippopolis for the front. The cry of the Bulgarians is "Russia or death." The cry of the Servians is "Austria or death." Russia is said to be preparing to support Bulgaria, and Austria is said to be preparing to support Servia.

Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, who is now on the Danube, has decided that each United States Marshal is entitled to compensation not exceeding $6,000 a year, including the fees of his office amount to that sum, after paying his deputies and all other office expenses. Deputy Marshals, he decides, are entitled to three months of the earnings after deducting necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of its duties.

The issue of the standard silver dollars from the mints during the week ending Nov. 11 was 828,117; during the corresponding period last year, 488,000. The disposal of fractional silver coin from Nov. 2 to Nov. 11 amounted to $317,146.

Chief Naval Constructor Wilson, in his annual report, estimates for completing the four double-turreted monitors as follows: For the Puritan, $600,000; for the Terror, $677,000; for the Amphitrite, $676,000, and for the Monadnock, $700,000. He also asks $5,000,000 for building the hulls of our steam cruisers.

Recently at Washington Ensign A. E. Halstead, who has just graduated from the Naval Academy, married Miss Bernadotte Camden, N. J., a woman old enough to be his mother, who bears social rank on the 14th. After the ceremony the groom departed on a three years' cruise.

The President is said to have called on the State Department for full details of our relations with Germany and Austria in regard to the treatment of naturalized citizens of the United States in those countries.

POLITICAL.

H. D. Beckley, an old colored messenger in the House of Representatives at Washington, has been given a gold headed cane for his services to the Democracy in the recent campaign in Virginia.

The annual report of Lieutenant General Sheridan showed at the date of the last consolidated returns the Penal States aggregate of 2,151 officers and 24,705 men.

Mr. J. Hipple Mitchell was chosen United States senator on the third ballot by the Oregon Legislature. He secured seventeen Democratic votes by promising to support Cleveland's administration.

W. W. Wheaton, ex-Mayor of Detroit, has made his appearance at Washington as a candidate for Sergeant-at-Arms, strongly backed by the Michigan delegation. Eugene Higgins, the personal Treasury clerk, says he has been urged to make the movement independently.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Eleven hangings are to take place in the Dominion of Canada within the next six weeks.

At Pittsburg on Monday the National Hebrew Convention of the Reformed Hebrew Church was called to order to consider the propriety of abolishing many of the traditional features of the Jewish religion, such, for example, as the belief of the orthodox Hebrews

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

De Lesseps, the great engineer, celebrated his eighth birthday in Paris. All the foreign ambassadors in Paris visited him and paid their respects. He received many presents.

The German Reichstag was opened on Thursday. The Emperor in his speech said that the relations with all countries were friendly. The Caroline question would be settled satisfactorily, and he trusted that the Bulgarian conflict would not disturb the peace of Europe.

The Bulgarians again repulsed the Servian attacks on Slivnitza, taking many prisoners. A special from Belgrade states that the Servian headquarters have been withdrawn to Pirot. The Bulgarians are advancing from Sofia in force, and a battle at Pirot is expected to-morrow.

The Bulgarians are advancing from Sofia in force, and a battle at Pirot is expected to-morrow.

The conference of cattle growers at Chicago, with representatives from the Northern and Southern states, organized a national association, with Thomas Cochran, of Illinois, President; H. W. Smith, President and A. H. Sanders, Secretary. Resolutions were adopted asking Congress to extend the quarantine regulations, amend the existing Blackfoot and Pegan laws, and to prevent the cattle from being driven from the Indian Territory.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

BEEVES	$4 00	@ 5 00
Hogs	4 00	@ 4 90
FLOUR—Winter	3 00	@ 4 00
No. 2 Red	.77	@ .80
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.77	@ .80
Corn—Mixed	.50	@ .51
Oats—No. 2	.32	@ .33
CHICAGO.
BEEVES—Choice to Prime Steers	$5 00	@ 5 50
Good Shipping	4 00	@ 4 75
Common	3 75	@ 4 00
Hogs	3 50	@ 4 00
FLOUR—Extra Spring	3 00	@ 3 50
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.77	@ .78
No. 2 Red Winter	.77	@ .78
Corn—No. 2	.43	@ .43
Oats—No. 2	.28	@ .28
Rye—No. 2	.52	@ .52
Barley—No. 2	.55	@ .56
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	25	@ 26
Dairies	19	@ 20
CHEESE—Full Cream	9½	@ 10
Skims	.06½	@ .07
EGGS—Fresh	.22	@ .23
POTATOES—Choice, per bu	.48	@ .50
PORK—New Mess	8 75	@ 8 80
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2	.70	@ .71
Corn—No. 3	.37	@ .37
Oats—No. 2	.26	@ .27
Rye—No. 1	.50	@ .51
Barley—No. 2	.56	@ .58
TOLEDO.
WHEAT—Cash	.78	@ .79
Corn—No. 2	.43	@ .43
Oats—No. 2	.31	@ .32
Rye—No. 2	.54	@ .55
ST. LOUIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.75	@ .76
Corn—Mixed	.38	@ .39
Oats—Mixed	.25	@ .26
Pork—New Mess	8 75	@ 9 25
CINCINNATI.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.79	@ .80
Corn—No. 2	.45	@ .47
Oats—No. 2	.30	@ .31
Rye—No. 2	.54	@ .56
Pork—Mess	8 50	@ 8 75
DETROIT.
BEEVES—Cattle	4 00	@ 4 25
Sheep	3 00	@ 3 50
Lambs	3 50	@ 4 25
WHEAT—No. 1 White	.78	@ .79
No. 2 Red	.78	@ .79
Corn—No. 2	.41	@ .46
Oats—No. 2	.31	@ .32
INDIANAPOLIS.
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.82	@ .83
Corn—Mixed	.41	@ .46
Oats—No. 2	.27	@ .32
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Choice	5 00	@ 5 20
Fair	3 75	@ 4 50
Common	3 25	@ 3 75
Hogs	3 75	@ 4 00
SHEEP	3 50	@ 4 25
BUFFALO.
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	.78	@ .79
Corn	.50	@ .51
CATTLE	4 50	@ 5 75

TO LIFT UP COMMERCE.

Conference of the National Free-Trade League at Chicago.

The Free-Trade Conference which was held at Chicago recently attracted general attention, and was attended by a number of gentlemen of national reputation, among them Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, David A. Wells, Josiah Quincy, Frank Hurd, J. Sterling Morton, and John M. Phelps.

During the closing hours of the session papers were read and follows: "Iron and Its Manufacture," by Mr. Lindley Vinton, of Indianapolis; "The Tariff and Ship-building," by William S. Gibbons, a Dubuque ship-builder; "Pauper Labor of Europe," by Thomas G. Shearman, of New York; M. R. Harter, of Mansfield, Ohio, spoke on "The Relation of the Tariff to Agricultural Industry." Mr. Harter said: "Is the proposed free trade would be a great benefit to this industry. E. W. Cole, of Connecticut, spoke on the subject, "Does a High Tariff on Wool Benefit the Wool-Grower?"

The committee on nominations submitted a report which was adopted. It named the following as the future officers of the league:

President—David A. Wells, New York.

Vice-Presidents—Ohio, Thomas Ewing; Michigan, Jas. M. Turner; Illinois, William P. Fishburn; Indiana, Lindley Vinton; Iowa, Geo. Frederick Wright; Missouri, Philips; Missouri, H. H. Furness; Louisiana, F. W. Nixon; Kansas, Frank Sawdon; Minnesota, Cushing; Nebraska, J. H. Robinson; Massachusetts, Geo. Ticknor Curtis; Rhode Island, Thomas R. Sargent; Connecticut, Henry Watterson; Kentucky, J. Proctor Knott; Tennessee, H. Jenkins; Texas, J. D. Williams; Oregon, William Gibbons; Delaware, Thomas F. Bayard; Maryland, A. B. Herbert; Virginia, and representatives from other States whose names were not given, namely: Colorado, Connecticut, Dakota, Illinois, New York, Ohio, Iowa, J. S. Miles; Illinois, Jas. C. Hawke; Indiana, William Dorsey; Mich. gan, J. Sterling Morton; Nebraska, F. L. Parker; Missouri, W. H. Wheeler; Louisiana, J. A. Wagner; South Carolina, James G. Jenkins; Tennessee, Frank Hurd; Texas, Jas. Hogg; Oregon, Delaware, J. M. Carlisle; Maryland, J. Sindlin; Minnesota, Joseph Quinn; Nebraska, Thomas Majory; Kansas, R. J. Hacker; Arizona territory, H. J. Phipps; central territory, Lewis Ewing; Dakota, Thomas Sheehan.

The committee on resolutions submitted its report, which was adopted after several unanimous ballots had been made.

The report was as follows:

Resolved, That the people of the United States have a constitutional right to exchange with the world all the products of their industry, and that any law which restricts or prohibits this right is a violation of the spirit and letter of our constitution, and a usurpation of legislative power, and has been the principal cause of the prostration of our industries.

Resolved, That the protective tariff has not increased the wages of labor, but has reduced them, by adding to the cost of production of labor-saving machinery, the transportation of our products, and the cost of living to the producers of the country, and thereby reduced the wages of the producers of the country, and has increased the wealth of the manufacturers, and has created and sustained monopolies, and made them powerful to control legislation, and has created a class of paupers among the producers of the country, and has created a class of paupers among the producers of the country, and has created a class of paupers among the producers of the country

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

THANKSGIVING, 1885.

The American people have much to be thankful for this year. Times are hard, but are not so bad as have been, and are showing a gradual permanent improvement. Crops have been good this year, and prices are strengthening. The future looks brighter than for some years past.

The government has been safely transferred from one political party to another, and the people are settling down to business with a confidence some claimed one year ago was impossible. The people are indeed the masters, and a change of servants will not bring ruin in the general government any more than in one's private affairs.

But our day of thanksgiving is also a day of great grief and mourning. Last night the telegraph announced that Thos. A. Hendricks, vice president, was stricken with apoplexy. This announcement will bring grief to many households, and destroy the pleasure which would otherwise have been supreme.

We can all be thankful for life and health and such prosperity as we have been able to gain.

Notes and News.

It is said that Gen. Butler has secured the services of several good readers, who are placed on little platforms in different parts of his mills and read to the operatives as they work.

Again the newspaper man has received substantial recognition from the administration in the appointment of Ed. Forsyth, of the Cleveland Democrat, to the office of deputy collector of customs at that port.

If there is any department of intellectual labor in which experience should be counted to the credit of the worker as enhancing the value of services rendered it is the department filled by the school teacher.—New York Times.

"How soon our ex-Presidents are forgotten! Arthur has hardly been heard of since the day he retired," says the Cincinnati Enquirer. But that depends upon who the ex-President is. Washington, Jefferson, John Quincy Adams, Jackson and Grant were not forgotten after they retired. It's the Polks the Hayesses, and the Arthurs who are soon forgotten.—Free Press.

Does Indecency Pay?

A notion has gained ground that it is commercially profitable for a newspaper to cater to low tastes, and that it invariably increases its circulation by gathering and publishing all the details of revolting social scandal. It seems to be the opinion of the Sun that this notion has demoralized the country press which has copied the city press in this reprehensible practice. If now, on such good testimony as the Sun, it turns out that the ways of uncleanness in journalism are unprofitable, and that the scrupulously decent newspaper is, in the long run, the most profitable, a most desirable change may be looked for all along the line. It can not have escaped the observation of newspaper conductors that there has been for some years a general complaint among men who have families that it is difficult to find a paper with the news in it which is decent enough to be admitted into the house. The reply has been that the public demanded the depraved sort of news and was willing to pay for it, and would always by preference buy the journals that furnished it. We are glad to be authoritatively informed that this is a commercial mistake. Our theory of the newspaper is that it is very much what the public want it and make it, and we believe that as a rule the tone of a newspaper is higher than that of a majority of its readers.—Hartford Courant.

Grand Rapids also has a paper called the Boycotter, and it seems to be getting in its work, too. While there are some things very unreasonable in the boycotting business, it is certainly preferable to strikes, which so often end in violence, and inflicting more injury on the workmen than the capitalists. If used in a just cause, boycotting can be made very effective.—Big Rapids Herald.

The increase in circulation of the New York World is really phenomenal. When the present management took control in 1883, the paper had less than 16,000; but to-day it has nearly 200,000. The grand total of circulation the past nine months has been 56,283,130 copies. The World is a staunch democratic paper, hence its success.

GLEANINGS.

The State of New York contains 100,000 French Canadians.

Louisiana is assuming prominence as an iron producing state.

The wheat crop of Oregon this year will be 20 per cent in excess of last year.

The population of Melbourne increased 18,281 last year, and is now 322,690.

Widows in Wareham, Mass., are allowed a barrel of herrings free from the town dock.

Prohibition is now on trial in 105 of the 137 counties in Georgia, and will soon embrace the whole state.

A tree has been found on the mountains in North Carolina that promises to be of great value for making the paper.

The Italian Government will erect a monument sixty feet high to the memory of Cavour, the regenerator of Italy. He died in 1861.

The pendulum of the clock in Dr. Tyng's church in New York has not stopped since it was first started, nearly twenty-six years ago.

A man in full, healthy exercise requires about one-half pound of meat, nineteen ounces of bread and three ounces of butter-fat per diem.

The largest flouring mill in France has recently adopted rollers, a fact which has not a little disconcerted the stone mill advocates, of whom in France there are not a few.

The process of making paper hangings is similar to that of calico printing. Machines are now in the market that will print from six to a dozen or more colors in one operation.

Victor Hugo, who survived to such old age, was, when born, such a tiny, frail, and grotesquely hideous lift of humanity that the doctors declared he could not possibly live to grow up.

A recent traveler in a Corsican village says he saw a troup of young girls carrying on their heads jars containing five or six gallons of water. Before them marched their male relatives bearing flaming torches to light the burden bearers on their way.

When tempted to say largely of any thing highly praised and highly prized novelty in flowers, fruits or vegetables get some plant, seed or nursery catalogue printed a dozen years ago and figure out what percentage of the new introductions for that year have fulfilled the fair promise made by their disseminators.

An incident happened on Broadway, N. Y., a few days ago which serves to illustrate the mysterious origin of some fires. A girl was sweeping a room with a carpet sweeper, when she noticed smoke coming from it. On examination she discovered that a match had been lighted by the revolution of the brush inside the sweeper.

It is said the stories which have the largest popular sale of any are those which have "The Duchess" for an author. The identity has been carefully concealed. The books are originally published in London by different firms, through whom American publishers of advanced sheets have dealt. All efforts to get at the writer have failed.

A woman in Springfield, Ohio, has invented and patented an overshoe of cloth, which can be made nearly as small as the ordinary shoe. The sole, shank and heel is one piece. The shoe is light, comfortable and warm. She has also invented a screw with tortpointed heads, which screws into the sole and prevents all danger of slipping, either on the ice, on tops or elsewhere.

During a very tedious ride on a Southern railroad the passengers, tired, dirty, and things, all located the company with the exception of one single passenger. His fellow passengers commented on this, and asked him why he didn't denounce the road too. "It would be hardly fair," he replied, "as I am traveling on a free pass; but if they don't do better pretty soon blame me, if I don't go out and buy a ticket and join you."

Sir John Lubbock told a story in his speech at Stowesbury which can have no personal application to himself. It was about a traveler who revisited a New Zealand village and inquired after a friend—a leading Maori Liberal and a member of the local Peace Society, it is believed. The reply was discouraging, "Ah," said the village chief, with resignation, "the gave us so much good advice that we had to put him to death mercifully."—St. James' Gazette.

The following is a list of the twelve greatest paintings, according to a New York art critic: 1. Rubens's Descent from the Cross. 2. Rafael's Sistine Madonna. 3. Da Vinci's Last Supper. 4. Rafael's Transfiguration. 5. Domenichino's Last Communion of St. Jerome. 6. Gibido's Aurora. 7. Murillo's Immaculate Conception. 8. Michael Angelo's Last Judgment. 9. Vellerio's Descent from the Cross. 10. Titian's Assumption of the Virgin. 11. Guido's Beatrice Cenci. 12. Correggio's Nativity.

Charles L. Webster, who is to pub lish General Grant's book, has the draft of the terms of the surrender at Appomattox Court House carefully preserved in a glass case like a folding slate. It consists of two sheets of yellowish paper covered with Grant's writing, and showing but few corrections. Sunk in the frame is the gold pen with which the document was written, and its holder. The only signature is that of Grant, although it has been the prevailing impression that Gen. Lee also signed the agreement.

A letter from Mexico says the poverty of the country may be traced directly to the slovenly system of farming which prevails. The agricultural resources are enormous. Though only one-fifth of the best land in the great plateau is under cultivation, it supports millions of people with a style of farming that would produce starvation in the best sections of New York or Pennsylvania. The Mexican's sole conception of the utility of plowing is to scratch up enough loose dirt to cover the seed; in a great majority of cases the ground is never touched after planting.

The diversions of the old Kaiser William have always been manly, and in striking contrast to those of his Bavarian neighbor, which are taken in solitude and in as much gloom as is compatible with their enjoyment. Perhaps there are few sadder figures in history than that of the strange monarch, who may—or strictly speaking, may not—be seen occasionally in the Munich opera house having one of Wagner's lyric dramas all to himself. This patriarch is the "black Hornet" of royalty, who takes his Christmas pie into the corner and eats it by himself.

Job H. Jackson, president of the Delaware car-works, made a remarkable address to the young men of Wilmington on business success. Among his illustrations were S. F. B. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph; George Stephenson, John Wanamaker, Alexander T. Stewart, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Peter Cooper, H. B. Claflin, Senator Brown, of Georgia, who, he says, "could not read at manhood, but with such odds became a governor, judge, and senator;" ex-Senator Davis, of West Virginia, who started life as a brakeman; Austin Corbin, Sherlock S. Merrill, and John Roach.

A young woman resident of Dalton, N. H., is now rapidly recovering from a singular illness. Over a year ago she had several teeth extracted by a dentist while under the influence of chloroform, and immediately afterward she was seized with a bad cough and gradually wasted and took her bed, as it was supposed, in consumption. Several physicians examined her case, one of whom attributed her illness to an ulcer in the throat and gave her a remedy. The medicine resulted in a severe paroxysm of coughing, during which she threw out a tooth that had lodged in her throat while she was chloroformed and remained, nearly coily her her life.

Some Characters at the Exposition.

From an illustrated paper on the New Orleans Exposition, by Eugene V. Smalley, in the June Century, we quote the following anecdotes of some of the types seen at the fair: "The odd characters at the fair are the terror of exhibitors. A Cincinnati furniture-maker discovered a company from Boston visiting his alcoves had left a token of approval on the polished surface of a newly matted, in the words 'This is pretty good' scratched with a knife.

"The Turks who sell dirty wood, beads, and other trinkets from Jerusalem—all made in Paris—are picturesque additions to the permanent personnel of the fair, though their grimeiness, like that of their wares, will not always bear inspection. An amusing incident occurred one day at one of these Oriental bazaars. A tall man, with a rural air, stopped before the stand and appeared to take a lively interest, not in the goods, but in the features of one of the salesmen in scarlet fez and baggy trousers. He surveyed the Oriental in front and in profile, and then, slapping him on the shoulder, exclaimed, 'Hello, Jake, when did you come from Indiana?' The Turk from Indiana acknowledged his old acquaintance and begged that he would not 'give him away.'"

Proper Treatment for Coughs.

That the reader may fully understand what constitutes a good Cough and Lung Syrup, we will say that Tar and Wild Cherry is the basis of best cough remedies. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which is largely used for Bronchial Coughs and Lung Syrup, has proved a marvelous cure for Consumption on the market. Price 50 cts. and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter. 2

☞The Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

Upright & Harthat Additions, Charlevoix.

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

A GIFT Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making money at once from any place in America. Both sexes of all ages can live at home and work in spare time, or all the time. Capital not required. We will start you. Immense pay for those who start at once. [1219] STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine.

The Charlevoix Journal

FOR

$2.00 per Year, $1.00 for Six Months, Cash in Advance.

Sample Copies at this Office.

Best Democratic Weekly Newspaper Published in the State.

IN THE

UNITED STATES

The New York

Weekly World

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES

KEEP YOUR ON THE Right Place

For Bargains in Hardware,

Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Doors, Sash, PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm bells, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishermen's Supplies, and Ship chandlery, Job and Tin work. Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Tels, Wooden ware, Rope,

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

I have purchased the Stock of

Drugs, Chemicals,

STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.

Of O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to no conduct the business that a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and ask my prices.

PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,

Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Provision Market.

Best cows in consumers, corrected every morning, by Penfield & Emery.

Best beef, $5.50, $4.75, and $6.00.

Calf skins, per cwt., bulls, $2.00; unbulled $3.

Eggs, per doz., 20@22.

Butter per lb., 22@26.

Chickens, per cwt., $7.00@7.50.

Hay per ton, $8.00.

Potatoes, per cwt., $1.00.

Turkeys, per lb., 12@14c.

Ducks, per lb., 12c.

Geese, per lb., 12c.

Honey, per lb., 20@25c.

Apples, per bu., 25@30c.

Onions, per bu., 50c.

Cabbages, per doz., 50@75c.

Beans, per bu., $1.60@1.80.

Pork, dressed, 5@6c.

Veal, dressed, 5@6c.

Wool, unwashed, 20c.

Wool, washed, 30c.

Wool, fine, 35c.

Wool, coarse, 30c.

Wool, Lambs, 30c.

Wool, Black Sheep, 20c.

Wool, Extra Fine or Merino, 30c.

Wool, Extra Coarse, 30c.

Wool, Fine Coarse or Medium, 30c.

Wool, Extra Fine or Merino White 30c; Light Shade, 30c.

Lambs, 30c.

Lambs, fine or medium, 30c.

Lambs, Extra Coarse, 30c.

Lambs, Black, 30c.

Lambs, Black Extra Coarse, 30c.

Lambs, Black Fine or Medium, 30c.

Lambs, Black Extra Fine or Merino

CAPTIVE.

BY WILLIAM HAYDOTHORN.

I saw a sad sweet face to-day
Gaze out in the sunshine gay
Through the bars of a dark cage,
Like a bird looking forward to far away
Over the summer ocean.

Around the block, within and within,
Thus she had gazed, I ween,
Thinking of home in the pale-blue light
They found so sunny now.

The flowers were mellowing to and fro,
Their eyes dipped bits on sport
With the sunbeams, and the sweet-apple bow
Was shadowed now as she used to know,
Back to her first-ring feast.

The same around was wondrous fair,
Yet sadness filled her heart;
Fancy, fancy, carried her thither,
And filled the vacant place with dreams
Of the sweet view gone thus.

That vision from the far blue skies,
What dream of hill and dale
Could bring back the joyous pulse-beats
To her heart within the pent-up eyes
And flush a cheek so pale.

A prisoned heart, in and unrest—
Poor heart, and yet and low,
Gazing, O Hill, the view my heart,
And long for the home of my peers
Where purple shadows flow!

The longing, lingering, lonely look,
The wan, sad cheek so white,
The heart that beat beneath the shady brook,
Thus long sought the shadowy nook,
Are in my dreams to-night.

HAROLD'S MISTAKE.

BY LIZZIE VAN DEVOORT.

A bright moonlight night and a gay party. Pinks of daughter in all hues float through the lawn frosty or as sleigh-bound after sleigh-load drive away from a brightly lit house—and, and the street scenes filled with the dashing sleighing party.

Yes, a small sleigh-like creation drawn by a single black horse, heads the party. Its occupants are Mr. Harold Greystone and his sister, Miss Nellie. Mr. Greystone, after wrapping his sister in the fur robes, devotes himself to putting his horse at a speed that promises to leave the remainder of the party in the distance. For somewhere, Mr. Greystone does not seem to share the exuberant spirits of the rest of the party. On the contrary, he seems a good deal put out, to say the least, and his usually good-humored countenance is overcast. His heavy black brows are drawn together, and in spite of the sleighing exercise one can note the firm expression that lurks around the mouth.

Altogether he looks very grim. Miss Nellie thinks as she turns herself and surveys him.

She is very small herself, and being buried to the chin in furs, it is a work of time to turn herself sufficiently to see his face. Noting its expression, she began cautiously:

"Harold, aren't you driving the horses too fast? See, the others are away behind."

"We will arrive all the sooner for supper, sis," was the reply.

"Oh, I'm sure the oysters are not put on to cook yet, so we needn't hurry on that score."

Harold reluctantly pulled up his horse a little, and, looking back, he growled:

"That fool, Douglass, will double enough for the whole party. It's a good sample he would consent to drive a load. However, if my lady Blanche wanted to go in a load he would not object. It's a mystery to me how as sensible a gal as Blanche Leslie can tolerate such an idiot in her presence. But, pshaw, there is no mystery about it. If a fellow has a full purse it makes no difference whether he possesses any brains or not. Giddy, girls, giddy!" slapping the horse savagely with the reins.

"Harold, why on ask Blanche to go with you?"

"No, by Jove, I didn't. I am not quite such a fool as that. My Lady Blanche will find little chance to get every one around her finger like Douglass."

"I don't think you need be so hard on Blanche. She can't help after 'old people' at all. We are not rich, and I am sure she is always gracious itself, though you do put on awful airs and treat her like she was the veriest stranger. As for Mr. Douglass, almost everyone likes him, if he is a little dull. But Blanche isn't the least bit in love with him."

"No, not in love with him, but his pocket-book. I never supposed she was in love with him."

"Harold Greystone, I am ashamed of you. You know there isn't a word of truth in what you say. There, I am glad we have got there at last. I feel chilly in spite of furs."

Harold lifted his charge from his sleigh and passed her on the steps of the hotel, where the party have planned a dance, to be followed by an oyster supper. The other sleighs drive up, and directly the hotel is alive with the merry party. The evening is hurtily enjoyed by all, with the exception, perhaps, of Harold Greystone. The sight of Miss Leslie smilingly accepting the attentions offered her by young Douglas rendered the evening anything but pleasant to him. It is true he had no right to complain.

Nellie was right when she said his own pride had created the barrier between them. The fact that while Miss Leslie's parents are grown wealthier within late years, her own had grown poorer, was obstacle enough to Harold. He did not fancy the name of fortune-hunter. He told himself she had totally forgotten the old days when they were on an equal footing, and, no doubt, she was ashamed to remember her preference for himself. But he would not persuade that now. Douglass might win her, and he would not lay a straw in his way.

All this and a great deal more ran through his head as he gaily talked and danced with particular rival of Blanche's, who seemed determined to bring him to her feet.

At last the party concluded to turn their steps homeward. Harold seized his own particular range from a crowd of hooded and muffled figures and speedily had her in the sleigh, comfortably ensconced in the robes.

"Now, sis, remember you are not to note or hardly speak on the way home, she you will be laid up with another cold and have a red nose, and then you can not see your dear Fred when he arrives to-morrow. After dancing so much and eating a warm supper you must be doubly careful, and if I hear a sneeze, home you go for the rest of the winter, my child!" which cheerful remark he emphasized by a gentle smoking.

"You need not be absolutely dumb. Just send your head to signify your approval of my remarks. Did you think a good time?"

A perceptible moving back and forth was his answer.

"Yes, every one had a splendid time, myself in particular. I entertained myself watching Douglass plus the clown for Miss Leslie's amusement. He did it to perfection. By George, I should have thought an aunty sweet snake would have made her sick. Shows how much a woman can stand when she makes up her mind to it, and I suppose he mind is made up, don't now?"

A decided negative is indicated by his companion's movements.

"Humph! I firmly believe she intends to marry Douglass some over later, probably sooner. Why don't you think she does, sis? You can unknown that shawl on earth, or whatever it is, enough to let me hear the sound of your voice. I'm getting lonesome. What did you say?"

"I don't think Blanche likes Mr. Douglass very well," was the lively answer.

"The dence you don't! O, sis! I am ashamed. I know. Don't she show him all sorts of favors, dancing with him repeatedly, even giving him the dance she used to always give to me and that I should have enjoyed so much? Didn't—

"Did you ask her for it?" murmured the figure of his side.

"Ask her for it? No! I. Though, to tell the truth, I was tempted to ask her to do. If she had vouchsafed me one friendly glance I would undoubtedly have made a fool of myself."

Some thought seemed to be occupying his companion, and her struggles at twisted the arm nearest of Mr. Greystone's to shake his circulatity.

"Now, Nellie, I positively forbid you taking off a single shawl," and he attempted to readjust her wraps, but the lady resisted his well-intended efforts and in a trice had torn the veil from her face and displayed to his astonished gaze the laughing countenance of Blanche Leslie.

"Now, sis, you are not your remarks, Mr. Greystone. Your style, though a little peculiar, is nevertheless highly entertaining. I don't know when I have enjoyed a ride so much."

"Ain't you afraid we shall upset if we don't keep to the roads? for the horse was following its own sweet will and meanderings along the roadside in an aimless fashion, while his driver stared at his companion in utter amazement.

"What—sis—Blanche—I have been, I his power of speech coming back to him by jerks.

"Where is Nellie, and how on earth did you get here, Blanche?"

"O, Nellie wanted to ride home with the load—think she was tired of your company, sir—and I hadn't the heart to refuse her when she wanded me to take her place."

"And you have been listening to all my silly talk? What must you think of me? Can you ever forgive me for the way I have talked—and, having let loose on her—to tell me, Blanche, that you brother and the sister that fellow Douglass?"

"And I do not bustle and despise Mr. Douglass. On the contrary, I consider him one of the pleasantest young men I know. But should you want to be rid of Mr. Douglass for? Are you so infatuated with him that you cannot talk of anything else?"

"I infatuated with him! I heartily detest the fellow. I wanted to know the news every time he looked at you to-night. Blanche, darling," slipping his arm adroitly around her waist, "tell me, do you care even a little for me? Are you perfectly indifferent to me, when I have worshiped you all my life?"

"It would serve you right if I lated you, and I had one why I don't, sir, for as you have treated me—never to come near me or speak to me at all," with a most reproachful glance.

"That you don't hate me, do you Blanche?"

"No—I don't," she confessed.

Mr. Greystone's horse lagged in a most unceremonious fashion the last half of the way home, but everything must have been very harmonious, for the first time Mr. Greystone met Mr. Douglass, he hailed him with such hearty good humor as to fill the gentleman with wonder, and he marveled greatly what had occurred to make Harold, Greystone, "By Jove, he never used to hardly speak to a fellow."

The Woman Went Back on William.

One of the first men to locate in Franklin County, Ga., was William Settles, a brawny blacksmith who lived in the neighborhood of Black's Creek. He, together with others, was captured by the Indians once, but being a blacksmith, he did not share the fate of most prisoners. He finally made his escape when most of the braves of the tribe were out on the war-path. Some time after his escape a young lady in the neighborhood was captured by the Indians. Settles, being enamored of the young lady, started in immediate pursuit, with his rifle and dog as his only companions. He followed the Indians several days, and hovered around the camp at night, but found no opportunity of rescuing the fair prisoner until the seventh night. The Indians, believing themselves free from pursuit, left their captive in care of two warriors, and went to some other members of the tribe. Settles approached as near the camp as he could with safety, got the two Indians in line with his heavy rifle, and sent an ounce ball through their bodies, killing them instantly. He untied the fainting girl, put her upon his horse, selected a fleet pony from among the herd belonging to the Indians, and reached home with his fair charge in safety. It is said that the course of true love never did run smooth, and the adage proved true in Settles case. The girl to whom he had rendered such signalservice, and for whom he had dared so much, turned her back upon him, and refused to accept him as her husband. He left in disgust, and subsequent wooing, and married a charming woman soon afterwards, and the above occurrence.—Atlanta Constitution.

Little Georgie at Church.

"Well, Georgie," said Mrs. Jinks, on the return of her youngest from church, "did you pay attention to the sermon?"

"Oh, yes, ma; and they had the funniest dressed man I ever saw. He was up on a platform, and did all his talk, and he wore his night-gown, and had his pants tied round his neck."—Chicago Tribune.

CHOLERA'S TRAVELS.

Courses the Plague Has Pursued in the Past.

From the Inter Ocean.

In 1832 cholera prevailed in France to such an extent that 120,000 deaths occurred within the year, 7,000 of which were in the short space of eighteen days. In the spring of the next year it appeared in England and in Ireland. From Liverpool, Cork, Limerick, and Dublin five vessels of emigrants sailed for Quebec, and 120 deaths occurred during the passage. These ships were put in quarantine at Grosse Isle, but on June 5 a vessel conveyed a load of these emigrants, with their baggage, to Quebec and Montreal. Cases of cholera occurred at Quebec the next day. From Montreal the emigrants were followed by the emigrant society as fast as they arrived, and the pestilence was soon of such a shapeing shape. The epidemic in that way reached Detroit, continued west along the great lakes, and in September the military posts on the Upper Mississippi were attacked, and Rock Island, Fort Snelling, and Prairie du Chien were decimated by the disease. The infection was both direct and indirect between the sick and the well. An infected mattress found from a passing vessel was picked up by a man, and both he and his wife died of cholera.

In October, 1832, the brig Amazel, with 200 persons on board, sailed from New York for New Orleans. The disease appeared on board the sixth day out. The brig was ordered to Long Island, ten miles from Charleston, and in two days the disease had spread among among the inhabitants of that island. Before that there had never been a case of cholera within two hundred miles of Folly Island. An unoccupied ship having cholera on board reached New York, whence the disease spread up the Hudson, and was carried southwardly to Philadelphia, and thence to the West.

In 1833 the disease broke out in Havana, whence it was carried to Mexico and American towns on the Gulf of Mexico, and up the Mississippi and Ohio as far as the western border of Pennsylvania. The next year there was a second outbreak at Quebec, occasioned by a vessel of emigrants coming in. The disease prevailed in Canada and New York, and thence spread all over the country. In 1835 it was found that the disease had spread in Havana, and was carried southwardly to Philadelphia, and thence to the West.

In 1845 the disease broke out in Havana, whence it was carried to Mexico and American towns on the Gulf of Mexico, and up the Mississippi and Ohio as far as the western border of Pennsylvania. The next year there was a second outbreak at Quebec, occasioned by a vessel of emigrants coming in. The disease prevailed in Canada and New York, and thence spread all over the country. In 1847 it was found that the disease had spread in Havana, and was carried southwardly to Philadelphia, and thence to the West.

In 1849 the disease reappeared in New York, and killed 5,000 persons. The disease rested until 1853, when it appeared in Havana, and thence to New York, killing 11,000 persons, and reappeared in Havana, where 114,681 died, and England, where there were 11,000 deaths. In 1854 emigrants introduced it into New York, whence it was carried to Philadelphia, extended to many towns in New England and was heavy along the western channel of emigration. There was a rest until 1861, when the cholera broke out among the pilgrims to Mecca. It reached Europe in 1866, and was thence borne by land and means to North America and the West Indies. In 1866 it was carried from Halifax in troop ships to New York and the various Southern ports, from whence its progress could be traced to Texas and the Gulf States, and to the west of the Mississippi and Missouri.

The last appearance of cholera in the United States was in 1873, when it occurred at three points far distant from each other, being introduced by the effects of emigrants. These were Cardiage, Ohio; Cross River, Minn., and Yankton, Dakota. In each place twenty-four hours after the poison particles were liberated the disease appeared. It is thus shown that cholera is not general in this country from any local conditions, but depends upon the introduction of the specific poison of the disease. Water is the main channel through which the infectious principles of the disease are spread, and the particles can also be conveyed in clothing, proving that when liberated, they are instantly. In United States, the fainting girl, put her upon his horse, selected a fleet pony from among the herd belonging to the Indians, and reached home with his fair charge in safety. It is said that the course of true love never did run smooth, and the adage proved true in Settles case. The girl to whom he had rendered such signal service, and for whom he had dared so much, turned her back upon him, and refused to accept him as her husband. He left in disgust, and subsequent wooing, and married a charming woman soon afterwards the above occurrence.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Benefits of the Civil War.

There was no time during the rebellion when I did not think, and often say, that the South was more to be benefited by defeat than the North. The latter had the people, the institutions, and the spirit to recover from and prosperous nation. The former was burdened with an institution inherent to all civilized peoples not to be under it, and one which brought up their labor, kept it in ignorance, and enervated the governing class. With the outside world at war with this institution, they could not have extended their territory. The juice of the country was not skilled, nor allowed to become so. The whites could not toil without becoming degraded, and those who did were denominated "poor white trash." The system of slavery would have soon exhausted the soil and left the people poor. The consistent slaveholders would have left the country, and the small slaveholder must have sold out to his more fortunate neighbors. Soon the slaves would have outnumbered the masters, and not being in sympathy with them, would have risen in their might and exterminated them. The war was expensive to the South as well as to the North, both in blood and treasure, but it was worth all it cost.—Gen. U. S. Grant.

Not as Easy as It Looked.

It was the first evening I was in a gondola, and, after admiring the skill and ease with which the gondolier manipulated his oar, I was struck with the idea of attempting the feat myself. Nothing looked easier than to imitate that—standing up, to stand up on the rear end of the gondola and dip the oar in and out of the water.

"You look tired," I said to the gondolier; "if you like you may rest a while and I will row for you."

Had I offered to stand on my head and walk to Milan the man could not have looked more astonished.

"You, signore?" he exclaimed. "Why, you couldn't even learn to stand up here under two months."

"Why, I can," said I. "I have rowed boats on the Mississippi—from Memphis to Cairo Hopefield. Do you think I don't know how to work this humbling thing on the smooth waters of Venice?"

The gondolier smiled a very unsatisfactory smile.

"Ah, buono—good, signore. I take you where you leave a nice swim. Step, signore, you can take clothes off."

This was consoling advice to a confident swimmer, not very flattering to my pride, still I thought I might as well follow his advice as he slowly pulled over the lagoons between the cemetery and Murano. I divested myself of all my clothing and prepared for a first lesson in the Venetian art of gondoliering. As I have said, it looks as easy as the easiest thing in the world. The gondolier stands at the extreme end of the long, slim boat, and the oar rests in an oar-lock that stands up from the deck a foot or eighteen inches. There is nothing to hold the oar in the lock, but this I did not notice until I tried myself. I stepped there so quietly and pleasantly as long as the Italian was at the stern that the idea never entered my head but that it belonged there, and stayed there of its own accord. Woful mistake!

I had scarcely taken position on the stern of the boat and had put my first stroke when the oar flew out of that lock in a unmentionable manner that I to this minute unable to understand, and I flew out of the boat into the water. Of course, I thought that the gondolier for his timely warning and advice. The lagoon was never deep nor carry with him a very extensive wardrobe, and but I fallen into the water with my clothing on I would have been in a very bad plight indeed. As it was, I went down a while, but a good bath, then climbed into the gondola and with a grin at my pupil, said the same result. A third and fourth attempt proved no more successful, and finally I came to the conclusion that gondoliering was not as easy as it looked, and so dressed myself and turned the oar over to the proper hands.—Memphis Avalanche.

Enough to Vex a Saint.

"Of all the men I ever heard tell of, he's the beatest of them all. Last night when he come home to supper he'd been celebrate beer till he smell worse than a Dutchman, and I telled him so, and I telled him he oughtn't to go out and eat with the hogs, and he never said a word, but just sat and sulked. He's awful trym' to my patience!

"Well, after supper he got up and put on his hat. Then I think a good deal he, you? says I. 'Yes,' says he. 'Where? says I. 'Where I jolly well please,' says he. 'I hope you'll be arrested,' says I, and out he went, leavin me mad and I couldn't eat. 'I'll give you a piece of my mind when I go to bed,' says I to myself, and I set up till after midnight, and then I just a shaved over my hand and went down to the stable-house. 'Where's Jim?' says I to the pleeuman. 'I dunno,' says he, 'Ain't he arrested?' says I. 'I dunno,' says he. 'Can't you find out?' says I. 'Yes,' says he, and he ringed up the Central Station, and they said he wasn't there. Then he ringed up the Trubble Avenue Station, and they said he was there; so I went down there, and there was Jim a-locked up in a little bit of a place.

"'Now you would be glad and arrested, yes?' says I. 'What did you do that for?' says he.

"'You hoped I would,' says he, 'and I didn't wanter disappoint ye,' says he.

"'Did ye ever hear such a man as that to me, his wife, that's always a-trym' to make home pleasant? Oh, has enough to vex a saint?"—Detroit Free Press.

A Business with Her.

A careful housewife, upon entering her kitchen, said to the colored cook:

"Great goodness, Jane, you must be more careful. You are not clean enough in your cooking.

"Lady," replied the cook, as she took up a piece of beef that had fallen on the floor, "I sees dat yer brings yer ack foolish wid me. Ain't yer got nothin' for do yerself for a-run out leab?"

"It's my business to come out here occasionally."

"Ah right, den, bab it yer own way, but I waster say you thing: If yer wad yer cooking, yer mus' be clean and wid yer sanin' appettite, yer'd better stay outen dis kitchen. Yas," she talked on, as she wiped a dish with a dirty rag, "you'd better not come out heah, for cookin' is my business, wid me, an' when yer passon is 'gaged in business, foolishness is awful troublesome."—Arkansaw Traveler.

HUMOR.

A PRIZE-FIGHT is called a "mill," but prize-fighters are not millers.—Brooklyn Times.

THE road to wealth is crowded with the men who are turning back.—Rate Hall Times.

"HAS he any expensive habits?" "He has one rather expensive one that I know of." "What is it?" "Eating."—Chicago Ledger.

THE gallbearer who kindly measured other men's necks out of his own hatshel never had any quarts in his heart.—Rochester Gazette.

DOCTOR—"Now, tell me, Colonel, how do you feel when you've killed a man?" Colonel—"Oh, very well, thank you, Doctor, how do you?"—London Punch.

TO SPEAK of Sitting Bull as a coward is absurd. He faced a Washington boarding house existence for a fortnight and never turned a hair.—Fall River Advertiser.

A PENNSYLVANIA woman buried two corpses last week. Of course she skinned sausages in a restaurant, but why did she let you back?—Norman Independent.

A MAN suffers deeply, no doubt, when his boiler is stung, but he generally makes more fuss about it when he gets it fresh from the furnace on the end of his nose.—Chicago Ledger.

It is only when vacation arrives that people discover the latest possibilities in the small here. For instance the man who goes to the country finds himself around him miserable.—Boston Courier.

IF wont do to bunk too much on the fellow with the fine suit. In time cases out of ten, the tapeseal, as he is called, has no more in the pockets of his pantaloons than the broke-down traveler does who borrows a quarter of you to get home with. The reptile classed a fellow out of his last dime, and he can afford to be generous. Yes, it takes a fresh mouse.—Norristown Herald.

WHEN an Indian is caught "throwing his tomahawk into a friend in jest" he is called a "joker."

"Yes, sir, I'm a Washington boarding house existence for a fortnight and never turned a hair.—Fall River Advertiser.

"Well, I had pretty well," I answered. The doctor uttered an incredulous reply, and the Senator frankly told him, in answer to his inquiry, that it was Warner's safe pills which accomplished the result, and the operation had failed to do. Senator Hiram Jeffries seems very much astonished at the revelation of power.—The tribune.

"Overwhelmingly defeated.

A Kind-Hearted Texan.

Colonel Melinda Stumpter, of Austin, calls in New York dropped into a fashionable restaurant, and having surprised his stomach with a small repast, asked the waiter what was the damage. The waiter, in a polite manner, replied, "Eighteen bits, Colonel, and I'm sorry to be compelled to tell you that the charge he made the ghastly discovery that he was a dime missing. He looked amazed enough at the waiter, who was a Frenchman.

"Is dime is for my dinner."

"I didn't order any, and I won't pay it," remarked the Colonel.

"I mean, sorr, de dime is for my pain."

"It is for your pain boy, is it? That's different thing. I didn't know you had sickness in your family. Here's a quarter for him, poor fellow.

And well, the consumption of his suffering relieved the sufferings of the sick man was that." Colonel Stumpter put his hat on the side of his head and sauntered out of the hostelery.—Texas Siftings.

Mrs. Rankle's Museum.

Mrs. P. B. Rankle, of Mexico, Me., has a museum of the curiosities of the country and neighborhood, and when the same list was heard making a great to-do at the door of Mrs. Rankle's residence this afternoon the investigation revealed to beholding eyes a "curiosity" in the form of a big man, with a large and in proportion. The reptile chased Mrs. Rankle around the house and yard, causing her to faint, but, some what galvanized by the shock, she got up and ran, it stopped and coiled up, emitting a rattle. But

Around the County.

East Jordan.

From the Enterprise.

Tuesday, the Jordan River House entertained 120 at dinner.

Joseph R. Dixon was busy here Friday and Saturday surveying for the railroad company.

F. Kenyon has sold his handsome team of Clydesdale horses to Thomas Foreman, of the Pine Lake Lumber Co.; consideration $500.

Geo. Durance has purchased a half interest in the Trimble livery stable, and took up his permanent abode with us last Monday morning.

L. E. Allen, of Charlevoix, has stored a quantity of Layton's pork at this place, for the purpose of supplying our dealers in February and March.

S. G. Isaman has commenced the erection of an addition to his store building. We understand that the hall over the store will be finished off and used as a Masonic hall.

Our young friend, Arthur Meech, will manage Guyles & Nash's saw mill and mercantile interests at Nashville, east of Atwood, the coming winter. Dar. F. Meech takes his place in the register's office.

Ironton.

Sloppy weather.

There is to be a mush and milk social at the residence of T. C. Bird, next Wednesday evening, for the benefit of Rev. Putnam. All are cordially invited.

The youngest son of John Garland cut his throat badly one day last week. He is improving finely under the care of Dr. Carlstein.

Mrs. E. L. Benner has sold her house and lot in this place and will soon start for the south to join her husband.

Mr. F. W. Howe has returned home from his vacation.

Hugh McGowan, one of the keepers of the furnace, burned his foot one day last week and was laid up for a few days, but is improving.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Officers of the Society.

President—Mrs. U. Y. Cook.
First Vice President—Mrs. L. E. Allen.
Second Vice President—Mrs. J. T. Idings.
Third Vice President—Mrs. Dr. Pinney.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. D. G. Loveday.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. R. Pallisch.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. J. Strang.

"Prudent Use."

There should be extended through the community an all-pervading sense of the danger there is of falling into this sin. Intemperance is a disease as well as a crime, and were any other disease as contagious, of as marked symptoms and as mortal, to pervade the land, it would create universal consternation; for the plague is scarcely more contagious or deadly; and yet we mingle fearlessly with the diseased, and in spite of admonition we bring into our dwellings the contagion, apply it to the lip, and receive it into the system.

I know that much is said about the prudent use of ardent spirits; but we might as well speak of the prudent use of the plague—of fire handled prudently around among powder—of poison taken prudently every day—or of vipers and serpents introduced prudently into our dwellings, to glide about as a matter of courtesy to visitors, and of amusement to our children.

First or last, in spite of your prudence, the contagion will take—the fatal spark will fall upon the train—the deleterious poison will tell upon the system—and the fangs of the serpent will inflict death. There is no prudent use of ardent spirits, but when it is used as a medicine. All who receive it into the system are not destroyed by it. But if any vegetable were as poisonous to so many as the use of ardent spirits proves destructive, it would be banished from the table; it would not be prudent to use it at all. If in attempting to cross a river upon an elastic beam as many should fall in and be drowned as attempt to use spirits prudently and fail, the attempt to cross in that way would be abandoned—there would be no prudent use of that mode of crossing. The effect of attempting to use ardent spirits prudently is destructive to such multitudes as precludes the possibility of prudence in the use of it. When we consider the decidful nature of this sin, and its irresistible efficiency, no man can use it prudently, or without mocking God can pray while he uses it, "lead us not into temptation." There is no necessity for using it at all, and that it is presumptuous to do so.

A wakeful recollection should be maintained of the distinction between intemperance and drunkenness. So long as men suppose that there is no other crime nor danger in drinking, short of what they denominate drunkenness, they will cast off fear and move onward to ruin by a silent, certain course, until destruction comes upon them, and they cannot escape. It should be known therefore and admitted that to drink daily, at stated times, any quantity of ardent spirits is intemperance, or to drink periodically so often as days, and times, and seasons, may furnish temptation and opportunity is intemperance. It may not be for any one time the intemperance of animal or mental excitement, but it is an innovation upon the system which can not fail to generate disease, and will not be pursued by one hundred men without producing many drunkards.

It is not enough, therefore, to erect the flag ahead; to mark the spot where the drunkard dies. It must be planted at the entrance of his course, proclaiming in waving capitals: "This is the way to death!" Over the whole territory of "prudent use" it must wave and warn. For if we can not stop men in the beginning, we can not separate between that and the end. He who lets ardent spirits alone before it is meddled with, is safe, and he only. It should be in be labeled as we label laudanum—and "Touch not, taste not, handle not," should meet the eye on every vessel which contains it.—Extract from a sermon on intemperance, delivered by Lyman Beecher, D. D., in 1826.

My Boy, Do You Smoke?

The United States navy annually takes into its service a large number of apprentice boys, who are sent all over the world and taught to be thorough sailors. It has been the policy of the government since the war to educate the "blue jacket," on the principle that the more intelligent a man he is, the better sailor he is likely to become. There is no lack of candidates for these positions. Hundred of boys apply, but many are rejected because they cannot pass the physical examination. Major Houston one of the Marine Corps who is in charge of the Washington Navy Yard barracks, is the authority for the statement that one-fifth of all the boys examined are rejected on account of heart disease.

His first question to a boy who desires to enlist, is: "Do you smoke?" The invariable response is "No, sir," and the telltale discoloration of the fingers at once shows the truth. The surgeons say that cigarette smoking by boys produces heart disease, and that in ninety nine cases in a hundred the rejection of would-be apprentices on account of this defect comes from excessive use of the miller form of this weed. This is a remarkable statement, coming, as it does, from so high an authority and based upon the results of actual examinations going on day after day, month after month. It should be a warning to parents that the deadly cigarette is sure to bring about incurable injury to the young. A law passed restricting its use to the dudes would not, perhaps, bring popular disfavor, because it might relieve the number of these objects about our streets, but boys indulging in the cigarette ought to be treated to liberal doses of "real in jackie" until the habit is thoroughly eradicated.—Scientific American.

NOTICE.

I will remain in Charlevoix about four weeks longer, after which time my Photograph Gallery will be closed. If you wish me to do any photograph work for you, please come soon. I have some fine cabinet photo frames I will sell cheap, also 8x10 frames. Pom tintypes for sale cheap.

A. D. BRADBEER,
Photographer.

CROWN TOILET SOAP. Unsurpassed for the Toilet, Bath and Nursery. Leaves Delicious Perfume. 50 Cents by the Cake Sold by Druggists. Crown Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio.

For Sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the interest on the money secured by a mortgage bearing date the twenty-first day of August, 1882, executed by Daniel H. Brooks and Mary Ann, his wife, of Charlevoix County, Mich., to George W. Eggleston, of New York City, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, of the County of Charlevoix, in Liber 5, of Mortgages, on page 308, on the 30th day of August, 1882, at 9 o'clock a. m., and duly sealed to consider the whole amount of principal and interest due.

AND WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, is the sum of Twenty Hundred Eighty (2080) Dollars, principal and interest, and the attorney fee of Twenty-five Dollars as an attorney fee allowed for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceeding in law or equity having been instituted to recover the debt or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the premises therein described, at public sale, at the Chicago Exhibitor, in the front door, or entrance, of building the Circuit Court in Charlevoix County, in the village of East Jordan, Charlevoix County, Mich., on the twenty-second day of December, 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of said day, to pay the debt thereon so described in said mortgage, and costs. All that parcel of land being in the township of Melrose, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, and described as all of the north-west quarter (¼) of section number thirty-six, (36), in township thirty-one (31) north of range five (5) west, containing forty acres of land.

Dated Sept. 24, 1885.

GEORGE W. EGLESTON,
Mortgagee.

FAIRTIMER & GEORGE,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Petoskey, Mich. 127

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed on the twenty-sixth day of August, A. D. 1885, by Elias Pokepsuss, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of mortgaged premises hereinafter described, to Lyman Hubbard, of Detroit, Michigan, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for said county of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of September, A. D. 1885, in liber "4" of Mortgages, on page 296, which mortgage was on the second day of March, A. D. 1885, assigned by said William Hubbard to the Detroit Dry Goods Company, a corporation of Detroit, Michigan, said assignment being recorded on the fourth day of March, A. D. 1885, in liber "10" of mortgages, in the registry of said county, on page 69; by virtue of which default the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative, and whereas, at the date of said default there was due and payable on said mortgage for principal and interest the sum of forty-five and 50-100 dollars ($45.50), and whereas, no suit or proceedings have been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof; Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and of the statutes of the state of Michigan in such case made and provided, the undersigned will sell at public auction or vendue, to the highest bidder, on Tuesday, the Nineteenth day of January, A. D. 1886, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of Lowder's Hall in the village of East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix (that being the place for holding the Circuit Court in said county), the premises described in said mortgage, or sufficient thereof to satisfy said mortgage, interest thereon, and costs, and attorney fee, allowed by law, and said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: The east half of the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section twenty-five (25), in township thirty-four (34) north of range seven (7) west, containing twenty acres more or less, according to the United States survey thereof, together with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich. October 1st, 1885.

MARGARET K. BLACKMER,
Assignee.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage. 118

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss
County of Charlevoix. }

In the matter of the estate of David N. Tillinghast, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order granted to the undersigned, administrator of the estate of said David N. Tillinghast, deceased, by the Judge of Probate in the County of Charlevoix, on the third day of December, A. D. 1885, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the postoffice in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in said state, on Saturday, the 26th day of December, A. D. 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, the following real estate, or so much thereof, or of the interest belonging to said estate, as may be necessary to pay the debts of said deceased, with the expenses of administration, viz.: The following described real estate, to wit:

The south half of the south-east quarter (¼) of section and being the township of Melrose, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, more fully described as the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section number twenty-five (25), in township thirty-four (34) north of range seven (7) west, containing one hundred and twenty acres of land, according to the United States survey thereof.

Dated November 11th, 1885.

ALFRED F. HEASLEY,
Administrator.

A PRESENT.

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping, (and subscribe for the Journal) will receive a Beautiful Finish Parlor Engraving of 50 our Presidents (including Cleveland, size 22x28, worth $4.00). Address Elder Publisher, Chicago, Ill.

ANOTHER INVOICE
JUST RECEIVED.

SILVERWARE
CLOCKS,
JEWELRY.

C. R. BELLINGER.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a full stock of

Meat

of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it IN NEW YORK.

J. MILO EATON,
DEALER IN
Real Estate
OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,
IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Random.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Random.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.
GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY
IRONTON, MICH.

$100 REWARD
FOR
Every Ounce of Adulteration
IN THE
U. G. Soap
The Great 5c Cake,
Made only by
GOWANS & STOVER,
BUFFALO, N. Y.
For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG
TOBACCO

Is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more of it used than any other in the state. It is always in good order; NEVER HARDENS AND NEVER SWELLS; GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION, and a few of its extraordinary qualities THE REASON why NIMROD IS THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER, never stocks on the dealer's hands. This cannot be said of any other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.
Petersburg, Va.

The Independent

The Largest, the Ablest, the Best

RELIGIOUS AND LITERARY WEEKLY.

The most influential religious organ in the States—The Spectator, London, Eng.

THE INDEPENDENT is one of the best papers in the world. Its good points are many and striking. Its contributors are to be highly appreciated, and its presence in our cabins appears like that of an angel. Its editorial corps of the ablest and most competent kind, and its aim shows that its contents are marked by—

ABILITY, VARIETY, AND INTEREST.

The great thinkers, the great story-writers, the great poets, the great men of the world, are its regular contributors. Its pages are filled with the life of controversies. Religion, philosophy, art, science, commerce, industry, discovery, travel, and all conceivable topics are embraced in the outlook. Its editorial corps is composed of able and accomplished men, experts, and specialists in their respective departments.

COMPREHENSIVENESS—It is a religious, a literary, an educational, a story, and art, a science, a philosophical, a financial, and a political journal.

BREADTH, CANDOR, EARNESTNESS. This journal is not the property of any clique. It is the organ of no church or party, but of all church. It is free, therefore, to discuss all questions, and to speak its mind candidly, and to cover—to fear or favor. It is a great, free, fearless, and independent journal, with a special right—and it exercises it—to express all moral reforms. All its columns are always open to the free reading and free from everything of doubtful or objectionable character. No matter what a person's religion, politics, or profession may be, if he desires to keep abreast of the times, he must read what the minds are thinking of the ablest men are doing and saying, and what the world at large is doing—he should read The Independent.

TERMS TO SUBSCRIBERS:

Three months.....75 | One year.....$2.00
Four months.....$1.00 | Two years.....3.00
Six months.....1.50 | Five years.....10.00

Can any one make a better investment of $2.00 or $3.00 than one which will pay

52 Dividends During the Year?

Every intelligent family needs a good newspaper. It is a necessity for parents and children.

A good way to make the acquaintance of The Independent is to send 30 cents for a "Trial Trip" of 3 months.

SPECIMEN COPIES FREE.

No papers are sent to subscribers after the time paid for has expired.

The Independent's Clubbing List will be sent free to any person asking for it. Any one wishing to subscribe for one or more papers or magazines, in connection with The Independent, can save money by ordering from our Club List. Address

THE INDEPENDENT,
P. O. Box 2787, New York.

THE GREAT GRANT BOOK.

Life and Personal Memories of Gen. Grant. In one volume only $1.75. One agent sold 43 the first day. 10,000 sold first week. A $1 engraving free to purchasers. Price $1 and upwards. Sales guaranteed. Think of this! Some person should be in every town to take the orders for more this further. Book now out—on sale by first subscribers. Address ELGIN PUBLISHING CO., 304 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 128

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 30am	9 30pm
Fort Wayne, ar	6 20pm	2 40pm	1 20am
Fort Wayne, lv		2 45	1 30	8 00am
Kalamazoo, ar		5 35	5 40	12 05
Kalamazoo, lv		7 25	5 45	12 20
Grand Rapids, ar		9 20	9 20	2 35
Grand Rapids, lv	7 40am			11 50
Big Rock, ar	9 15			11 45
Howard City,	9 30		12 50pm	12 30
Edmore,	9 45		1 05	12 45
Reed City, ar	10 20		1 40	1 35
Reed City, lv	9 55		2 00	4 30
Cadillac, ar			3 15	5 45
Cadillac, lv			3 53	5 48
Walton,			4 24	6 19
Kalkaska,			4 50	6 44
Mancelona,			5 26	7 19
Baxter Park,			5 35	7 26
Dylestown, ar			5 40	7 31
Harbor Springs				8 15
Mackinaw City			9 50pm	2 25pm

GOING SOUTH

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 4	No. 8
Mackinaw City,	7 00am		2 50pm
Harbor Springs,			3 05
Dylestown,	7 26		3 32
Bayne Falls,	7 35		3 40
Mancelona,	7 42		3 47	10 30am
Kalkaska,	10 32		4 28
Walton,	11 04		5 00
Cadillac, ar	12 00pm		5 35
Cadillac, lv	12 05	2 30am	6 10pm	6 10pm
Reed City, ar	1 40	4 05	7 45	7 45
Reed City, lv	2 05		7 50	7 50
Edmore,	2 45		8 25	8 25
Howard City,	2 58		8 38	8 38
Big Rock,	3 15		8 55	8 55
Grand Rapids, ar	4 45		10 15	10 15
Grand Rapids, lv	5 30	11 15	7 30
Kalamazoo, ar	6 55	12 40am	8 55
Kalamazoo, lv	7 00	12 45	9 00	1 30am
Fort Wayne, ar	10 15pm	3 55	12 15am	4 20
Cincinnati, lv	1 45pm	7 35am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
ESTABLISHED 1845.

The 50th year. Weekly newspaper filled with the latest and most interesting information in Science, Mechanics, Mines, Science, Industry, and Art. Illustrated with splendid engravings. Its contents are of the highest character, and information is given in a manner adapted to all classes. The popularity of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is shown by its large circulation, which is the largest of any scientific journal in the world. Subscription, $3.20 per annum. Discount to Clubs. Sold by all newsdealers. Send for specimen copy. Address MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, N. Y.

PATENTS.

In connection with the Patent Office and have prepared over 50,000 Patents for American and Foreign inventors. Advice as to patentability of inventions, Rejected Cases, Infringements, Reissues, Caveats, Assignments, and all other papers for the Patent Office, promptly made. Copies of the Patent Laws of the United States, Decisions, Patents, Patents, Patents

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

For some months the farmers near Cuthbert, N. Y., have been annoyed by the malicious destruction of property. Suspicion fell at last fastened on a man named Burke and for some time they have been relieved to hear.

A fire in a tenement structure in East Sixty-fourth street, New York, resulted in the suffocation of a widow and her two little girls, aged six and seven, the other members making narrow escapes. HENRY Rohdal, a Bohemian cigar maker accused of setting the fire, has been held for arson and murder. He had insurance of $900 on furniture worth about $75.

The East Atlantic coast was visited by a destructive storm on the 24th of November, accompanied by one of the highest tides ever known. A New York dispatch says: "Old men seen in this city compared the tide to the disastrous rise of the river in 1854. Great discomfort, damage to property, and delay in business were caused by the submerging of ships, stores, and piers, and the flooding of basements and cellars. Ferry-boats stood as high in the slips that usually touch hardly and aground. Along the Jersey coast the storm was especially severe. Sandy Hook was inundated and the Government station was in danger of falling. The Southern New Jersey Railroad tracks were submerged. Two feet summer cottages at Seabrook were swept into the Atlantic. Four steamers and six sailing vessels attempted to cross Sandy Hook bar to go to sea off Ocean Beach the ship Malta, from Antwerp for New York, stranded early in the morning. One sailor jumped overboard and was drowned. The other thirty-three members of the crew were rescued by the lifesaving crew. Walks and beach improvements at Ocean Grove, Bird Beach and Atlantic City are entirely gone and damaged. Houses are undermined all along the Shrewsbury river and many families have had to leave their homes. All along the east shore the docks are submerged. In Jersey City saloons and basements were flooded. Prisoners in the City Prison had to stay in their sleeping bunks to keep out of the water. Avenue B South street buried, flooding the cellars of the finest residences on the Heights. The railroad depot there was under water, and improved bridges were laid for passengers to walk on. Most of Coney Island was submerged. The Brighton race-track was flooded and the races were postponed. The water is six feet deep on the Brooklyn side of Coney Island. Property on this island is flooded, but will probably not be seriously damaged. The front of the beach will, however, be much changed by washing away, and the damage to shore improvements is serious. Every house and summer resort landscape on Flushing Bay is more or less damaged. It is estimated that the loss will foot up into the millions."

The West Shore Railway has been sold to J. Pierpont Morgan, Chauncey M. Depew, and Adolphus Sweet for $22,000,000.

The Erie Road reports gross earnings of $18,384,572 for the year, and a deficit of $1,776,262. It cost the Erie Company $250,000 to operate the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Road under the lease.

Warner and Work, who were indicted for aiding and abetting Ferdinand Ward in misapplying $1,000,000 of Marine Bank funds, appeared in the United States Court of New York, and gave bail each in $25,000.

At Elmira, N. Y., the Rev. Father Hickman, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, denounced the members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians as wolves in sheep's clothing, unworthy the confidence or respect of good Catholics.

WESTERN.

At the entrance to his residence in East St. Louis, on Mayor John H. Freeman was assassinated by an unknown man, who fired a bullet into the back of his victim's head. Mr. Freeman was prominent in politics, having been accounted Congressman Morrison's lieutenant, and it is alleged that the murder is the result of political feuds.

The Duff Comic Opera Company, in Gilbert and Sullivan's latest success, "The Mikado," appears this week at McVicker's Theater, Chicago. The opera is presented by the same excellent company that produced it for over 100 nights at the Standard Theater, New York.

The Federal Commissioner Deputy Marshal arrested at Salt Lake for lewd conduct asserted that nineteen of the charge is brought by Mormon leaders.

Senator Plumb, of Kansas, after consultation with the eastern magnates, reports that the St. Paul will build to Kansas City next year, and that the other Western roads never surveyed and making arrangements to connect his State with Omaha.

At No. 210 Monroe street, Chicago, Samuel E. Smith murdered his young wife during the night and made his escape. It appears that at the time of their marriage the boy was engaged to Dr. J. S. H. Bickford, of Cleveland, who subsequently tried to persuade her to leave Smith.

Sterling E. Holt, one of the election commissioners, was arrested at Indianapolis, charged with conspiring to stuff a ballot box with a ballot. The judges had retired to give him the pass to the box, and he broke it open to carry out the order of court for a recount.

The State Board of Horticulture of California memorialized Congress to place a high protective tariff on prunes, raisins, and olive oil, and also endorsed the Mexican reciprocity treaty.

The works of the Calumet Iron and Steel Company, to the southward of Chicago, having been closed for six months by a strike, are about to resume operations at lower wages. Vice President Bradley says thirty-five dollars on the pay roll is formerly averaged from $16 to $18 per day each.

Congressman J. G. Cannon, a member of the Indiana committee which has been making a tour of the Indian agencies, is of the opinion that the Indians cannot long retain possession of the Indian Territory, which is capable of maintaining more than ten times its present population. It brought under the direct civilization of which it is susceptible.

The great three-cornered billiard contingent of Chicago between the world's champions, Schaefer, Slosson, and Vignaux, resulted in a tie, each man winning one and being two games.

In the Circuit Court at Janesville, Wis., a jury awarded a lad named Henning, who damaged $10,000 for the loss of his left hand by being compelled to hop from a St. Paul train at a regular station, we stop long enough.

JOHN Pierson, the convict in the Newaygo prison who confessed to killing Wilson H. Smith, has served five terms in Joliet, one in Chester, two in Columbus, Ohio, one in Lentiania, and one at Anamosa, Iowa. Some time ago at Bloomington, Ill., he accused himself of killing Murray McConnell, and, as a little insane, said he was old man Bender. These statements have been found to be fabrications, or at prominent for the present disclosure is the wise course.

Articles of incorporation have been issued to the Chicago Columbian Centennial World's Exposition Company, for the purpose of holding an international fair in Chicago, to be opened in June, 1892. The capital stock is $1,000,000.

SOUTHERN.

It is threatened by the Knights of Labor in Texas that the Chicago syndicate engaged in constructing the new State Capitol will be boycotted if stone quarried by convicts is used in the construction of the building. The boycott, if so crowned, will go into effect as soon as the first carload of granite is landed on the Capitol grounds.

A jury at Sparta, Georgia, sustained the suit of David Dickson, having $500,000 to his colored business and could, and disinherited his heirs.

The Governor of North Carolina has requested Dec. 7 four men under sentence to hang for the crime of burglary.

L. B. Jones, a young blood of Richmond, was fined one cent and imprisoned for an hour on a jury verdict for sending a challenge to fight a duel. This is the second instance since the war where punishment was inflicted for violating the dueling law.

C. A. Thorp and J. White blew out the gas upon retiring in a Baltimore hotel Sunday night, and were found dead from suffocation the next day.

In an affray at the Union Depot in Atlanta, a latter named D. H. Pope came round a wounded Albert Heath, the railway agent, who was Colonel in the Forty-second Georgia regiment during the war.

WASHINGTON.

The accounts of John L. Parish, the Chicago man who was Consul at Chemnitz, show a deficit of eight thousand dollars.

The continued scarcity of dimes has caused orders to be given to the Superintendent of the Mint to coin only fifteen pieces all on current subsidiary silver on hand.

Washington speaks: Attention has already been called to the fluctuating volume of postoffice business as a barometer of the commercial condition of the country. The reduced postage and the dull times last year combined to prevent any increase, and indeed to cause a slight falling off in the receipts of the department during the fiscal year ended June 29 last. Since then, however, there has been a gain in business activity, which has been decided, marked and rapidly increasing receipts. Each month shows a large gain over the previous month, and the receipts indicate a very prosperous condition of the country.

The Chief of the Bureau of Statistics reports that the total value of the exports of merchandise during the twelve months ended Oct. 31, 1885, were $717,192,955, and during the preceding twelve months $709,827,576; a decrease of $17,588,817. The value of imports of merchandise for the twelve months ended Oct. 31, 1885, were $565,445,573, and during the preceding twelve months $602,561,314, a decrease of $8,114,091.

POLITICAL.

A strong effort is to be made in Washington to get General Logan on both Military and Appropriations Committees in the United States Senate, which positions he lost while the Senatorial struggle was in progress at Springfield. Senators Mahone and Sewall, who succeeded him on the committees, are both to step down, and the friends of Phil John Pickler are anxious to keep General Logan off the Military Committee.

President Cleveland has made the following appointments:

Newton S. Barnes to be postmaster of Fairfield, Wis., vice Thomas Read, resignation tendered; William H. Barnum of New York, to be collector of Internal Revenue for the Twenty-first District of New York; Herbert Tyrrell, Deadwood, Dakota, to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Dakota, vice Hon. Peter C. Shannon, of Yankton, resigned; to be Marshal of the United States for the Western District of Pennsylvania, Elijah Lowry, of Mount Pleasant, Westmoreland Co., to be surveyor-general of Utah, Thomas J. Dailey, of Salt Lake City, to be Register of the Land Office at Duluth, Minn., Alfred H. Ward to be Special Examiner of Bounty Medicines and Chemical Agent, Dr. Charles Ewing, of Washington, Iowa, Wm. Smith, of Red Wing, Minn., to be Register of the Land Office at Cheyenne, Wyo., Wm. A. Austin, of Seattle, Washington Territory, to be Register of the Land Office at Vancouver, Washington Territory. To be Consuls of the United States—Theodore T. Bridgers, of South Carolina, at Matamoras, Mexico, Thomas Wilson, of Mississippi, at San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, Joseph W. Harriman a citizen of the United States, at Antigua, Guat., William H. Emmert, of New York, at Smyrna, Turkey.

Secretary Manning has asked the resignations of Mr. Henry N. Ainsworth, Assistant Chief of the Division of Internal Revenue and Navigation, for alleged disconcerting expressions making official inquiries.

THOMAS A. Doyle was re-elected Mayor of Providence, R. I., by a majority of 2,706 over the Prohibition candidate. The majority for license was 829.

A successor to Senator Cockrell will not either be chosen by the Missouri Legislature, Col. George Burgin, one of the ex-mayor of St. Joseph, is the principal candidate, and Judge Sherwood has recently entered the field.

There are usually from twelve to twenty contested election cases in the House of Representatives, but this year there will be only four, three of the contestants being Republicans, and the fourth is Mr. Weaver, the Iowa Greenbacker. The most interesting case is that of Mr. Frank Hurd, of Toledo, the Indiana young free trade advocate, who disputes the legality of the election of Mr. Bonnin, a Republican who holds the certificate. Hurd claims that Bonnin was elected by illegal voting, and that he was not entitled to the certificate on the count. Mr. G. W. Steele, of Indiana, a Republican, will have to defend his seat against Mr. N. Kolb, who makes similar charges, and Mr. H. Page, a Democrat, claims the seat of Mr. W. A. Peters, a Republican Republican. The contest which has been long waging in the Sixth Iowa District over the

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, · · MICHIGAN.

Thomas A. Hendricks.

The particulars of the death of vice president Thomas A. Hendricks will be found on our inside pages.

The death of this great statesman will be mourned by millions of people. He was an original democrat, aggressive and uncompromising. He has been before the people nearly all his life. His private life was most exemplary, and he was most popular where best known. Whenever he was a candidate, Jackson never failed to support him. He had filled the round of conspicuous posts, lacking only one position to gratify his ambition. He shared with Tilden the great disappointment of 1876-7, and enjoyed in 1884 the revenge brought in by the stinging at time. The democratic party lose a great and successful leader. His decease gives the republicans a vice president and may possibly result in a complexion of national affairs not pleasant to republicans.

Early English Agriculture.

Nothing is more characteristic of the infancy of farming than the violence of its alternations. When roots and grasses were unknown there was no middle course between mossent cropping and barrenness. The fallow was "an verifiable Dumonde, sewede a la terre." As with the land, so with its products. Feeding tools on the beds of famine, in the graphic language of ancient chronicles, persons in 1279 ate their own children when wheat rose to 36s. a quarter at the present valued money. Except in monastic granges no quantity of grain was stored; a corn dealer was the "engrd business" of the legislature. Few remembered to eat within their tether or to spare at the brink and not at the bottom.

In August, 1317, wheat was 80s. a quarter; in September following it fell to 6s. 8d. Equally variable were the employments of agriculture. Months of indolence passed suddenly into intense labor. Harvesting in the Middle Ages meant the return of plenty. On 250 acres in Suffolk, toward the close of the fourteenth century, were grown wheat, oats, peas, barley, and buckwheat, a mixture of peas or tares and oats. The crops were cut and housed in two days. On the first day appeared 30 tenants to perform their "boiscerpes," and 224 reapers. On the second the 30 remain and 530 reapers, pitchers, and stackers. Many of this assembly were tenants in villeinage on the manor. The rest were wandering hands of "workers" or laryeellers. A cook, brewer, and baker were hired to supply dinner at 9 med. supper at 5s. Barley and oats, as well as peas and beans, were generally mown; rye and wheat were reaped.

But the harvest, as in Roman times, consisted of two operations. The first was to cut the ears, the second to remove part of the straw for thatching; the rest of the stubble was either grazed, or burned, or plowed in. The crops were wheat, rye, oats, barley, beans, peas, and in inferior open fields, flax and hemp. Of grain crops, rye was the chief, it is the hardiest, grows on the poorest soils, makes the longest straw, it was then the breadth of the parishes. It was generally mixed with wheat dough. Bread so made was called maslin. Wheat and rye were often sown together. Tusser condemns the practice, "Set rye forty wheat fill it shed as a shaf," but it prevailed in Yorkshire. 1425 as a cure for mildew. By most wheat was sown alone. Rye was the dook-corn, as rye the breadcorn of the Middle Ages, dogge was the commonest and best food for mastiffs. Oats were extensively cultivated in the North, but they were poor, wiry, thin, and poor. Hardy money wanted, in indented Rains all the thing pulled was thinkes and bones." In 1440, "the cornfield was pasthelmed. Horses were scarcely used in agriculture. Oxen and less, strikes only on the lean soils, in summer fully grazed their pasture and Winter "kept it for a price; they are commonly meat when dead, when the horse is curious."—Lex Quarterly Review.

An American Picture.

John And Jean, of Anderson Station, Tenn., owns a water in the New Orleans Picayune, and says of Jean: "He was cleaning his well made cane sugar, which he raised in a patch of land on Lon Tennessee river, and exchanged for a piece of iron road in Lenoir's iron works. Jean had on a blue jeans Yankee Wooden and wicked Lincoln cap as a striker to get a weak mule to undertand plow. He had unchiled for grains and wooessing turnon the sod. He swore a very excitable word when Sheriff Gibson came to land. He killed 100 hogs, annually to feed on his land and sell on a rock road on his house and eat himself. An important daughter-in-law of his was sick with a chill, and in a curious condition. He is no use to look here, quoth sadly and mournfully, "I have been a soldier, I have been a sailor, I have been a miner, I have been a tanner, I have been a tiller of the soil," and "anybody can make what money he."

Bouquets.

See the florist at his pleasing toil. He is making an elegant and expensive bouquet for a dudeet who is going to present it to an actress on whom he is bended (to use an appropriate though vulgar expression), and her husband will sell it back to the florist early in the morning and give off on a grand bust with the proceeds.

The florist takes 48 cents worth of flowers, some wire and tinfoil, and makes a glowing vision of beauty of it, and then charges the innocent dudeet $10 for it, and he goes away happy. A 2-cent dude sets a $10 bunch of flowers! Yet the dudeet is happy, the actress is delighted, and the florist is happy. Who shall say which of the trio has profited most?

O, the blooming, radiant flowers! How they carry one back to boyhood days, the days of patchwork trousers and one suspender. When the modest offering of posies is made with palpitating heart and burning cheek to the pert and saucy girl whose black eyes rake such a hound in one's brains. Little reeks she of the early rising and tiresome search for the obnoxious swamp-sass and trusting aromas, when the robins call to each other through the trees and the woodchuck is coasting over the township map to see who has planted better this spring!

Then also give the flowers with winning grace to your red-headed rival. O, the agony of it! And when she is 18 she will do the same with the roses you may in December, and which cause you to hoof it down town every day for a month for lack of sassafras.

Who Will be Vice President?

To answer this question which has been asked many times since the death of vice-president Hendricks, we print the following: "In case of removal, death, resignation or disability of both president and vice president of the United States, the president of the senate, or, if there is none, then the speaker of the house of representatives for the time being shall act as president until the disability is removed or a president elected. [Section 146. Revised U. S. statutes 1873-4.]"

Wild Cherry and Tar.

Every body knows the virtues of Wild Cherry and Tar as a tried and sure for any affection of the throat and lungs. Scarcely a family in the ingredients are a few, simple healing remedies in the composition of Dr. Saunders' Cough and Lung Syrup making it matter whether you doubt always force in the house, for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Sore throat, Pain in the side and Lungs. 50 cents. Sold by G. W. Crosier.

OVER A MILLION A WEEK.

The Greatest Newspaper Success of the Age.

The New York World

Has a Circulation of over

1,100,000

COPIES PER WEEK.

This has been secured by making it

The Best Newspaper

Published Anywhere on the Globe.

ITS WEEKLY EDITION,

THE WEEKLY WORLD,

$2.00 Per Year

is a Complete and Perfect Family Newspaper.

Club Agents look from 20 cents to $2.00 each subscription, in grand premium offers.

Subscribers save from 1 to 50 cents by ordering their special contents made by THE WORLD. Send for Circulars.

It Pays to be an Agent for The World.

The World's Grand Premiums

AND

The World's Grand Combinations

Have Never Been Equalled.

Every person should know what they are, for it is the knowledge every family can save from $5 to $50.

Address THE WORLD,

51 Park Row, New York.

The Weekly World is published with Full and Complete Market Reports, Price $1.00 per Year. Sample copies Free to all Applicants.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

The 11th year of this popular Weekly commenced on the 1st of January, 1884. It is the largest, best, and most popular Scientific Journal now published. Every Saturday it contains 16 pages, printed in the most beautiful manner, and profusely illustrated with engravings, representing the latest and most recent improvements in Science and Mechanics. It gives the results of the Patent Office, with Illustrations of the Patents Issued, and Decisions of the Courts in Patent Cases. Specimen copies sent free. Terms, $3.20 a year, including the Engraving of the Patents. Address MUNN & CO., Publishers of the Scientific American, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS

In connection with the Scientific American, Munn & Co. have had Thirty Years' Experience in the Patent Business. Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, Reissues, Rejections, Infringements, Interferences, Assignments, Patents Sold and Introduced, Opinions as to Validity, Infringement, Scope, Patentability, Infringement

THE TRAPPER'S GRAVE.

BY NATHAN ALLEN.

"For life is a vale, a lone, dreary wold."—Shakspeare.

Deep in a solitary canyon's closest,
Far in a wild pine,
Lonely beside a trapper's couch,
Stand and shed the warm tears
Which hallow the tears and age of him
Who lies in the grave below.
And here amid the lone canyon,
Time to his labor, buried

An outcast, cursed the hot country he
Dwelt with his Indian bride,
And, in revenge, passed and free,
The treacherous foe defied.
Till, a the great gold-seeking hands
Invaded his retreat,
Then, with his Indian bride,
Massacred in defeat.

Against this foot, where dwelt his hope,
Thirsting for them the game;
Then, and the Indian, and
The solitary years came,
And where some mining camps now hold
Their scenes of strife and toil,
He, fatigued, in surrounding
Their brown and silvery fold.

These glades, which his hot slumber seal,
Thick and swaying trees,
Once echoed to his rifle peal,
Now echo the hum of bees.
Sped through the forest lone deep
Where the panther's footprints go,
Or on his wary swoop
In chased theirer too.

Darkly are his simple bower despoiled
And left in sad decline
Decaying the a home quiet a prize
Destroyed his wild domain;
Fair, smiling valleys, and their stock
Are where the trapper lived
Hills, and the stream, a stillness
Is where he slept a stillness.

So quietly, here he lay, sweet
Fitting his spirit to the flower;
No parade monument, or
Pomp, or ceremony
The only sod Old cedar grave
Around to guard his sweep
No sculpture, save the forest branches
He planted, so sacred keeps.

KEZIAH THEW.

Benjamin Thew was returning homeward with a long, heavy rifle on his shoulder when he heard of Basil Bemrford's attentions to his daughter Keziah. He met Ezra Lewis in the road, which was little more than a mountain path over the ridge of eastern spurs of the Alleghanys. Ezra stopped in the road to admire the large, fat buck thrown across the saddle of the horse. Thew was looking

"You're a famous shot, Uncle Ben," he said, "a famous shot." Benjamin Thew was very proud of his skill as a hunter, and of his daughter Keziah. He turned his dark-red, wrinkled face toward the setting sun, and a grim, self-satisfied smile gathered about the corners of his thin lips. "Ezra Lewis added "I reckon there isn't your equal in this part of Virginny, unless it be young Baz Boyntford."

"Yes," Thew replied. "I hear he can shoot a turtle at a blazed tree, but I never knew a Whig yet that had nerve for an I-ly-shot."

"Why, Uncle Ben, I thought you all Baz were great friends. I've been hearing he is to be half of a wedding at your house, and Keziah Thew half."

At this the point of Thew's high, thin nose, which was curved like the beak of an eagle, appeared to crook down toward his short, straggling mustache, and he replied "Bim, Baz Boynford, why his father in his time was the rankest old Whig on the mountains. What in thee! Who started that lie?"

"I thing, Uncle Ben, I heard it."

"It's all moonshine, Ez. Not half faced Whig can do may marrying with Keziah I live, nor after; yet dare don't mate with grey squirrel."

An hour later, after Benjamin Thew had carefully rubbed his rifle, probed a piece of buckskin into its muzzle and laid it on the pegs near the broad chimney in his kitchen, he turned to Keziah and said: "What's this I hear about Baz Boynford?"

Keziah looked up from the browning corn bread in the Dutch oven, the lid of which she had just removed, and replied: "I don't know, pap, I didn't carry your ears."

"I denied it, Kizzie, right flat."

Keziah bent lower over the oven and said: "Yes, pap, what did you hear?"

"I heard that Baz Boynford had his eyes set on you."

"Who told you that, pap?"

"I met Ez Lewis when I was coming down the mountain and he told me."

Hearing no response from his daughter, Thew asked: "What do you say to that, Kizzie?"

"Oh, to that? I'm sure I think if Ez Lewis had eyes hands zero and his tongue has he would be much better off."

"Yes, that may be so; he is rather a shiftless critter, but you are not answering about Baz Boynford's eyes on you."

"Oh, that? Well, I'm sure that they are not very bad eyes, pap. I've seen a good many worse."

Thew stood beside his daughter, laid one of his long, bony hands on her shoulder, and said: "Now, look here, Kizzie, since you have no mother nor sister nor brother, I'm responsible for you."

Keziah replied laughingly: "Of course you are, pap, and I am responsible for you since you have no one else to care for you, and you don't know how it worries me sometimes."

"Yes, of course, Kizzie, and my duty is to keep you from going wrong."

Keziah's face became very red at this, and she exclaimed hotly: "My gracious wrong, pap; did you hear it without shouting too?"

"He said there was talk of you and Baz Boynford marrying."

"Oh, that? Is that all?"

"What more should can you do that, Kizzie?"

"Why, that's nothing, pap.

"Nothing? That nothing? Why, Kizzie, how you talk—Nothing! Nothing! and him—a Whig?"

"Oh, indeed, is that so dreadful bad?"

"Bad! Why, what in the world can be worse?"

"What, to be a Whig?" exclaimed Keziah, with a little laugh; "and what are you, pap?"

"See me! Thank God there isn't any drop of Whig blood in my veins."

"Isn't there, pap? I didn't know."

Then after a little pause Keziah added: "I'm sure my marrying Baz wouldn't add any Whig blood to your veins. Would it, pap?"

Keziah turned the smoking corn bread out of the Dutch oven and laid it on the table while she was speaking. Her father, who was already seated, looked across the table and said: "Kizzie, I'm responsible for you. There isn't no one else, and I'm responsible. I must do my duty by you, daughter, and you must remember you are a Thew."

"And he is a Boynford," said Keziah, interrupting, "but pap of a different names marry, don't they, pap?"

"Yes, yes, Kizzie, that's all right. I don't object to the name, but he is as much like his father as one fox is like another."

"Well, pap, that isn't saying anything very bad about Baz. I always have heard his father was a very good-looking and honest man."

"I have nothing to say against that, Kizzie, nothing, no, nothing against that; but—but—you—a—Whig, and I am responsible for you. I must do my duty by you, Kizzie, mind that, child. I must do my duty, and I won't have any foolishness with Baz Boynford."

Then he helped himself liberally to venison and corn bread. He had said his say and had done the law of marriage in his household. Then he talked of his long and successful tramp over the mountains. But it fathers forgot that love takes no account of politics or religion. Young daughters with love in their hearts do not, and certainly her father's words did not convince Keziah that there was any great wickedness in thinking of Basil Boynford, and she bent her brown face over her plate, eating little and wondering much how she would get down the valley to a frolic to be held that night, to which all the young people of the neighborhood were invited.

While she was wondering she heard footsteps on the porch and a tap at the door, and who of all men should enter but Basil Bemrford. He was tall, long-limbed, square-shouldered, and slightly lengthy, but with his bright gray eyes, long brown hair, and the light down of youth on the chin of his intelligent, good-humored face, he was very pleasant to look on. When Keziah saw him such sweetness gathered about her mouth and such trouble in her eyes, which deepened greatly when she turned toward her father and saw the stern look on his face. Basil saw nothing of all this. He was eager to escort Keziah to the frolic in the valley, and he plunged into his mission at once.

"Why, Uncle Ben, I thought you an Baz were great friends. I've been hearing he is to be half of a wedding at your house, and Keziah Cother half."

"Who told you that, pap?"

"Ez Lewis when I was coming down the mountain and he told me."

Hearing no response from his daughter, Thew asked: "What do you say to that, Kizzie?"

"Oh, to that? I'm sure I think if Ez Lewis had eyes hands zero and his tongue has he would be much better off."

"Yes, that may be so; he is rather a shiftless critter, but you are not answering about Baz Boynford's eyes on you."

"Oh, that? Well, I'm sure that they are not very bad eyes, pap. I've seen a good many worse."

Thew stood beside his daughter, laid one of his long, bony hands on her shoulder, and said: "Now, look here, Kizzie, since you have no mother nor sister nor brother, I'm responsible for you."

Keziah replied laughingly: "Of course you are, pap, and I am responsible for you since you have no one else to care for you, and you don't know how it worries me sometimes."

"Yes, of course, Kizzie, and my duty is to keep you from going wrong."

Keziah's face became very red at this, and she exclaimed hotly: "My gracious wrong, pap; did Ezra Lewis dare say that, and did you hear it without shouting too?"

"He said there was talk of you and Baz Boynford marrying."

"Oh, that? Is that all?"

"What worse should can you do that, Kizzie?"

"Why, that's nothing, pap.

"Nothing? That nothing? Why, Kizzie, how you talk—Nothing! Nothing! and him—a Whig!"

"Oh, indeed, is that so dreadful bad?"

"Why, what in the world can be worse?"

"What, to be a Whig?" exclaimed Keziah, with a little laugh; "and what are you, pap?"

"See me! Thank God there isn't any drop of Whig blood in my veins."

"Isn't there, pap? I didn't know."

Then after a little pause Keziah added: "I'm sure my marrying Baz wouldn't add any Whig blood to your veins. Would it, pap?"

Keziah turned the smoking corn bread out of the Dutch oven and laid it on the table while she was speaking. Her father, who was already seated, looked across the table and said: "Kizzie, I'm responsible for you. There isn't no one else, and I'm responsible. I must do my duty by you, daughter, and you must remember you are a Thew."

"And he is a Boynford," said Keziah, interrupting, "but pap of a different names marry, don't they, pap?"

"Yes, yes, Kizzie, that's all right. I don't object to the name, but he is as much like his father as one fox is like another."

"Well, pap, that isn't saying anything very bad about Baz. I always have heard his father was a very good-looking and honest man."

"I have nothing to say against that, Kizzie, nothing, no, nothing against that; but—but—you—a—Whig, and I am responsible for you. I must do my duty by you, Kizzie, mind that, child. I must do my duty, and I won't have any foolishness with Baz Boynford."

Then he helped himself liberally to venison and corn bread. He had said his say and had done the law of marriage in his household. Then he talked of his long and successful tramp over the mountains. But it fathers forgot that love takes no account of politics or religion. Young daughters with love in their hearts do not, and certainly her father's words did not convince Keziah that there was any great wickedness in thinking of Basil Boynford, and she bent her brown face over her plate, eating little and wondering much how she would get down the valley to a frolic to be held that night, to which all the young people of the neighborhood were invited.

While she was wondering she heard footsteps on the porch and a tap at the door, and who of all men should enter but Basil Bemrford. He was tall, long-limbed, square-shouldered, and slightly lengthy, but with his bright gray eyes, long brown hair, and the light down of youth on the chin of his intelligent, good-humored face, he was very pleasant to look on. When Keziah saw him such sweetness gathered about her mouth and such trouble in her eyes, which deepened greatly when she turned toward her father and saw the stern look on his face. Basil saw nothing of all this. He was eager to escort Keziah to the frolic in the valley, and he plunged into his mission at once.

"Why, Uncle Ben, I thought you an Baz were great friends. I've been hearing he is to be half of a wedding at your house, and Keziah Cother half."

At this the point of Thew's high, thin nose, which was curved like the beak of an eagle, appeared to crook down toward his short, straggling mustache, and he replied "Bim, Baz Boynford, why his father in his time was the rankest old Whig on the mountains. What in thee! Who started that lie?"

"I thing, Uncle Ben, I heard it."

"It's all moonshine, Ez. No half-faced Whig can do may marrying with Keziah I live, nor after; yet dare don't mate with gray squirrel."

An hour later, after Benjamin Thew had carefully rubbed his rifle, probed a piece of buckskin into its muzzle and laid it on the pegs near the broad chimney in his kitchen, he turned to Keziah and said: "What's this I hear about Baz Boynford?"

Keziah looked up from the browning corn bread in the Dutch oven, the lid of which she had just removed, and replied: "I don't know, pap, I didn't carry your ears."

"I denied it, Kizzie, right flat."

Keziah bent lower over the oven and said: "Yes, pap, what did you hear?"

"I heard that Baz Boynford had his eyes set on you."

"Who told you that, pap?"

"I met Ez Lewis when I was coming down the mountain and he told me."

Hearing no response from his daughter, Thew asked: "What do you say to that, Kizzie?"

"Oh, to that? I'm sure I think if Ez Lewis had eyes hands zero and his tongue has he would be much better off."

"Yes, that may be so; he is rather a shiftless critter, but you are not answering about Baz Boynford's eyes on you."

"Oh, that? Well, I'm sure that they are not very bad eyes, pap. I've seen a good many worse."

Thew stood beside his daughter, laid one of his long, bony hands on her shoulder, and said: "Now, look here, Kizzie, since you have no mother nor sister nor brother, I'm responsible for you."

Keziah replied laughingly: "Of course you are, pap, and I am responsible for you since you have no one else to care for you, and you don't know how it worries me sometimes."

"Yes, of course, Kizzie, and my duty is to keep you from going wrong."

Keziah's face became very red at this, and she exclaimed hotly: "My gracious wrong, pap; did Ezra Lewis dare say that, and did you hear it without shouting too?"

"He said there was talk of you and Baz Boynford marrying."

"Oh, that? Is that all?"

"What worse should can you do that, Kizzie?"

"Why, that's nothing, pap.

"Nothing? That nothing? Why, Kizzie, how you talk—Nothing! Nothing! and him—a Whig!"

"Oh, indeed, is that so dreadful bad?"

"Why, what in the world can be worse?"

"What, to be a Whig?" exclaimed Keziah, with a little laugh; "and what are you, pap?"

"See me! Thank God there isn't any drop of Whig blood in my veins."

"Isn't there, pap? I didn't know."

Then after a little pause Keziah added: "I'm sure my marrying Baz wouldn't add any Whig blood to your veins. Would it, pap?"

Keziah turned the smoking corn bread out of the Dutch oven and laid it on the table while she was speaking. Her father, who was already seated, looked across the table and said: "Kizzie, I'm responsible for you. There isn't no one else, and I'm responsible. I must do my duty by you, daughter, and you must remember you are a Thew."

"And he is a Boynford," said Keziah, interrupting, "but pap of a different names marry, don't they, pap?"

"Yes, yes, Kizzie, that's all right. I don't object to the name, but he is as much like his father as one fox is like another."

"Well, pap, that isn't saying anything very bad about Baz. I always have heard his father was a very good-looking and honest man."

"I have nothing to say against that, Kizzie, nothing, no, nothing against that; but—but—you—a—Whig, and I am responsible for you. I must do my duty by you, Kizzie, mind that, child. I must do my duty, and I won't have any foolishness with Baz Boynford."

Then he helped himself liberally to venison and corn bread. He had said his say and had done the law of marriage in his household. Then he talked of his long and successful tramp over the mountains. But it fathers forgot that love takes no account of politics or religion. Young daughters with love in their hearts do not, and certainly her father's words did not convince Keziah that there was any great wickedness in thinking of Basil Boynford, and she bent her brown face over her plate, eating little and wondering much how she would get down the valley to a frolic to be held that night, to which all the young people of the neighborhood were invited.

While she was wondering she heard footsteps on the porch and a tap at the door, and who of all men should enter but Basil Bemrford. He was tall, long-limbed, square-shouldered, and slightly lengthy, but with his bright gray eyes, long brown hair, and the light down of youth on the chin of his intelligent, good-humored face, he was very pleasant to look on. When Keziah saw him such sweetness gathered about her mouth and much Liquor Laws.

In truth, liquor laws are either to make men better who do not want to be made better, or to make men better who have not self-control, and in both cases at the expense of others. "You shall not enjoy a glass of beer, because if you can get it, so can I, and I shall make a beast of myself." Or, "You shall not enjoy one glass of beer, because some you take too many. . . . Is that bad? Is it a warrantable interference? Then see the mischief of such laws. The public conscience does not go with them. It is certain they will be broken. Every one knows that stealing is wrong; disgrace follows conviction. But every one knows that drinking a glass of beer is not wrong; no disgrace attaches to it. It is done, and when done against the law, you have the usual mischiefs of law breaking, smuggling, informations, oaths, perjury, shuffling, and lies. Besides, as a matter of fact, it fails. Nothing can show this more strongly than the failure in Wales of the Sunday Closing act. Further, what is to be done? Is the sale of drink to be suspended all over the United Kingdom? Impossible. In parts only? Then all the more will be sold elsewhere. On certain days only? That provision will be made for a store of it, and the drunkard will no himself in home with no eyes on him to check him. Consider, too, the practical unfairness—a man, who, having no cellar, trial to the public house for what is a reasonable and wholesome enjoyment when not abused. Can nothing then be done by law to diminish the mischief caused by drink? I say "No." Whether it is desirable to limit the number of drink shops is a matter as to which I have great doubt and difficulty. But grant that there is the right to forbid it wholly, or partially, in place or time, I say it is a right which should not be exercised. To do so is to interfere with the innocent enjoyment of millions in order to lessen the mischief arising from the folly or evil propensities, not of themselves, but of others. And, further, that such legislation is attended with the mischiefs which always follow from the creation of offences in law which are not so in conscience. Punish the mischievous drunkard—indeed, perhaps, even punish him for being drunk in public, and so a likely source of mischief. Punish, on the same principle, the man who sells drink to the drunken. But go no further. Trust to the good sense and improvement of mankind, and let charity be shown to those who would trust to them rather than to law.
—Drink—Lord Brougham.

☞ Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss in the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 50 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton. 32-16

No Check on Bank Tellers.

Scott's steal was the leading topic of conversation in the banks during the day. Several bank Presidents were asked whether paying tellers as a rule were so situated that they could walk off with large sums of money without being immediately detected. President F. D. Tappan, of the Gallatin National Bank, answered this question by pointing to his paying teller and saying: "That man handles the money. He could take a million dollars out of here and I would not know it."

D. D. Baldwin, President of the Fourth National, said that he knew of no means to prevent paying tellers from stealing if they were bound to steal. "A man who handles large sums of money has got to be trusted," said Mr. Baldwin. "It is true that paying tellers are required to give bonds, but the amount of the bond in each individual case is so small that it is a fraction of what the man can easily slip into his pockets. Not a day passes but there is some discussion among bankers as to what can be done to prevent thefts by employes. The question is one of deep solicitude with the heads of financial institutions."

Mr. Baldwin remarked the reporter to the "cage" which inclosed the paying teller of the Fourth National, "Officer, show me a proved forgery," said the President. The teller handed Mr. Baldwin a package about ten inches thick containing several large envelopes filled with greenbacks, national bank bills and gold certificates of very large denominations.

"How much is there in this package?" asked the President.

"A little more than $5,000,000," answered the teller.

"Now, see here," said Mr. Baldwin to the reporter, pulling out one of an envelopes, which was about an inch and a half thick, "this envelope contains just $1,000,000, what is to prevent the teller from slipping it into his pocket and taking it off?"

"Nothing except his honesty," interposed the teller.

"Well," continued Mr. Baldwin, "I don't know of any banking institution where the paying teller has not the same opportunities that he has here. Bank officers are compelled to place implicit confidence in their tellers!"—New York Times.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulence, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, then follows, which becomes intolerable. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles are a single class of diseases for which Dr. Benson's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter. 152

Gen. Gillespie's Arab Horse.

The confidence of a horse in a firm rider and his own courage is great, as was conspicuously evinced in the case of an Arab possessed by the late Gen. Sir Robert R. Gillespie, who being present on the race course of Calcutta, during one of the great Hindu festivals, when several hundred thousand people may be assembled to witness all kinds of sports, was suddenly alarmed by the shrieks of the crowd and informed that a tiger had escaped from his keeper. Sir Robert immediately called for his horse, and grasping a bear spear which was in the hands of one of his grooms, rode to attack this formidable enemy. The tiger probably was amazed at finding himself in the middle of such a number of shrieking beings flying from him in all directions, but the instant he perceived Sir Robert he crouched with the attitude of preparing to spring at him, and that instant the gallant soldier pressed his horse in a leap over the tiger's back and struck the spear through his spine. The horse was a small gray, about 13 hands, bought from a present to the Prince Regent. When Sir Robert fell at the storming of Kalunga his favorite black charger, bred at the Cape of Good Hope, and carried by him in India, was in the sale of his effects competed for by several officers of his division and finally knocked down to the privates of the Eighth Dragoons, who contributed their prize money to the amount of £500 sterling to retain this commemoration of their late commander. Thus the charger was always led at the head of a regiment on a march, and at the station of Cawnpore was indulged with taking his ancient station at the color stand, where for salutes of passing regiments was given at drill and on reviews. When the regiment was ordered home, the funds of the privates running low, he was bought for the same sum by a relative of ours, who provided funds and a paddock for him, where he might end his days in comfort, but he on the corps had marched and the sound of trumpet had departed he refused to eat, and on the first opportunity, being led out to exercise, he broke from his groom, and, galloping to his ancient station on the parade, after neighing aloud, dropped down and died.—Heroes, by Lieut.-Col. Charles Hamilton Smith.

Hard Times

While money is scarce, wages and prices low, Expenses should be cut down in every household, consistent with good health. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is always keeping in the house, a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough and Lung Syrup stops a Cough instantly, relieves Consumption, cures Croup and pain in the Chest in one night, it is just the remedy for hard times. Price 25 cts. and 50 cts. Samples free. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter.

☞ The Detroit Weekly Free Press is the best family paper in the U. S. Specimen copies free at this office.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

J. MILO EATON,
DEALER IN
Real Estate
OF ALL KINDS.

Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice.

OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,
IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Random.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Random.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.
GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Seal Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY
IRONTON, MICH.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!
I have purchased the Stock of
Drugs, Chemicals,
STATIONERY FISHING TACKLE, ETC.
OF O. B. WEED & CO., and will continue the business at the old stand. I shall aim to so conduct the business as to merit a share of your favors. When in need of anything in my line, call and examine my stock and ask my prices.
PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST,
Successor to O. B. Weed & Co.
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER
Undertaker!
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings
Always in Stock.
Come and See my Stock of Furniture.
ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Santa Claus' Headquarters!
AT
DR. G. W. CROUTER'S.

CHRISTMAS IS COMING

And we want everybody who intends purchasing CHRISTMAS PRESENTS to comprehend the fact that we are now all ready to show you THE FINEST ASSORTMENT EVER EXHIBITED IN CHARLEVOIX. Our new stock of Holiday Goods is complete and comprises an elegant line of

Plush Toilet Cases, Fancy Perfume Cases, a Fine Line of Plush and Leather Albums, a Large and Beautiful line of Christmas Cards,

A choice line of CONFECTIONERY "SOMETHING NEW." All kind of GAMES. All kind of DOLLS. All kind of Toys from the cheapest to the best.

Books for the million.

All of John B. Alden's publications, the cheapest and best line of books ever offered to the people of Charlevoix. Just the thing for a handsome present.

COME AND SEE ME; COME TO-DAY.

NOW is the time to make your purchases; you certainly will suffer by delay. Don't wait until everything is picked over and the choicest novelties are gone. Make your selections early and you will be saved many days of anxious and weary searching. Trusting you will favor us with an early visit, and wishing you one and all a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we are Respectfully, G. W. CROUTER.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 126. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING
DR. CROUTER'S
BAKING POWDER
Or Quick Yeast.
If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.
If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.
It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.
It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of grocery stores.
It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.
Directions for using furnished with every package.
Price 40 Cents per Pound
Manufactured and Sold only by
Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,
BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

A. STRUBE MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

BRIDGMAN & SHIRK, Attorneys at Law and Solicitors in Chancery. Offices Bridgeman's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
C. J. SHIRK. C. A. BRIDGMAN.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake st., east of pier head. Charlevoix, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. L. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake st., Boyne, Mich.

H. L. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet County, Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

OTTAY F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery, Commissioner, Western District, East Jordan, Mich.

W. V. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Mich. Special attention given to Pension Claims.

N. S. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. C. P. VAN ANDA, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. T. DOUGLAS, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

E. SUTFIELL, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Etc. Opposite Post-office, Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Dr. Lewis's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PRESTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician. Office, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARRIS, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix, Mich.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

G. A. R.—Baxter Post No. 124, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 293 meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent, No. 108, meets second and third Saturday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. A. L.—True Blues No. 187, meets Saturday on or before full moon in Burgess' school house.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets Wednesday on or before full moon. Hall over post-office.

W. F. BROWN, President. W. A. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.
BROWN & CO.'S
BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,
Capital, $25,000.
With superior facilities and prompt attention we have a large and growing patronage. Drafts on all the principal money centers and cities of the world drawn on demand. Special attention given to collections. Special efforts to collect doubtful claims. Investments made on first mortgages upon farm property. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets to and from all points in Europe by best lines.
CORRESPONDENTS.
Chase National Bank, New York.
Chase National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants and Manufacturers National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

President—Byron Sou.
First Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Robert Miller.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Financial Secretary—H. Sanford.
Treasurer—Albert L. Shepard.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—Mrs. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cronkhite, and Mrs. Hart.
Entertainment Committee—H. Lee Iddings, W. A. Brown, and C. V. Cook.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Rogers, Dr. M. J. Stockman, E. Cooper, Geo. W. Crouter, R. W. Miller, S. M. See, W. C. Newman, F. M. Chase, H. Breslin.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to secure by all legitimate means the growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

At Burbank's Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7:30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

NOTE.—We have for distribution a number of copies of the annual report of the Michigan Horticultural Society for 1885, which we will hand to subscribers of the JOURNAL on application at this office.

Come and See our Immense Stock of
BOOTS AND SHOES.
FOX & MILLER.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. TERRILL, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 73

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, - Michigan.
Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and resorts. Express office, and head quarters for Pelkosky and Elk Rapids Stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,
TRATCHER & BLAIR, Proprietors.
East Jordan, - Michigan.
Those having business at the county seat will find this the most convenient place to stop, and the proprietors will spare no pains to give the best satisfaction. TELEPHONE CONNECTIONS.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

New Grocery!
Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.
A. J. MUDGE
Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial.
BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED
At the Old Stand.
A. J. McLeod
Can be found at the old stand with a
FULL STOCK OF MEATS
Of all kinds
At Wholesale and Retail.
HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
Upright & Parlor Additions, Charlevoix,
HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Hanger,
And Decorator.
PINK AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

"TERRACE FARM,"
Charlevoix, Mich.
J. R. & J. S. DIXON,
DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.
Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins
A SPECIALTY. 119

New Goods!
I would call the attention of the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity to my new full stock of
MILLINERY
AND
Fancy Goods.
Have also just received a fine stock of materials for fancy work, such as Felts, Canvas, Embroidery Silks, Stamps and Table Scarf ornaments, Banner Rods, &c.; also Embroideries, Laces, Handkerchiefs, and Collars. Call and examine my stock. I design to sell cheap for cash only.
Dress-Making Done to Order.
MISS L. SPAULDING.

McCABE'S
Livery and Hack Line
DRAYING TO ORDER.
Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City.
AT
McCabe's Livery Barn,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

W. M. WAGAR. G. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, Nuts, Temperance Drinks. Third door west of Bridge-Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.
SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
☞ The DISBURNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 42

Farm for Sale or Exchange.
One hundred acres of the best farming land, in Antrim county, Mich., for a good farm near or at Charlevoix, or some other place. Charlevoix Will be sold cheap for cash, or will exchange for other property. For further particulars inquire at this office. 1042

Coast Defenses.

Mr. Tilden has written a long letter to Mr. Carlisle, who has been chosen speaker of the house of representatives, urging the necessity of substantial coast defenses, closing with the following pertinent paragraph:

"In constructing permanent fortifications, and in providing an ample supply of the best modern artillery, the annual cost of unintainence is inconsiderable. Nearly the whole expenditure is in the original outlay for construction. If we do not make the expenditures necessary to provide for our sea coast defenses when we have a surplus, and have no need to levy new taxes, we certainly will not make those expenditures when we have no longer a surplus in the treasury. To leave our vital interests defenseless in order to reduce the cost of whiskey to its consumers would be a solecism. The present time is peculiarly favorable for providing for this great national necessity too long neglected. Not only does the surplus in the treasury supply ample means to meet this great public want without laying new burdens upon the people, but the work can now be done at a much lower cost than has ever before been possible. The defensive works would consist almost entirely of steel and iron. These materials now to be had at unprecedently low prices. A vast supply of machinery and of labor called into existence by a great vicissitude in the steel and iron industries offers itself to our service. We should have the satisfaction of knowing while we were availing ourselves of the supplies which would ordinarily be unattainable, we were setting in motion important industries and giving employment to labor in a period of depression. With encouragement by the guarantee of work, or, perhaps, by the government itself furnishing the plant, the inventive genius of our people would be applied to the creation of new means and improved machinery, and establishments would spring into existence capable of supplying all of the national wants, and rendering us completely independent of all other countries in respect to the means of national defense."

How the Tariff Affects Shipbuilding.

At the recent conference of free traders and revenue reformers in Chicago, Mr. Gibbons, the Wilming ton shipbuilder, recited the evil effects of tariff upon the shipbuilding interests in the following words:

"The only manufacturing industry that has enjoyed absolute protection from the competition of foreign capital is that of building ships—the one that above all others, fits, in an unqualified way, a people to maintain their independence and to receive and enjoy the respect of other nations. This one seems to have been that upon which the crushing influence of protection has been most felt, and almost the only one that is nearly dead. I speak of that which I personally know when I tell you that it is about as easy for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle as for an American shipbuilder to build a steamship at a price that would return to him the money he would expend in producing it, leaving all ideas of profit clear out of all consideration. High-tariff duties, or, as they are familiarly called, Protection to American Industry, have protected this noble calling to its death, in that they have caused the advance on prices of all things so that little or nothing produced in the United States can be sold abroad, save only raw materials, and only a few of these, resulting in no business for ships to do. It is not strange that none are built.

"Previous to 1862, before the present high measure of taxation was established, there were upwards of twenty large ship-yards in and around New York city, and more than half as many large foundries and machine shops, all engaged in building vessels and the machinery for them. To-day scarce any of either remain. If the consequences resulting from high-tariff duties have not worked their destruction, pray what did it?"

Michigan Harbors.

Advance copies of the report of the chief of engineers of the army have been printed. The report contains much information of great importance to the navigation interests of Michigan. The report will be endorsed and sent to congress by the secretary of war this week. The chief recommendation is that the government purchase the Portage Lake ship canal of the Portage Lake and River Improvement company for the purpose of making the same a free water way. The engineer recommends the purchase for $550,000; says it is demanded and warranted by the already large and increasing commerce of Lake Superior. At the opening of congress, Senator Conger will introduce a bill to carry out his recommendation. It is proposed to build new and enlarged locks at Sault St. Marie to obtain a depth of 20 feet of water in both the canal and the river. The estimated cost of these improvements is $1,700,000, and $250,000 is asked for to commence the work. To continue and complete the work of getting 20 feet of water in Hay Lake channel, St. Mary's river, the report calls for $2,204,145, and the amount asked for to be expended during the next fiscal year is $580,000. The obligation to the government to build a dry dock at Sault St. Marie is referred to in the engineer's report. The estimate for carrying this out is $853,872, and the amount which can be profitably expended during the next fiscal year is $215,000, of which $150,000 should be appropriated by the United States, and $65,000 (more or less) transferred by the state of Michigan. The estimated cost of improvements at St. Clair Flats Canal is $153,288.

The work of getting a navigable depth of four feet in the Grand river below Grand Rapids will be continued under the $48,204.22 unexpended and still available. For the harbor of refuge at Portage Lake a navigable channel 300 feet wide and 18 feet deep is sought. To complete this work $197,500 is needed, and $150,000 is asked for the next fiscal year. The project for the ice harbor at Belle river is to get a channel 30 feet wide and 13 feet deep and make a safe harbor against running ice. The estimated cost is $14,465.

The following estimates for other Michigan harbors and amounts needed for the coming fiscal year are given.

	For completion	For next fiscal year.
Frankfort harbor	$40,000	$20,000
Manistee harbor	75,000	25,000
Ludington harbor	100,000	50,000
Charlevoix harbor	125,000	50,000
Pentwater harbor	55,000	10,000
White River harbor	93,225	50,000
Muskegon harbor	250,000	100,000
Grand Haven harbor	220,000	150,000
Saugatuck harbor	50,000	25,000
Singapore harbor	50,000	25,000
South Haven harbor	85,000	50,000
St. Joseph harbor	51,000	25,000
Cheboygan harbor	100,000	50,000
Thunder Bay harbor	10,000	5,000
Black Lake harbor	20,000	20,000
Saugatuck harbor	50,000	25,000
South Haven harbor	85,000	50,000
St. Joseph harbor	51,000	25,000
Cheboygan harbor	100,000	50,000
Thunder Bay harbor	10,000	5,000

What is This But Robbery.

In the course of a speech at Birmingham, England, Nov. 12, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the radical leader, gave the following illustration of the operation of a protective tariff: "I will tell you something that I do not think I have ever told in public before—a very curious incident in my commercial experience. The Americans find a duty of about 100 per cent. upon screws, to protect that poor industry, to keep it in the country for the benefit of working classes. In spite of the duty of 100 per cent. we were able to send screws there, and we did send very large quantities. What happened? The American manufacturers came over here and they said: 'We are making 100 per cent upon our capital. If you continue to send screws to America we shall of course be obliged to reduce our prices. That will of course shut you out, but reduce our profits. That will not be good for either of us. Now let us make a bargain. We will pay you so much a year to sit still and not send a screw to America.' Well they did it. [Loud laughter and cheers.] They did it, and my firm received a handsome income for years from the American manufacturers, protected as they were by the folly and stupidity of this protectionist legislation. We received a very comfortable income to sit with folded hands and send no screws to America. [Renewed laughter.] But after a little while the American manufacturers went to congress and said: 'Here is a native manufacturer deserves protection, employs a lot of working people in danger of being ruined by competition from abroad. You must raise the duties—and raise the duties to about 120 or 150 per cent. And then of course our income ceased, and we were shut out. But now I want you to see who are the losers in the thing. Not the American manufacturers who were able to make 100 per cent upon their capital and pay a handsome subsidy. The only people who suffered were the working classes of the United States who had to pay more for every screw they used and every manufacture in which they were engaged."

W. H. Vanderbilt Dead.

A dispatch was received by telephone Tuesday night, announcing that W. H. Vanderbilt, the railroad king, died of paralysis that afternoon. Mr. Vanderbilt was in apparent excellent health, and was discussing the new terminal facilities of the B. & O. with his friend Mr. Garrett, at the time.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Letters of administration were granted on the estate of John McCullough, the actor. His left property to the value of $45,000, of which $20,000 was in personal effects.

The firm of W. E. Connor & Co., stock brokers in New York, will be dissolved by the retirement of Jay Gould and his son George, who intend to devote their time to the management of three corporations. The senior Gould expects to take a five months' cruise in the yacht Atalanta.

By selling fire to a mattress, the three little children of Mrs. Patrick Fitzgerald, living at Providence, R. I., were suffocated.

The franchise of the Providence Base Ball Club has been purchased by Mr. Soden, of Boston, but not for the Boston Club. Sullivan, the pitcher, has signed to play with the Boston next season.

Major General Alexander Shaler, commanding the First Division New York National Guard, President of the Board of Health, and Secretary of the Armory Board, was indicted at New York for bribery, and surrendered and baked up at police headquarters. Furthermore, Mayor Grace has preferred against him charges of fraud and conversion of public money.

Up to the end of November 8,183 immigrants arrived at Toronto, Ont., of which 1,815 went to the Western States. The arrivals last year for the same period were 12,993, 3,207 going West.

Cummings & Check, furnishing goods at New York, failed for $70,000.

General Alexander Shaler, who was arrested at New York for receiving bribes in connection with the purchase of armory sites, was released on $10,000 bail.

WESTERN.

The Circuit Court of Cincinnati has ordered certificates of election to some in the four Republican candidates for the Ohio State Senate from Hamilton County.

A death from yellow fever occurred on board the steamer Venezuela in the harbor of New Orleans.

Officials of the Union Pacific Road have tied at Lincoln articles of incorporation for the Omaha and Black Hills Valley Railway, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. The survey is being made, and work is to commence early in the spring.

Reports were to the effect that new gold fields had been discovered in Alpaka, which were yielding very rich ore.

A boiler explosion at McGregor, Iowa, killed Edward Chamberlain and Hiram Barker, another employe is not expected to survive.

The headquarters of the Cattle Growers' Association has been fixed at St. Louis. The new Secretary, Colonel Cummings, of Texas, being such. Mr. Allen, who has been Assistant Secretary under Mr. Atwater, will serve for three months.

The militia, police, and municipal officers of Indianapolis, on Sunday, the 25th ult., escorted the remains of Vice-President Hendricks from his residence to the Court House. Every building on the line of march was draped in mourning. The body lay in state Monday and Monday, and was viewed by thousands of people. Mrs. Hendricks sent a message to President Cleveland urging him to remain in Washington, owing to the weighty public reasons that rendered his continuing Work to attend her late husband's funeral. Many public men, both Republicans and Democrats, called upon the President and urged him not to make the trip, and he received many letters and telegrams on the subject, opposing his going. The Executive finally decided to heed the advice and remain at the capital. He sent in the following message of the death of Mr. Hendricks: "Deeply distressed by the news of my friend Hendricks's death, I hasten to express my sorrow at the loss of a patriot and a statesman. Throughout his long and honorable career he was a faithful public servant, and his last days were spent in the service of the people. I shall be pleased to have you express my sympathy with the family." Mr. Hendricks's death was the result of a cold, which developed into a fever, and finally into a complication of kidney troubles, which ended his life. The deceased was born in Shelby County, Ohio, September 7, 1819. He was a lineal descendant of Thomas Hendricks, who was a member of the Continental Congress from Virginia, and signed the Declaration of Independence. His father was a Judge of the Supreme Court of Ohio, and his mother was descended from the Dorsey family, one of the most prominent in Maryland. In 1822 the family moved to Indiana, and John Hendricks's boyhood was spent on a farm near Madison, Indiana. He received a good education, and was graduated at Hanover College in 1841. He then studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1843, and began the practice of his profession at Shelbyville, Indiana. In 1848 he was elected to the Indiana Legislature, and was re-elected in 1850. In 1851 he was appointed by President Pierce Commissioner of the General Land Office, and held the office for four years. In 1860 he was a candidate for Congress against Colonel Cyrus L. Dunham, and was defeated by a few votes. In 1862 he was appointed by President Lincoln Commissioner to Mexico, but resigned the office in 1863 to accept the Democratic nomination for Congress in the district in which he had been defeated two years before. This time he was elected, and was re-elected in 1864. In 1868 he was a candidate before the Democratic National Convention for the Vice-Presidential nomination, but was defeated by Mr. Colfax. In 1869 he was appointed by President Grant Commissioner to Spain, but resigned the office in 1871 to accept the Democratic nomination for Governor of Indiana, defeating the Republican nominee, Thomas M. Brown, by a majority of 7,148. In July, 1872, he was made permanent chairman of the Liberal Republican National Convention, and in the National Democratic National Convention of that year, held at Baltimore, on the 9th of July, 1872, he received 153½ votes for the Presidential nomination, and which Samuel J. Tilden was nominated he received 356 out of 731 votes as candidate for the Vice Presidency.

He was re-elected in 1875, presumably by Mr. Hendricks, to make a brief tour of Europe as a relaxation from his arduous professional duties. He was a member of the National Democratic Convention at Chicago in July, 1884, and in behalf of the Indiana delegation nominated Joseph E. McDonald for President. In the Democratic National Convention held in St. Louis, Mo., June 5, 6, 7, 1888, he was nominated by acclamation for the Vice Presidency, and was the Democratic candidate for Vice-President in the memorable campaign of 1888, when the Republicans polled a majority of the electoral votes, although the Democrats had a majority of the popular votes, and Grover Cleveland was re-elected President. Mr. Hendricks was a man of commanding presence, of great personal magnetism, and of a very lovable character. He was a man of great firmness of character, and of great courage. He was a consistent member of the Episcopal Church, and held various vestry and synod offices, and was a member of the Masonic order. Mr. Hendricks was married to Miss Eliza Morris, daughter of Judge Morris, of Shelbyville, Indiana, in 1845. Of his marriage there were four children, two of whom survive, namely, Mrs. Jas. Morrison, of Indianapolis, and Mr. John M. Hendricks, of Denver, Colorado. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indianapolis, and a cousin of Mr. William Hendricks, of Madison, Indiana, and of Mr. Thomas Hendricks, of Shelbyville, Indiana.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The eight Indian murderers sentenced to death for their bloody deeds in all the Northwest rebellion were hanged at Battleford. They met death stoically. The messengers for which they were hanged were in each instance cowed and unprovoked. The eight hanged were: Wanotan, Kitamakis, Pitt, Lake massacre, for killing Agent Quinn; Iron-head-the-Sky, for killing Father Fitzed at Frog Lake; Manchemonde and Miscanide Ayo, for killing Charles Gouin, a British Columbian half breed, at Frog Lake; Magee and Jackfish, for killing George Dill, brother of the survey Dill; Ermine Skin, without blood, a young Assiniboine Indian, for killing Barney Treemont, near Battleford, on the morning of the rebellion; Ben Cheecham, for killing Indian agent Payne, at Eagle Hills. Whitfield was alive three months after the hanging, but his face was so much spoiled, and spent their time in amusing parties and musicians at their pleasure, commenced, between the hours of his death their manner changed and they became serious. Upon first learning their own fate they wept and begged for mercy, was sent back down and wept for days together.

A subscription has been opened in Montreal for the benefit of the family of Lepine, filed.

There were 225 failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's during the week, against 239 in the preceding week and 207, 202, 198, and 175 in the corresponding weeks of 1884, 1883, 1882, and 1881 respectively. About 80 per cent. were those of small traders whose capital was less than $5,000.

A. S. Washington newspaper asserts that Lord Lorne arrived in Europe on a recent leave in which Marion Ludlow, his bride, and that it is now used as a receptacle for cigars.

Miss Ada M. Sweet, of Illinois, formerly Deputy Auditor of Chicago, was married to Mr. L. Judson Carter, of Chicago, at Captain B. S. B. Simonds, of Brooklyn. They will reside in Cedar Rapids, Ia.

FOREIGN.

The steamer Greenpoint last month stranded near Hong Kong on a trading trip with 120 pass nges. When twenty miles from shore, forty-one passengers fired on the officers, killing the captain. The vessel was valued at $100,000 worth of goods, which were placed on board by Jonkee Sin sons concerned in the outrage have been captured, and will be beheaded in Canton.

Two unidentified Americans, residents of Illinois, named Peter Jeg-m and Martin Grandeel, visiting at Bakersfield, have been ordered to quit Germany.

Charles Stewart Parnell was elected to Parliament from the city of Cork by a vote of 4,594. Timothy Healy, who was on the ticket with him, received 3,536 votes.

Parnell will hold the balance of power in the next English Parliament. A special to the Chicago Tribune says:

Several changes in the election seem to be settled for sure which were uncertain yesterday. The Liberals have carried Leicestershire, Leicestershire, Lancashire, Lincolnshire, and Northamptonshire, and Lord Hartington will be their leader and Sir Wilfrid Lawson, Bright, Chamberlain, and Morley will be the leaders in the House of Commons. The Conservatives have carried Bristol, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Leeds, and Sheffield, and Lord Randolph Churchill will be their leader and Sir Stafford Northcote, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Sir Richard Cross, and Mr. Balfour

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

Twenty-five years ago the republican party came into power facing the question of slavery, which, with its bypaths, they styled the "twin relics of barbarism." The slavery question was settled only by the loss of millions in treasure and the best blood of the continent, but the other "twin" they seemed loth to engage with in a death struggle. They have ever since been talking about it, and trying to scare it away by threats and promises, but it didn't scare. To-day the new democratic party has met it face to face in a struggle that will not end in a day or a month. The administration at Washington is committed to the eradication of polygamy, and the church government at Salt Lake City is collecting its hosts for a resistance to the bitter end. There has already been a conflict between the local and government authorities, resulting in bloodshed and loss of life, and the government is concentrating troops for the better enforcement of law. Our readers may look for some exciting news from that quarter in the near future.

FACING DEATH.

Terrible Experience of the Steam Barge Kingsford.

Most of our readers know that E. M. Clark, of this place, took passage on the steam barge Kingsford on her last trip to Milwaukee. The experiences of the voyage will not soon be forgotten. From the Milwaukee Sunday Sentinel we take the following details, as related by an officer of the boat:

"After loading wood at Charlevoix, we lay two days at the Manitou island on account of heavy weather, but got away at 4 o'clock Friday morning, with the schooner Odd Fellow in tow, for Milwaukee. The wind was east and light, with light snow, and we headed for Two River point in order to make the west shore. When in midlake, about noon, the wind backed around to northeast, and we were obliged to change our course direct to Milwaukee to get the sea after us. By 3 o'clock in the afternoon a tremendous sea was running and a blinding snow storm had set in. The Odd Fellow was steering so badly that we were obliged to cast her adrift."

"Then you saw nothing more of her?"

"No, nor of any other vessel, but if there were any out, and have not been heard from, the worst may be feared. Why, at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon the wind was at least sixty miles an hour, and the weather had become bitterly cold. The seas broke continually over the vessel's stern, the water coming in through the top of her smoke stack, which is forty feet above the water line. Every sea swept clear over her hurricane deck, and there was not a door or window of her cabin that was not smashed in, the seas breaking completely through from floor to ceiling, and there was not a dry article aboard, all the bed clothing being thoroughly saturated. The small articles were floating around the cabin, and the ice chest on the lower deck was carried several feet out of place. The water rushing in through the doors and windows was sufficient to fill and sink her, had we had a dozen men remained in her to bail bailing water with pails, which they would hand to others on deck to be emptied. This was after her pumps had become clogged up, and could not be made to work. The efforts of the men were not sufficient to keep her entirely free, as there was at all times two feet of water in the hold, and the firemen worked since early yesterday afternoon until we arrived here this morning, in water above his knees. He was a hero, if there ever was one, as he kept the steam on the boat, though with difficulty. As the last mined, and the water rushed to one side, he would grab a shovel of coal on the ship and dash it into the furnace, but after the water rushing back would wash the coal from his shovel."

"Was the brave man not relieved at all?"

"For a few hours, but his partner gave out, and he had to return. But he was not the only one who had a hero. Every man was up for thirty hours, and for twenty-four hours Lawrence Kavanaugh, the engineer, stood at his throttle prepared for an emergency. His position was a most perilous one. He was directly in front of a door, which every few minutes would be dashed open under the weight of a heavy sea. The water would completely submerge him, and pass out through a window on the opposite side, while the water continually poured down on him through the floor of the cabin above, and day and night he remained at his post, nearly chilled by his thoroughly wet clothing. Many of the others were in perilous positions, as it was almost impossible to stand on deck, the wind taking away a person's breath, while the seas broke over them and the snowstorm raged. Then, too, none of the men had eaten anything for twenty-four hours, as it was impossible to cook, but no one thought of this, as everyone knew it was a battle for life. At 2 o'clock this morning there seemed little hope for us. At that hour our rudder chain parted, when we were perhaps twenty five miles off Sheboygan. We felt as though the last had come. Oh, it was a terrible hour. Men were rushing into each other, as each was endeavoring to do something to help out the dangerous situation. They could not see each other, as there had not been a light—not even a signal lamp—on the boat all night, as all had been extinguished by the wind and sea as soon as lit. Everything was done in darkness, and when it was thought possible to light a lamp, not a dry match was to be found. For twenty minutes after the rudder chain parted the boat rolled in the trough of the sea, but the engine was worked slowly to keep her moving, in the hope of saving her from foundering. To attempt to steer her, a crowbar was placed in her tiller and seven men in the hold attempted to control it, but with the first big sea they were thrown from their positions against the sides of the boat, and several other attempts were no more successful. Finally a line was placed from the tiller to the end of the broken chain, and the break was then temporarily repaired. About this time the snowstorm subsided, but the sea seemed heavier than ever, and one mountainous sea which boarded her, swept away her deckload, even with the sail. She was kept before the sea, however, and came into harbor under a full head of steam, at 7 o'clock. There was not a dry piece of clothing aboard, and every man was wet to the skin, but was soon provided after reaching the dock."

The vice president's widow is left in comfortable circumstances. She has herself largely taken charge of the private business affairs of her husband and has managed them with signal success—"much better," her vice president used to say, "than I could have done myself." The residence where Mr. Hendricks died, in Indianapolis, is worth $10,000, and he had other property in the city, valued, all told, at about $60,000. His life was also insured in a considerable sum. Altogether it is estimated that he leaves $100,000, the bulk of which represents the earnings of his professional career.—Detroit Journal

Don't look for magnanimity on the part of republican senators, and the election of a democratic president protem. The infamous crime of 1876 effectually removes the faintest hopes in that direction.—Big Rapids Herald.

With the possibility that John A. Logan may be elected president protem of the senate, no wonder the country feels alarmed about the life and health of President Cleveland.—Big Rapids Herald.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a gift box of goods, which will open you in some way right away than anything else in this world. All of either sex succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Me. 1291

THE GREAT GRANT BOOK.

1,126 and Personal Memories of Gen. Grant, by his wife, sells from 25 to one never sold at any price, 10,000 sold first week. A 48 engraving free to all of our Prospectus free to each subscriber. Think of this! Some persons should send 50 cts. for outfit and engraving and secure this territory. Back pay cut—the best time. Agents wanted. Address, ALLEN & CO., 364 Dearborn Ave., Chicago, Ill. 1291

CASH CLUB RATES.

Those of our readers who want a club paper for the coming year can be accommodated by the JOURNAL'S club list. To get the benefit of these reduced rates, all arrears must be paid to date of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

Price.		With the Journal.
$4 00	Detroit Weekly Free Press	$2 80
3 00	New York Weekly World	2 00
3 00	Pomeroy's Democrat	2 15
2 50	The Inter Ocean	1 75
3 00	Chicago Weekly Herald	2 00
3 50	The Cottage Hearth (monthly)	2.55

Sample Copies furnished on application.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

The most popular Weekly newspaper devoted to Science, Mechanics, Inventions, Manufactures and Industry published. Every number illustrated with splendid engravings. This journal contains the record of all the Patents issued, and its contents should be of interest to the members of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN family. Terms, $3 per annum. Four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers. MUNN & CO., Publishers, No. 361 Broadway, N. Y.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, MUNN & CO. act as Patent Office and Land Agents. Eight years' practice. Over 1,000 patents for inventions have been granted. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A specialty in patents for Mechanical, Electrical, Chemical, Mining, Milling, Manufacturing, Railroad, Steamboat, Agricultural, Household, Sewing Machine and Design patents. Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, Reissues, Extensions, Infringements, Assignments, Decisions of the Courts, and all matters relating to Patents, Inventions, Patents and Patent Law promptly attended to. Models should be sent by express. Drawings should be executed in the Patent Office style. We make no charge for examining models and rejected applications. Our charges are moderate, and we make no charge for our services in obtaining Patents until the invention is allowed. Hand-book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, Reissues, Extensions, Infringements, Decisions of the Courts, and how to obtain Patents, sent free. Address, MUNN & CO., Publishers of SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, 361 Broadway, New York.

1291 PATENTS for Patents pending at the P. O. office. The best work on Patents ever published. Sent free. Address, MUNN & CO., Publishers of SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, 361 Broadway, New York.

HOLIDAY GOODS

All the Latest and Best.

Call and See Before Purchasing Elsewhere

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the interest on the money secured by a mortgage dated the second day of August, 1881, executed by Thomas Ryan and Ellen Ryan, his wife, of Charlevoix county, Mich., to George W. Lightstone, of New York City, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, of the County of Charlevoix, in Liber 1 of Mortgages, on page 296, on the sixth day of August, 1881, and the said mortgage has been foreclosed by the whole amount of principal and interest due.

AND WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the date of this notice, is the sum of one Hundred Eighty-two Dollars, and no suit or proceeding at law has been commenced to recover the debt or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

NOW, THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given, that in pursuance of the said power of sale, and in compliance with the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in Lewiston, in said County of Charlevoix, on the 10th day of December, 1883, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, subject to all incumbrances of mortgages recorded prior to said mortgage, and also subject to a redemption within one year from the day of such sale, and the right of redemption by the mortgagor, his heirs or assigns, or any other person or persons entitled to redeem, in all of the land and premises described in said mortgage, as follows, viz: The south half of the southeast quarter (s½ se¼) of section number thirty-six (36), in township thirty-four (34) north of range five (5) west, containing 80 acres, more or less.

Dated Sept. 7, 1883.

GEORGE W. EGLESTON, Mortgagee.

FAIRBROTHER & GEDDES, Attorneys for Mortgagee, Petoskey, Mich. 127

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT HAVING been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the twenty-third day of March, A. D. 1882, by Peter Oleson, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of the first part, to William H. Bradley, of Beaver Island, Michigan, of the second part, recorded in Liber "E" of Mortgages, on page 189, in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, A. D. 1882, in Liber "E" of Mortgages, on page 189, in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County

LAID TO REST.

The Remains of Vice-President Hendricks Consigned to the Grave

Indianapolis Crowded with Distinguished People to Pay Respect to His Memory.

Impressive Services in the Church Where He Had Worshiped During His Lifetime.

Lying in State.

The remains of the late Vice President Hendricks lay in state at the City Hall in Indianapolis from Sunday forenoon to Monday afternoon, the 30th ult., and were viewed by over 20,000 persons. Several were the crowds at times that the officers and police were called into requisition to keep the people moving in the direction West Washington. When the doors of the building were closed a wailing crowd, numbering thousands, stood in line trying to take a last glance at the face of the dead statesman. At the time the doors were closed there were still many who had come from a long distance to see the dead, whose fame was placed in the Senate and, succeeded in the few intervening moments remaining, was returned to the parlor of the homestead. All along the line, to snatch the people flocked to see the sad spectacle.

Public Sorrow.

On Tuesday the 1st of December, the mortal remains of Thomas Andrew Hendricks, the fifth Vice President in the nation's roll of office, were consigned to the tomb prepared for their repose in the city of his home, Indianapolis. Never before in our history has a public sorrow so pervaded all the sections of the country, as that which followed his funeral, or, when so almost upon him, so fondly the sides of his bier. The entire business interests of the country, represented by delegations from the railroad, legal and all the leading cities of the Union, together with an army of people from all the interior cities and hamlets of Central Indiana and the adjacent localities of the neighboring States, in the aggregate, extended to upwards the ordinary progress of a million of mourners. The cabinets of mourning which began to appear on public and private buildings the day of the Vice President's death had grown in quality and design until the whole city was transformed into a mourning attire, presented an almost unknown exhibition of the sad feeling on every business street, and even along the business streets, the people were hands in their display of the signs of public sorrow. Portraits of the deceased, all shrouded in black, were profusely hung in windows. The general feeling of sorrow, the sincerity of the high respect with which the people of Indianapolis regarded their fellow-citizen.

At the Modest Home.

One of the central points of attraction for the thousands who visited Indianapolis was the late Vice-President's home, a two-story brick structure, on the front door of the house was a black mantle, from which was pendent a strip of black crape, which constituted the only outward evidence of mourning.

The scene presented in the interior of the modest dwelling was touching in the extreme of death. Endless and mourning and consoling floral designs were at hand everywhere. The old portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks were almost hidden in banks of flowers and trailing vines.

The most notable representation of the dead was that of a pillow of roses, on which was the name of Mr. Hendricks was born in Ohio. It stood at the head of his coffined remains, and was the work of ladies of Shelbyville, where Mr. Hendricks had formerly lived. It was set forth in length and breadth, and in the shape of a pillow, and was made up of the choicest roses, asters, and the chrysanthemums, and the whole arrangement was one of the most beautiful and touching tributes to the dead statesman.

The Home of Mr. Hendricks and his wife, "Shelbyville."

A wreath from Indiana was suspended a black satin banner bearing in letters of gold: "God's fingers touched him and he slept," and the second inscription underneath, "Shelbyville mourns her distinguished and gifted son."

A wreath from Mrs. Hendricks entered the room for her last leave-taking, accompanied only by the card of the widow, "Love's last tribute." Another from the Democratic Club of Indianapolis, in the shape of a shield, attracting to the last to the city, so soon to be hidden forever from her view, and impressed with the placid and life-like appearance of the dead, the desire to preserve this last scene, and so, like as it was, she sent for the photographer to take a picture of the corpse.

Shortly after this the pall-bearers arrived. The draped hearse and the carriages for the family and friends were unmasked before the door and preparations were made for the final removal of the body. This was done without former leave-taking.

At the Church.

The police and military kept the curious but always respectful throng of people out of the way, and the little cavalcade moved quietly and with the utmost decorum to the Third Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Hendricks was a member, and where he had worshiped during his lifetime, and where he had been seated, with the exception of the honorable relations and the church vestry. The officiating clergy, four in number, were Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Dr. Stoughton, of Montgomery, Ala., the first rector of St. Paul's, and under the ministry of Mr. Hendricks joined the church; the Rev. Dr. Pelton, of St. Paul's, the present rector, and the Rev. Dr. Hendricks, a family relative of the deceased. The order of office, such as consists at the last entrance of the cadaver into the church, The body was borne up the central aisle, the relatives and members of the vestry going in advance. Bishop Kinkelbacher voiced the appropriate sentiments of the church in the opening prayer, and the lessons were read by the Rev. Dr. Stoughton and Pelton in their particular of the sacred verses usually read and the sacred had been carried and placed outside the church.

The great audience stood while the impressive scene was enacted. After the bier came the widow, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Wm. Morrison, followed by the sons of deceased, Mr. Morrison.

When the casket had been placed in front of the chancel and the hymn, "Nearer the Home Dwell, Let Me know Me God" The hymn for the dead was then read by the Rev. Dr. Pelton. This was followed by the singing of the hymn "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," to the tune of Almost persuaded. The Rev. Dr. Pelton speaking from the lectern, delivered an eloquent and touching funeral sermon.

Mr. Hendricks' death, said he, "has a peculiar lesson for the youth of America. The subject of our sorrow was a man who by his industry, by his ability, by his honesty, by the force of his character, by his patriotism, by his public services, with energy and application, desired to the emphasis of an early promotion, based only on merit, with unbreaking earnestness, and perseverance, and with the result that at the time of his death he was the second man in the nation. He was a man who started from the special grounds of a radical party, and at the end of his path numbered more years of trust and confidence from the party. With the death men who were his colaborers in the aggressive work for the party, and who were his equals in the council chamber, and who were his friends, in the hour of his death, in spontaneous tribute, and, who seemed to be a band of mourners, action, who recognized the existing influence of moral conditions and intellectual principle and example inculcated, profit and pleasure.

"Here in his native venerable land this statesman, with a strong mind and a warm heart in a social life, within an office earned prominent part in the affairs of his State and nation. In the discharge of the administration of the great nation he was every inch and always and everywhere a gentleman, consistent, and consciousness always in exalted.

"No one who appealed to him for sympathy, counsel, or assistance ever turned away empty. Through his right and his left hands were not in each other's confidence, still there's a record of his generosity, of his charity, of his sympathetic nature of destruction and suffering. He experienced in his daily life the joy of faith and the patience of hope and the comfort of love. These were with him ever; faith, hope, and charity, but the greatest of these was love. Love was his ruling principle, regarding charities of our city, Irene has left the impress of beautiful hand and heart thereof to the sympathetic blessings of his generous soul.

There we stood upon the verge of hallowed ground, the sacred ground of the sepulchre of this. Hendricks, the dear friend for forty years and the member he passed along with dignified, steady, and faithful work beside the noble and devoted women whom he had chosen for better or for worse, and who, through storm and sunshine, through the years, have lived faithfully beside the man of their choice.

"Embrace, sorrowed, faithful friend, Christian gentleman, honored man, farewell!"

When the separated were linked, Mrs. Hunt, of Chicago, sang "Rock of Ages." The Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of Indianapolis, then read the Lord's Prayer, and the funeral procession moved to the street, where it was placed in the hearse and, escorted by the four Indianapolis mounted companies, was returned to the parlor of the homestead. All along the line, in spite of the people flocked to see the sad spectacle.

Public Sorrow.

On Tuesday the 1st of December, the mortal remains of Thomas Andrew Hendricks, the fifth Vice President in the nation's roll of office, were consigned to the tomb prepared for their repose in the city of his home, Indianapolis. Never before in our history has a public sorrow so pervaded all the sections of the country, as that which followed his funeral, or, when so almost upon him, so fondly the sides of his bier. The entire business interests of the country, represented by delegations from the railroad, legal and all the leading cities of the Union, together with an army of people from all the interior cities and hamlets of Central Indiana and the adjacent localities of the neighboring States, in the aggregate, extended to upwards the ordinary progress of a million of mourners. The cabinets of mourning which began to appear on public and private buildings the day of the Vice President's death had grown in quality and design until the whole city was transformed into a mourning attire, presented an almost unknown exhibition of the sad feeling on every business street, and even along the business streets, the people were hands in their display of the signs of public sorrow. Portraits of the deceased, all shrouded in black, were profusely hung in windows. The general feeling of sorrow, the sincerity of the high respect with which the people of Indianapolis regarded their fellow-citizen.

At the Modest Home.

One of the central points of attraction for the thousands who visited Indianapolis was the late Vice-President's home, a two-story brick structure, on the front door of the house was a black mantle, from which was pendent a strip of black crape, which constituted the only outward evidence of mourning.

The scene presented in the interior of the modest dwelling was touching in the extreme of death. Endless and mourning and consoling floral designs were at hand everywhere. The old portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks were almost hidden in banks of flowers and trailing vines.

The most notable representation of the dead was that of a pillow of roses, on which was the name of Mr. Hendricks was born in Ohio. It stood at the head of his coffined remains, and was the work of ladies of Shelbyville, where Mr. Hendricks had formerly lived. It was set forth in length and breadth, and in the shape of a pillow, and was made up of the choicest roses, asters, and the chrysanthemums, and the whole arrangement was one of the most beautiful and touching tributes to the dead statesman.

The Home of Mr. Hendricks and his wife, "Shelbyville."

A wreath from Indiana was suspended a black satin banner bearing in letters of gold: "God's fingers touched him and he slept," and the second inscription underneath, "Shelbyville mourns her distinguished and gifted son."

A wreath from Mrs. Hendricks entered the room for her last leave-taking, accompanied only by the card of the widow, "Love's last tribute." Another from the Democratic Club of Indianapolis, in the shape of a shield, attracting to the last to the city, so soon to be hidden forever from her view, and impressed with the placid and life-like appearance of the dead, the desire to preserve this last scene, and so, like as it was, she sent for the photographer to take a picture of the corpse.

Shortly after this the pall-bearers arrived. The draped hearse and the carriages for the family and friends were unmasked before the door and preparations were made for the final removal of the body. This was done without former leave-taking.

At the Church.

The police and military kept the curious but always respectful throng of people out of the way, and the little cavalcade moved quietly and with the utmost decorum to the Third Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Hendricks was a member, and where he had worshiped during his lifetime, and where he had been seated, with the exception of the honorable relations and the church vestry. The officiating clergy, four in number, were Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Dr. Stoughton, of Montgomery, Ala., the first rector of St. Paul's, and under the ministry of Mr. Hendricks joined the church; the Rev. Dr. Pelton, of St. Paul's, the present rector, and the Rev. Dr. Hendricks, a family relative of the deceased. The order of office, such as consists at the last entrance of the cadaver into the church, The body was borne up the central aisle, the relatives and members of the vestry going in advance. Bishop Kinkelbacher voiced the appropriate sentiments of the church in the opening prayer, and the lessons were read by the Rev. Dr. Stoughton and Pelton in their particular of the sacred verses usually read and the sacred had been carried and placed outside the church.

The great audience stood while the impressive scene was enacted. After the bier came the widow, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Wm. Morrison, followed by the sons of deceased, Mr. Morrison.

When the casket had been placed in front of the chancel and the hymn, "Nearer the Home Dwell, Let Me know Me God" The hymn for the dead was then read by the Rev. Dr. Pelton. This was followed by the singing of the hymn "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," to the tune of Almost persuaded. The Rev. Dr. Pelton speaking from the lectern, delivered an eloquent and touching funeral sermon.

Mr. Hendricks' death, said he, "has a peculiar lesson for the youth of America. The subject of our sorrow was a man who by his industry, by his ability, by his honesty, by the force of his character, by his patriotism, by his public services, with energy and application, desired to the emphasis of an early promotion, based only on merit, with unbreaking earnestness, and perseverance, and with the result that at the time of his death he was the second man in the nation. He was a man who started from the special grounds of a radical party, and at the end of his path numbered more years of trust and confidence from the party. With the death men who were his colaborers in the aggressive work for the party, and who were his equals in the council chamber, and who were his friends, in the hour of his death, in spontaneous tribute, and, who seemed to be a band of mourners, action, who recognized the existing influence of moral conditions and intellectual principle and example inculcated, profit and pleasure.

"Here in his native venerable land this statesman, with a strong mind and a warm heart in a social life, within an office earned prominent part in the affairs of his State and nation. In the discharge of the administration of the great nation he was every inch and always and everywhere a gentleman, consistent, and consciousness always in exalted.

"No one who appealed to him for sympathy, counsel, or assistance ever turned away empty. Through his right and his left hands were not in

AGRICULTURAL MATTERS.

Synopsis of the Annual Report of Commissioner Colman.

Commissioner Colman, of the Agricultural Bureau, in his annual report, says the year which opened in gloom, threatening the destruction of winter crops by the severity of the temperature, is closing with broad prospects of abundance for man and beast, produced at a cost which is not a burden to the producer and to be sold at a price which is not a barrier to the poor consumer. For many years, he says, it has become more and more apparent that one of the most important elements of the prosperity of the United States is a better understanding and a more intimate relation between the several agricultural and experiment stations, and a more practical correspondence between the scientists and the Department of Agriculture. These colleges were endowed by Congress. They are now separately carrying on experiments at an expense of time and means, and yet without any central head through which to report and compare results with each other. He submits that the department should have full authority and ample means to avail itself of the peculiar advantages offered by these endowed institutions in order to keep the country on a scale sufficient to determine all questionable points, the adaptability of new and rare seeds to the various sections of our country.

Of the Bureau of Animal Industry he says:

"The law establishing the bureau does not authorize the slaughter of animals affected with contagious diseases, and it is impossible the office can

Around the County.

Marion.

Mr. Steve Smith has just completed a dwelling for himself where he intends to reside this winter. It stands a little south of his old house.

The "Farmers Club" which meets every other Tuesday have excellent times at their meetings which are held in the Black school house. Singing, reading, recitations and remarks go to make up some of their fine programs.

Mr. John Ward has two men engaged in cutting shipping wood for him.

The people of this vicinity have arranged for a Christmas tree and entertainment to be had in the Black school house. Little folks anxiously await the time.

A Boom in Boyne City.

BOYNE CITY, Dec. 7.—There is to be built and in operation before the close of navigation next year a railroad from Traverse City via Elk Rapids, Charlevoix, Ironton, terminating at Boyne City, which will open up a grand country around Pine Lake. Every house is crowded in this place, newcomers with families arriving every day. Plenty of work for everybody. It is estimated that there will be 8,000,000 feet of hardwood logs got out here this season, making it a prosperous season for everybody.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

THE GREATEST PAIN KILLER Yet found for cramps, colic, stitch in side or back, neuralgia, rheumatism, sprains, bruises, &c., is HAMLIN'S WIZARD OIL. GIBBS' TONIC AND FATS CURE. Bound on with hot wet cloths it never fails to cure. For dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, flatulence, diarrhea, dysentery, heartburn, sour stomach, &c., it is unequalled. Warranted to cure. Try it. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by Jas. C. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton. 92-13

Keynote to Health.

Health is wealth. Wealth means independence. The Keynote is Dr. Bonnell's Cough and Lung Syrup, the best Cough Syrup in the world. Cures Coughs, Colds, Pains in the Chest, Bronchitis and Pulmonary Consumption. One dose gives relief in every case. Take no other. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter.

MILLIONS OF PERSONS

Die annually, who might be saved if attention was given to the little ills of life. Coughs, colds, sore throat, &c., are easily cured by using HAMLIN'S COMPOUND BALSAM which removes the tickling in the throat and tightness across the chest, helps to throw off the poisonous matter and heals the inflamed membranes. Immediate relief will be found in croup bronchitis, whooping cough, &c., and even in chronic cases and last stage of consumption great relief is received. For incipient consumption it works like a charm. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

ENRICH THE BLOOD.

HAMILTON'S GERMAN BITTERS are highly recommended for all diseases requiring a certain and efficient tonic. Especially indigestion, dyspepsia, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, &c. They enrich the blood, strengthen the muscles, and give new life to the nerves. They are like a charm in the digestive organs, remove all dyspeptic symptoms, and alleviate the sufferings of those who there is a general loss of physical vigor, these Bitters are just what you need. Only 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN FEVERISH

And sad eyed? Do they have abnormal appetites and crave food constantly? Beware of worms. Very few children escape their ravages. No child can be happy or well while suffering with worms. They sap the very life by preventing the digestion and assimilation of food. There is a sure remedy. It is called PARMELEE'S SWEETS WORM CAKMOS. They are perfectly harmless but will quickly dissolve the worms pass them off through the bowels. Buy no other. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by Jas. C. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after awhile ensues, when scratching only aggravates the disease, and leading piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter.

Do you want an eastern paper? The New York Weekly World is one of the best democratic newspapers in the United States. Furnished with the JOURNAL for only $2.00 per year.

The Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

CATARRH. This disease is treated on a new principle. We only ask for the Great Catarrh Remedy, Ely's Cream Balm. We have said enough. Ely's Cream Balm is a thorough cleanser. Airy & Lisk, Rochester, N. Y. Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00. For Sale by F. G. HINDS & CO., Charlevoix.

$100 REWARD FOR Every Ounce of Adulteration IN THE U. G. Soap The Great 5c Cake, Made only by GOWANS & STOVER, BUFFALO, N. Y. For Sale by all Grocers.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 35am	7 30pm
Fort Wayne, ar	6 35pm	2 40pm	1 20am
Fort Wayne, lv		2 45	1 30	10 00am
Kalamazoo, lv		6 35	6 00	12 27pm
Kalamazoo, lv		7 05	6 30	1 15
G'd Rapids, ar		8 00	7 35	2 50
G'd Rapids, lv	7 00am		11 30	5 00
Petoskey, ar	1 15		3 45	8 15
Howard City, lv	8 30		12 00pm	5 44
Reed City, ar	9 10		1 05	6 24
Reed City, lv	9 35		1 05	7 56
Cadillac, ar	11 00		2 20	9 15
Cadillac, lv			2 41	9 30
Walton, ar			4 00	10 26
Kalkaska, lv			4 54	11 20
Grayling, ar			5 30	12 00am
Bay View			7 34	1 40
Petoskey, ar			7 15	1 40
Harbor Springs
Mackinaw City			9 50pm	3 55am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City		7 00am	8 50pm
Harbor Springs
Petoskey, lv		8 30	11 12
Bayview		8 40	11 50
Grayling, lv		10 05	12 34am
Kalkaska		10 53	1 16
Walton, lv		11 40	2 05
Cadillac, lv		12 pm	3 40
Cadillac, lv		12 35	4 10am	6 00pm
Reed City, ar		1 55	7 40	7 28
Reed City, lv		2 05	7 50	7 58
Howard City, lv		2 40	8 25	8 35
Petoskey, ar		4 15	9 50	9 25
G'd Rapids, ar		4 45	10 15	10 15
G'd Rapids, lv		5 40	10 30	10 50
G'd Rapids, lv	7 15am	2 50	11 45
Kalamazoo, ar	9 05	4 35	1 40pm
Kalamazoo, lv	9 10	4 40	1 50
Fort Wayne, ar	12 40pm	11 35	5 50am
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00	12 10am		5 10am
Cincinnati, ar	7 50pm	7 25am		12 30pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. Agent.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, DEALER IN Real Estate OF ALL KINDS. Houses and Lots for sale in the most desirable parts of Charlevoix. Wild Lands and Improved Farms for sale in all parts of the county. Abstracts of Title furnished on short notice. OFFICE ON BRIDGE STREET. ESTABLISHED IN 1875.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand, IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS: Sheep's Gray, Navy Blue, Blue Mixed, Medium Blue, White, Wine, Scarlet, Cardinal, Seal Brown, Scarlet Random, Blue Random. ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY. GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY IRONTON, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES. KEEP YOUR ON THE Right Place For Bargains in Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grid stones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Doors, Sash PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm bells, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishing tackle, Revolvers Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Tubs Wooden ware, Rope, Fishermen's Supplies, and Ship chandlery, Job and Tin work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

HENRY C. COOPER Undertaker! CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN. Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock. Come and See my Stock of Furniture. ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

Santa Claus' Headquarters! —AT— DR. G. W. CROUTER'S. CHRISTMAS IS COMING

And we want everybody who intends purchasing CHRISTMAS PRESENTS to comprehend the fact that we are now all ready to show you THE FINEST ASSORTMENT EVER EXHIBITED IN CHARLEVOIX. Our new stock of Holiday Goods is complete and comprises an elegant line of

Plush Toilet Cases, Fancy Perfume Cases, a Fine Line of Plush and Leather Albums, a Large and Beautiful line of Christmas Cards,

A choice line of CONFECTIONERY "SOMETHING NEW." All kind of GAMES. All kind of DOLLS. All kind of Toys from the cheapest to the best.

Books for the million.

All of John B. Alden's publications, the cheapest and best line of books ever offered to the people of Charlevoix. Just the thing for a handsome present.

COME AND SEE ME; COME TO-DAY.

NOW is the time to make your purchases; you certainly will suffer by delay. Don't wait until everything is picked over and the choicest novelties are gone. Make your selections early and you will be saved many days of anxious and weary searching. Trusting you will favor us with an early visit, and wishing you one and all a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we are Respectfully, G. W. CROUTER.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 127. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL Published every Thursday, BY CHAS. J. STRANG. Office on Bridge Street, CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN. ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

WM. CAMANN & CHUBB, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Millard's Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. CHUBB, C. E. KIDDER.

HART & CALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Land Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FRED W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Collections promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. A. JERSEY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Lake St., Boyne City, Mich.

J. E. NEWBERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate. Office, Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

ISAAC C. WISNER, Attorney at Law and United States Circuit Court Commissioner, Money to loan. East Jordan, Mich.

W. V. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Mich. A SPECIALTY.

A. V. CARRITT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday services: Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. C. T. VAN ALSBURG, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services: Preaching at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. DUNNS, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

ROUTFULL, Homeopathic Medicines, Books & Pocket Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

D. LEWIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in the Lewis Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. M. PERRIN, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HORACE S. HARMON, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Boyne City Lodge No. 20, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 20, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Resort Tent, No. 128, meets second and fourth Thursday evenings, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. L.—True Blues No. 32, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Grange's school house.

MASONIC—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets M. Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

W. P. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst Cashier.

BROWN & CO.'S BANK OF CHARLEVOIX, Capital, $25,000. With superior facilities and prompt attention we have a large and growing patronage. Drafts drawn direct upon the principal cities of the world. Collections receive prompt attention. Special attention to the wants of our clients. Interest allowed on time deposits. Loans on approved mortgages upon farm property. Good securities bought and sold. Tickets to and from all points in Europe by best lines. CORRESPONDENTS. Chase National Bank, New York. First National Bank, Chicago. Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit. Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

OFFICERS.

President—Byron Saw.
First Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Robert Miller.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Financial Secretary—B. Suffern.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—J. Milo Eaton, A. B. Cruikshank, and J. L. Bird.
Entertaining Committee—H. Lee Hollings, W. A. Brown, and Robert Miller.
Finance Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Bartholomew, M. J. Sinclair, H. Cooper, Geo. W. Crouter, S. W. Miller, S. M. Nee, W. C. Newman, E. M. Clark, H. Jordan.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to advance the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

FIRST TAX MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday in each month, at 7:30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

John Nicholls, CHARLEVOIX, MICH., Manufacturer of and dealer in HARDWOOD AND PINE LUMBER! ALSO Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades, WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC. LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

NOTE.—We have for distribution a number of copies of the annual report of the Michigan Pharmacy Society for 1885, which may be had by subscribers of the JOURNAL on application at this office.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING Dr. CROUTER'S BAKING POWDER Or Quick Yeast. If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit. If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda. It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature. It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops. It is always fresh and will never disappoint you. Directions for using furnished with every package. Price 40 Cents per Pound. Manufactured and Sold only by Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER, Chemist and Druggist, BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of BOOTS AND SHOES. FOX & MILLER.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE D. B. JERDUE, Proprietor. East Jordan, Michigan. Entirely refurnished and refurnished. First-class Sample Rooms for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 73

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE, RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor. Charlevoix, - Michigan. Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and resorts. Express office, and headquarters for Petoskey and Elk Rapids Stages. Good sample room for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE, THATCHER & BAIRD, Proprietors. East Jordan, - Michigan. Those having business at the county seat will find this the most convenient place to stop, and the proprietors will spare no pains to give the best satisfaction. TELEPHONE CONNECTIONS.

PIONEER HOUSE, A. B. NOYES, Proprietor. Ironton - Michigan. Every convenience for the traveling public.

New Grocery! Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets. A. J. MUDGE Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially in the resident of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and requests all to give him a trial. BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod Can be found at the old stand with a FULL STOCK OF MEATS Of all kinds At Wholesale and Retail. HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

JAMES HEMMINGS, Upright & Herbol Addition, Charlevoix. HOUSE PAINTER, Calciminer, Paper Hanger, And Decorator. PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

"TERRACE FARM," Charlevoix, Mich. J. R. & J. S. DIXON, DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM. Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins A SPECIALTY. 114

New Goods! I would call the attention of the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity to my new and stock of MILLINERY AND Fancy Goods. Have also just received the stock of materials for Fancy work, such as Felts, Canvas, Embroidery, Silks, Rumpel and Table Scarf ornaments, Easter Rods, &c., also Embroideries, Laces, Handkerchiefs, and Collars. Call and examine my stock. I design to sell cheap for cash only. Dress-Making Done to Order. MISS L. SPAULDING.

McCABE'S Livery and Hack Line DRAYING TO ORDER. Passengers, Baggage, etc., delivered to all Boats, Hotels, or any part of the City. AT McCabe's Livery Barn, CHARLEVOIX, MICH. 43

W. M. WAGAR. G. C. WAGAR. Wagar Bros. Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars, And Smokers' Articles. Opera Building, Bridge St., Charlevoix, Mich. Three doors west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON, HORSE-SHOEING, Wagon Shop, BLACKSMITHING, ETC. Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. A satisfactory eye over wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere. SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 42

Farm for Sale or Exchange. One hundred acres of the best farming land, about 40 acres cleared, balance timber, good frame buildings, seven miles from Charlevoix. Will be sold cheap for cash, or will exchange for city property. For further particulars inquire at this office. 1047

The Murder Trial.

The circuit court is in session at East Jordan this week, for the trial of Barry, Dugan, Moore and Graham, for the murder of Geo. Optegezhis, Indian, last summer. The trial of Barry began yesterday at 10 o'clock, with the following jury: Elisha Shepard, Joseph Cook, Charles Todd, Henry Dickenson, John Newville, Albert Townley, Wm. Chegiull, Jasper Cater, Joseph McCounell, George Howe, David H. Gillett, Wm. Adams.

The prosecution is expected to close to-day, and the entire case to be finished this week. The following abstract of testimony taken up to 3 o'clock yesterday was received last night:

D. M. Colby, the first witness for the people, testified in substance as follows: I reside two miles southwest from Charlevoix on the Petoskey road; heard unusual loud hallooing on the night of Aug. 24. Got up three times during the night, once finding a once boys in the yard with my boy. In the latter part of the night an Indian came to my house and told me another Indian was dead at the foot of the hill, whereupon I went to the hill and remained there until the inquest about noon. The body lay on its back about 2 or 3 rods from the junction of the McSidin road and the Petoskey and Charlevoix state road.

Cross examination.—Resided on that place two years; got up three times during the night of Aug. 24; unusual loud hallooing. Did not know the Indian's name who came after me, and could not make out what he said exactly, but inferred that an Indian was nearly killed at the foot of the hill. McSidin's road runs at right angles from the Petoskey and Charlevoix state road. The body lay on the ground with feet on some brush. The body had not been removed. Did not examine the body nor marks of violence. None of the Indians wanted we to examine the body, but would not, and told them that life was extinct, and that they must not touch him.

LATER.

The prosecution closed their case at 11:20 to-day, and the defense will begin this afternoon. Next week we hope to continue with a full abstract of the testimony.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

When an organization has moved steadily along a given course for a dozen years, it begins to have a character, rather than a notoriety or reputation, and that of the W. C. T. U. seems pretty well established. Some things which enter into the character are just now of more than usual interest. The popularity of the society has always been of a marked quality and type. Of all the bodies of women, and there are many in these days, none seem so widely and evenly developed, intellectually, as this. It is not a few brilliant women leading the many to certain conclusions and lines of action, but every women seems to have reached her own conclusions by a path of logic and experience, that to her, is demonstration, and all this she is able to express clearly, strongly, and eloquently. The debates are never diffusive exhibitions of rhetoric, but statement, sentiment, and argument, and seek at once the center, and finds it, too, in much less time than is usual. The fact that three minutes was the limit for each speaker, on the one moving question at Philadelphia, shows what is expected in way of terse and compact expression. Another thing is true concerning the intelligence of this body. Three temperance women are obliged to know more than one using. So many-sided is the work for delivering the nation from the curse of rum, that the ground of the learned professions has been well traversed for the truth, relating to it. Medicine, law, theology, political economy and social science, are not taken on hearsay, or second hand, but hundreds of these women are at home in their vocabulary, and familiar with their principles, while to these decent students, they all mean the science of coming to the best possible for human nature.

As to age, most of the white ribbon women begin in the thirties and run up to the snowy hairs of the sixties, and even seventies. Lately the young woman's C. T. U.'s are sprinkling the conventions with fresh young and fair. Fashionable women are notably absent. Now and then somebody "cries for them," but they are still away; not because they do not need the union, but because the union has no use for this lady of the genus butterfly, until she is regenerated. They need to come with the earnest throng who stand for pure bodies, pure homes and pure legislation for the sake of club tempted husbands and spineless sons, whose oyster like organizations are no match for this real world of work of sin; but the fashionable woman does not come yet. The morning after adjournment at Philadelphia, one of these, sitting at breakfast in a hotel, which had been quite headquarters for delegates during the convention, said: "Well, those white ribbon people are gone at last, and I am glad of it; was it not dreadful to have the creatures around?" We do not mean by this that the W. C. T. U. is not in good society. To be sure it is, you have only to visit the homes of ease, culture, health, and refinement in every state, presided over by "these creatures." We are not talking of good, but fashionable society women, when we said they were absent. It takes conviction, courage, perseverance, thought, study, and self sacrifice to be useful in the W. C. T. U.; therefore the godly women who know and love Christ, make up the ranks of this noble organization.

No compromise with the evil against which they war, and no alliance of finesse or defensive, with those who sustain it, is another striking element of this growing character. Some women in that fearless majority of eight to one, who re-affirmed the St. Louis resolutions are the wives and mothers in homes where husbands and sons object to a prohibition paper in the house, and even forbid it, while the white flag of truce, of a tireless patience, stands between them and their best beloved. Political autocracy has reached the heartstone since November, 1884. But with dauntless courage they again cry in the ears of all men, that to these principles, this army of women 200,000 strong and more to follow, are unalterably committed. The immense of nation possessing, in the interest of a few thousand of the worst villains in the country, is going down. No compromise, however, does not mean no toleration of those who differ. We doubt if the world has ever seen a finer illustration of the Christly spirit than has been repeatedly shown by the leader of the national union and her followers. The protest of the minority at Philadelphia, was received with respectful attention in an hour of intense excitement and the secular papers made note of the fact that the business went on with no break in the harmony of good feeling. Once only, the convention broke into a manyfoned burst of disapproval, at some words of severe and wind scented unjust criticism, uttered by Mrs. Foster against the Union Signal and its management; but it was over in a moment, and no bitter words were spoken in return.

Our organization has been rebuked sometimes for its display of mutual admiration and extravagant laudation of individuals, but these words of high commendation are not for one, or for a few, but for the aggregate of worth which has given a most remarkable character to the organization known as the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Such are the friends of total abstinence for the individual, and prohibition for the state, and such the unswerving, though unflinchingness allies of the party which stands for a nation united against the liquor traffic. Mary T. Lathrop.

M. E. Church.

Prayer service Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

Sermon Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock; subject: "The light in every cloud." Job 36:21.

Young people's meeting at 6 o'clock.

Sermon at 7 o'clock; Subject: "Salvation to the willing." Rev. 22:17.

Preaching at Black's school house next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock.

Rev. G. W. Howe will preach at Barnard every two weeks.

Preaching at the Johnson school house at 7 o'clock on Friday night of this week.

Future notice will be given of preaching at Ironton.

The Sunday school will have a Christmas supper with literary exercises by the school.

Almost a Blaze.

Last Thursday night Alfred Van Dyouse awoke with a feeling of suffocation by smoke, and a hurried investigation showed the cause to be a fire under one of the stoves, which had burned the carpet about two by six feet, and charred the floor,—in one place burning nearly through to the cellar. A few minutes more time, or a sudden gust of wind from any direction would have started a blaze that would probably not have ended until the house was entirely destroyed. It is supposed to have caught from a spark falling on to the carpet.

The Fleetwing was safe in Milwaukee on the 10th.

THE MESSAGE.

President Cleveland's First Communication to Congress.

He Urges a Suspension of the Coinage of Silver.

Recommends a Reduction of the Tariff on the Necessaries of Life.

Favors the Tehuantepec Ship Railway Across the Isthmus.

A Plea for the Education and Civilization of the Indians.

Our Relations with Foreign Powers in a Satisfactory Condition.

Polygamy Denounced and Civil-Service Reform Commended.

A THRIFTY PEOPLE, HUMBLE YET.

To the Congress of the United States: Your assembly to-day is a sense of public responsibility and of duty. The people have spoken in the exercise of a right which we, who stand as their representatives, hold in trust. Their judgment, when fairly and clearly expressed, should be the guide of our action. The intelligent, patriotic, and humble people, who, by their industry, have made our country the home of the most prosperous and free, who, by their ballots, have established a government of their choice, and who, by their taxes, provide the means with which it is administered, have a right to expect that the business they entrust to their servants will be promptly and faithfully dispatched, and that the results of their work will be such as they have intended it should be when they gave their ballots and paid their taxes. Such a people, so situated, and so caring for the institutions they have established, are the best and happiest of all the peoples of the earth. Their lot is the one we all envy, and their government is that which we, who are its agents, should try to make the model for our imitation. Such a people, however, are liable to be misled by those they have chosen to serve them, and their servants may, if they will, for a time at least, so control the agencies of government that it will not immediately or directly feel the effect of their wrongdoing. But the day of reckoning comes to them, too, and they suffer for the sins of their agents. Their patience with those who betray their trust is one of the most hopeful and lovable traits of their character, and their servants who, for their own ends, misuse their opportunities to injure their fellows, should never, in their wildest dreams, hope that the end of their misdeeds will come before the day of their reckoning. Such a people are our masters. They have given us our places of trust and honor, and they have a right to the best service we can give them. Their interests are in our keeping, and we should be ever watchful of them, and should so care for them that, when we shall be called to account, we may be able to show that we have not been unmindful of the trust they have committed to our care.

CONGRATULATIONS AND HOPE.

The United States of America has reason for congratulation and hope. The year just passed has been one of quiet but substantial prosperity. Our population has been increased by a healthy growth, our business interests have been largely increased, our stock of money has been augmented, our agriculture has been stimulated by a generous reward, our manufactories have been busy, our mines have yielded their treasures, our ships have traversed the seas, our railroads have extended their lines, our people have been at work, and they have been paid for their labor, and, as a people, we have been at peace with the world. These things are cause for congratulation and for hope that we may so use the good fortune we have had as to make the future safe and profitable to the people who have given us all we have and who still look to us for the best service we can give them in return for their confidence and their support.

THE PROBLEM OF TARIFF TAXATION.

The chief of our duties, the one which, by its urgency, crowds all others into the background, is the revision of our tariff laws with a view to the reduction of the revenue we collect from our people through the custom-house. We are not in danger of a deficit in the Treasury, but the surplus of money which is piled up there is a menace to the prosperity of the people. We are not in danger of being unable to pay the expenses of our Government, but we are in danger that the money we take from our people to pay our expenses may be so much more than we need for this purpose that we may be in danger of being unable to find a way to put back into the hands of our people the money we do not need for our support without violating the principles of our government and creating a condition which will be as dangerous to our people as a deficit in our Treasury would be to our Government. The duties we lay upon the importation of foreign goods are, in most cases, paid by our people who buy and use the imported goods, and they should not be taxed for the benefit of others than themselves unless there is some good reason why they should be taxed for the benefit of others than the Government they support by their taxes. There is no such reason in the case of our customs taxes. The money we get from our custom-house taxes is needed for the support of our Government, and our people who pay these taxes do so that our Government may be supported at a cost to them which will be as little as possible in view of the fact that they are the people who must pay the cost of our Government, and that our Government should be a source of as little burden to them as possible. The money we do not need for our Government should not be taken from our people, and, if it is taken, it should not be allowed to lie in our Treasury to tempt the cupidity of those who may be willing to use improper means to get it into their hands. The surplus of revenue which we do not need for our Government should be left in the hands of our people, who have earned it and who need it in their business and in the support of themselves and their families. The best place for the surplus money of our people is in their own hands, where it was when our Government took it for its share of the fruits of our industry, and where it should be when our Government does not need it for the support of our Government economically and honestly administered.

We are not in danger of being long without a surplus if we should at once begin the work of reducing our customs taxes so as to bring into our Treasury only the money we need for the support of our Government, for our population is so large and our Government so economically managed that our expenses do not take from our people more than they should pay for their Government, and our business interests are so large and our people so industrious and so fertile in the production of the things we use that our imports from which our revenue is collected are always large enough to furnish us a revenue which will be much more than we need for our Government if our laws do not compel our people to pay more than they should for the support of their Government.

I do not think that the revenue we get from our customs should be reduced below the point at which it should be when our people are taxed for the support of their Government as little as they should be taxed for it when we have no more money than we need for the economical and honest support of our Government, but I do think that the time has come when our customs taxes should be so reduced that our people will be no longer compelled to pay for the living of their Government more than they should pay for their own living, and when our Treasury should be left with no more than the money our people should pay for their Government when they are taxed for no more than the support of their Government.

I do not think that the time has come when we can safely do without any revenue from our customs, but I do think that we may so reduce our customs taxes that they will not take from our people more than our Government should have to support it in its economical and honest administration, and that we may so reduce our customs taxes that they will not, while they are levied for the support of our Government, take from our people more than our Government should have, and that we may so reduce our revenue that it will not be more than our Government should have.

The duties we now lay upon the importation of foreign goods are, in many instances, much greater than they should be to enable our people to live in comfort and to care for themselves and their dependents in such a way that they may be able to do their part in the support of their Government. Our people who do their share in the support of their Government by the payment of customs taxes should be allowed to live in such comfort as their industry and economy may bring them when they do not have to pay more than their share of the cost of their Government, and they should be so taxed that they may be able to live in such comfort when they are not taxed for more than their share of the cost of their Government. Our people who are not taxed for the support of their Government should be so situated that they may be able to see others who are taxed for the support of their Government live in such comfort as their industry and economy may bring them when they are not taxed for more than their share of the cost of their Government, and they should be so taxed that they may be able to live in such comfort when they are taxed for their share of the cost of their Government as their industry and economy may bring them when they are not taxed for more than their share of the cost of their Government.

I do not think that our people, who have so long been the beneficiaries of a system of taxation which has kept the money they paid for their Government among them instead of allowing a portion of it to go to other countries in the payment of the profits of those who furnished them with the things they needed for their comfort and well-being, should be willing to see a change which would deprive them of the benefits they have been accustomed to receive under our system of taxation, but they do not wish to see their Government deprived of the money it needs for its support, and they do not wish to see the money which our people pay for their Government taken from them by a system of taxation which puts it into the Treasury of their Government when it is not needed there for the support of their Government.

I do not think that our people, who have so long been the beneficiaries of a system of taxation which has kept the money they paid for their Government among them instead of allowing a portion of it to go to other countries in the payment of the profits of those who furnished them with the things they needed for their comfort and well-being, should be willing to see a change which would deprive them of the benefits they have been accustomed to receive under our system of taxation, but they do not wish to see their Government deprived of the money it needs for its support, and they do not wish to see the money which our people pay for their Government taken from them by a system of taxation which puts it into the Treasury of their Government when it is not needed there for the support of their Government.

The money we take from our people to support our Government should be taken from them in such a way and in such amounts as will not, if we can avoid it, take from our people more than our Government should have, and we should so regulate our customs laws that our Treasury will not be a place of deposit for more money than our Government needs for its support.

The revenue we now get from our customs should be so reduced that it will not much more than furnish our Government with the money it needs for its support, and we should so change our tariff laws that our people will be able to see that our Government does not need more than our people should pay for their Government, and that our people may be able to see how much their Government does need for its support.

The duties we now lay upon the importation of foreign goods are, in many instances, much greater than they should be to enable our people to live in comfort and to care for themselves and their dependents in such a way that they may be able to do their part in the support of their Government. Our people who do their share in the support of their Government by the payment of customs taxes should be allowed to live in such comfort as their industry and economy may bring them when they do not have to pay more than their share of the cost of their Government, and they should be so taxed that they may be able to live in such comfort when they are taxed for their share of the cost of their Government as their industry and economy may bring them when they are not taxed for more than their share of the cost

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

SANTA CLAU'S.

Where his Headquarters May be Found This Year.

The best indication to us of a stock of holiday goods is its representation in our advertising columns, and our readers will do well to read them thoroughly before making purchases.

G. W. CROUTER

Will fit you out this year with everything you want in the way of toys, cards, albums, books, toilet and perfume cases, etc. Through the center at the entire length of his store are extra tables with shelves to show his large stock of toys and books, which range in price from one cent up. There is no need of any child, no matter how poor the parents, going over the holiday season without something for a present. In the show cases on either side may be found articles of beauty and value to meet the requirements of those with well filled purses. And the attention of this class must be directed to the elegant line of albums, toilet cases, mirrors, etc.

WRIGHT & EMREY

Seek to gratify the demand for something nice by combining utility and beauty in glass and china ware as well as in various articles of woming apparel. To a young couple just beginning housekeeping no finer present could be made than an outfit of decorated china, or one of those handsome lamps. The little folks too are not forgotten, as will be seen by the generous piles of candy to be found there.

GEO. W. MILLER.

Cannot supply everybody with toys or pictures, but he can sell you some of the finest silk handkerchiefs you ever saw. There is not a boy or man in town who would not be pleased with some of the many articles of clothing to be found in George's large stock.

J. L. HURD & CO.

Enumerate a large list of goods desirable for holiday presents which they are offering at prices greatly reduced from former quotations. Ladies, especially, will find something that will not only please some friend, but be of practical value as well. They announce a special holiday sale of dry goods, and a reference to the list of articles will inform our readers where their money will do the most good.

E. M. CLARK

Does not make a special announcement of holiday goods' but in his stock of dry goods, clothing, etc., will be found many articles that will make most excellent presents.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

In addition to a complete stock of hardware, standard goods, these gentlemen carry a line of rubber and tin toys, and a class of goods which go far toward making a complete assortment of presents.

PERRY WEED

Decotes a portion of his space to an exhibit of dolls, christmas cards, toilet and perfume cases, albums, etc., which will not fail to attract the attention of buyers. His prices will meet the requirements of people of moderate means, for everything is marked to close margins.

F. G. HINES & CO.

Show up a large stock of most desirable new goods, rich as well as cheap. In the line of toys and dolls none can fail to find something to suit, and his albums in leather and plush cannot be beaten anywhere. In Christmas cards and goods of that class, the buyer has a large and unusually fine assortment to select from.

If you have not already visited the photo studio of

A. D. BRADBEER

You should do so at once and secure one of the best pictures to be made in northern Michigan. No album is complete without one of Dave's photos.

H. C. COOPER

Would be pleased to sell you anything in his line from an entire outfit of furniture down to a bundle of toys. Your wife will be glad to receive one of those elegant bureaus, or a well make couch.

C. R. BELLINGER

Has a good assortment of silverware, jewelry, clocks, etc., which will turn out in making selections. These articles are durable, and if you want to make a present that will "keep" and give pleasure through all the coming years, a piece of silverware from Bellinger's will be the proper article.

FOX & MILLER.

Do not make a specialty of so called christmas goods, but they will set a pair of boots or shoes, which will be a most acceptable present to hundreds of boys and girls throughout the country.

And after you get the children well fitted for shoes, go and see

MISS L. SPAULDING,

and buy the girls a new winter hat, or if you can't afford that, get the old one made over, with a bright new flower or a feather, or a bright bit of ribbon,—all of which will be duly appreciated. And then, too, there is an assortment of lace collies, collars, and handkerchiefs, and linen sashes and tray covers which will suit the mind of some of your young lady friends. At Miss Spaulding is selling everything at one-quarter off for the holidays you will find a bargain in her goods.

MRS. LITNEY & CARR

Exhibit in their windows a fine line of hats, feathers, laces, silks, etc., which attract purchasers of those goods, and will no doubt find their way into many Charlevoix homes.

Notes and News.

The President's message will be found in full on our inside.

Four more car loads of inmates from the Kalamazoo asylum were transferred to Traverse City last week.

The Pinconning Express says that the C. & W. M. R. R. expect to extend their line to Traverse City next year.

The Cadillac Democrat has enlarged its home space, and has improved its mechanical appearance so that it now takes rank with the best in the state.

Relation in office is the basis of democratic institutions. It fosters vigilance and industry and they in turn insure efficiency and fidelity. —Andrew Jackson.

The Farwell Register comes right to the point in the following: "If you can't say a good word for Farwell keep your mouth shut. If you are not glad to live here, you know where you cause from."

The Grand Rapids Tradesman of last week contained sixteen pages, well filled with advertising and well written matter, and is said to be the largest and best paper of its class ever issued in Michigan.

That Rutlege Publishing company fraud, of Easton, Pa., is trying to swindle the publishers of Michigan again. Such frauds should be compelled to break stone on the public street in company with the chain gang.

I really think it would be better if a change in the party at the head of government could be followed by an entire change of office holders, so that the dominant party could be made to to assume all the responsibility of government not be amenable to the people for the proper discharge of public duty. —Andrew Jackson.

A press dispatch on the 12th says that fees on international money orders, on and after January 1, 1886, will be as follows: For sums not exceeding $10, 10c; over $10 and not exceeding $20, 20c; over $20 and not exceeding $30, 30c; over $30 and not exceeding $40, 40c; over $40 and not exceeding $50, 50c. This is a reduction of one-third of the present rates paid by remitters for such orders.

Traverse City Journal: The Journal is happy to announce that there is last little doubt but the Traverse City branch of the G. R. I. railroad will be extended from Traverse City through Elk Rapids to Charlevoix, returning to Ironton, striking Boyne City and connecting again with the main line at Boyne Falls. If this plan is carried out it will give this northern country the help it has so long needed.

Elk Rapids Progress: The clipping from the Charlevoix Journal last week had the most genuine railroad ring in it of any railroad news we have read in our local exchanges in the past ten years. If our hopes in regard to a railroad are cut down and blasted again, our office and good will are for sale. We cannot stand these blasted hopes much longer.

Ben Davis, we are sorry for you. The Sentinel has blasted your hopes once more. We thought we were "dead sure" of that road this time. 'Twas a crushing blow, the Sentinel dealt, and we are now forever squelched. Won't East Jordan jump and kick her heels together when she hears of it? But what will poor Boyne City do, who has believed in us so far as to hold enthusiastic railroad meetings to help the thing along?

President Cleveland reminds the railroads which have received "princely grants and subsidies" that public indignation has been aroused and suspicion engendered only because it has been charged that these donations from people, have been diverted to private gain and corrupt ends. He reminds the recipientsthat the nation "does not begrudge its generosity, but abhors peculation and fraud," and that the only way to revive the favorable regard of the people for these great corporations is by honest, upright and liberal action on the latter. This is true. It is a popular fallacy to suppose that the people are opposed to railroads. They are the most useful and necessary enterprises in existence. Without them the country could not exist as a great and powerful nation. The people are eager to encourage their growth and prosperity. But abuse, mismanagement and fraud strip the people of the greater part of the benefits the railroad ought to confer on the country, and against those public indignations is aroused.—World.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the interest on the money secured by a mortgage made by Hiram Jones of Antrim, Michigan, to Lucius H. Hendee of Charlevoix county, Michigan, dated the 4th day of August, 1884, and recorded in Liber H. Mortgages, on page 505, of records of said county, and the sum of two dollars, and no proceeding has been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door, or entry entrance to Lewiston Hall (that being the place of holding the circuit court in Lewiston, county), in the village of East Jordan, Charlevoix county, Mich., on the ninth day of December, 1885, at twelve o'clock noon of said day, of the premises described in said mortgage as follows: All that parcel of land being in the township of Antrim, county of Charlevoix, Mich., and described as all of the northwest quarter (¼) of section twenty-six (26) township thirty (30) north of range seven (7) west, containing forty acres according to the United States survey.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Sept. 19, 1885.

GEORGE W. EGLESTON,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FAUTSMAN & GEORGE,
Attorneys for Assignee of Mortgage,
Petoskey, Mich. 17

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed on the fourteenth day of August, A. D. 1884, by Edward Bowman, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of the first part, to Ira Mills, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of the second part, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for said county of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of September, A. D. 1884, in liber "H" of Mortgages, on page 525, which said mortgage was assigned by said Ira Mills to William H. Stewart, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, by an instrument in writing, executed on the fourth day of March, A. D. 1885, in liber "H" of mortgages, in the register's office of said county, on page 526, by virtue of which default the entire sum of money said mortgage contained has become due and payable, and no action at the date of this notice, there is owing on said mortgage and the notes secured by the same, the principal sum of forty-five and 50-100 dollars ($45.50), and interest, and no proceeding have been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the power of sale in said mortgage has become operative;

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and of the statutes of the state of Michigan in such case made and provided, the undersigned will sell at public auction, or sale, to the highest bidder, on Tuesday, the 5th day of December, A. D. 1885, at two o'clock in the afternoon of the first day of Lewiston's circuit court in East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix, (that being the place for holding the circuit court for said county), the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to satisfy the amount due on said mortgage, together with an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars, (reminded for therein, the premises being described in said mortgage as all that part of the south half of the southeast quarter (½ of ¼) of section twenty-six (26) township thirty (30) north of range seven (7) west, containing forty acres according to the United States survey.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Sept. 19, 1885.

HUGH MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss.
County of Charlevoix, }

In the matter of the estate of David S. Tillotson, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order of the Probate Court for the county of Charlevoix, made on the fifteenth day of September, in the Hon. Judge of Probate for the county of Charlevoix, on the fourteenth day of August, A. D. 1885, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Lewiston Hall, in the village of East Jordan, in said county, on the ninth day of December, A. D. 1885, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, subject to all incumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of the sale, of the following described real estate, to wit:—

All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate and being in the township of Melrose, county of Charlevoix, and described as the north half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of the southwest quarter (¼), containing twenty acres more or less, and the southwest quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) and section twenty (20) containing forty acres more or less, being a total of sixty acres of land, all in township thirty (30) north of range seven (7) west.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., A. D. 1885.

ALFRED F. BAILEY,
Administrator.

121

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. We prefer you should work for us in your own locality. We can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful. 50 cents to $5.00 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who write us that they read this notice we will send free a valuable sample box containing 24 articles that will astonish you and all who start at once. Address, TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

FOR CHRISTMAS PRICES TO ASTONISH THE NATIVES, SEE UPRIGHT & EMREY

FOR THE HOLIDAYS! New and Elegant Hanging Lamps, Fancy Tea & Cups and Saucers, MOUSTACHE CUPS, Coffee, Tea, and Chamber Sets. Fur and Scotch Caps. Silk Handkerchiefs. Cuffbuttons. Pocket Knives. Pocket Combs, etc., etc., etc., etc.

Hoods And Shawls | Mittens. Leggings & Hosiery. | Extra Heavy Tea Mixed. All wool. BLANKETS. | Comforts. Flannels. OUTFITS. | Gents' Ladies' and Underwear.

ASTONISHING LOW PRICES AT UPRIGHT AND EMREY'S FOR THREE WEEKS.

12 cents	12 cents	15 cents	Sunday Schools Christmas and Trees BY THE BUSHEL.	One to Five Cents For Fancy Toys.	10 to 20 cts. For lb. for For all kinds of nuts.	Penny Goods Of every Description.
Per lb for Royal Mixed Candy.	Per pound for Best Stick Candy.	Per pound for Better Mixed Candy.

Teamsters' Coats & Mackinaws. And Rubbers. Felts. Lumberman's Fishermen's Supplies, and Ship chandlery. Job and Tin work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES. KEEP YOUR EYES ON THE Right Place For Bargains in Hardware, Iron, Cutlery, Tin ware, Stoves, Implements, Fixtures, Pumps, Grindstones, Wagons, Buggies, Carts, Wheelbarrows, Refrigerators, Irons, Sash Weights. PAINTS Oils, Varnishes, Putty, Glass, Fence wire, Farm bells, Carpenter's tools, Notions, Fishing tackle, Revolvers, Guns, Ammunition, Spoons, Forks, LAMPS, Baskets, Measures, Wooden ware, Rope, Fishermen's Supplies, and Ship chandlery. Job and Tin work. L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

HOLIDAY GOODS All the Latest and Best. Call and See Before Purchasing Elsewhere PERRY WEED, DRUGGIST AND STATIONER, OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Dec 17, 1885.

Watch Your Address Label.

Ten days for which each subscription is paid are printed on the paper opposite the subscriber's name, in the publication office. Example: If Jan. 1st is printed on your address label, you will receive one issue more and extend the system, if subscription be paid.

Which means that a subscription is paid to the end of the year, when a receipt for the money is sent. Papers thus ordered will be continued until ordered to stop, and all arrearages are paid.

Changing your address label does not stop a subscription, but only changes the name and address to which the paper is mailed.

DENTISTRY.

DR. C. S. Aveledesling, formerly of Adrian, Mich., will visit Charlevoix the first of each month, remaining from three to six days, offering good work at low prices. Gas never before known in northern Michigan. Point Lookout, Continuous gum fillings, No breaking of jaws in making New system of filling teeth. Correcting children's mouths and preserving teeth. Painless extracting of teeth. All dental work guaranteed. Rooms at Fergie's house, Charlevoix, Mich.

SEWING MACHINE REPAIRS.

All kinds of sewing machines thoroughly repaired and cleaned. Four cent attachments (almost new) for sale at 25 cents. Those in the country can be attended to by send ing a post card to

D. S. WAY, Charlevoix.

FOR CHRISTMAS.

A fine stock of LACES AND NECKWEAR Lace Handkerchiefs. Silk Mufflers, Lace Tobies, etc., just received, especially for the Holiday trade. Don't fail to see them.

MRS. LITNEY & CARR.

QUARTER OFF SALE.

Wishing to close out my entire stock I will sell all goods at ¼ off the regular prices, until Jan. 1st. For cash.

MRS. L. SPAULDING.

☞Wax Dolls, China Dolls, Rubber Dolls, Cloth Dolls, Large Dolls, Small Dolls, all pretty Dolls, all cheap Dolls, at

DR. CROUTER'S.

☞Albums Photograph, Auto graph or any other graph. Photographs from 25 cents to $6.00. Autograph albums at cost at

DR. CROUTER'S.

LOST—A package of photographs, with the name of Mr. Stanton on the top of the package, and oblige the owner.

☞Buy a good cigar, go to L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

☞Next week Miss L. Spaulding will receive a full line of fancy goods.

☞Manuel these boots, shoes, etc., astonishingly low at O. S. Washburn's house.

☞Cash for hides at Jefferies' Market.

☞Fresh Oysters at Jefferies' market.

☞Best fresh butter at Jefferies' market.

Local Notes and News.

The tug Minnie Warren arrived last night.

Ned Bacon returned home from Southern Michigan Monday.

Capt. Tip Miller came home from Beaver Island last week.

The Sea Gem arrived yesterday morning with pork, etc.

A. E. Hosmer, has been appointed deputy postmaster at Boyne City.

E. F. Parmelee and wife have gone to Bending to spend the holiday season.

F. G. Hines & Co. have fitted glass doors in front of their drug store shelves.

Freighting at Ironton M. E. church next Sunday at 2:30. Sunday school organized at 3:30.

F. W. Crane, of Cadillac, spent Sunday and Monday in Charlevoix visiting friends.

John Howard and wife start for Salina to-day to spend the holidays with relatives and friends.

The firm of Cooper Bros., grocers, is dissolved, O. A. Cooper, and R. J. Cooper continuing the business alone.

L. D. Bardheer expects to close his gallery on Wednesday, and start for his southern field of labor.

Rev C. F. Van Anken will give an address to the young ladies next Sunday evening. All are welcome.

L. D. Bartholomew and family will start on Monday for Florida, where they will spend the winter in Florida.

It is said that the Pine Lake Lumber Co. will do a greater lumbering business this winter than in any previous winter.

Max Gossett and family expect to spend the holidays with friends in Clinton county, N. Y., whom they have not seen in 16 years. They have resided in Norwood continuously for twenty years.

In making your calculations for Christmas, do not forget the dance at the opera house, to be given by the boys' band.

How East Jordan people will rejoice when they learn from the Sentinel that Charlevoix is not going to get a railroad after all.

Mrs. John Slavier and children, and Mr. Daniel Burnham, have gone to Middlebury, Ont., to spend the winter with relatives and friends.

The East Jordan Enterprise was enlarged last week to seven columns to the page. It is well filled with advertising, and seems to be prospering.

Mrs. M. DePue starts to-day for Iowa, where she will spend the winter. She will be accompanied by Mrs. J. A. Hawkins, who goes to Hastings to visit friends.

The Flestwing arrived last night with a cargo of 1,700 bushels of grain for Kitchening mill, and a quantity of hay, pork, oil, coal, etc., for various parties along town.

We learn that the house of Thomas Sheppard, living between Boyne Falls and East Jordan, was entered by burglars recently and $30 with some other valuable articles taken.

No. 5 of the Michigan Manufacturer is at hand, and shows a most gratifying increase of advertising patronage. It is evidently appreciated by those for whom it is published.

From the opening of navigation up to Saturday, Dec. 5th, the steamer Gazelle did not miss a single trip from accident to her machinery or otherwise, and several different times made three trips from here to East Jordan and return the same day.

Upright & Emrey's camp starts up this week. We understand that more than ten times the amount of posts, ties, telegraph poles, and shingle timber, will be gotten out this winter than in any previous one.—East Jordan Enterprise.

We understand that Sheriff Berdan has issued orders that Miss Hostler, the victim of the Trundle assault, must be found and produced. We shall look to Sheriff Berdan and his deputies for her production, an event which will cause general relief.—East Jordan Enterprise.

The Mockingbird came in Sunday morning from her sixteenth trip. Her last trip preceding this was with the fleet of which the Flestwing which cleared Sunday were a part, and she loaded and made a trip while they were waiting for fair winds. She will now be stripped and laid up.

On Sunday morning, the tug D. P. Hall, started from here with the schooners Dan Mahoe, Eagle Wing, and Melvina in tow. The first named was to be taken to Frankfort, where a steam barge is loading for the same firm in Milwaukee, and she will take her from there. The two last named vessels were to be dropped off the Manitous if the wind was fair.

If a newspaper could be printed to be circulated and read only in the vile and corrupt places, perhaps language could be used that would satisfy the chief manipulator of the sheet across the street, but it can never be done in a paper that tries to be respectable and gain a circulation in homes and families where children and young people have daily access to its pages.

The Sentinel having gone to the railroad company and produced a contradiction of our item of Nov. 26th, we shall only say that our source of information was then considered reliable, and the item was given as a matter of news without any desire for sensation, and without the appearance that we might have given it by putting over it a double head, as the Sentinel does over its contradiction. We are not at liberty to use the name of our informant without his consent, and he is at present out of town. He was told by a gentleman chiming to be just coming from the meeting, and who said that a contract had been drawn and signed by the officers of the railroad company and the representative of three of the leading manufacturing establishments in the Traverse region, guaranteeing that in consideration of certain freights the company would build and operate the line of road mentioned; and that it was definitely agreed to complete the line before the close of navigation next year. The JOURNAL has no desire to circulate falsehoods, or raise false hopes, and gave the news information that we then thought (and still believe) to be reliable, just as every other live newspaper does every week. The denial of president Hughart raises a question of veracity between himself and the gentleman who first gave the information, but does not, as the Sentinel would have us believe, convict the JOURNAL of publishing a falsehood simply for the sake of a sensation. We shall continue to give all the news obtainable at the earliest possible moment, and while doing it strive to keep our columns free from all disgusting blackguardism.

Farmers and Mechanics.

Save money and doctor bills. Relieve your Mothers, Wives and Sisters for a timely purchase of a Sewing Machine. Agents wanted. Best goods, prices, terms for Cangles, Ordeis, Crosby and Greenleaf selections. Reliesies Children of Promise one night, may save an hundreds of dollars. Prize Jewels, and $1,000, Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter. 7

The School Entertainment.

The most successful and satisfactory entertainment of the year was given by the pupils of the Charlevoix schools at the opera house last night, under the general supervision of Prof. Enos, assisted by his able corps of teachers. The preparation for this entertainment has been done so quietly that few fully realized what was going on until posters announcing the program were circulated, and yet the work was done so thoroughly that not one of the little folks made a mistake visible to the audience. The program consisted of class reading, recitations, songs, etc., and every part was well performed.

Between the 2d and 3d parts of the program, Mr. Geo. Sherwood, of the high school, appeared and announced an act not down on the bills, and requested the teachers to step upon the stage. The request being complied with, a deputation from each department presented its teacher with a handsome present. Mr. Geo. Sherwood handed Prof. Enos a superb gilt plush album containing the names of about thirty of his pupils as donors, and also a pretty souvenir picture. Miss Cooper's pupils presented a handsome velvet stationery case and stationery. Miss Nelson's gave a beautiful bible, and Miss Cochran's, not to be outdone by their ages, gave to her a fine glass pyramid pepper holder. Prof. Enos expressed himself surprised at the mischief which his pupils had been concocting, but thought best to forgive them, since there seemed to be nothing vicious in their motives and returned thanks in behalf of his assistants who were too much embarrassed to speak.

We should like to print the entire program, but time and space will not permit, and to undertake to make special mention where all did so well, would be very unsatisfactory. Altogether some 80 or 90 children, little and big, took part, and in almost every exercise there was visible a good moral lesson, which could not fail to have a good effect on the school.

The price of admission was just down 25 cents, and the house was packed. The proceeds will be applied toward the purchase of an organ for the schools, and we may confidently expect other entertainments in the future.

K. O. T. M. Election.

The following were elected officers of Resort Tent No. 158.

Past Com.—A. R. Upright.
Com.—J. Mile Eaton.
Lieut. Com.—Dr. Preston.
R. K.—Will Covert.
F. K.—F. E. Weal.
Prelate—Alex Rosenthal.
Physician—Dr. Carlstein.
Sentinel—R. Emrey.
1st M. of Guard—John O'Neil.
2d M. of Guard—Charles Kelly.
Master of Arms—J. Bellford.
Picket—D. Sherwood.
Master of Arms—J. Price.

G. A. R. Election.

On Monday night Baxter Post elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

Q.—E. H. Green.
S. V. C.—W. A. Atchison.
J. V. C.—L. Whitmyer.
J. D.—Dr. J. A. Carlstein.
Surg.—Dr. D. C. Chamberlin.
Chap.—Rev. A. M. Parmenter.
O. D.—S. M. See.
O. G.—H. Bordan.
Adj.—C. H. Gloss.
Q. M.—Wm. Ramsay.
Q. M. S.—A. Brown.
S.—John Lizum.
Representative—E. Carpenter.

F. & A. M. Election.

On Tuesday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

W. M.—O. S. Washburn.
S. W.—W. C. Newman.
J. W.—A. F. Myers.
Treas.—R. Cooper.
Sec'y.—Oscar Upright.

Proper Treatment for Consumptives.

That the cause may be understood what constitutes a good cough medicine, we will simply say that Wild Cherry is the bark of a tree which grows in Germany. This combined with several others equally as efficacious, enter into Dr. Bonsell's Cough and Lung Syrup, then nothing is one of the most reliable now offered to the public. Sample bottles free. Sold by G. W. Crouter. 32-34

CASH CLUB RATES.

Parties who desire to make a club paper for the ensuing year can so accommodated by the JOURNAL's club list. To get the benefit of these reduced rates, all must be paid in advance of subscription, and one year in advance in cash.

Price.	With the JOURNAL.
$1 on Detroit Weekly Free Press	$2 00
1 00 New York Weekly World	2 00
75 Detroit Echo, weekly	1 75
1 00 Chicago Weekly Herald	2 00
1 50 The Cottage Hearth (monthly)	2 25

Sample Copies furnished on application.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Bigboners succeed grandly. Your all Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 13eow

J. L. HURD & CO.

OFFER

Mess Pork, Layton's New	$ 0 07	4 lb Can Pumpkin	0 10
Clear Pork	8	4 lb Can Apples	15
Lard	8	Condensed Milk, per can	15
Granulated Sugar	7	2 lbs California Lima Beans	25
Extra C Sugar	7	7 lbs Hominy	25
3 lbs Best Starch	25	Decorated Toilet sets	$4 00 Worth $6 00
6 lbs Best Starch in Wood Boxes	50	Decorated Chamber sets	6 00 Worth 8 50
3 lbs Japan Rice	25	Hanging Kerosene Lamps	3 75 Worth 4 50
7 lbs Prunes	50	Hanging lamps	2 00 Worth 3 00
Fresh Bloomfield Eggs, per doz	18c	Decorated Tea Sets	1 50 Worth 6 50
1 lbs Best Soap	25	Decorated Tea Sets	5 00 Worth 7 50
6 lbs Arbuckles Coffee	1 00	Best Tea Baking Powder, with knife or fork	50
Good Roasted Rio Coffee	22c	Famed Oil baking powder with napkin holder	50
Combination Coffee, Best drinker out	25	Everything Proportionately Low.
3 lb Can Pie Peaches	25	Everything Best Quality.
3 lb Can California Apricots	25	Everything Warranted.
3 lb Can Best Tomatoes	10
3 lb Can sugar Corn	10

SPECIAL HOLIDAY SALE OF DRY GOODS

Commencing Saturday, December 12.

Our entire stock offered at an immense reduction. We propose to make this our largest monthly business yet and to that end shall mark prices regardless of profit. Space is insufficient to enumerate, but among the bargains we mention our remaining stock of Cloaks at one quarter off. Cotton Flannels 10 cents, worth 15; Red Twilled Flannel 27 cents, worth 30. Gloves and Mittens 75, 80 and 90 cents, worth $1.50. 52 inch all wool Dress Flannels 75 cents. Men's Coats, heavy cashmere, $7.00 to $8.00, worth $8.00 to $8.00. Pants and Vests at half cost to close. Invest your money where it will do you the most good.

J. L. HURD & CO.

THE

Christmas Bazaar

AT

Hines & Co.'s Drug Store

Is where

A Present for Everybody

May be found at prices to suit the times. Call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere.

Respectfully, F. G. HINES & CO.

NOTICE.

I shall close my gallery next Wednesday, sure. No Negatives made after Saturday of this week.

A. D. BRADBEER,
Photographer.

For Hard Times.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL

DEMOREST'S ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY MAGAZINE

With Twelve Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR, $3.10 (THREE TEN).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST Of all the Magazines.

CONTAINING Stories, Poems and other Literary Productions of enchanting interest, Scientific and Household articles.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Engravings, Oil Pictures and Fac Wonderfully, making it the Model Magazine of America.

☞ Each Magazine contains a COUPON ORDER, entitling the holder to the selection of ANY PATTERN, illustrated in that number, from the Mammoth Sheet.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Form, the Largest in Circulation and the best and Fashion Monthly Magazine issued. 1885 will be the Twenty second year of its publication, it is continually improved, and for 1885 will be more than ever worth the price of Family Periodicals, and equal to any magazine. It contains 32 pages, large quarto, 84 STEEL Engravings, elegantly printed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York.

AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE

Charlevoix Journal at $3.10 Per Year.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will give you no more money right away than anything else in this world. Not all other sex, women make more money than men. Boys and girls make quite a fortune. Anyone can do the work, no capital required. We will show you. Business pay for themselves. Address, TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine.

ANOTHER INVOICE JUST RECEIVED.

SILVERWARE CLOCKS, JEWELRY.

C. R. BELLINGER.

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and gives the best satisfaction. Ask your dealer for it and take no other. ALL THE GOOD QUALITIES AND NEVER SWEATS, GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION, THE BEST CHEW MADE. NIMROD IS THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER; never sticks on the dealer's hands. Is the largest seller of any other brand of tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.
Petersburg, Va.

The Grand Rapids Daily Democrat,

The Leading Newspaper of Western Michigan.

ENLARGED AND IMPROVED.

Sent by mail at 50 cents per month.

GET THE BEST

If your neighbors want a clean, handsome, weekly newspaper, giving all the latest and most reliable news from all parts of the world, have them send 25 cents for this paper. Into the Grand Rapids Daily Democrat, 65 cents for two months. Address, publisher, Grand Rapids, Mich.

The Charlevoix Journal,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

$200,000 IN PRESENTS GIVEN AWAY. Sense is worth more than money. For 10 cents we will mail you will get free a package of goods that will put you in the way of making money enough to fill your pocket at first start. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, young or old, can work at their own home and work in spare time, or all the time. Capital not required. We will go it alone. Business pay for themselves. Address, TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine.

A GIFT Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money at once than anything else in this world. Not all succeed who receive a gift from us. Some do not, but many do, and make a fortune. Business pay for themselves. Address, TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine.

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

Canvassing.

Senate Republicans. Upon the meeting of the Republican Senatorial caucus on Saturday, Dec. 8, a motion was made that the caucus proceed to ballot for President of the Senate. Upon this ballot Senator Mr. Sherman received all the votes, and then upon a motion of Mr. Frye, the Sherman vote was made unanimous. Mr. Sherman, in a few brief and appropriate remarks, expressed his gratitude for the honor, and his high honor isn't chosen no doubt has been influenced to be the first that ever has been made a member of the Senate, and no doubt his influence now not given us the practical experience of a Democratic Senate, upon parliamentary rules, and that I will do all I can fairly and impartially to observe and enforce the rules of the Senate, and shall rely greatly upon your Polycarpus and courtesy.

The Republican Senators met again at 2 p. m. of the called (practicable caucus), and it was known as the Senate Presidential Succession bill, which was passed in the last Senate, and which, it is said, was introduced in the 47th by the best known in former Congresses in the House and Senate, Senator Morrill, of Vermont, and Senator Mr. Wade, Senator Morrill was continued the Canada Committee, Senator Wade, Senator Morrill, Senator Wade, Senator Morrill, Senator Wade, Senator Morrill

Around the County.

Burgess.

A good time to skid logs.

Mr. Wilkes of Charlevoix, was visiting at Frank Kane's over Sunday.

Mr. Wm. Baker is going to Norwood with his team to haul logs this winter.

Mr. Austin lost a valuable horse lately, and a subscription to replace it would be in order.

Another alien in town. George Banks is the happy man, weight—yes, waiting for a smoke.

Mrs. Samuel Long and Mrs. Bell Long of Evangeline were visiting at Moses Cooper's on Monday.

Mr. Hale and family are going across Pine Lake to work for Mr. Stripp this winter, to the regret of their neighbors.

When Dr. Lewis is called to visit a patient in this town especially in the evening, it would be well for him to carry a lantern.

Mr. Brown who has been expecting a visit from a brother was made happy by the visit of a little stranger who came to stay until here 21.

The Hop Yard school house and the one near the state road at Burgess are nearly completed, and the schools will commence about Jan. 1st 1886.

Marion.

Nice sleighing.

Farmers are getting out logs or drawing wood to town making busy times for themselves.

At a special meeting of the voters a few days ago, it was decided to insure the Black school house.

A road has been opened from the county road, near Mr. Smith's house, to the Johnson school house. This will prove a big accommodation to many.

Married, on Wednesday Dec. 9, Mr. Will Withers to Miss Bell Black. The happy couple settle down to housekeeping immediately. The JOURNAL extends congratulations.

THE GREATEST PAIN KILLER Yet found for cramps, colic, stitch in side or back, neuralgia, rheumatism, sprains, bruises, &c., is HAMILTON'S JAMAICA GINGER TONIC AND PAIN CURE. Bound on with hot wet cloths it never fails to cure. For dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, flatulence, diarrhœa, dysentery, heartburn, sour stomach, &c., it is unequalled. Warranted to cure. Try it. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

MILLIONS OF PERSONS

Die annually, who might be saved if attention was given to the little ills of life. Coughs, colds, sore throat, &c., are easily cured by using HAMILTON'S COUGH BALSAM which removes the tickling in the throat and tightness across the chest, helps to throw off the poisonous matter and heals the inflamed membranes. Immediate relief will be found in croup bronchitis, whooping cough, &c., and even in chronic cases and last stage of consumption great relief is received. For incipient consumption it works like a charm. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

ENRICH THE BLOOD.

HAMILTON'S GERMAN BITTERS are highly recommended for all diseases requiring a certain and efficient tonic. Especially indigestion, dyspepsia, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, &c. They enrich the blood, strengthen the muscles, and give new life to the nerves. They act like a charm in the digestive organs, remove all dyspeptic symptoms, and whenever the stomach is weak or there is a general loss of physical vigor, these Bitters are just what you need. Only 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN FEVERISH

And sent eyes? Do they have abnormal appetites and crave food constantly? Beware of worms. Very few children escape their ravages. No child can be happy or well while suffering with worms. They sap the very life by preventing the digestion and assimilation of food. There is a sure remedy. It is called PARKELEE'S SANTONINE WORM CANDIES. They are perfectly harmless but will quickly dissolve the worms pass them off through the bowels. Buy no other. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some disorder of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, viz: Dizziness, coated tongue, sick stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to DR. BOSANKO'S PILE REMEDY, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter. 152

☞ Do you want an eastern paper? The New York Weekly World is one of the best democratic newspapers in the United States. Furnished with the JOURNAL for only $2.00 per year.

☞ The Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

Cures in a Few Days the worst cases of Gleet, Whites, Spermatorrhœa (Seminal Weakness) or Nocturnal Emissions, whether from excess or self abuse and all those painful complaints, so much dreaded by the married and those contemplating marriage, which are the result of youthful indiscretion, rendering marriage unhappy and even fatal. Sent free, sealed, with full directions, in plain envelopes, to any address, on receipt of the price, viz: Single box, $1.00; Two boxes, $2.00; Three boxes, $3.00. Address, ALBERT & LAIN, Sole Agents, Rochester, N. Y. Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00. For Sale by P. G. HINDS & CO., Charlevoix.

$100 REWARD

FOR

Every Ounce of Adulteration

IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.	.....	7 30am	7 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, ar.	4 35pm	2 40pm	1 20am	.....
Kalamazoo, ar.	.....	5 40	3 45	8 00am
Kalamazoo, lv.	.....	5 45	3 50	12 20pm
Schoolcraft, lv.	.....	6 08	4 20	1 15
Cedar Springs, lv.	.....	7 20	5 30	2 35
Grand Rapids, lv.	7 00am	7 50	6 00	3 06
G R & I M Junc.	7 15	.....	6 15	3 18
Howard City, lv.	8 30	.....	7 50pm	4 24
Big Rapids, lv.	9 10	.....	8 34	5 12
Reed City, lv.	9 55	.....	9 05	5 50
Reed City, lv.	.....	.....	2 20	8 10
Cadillac Junc. lv.	11 00	.....	3 45	9 35
Cadillac, lv.	.....	.....	3 55	9 40
Walton, lv.	.....	.....	4 50	10 30
Kalkaska, lv.	.....	.....	5 34	11 24
Mesick, lv.	.....	.....	6 30	12 00am
Boyne Falls, lv.	.....	.....	7 26	1 04
Boyne City, lv.	.....	.....	8 05	1 40
Harbor Springs,	.....	.....	.....	.....
Markland City,	.....	.....	9 50pm	3 25am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 6	No. 8	No. 4
Markland City,	.....	7 00am	8 50pm	.....
Harbor Springs,	.....	.....	.....	.....
Boyne City, lv.	8 05	11 15	.....	.....
Boyne Falls,	8 45	11 56	.....	.....
Mancelona,	10 03	12 54am	.....	.....
Kalkaska,	10 45	1 26	.....	.....
Walton,	11 34	2 16	.....	.....
Cadillac, ar.	12 25pm	3 05	.....	.....
Cadillac, lv.	12 35	3 10pm	6 10pm	.....
Cadillac Junc. lv.	1 05	4 00	6 45	.....
Reed City, lv.	2 05	5 40	8 08	1 50
Big Rapids, lv.	2 44	6 08	8 48	2 28
Howard City, lv.	3 34	6 55	9 37	3 17
G R & I M Junc.	4 45	10 15	10 15	.....
Cedar Springs, lv.	4 55	10 25	10 25	.....
Grand Rapids, lv.	5 50pm	7 40	11 05	4 30
Kalamazoo, ar.	9 05	9 25	1 40pm	.....
Kalamazoo, lv.	9 10	9 30	1 40	.....
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 40am	12 30am	5 30am	.....
Fort Wayne, lv.	1 00	12 35am	.....	5 30am
Cincinnati, ar.	7 00am	7 35am	.....	12 50pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,

IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Raisdon.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Raisdon.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.

GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood, Brown

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Santa Claus' Headquarters!

AT

DR. G. W. CROUTER'S.

CHRISTMAS IS COMING

And we want everybody who intends purchasing CHRISTMAS PRESENTS to comprehend the fact that we are now all ready to show you THE FINEST ASSORTMENT EVER EXHIBITED IN CHARLEVOIX. Our new stock of Holiday Goods is complete and comprises an elegant line of

Plush Toilet Cases, Fancy Perfume Cases, a Fine Line of Plush and Leather Albums, a Large and Beautiful line of Christmas Cards,

A choice line of CONFECTIONERY "SOMETHING NEW." All kind of GAMES. All kind of DOLLS. All kind of Toys from the cheapest to the best.

Books for the million.

All of John B. Alden's publications, the cheapest and best line of books ever offered to the people of Charlevoix. Just the thing for a handsome present.

COME AND SEE ME; COME TO-DAY.

NOW is the time to make your purchases; you certainly will suffer by delay. Don't wait until everything is picked over and the choicest novelties are gone. Make your selections early and you will be saved many days of anxious and weary searching. Trusting you will favor us with an early visit, and wishing you one and all a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we are Respectfully, G. W. CROUTER.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 123. CHARLEVOIX, MICH., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street, CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

Single copy, one year, if paid in advance, $1 50

Single copy, one year, if not paid in advance, $1 75

Single copy, six months, $1 00

Single copy, three months, 50 cts.

Subscribers will find the date of their expiration printed on their paper, and should make payment before the date expires, or notify the publisher to discontinue the paper.

Advertising rates furnished on application.

Entered at the Post Office at Charlevoix, Mich., as second class matter.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

W. A. MORRISON, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Collections promptly attended to. Office on Bridge street.

W. E. COLLINS, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agent. Office on Bridge St., opp. post office.

E. V. BLANK, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Real Estate and Conveyancer. Office on Bridge Street.

J. V. BREEN, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Boyne City, Mich.

J. V. TAYLOR, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery, Boyne City, Mich. Land Agent, Mich.

W. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Mich.

J. A. CORELL, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

PRESBYTERIAN SOCIAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m. A. A. LYONS, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday services at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. J. F. HODGES, pastor.

HOMOEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

G. W. CROUTER, Homœopathic Medicines, Books, Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. GILBERT, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Dr. Green's building, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. H. PENNOYER, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathist, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

H. E. WIRT, Real Estate Agent, Notary Public, Real Estate and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

F. & A. M.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 319, meets second Saturday in each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. O. F.—Round Lake Lodge No. 261, meets every Saturday evening in their hall.

K. O. T. M.—Charlevoix Tent, No. 156, meets second and fourth Saturday evenings in Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. G. T.—Pine River No. 72, meet Saturday on or after each full moon at Gaylord's school house.

W. O. W.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 952, meets 1st Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over Cooper's.

BANKS.

T. F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

BROWN & CO'S

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,

Capital, $25,000.

With ample facilities and prompt attention to business, offer to the patronage of the public, Collections receive prompt attention. Interest allowed on time deposits. Business made on first mortgages upon farm property in this county, worth from three to five times the amount loaned. Money loaned on real estate security only. Interest payable annually. Exchange on all points in Europe by Bill Steamers.

CORRESPONDENTS.

Chas. Scott and Hanover National Bank, New York.

Merchants National Bank, Chicago.

Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit.

Home National Bank, Grand Rapids.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERDEE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 75

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix - Michigan.

Good beds, good tables, good cigars and good attendance. Express office, and headquarters for Express and Fire Brigade Wagons. Free omnibus from the depot to accommodate travelers. 152

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

TRUESDELL & BEALS, Proprietors.

East Jordan, - Michigan.

Thus having business at the county seat will find this a convenient place to stop, and for accommodations will spare no pains to give the best of satisfaction. HIGHEST CONDITIONS.

PIONEER HOUSE,

J. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton - Michigan.

Every accommodation for the traveling public.

GET THE BEST

If your subscribers want a clean, fearless, independent newspaper, giving all the latest and most reliable news from all parts of the country, then they should send 25 cents for this paper two months, or $1 for six months, or $2 for one year. Sample copy free. Address,

The Charlevoix Journal,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising may be taken for it in NEW YORK.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING

DR. CROUTER'S

BAKING POWDER

Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.

If you use it your bread will never taste of Soda.

It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from any thing of a deleterious nature.

It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and 30 OZ. from the Common Cream of Tartar of the Shops.

It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by

Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,

Chemist and Druggist.

BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

"TERRACE FARM,"

Charlevoix, Mich.

J. R. & J. S. DIXON,

DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.

Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins

A SPECIALITY. 119

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

Organized—Byron Sess.

First Vice President—W. A. Smith.

Second Vice President—Robert Miller.

Recording Secretary—Charles Strang.

Financial Secretary—J. Sinclair.

Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Executive Committee—J. Mile Eaton, A. D. Cronkhamk and J. L. Hurd.

Corresponding Committee—H. Lee Hastings, W. A. Brown, and C. V. Cross.

Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Hagadorn, B. J. Sherman, H. Cooper, Geo. W. Crouter, B. W. Miller, S. M. Sow, W. C. Newman, E. M. Clark, H. Breden.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to promote the growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

New Goods!

MILLINERY

AND

Fancy Goods.

Have just received a fine stock of materials for fancy work such as Felts, Canvas, Embroidery Silks, Rubber and Tidy wool, Ornaments, Hamer Beds, &c., Also Embroideries, Laces, Handkerchiefs, and Collars. Call and examine my stock. I design to sell cheap for cash only.

Dress-Making Done to Order.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

W. M. WAGAR. C. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale.

JACKS.—We have for disposition a number of Jacks, of the annual report of the Michigan Agricultural Society for 1885, which rank the first by various tests of the AMERICAN application at this office.

MANSLAUGHTER.

Barry Convicted and Sentenced to Three Years at Ionia.

We failed to get a complete abstract of the evidence in the murder trial, as we hoped last week. The prosecution examined H. M. Colby, Thomas Annis wicky, Dr. J. A. Carlstein, A. J. McLeod, Geo. Burns, Sim Thatcher, Arthur Wilson, Willis Colby, Mathias Sinamewa, John Bishawba, Wm. Bishaw ba, Harrison Berdan, and Jim Ogiegezie. The circumstances proven were substantially as published at the time of the affray, and to the minds of the jury the case was complete. Prosecutor Corbett was assisted by Norton & Kent.

The witnesses examined for the defense were J. R. Dixon, Dr. L. Lewis, Geo. W. Cook, Geo. Pappin, Angeline McSahn, Mrs. Henry Cunningham, Curtis Colby, Wm. Naugezie, Frank Durgn, Jas. Graham and Cornelius Barry. Colby and Naugezie testified that Ogiegezie and two other Indians were seen by them on the hillside in a drunken sleep, after the boys had returned to town; that they had been fighting among themselves more or less all the afternoon and evening, and that when they saw Ogiegezie they had good reasons believe he was not dead. This occurred some forty rods from where Ogiegezie was afterwards found dead. It was shown that the Indians had revolvers, and fed more or less throwing of stones, and that there was not only a possibility but a strong probability that Ogiegezie was killed by the other Indians in one of their drunken fights. The defense was conducted by Crinkshank & Grier. F. W. Mayne, and H. A. Jersey.

The jury were out about an hour and returned a verdict of manslaughter. Jorge Ramshell sentenced Barry to three years hard labor at the Ionia reformatory.

Durgn, Graham, and Moore were admitted to bail in the sum of $300 to appear for trial at the next term of court, which was at once procured, and the boys are at liberty.

Barry was taken to Ionia by Sheriff Berdan on Tuesday.

Free Reading Rooms.

The board of school inspectors have established free reading rooms in the village hall, in the rooms now occupied by the township library. The rooms are to be well lighted and heated, and will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., under the management of Miss Effie Berdan, librarian. This will make a pleasant and profitable place to spend stormy days and long winter evenings, and we have no doubt many of our young people will take advantage of the opportunity. This arrangement will go into effect the first Monday in January.

The following new books were added to the township library last week:

419—The Hoosier Schoolmaster.
420—Hay Fever.
421—Seven Wonders Of Science.
422—Silas.
423—Affinity.
424—Mr. Meeson's Guardsmen.
425, 426, 427, and 428—Rollin's Ancient History.
429—Cousins.
430—Within the Shadow.
431—Our Commonplace Day.
432—Miss Gilbert's Career.
433—A Family Flight Through Mexico.
434—The Silver Cup.

City and Country.

When the manufacturing industry took its wonderful start in this country, the work people in the factories were taken from the farm-houses. The farmer's daughters of New Hampshire and Massachusetts, in the neighborhood, flocked to Lowell, and then worked in the mills long enough to earn a good outfit as mistress of families, but they did not expect to make factory work the business of their lives. Manufactures caused a begin from the country to the cities and villages of young men as well as of young women, and the agricultural newspapers and Farmers' Almanac groaned over the change, and the perverted tastes and instincts of the children of the farm; nor have they recovered from the holiday, although the inner troubles affect the manufacturing, and not the rural populations. It showed that people could change their employment when greater profit is offered by the new than by the old. The manufacturing interest has grown, and the work people have become a class which form union and demonstrate all class distinctions but their own; and when it is pointed out to them that there is a remedy for the evils under which they suffer, and of which they complain, in the abundance of land, and the certainty of at least a living in farming, the reply is made that they have not been brought up to that pursuit, and to lose their work in the factory is to lose all. But the change is no greater than that for the farm boys and girls when the factories first opened, and many of the operatives have had some experience in agricultural labor. There are at least enough of such to relieve the pressure in all manufacturing industries. There is one peculiarity about farming as a business which distinguishes it from all others. That is, that it gives one a living even if he is unskilled and unprofitable and incompetent. The shiftless farmer does not starve to death, since the product of every small plot of land ill tilled says him from that calamity. The knowledge and skill and energy which would make a business successful in the city or village would make a most prosperous farmer, while a majority of the farmers pursue their calling as their fathers did before them, and put no more brains into it than is convenient, and yet they live in comfort, and have some luxuries which only the rich can enjoy in town. There is no need even of going out West for the country life. The farms have been abandoned for the manufacturing villages, and the pressure of population, and that upon the means of subsistence, will insure that these will be repeopled again and made more profitable than they were formerly. To a majority of people, however, the town life is so attractive that they prefer want and the prospect of pauperism with plentiful society, and the excitements and variety of collected humanity, to the monotony of the country, with its freer air, greater abundance of all the real necessities of life, and the nearness to the soil which is the natural refuge of mankind.

Queer things happen at masquerade balls sometimes. One of them happened at Welch Hall the other night. Says a correspondent: "One young lady and her father were horrified to find that they had been making violent love to each other for half an hour, and mutually agreed to keep the little episode a secret."—Boston Globe.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

The oldest white ribbon woman in the world, now in her 98th year, is Amelie Jones, of Smyrna, Delaware.

Our beloved Frances Willard said: "I doubt if there are a score of women in our work who know the origin of the term white ribbon. I am really almost ashamed to confess my own ignorance on that important question, until, at the Massachusetts convention, I and the delegation from Wellfleet, who informed me that Dr. Henry A. Reynolds, the red ribbon reformer, about the year 1876, when working in their town, called the ladies together, as his custom has always been, to organize a Woman's Christian Temperance Union. It seemed to occur to him then that a badge was desirable for the ladies, and as his own was red ribbon, and the Murphy movement had adopted the blue ribbon, he suggested the remaining national color, white, for the ladies, calling attention to its significance of purity and peace. This Union chose the honor of being the first to adopt the color, and I for one but remember when we see our ribbons, which I earnestly wish we might wear at all times, that at Wellfleet, that famous watch making town, to watch out more carefully for twelve o'clock, our noonday time of prayer. The following autumn, under the inspiration of a memorable speech by Margaret Winslow, of Brooklyn, at the fourth national convention, at Chicago, the white ribbon became our national badge. Let us here covenant together that we will wear it constantly and induce all good women everywhere who belong to us to do the same, as far as is possible, remembering as our dear Sister Barney, of Rhode Island, tells us The white ribbon stands for purity, conservation, helpfulness, and loyalty to each other and to the Women's Christian Temperance Union—the wearing of a badge that emblems God's white light of truth! Happy is that brave and patient pioneer, who, on her lonely pilgrimage, unwinds the rare white ribbon that is to bell the globe! Women are born idealists, and respond to nothing so warmly as to an appeal for one who adventures on a noble mission into a territory not yet explored. Mary Clement Leavitt, our round-the-world ambassador, is as dear to us as Othello to Desdemona, though in one trait only can they be likened. As Shakespeare says: 'She loved him for the dangers he had dared.' Mrs. Leavitt is now in Sydney, Australia, and will remain there until next spring, sailing thence for Asia and slowly moving across the continent. We cannot tell when she may return, probably not for two or three years more, and she has already been two years from home. Sisters, what we can do to cheer her lonely pilgrimage, for such it is and must be in spite of all manifestation, and to assure her lonely daughters at home of our affectionate interest and and regard, will be done promptly and heartily. I know Your ready response with contributions to the 'Leavitt Fund,' the profound interest manifested by our members alike in city and village, in crowded mart and distant farm, the resolutions of having remembrance adopted by conventions, the fervent prayers in which she is so tenderly remembered, all attest the hold her mission has on us already. I wish the sketch might be read aloud in every local Union that will soon be passed on a leaflet from the Union Signal office, written by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore. A noble tribute it is to Mrs. Leavitt, and will be kept on sale with her photograph at the Signal office, and all money thus gathered will be added to the 'Leavitt Fund.' Our work has proved to us not only that nothing succeeds like success, but that nothing works unity like united working."

Obituary.

Deacon M. F. Norton died at the residence of his son-in-law, A. J. Stroud, of Horton's Bay, on Friday, Dec. 18th, in the 76th year of his age. Mr. Norton has lived at Horton's Bay for a number of years, and was well known all over the Pine Lake region. He was a consistent hard working member of the Baptist church, and was loved by all who knew him. His funeral was held on Sunday, and was attended by a large number of friends, among them four ministers: Revs. C. F. VanAtken, and A. M. Parmenter of Charlevoix, Mr. Upton of Horton's Bay, and W. H. Norton, of Boyne City. He leaves a daughter—Mrs. Stroud—to mourn his death.

Perry Hannah to the Press.

Perry Hannah has addressed the following letter of acknowledgment to the Western Michigan Press Association who presented him the badge recently mentioned in these columns:

GENTLEMEN: I have on every kind communication on behalf of the Mich. State Press and Western Mich. Press Associations, transmitting to me by express a most beautiful emblem of their friendship in commemoration of their pleasant visit to Traverse City in July last. Allow me to say, gentlemen, that I receive this valuable present, on behalf of our citizens and myself, as one of the most pleasant events in our history; and I desire to thank you sincerely and assure you that we shall ever cherish it in remembrance as of one of the sunny days that come to all seldom in our lonely lives and are so much needed to mould and elevate men to the position of dignity for them to fill in life which all things well." If we were in command in making your visit at Traverse City epic, we are more than well repaid. I am proud to say that whatever success I have attained in life is very timely owing to the Michigan Press, and in my opinion there is no class who give more of honest labor, or, as much "value received" for services rendered their in your profession. I believe that next to the common schools the journals of our country are the best educators, and are most necessary to the safety of republican forms of government. Whenever you again feel that recreation in the cool air of our north country would be pleasant, you have only to intimate the thought, for our hatch stings will ever be out to you.

Very respectfully yours,

PERRY HANNAH.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

The oldest white ribbon woman in the world, now in her 98th year, is Amelie Jones, of Smyrna, Delaware.

Our beloved Frances Willard said: "I doubt if there are a score of women in our work who know the origin of the term white ribbon. I am really almost ashamed to confess my own ignorance on that important question, until, at the Massachusetts convention, I and the delegation from Wellfleet, who informed me that Dr. Henry A. Reynolds, the red ribbon reformer, about the year 1876, when working in their town, called the ladies together, as his custom has always been, to organize a Woman's Christian Temperance Union. It seemed to occur to him then that a badge was desirable for the ladies, and as his own was red ribbon, and the Murphy movement had adopted the blue ribbon, he suggested the remaining national color, white, for the ladies, calling attention to its significance of purity and peace. This Union chose the honor of being the first to adopt the color, and I for one but remember when we see our ribbons, which I earnestly wish we might wear at all times, that at Wellfleet, that famous watch making town, to watch out more carefully for twelve o'clock, our noonday time of prayer. The following autumn, under the inspiration of a memorable speech by Margaret Winslow, of Brooklyn, at the fourth national convention, at Chicago, the white ribbon became our national badge. Let us here covenant together that we will wear it constantly and induce all good women everywhere who belong to us to do the same, as far as is possible, remembering as our dear Sister Barney, of Rhode Island, tells us The white ribbon stands for purity, conservation, helpfulness, and loyalty to each other and to the Women's Christian Temperance Union—the wearing of a badge that emblems God's white light of truth! Happy is that brave and patient pioneer, who, on her lonely pilgrimage, unwinds the rare white ribbon that is to bell the globe! Women are born idealists, and respond to nothing so warmly as to an appeal for one who adventures on a noble mission into a territory not yet explored. Mary Clement Leavitt, our round-the-world ambassador, is as dear to us as Othello to Desdemona, though in one trait only can they be likened. As Shakespeare says: 'She loved him for the dangers he had dared.' Mrs. Leavitt is now in Sydney, Australia, and will remain there until next spring, sailing thence for Asia and slowly moving across the continent. We cannot tell when she may return, probably not for two or three years more, and she has already been two years from home. Sisters, what we can do to cheer her lonely pilgrimage, for such it is and must be in spite of all manifestation, and to assure her lonely daughters at home of our affectionate interest and and regard, will be done promptly and heartily. I know Your ready response with contributions to the 'Leavitt Fund,' the profound interest manifested by our members alike in city and village, in crowded mart and distant farm, the resolutions of having remembrance adopted by conventions, the fervent prayers in which she is so tenderly remembered, all attest the hold her mission has on us already. I wish the sketch might be read aloud in every local Union that will soon be passed on a leaflet from the Union Signal office, written by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore. A noble tribute it is to Mrs. Leavitt, and will be kept on sale with her photograph at the Signal office, and all money thus gathered will be added to the 'Leavitt Fund.' Our work has proved to us not only that nothing succeeds like success, but that nothing works unity like united working."

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

BILLS were introduced in the Senate on the 16th inst. for a postal telegraph to relieve enormous travelers from income taxes, for an international tribunal of arbitration, to open to homestead settlement certain portions of Indian reservations, for the interests of Indian Ring to Louisiana (national), to present Gen. Sheridan the army, and to provide for the settlement of claims of officers and soldiers for the loss of private property. The joint resolution was presented from the Legislature of New Jersey for an honorable retreat for the tired soldiers of the army. The resolution was introduced in the Senate a very large number of resolutions, including those of Minnesota, Lodge, Cullom, Beck, Miller, Voss, Jacob, Winchester, Winnie, Hoar, Dawes, Platt, Hopkins and Vance, Pendleton, Ingalls, of Ohio, Sherman, Lockie, of Pittsburgh, Pearl, of Milwaukee, and Cameron, of Pennsylvania, Swanson, Secretary of Legation, which is of the interest to participate in the affairs of the army, and Pendleton to whom appointed to have all reports from published. The House was held in session.

THE Speaker laid before the House, of business, on the 12th inst., a large number of House Doc. communications, including the annual report of the Mint, the annual report of the Treasury and the Comptroller of the Currency, and then went into the Lake for the Hennepin. Mr. Hoar of Mass. offered a resolution of the Senate of the United States, the Speaker of the Senate of the House, and the Senate, and Lieut. Gen. Sheridan, and Lieut. Gen. Sherman

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 16, 1885.

Special Correspondence.

The U. S. Museum has just laid upon the recipient of Dr. C. V. Riley's extensive private collection of North American insects. Dr. Riley is entomologist of the department of agriculture and honorary curator of insects in the National Museum. He has been twenty five years in making the collection, which represents over 20,000 species. There are 115,000 pinned specimens and many others preserved in alcohol and by different methods. The collection is said to be worth $25,000 in cash. The doctor donates it to the museum.

Senator and Mrs. Conger are comfortably domiciled in their elegant residence at 1421 M street N. W. Mrs. C. will not keep open house until after the holidays, as she believes the thirty-days mourning over the death of vice president Hendricks should be observed by society as well as by public officials.

Under a Democratic administration the clerks in the treasury department are finding a new order of things. They are required to be at their posts promptly on time in the morning and not to remain on duty until the department closes in the evening. Even a fraction of a minute's tardiness is not overlooked but meets with prompt attention and a sharp reprimand unless a valid excuse is offered.

Christmas clubs are the order of the day. The good people of this city are making an organized canvass to provide suitable observance of the day among the poorer classes. Presents for the children and a feast of eatables for old and young are to be the main features. The "C. C. C." (Children's Christmas Club) numbers several hundred members, from five to twelve years of age. They wear a badge and are among the most active workers in the good cause.

During the late Virginia campaign John Sherman and Gen. Logan, the great bloody-shirt orators of the republican party, had much to say about the "treason-stained soil" used by Gen. Fitz Lee, democratic candidate for governor, charging that it was paraded with pride as a relic of the rebellion and everywhere greeted with cheers by the unrepentant confederates, having been during the war the property of the rebel general, Robert E. Lee. It now transpires that Gen. Fitz Lee used some fifty different saddles during the campaign, not one of which was ever seen by Gen. R. E. Lee. Thus another republican slander is prepared for burial.

A lively discussion is being indulged in by members of congress over the proposed new rules. No business of importance will be transacted in the house until this vexed question is settled. In fact, it is generally conceded that very little business will be accomplished in either house until after the holiday recess.

The National Guard association of the United States, an organization in the interest of the militia of the several states, closed an important session after the election of officers today. Steps were taken to present a request to congress for the annual appropriation of one million dollars, "for the purpose of providing ordnance and ordnance stores, quartermaster stores, and camp equipage for issue to the militia." The delegates made a formal call (by appointment) on the president to-day and were very cordially received. In fact it is understood that the president receives all callers very cordially—except office-seekers.

The government receipts for the last three days are: Internal revenue, $1,087,788.63. Customs, $1,769,776.27. A total of $2,857,564.90.

A long list of appointments have been sent to the senate by President Cleveland, most of them having been made during the recess, and have been referred to the proper committees. It is understood that senators will not antagonize the president's actions on political grounds, but that all appointments will in by him will be considered solely on their merits.

The name of E. C. Henderson, of Indiana is being pressed by his friends for the position of third assistant postmaster general. He has the support of the solid delegation from his state in addition to that of several influential eastern members. His prospects look very flattering.

JOHNSON.

Notes and News.

Commissioner of Patents M. V. Montgomery and wife returned to Lansing on Monday. They expect to remain in Michigan about three weeks. The trial of Henry Hedenagh on the charge of perjury begins at Hillsdale next Monday and Mr Montgomery will go there to conduct the defense. He is in remarkably good health, and says that he is well pleased with his official duties at the national capital. The records of the patent office show that Mr. Montgomery has brought the working of the department up to a very flattering degree of efficiency, and he has even deserved credit in his high position as his friends know he would. He speaks in the warmest terms of Mr. Cleveland's devotion to the public interests, and believes that he will go down in history as one of the wisest and most patriotic of American presidents.

The Cadillac Democrat has it from competent authority that the proposed curtailment of the log cut will not go into effect, but if the weather holds as it is, the present will be the heaviest season for a long time. The upper Manistee and the branches of the Muskegon will see more logging than in years before. The shortage in the finished product among the rail road mills, which were idle last winter, will be made up by spring.

We give this week another excellent letter from Washington. After the holiday recess, these letters will be a regular feature of the JOURNAL, and will discuss important topics truthfully and with a vigor that can never be obtained from the republican or semi-rebel press reporter. We shall be glad to give the address of the writer to any of our brethren of the press who desire letters from the same source.

We regret to see a discussion on the part of Charlevoix county papers to indulge in acrimonious, uncivil and unchristian language toward each other. Don't, boys! Take pattern by the Emmet county press and conduct your controversies upon the high grounds of courtesy and christian charity.—Petoskey Record.

"The Smiths" is the name of a neatly printed periodical devoted to the doings and genealogical records of the numerous family of the Smiths. It is published at Richmond, Mich., and is a bright and well-edited publication. No person bearing the name of Smith can afford to keep home without it.

The prospects of the Detroit Journal may be found in another column. In all respects except its politics the Journal is a good newspaper, and politics is clean cut republican, notwithstanding its protestations of independence, and we cannot but wish it success in wanting a Detroit afternoon republican paper.

A Traverse gentleman sent 25 cents in reply to an advertisement which promised him information how to make $50 a week at business on a capital of $1. He received a printed slip bearing these words: "Fish for fools as I do."

The work of frescoing the capitol building at Lansing has been commenced. The Governor's room will first come under the decorator's brush.

Mr. Carlisle is the eleventh speaker of the house whose home has been in Kentucky, and the blue grass state begins to feel proud over it.

The Manistee Advocate is out in eight page form, all home print, and is printed on a new Taylor cylinder press.

☞ Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unequalled. Full package 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crunter, Charlevoix, Hodge & Harris, Boyne.

WHEN money is close, wages and prices low, business doubtful and times in every household seem out of joint, it is the time to advertise. Now or never is the time for action. Now is the time to buy a bottle of Dr. Bonsfield's tough, tried lung Syrup. Stops a cough instantly, relieves Consumption, cures Croup and pain in the Chest as none dare promise. Sold by Drs. G. W. Crunter, Charlevoix, and Hodge, Harris & Co., Boyne City. Sold by Geo. W. Crunter.

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.
At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod
Can be found at the old stand with a
FULL STOCK OF MEATS
OF ALL KINDS
At Wholesale and Retail.
HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

Farm for Sale or Exchange.
One hundred acres of the best farming land in Michigan, about 60 acres under cultivation, good buildings, seven miles from a railroad, with a village within one mile and a half, and other property. For further particulars address or inquire of the undersigned.
JOHN GREEN.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, } ss.
County of Charlevoix. }

In the matter of the estate of David N. Tillotson, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of an order of the Probate court for said county of Charlevoix, made on the 7th day of August, A. D. 1885, there will be sold at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the residence in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in said state, on the 7th day of December, A. D. 1885, subject to all encumbrances by mortgage or otherwise existing at the time of the death of said deceased, or at the time of sale, and also subject to the right of dower and the homestead of the widow of said deceased therein, the following described real estate, viz:

All those certain pieces or parcels of land, situate and being in the township of Wilson, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, known and described as the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), and the north half (½) of the northeast quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section twenty-nine (29), containing forty (40) acres more or less, both description and land being in township thirty (30) north of range seven (7) west.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Nov. 9, A. D. 1885.

ALFRED F. BLASKEY,
Administrator.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Hotchkiss to Ezra C. Wood, bearing date the 3rd day of December, 1880, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 4th day of the 3rd, A. D. 1881, in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 56, which said mortgage was duly assigned by said Ezra C. Wood to Mary E. Wayne, and said default being on account of the beginning of the conditions of said mortgage, in liber 2 of mortgages on page 56, and the 4th day of December, 1880, and the heirs of Ezra and Frederick W. Hayes to Hopkins Blackmer, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, dated the 1st day of December, 1880, and recorded in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 56, which said mortgage then by said John A. Blackmer duly assigned by said John A. Blackmer to Frederick W. Hayes, and said default being on account of the non-payment of said mortgage, and the sum of one hundred and ninety six and 15-100 dollars ($196.15) principal and interest, and no proceedings at law has any been instituted to recover the same, or any part thereof, and there is now due and unpaid upon said mortgage, and no proceedings at law has any been instituted to recover the same, or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 12th day of December, A. D. 1885, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the house of Ezra C. Wood, in the village of Lake Bosworth, that being the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is holden, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with the costs and expenses of sale and taxes, together with an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars, mentioned in the said mortgage, being described in said mortgage as all that piece of land, situate in the township of Wilson in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, known and described as the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), and the north half (½) of the northeast quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section twenty-nine (29), containing forty (40) acres more or less, both description and land being in township thirty (30) north of range seven (7) west.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Nov. 9, A. D. 1885.

HUGH MILLER,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Hotchkiss to Ezra C. Wood, bearing date the 3rd day of December, 1880, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 4th day of the 3rd, A. D. 1881, in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 56, which said mortgage was duly assigned by said Ezra C. Wood to Mary E. Wayne, and said default being on account of the beginning of the conditions of said mortgage, in liber 2 of mortgages on page 56, and the 4th day of December, 1880, and the heirs of Ezra and Frederick W. Hayes to Hopkins Blackmer, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, dated the 1st day of December, 1880, and recorded in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 56, which said mortgage then by said John A. Blackmer duly assigned by said John A. Blackmer to Frederick W. Hayes to Hopkins Blackmer, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, dated the 1st day of December, 1880, and recorded in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 56, which said mortgage then by said Hopkins Blackmer duly assigned by said John A. Blackmer to Frederick W. Hayes, and said default being on account of the non-payment of said mortgage, and the sum of one hundred and ninety six and 15-100 dollars ($196.15) principal and interest, and no proceedings at law has any been instituted to recover the same, or any part thereof, and there is now due and unpaid upon said mortgage, and no proceedings at law has any been instituted to recover the same, or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 12th day of December, A. D. 1885, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the house of Ezra C. Wood, in the village of Lake Bosworth, that being the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is holden, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with the costs and expenses of sale and taxes, together with an attorney's fee of fifteen dollars, mentioned in the said mortgage, being described in said mortgage as all that piece of land, situate in the township of Wilson in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, known and described as the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), and the north half (½) of the northeast quarter (¼) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section twenty-nine (29), containing forty (40) acres more or less, both description and land being in township thirty (30) north of range seven (7) west.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Nov. 9, A. D. 1885.

HUGH MILLER,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER and wears most; then everything is in favor of its being a good order. SLICE IT ON HOT BACON AND THE SMELL GIVES YOU AN APPETITE; and as a box of it never returns, YOU MAKE NO MONEY BY THE OPERATION, never do, never the dealer's fancy. This can only be had of the undersigned, who are the sole manufacturers of the article.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.
Petersburg, Va.

ANOTHER INVOICE
JUST RECEIVED.
SILVERWARE
CLOCKS,
JEWELRY.
C. R. BELLINGER.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send 2c stamp for a sample copy of Ladies' Home Journal and receive full particulars of this liberal offer. Address, Ladies' Home Journal, Philadelphia, Pa.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

FOR CHRISTMAS PRICES TO ASTONISH THE NATIVES, SEE UPRIGHT & EMREY.

UPRIGHT & EMREY'S FOR THREE WEEKS.

ASTONISHINGLY LOW PRICES AT	Sunday Schools And Christmas Trees Supplied BY THE BUSHEL	One to Five Cents For Fancy Toys.	Penny Goods Of every Description.
12 cents For the Royal Mixed Candy	12 cents Per pound for Best Stick Candy.	15 cents Per pound for Better Mixed Candy	10 to 20 cts. Per lb. for For all kinds of nuts.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS!
New and Elegant
Hanging Lamps,
Fancy Tea Cups and Saucers
MOUSTACHE CUPS,
Coffee, Tea, and
Chamber Sets.
Fur and Scotch Caps.
Silk Handkerchiefs,
Cuffbuttons,
Pocket-Knives,
Pocket Combs,
etc., etc., etc., etc.

Hoods And Shawls | Mittens And Leggings & Hosiery | Extra Heavy Teamsters' Coats & Mackinaw's. | Lumbermen's Felts And Rubbers | Fishermen's Complete OUTFITS. | Ladies' and Gents' Underwear.

UPRIGHT AND EMREY.

HOLIDAY GOODS
All the Latest and Best.
Call and See Before Purchasing Elsewhere
PERRY WEED,
DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES
BARGAINS
The Perfection Axe.
BEST SIX FOOT SAWS.
Cant Hooks and Steel Wedges.
STOVES, HARDWARE AND TINWARE, TIN AND JOB WORK.
L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

Watch Your Address Label.

The figure following your name on the wrapper of this paper shows the time to which your subscription is paid. Thus, if your name is John Smith and the figures on the label are 1 1 8 5, your subscription is paid to the first day of January, 1885. Subscribers who find errors in their dates should notify us promptly, that they may be corrected.

Advertising Rates.

Transient advertisements payable in advance at the rate of $1 per inch for the first insertion and 75 cents per inch for each subsequent insertion.

Yearly advertisements payable quarterly at the rate of $10 per inch per year.

Business notices in reading matter, 10 cents per line for the first insertion and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Job Printing of all kinds done at the lowest cash prices.

Subscriptions.

Subscriptions to the JOURNAL are received at the rate of $2 per year if not paid in advance the price will be $2.50 per year.

Remember that the regular weekly visits of the JOURNAL to your fireside or other status is the very least Christmas present you can make them. Try it.

A needle was taken from the abdomen of a ten months old child of Mr. Cazeau, of Ionion, last week, which had evidently been in the body never it weeks.

H. P. Cook has circulated a paper soliciting subscriptions for support of a night watch this winter, and received sufficient encouragement to induce him to serve, and has already begun business.

This is the age when children hang up their stockings at the foot of the bed and wonder how in creation Sim in Claus can get down the chimney to put the things in them.

At the meeting of the historical society last Friday evening Robert Miller read a paper on "John Watts." On Jan. 8th, H. Lee Iddings will present a paper on "Sir Walter Scott."

"We are of the opinion that crook ed should take the back seat, and the live wide awake people of Charlevoix get to the front in the interests of our village." Sentinel. Now stick to your text.

Remember Christmas and New Years days and hallow, respect and perpetuate their time-honored customs and traditions, and if you can not afford to bestow a $5 present give a penny whistle.

Will Covert received quite an injury at Upright & Emrey's camp last Saturday. One of the boys tried to drop a falling log, but it fell flat slap the cant hook flying over striking Will on the head and cutting quite a gash.

The recent murder trial developed the fact that but two townships in the county have furnished this year full and complete lists of jurors, certified by supervisor and clerk as the law requires. These two townships are Evangeline and Marion.

The stores are gay with pretty Christmas things, the children's eyes grow bright with admiration and anticipation at the fairy like scenes not being robbed of their treasures for holiday decoration; there is a joyous feeling in the air, for "Christmas is coming."

Mr. Myron Geer states that the road mentioned in the Marion correspondence last week as being opened "from the county road, near Mr. Smith's house, to the Johnson school house," is not opened except by the use of sixty rods of a private logging road on his land.

Lelanau Enterprise: Mr. and Mrs. J. Litney attended the funeral of Mrs. Litney's grandmother, Mrs. Keys, at Omena on Thursday of this week. . . . The many friends of Mrs. W. S. Johnson will be glad to hear of the rapid progress she is now making towards recovery from her long and serious illness.

The Traverse Eagle last week issued a double number, containing the president's message, and an unusual amount of holiday advertising; and the Herald gave its readers an eight page extra filled with special holiday matter. The latter was a specially fine number for northern Michigan.

There is truth in the following lines from the Battle Creek Moon: "There is considerable of a force in the city of hard times. Crops are abundant, goods are cheap, and if the people are not happy it is because they have acquired such a habit of feeling pour that they do not know when they are happy and satisfied."

The steamer Cummings will lay up this week at Greilick's dock for the winter. It has been a fairly successful season for the Cummings and the boat and her captains have made many friends around the bay. Capt. Robertson will spend the winter at his home in Grand Haven, and he took here early in the spring ready for business.—Traverse Herald.

Traverse Herald: There is a good deal of railroad talk in the air this winter and it will probably remain in the air, but a newspaper is bound to give all it hears in this direction and so we quote from the Bellaire Review this: "A gentleman who was at Grand Rapids during the recent meeting of the stockholders and officers of the G. R. & I. assures us that it was decided to build a railroad from Traverse City to Charlevoix the ensuing season, and that the line proposed will be about as follows: From Traverse City to Williamsburg, thence by Spencer Creek, Bellaire, Central Lake, Charlevoix, thence to Boyne City and round with the main line at Boyne Falls. A spur will probably run from near Williamsburg to Elk Rapids."

Special Union Meetings.

Union services will be held by Rev. John D. Potter, of Westborough, Mass., at the Congregational church at 10:30 o'clock on Christmas day. Services will also be held by Rev. Mr. Potter at the same place, on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. and will be continued day and evening through the following week. Mr. Potter comes highly recommended by eminent statesmen and divines.

MISSING LINKS.

Edward Everett Hale is said to eat five meals a day.

Carl Schurz is at Ellsworth engaged on his "Life of Henry Clay."

Mr. Pendleton is said to study German in Berlin for four hours a day.

Nearly half in number and two-thirds in point of circulation of the newspapers of the world are printed in English.

The Czar of Russia, it is said, walks ten miles a day and limits himself to one meal in order to check a tendency to obesity.

Nebraska, within the thirty years of its settlement, has acquired 250,000 acres of forests, where 640,000,000 trees have been planted.

Scotch shepherd dogs are now employed at the Cape of Good Hope in herding ostriches, a work which they perform with great sagacity.

The school teachers of the United States draw wages to the amount of $60,000,000 yearly—an average of $400 each. They are worth the money.

Oscar Wilde, his written a poem about his baby, beginning with these lines:

O baby boy! I know even now the name you shall bear in heaven, for it is the name I shall bear in hell.

Ivy leaves unfailingly cause much of the neuralgic headache suffered by women, says the Lancet. The nerves of the scalp are irritated by the hair being drawn tightly back and pat on the strain.

A daughter of the Confederate General Cheatham, Miss Katty by name, has made her debut upon the dramatic stage. She is described as very graceful and pretty, with plenty of talent and ambition.

A young son of a Raleigh man, when asked if he was not very much frightened when the lightning struck his father's house, replied: "No, de Lord wasn't gwine to hurt me; it was daddy he was after."—Lawyer (N. C.) Observer.

Dr. Kleiber, of St. Petersburg, has calculated that 4,267 quadrillion meteoric dust fall on the earth every hour, which amounts to more than 11,153 tons a year. This is equal to about two ounces to each square mile of the earth's surface.

The average number of eggs laid by an ordinary flock of hens is 84 dozen to the fowl, yet instances are recorded where a hen has laid 250 eggs in one year. From sixteen to seventeen dozen is considered a remarkable yield by poultry raisers.

Philadelphia boasts of five great pie factories, besides innumerable smaller ones, and that these are turned out 20,000 pies daily. The cost of material required for the making of these amounts to about $900 for flour, $90 for shortening, $280 for fruit, and $275 for spices, not to nothing of eggs and flavoring materials.

In the United States the national salute is now one gun for each state; the President is saluted with 21 guns; Governors, cabinet officers and foreign commanding, with 15; United States foreign Envoys, Ministers and Major Generals with 13; Brigadier Generals with 11, and foreign ships receive gun for gun for all they fire in salute.

It is Allegheny in Pennsylvania, Allegheny in Virginia, and Allegany in New York. Recently the Postoffice Department being in doubt as to how the name should be spelled in Mary land, applied to the Historical Society of that state, which recommended Allegany, because that spelling accorded with the statute creating Allegany County, Maryland.

The Provincial Bank of Buenos Ayres has a capital of $33,000,000, and deposits amounting to $67,000,000. These figures are not equaled by any United States bank.

As Indian headdresses, about the size of a large water pitcher, and similar in shape, except that the top is oval, was found in the Housatonic River lately by a resident of Brookfield, Conn. So the oval shape part are wrought two thousand years ago in Mexico. On the sides of the stone are also curious carvings. Experts pronounce it one of the finest specimens of Indian headdresses in the country.

A number of dogs were recently dosed with morphine until they became insensible, the object being to determine what dying would be most rapidly as an antidote. It was found that hypodermic injections of the morphine and the narcotic almost instantly, although it was employed only after the dogs had ceased to bark. Caffeine had a considerable anti-narcotic power, but was not equal to the principle derived from tea.

It will surprise many people to learn that the finest opera house in all America is one in Santiago, Cuba. It is built on the European plan, with four hundred tiers of boxes, three of which are divided off into boxes, and are upholstered by the most luxurious manner. The best opera companies of the world visit Santiago. A traveler recently attended a performance in this charming opera house, and found 2,500 people present. As the tickets sold at $5 apiece it will be seen that the performance was a paying one. The boxes were crowded with elegantly dressed ladies, many of them loaded with diamonds. The gentlemen all wore evening dress.

J. L. HURD & CO.

OFFER

Mess Pork, Layton's New	$9.00	3 lb Can Pumpkin	09.10
Clear Pork	8	3 lb Can Squash	10
Lard	6	Condensed Milk, per can	15
Granulated Sugar	7	4 lbs California Dried Beans	25
Extra C Sugar	7	7 lbs Hominy	25
7 lbs Best Starch	25	Decorated Toilet sets	$4.00 Worth $6.00
4 lbs Best Starch in Wood Boxes	50	Decorated Toilet Sets	$10 Worth $15.00
3 lb Tar soap	25	Brass Hanging Lamps	$2.00 Worth 3.00
3 lb Fine soap	25	Decorated Tea Sets	$1.00 Worth 1.50
Dried Peaches, per can	12½	Decorated Tea Sets	$3.00 Worth 4.50
3 lb Best Tea Siftings	75	Decorated Tea Sets	$.00 Worth .00
4 lbs Arbuckles Coffee	1.00	New Era Rocking Chairs, with Ball, or back	50
Good Roasted Rio Coffee	25	Forest City baking powder with a pie or cake	5a
Condensed Coffee, Best drinker cent	10	Everything Proportionately Low.
3 lb Can Best Peaches	25	Everything Best Quality.
3 lb Can Yellow Cling Apricots	25	Everything Warranted.
3 lb Can Best Tomatoes	10
3 lb Can Sugar Corn	10

SPECIAL HOLIDAY SALE OF DRY GOODS
Commencing Saturday, December 12.

Our entire stock offered at an immense reduction. We propose to make this our largest monthly business yet and to that end shall mark prices regardless of profit. Space is insufficient to enumerate, but among the bargains we mention our remaining stock of Cloaks at one quarter off. Cotton Flannels 10 cents, worth 15; Red Twilled Flannel 25 cents, worth 20. Gloves and Mittens 75, 80 and 90 cents, worth $1.50. 52 inch all wool Dress Flannels 75 cents. Men's Coats, heavy cashmere, $2.00 to $4.00, worth $5.00 to $8.00. Pants and Vests at half cost to close. Invest your money where it will do you the most good.

J. L. HURD & CO.

THE Christmas Bazaar
AT
Hines & Co.'s Drug Store
Is where
A Present for Everybody
May be found at prices to suit the times. Call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere.

Respectfully, F. G. HINES & CO.

☞ Demorest's Magazine for January, 1886, is unusually bright and entertaining. Julian Hawthorne's story is completed, and a serial entitled "That Other Person," by Mrs. Alfred Hart, is commenced. Other good articles are "Victor Hugo," "The City of Skulls," and an "Orange Grove." "A plea for the dingaw and the duck-knife" will claim the attention of those who desire to beautify their homes inexpensively. The departments devoted to fashion, art, and household decoration are very full, and the pictorial illustrations are excellent. The frontispiece, "Naughty Boy," is a new method of photogravure; and the admirers of Raphael will be pleased to see an engraving of his fine painting, "St. John in the Desert," which adorns this number.

MILLIONS OF PERSONS

Die annually, who might be saved if attention was given to the little ills of life. Coughs, colds, sore throat, &c., are easily cured by using Hamlyn's Comet Balsam which removes the tickling in the throat and tightness across the chest, helps to throw off the poisonous matter and heals the inflamed membrane. Immediate relief will be found in croup bronchitis, whooping cough, &c., and even in chronic cases and last stage of consumption great relief is received. For incipient consumption it works like a charm. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by G. W. Crunter, Charlevoix, and Crunter & Harris, Boyne.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN FEVERISH

And sick and cross? Do they have abnormal appetites and crave food constantly? Beware of worms. Very few children escape their ravages. No child can be happy or well while suffering with worms. They sap the very life by preventing the digestion and assimilation of food. There is a sure remedy. It is called Hamlyn's Sanforine Worm Candies. They are perfectly harmless but will quickly dissolve the worms pass them off through the bowels. Buy no other. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by G. W. Crunter, Charlevoix, and Crunter & Harris, Boyne.

Wild Cherry and Tar.

Every body knows the virtues of Wild Cherry and tar as a cough and cold cure but few are aware of the great good Hamlyn combined with these two valuable remedies. Hamlyn's Wild Cherry and Tar is compounded of the best Cod Liver Oil and Lime extract known, it has the quick action of Cod Liver Oil in the lungs, for Coughs, Colds, Croup, and Bronchitis. Price 25 cents and $1.00. Sample free. Sold by G. W. Crunter.

A GIFT

A PRIZE

☞ Do you want an eastern paper? The New York Weekly World is one of the best democratic newspapers in the United States. Furnished with the JOURNAL for only $2.60 per year.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling full Teas, Tobacco, Baking Powder, Jewelry, Dinner Sets, Gold Watches, Chromos, etc. Tea Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE DETROIT EVENING JOURNAL

Has been GREATLY IMPROVED during the last six months and is now THE FIRST EVENING PAPER published in this state.

IT IS THE ONLY AFTERNOON PAPER IN MICHIGAN THAT RECEIVES AND PUBLISHES THE FULL DAY

Associated Press DISPATCHES.

THE EVENING JOURNAL

Receives a greater number of TELEGRAMS from the 24th STATE than any other paper in Detroit.

THE EVENING JOURNAL'S

Reports of the Detroit Stocks, Chicago and New York GRAIN AND STOCK MARKETS are more complete and correct than those of any other Detroit paper.

(That is my report up to date—Mr. Dickens' Mrs. Gamp and Discovery of Michigan Publishers.)

THE EVENING JOURNAL'S

LOCAL NEWS is fresher and more complete than any other Detroit paper.

THE EVENING JOURNAL

Is FULLER and more complete in SPECIAL INTEREST TO LADIES.

☞ THE EVENING JOURNAL is delivered by CARRIERS at 10 Cents per Week, or 50 cts. per Month, or $6.00 per Year, payable strictly in advance.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
Upright & Emrey's Addition,
Charlevoix,
HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Hanger,
And Decorator.
PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

New Grocery!
Cor. Adams and Bridge Streets.
A. J. MUDGE
Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the real dens of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Adams and Bridge streets, and respectfully solicits a share of the public patronage.
BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

SCIPIO'S OVER-ZEAL;

—OR,—

A Hitch in a Honeymoon.

BY NATHAN D. TURNER.

"Are you quite sure we shall not appear like a newly married couple, dear?" whispered Endwen, drawing a little closer as I at last appraised her that the next station, thirty miles distant, was our destination.

"Certainly, my love," I replied. "Not only is Scipio sure to have performed his mission directly, but just cast your eyes around the car. I would wager that not one of our fellow passengers suspects our secret."

"True; but is Scipio to be trusted? I am not half recall the unusual you have often laughingly recounted of his excessive and even mistaken zeal in carrying out your wishes."

"To be sure; but those were instances in which his instructions were of a complex nature. Now he is merely to appear my housekeeper of our coming, get the house ready, throw out a number of hints that we have been married several years, instead of several weeks, and our arrival in this gaudy little town need excite no more comment than that of any transit couple after a foreign jaunt of a year or two."

"Then I shall be satisfied," murmured Endwen, sinking back in her seat with the refined composure of manner that so well becomes her.

A few lines will suffice to explain the situation.

Soon after returning from our brief wedding tour we had decided to locate our family abode in Tattleton, my native village, which I had not visited about three years, before to carry out a varied programme of travel, which had at last, as unexpectedly as happily, landed me in the arms of the one fair creature of my dreams. We were agreeably harmonious on one point at once, namely, We both felt that shrinking dislike of attracting attention to our changed condition which is, perhaps, the natural accompaniment of sensitive and aesthetic persons upon approaching to middle age; for, if I mean a longer acquaintance could it be vacuously stared behind her back that Endwen was my bride or a stolen, though still, in my eyes, the unfashionable of the blood loveliness and womanly worth. She hastily shook, at all events, in my dread of the village criticism upon our newly married state. Indeed it was half upon her suggestion that Scipio, my old and trusted body-servant, had been dispatched to Tattleton betrothed, in the manner and for the purpose alluded to.

"Now, above all, Scipio," had been my last words at parting with him, "be discreet, be circumspect! You have your instructions. If you carry them out properly, you may look for a new suit of clothes on your birthday."

"Dere de Lord, Marse Adderdey, I'se got it down fine!" he had earnestly replied. "None of dem lazybodies in de ole town shall I see spent as how you hab jist come from de honeymoon. Jist leabe it to de ole nigger!"

So it had been "left to do old man" accordingly.

So saw I a carriage in waiting at the station, and, as I passed along the crowded platform, to give me a significant nod and leer, as much as to say that all had been agreeably arranged.

Still my valet was not satisfied.

"Theophilus," she whispered, pressing my arm, "something is wrong. I am sure some of the men here are staring at us quite rudely."

"Nonsense! All your imagination, my dove!" I replied, reassuringly, though secretly remarking something of the kind myself.

We were just seated in the coach when Deacon Stickler, accompanied by his wife, drove up to the station. The Sticklers were of considerable consequence in the place, and I lost no time in presenting Endwen.

To my surprise and mortification, the Deacon—who had known my father before me, and had always been very friendly—actually cut the honor by the stiffest of bows, while his good lady fairly transfixed my bride through her spectacles, and barely offered her any recognition whatever.

"Ah, indeed!" hemmed and hawed the Deacon; "Mrs. Addersby, you say? Unexpected pleasure—quite honored, ma am, sure!" and away drove the Sticklers, leaving Endwen and me indignant and mystified respectively, as we also took the road.

I was trying to muster sufficient courage to meet Endwen's stare of resentful inquiry, when whom should we meet just beyond the bridge but the Misses Timblebly, the rich old maids, whose ground adjoined my own, and I seized the opportunity to twist my head out of the window, and order a bolt.

It then struck me that the worthy spinsters—usually the kindliest of women—submitted to the stoppage with ill-disguised reluctance. Indeed, I had no sooner presented Endwen than they recoiled shiverlingly, as though encountering an iceberg. Then, with a faintly murmured "Most delighted to know Mrs. Addersby" they at once ignored her altogether, and began to overwhelm me with sterotyped questions about my travels.

I was feeling my way out of the dilemma as best I could, when Endwen almost screamed out: "Scipio, tell the coachman to drive on! I'm tired of this sort of thing!"

The coachman whipped up at once, and I saw the fleeth exchange significant glances as we left them on the road.

"So, my dear, we have a bit out, with her tooth on edge and a slumbering fire in her eye."

"What, Theophilus?"

"Don't mind them, my dear," I responded, a little huskily. "Wretched, ill-bred, stuck-up old maids! They're entirely beneath your notice!"

"All! but how about the Sticklers, then? I've heard you vaunt them as prominent persons in this lovely village of yours," said Endwen, in an sleerily sensitive voice that actually rang in my ears like a fire-bell.

"I don't know what to make of it, all!" I exclaimed. "Bewilderingly dark! I think I should call the Deacon to an account."

"Perhaps, you will call the whole town to an account, then!" she cried, with positive fierceness. "Look!"

As I followed the direction of her pointing finger, I perceived that we had entered the village main street, and the sight that presented itself well-nigh appalled me.

Every door and every window had a head in it, and every head a pair of eyes that fairly gorgonized us with the spasms of resentful criticism which is usually elicited by a prisoner's cap or a traveling menagerie. The tavern-porch and shop-entrances were thronged with gazers. Urchins, rosy and rumpled, darted at us from the gates and fence-tops. Nurse-girls halted their perambulators on the sidewalks to give us the benefit of their gaping attention. I doubt if a "barking cur" could have made our cheeks flame any more pronounced by than they did at that moment, but I am quite certain that if there had chanced to be any "fantastic gables" within gun-shot, they, too, would have, "crowding, stared."

Even a faint cheer or something noise, was bestowed on us as we rolled by the hotel.

"Your paragon of a servant has probably advertised us as pardoned convicts," exclaimed Endwen, returning glare for glare in the most creditable manner, considering the odds against her, and then sinking back, her iron nerve broke down in a sort of piteous wail. "They not only know we are newly married," she sobbed, "but very likely suppose we have just eloped from somewhere!"

I did not know what to do. I was placed beside myself. I could only sit helplessly by her side, confused, crushed, perplexed, and eaten up with rage, while my hand had such a cumbrous feeling to be on Scipio's throat that I felt like a murderer.

On reaching the house, I hurried Endwen within, hastily closed her on old Mrs. Ginup's protection, and then rushed once more into the open air to seek an explanation of Scipio.

But he had caught the alarm and was nowhere to be found.

The coachman was taking off the trunks unasked.

"I dunno what got into Scip, sir," he replied to my rather vehement inquiries. "He sort o' ground, onsay, as soon as we was fairly out of the depot, that he had jist enough for to carry out a varied programme of travel, which had at last, as unexpectedly as happily, landed me in the arms of the one fair creature of my dreams. We were agreeably harmonious on one point at once, namely, We both felt that shrinking dislike of attracting attention to our changed condition which is, perhaps, the natural accompaniment of sensitive and aesthetic persons upon approaching to middle age; for, if I mean a longer acquaintance could it be vacuously stared behind her back that Endwen was my bride or a stolen, though still, in my eyes, the unfashionable of the blood loveliness and womanly worth. She hastily shook, at all events, in my dread of the village criticism upon our newly married state. Indeed it was half upon her suggestion that Scipio, my old and trusted body-servant, had been dispatched to Tattleton betrothed, in the manner and for the purpose alluded to.

"Now, above all, Scipio," had been my last words at parting with him, "be discreet, be circumspect! You have your instructions. If you carry them out properly, you may look for a new suit of clothes on your birthday."

"Dere de Lord, Marse Adderdey, I'se got it down fine!" he had earnestly replied. "None of dem lazybodies in de ole town shall I see spent as how you hab jist come from de honeymoon. Jist leabe it to de ole nigger!"

So it had been "left to do old man" accordingly.

So saw I a carriage in waiting at the station, and, as I passed along the crowded platform, to give me a significant nod and leer, as much as to say that all had been agreeably arranged.

Still my valet was not satisfied.

"Theophilus," she whispered, pressing my arm, "something is wrong. I am sure some of the men here are staring at us quite rudely."

"Nonsense! All your imagination, my dove!" I replied, reassuringly, though secretly remarking something of the kind myself.

We were just seated in the coach when Deacon Stickler, accompanied by his wife, drove up to the station. The Sticklers were of considerable consequence in the place, and I lost no time in presenting Endwen.

To my surprise and mortification, the Deacon—who had known my father before me, and had always been very friendly—actually cut the honor by the stiffest of bows, while his good lady fairly transfixed my bride through her spectacles, and barely offered her any recognition whatever.

"Ah, indeed!" hemmed and hawed the Deacon; "Mrs. Addersby, you say? Unexpected pleasure—quite honored, ma am, sure!" and away drove the Sticklers, leaving Endwen and me indignant and mystified respectively, as we also took the road.

I was trying to muster sufficient courage to meet Endwen's stare of resentful inquiry, when whom should we meet just beyond the bridge but the Misses Timblebly, the rich old maids, whose ground adjoined my own, and I seized the opportunity to twist my head out of the window, and order a bolt.

It then struck me that the worthy spinsters—usually the kindliest of women—submitted to the stoppage with ill-disguised reluctance. Indeed, I had no sooner presented Endwen than they recoiled shiverlingly, as though encountering an iceberg. Then, with a faintly murmured "Most delighted to know Mrs. Addersby" they at once ignored her altogether, and began to overwhelm me with sterotyped questions about my travels.

I was feeling my way out of the dilemma as best I could, when Endwen almost screamed out: "Scipio, tell the coachman to drive on! I'm tired of this sort of thing!"

The coachman whipped up at once, and I saw the fleeth exchange significant glances as we left them on the road.

"So, my dear, we have a bit out, with her tooth on edge and a slumbering fire in her eye."

"What, Theophilus?"

"Don't mind them, my dear," I responded, a little huskily. "Wretched, ill-bred, stuck-up old maids! They're entirely beneath your notice!"

"All! but how about the Sticklers, then? I've heard you vaunt them as prominent persons in this lovely village of yours," said Endwen, in an sleerily sensitive voice that actually rang in my ears like a fire-bell.

"I don't know what to make of it, all!" I exclaimed. "Bewilderingly dark! I think I should call the Deacon to an account."

"Perhaps, you will call the whole town to an account, then!" she cried, with positive fierceness. "Look!"

As I followed the direction of her pointing finger, I perceived that we had entered the village main street, and the sight that presented itself well-nigh appalled me.

Every door and every window had a head in it, and every head a pair of eyes that fairly gorgonized us with the spasms of resentful criticism which is usually elicited by a prisoner's cap or a traveling menagerie. The tavern-porch and shop-entrances were thronged with gazers. Urchins, rosy and rumpled-eyed

Around the County.

Eastport.

J. R. Child's house burned very near burning last Friday evening. It caught from fire dropping from the stove on the carpet.

J. W. Pearl is preparing to put in a stock of goods. So we have been informed.

School has commenced in the Bay View school house recently built by Wm. Flanagin. Mrs. C. E. Zerrin is teacher.

Railroad news is read very eagerly by our citizens, but the Sentinel dashed our hopes to the ground in the last issue; but we will entertain the idea if it be absurd until we get it, for we are certain of it some time. It may be this year or it may be next, but it will come. Bellaire is giving us a cold shoulder, but we have better reasons for believing it will come here than they have for believing it will go there and we can prove it. 1st. If a branch of the G. R. & I. R. R. comes here it will be built over the most feasible and direct route for its place of destination. 2d. It will get all of the railroad traffic if it is built on this line that it would if it were built 7 or 8 miles inland, which would be many miles off their direct route, through an undeveloped, hilly, and broken region, and by doing so would miss the best grain and fruit markets in Antrim county, which would be of as much interest for them to intersect as a newly settled country.

Burgess.

Another little Adventist in town. Wm. Grey is the happy man. Mother and boy are doing well.

Mr. Case is meeting with good success on his fishing ground at Ka-go-che-ning.

Squire Ross is taking his backwheat to Caldo mills to be made into pancake-timber.

A dance at Arnold's Christmas night.

The woods are full of people cutting down Christmas trees.

A family reunion at Loren Hamlin's Christmas.

Henry Baker has his new residence nearly completed.

Hamlin boys have taken a contract to get out 300 cords of shipping wood this winter.

Frank Kane expects to entertain friends and relatives Christmas.

This soft weather is making long faces among those getting cut logs, wood and ties.

Consting has been indulged in to quite an extent lately.

The Willing Workers.

A society of young ladies organized a few weeks ago to work for the Trenton Congregational church had their bazaar in Mrs. Adams' parlors, Saturday evening the 19th. A most enjoyable time to all invited guests. The net proceeds of their efforts is thirty-five dollars, which certainly speaks well for the young ladies, six in number.

ENRICH THE BLOOD.

HAMILTON'S GERMAN BITTERS are highly recommended for all diseases requiring a stimulant and efficient tonic. Especially indigestion, dyspepsia, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, &c. They enrich the blood, strengthen the muscles, and give new life to the nerves. They act like a charm in the digestive organs, remove all dyspeptic symptoms, and whenever the stomach is weak or there is a general loss of physical vigor, these Bitters are just what you need. Only 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Hayes, Boyne City.

THE GREATEST PAIN KILLER Yet found for cramps, colic, stitch in side or back, neuralgia, rheumatism, sprains, bruises, &c., is HAMILTON'S JAMAICA GINGER TONIC AND PAIN CURE. Bound on will not wet cloths it never fails to cure. For dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, flatulence, diarrhœa, dysentery, heartburn, sour stomach, &c., it is unequalled. Warranted to cure. Try it. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Hayes, Boyne City.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some disorder of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, such as costiveness, loss of appetite, jaundice, a coated tongue, foul eructations, producing a very disagreeable fetching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and giving instant relief. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter. 152

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making money faster than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, greatly successful. Large pay is easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make the unparalleled offer to all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 in pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine.

☞ When in want of any kind of stationery, call and inspect the new stock just opened at this office.

☞ The Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

Cushman's Patent Shoulder Brace. Sent by mail on receipt of price, $1.50. Address, Cushman Shoulder Brace Co., 1 Exchange Place, Detroit, Mich. Also manufacturers of Cushman's Patent Crutches.

About 4 Hds. Molasses for Sale by the Four Corners P. O., Cincinnati, Ohio. Sold in Original Packages. Price $1.00. Address, Madison, N. Y.

For Sale by F. G. HINES & SON, Charlevoix.

$100 REWARD

FOR

Every Ounce of Adulteration

IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

For Sale by all Trade-class Grocers.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 2	No. 3	No. 7
Cincinnati lv	.....	7 30am	9 30pm	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	6 30pm	2 40pm	1 30am	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	9 05	5 25	4 35	8 00am
Kalamazoo, ar	4 45	7 00	12 55pm	12 50pm
Kalamazoo, lv	4 55	7 20	1 05	1 05
Grand Rapids, ar	5 50	8 20	2 30	2 05
Grand Rapids, lv	.....	.....	3 35	3 15
Ionia R R Junc	7 15	.....	11 45	3 45
Howard City	8 30	.....	12 50pm	6 04
Big Rapids	9 10	.....	1 30	7 12
Reed City, ar	9 55	.....	2 05	7 56
Reed City, lv	.....	.....	2 15	8 05
Cadillac, ar	11 00	.....	3 15	9 30
Cadillac, lv	.....	.....	3 45	9 35
Walton	.....	.....	4 26	10 20
Kalkaska, lv	.....	.....	5 54	11 54
Mancelona	.....	.....	6 16	12 16am
Boyne Falls	.....	.....	6 32	1 04
Alanson	.....	.....	6 46	1 16
Harbor Springs	.....	.....	.....	.....
Mackinaw City	.....	.....	8 00pm	3 10am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 5	No. 6	No. 4	No. 8
Mackinaw City	.....	7 00am	3 50pm	.....
Harbor Springs	.....	.....	.....	.....
Alanson	.....	8 04	11 12	.....
Boyne Falls	.....	8 20	11 54	.....
Mancelona	.....	8 33	12 14am	.....
Kalkaska	.....	10 17	1 28	.....
Walton	.....	11 54	3 15	.....
Cadillac, ar	.....	12 50pm	3 55	.....
Cadillac, lv	.....	1 00	4 00	6 10pm
Reed City, ar	.....	2 30	5 30	7 40
Reed City, lv	.....	2 45	5 40	7 50
Big Rapids	.....	3 44	6 38	8 51
Howard City	.....	3 34	6 01	9 12
Ionia R R Junc	.....	4 45	10 15	10 15
Grand Rapids, ar	.....	5 00	10 35	10 35
Grand Rapids, lv	7 10am	5 05	11 00	.....
Kalamazoo, ar	9 05	6 20	1 40pm	.....
Kalamazoo, lv	9 10	7 50	1 40	.....
Fort Wayne, ar	12 20pm	1 20	5 30am	.....
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00	12 10am	.....	5 15am
Cincinnati, ar	7 00pm	7 25am	.....	12 50pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. Agent, Grand Rapids, Mich.

YARNS, a Large Stock on Hand,

IN THE FOLLOWING COLORS:

Sheep's Gray.	White.	Seal Brown.
Navy Blue.	Wine.	Scarlet Random.
Blue Mixed.	Scarlet.	Blue Random.
Medium Blue.	Cardinal.

ALL IN TWO, THREE, AND FOUR PLY.

GERMANTOWN YARNS in Navy, Slate, Yellow, Scarlet, Drab, Green, Chinch, Salmon, Maroon, Wine, Wood Brown.

PINE LAKE IRON COMPANY

IRONTON, MICH.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

E. M. Clark

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Santa Claus' Headquarters!

AT

DR. G. W. CROUTER'S.

CHRISTMAS IS COMING

And we want everybody who intends purchasing CHRISTMAS PRESENTS to comprehend the fact that we are now all ready to show you THE FINEST ASSORTMENT EVER EXHIBITED IN CHARLEVOIX. Our new stock of Holiday Goods is complete and comprises an elegant line of

Plush Toilet Cases, Fancy Perfume Cases, a Fine Line of Plush and Leather Albums, a Large and Beautiful line of Christmas Cards,

A choice line of CONFECTIONERY "SOMETHING NEW." All kind of GAMES. All kind of DOLLS. All kind of Toys from the cheapest to the best.

Books for the million.

All of John B. Alden's publications, the cheapest and best line of books ever offered to the people of Charlevoix. Just the thing for a handsome present.

COME AND SEE ME; COME TO-DAY.

NOW is the time to make your purchases; you certainly will suffer by delay. Don't wait until everything is picked over and the choicest novelties are gone. Make your selections early and you will be saved many days of anxious and weary searching. Trusting you will favor us with an early visit, and wishing you one and all a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we are Respectfully, G. W. CROUTER.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 129. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1885. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN

Entered at the Postoffice at Charlevoix, Mich., as second class matter.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

[illegible] ALLEN, Attorney at Law, Lemon Block, Charlevoix, promptly attended to.

[illegible] & CROUTER, Attorneys at Law and Notaries Public, Office in Waters' Block, Charlevoix, Mich. C. J. STRANG.

[illegible] CAMPBELL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Insurance Agent, Office in Waters' Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

[illegible] MAYO, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office on Lake St. Boyne Mich.

[illegible] CITY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Office in Court House, Charlevoix, Mich.

[illegible] WISNER, Attorney at Law and Solicitor in Chancery, Real Estate Agent, Boyne City, Mich.

W. S. [illegible], Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Antrim Co., Mich.

[illegible] ROBERTS, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

CHURCHES.

[illegible] CHURCH, Sunday services at 10:30 A. M. and 7:00 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30. VAN ANDEL, pastor.

[illegible] CHURCH, Sunday services at 10:30 A. M. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning services. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7. J. T. HOOGES, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

[illegible] PITTS, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humane Cases, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

[illegible] M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Office in Dr. Pitts' Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. [illegible], M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

JEFFREY S. HAMILTON, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt. Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

[illegible] Lodge No. 240 meets every Wednesday evening, in Herr hall.

[illegible] Lodge No. 136, meets second Tuesday in each month, at Odd Fellows hall.

[illegible] Hive No. 457, meet Saturday on or before full moon in Bernard's hotel hall.

MACCABEES, Ladye No. 242, meets Tuesday on or before full moon. Hall over Bank.

W. P. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Ass't Cashier.

BROWN & CO.'S BANK OF CHARLEVOIX.

Capital, $25,000.

With superior facilities and prompt attention to their business, they solicit a share of the public patronage. They receive deposits, make collections, and transact a general banking business. Interest allowed on certain deposits. Loans made on first mortgages upon farm property. Good securities bought and sold. Drafts drawn and sold payable in Europe by the Union.

CORRESPONDENTS.

Chase National Bank, New York.
First National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants and Manufacturers National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely refitted and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 75

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving great view of lake and resorts. Express office, and headquarters for hackney and 25c Depot Stages. Special rates for commercial travelers. Sample rooms.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

TRAUTNER & BLAIR, Proprietors.

East Jordan, - Michigan.

Have having fitted up this county seat will find this the most desirable place to stop, and we shall endeavor to make it so worth your while to give the house a call. EUROPEAN CONNECTIONS.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton - - Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

GET THE BEST

A new neighbor went a-clerking, handsome, young, and sassy, selling all the latest and best goods to every old patron of the county, who, in exchange for his money, gave him the cash, in exchange for land warrants, 25 cents for best cigars, 25 cents for best tobacco, $1.50 per year. Address

The Charlevoix Journal,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it IN NEW YORK.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING

DR. CROUTER'S

BAKING POWDER

Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.

If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.

It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from any taint of a deleterious nature.

It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Poisonous Cream of Tartar of the shops.

It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by

Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,

Chemist and Druggist,

BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

"TERRACE FARM,"

Charlevoix, Mich.

J. R. & J. S. DIXON,

DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.

Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins

A SPECIALTY. 118

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

OFFICERS.

President—Byron Saxe.
Vice-President—W. A. Smith.
Corresponding Secretary—Emory Miller.
Recording Secretary—Frank Bennett.
Financial Secretary—J. Sobeski.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cruickshank, and J. L. Ross.
Correspending Committee—H. Leo Eddings, W. A. Brown, and F. Y. Cook.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Hagerman, E. M. Clark, H. Cooper, Geo. W. Crouter, E. M. Mills, A. M. Sov, W. C. Newman, E. M. Clark, H. Bentley.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to advance the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7:30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

New Goods!

MILLINERY

AND

Fancy Goods.

Have also just received a fine stock of materials for fancy work, such as Felts, Canvas, Embroidery Silks, Rumer and Table Scarf ornaments, Hanger Rods, &c., also Embroideries, Laces, Handkerchiefs, and Collars. Call and examine my stock. I design to sell cheap for cash only.

Dress-Making Done to Order.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

W. M. WAGAR. S. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Store on the West of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 49

NOTE.—We have for distribution a number of copies of the annual report of the Michigan Horticultural Society for 1883, which may be had in exchange for a line from us on application at this office.

"TERRACE FARM,"

Charlevoix, Mich.

J. R. & J. S. DIXON,

DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.

Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins

A SPECIALTY. 118

The Charlevoix Improvement Association.

OFFICERS.

President—Byron Saxe.
Vice-President—W. A. Smith.
Corresponding Secretary—Emory Miller.
Recording Secretary—Frank Bennett.
Financial Secretary—J. Sobeski.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—J. Milo Eaton, A. D. Cruickshank, and J. L. Ross.
Corresponding Committee—H. Leo Eddings, W. A. Brown, and F. Y. Cook.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Hagerman, E. M. Mills, H. Cooper, Geo. W. Crouter, E. M. Mills, A. M. Sov, W. C. Newman, E. M. Clark, H. Bentley.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to advance the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7:30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 25, 1885.

Special Correspondence.

A decision of importance to many Michigan people has recently been made by assistant secretary Fairchild, affirming the action of the collector at Port Huron in assessing duty on certain mares, which, the importers claimed, were exempt from duty "as animals specially imported for breeding purposes." The mares in question were to be worked a season in the lumber region, and therefter to be used for breeding purposes. It is therefore held that the special purpose declared in the invoice was not the special purpose for which they were imported.

On Monday evening occurred the annual celebration of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers on Plymouth Rock. The entertainment was one of unusual interest and at the close of an excellent banquet speeches were made by the president of the club and by Senator Hawley, Hon. B. M. Cutcheon (of Mich.), Gov. Long, and Hon. W. W. Grant. In the course of his remarks Mr. Cutcheon said:

"This day that we celebrate is a sort of paradox in the world's history. We celebrate usually victories, the rise and fall of empires; but we come here to night to celebrate—not, perhaps, a defeat, but the coming of a band of exiles, religious outcasts. They came for conscience sake, holding conscience above conduct. They came as a forlorn hope of a new civilization, of the storming parts of the numerous hosts which were to follow. The rock which was first pressed by the feet of these brave men and brave women became the stepping stone to immortality, the portal of a nation which has grown to be great among the nations of the earth. They brought with them pure democracy, the government of the people, by the people, for the people; the town meeting and the Congregational church. The New Englander's character is an unique one—strong, and cast in a rugged mould; firm as the rock, strong as the mountains and enduring as the very hills."

During the holiday recess it might naturally be inferred that the senators and representatives would go to their homes; but it is so in fact, as less than one hundred members have gone home to spend Christmas and New Years. And speaking of the members reminds us that there has been considerable quiet dissension of the civil service rules. To say that they are heartily endorsed by a majority of the members would be a very reckless expression. Many are of the opinion that the enforcement of the present rules as expounded by the commission can only result in building up an office-holding aristocracy directly antagonistic to the spirit of our free institutions. A New York writer seems to have expressed a sentiment that prevails to a considerable extent when he says, speaking of civil service examinations: "They are useful. They determine whether the applicant is qualified to do the work he asks for. There is no better way in which this can be proved. As for competitive examinations, they may be fine things in China, but they will not answer in a democratic and political country like this. Neither will nepotism appointments." And this seems to echo the sentiments of a majority of those who venture to express an opinion upon the subject.

Christmas is celebrated here much as the Fourth of July is in Michigan minus the fire works and speeches. The guns, the music, the bells, the gongs, and the noise are all present. And the weather also contributes its share of the general enjoyment, as a finer, brighter day could not be had for in even the golden months of September and October. All the departments are closed and Uncle Sam's employees are allowed to enjoy the day after their own tastes.

The re-assembling of congress is looked forward to with pending interest as a long and exciting controversy is anticipated in both houses over the silver question. Senator Beck's recent speech being considered but a prelude to the fierce contest that is to come. This speech, however, should not be looked upon as an attack upon the administration. It is rather a protest against the perpetuation of the financial policy established by the republican party, and a plea for democratic harmony on this important question.

X.

The Religion of Jesus Christ.

Below we give a synopsis of the sermon of Rev. C. I. Van Anken at the Congregational church, on Sunday, Dec. 15th. Text: Timothy, 1:15:

Bishop Butler said, "Christ coming into the world gives us a view of ourselves." How we see Christ a sin pendulous work. Look if you please at the work he did for us.

"This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

Let us see whether it is worthy of all acceptation. The religion of Jesus Christ is the theme of our contemplation this morning. There are many forms and isms of religion in the world, but none ever have been worthy of acceptation, when applied to the saving of sinners, save alone that introduced by Jesus Christ. It supplies all our spiritual wants, and brings needed help to soul and body, and therefore worthy of acceptation. Go back nineteen hundred years, see how it was rejected. But did it cease to grow? Verily not. The name of Jesus was the cause of great virtues. The man at the beautiful gate was healed by the name of Jesus. The preaching of Christ is the power that touches and moves the stony heart. The gospel of Christ remains while other theories are lost sight of. You will also agree with me that all men should accept this religion. It is not sectarian, it is not selfish, it is not only offered to one particular caste, people or nation, but to every nation and tongue. "It is worthy of all acceptation," because it justifies all lawful scriptural means and ways to be used for the moral elevation of mankind. Some seem to think there is no church like "ours." No one can be saved if they don't do just as we. They are very tenacious as to apostolic succession.

Christ has only one condition by which he saves sinners, to wit: Repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. The question is, have we the love of God in our heart. Are we doing his will, or doing our own wills, and running counter to his. All false religion must fall. The declaration of God has gone forth, "This is my beloved son: Him shall ye hear." His kingdom must succeed. "For in the days of these kings, shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed, but shall remain for ever and for ever." Dan. 2:44.

Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. "This is worthy of all acceptation." Anything outside of this can not satisfy. You will all agree with me that man has a religious nature. He possesses a soul that is capable of enjoyments, and that of a sublime nature, of a spiritual character. Neither wealth, honor or power can satisfy the actings of the soul. Let me ask in conclusion, why do you not accept Christ. Is their any other religion you prefer?

There are two great enemies in the world, antagonistic to each other, the one looks to the Lord as the true God in whom they trust, the other say Christ is a myth. Religion is the result of an excited imagination. But Paul says, "The preaching of Christ is to the Jews, foolishness, but to to those who believe, it is the power of God. To save sinners is the glory of Christ, the joy of heaven and earth, the sweet songs of angels and men.

ALPHA.

Christmas Doings.

The services given up for the Sunday school children at the church on Christmas eve were in excellent taste considering all circumstances.

At the Congregational church attendance was made at disconting, but tables were spread, loaded with a generous array of pop corn, candy, apples, cake, etc., enough for every child in the school. Musical and literary exercises were provided which were very entertaining.

At the M. E. church the decorations were quite elaborate, especially in the design and arrangement of mottoes. A large Christmas tree was well filled with an excellent assortment of presents for all who chose to take part in the services of the evening. Most prominent among the presents was a handsome and valuable gold headed ebony cane, presented to W. A. Smith by the church. Before the presents were distributed the audience listened to a choice selection of literary exercises.

Among the pleasant entertainments reported, that at the house of W. A. Atchison is worthy of mention. The families of Geo. A. Leonard and W. A. Atchison gathered around an elaborate tree at the latter's place, and enjoyed themselves as well as their friends down at the churches. Over 100 presents of all kinds were distributed.

"Happy New Year."

New Year callers will be received by the following ladies at the places named:

Mrs. D. C. Loveday, Miss Maud Loveday, Miss Flora Nelson, Miss Sadie Miller, Miss Bertha Mills, and Miss Lauia Washburn, at residence of D. C. Loveday.

Mrs. J. A. Carlstein, Mrs. L. E. Allen, Mrs. G. W. Crouter, Mrs. N. J. Cash, Mrs. E. M. Clark, Mrs. A. D. Cruickshank, Mrs. A. P. Draper, and Mrs. H. Lake, at residence of Dr. J. A. Carlstein.

Mrs. O. S. Washburn, Mrs. Levi Blanchard, Mrs. A. T. Washburn, Mrs. J. R. Dixon, Mrs. A. R. Upright, Mrs. C. J. Strang, Mrs. C. J. Grier, and Mrs. D. C. Nettleton, at residence of O. S. Washburn.

Mrs. O. D. Wood, Mrs. J. E. Wood, Mrs. J. M. Eaton, Mrs. W. A. Smith, Mrs. F. A. Smith, and Mrs. E. H. Green, at residence of O. D. Wood.

A Tribute to Mr. Potter.

A friend in Ironton sends the following concerning the labors of Rev. John D. Potter in that place last week:

The people living in and around Ironton have great reason for gratitude at the great blessing God has showed on many through the efforts and faithful instruction of Rev. Mr. Potter. We cannot say enough to show our appreciation of Mr. Potter's labors here. All we are sorry for is that he could not be with us longer. We hope he may have a blessing wherever he goes.

Kind Tokens.

The numerous friends of Rev. and Mrs. Parmenter met for a "social" for their benefit, at the Hilton schoolhouse on Tuesday evening. Although the night was dark and stormy, people came from as far as five miles away. After enjoying a very pleasant hour they counted up the cash and produce, to the handsome little sum of $22.62. Mr. Parmenter's friends, among whom he labored during a previous residence here, are very much attached to him and he appreciates their friendship. Mr. and Mrs. Parmenter extend their sincere thanks.

Late Navigation.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—The high rates of freights on coal have tempted the Lehigh Valley line to send two more cargoes here and the propellers H. F. Dalzer and Fred Mercur passed through the straits last night enroute for Chicago. But little ice was encountered, and the vessel will probably make this port without trouble. This is the first time in the history of lake navigation that a trip has been attempted so late in the season, and will give the Mercur the honor of being the first and last boat through the straits in 1885.

I. O. O. F. Election.

The following officers of Round Lake Lodge No. 293 were elected Wednesday evening:

N. G.—W. A. Brown.
V. G.—H. S. Barnhart.
Sec.—Robert O'Neil.
Per. Sec.—John Burns.
Treas.—Melvin Thompson.
Trustee for 3 years—G. W. Crouter.
Rep. to Grand Lodge—G. W. Crouter.

Firemen's Meeting.

The Charlevoix fire company will meet next Wednesday night. Everybody come. By order of committee

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, — MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

Mr. Hoar's Presidential succession bill passed the Senate for the fifteenth time and met its fate by Mr. Pearce. In a debate on the resolution regarding the unauthorized organization of a State government for Dakota, Mr. Hoar declared that no question of policy was involved, and asked if Congress was to be treated as a nullity and the Territory of Utah, John Hoge Mitchell of Oregon, was sworn in. Bills were introduced for the sale of the Cherokee reservation in Arkansas, to encourage the erection of monuments on Revolutionary battle fields by issuing bounty soldiers' bonds, costing $25,000, in the aggregate, to aid the Mississippi Levee Commissioners for the superfloating of fruit brandy, and to bridge the Mississippi at Peoria. The House of Representatives was principally occupied in the discussion of the revised tariff rules. All amendments to the Committee's report were ruled down by a decided majority, but when business on the House adjourned.

A bill making it colonel for a Senator or Representative in Congress to recommend or select appointments to office, was introduced in the Senate by Mr Hampton, of South Carolina, on the 19th inst. A bill was passed to pension the widow of Admiral Farragut, and Mr. Beck offered a resolution requiring the sum to be made of coin received from the Chinese in Peru. Mr. Sherman introduced a bill to pay gratuities to the widow of Admiral Dahlgren in the ordnance pamphlet. Mr. Beck offered a resolution to allow the widow of Admiral Farragut to receive the pension in Peru. Mr. Ingalls introduced a bill to prevent the illegal inclosure of public lands. The House of Representatives passed the police in substantial accordance with the report of the committee, thus distributing the appropriation bills among seven committees. The Senate bill to pay the widow a pension of $2,000 per annum was passed.

In the House of Representatives, at its session on the 19th, Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, from the Committee on Rules, reported a resolution for the creation of the following select committees on the death of President and Vice President of the United States, or a vacancy in the civil service, on accidents to the Speaker, on accidents to members, on Chinese commerce, on the Mississippi and on the Mississippi levee, on Indian affairs, on Indian depredations, on the Mississippi and its tributaries, on Chinese immigration, on Pacific railroads, on Mississippi River improvements, on the Nicaragua canal, on the Hennepin canal, on the Chesapeake and Delaware canal, on the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, on the Illinois and Michigan canal, on the Illinois and Mississippi canal, on the Illinois and Michigan canal, on the Illinois and Mississippi canal, on the Illinois and Michigan canal, on the Illinois and Mississippi

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

Notes and Notes.

It is to be regretted that in some portions of Michigan there are a few democrats who seek to annoy the administration by sending objections to certain of President Cleveland's appointments. For the most part the "other fellow" is the most conspicuous in mining the fun. This should not be. If a democratic or in some instances a republican, is not competent person is named for a position, or undermined methods are used to thrust a person into office contrary to the wishes of a community, then it is right and proper that the candidate should be defeated and the scheme frustrated. But when a choice is made of a good man from several perhaps equally as good, the situation should be at once accepted. There may be grounds for the objections now made to some of the Michigan appointments, but it is fair to presume that they are no more serious than when at first entered. If ever a president stood fair and square to the pledges of his party, and against pressure that would weaken nine hundred and ninety nine men out of one thousand, that man is President Cleveland. In offering obstacles in the way pointed out, democrats not only annoy the administration needlessly, but give the republicans ammunition to shoot with, and also jeopardize the interests of the democratic party.—Big Rapids Herald.

The Detroit Free Press is spending some of its surplus profits in the finest advertising matter we have ever seen. The latest received is a finely engraved card, representing the Free Press Christmas greeting extended around the world, and showing the mammoth building in which it is printed, with facsimiles of the the first page and statements of circulation of each edition, viz: Daily, Weekly, and Lorelon. The combined circulation of the Detroit and London editions of the Weekly amounts to over 200,000 copies per week.

We live in the nineteenth century. As a matter of fact, we are veterans of the nineteenth century, having lived in it long enough to bring us to the verge of the twentieth. Since the year 1800 was born the world has made great progress. The American republic has grown to be one of the greatest nations of the globe. Steam has curbed the commerce of the earth over land and water. Electricity has brought the to-morrow of Europe into to-day of the United States. The human voice has gained its power to reach for miles through the telephone.

Last Thursday was a red-letter day in the office of the Clare News-Argus, which, on that day, enlarged from a six-column folio to a five-column quarto, changed its name to the Clare Democrat, and printed its edition on a bright pink back paper. One by one the democratic press of this country takes a long step forward, showing unmistakable signs of substantial prosperity.

At Cadillac, matters are assuming such shape that it looks almost certain that the T. A. A. A. N. M. R. R. will be extended to that city from St. Louis during the coming season, and will eventually seek a timber on Lake Michigan. Frankfort and Traverse City are live candidates for the honor of the terminus.

An Associate of Leonard Bacon.

I am reminded of a characteristic anecdote of the venerated Leonard Bacon, New Haven's theological seminary had one particularly promising student in a class that graduated a few years before Dr. Bacon died. He had done wonderful things in a literary way; he was known of all the college for his originality, his wealth, and his ordinary. And when the time came for graduation the extraordinary young man, whose fame was not so age-old parade, read his commencement thesis before a club whose membership included not only members of Yale's upper classes, but representatives of the twenty and prominent congregational churches. Dr. Bacon was a member of the club, and was present on this particular occasion, and with the rest he gave close attention to the reading; our young man was at his best and was a scene by one conspicuous members of the undergraduate, then read the paper, and complimented the brilliant student on the merits of a paper that had given him such a measure of metaphysics. Time rolls on, the man when everybody else had outstripped in literary adjectives. At last he had shelved in any calling. People who wanted and knew learned Bacon inquired how the old friend he had not longer remain unsoiled. He did not so much. This was still "a good thing" every year, too. I also expected like it, I said to forty years ago, when I first read it. I used it every time or two during that well time, and I am delighted to discover such accounts fame in the paper, men who are so fortunately exposed to fame. Hence, I am one of the cold cents to make room I will gladly lose the volume of "Continuous." But into plagiarizing young man, it was I remember. Here is a fine target of a man caught redhanded.—New York Times.

The Chicago Daily News

Has the Largest Daily Circulation in America.

Its home for the year 1884 averaged 175,179 copies daily, and its large profits in printing over 120,000 prove a day.

The secret of its success is a good citizen is has appointed which it is said it never. In the establishment of all other Chicago dailies combined. Takes from the 175 essential newspaper-buying readers Aug. 6, 1884, as Jewell, Dewell's Pharmacy and Hubbard's Directory—the quotations which need hardly be quoted the actual circulation of the Chicago paper, the following diagram correctly shows their relative positions as to extent of circulation.

From these figures it appears that the circulation of THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS exceeds the combined circulation of all the other Chicago dailies by 12,872 copies daily. The reasons for this phenomenal success are obvious:

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is a complete newspaper in all that it will take the best type of American journal.

It is a member of the Associated Press, and is the only exemplar of the Western Associated Press in this city.

It is a member of the Associated Press, and is the only exemplar in

THE LAST PIPE

When bread is sick, and brain dies away,
And heavy lungs each shattering breath,
The music, through opens quite, wrestling slow,
To catch the bright flail and glee,
Some merry tune, that shot up high
Some merry tune to wings to fly,
Yet Fancy dances with the flame,
Wove by an idle crumpled and lame;
With the sweet West Wind, the shark Desire,
Darkness at the dying fire,
And learn to meet the morrow's sun
Till all the one's work to be done:

The tedious tangle of the Law
Your work on it done without some flaw,
Whose ghostly streets flag thrice one road,
Your ears, young men, elders and,
Young matrons, maids, girls, going by
Hold a deed, with some sweet sigh,
Hold a deed two thousand years ago,
And kingdoms come still all unsow,
Yet own their self, that will are one
Which boasted, for the great emperione—
Yet, in these dark thoughts of the day,
As then matter a slander, drift away,

And now, three minute minutes,
And a girl's face until them grows—
The very look she's wont to wear;
The will-o'-the-wisp in her hair;
The dimpled cheek, the pouting lips;
The modest mind that moth thus dim—
That tears be need, yet will not fly
Your stranger spirit through sigh
What it can times seem sliding down?
We live, creation of flower and room,
What if your sun seems dull and long?
Yet, in the meantime, the sun
Each other up through stalk and tree,
And also and yet are brought more near.

So, rapping out these golden light,
"My pipe, yuh ve served me well tonight."

EDITH'S PUNISHMENT.

BY HELEN E. STANSFORD.

Redbrook Farm, extending over many hundred acres of rich prairie land, and unfencing within its lands a forest of valuable timber, was indeed a property of which its possessor might be proud.

So thought Edith Norton, as she paused for a moment in her walk through the grove of magnificent oaks from which stood the farm-house was located. No wonder that a smile of triumph overspread her face, and her eyes sparkled, as she thought how excellent were her prospects for becoming mistress of this vast estate. She was fairly amazed at her own success, for in two short months she had succeeded in fascinating young Albert Redbrook, a city country lad, who had as yet the less given hold enough to declare his love for this bewitching, graceful girl, with her city manners and dainty clothes.

She was a visitor at the house of her aunt, whose sign in front of a very modest dwelling in the adjoining village read:

MRS. HARGRAVE,
DRESSMAKER AND MILLINER.

"This lady and Miss Peerlian, housekeeper at the Farm, were cousins of many years standing. Thus it happened that not long after Edith's arrival, she and young Redbrook, met at a church sociable or other gathering, where his timidity would probably have prevented him from addressing her, but in this identical grove of oak trees, through which she was passing to deliver some message from her aunt.

A huge mastiff, usually chained in his kennel near the stable, had broken loose and sprung upon her as she neared the house. Her cries attracted the attention of Albert, who rushed out from a rear door. Advancing to the rescue, like some knight of old, he silenced the animal, thereby earning a look of gratitude that set his heart to beating far more rapidly than was its wont.

He was dazzled from the first, and Edith, with her natural grace and superior knowledge of the world, took care that the spell should not be broken.

She had resumed her walk, and presently the dog was chained up out of sight, a careless observer could hardly have failed to be impressed with the charming air, romantic and attractive appearance of the place, despite its evident age and old-fashioned adornments. True, the bricks had crumbled in some of the more exposed portions, and the roof of one of the wings was in evident need of repair, but most of the images of time were hidden by masses of ivy and Virginia creeper. The porch at the side of the house was fairly covered with the latter, while numerous bushes of lilac and snow-ball grew in close proximity to the front windows. The flower garden bore marks of having at some time received careful attention. Beds were artistically arranged, walks laid out, and numerous supports erected for the vines and larger plants. But it was further evident that, for the past year at least, the vegetation had been allowed to grow without hands aid or ministrance.

Some of these flowers, self-sown in a previous season, which had the hardihood to confront a mass of weeds, showed glimpses of bright color here and there, but many of their associates, whose duty it was to bloom at this time of the year, were sickly, spindling stalks, bearing a few leaves and no blossoms whatever. The shrubbery needed trimming; the ornamental railing was broken down, and the whole was characterized by that air of neglect which frequently visits a garden when the owner dies or is absent in foreign parts.

Jacob Redbrook, grandfather of Albert, had been a famous horticulturist, and had taken an immense amount of pride and pleasure in the cultivation of these plots. Since his death the entire place had been left chiefly to the care of servants.

If his two sons, the elder but married early, and both in business offered, leaving a widow and one child, the hero of our story. The elder was a banker in Springfield. His love of adventure had led him from country to country, from one continent to another, until he was now believed to be a retired gentleman of wealth of the globe. Nor had Fisher disappeared of late years of life. After spending a few hundred in the purchase of a suitable outfit for his sons, to further settle on the old gentleman's part, he had gone, having been able to maintain his independence in whatever part of the world he found himself.

Jim receiving the intelligence of his father's death, he had written to inform his nephew that his return might be expected during the following week.

Albert's mother had seen fellowed her husband to the grave, leaving the farm and lies to the care of his grandparent and Miss Peerlian.

As Edith passed upon the visit hearing of the home-school, bathed in a flood of morning sunshine, she felt some mild sensed improvements had already sapped, and improvements.

"I could have that wing torn down and a new porch built, running the whole length of the house," she said thinking, "and Albert Redbrook emerged from a side-path and stood before her.

He hemming face slowest sufficiently the pleasure that the meeting afforded him, and her greeting was as effectionate as his own.

"I have some news to tell you," he said, as they stood for a few moments in the shade of a gigantic oak. "My Uncle James is coming home, and may be here this week."

"Your Uncle James?" she said, in surprise.

Until this moment she had never even heard of the existence of this member of the Redbrook family. His long absence had done much to cut off from his mind from the minds of Edith's residents, and it chanced that during Edith's short visit no one had mentioned his name to her.

"Yes," replied Albert. "I have told you about him? I was a child when he started on his travels, and scarcely remember him he looked. He was but twenty-one when he left home, and I thought you had heard of him before."

"Perhaps," she answered. "I am only a little tired from the long walk I have taken."

"We will have Miss Peerlian give a lunch, and, after you are rested, will you play one of your new pieces for me?"

Edith assented, and they went into the house. At the foot of the great staircase they met a young girl, perhaps a few years Edith's junior, who blushed deeply as she saw them. This was Agnes Draper, who had once been Albert's playmate, and, until Miss Norton's arrival, the only young woman with whom he was ever known to skip conversing. He was greeted her rather coldly, while his companion bestowed upon her with the utmost cordiality.

Her appearance formed a striking contrast to that of the city girl. She was plainly dressed in a dark print, with coarse shoes and a brown straw hat. Edith wore a dainty lawn, edged with lace and looped up with ribbon bows. Yet Mr. Draper was a wealthy farmer who could well afford to deck his daughter with "gewgaws," as he called them, while Mr. Norton struggled hard to maintain a large family on his clerk's salary of five hundred a year.

Agnes had also come on some errand connected with Miss Peerlian's department, and remained but a few minutes.

Albert and Edith were soon seated before the ancient pianoforte, where she was playfully instructed him in the first principles of music, a course of study which he seemingly valued by discussing his plans for the future.

They had already decided that their marriage should take place as soon as possible, after he had attained his twenty-third birthday. For the present, the whole matter was to be kept a secret, his guardian, Lawyer Holdson, had arranged for him to spend the winter in Springfield, where he could get, there to supplement what knowledge he had acquired under the tuition of the schoolmaster.

"Yes," replied Albert. "But I never told you about him? I was a child when he started on his travels, and scarcely remember him he looked. He was but twenty-one when he left home, and I thought you had heard of him before."

"Perhaps," she answered. "I am only a little tired from the long walk I have taken."

"We will have Miss Peerlian give a lunch, and, after you are rested, will you play one of your new pieces for me?"

Edith assented, and they went into the house. At the foot of the great staircase they met a young girl, perhaps a few years Edith's junior, who blushed deeply as she saw them. This was Agnes Draper, who had once been Albert's playmate, and, until Miss Norton's arrival, the only young woman with whom he was ever known to skip conversing. He was greeted her rather coldly, while his companion bestowed upon her with the utmost cordiality.

Her appearance formed a striking contrast to that of the city girl. She was plainly dressed in a dark print, with coarse shoes and a brown straw hat. Edith wore a dainty lawn, edged with lace and looped up with ribbon bows. Yet Mr. Draper was a wealthy farmer who could well afford to deck his daughter with "gewgaws," as he called them, while Mr. Norton struggled hard to maintain a large family on his clerk's salary of five hundred a year.

Agnes had also come on some errand connected with Miss Peerlian's department, and remained but a few minutes.

Albert and Edith were soon seated before the ancient pianoforte, where she playfully instructed him in the first principles of music, a course of study which he seemingly valued by discussing his plans for the future.

They had already decided that their marriage should take place as soon as possible, after he had attained his twenty-third birthday. For the present, the whole matter was to be kept a secret, his guardian, Lawyer Holdson, had arranged for him to spend the winter in Springfield, where he could get, there to supplement what knowledge he had acquired under the tuition of the schoolmaster.

After that," he said to Edith, "I shall be on my own hook, and can manage affairs to suit myself.

"And the first use you will make of your freedom will be to leave home and secure a wife," she rejoined.

"Not unless you are with me," said Albert, putting his arm around her waist.

She smiled, a self-satisfied smile, and expressed her satisfaction of departing for the village. He accompanied her, and so busily were they engaged in conversation that they had passed her aunt's home and were observed by that lady herself before he turned to retrace his footsteps.

Edith was scarcely seated in the little room which served as her sanctum, when her aunt began. "Seems to me young man Albert Redbrook is paying considerably attention to you. What does it all mean?"

Edith considered a moment, then thought best to make a confidante of her aunt.

"He has asked me to marry him," she replied, somewhat proudly.

"Well, well," said her relative, evidently much pleased at the news. "I always thought it would be a good match for you, but I thought it would be some time yet."

"May be," rejoined Edith, with heightened color. "Doesn't he fretting, or petted his beau to-day?"

"Bless your heart, no. His grandfather made a will leaving it all to Albert's uncle, and he was in very good humor about it, and if he does without any children, it goes to the grandson."

"Poor unpaid," said Edith, "to cut his oldest son's child off in that way."

"I suppose he thinks that the farm divided, and its pretty certain James will never marry. Besides, he always said that he believed in a young man's starting out for himself. Albert gets an allowance of three hundred every year until he's twenty-one. Then I hear he is going to study for a book-keeper or cashier."

Three hundred a year, and that to cease at the end of six months. How suddenly had all of Edith's castle-building fallen to the ground. Instead of owning this vast estate, her lover was a poor boy, hardly better off in this world's goods than herself.

She was too proud, however, to allow Mrs. Hargrave to witness her chagrin, and merely responding the letter not to mention her engagement, she went to her room.

Then she thought over the matter long and carefully. It had been a great disappointment to learn how Albert's pecuniary affairs stood; but, then, there was a possibility of his some day being a wealthy man, that is, if another plan which had half dazzled her at first, should prove abortive. She was generally adopted in the minor opposite, did not succeed.

Her recent conquest had increased the high opinion of herself, and she was not accustomed to be disappointed, and she scarcely doubted her ability to charm any lad of sixteen she might encounter.

She so-and-up her meditations by resolving to visit Albert's home in person, and, if she discreditable feelings had never reached her ears.

There was only one more meeting of the social kind before Albert was obliged to return to his school city. Then he informed Edith that his uncle had arrived, and he had taken a room at the village.

Edith had by now her own sense, he thought, and she was not the little peach he used to think of. Mrs. Hargraves residence, lately occupied by a family of three, was for some reason, I suppose, and it is impossible for the gentleman to be agreed upon, and continue to look after it, and spends nearly every day in the village.

Even thought differently, but she changed the subject, and talked of the schoolmaster.

After that," he said to Edith, "I shall be on my own hook, and can manage affairs to suit myself.

"And the first use you will make of your freedom will be to leave home and secure a wife," she rejoined.

"Not unless you are with me," said Albert, putting his arm around her waist.

She smiled, a self-satisfied smile, and expressed her satisfaction of departing for the village. He accompanied her, and so busily were they engaged in conversation that they had passed her aunt's home and were observed by that lady herself before he turned to retrace his footsteps.

Edith was scarcely seated in the little room which served as her sanctum, when her aunt began. "Seems to me young man Albert Redbrook is paying considerably attention to you. What does it all mean?"

Edith considered a moment, then thought best to make a confidante of her aunt.

"He has asked me to marry him," she replied, somewhat proudly.

"Well, well," said her relative, evidently much pleased at the news. "I always thought it would be a good match for you, but I thought it would be some time yet."

"May be," rejoined Edith, with heightened color. "Doesn't he fretting, or petted his beau to-day?"

"Bless your heart, no. His grandfather made a will leaving it all to Albert's uncle, that's owing to some business arrangement, and if he does without any children, it goes to the grandson."

"Poor unpaid," said Edith, "to cut his oldest son's child off in that way."

"I suppose he thinks that the farm divided, and its pretty certain James will never marry. Besides, he always said that he believed in a young man's starting out for himself. Albert gets an allowance of three hundred every year until he's twenty-one. Then I hear he is going to study for a book-keeper or cashier."

Three hundred a year, and that to cease at the end of six months. How suddenly had all of Edith's castle-building fallen to the ground. Instead of owning this vast estate, her lover was a poor boy, hardly better off in this world's goods than herself.

She was too proud, however, to allow Mrs. Hargrave to witness her chagrin, and merely responding the letter not to mention her engagement, she went to her room.

Then she thought over the matter long and carefully. It had been a great disappointment to learn how Albert's pecuniary affairs stood; but, then, there was a possibility of his some day being a wealthy man, that is, if another plan which had half dazzled her at first, should prove abortive. She was generally adopted in the minor opposite, did not succeed.

Her recent conquest had increased the high opinion of herself, and she was not accustomed to be disappointed, and she scarcely doubted her ability to charm any lad of sixteen she might encounter.

She so-and-up her meditations by resolving to visit Albert's home in person, and, if she discreditable feelings had never reached her ears.

There was only one more meeting of the social kind before Albert was obliged to return to his school city. Then he informed Edith that his uncle had arrived, and he had taken a room at the village.

Edith had by now her own sense, he thought, and she was not the little peach he used to think of. Mrs. Hargraves residence, lately occupied by a family of three, was for some reason, I suppose, and it is impossible for the gentleman to be agreed upon, and continue to look after it, and spends nearly every day in the village.

Even thought differently, but she changed the subject, and talked of the schoolmaster.

"I hardly think so. Mr. Holdson is anxious for me to devote every minute to my studies, and I should lose nearly a week by coming home; but I will write often, and you know how eagerly I shall look for your letters."

There was much more said in a tender, confidential and serious, many vows of constancy exchanged, and then Albert went on his way, cheered by the thought that the girl he loved was interested in his welfare and cared for him sincerely in the new path he was about to pursue.

Mrs. Hargrave was not a little surprised when Edith announced her intention of spending another fortnight in Elmdale, for the girl was lonely and companionable, because of her engaging her considerable assistance in the dressmaking line; so she raised no objection.

One day, when the elder lady was visiting elsewhere, Edith donned her freshest vestment, and stepped out of musical-dear farm, set out for the Redbrook mansion. Miss Peerlian readily gave her permission to practice the songs she had brought, and presently Edith's fingers were wand-ring over the keys. She played on, unconscious of the fact that there was a listener in the next room, though she had caught a glimpse of him as she passed the half-opened door. A tall, grave man of forty-five or thereabout, he was engaged in the perusal of a volume before him, and did not observe her light footsteps in the hall.

Not until the sound of music ceased did his ears call he glance toward the parlor in question to hear. It was years since he had heard the old instrument, a gift of his mother, when she came a bride to the farmhouse, and he wondered now who could have the delicacy to touch it.

He arose and went into the hallway, Edith's back was toward him and presently she turned to reach for some music, and he beheld, with a smile of surprised admiration profile, surrounded by masses of rippling hair. She had finished the accompaniment to the song she was singing and commenced an old Scotch air, when he remembered having had a dozen duplicates in years gone by.

He stood for a moment as if rooted to the spot, and before he could make up his mind to retreat she had left off playing and turned to encounter his gaze.

She started slightly, and Amos Redbrook advanced into the room.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but your playing charmed me so that I came nearer to listen."

"Yes, sir."

"I believe that I have then stored away in an old trunk upstairs. Albert I packed up a great many of those Scotch pieces, and, if I remember rightly, that was among them. I will look for it this afternoon."

"I wouldn't trouble for a moment of putting you to so much trouble."

"It will be a pleasure, and if I succeed in finding it, and you think it worth your while to take it around to your aunt's house this afternoon."

There was a little flash of triumph in Edith's eyes as she said, in a very proper modesty, and he did not perceive it.

"Another lad's very glad to come, I am sure," she said demurely.

"Time and memory are short, I know, but I hope you will not forget it."

"Certainly," he said, entering no warmer, of manner, whatever; "I quite agree with you that it is better to carry the part entirely out of the house, proceed to the business that has brought me here this morning."

And then she knew that all was lost, that she could never hope to claim this man, in the following day she left Elmdale to take up her residence with her father, sir.

Six months later her humiliation was complete, when she learned that Mrs. Al-Redbrook is going to Springfield, and has been installed as mistress of Redbrook Farm.

Beleaguered Chattanooga.

All supplies for Rosecrans had to be brought from Nashville. The railroad was broken up, the entire line was in possession of the Government up to Bridgeport, the road was blocked with the road crosses to the south side of the Tennessee River; but, Bragg, holding Lookout and Raccoon Mountains west of Chattanooga, commanded the railroad, the river, and the shortest and best wagon roads both south and north of the Tennessee between Chattanooga and Bridgeport. The distance between these two places is but twenty-six miles in a direct line, but owing to this position of Bragg all supplies for Rosecrans had to be hauled by circuitous route south of the river and over a mountainous country, increasing the distance to over sixty miles. This country afforded little food for his animals, near ten thousand of which had already starved, and none were left to draw a single piece of artillery or even the mules to remove the sick. The men had been on half rations of hard bread for considerable time, with but few other supplies, except beef driven from Nashville across the country. The region along the road became so exhausted of food for the cattle that by the time they reached Chattanooga they were much in the condition of the lost animals left alive there "on the left."

Indeed, the beef was so poor that the soldiers were in the habit of saying that "it would require two days to make a good meal of it." Nothing could be transported but food, and the troops were without sufficient clothing, tents, or blankets, and had no shelter or fuel.

Cavalry and artillery were unemployed for the same reason, and the horses were so poor, that they were living on half rations of hard bread and coffee, and "tired" even at the sight of a mule.

Santa Claus' Headquarters!

—AT—

DR. G. W. CROUTER'S.

CHRISTMAS IS COMING

And we want everybody who intends purchasing CHRISTMAS PRESENTS to comprehend the fact that we are now all ready to show you THE FINEST ASSORTMENT EVER EXHIBITED IN CHARLEVOIX. Our new stock of Holiday Goods is complete and comprises an elegant line of

Plush Toilet Cases, Fancy Perfume Cases, a Fine Line of Plush and Leather Albums, a Large and Beautiful line of Christmas Cards,

A choice line of CONFECTIONERY "SOMETHING NEW." All kind of GAMES. All kind of DOLLS. All kind of Toys from the cheapest to the best.

Books for the million.

All of John B. Alden's publications, the cheapest and best line of books ever offered to the people of Charlevoix. Just the thing for a handsome present.

COME AND SEE ME; COME TO-DAY.

NOW is the time to make your purchases; you certainly will suffer by delay. Don't wait until everything is picked over and the choicest novelties are gone. Make your selections early and you will be saved many days of anxious and weary searching. Trusting you will favor us with an early visit, and wishing you one and all a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year, we are

Respectfully,

G. W. CROUTER.

CARLYLE ON SLAVERY.

Unpublished Letters Written to a Virginian Before the War.

The following very characteristic letters from Mr. Carlyle are now published for the first time, says Harper's magazine for October. They were addressed to Judge Beverly Tucker, of Virginia, in response to letters and pamphlets received from him; and the second letter is the most complete, serious, and restrained expression of Carlyle's view of American slavery that we have seen. * * * "The chief letter was written in 1850, when Carlyle was publishing the "Latter Day Pamphlets," his most direct and vigorous and biting onslaught upon "Sham Liberal Winking" and "government by talk" in England—"the slavery of a slander, of a sham man in a blatant land" who felt that he was in a minority of one. It was the year of the passage of the fugitive slave law in this country, the darkest and angriest hour of the tremendous anti-slavery agitation. The letter was written to a Virginian, a slaveholder, a man of high character, of ability and accomplishment, and of eminent official position, who had recently delivered a speech at the southern convention, which met at Nashville in 1850.

CHELSEA, LONDON, 25th October, 1850.—SIR: The New York bookseller have duly forwarded to me a few days ago, your volumes of "Lectures," for which I beg to return you many thanks. The candid, ardent, and manful spirit which shines everywhere thro' these Discourses renders the Gift welcome in itself, and as a token of your kind feelings toward me still more so.

I have always said of America, in looking at its books, methods, talent; the best concern of America has not yet come to words (or even to thought)—it is but still struggling to counsel with surely, it is true, as one sometimes prophesies, that huge changes be not far ahead in your region as elsewhere, whose lesser lie in his heart a clear word longing for utterance, might to the last be after it. With many thanks and good wishes, yours very sincerely, T. CARLYLE.

To Prof. Tucker, etc.

CHELSEA, LONDON, 21 October, 1850.—DEAR SIR: Your letter and pamphlets have duly reached me; for which accept my acknowledgments. The style, both of what you write and of what you have spoken, incites a considerable perused, and such accordingly you have had from me. If it was in my power to forward, in the way you mention, what I find to be right and essentially just in your endeavors, surely I should not neglect it. But that, I must add, is little likely, in the present state of our affairs, as of yours! Our "new Downing street," as the present ones are usually, is still at a great distance.

Meanwhile, dark as we are in regard to detail, I think you rather exaggerate to yourself our ignorance as to your essential position in that big controversy. I had it settled conviction among rational Englishmen, which they frequently express in a careless way, that the southern states must ultimately feel driven to separate themselves from the northern, in which result there is not felt here to be anything treasonous or otherwise horrible: our grand shortcoming is that we regard the matter as one in which we have no concern, or a much smaller one than the fact might indicate if we would look at it—that, in short, the rational class, on this, as on some other subjects, is at present a dull and lukewarm one, and that Exeter Hall having all the talk to itself, is windy, foolish, and otherwise inconsiderate enough (for such I really take it to be, even for a sense of the bonds of you resolved on having any degree of sense in them) usurps the name and figure of England in treating of this matter. Perhaps now at last the dumb sense of the country does begin to stir and growl a kind of multitudinous contradiction to the platforms; but I foresee it will be a long time, such is the complicated depth of this emancipation question, and such the general much bewilderment of men's minds before the wise result be in evidence on with emphasis and get the majority in its favor.

For you and other men of sense and manfulness of spirit who stand in the very coil of negro complications and feel practically that you must retain command of your servants or else quit your places and toil in the world, I find it natural that you should in silence resolve to front all extremities rather than yield to an extreme demand of your nature, however top-voiced and protestant it became, in which quarter, too, what can I say except 'God stand by the right,' which I clearly perceive you in part are!

But, alas, the question is deep as the foundations of society, and will not be settled this long while. For the cry of emancipation, as well phrased with itself on humanity platforms, is but the keynote of that huge unrelenting roar now rising from all nations, for good reasons, too—which tends to abolish all inferiority and obedience whatsoever in this world, and to render sweety impossible among the sons of Adam. And I doubt, we have hardly got to the crisis of that yet—at least among speakers in England I find but a feeble and a painful minority of one in regard to it—and after the crisis, when the minority shall have become a concentrate, I feel too well what task will be ahead of them. It is truly from that such brave man constituted solemnly his own most religious oracles on the subject, and stood purely prepared to do whatever God's mandate he felt to be laid on him in regard to it.

Grave as I say, in my dim light, but in my real sympathy with your affairs, to that another thought I have. It is that this cannot from your "Exeter hall" and ours, which few persons can regard with less reverence than I, was hardly a thing necessary, or even a notion in that the relation of the white man to the black is not at present a just one according to the law of God eternal, and the "abolition" is by no means the way to remedy it, and would be a "remedy" equivalent to killing it (as I believe), yet, beyond all question, remedied it must be, and peace never, is not possible till a remedy be found, and begins to be visibly applied. "A servant hired for life instead of by the day or month?" I have often wondered that wise and just men in your region (of whom I believe there are many) had not contemplate a great many methods, or at least some methods better than those yet in use, of justly contracting this relation, and relieving such superiors of it as so become intolerable. Have you, for example, a law by which a negro, on producing a certain sum of money, can buy his own freedom and the right of a superior negro, can demand his Freedom? I could conceive many other laws and processes not quite in use at present, but an at the bottom of my paper and pen-point. I said lately, the negro question will be left in abeyance and disregard, Congress's law about it is (with tolerable approximation) actually found out and practised; and never will then. Might not also be a word to the wise? With many regards and true wishes, yours sincerely,

T. CARLYLE.

To the Hon. Beverly Tucker, Williamsburg, Va., United States.

Killed by Mosquitoes.

Mr. Murray, in a letter from Denver to Professor Baird, describes what he saw under the shade of some willows skirting a shallow place in a creek. A small swarm of mosquitoes was circling over the water, and the disappointed salmon trout were readily discernible. Every few minutes the large trout would rise to the surface of the water and remain there an instant, with the lower part of the head exposed. A mosquito would at once alight upon the shining spot and transfix trout by inserting its proboscis, or bill, into the brain of the fish, which apparently was paralyzed or stunned at the first touch of the insect. The persecutor would not relax its grip, but holding its victim as by a vise would extract all the vital juices from the trout's body. When this was done the dead trout would turn over on its back and float down the stream. The conqueror would then take a few twenty trout under the willows in the course of half an hour. The Western mosquitoes, each victim being sucked dry in his lifeless shell.—The American Angler.

Hide dealers and tanners complain of dented wire fences on the ground that they inflict the severest injuries upon hides—injuries not easily discoverable until it is too late.

ENRICH THE BLOOD.

HAMLETS'S GERMAN BITTERS are recommended by many for all diseases requiring a certain and efficient tonic. Especially indigestion, dyspepsia, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, &c. They enrich the blood, strengthen the muscles, and give new life to the nerves. They act like a charm in the digestive organs, remove all dyspeptic symptoms, and whenever the stomach is weak or there is a general loss of physical vigor, these bitters are just what you need. Only 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

THE GREATEST PAIN KILLER

Yet found for cramps, colic, stitch in side or back, neuralgia, rheumatism, sprains, bruises, &c., is HAMLETS'S JAMAICA GINGER AND FAIR CROP. Bound on with hot wet cloths it never fails to cure. For dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, flatulence, diarrhœa, dysentery, heartburn, sour stomach, &c., it is unequaled. Warranted to cure. Try it. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently cured by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, costiveness, and the bowels alternately in a very disagreeable feeling, after getting warm by a common attendant. Bilind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Benedict's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by druggists.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at your business. Either sex succeed. The broad road to fortune opens before the industrious, ever ready to reward them with more than a mere living. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

$200,000 in prizes given away. Send stamp for full particulars. Address Publisher Gem, Rockland, Maine.

A GIFT Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money at home than anything else in America. Both sexes of all ages can live at home and work in spare time, or all the time. Capital not required. We will start you. Address True & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

THE Detroit Weekly Free Press four months on trial for 25 cts. Superb copies free at the office.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Nervous Debility. Sold by the Druggists throughout the United States. Prepared only by the Dana Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00.

For Sale by F. G. HYNES & CO., Chicago.

$100 REWARD

FOR

Every Ounce of Adulteration

IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

This Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv.			7 30am	3 30pm
Fort Wayne, lv.	4 [illegible]pm	2 40pm	12 [illegible]	[illegible]
Fort Wayne, ar.		2 45	12 35	4 40am
Kalamazoo, lv.		7 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	11 [illegible]
Kalamazoo, ar.		7 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	11 [illegible]
G R Junct'n, ar.		8 [illegible]	5 [illegible]	12 [illegible]
G R Junct'n, lv.	7 40am	8 [illegible]	5 [illegible]	12 [illegible]
Howard City,	8 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	1 [illegible]
Big Rapids,	9 19	9 [illegible]	7 [illegible]	2 [illegible]
Reed City, lv.		9 [illegible]	7 [illegible]	2 [illegible]
Cadillac, lv.	11 00	10 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	3 [illegible]
Walton,		10 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	3 [illegible]
Kalkaska, lv.		10 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	3 [illegible]
Mancelona,		10 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	3 [illegible]
Bear Lake,		10 [illegible]	8 [illegible]	3 [illegible]
Petoskey, ar.		11 [illegible]	9 [illegible]	4 [illegible]
Mackinaw City,			9 30pm	5 [illegible]

GOING SOUTH

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City,		7 00am	5 [illegible]
Harbor Springs,			5 25	11 [illegible]
Petoskey,		7 [illegible]	5 [illegible]	11 [illegible]
Bear Lake,		7 [illegible]	5 [illegible]	11 [illegible]
Mancelona,		10 [illegible]	5 [illegible]
Kalkaska,		10 [illegible]	5 [illegible]
Walton,		11 04	5 [illegible]
Cadillac, ar.		12 [illegible]pm	6 [illegible]	1 [illegible]pm
Cadillac, lv.		12 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	1 [illegible]
Reed City, ar.		1 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	2 [illegible]
Reed City, lv.		1 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	2 [illegible]
Big Rapids,		2 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	3 [illegible]
Howard City,		2 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	3 [illegible]
G R Junct'n, ar.		3 45	6 [illegible]	4 [illegible]
G R Junct'n, lv.	7 [illegible]	3 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	4 [illegible]
Kalamazoo, ar.	8 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	7 [illegible]	5 [illegible]
Kalamazoo, lv.	8 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	7 [illegible]	5 [illegible]
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 [illegible]pm	11 [illegible]	2 [illegible]am
Fort Wayne, lv.	12 [illegible]pm	11 [illegible]	2 [illegible]
Cincinnati, ar.	9 [illegible]pm	7 [illegible]am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 130. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ROBERT MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

CHAPMAN & LACHE, Attorneys at Law and Notaries, Petoskey, Mich. Office in Miller's Block. C. J. CHAPMAN. C. J. SMITH.

HAYES & ALL, Attorneys at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agents. Lake Shore, east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

ROBT. HAYES, Attorney and Counselor, Real Estate business promptly attended to. ROOMS TO LOAN.

H. J. BEERY, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Office Cor. Arcade & Bridge, Mich.

J. CUMBERLY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate of Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. WOOD TUTTON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

ISAAC L. BENNETT, Attorney at Law and Notary Public. Special Local Commissioner, Boyne City, Charlevoix Co., Mich.

W. V. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Adjoining R. R. Depot.

A. V. SHERTUK, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.—Sunday Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at close of morning services. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30. C. P. VAN ANDEL, Pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Sunday Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at close of morning service. Prayer and Class meeting Thursday evening at 7:30. J. T. HUTCHINS, Pastor.

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. G. HYNES, Homœopathic Medicines, Books, Humphrey's specifics, etc., Harbor Springs, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LUCIUS W. FOSDICK, Physician and Surgeon. Office and residence, Bridge St., Charlevoix, Mich.

W. WILKINSON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HOYES & HAYNES, Notary Public, Real Estate and Loan Agents, Petoskey, Mich.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Meets First Tuesday in each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

L. O. O. F.—Council Fire, Lodge No. 22, meets every Tuesday evening, in Odd Fellows' Hall.

K. O. T. M.—Emmet Tent, No. 126, meets second and fourth Saturdays in each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. G. T.—Temple of Honor, meet Saturday on or after each full moon in Harrison's school house.

I. O. O. F.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 207, meets every Monday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall.

W. F. CROUTER, Agent. W. A. BROWN, Asst Cashier.

BROWN & CO'S

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,

Capital $50,000.

With superior facilities and prompt attention to business, we solicit the patronage of the public. We pay special attention to the collection of drafts, checks and other business paper, and remit promptly on first mail. Interest on time deposits, and special rates on special deposits. Exchange on Europe for sale in sums from $50 upwards. Money to loan on good security. Interest allowed on time deposits. Collections made on all points in Europe by the Anchor Line.

Chase National Bank, New York.
Kent National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants and Manufacturers National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. BERRIER, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely new and refurnished. First-class bar. Good livery in connection. Good Stable in connection with the House. 73

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, Michigan.

Best location in town, giving good view of the lake. Express office, and headquarters for hunters and The Rapids Stages, and special rates for commercial travelers.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

NATHAN S. BARR, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Three hunting boulevards at the county seat will be kept open and convenient shore to shop, and the best of fishing and hunting grounds adjacent. TEN DOLLAR COMMITTERS.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NEYES, Proprietor.

Ironton Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

GET THE BEST

Cures in from one to five days the worst cases of Gleet, Whites, Gonorrhœa and Gleet. Not a nauseous or astringent. Sold by druggists or sent by express, prepaid, $1.00. Circular sent on request. Address THE BRADLEY CHEMICAL CO., Cincinnati, O.

For sale by G. W. CROUTER, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

THE JOURNAL

Job Department

Is supplied with the latest and best type and material for the execution of all kinds of job printing, such as

Pamphlets, Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Letter Heads, Note Heads, Envelopes, Visiting Cards, Business Cards, Wedding Cards, Ball Tickets, Programmes, Dodgers, Tickets, Checks, Orders, Receipts, Certificates, Blank Books, Etc., Etc.

Prices as low as good work will permit. Send for Samples and Estimates.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING

Dr. CROUTER'S

BAKING POWDER

Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.

If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.

It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.

It is made from PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops.

It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by

Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,

Chemist and Druggist.

BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

"TERRACE FARM,"

Charlevoix, Mich.

J. R. & J. S. DIXON,

DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.

Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins

A SPECIALTY. 19.

New Goods!

MILLINERY

AND

Fancy Goods.

Have also just received a fine stock of autumn and winter millinery, such as Felts, Velvets, Silks, Satins and Gilt Edge Ribbons, Feathers, Ostrich Tips, Ladies' Ready Made Hats, &c. Also Embroideries, Hosiery, Gloves, Corsets, Laces, Ribbons, Fancy Goods, Notions, Etc., Etc. Call and examine my stock. I design to sell cheap for cash.

Dress-Making Done to Order.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

DAILY STAGE

BETWEEN

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

LEAVE BOYNE CITY AT 8 A. M., arriving at CHARLEVOIX, 11:30 a. m.

LEAVE CHARLEVOIX AT 2 p. m., arriving at BOYNE CITY at 5:30 p. m.

Good Accommodations for Everybody.

W. H. COON, Proprietor.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARRINGHAM & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

THE INSURING MOWING MACHINE is hard bind for sale.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association

OFFICERS.

President—Hymen Swain.
First Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President—Geo. W. Carter.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Financial Secretary—B. Sutliffe.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—J. Mitchell, A. D. Cruickshank, and J. L. Bird.
Correspondence Committee—H. Lee Billings, W. A. Brown, and C. V. Cook.
Finance Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Bartlett, M. J. Sherman, B. Cooper, Geo. W. Carter, H. W. Mayne, W. M. Smith, C. Newman, E. M. Clark, D. Berrier.

COMMITTEES.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing industries in Charlevoix, and to advertise the superior growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7:30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

A GIFT Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at your business. Either sex succeed. The broad road to fortune opens before the industrious, ever ready to reward them with more than a mere living. Address True & Co., Augusta, Maine.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising can be contracted for in NEW YORK.

The Race.

Tiptoe, dainty dame!
Wait for me a moment, I will make you mine!
Wait! I'm coming straight! I cannot follow!
And what you do, I do, dubious feel
And your eye, she dazzle so sunny sweet,
Up hill and over hill—how Shall I pant and pace, or do I doubt but I Shall By.—for the swift-winged swallow!

Tiptoe, dainty dame!
Nay, you are mine! Yes, and you are mine!
My little Jessie—I've caught her!
Tiptoe, dainty dame! Wait for me!
Nay, you are mine! Yes, and you are mine!
Oh, wait! Away, away!
Wait for me a moment—on the way?
Tiptoe—how she flies, and I hold her!
Tiptoe, dainty dame! Wait for me!
Nay, I have caught you, and you are mine!
Tiptoe, dainty dame!
Wait! Wait! Wait! Wait!
With a swing!—swing!—swing! to my shoulder!

—C. L. D. in St. Nicholas for October.

THE IMMIGRANT'S STORY.

Police Court Scene.

BY SIGISMUND.

A voice calling the name of "Jane Le Croix" resounded through the plaintiff corridor of one of our police courts one morning last week. The occupants of the court room and judge's entertainments were startled by the appearance of a woman, in response to the calling of Jane Le Croix fell upon their ears. Where it came from, none could tell. It was uttered in a monotone as a sphinx, and as silent as a Gen. Grant. None observed the lips that formed the stern and placid mask that hides his mind from human eye came the voice that called the next unfortunate from the bull pen of the police court.

"Jane Le Croix," called the policeman, as he opened the door of the bull pen.

But stepped a creature, in shape a woman, but her eye appeared so much like that of an enraged bull, and leaping into a Spanish bull ring that one doubted in what grade to place her between human and demon. Her face was once beautiful; it was now tempingly bold, stern, cow, surrounded by luxuriant reddish-gold locks that would sway opinions more than the right reddish black so rigid between two frames of lightning, like a mountain torrent flowed in waves over a neck that would serve for a model for Venus. As she stepped out of the bull pen she folded her arms and looked at his honor, then at the crowd with a peculiar defiance that cut each spectator to the core. Misfortune, a kind of bravado that human wrecks assume to hide the debris they present to witness their degradation.

"Step up to the bar of the court; guilty, or not guilty?" again came from the lips of the clerk.

"Guilty of what, you please?" says Jane, marching up before his honor.

The judge eyed her through his glasses for a moment, and was preparing to hurl a section of his peculiar wrath on her head for the contemptuous manner in which she came before the judicial court, when something in her brazen defiance appeared unnatural to his experienced eye. It was like hate on the face of a Madonna; in a moment the judge departed and the man learned over the rail and said: "My child, you are playing a part that nature never intended you for; you are a stranger in this court and should be a stranger to the vocation that brings you here."

At the words "my child" the muscles of her face relaxed and the quivering indicated that the judge's words were carrying the mind of the culprit away from the bar of a police court; she looked at the judge, yet, far beyond him, as he continued, her lips trembled, her pencil eyes were sampling the water that had been a strange to them. Unbolting her arms she pressed her hands to her burning temples. The judge was becoming affected, but continued: "I have no doubt a vacant chair stands like a skeleton in the family circle that mourns your absence. The thoughts of that family no doubt are occasionally clinging to the hopes that your childhood gave birth to, but that vacant chair, like a dismantled parapet, plainly indicates the crumbling away of that family circle. The fond kiss of a mother——"

Here the unfortunate culprit groaned, as if in the most intense agony. At the word "Mother" she pressed her hands still more to her head, turned her face upwards, convulsively running her fingers through her flowing hair, she suddenly pulled the hair over and pressed it close to her face, as if to hide it from somebody, then bowed low her body and wept as though her heart would break.

"The impression of the fond kiss of a mother," continued the judge, "should never leave the lips of a daughter. The kind advice and virtuous teachings that evidently came from the mother that gave you birth must have received some terrible shock to permit you to wander into the fold of a class whose recompense here is death and whose reward hereafter is death! death!"

The judge, the policeman, and even the clerk was affected at the intense grief that Jane Le Croix now writhed in.

The court paused. In a few moments Jane Le Croix dried a long breath, lifted her head and brushed back the hair that covered her face, which showed evidence of a complete revolution. Instead of the brazen, defiant look of the hopeless Magdalene, the face of a weary pilgrim overburdened with woe, looked up at the judge. In a sweet voice she said:

"You will excuse me from this unusual outburst of feeling, but the words 'my child' coming from your lips were the first home words I have heard for eight years; I thought my heart proof against kind words, particularly coming from man; but now they have torn open the crust of crime that encased my heart. When you pointed the vacant chair, the breach in the family circle, all rolled into one before me like a vision, and when the word 'mother' dropped from your lips I thought a fond mother's smiling face over a dear mother looked from that vision down into my guilty heart. Then it was that I hid my face, and like a balm to the lips of the wounded, a stirred up pent-up heart its barriers, my heart opened. Those tears have brought more ease to this bosom than any I have known for many a year. To be clasped from what I was to what I am has been so sudden that I scarce know myself.

"From the bottom of my heart I thank you for calling me to reason, and for the first moment approaching to reason you have known in eight years. To convince you that those tears spring from an almost broken heart, permit me, in a few words, to trace the dark and thorny path that brings me before your tribunal. You judge for yourselves if I was playing a part that I never was intended for.

"I was born to one of the loveliest vales in Somerset, Ireland. Young and untouched well, I had some reason to be proud of the attention paid to me by the farmers' sons of my native village. I was the oldest of my brothers and sisters, but the silent but deep affection of a kind father and mother worked with pride the growing promises that my youthful form gave of a beauty. An hour the landlord's son visited one village I attracted his attention. Oh! what fervent malediction could I pour out on the whole landlord race, root and spawn, for the curse they have been to my country and people. How many a white virgin soul they have started on the broad road to hell, God alone knows. Of course he used such means as best suited him to persuade to return his lascivious love, my nature revolted. I made a complaint of my mother, who reported to my father. His mind was made up at once, as he was in no condition to stand the disgrace of the landlord, being behind in his rent, and knowing well that a struggle with him that cost me my virtue would entail misery; fearing, under such circumstances that I would be in danger, he determined I should leave the country. In a week I was ready; in three weeks I was in Philadelphia. The world seemed new to me that I knew not whether it was my grief or joy that throbbed around my heart. I soon got in charge of the then room of ——— hotel. For a few months I was happy; I had weekly letters from home. My father was preparing with the family to come to America. The proprietor of the hotel treated me with marked kindness. In my innocence I did not distinguish true kindness from attentions that were paid to me, for reasons that were hid behind the mask of this scorpion devil. I was invited to the parlor one night. I went; there other women were there, God, what kind! I was offered wine, I refused, was pressed, and fearing I would be considered rude, I tasted—would that it was poison. From that moment until morning I know not what happened; when I awoke I found the sun high in the heavens, and I in a strange bedroom. I lifted my aching head, and the proprietor of the hotel lifted the curtains to speak to me. In a moment everything flashed through my mind; at once I felt a singular sensation, my head reeled, and I could but see the surrounding objects in an indistinct manner. I pressed my hands on my painful eye balls and through the mist tried to bridge the void that lay between my family and me.

"It seemed as though some winged devil had dragged me from the abode of virtue and separated me by thousands of miles from those I heretofore knew. I wept and wept; I could not pray; I threw myself on my knees and cursed my betrayer; I begged that the weight of the outraged virtue might press on his conscience and be to him an eternal nightmare in this and the next world. For a while I was his toy, soon he tired of me. I had lost track of my family. Picking up the papers one day I saw that my father was in Philadelphia, and looking for me. That night I fled from the city, like one that was doomed. I wandered from city to city, avoiding the haunts of virtue, and herding with the unclean.

Memory, that flowery path that carpets the thorny road of misfortune to the poor and virtuous was to me a curse. I drowned it in the bottle; reason and thought I tried to drown but they would not down. Oh, God! if I could but pour the feelings of my soul into the ears of the young and virtuous—few, very few, would be tempted by the tinseled and festooned surrounding that lure the innocent under the guise of pleasure, to have them really live in a burning hell. I tried to get out of the circle, but some invisible influences held me back. Self-destruction danced before my vision, but I dared not. I think—frank, hoping to make a life that I hated ridiculous, I was mad, and wallowed in all kinds of excesses, fearing a return of reason. In this manner I have lived for eight years. Or, sir, hopeing on me and save me from myself; punish me, send me to some place where the eye of a man will not see me. I wish you could hide me from God!"

While she was speaking to the judge the crowded spectators gathered around the judicial bench. So absorbed had his honor become in her story that it was only when she had finished that he noticed the situation. Immediately the man departed and the judge rapped on his desk and in a very severe manner called upon the policeman to rid the court of such familiarity. Even the clerk amplified over the remarkable incident. After the crowd had retreated to their normal seats the judge remanded Jane to the care of a policeman to be put in communication with the Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

In an after conversation, she acknowledged that Jane Le Croix was an assumed name. She confided her true name to his honor, who entered into communication with her father, where the weary wanderer found rest on that bosom whereto the most of crimes can be forgiven, on repentance, and a father gladdened by learning of the whereabouts of his long-lost daughter.

Poisonous Plants.

The progress of the series of lectures on botany and agriculture by Prof. Roimock in Horticultural hall, Fairmount park, says the Philadelphia Times, is being marked with increased attendance, the lecture-room becoming too small for some of the lectures. The lecture yesterday afternoon was "Flowering Plants to Be Avoided."

"Plants may be poisonous by one's proximity to them, by touching them, or by being taken into the stomach," said the lecturer. "The manchineel of the West Indies is nearly as poisonous as the fabled upas tree of Java. Plants containing acrid or poisonous properties come largely from the tropics. This is true of spices, also; white, on the other hand, the plants of the polar regions are deficient in these active qualities. One of our most popular groups of plants is the buttercup, but many of these are sufficiently acrid to produce blisters when applied to the skin. The poisonous smilacis probably the most dangerous of all our plants which poison by proximity."

The lecturer then described the two species of smilax as the climbing and the swamp smilax. "Avoid all smilax which has not had berries and you will be safe from poison. The common horse-chestnut is used in Europe as food for the horses and cattle, being the small horse-chestnut of the south, the "buckeye," is claimed to be poisonous. The laburnum or gold' chain, which grows twelve feet high in our gardens, is exceedingly dangerous, as its roots, which taste like licorice, are apt to inadvertently be eaten. On one occasion fifty-eight children were poisoned in the Forest Hill school in England by eating it." Among other plants named by Prof. Roimock as containing in a greater or less degree poisonous qualities were the water hemlock, digitalis, aconite, and the common poke-weed.

"Dr. Darlington," continued the lecturer, "states that he has known pies to be made of the pokeberry and eaten without injurious results, while, on the other hand, a southern physician has known evil consequences from eating pokeberries."

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

CALENDAR FOR 1886.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

Joseph Wilkins, formerly agent of the Michigan Central Road at Buffalo, has been sentenced to five years in the Auburn penitentiary for embezzlement.

At Mount Vernon, N. Y., a laborer named Thomas Hanlon was so drunk crazed by a mad dog that the aid of two men was required to chloroform him relaxing his hold.

For the last week the imports of merchandise at New York, exclusive of dry goods, were valued at nearly $5,500,000.

A fire at Georgetown, Mass., burned thirteen business places and a residence, the losses aggregating $84,000. Two men were latter by falling walls, and five others were injured.

Mahlon Hutrizer, who went to the war from a Jersey town twenty-one years ago, and has since been mourned as among the dead, returned to his parents on Christmas night. He came large lords of mines in Peru.

At the gate of General Grant's tomb, on Christmas Day, the widow and her son Frederick placed a wreath of flowers. A white-haired veteran from Galena obtained permission to touch it with his lips, but a lady vainly offered the grand $10 for a single flower.

Work at the Nanticoke, Pa., colliery, where the recent accident occurred, burying nearly thirty men, has been stand-ed. The company will reconvene the exhibition. The victims are doubtless buried deeply beneath sand, culm, and rock, and can never be found.

WESTERN.

The trouble resulting from the removal of a Polish Catholic priest in Detroit by the Bishop resulted in a tragedy. Sunday last the church was closed against the congregation, who, augmented in number by other Poles, made threatening demonstrations against houses of the Bishop's friends. Some shooting occurred, one man was instantly killed, and others were injured.

The Seney syndicate, represented by ex-Governor Cooke, of Ohio, intends to pur-chase at foreclosure sale the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis Road.

The real-estate transactions in Chicago for the year amounted to about $48,000,000, of which the value of buildings erected was $25,000,000, the number of residences being 1,057.

Patrick F. Murphy, ex-Mayor of Omaha, died in that city after a brief illness from some mysterious malady which affected his whole family.

Manix, the assignee of the Purcell estate of Cincinnati, is charged with a defalcation of $250,000. Our Bonfy is one of his bondsmen. A criminal prosecution is threatened.

A Leavenworth, Kansas, Liquor-dealer was refused from selling liquor pending the hearing of the case against him under the nuisance provision of the prohibitory law, and his place was closed. The other dealers are packing up and preparing to leave the city.

The international billiard tournament in Chicago ended in the winning of the championship by Jacob Schaefer. He has been matched with Vignaux to play six nights in New York, within forty days, for $2,500.

In the United States Circuit Court in San Francisco a decision was rendered in the case of Sharon vs. Hill to the effect that the marriage of the parties was void on the ground that the signature to the marriage contract had been forged.

A fresh outbreak occurred in the congregation of St Alfred's Polish Catholic Church, at Detroit, Mich. Col. Litwicz, a well-known lawyer, was shot killed by a stone, thrown by one of a mob of 2,000 excited Poles. The crowd almost completely demolished a grocery, belonging to a man who was a member of a faction to which they were hostile.

Thomas King, a laborer residing in Cologne street, Chicago, went home to supper on Christmas eve and found his wife intoxicated. The neighbors heard a violent quarrel, and the next day found that King had killed his wife had been beaten to death. The murderer was arrested and admitted that he struck the woman with a stone. He has served in the British army, and once kept a saloon in Washington.

An infernal machine was found on the doorstep of the $250,000 mansion of Judge Lambert Tree, at No. 96 Cass street, Chicago. A policeman took the tin can of nitro-glycerine to the Lake Front and exploded it, burning a hole in the earth two feet in diameter. The scheme leave evidence that its author was an unusual crank.

Chicago elevators contain 14,459,855 bushels of wheat, 1,061,998 bushels of corn, 525,000 bushels of oats, 200,377 bushels of rye, and 207,220 bushels of barley; total, 17,454,451 bushels of all kinds of grain, against 15,419,236 bushels a year ago.

SOUTHERN.

A gentleman in Chattanooga desires to find the rightful owner of a cane cut by Andrew Jackson and presented by him to a friend named Mulholland. The relic was found on the battlefield of Lookout Mountain.

Fire at Artesia, Miss., destroyed every store in the place.

Mrs. Lucinda Helm, widow of the late Governor John Helm, of Kentucky, died at Elizabethtown, Ky., aged seventy-six years.

Miss Carrie Boyer, a local belle of Hamestown, Clarke County, Ala., was murdered within sight of her home by a negro named Alack Reed, who attempted to outrage her. When the news was made public all the county hastened in pursuit of the murderer. He was discovered in hiding at Tompkinsville a white man and two negroes, and carried back to Gainsboro. He confessed the crime, and declared that he had been guilty of outrage in Mississippi also. After his confession was heard he was escorted to the open where he had murdered Miss Boyer, which was a short distance from town and in a lonely and thickwood. Here the murderer, screaming and shouting, was tied to a stake, and a fire built around him. He writhed and twisted in it for a few minutes, when death came to his release. A number of incendiary witnesses was burning.

WASHINGTON.

A Washington dispatch says a bill is to be introduced in Congress to lend the name of the Government to the International Exposition to be held in Chicago in 1892, in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America.

A relief steamer will be sent by the Government in search of the whaler Mattahunt, carrying a crew of forty men, supposed to have been cast away in Behrings Sea.

Commissioner Sparks, of the General Land Office, in view of the almost universal comment as to his policy, has felt constrained to issue a new series of regulations for registers, receivers, and special agents of the Land Office, which have just been promulgated. They modify in many important particulars the recent sweeping orders. They provide that homestead or preemption claims and those made based on settlements upon public lands, and who are filing upon, entering, and improving the same in accordance with the law, with the intention of acquiring title thereto, shall be permitted to cut and remove from the portion to be cleared for cultivation so much timber as is actually necessary for that purpose, or for buildings, fences, or other improvements on the land entered. In clearing for cultivation, should there be a surplus of timber, the entry-man may dispose of such surplus; but it is not allowable to denude the land of its timber for the purpose of sale and speculation before the title has been conveyed by patent.

POLITICAL.

Washington telegram: "Mr. Evarts, in his New York interview, has not chosen to affirm or deny the report that upon the reassembling of the Senate he will make a speech upon the silver question, which will much resemble that of Senator Teck. It is reported here that Senator Evarts is going to change his views in regard to the position of the Arthur administration the Silver Commission in Europe, of which he was a member, and have so much to say in regard to it. Nobody knows what effect such a speech will have, but it is certain that it will be a very powerful one."

Pork tenderloin, imperfectly cooked, has caused trichinosis in the family of Thomas M. Wesenfeld and his son, of Wilmette, Ill. Both are suffering terribly.

William C. Page, attired in the uniform of a Salvation Army lass, appeared in Hackensack to Lance, the gas entrepreneur, and obtained a check for $100, Mr. Lance, supposed the latter was a genuine Army lass, but discovered the fraud and stopped payment on the check. The impostor, who is a young man, is well known in Hackensack and Paterson.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

Paris dispatch: The four Newark children, Annie Fitzgerald, Patsy Ryan, Willie Lane, and Patrick Reynolds, who have been under treatment by M. Pasteur, will leave for home Sunday next. They are all well. Kaufmann received his first vaccination at half-past 11 this morning. He continues confident and in good spirits.

The creditors of the King of Bavaria have petitioned for a distraint of his goods, but the Council of the Crown has forbidden bailiffs to take any such action.

The value of the crops in Ireland this year reached nearly £3,000,000. This is largely above the average for the last decade.

The Municipal Council of Cork will try the experiment of erecting seventy-four cottages for laborers, to be rented for half a crown per week.

Geo. Booth, of London, in asking for $30,000 for the expenses of the Salvation Army for 1886, states that he will not publish the accounts of past years.

The following is the visible supply of grain, as compiled by the New York Produce Exchange: Wheat, 36,012,342 bushels; corn, 8,329,095 bushels.

Mobile (Ala.) dispatch: "By the explosion of the boilers of the Gulf City Ice Works, 800 men were killed or injured. Mrs. Wallace, Miss Black, Daniel Dunn and Peter Chisolm were burned to death. Israel Drosses was fatally scalded and has since died. Alfred Ricks, fireman, and J. Sinnott were fatally injured, and F. P. Jones was fatally scalded. Engineer Turner and William Borden were also seriously injured. Excessive pressure is attributed to lack of water in the boiler. It occurred at 1 o'clock after midnight. The wreck had just blown for lunch or the casualties might have been greater."

The Hon. E. A. Jones, a well-known Tennessee politician, died at Hot Springs, Ark.

James E. Bailey, who succeeded Andrew Johnson as Senator from Tennessee, died at Clarksville in that State.

Two organ-grinders in New Orleans, joined against an electric-light pole in Bienville street. One was killed instantly and the other had his head burned to a crisp.

The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution has compiled its correspondence series to the number of 520 letters, from all parts of the sections of the Union. The travelling and incidental expenses were furnished by the paper.

Secretary Manning has issued a call for 10,000,000 of 3 per cent bonds, interest to cease Feb. 1.

In regard to the project to erect a monument to the memory of Vice President Hendricks President Cleveland has written to Simon Cameron inclosing the plan and begging that he may be permitted to aid in the undertaking.

About a month ago John T. Morton, of Arkansas, was appointed by President Cleveland Commissioner to a thousand dollar position in the Pacific Department. Nothing was known of him except that he was a school teacher, and the result of his examination had been entirely satisfactory, and when, the other day, a colonel was proposed himself everybody was surprised. He is the first colonel ever appointed to a clerkship in that office.

Engineer Loring, of the navy, will shortly make a proposition to the secretary of John Bouch to give the Potomac a new dock trial. The venue has been dock trial, which was in all respects satisfactory, and some changes in her machinery have since been made.

Pork tenderloin, imperfectly cooked, has caused trichinosis in the families of Thomas M. Wesenfeld and his son, of Wilmette, Ill. Both are suffering terribly.

William C. Page, attired in the uniform of a Salvation Army lass, appeared in Hackensack to Lance, the gas entrepreneur, and obtained a check for $100, Mr. Lance, supposed the latter was a genuine Army lass, but discovered the fraud and stopped payment on the check. The impostor, who is a young man, is well known in Hackensack and Paterson.

It is reported that Justice Miller, of the United States Supreme Court, holds that under the tenure of office act the President cannot remove an official without the consent of the Senate, and in case the Senate refuses to confirm nominations made to succeed temporarily officers the latter are entitled to office until confirmed.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Professor Brooks announces the discovery of a comet in the constellation of Aquila, which in the early evening is low in the southeast.

In reply to a dispatch from Secretary Lamont commanding efforts to prevent violence in relation to the threatened expulsion of the Chinese, Governor Stoneman, of California, sent a dispatch saying that, as to the proper method of preserving good order in that State, he was capable of performing that duty "without gratuitous suggestions" from the Chinese Minister to the Secretary of State.

Amelia Sheridan, of New York, once noted as an actress, has been rendered insane by the action of drugs used for the purpose of blackening her hair.

FOREIGN.

The Greek Chamber has sanctioned the raising of loans for war purposes.

Efforts to adjust the difficulty between the Cork Steam-Packet Company and the Cork Shipowners' Association have failed.

In a public lecture at Limerick, Ireland, where barbarous land outrages abound, he said that twenty persons were dangerously wounded. The police failed to restore order until two hours had elapsed.

The prediction is made by the London Economist that the Americans will not permit much gold to be shipped until the silver question has been settled. A Berlin banker placed a Russian £40 loan of 20,000,000 rubles, for which the subscriptions were ten times that amount. A Chinese railway loan of £25,000,000 is being negotiated by the financial company.

CRIMINAL RECORD.

JANUARY.

Geo. Trash, hanged at Wellsboro, Pa., for the murder of Marion Sylvis; Twitty pardoned the convict in council the other. Wright Gray convicted of his wife's murder in Sacramento, Cal., sentenced to hang on the 22d. Gray, a young man of good family, married a young widow, whose relatives, friends, Thomas J. Chapman, a farmer, hanged at Charleston, Ill., for the murder of Nicholas Holbrook, a farmer, in September, last June. Byers, an eccentric bachelor, hanged at Richland Center, for the murder of Ira Stewart, a young farmer, in October last. Miles that murdered Frantz in Hale for betraying the girl's sister, paid the penalty on the gallows in Corning, Ark.

FEBRUARY.

Elijah Weaver, aged 75, convicted in Hardy County, West Virginia, confessed that he murdered twelve persons prior to murdering the wife of his son, John L. Jackson, in Ohio, for whose murder he was hanged. Mrs. Jackson and Charles E. Pope fought a duel in a street at Portsmouth, Va., in which each received a large hunting bowie wounded and Jack escaped in any, mortally wounded. Pope died in the jail at Audubon, Iowa, Jan. 31, of injuries received in a fight with Hiram Jefferson, note blotted by a GUN; two of the men were shot in their cells, and the remaining man, who was a son of the murdered man, hanged. Ben Hill, a young man, shot down, blinds from jail and riddled with bullets, Jan. 31, at Fort Smith, Ark., by a mob of Frenzied Indians

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

The editor of the Boyne Statesman should read the JOURNAL of Dec. 24th again, and see if an opinion is expressed in regard to the trial of Barry, or whether a simple statement of certain portions of the evidence is made. The JOURNAL did not have a complete abstract, but it did have enough to show the nature of the case. The facts in favor of the prosecution were given at the time of the murder, and after the sentence was pronounced we gave enough of certain portions of the evidence to show the nature of the defense. The JOURNAL has not receded from its demand for the full punishment of this crime. Instead of showing a change of heart, the article in question is a simple statement of the facts justifying the very light sentence. The statement of facts given to most of the state press would warrant a life sentence, and the question most likely to arise in the minds of people outside would be, "what kind of a jury and judge have they up there, to punish a murderer with only three years in the house of correction?"

The Proposed Destruction of the Greenbacks.

The scheme to authorize the secretary of the treasury to destroy the legal tender notes as fast as they find their way into the national treasury, is not likely to succeed at the present session of congress. This scheme is but another manifestation of the bondholders' determination to make money scarcer and correspondingly dearer in this country. Demonetize silver and burn the greenbacks and what is harvest the usurers and the rich creditor classes would reap. And yet this is precisely what some really honest people want the government to do.

The plea of those who advocate the the destruction of the legal tender notes, is that they are as much a part of the national debt as the bonds, and that when the government receives one in the course of business the promise of redemption has been fulfilled and the note should be destroyed. This plea is urged in utter disregard of the fact that greenbacks are an absolutely indisputable part of the circulating medium of the country; that they are used by the people in the transaction of ordinary business more than any other form of currency with the exception of national bank notes; and that their destruction would cause such a contraction and disturbance in our monetary system as to practically paralyze trade and industry, and work general ruin. The effect would not be worse if the government were to set about destroying one half of the entire amount of the property of the country, including horses, ships, railroads, and all other appliances for carrying on commerce. We unhesitatingly affirm that even such an act of wholesale destruction would not cause anywhere near the prolonged universal distress that would follow the calling in and retirement of the $346,681,000 of legal tender notes. It is not possible that such a monstrous scheme of despoliation will find any favor with the representatives of the people at Washington.

If the eastern money kings are so anxious to have the debt reduced, we would suggest that they urge upon Secretary Manning the propriety of obeying the law and calling in bonds that are already past due and redeeming them with the millions of money in the treasury piled up there for that very purpose. It will strike the ordinarily prudent business man that the wisest policy to pursue under the circumstances is to redeem the interest bearing indebtedness before retiring the legal tender notes which cost the people nothing but the slight expense of engraving and printing them. A democratic administration with half an eye to the interests of the people ought to see that any other policy will meet with only universal condemnation and the most stubborn resistance on the part of the taxpayers and producers of the country.—Lansing Journal.

Cadillac has another paper—the Express.

Notes and News.

Speaking of the death of vice President Hendricks, the New York Sun paints the following vivid pen picture of the candidates of 1876. Note the contrast, for it is part of history, and its lesson is impressive. Of the two men elected president and vice president in 1876 one still lives, conspicuously honored and warmly beloved, the first citizen of the land, after having twice refused a nomination that meant the sure rightting in a measure, the wrongs which the democracy suffered in his person nine years ago. The other dies in the office from which he was shut out by the conspirators of the fraud. Honored and sincerely mourned by the nation, he is carried to day to his last resting place. Of the two men who profited chiefly by the monstrous iniquity, one is already forgotten—who knows where Wheeler is, or whether he lives or sleeps in oblivion? The other crawls out of obscurity to touch the bier of Hendrick's friend, happy thus to attract for an hour even the attention of universal contempt.

On the seventy fifth birthday the late Robert Toombs, of Georgia, told a World correspondent that he never made the declamation about calling the roll of his slaves at the foot of Bunker Hill Monument so often attributed to him. Mr. Toombs, during his life, made several attempts to silence this bit of political thunder, but he never was able to make himself heard. That alleged assertion has passed into history along with Justice Taney's alleged remark about the negro having no rights that a white man was bound to respect. The Judge spent a great part of his life trying to correct that falsehood, but he never made the slightest impression on it. It is just as vigorous to day, as it was the day it started on its journey through the centuries. World.

Six things are requisite to create a happy home. Integrity must be the architect and it chooses the quincy-tree. It must be warmed by affection, lightened up with cheerfulness, and industry must be the ventilator, removing the atmosphere and bringing in fresh salubrity day by day, while over all, as a protecting canopy and glory, nothing will suffice except the blessing of God.

Among well bred people a mutual deference is affected; contempt of others disguised; authority concealed; attention given to each in his turn, and an easy stream of conversation maintained, without vehemence, without interruption, without eagerness, for victory and without any airs of superiority.

Power naturally seeks to strengthen and perpetuate itself, and the great danger to our institutions is not from frequent official changes, but from the manipulations and encroachment of authority endeavoring to render its leases and privileges lifelong or hereditary.—Andrew Jackson.

While the breezy republican politicians of South Dakota are trying to divide their territory into two sisterhood of states it should not be forgotten that Texas could be chopped up into four excellent democratic states. World.

There are some people who never succeed, from being too indolent to attempt anything; and others who regularly fail, because the instant they find success in their power, they grow indifferent and give over the attempt.

In a free country every voter should be a politician, every man should have an intelligent comprehension of and take a deep interest in all public questions.—Andrew Jackson.

People should regard office as an opportunity of usefulness, not a livelihood, and should be prepared to resign it when occasion requires.—Andrew Jackson.

No party can carry out any distinctive policy that employs its components as agents.—Andrew Jackson.

"Elia" and Charles Lamb.

A unique genius, that of Charles Lamb. Just like nothing that ever appeared before them, or has since appeared, are the quaint and delightful "Essays of Elia," a new edition of which has recently been issued by Alden, "The Literary Revolution" publisher of New York. Turn to any of your cyclopedias and they will tell you that Charles Lamb was one of the most charming essayists that the English language has ever known, and also that his "Essays of Elia" are the choicest of his works. They are not merely the first work of their class, but, like "Pilgrim's Progress," and "Robinson Crusoe," they constitute a class by themselves. The volume is certainly one of the most delightful of the books described in Mr. Alden's 148 page illustrated catalogue, which he offers to send for 4 cents, or the 16 page catalogue which is sent free. Address, John R. Alden, Publisher, New York City. G. W. Crouter, agent in this city.

Hard Times.

While money is close, wages and prices low, Expenses should scrimp down in every household, economy the watch word for Mechanics, Small on Doctors bills, to always keeping in the house, a bottle of Dr. Bonsacks Cough and Lung Syrup Stops a Cough instantly, relieves Bronchitis and Croup and puts in the Quiet in one night. 25 cts, 50 cts, and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by druggists, and $1.00. Sample's free. Sold by Geo. W Crouter.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a mortgage made and executed by Ebenezer Mosher, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of the first part, to Elias Pelegrom, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of the first part, to William B. Sawyer, of Cheboygan, Illinois, of the second part, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for said county of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of September, A. D. 1885, in liber "M" of mortgages, on page 395, which mortgage was on the twenty-ninth day of March, A. D. 1885, assigned to said William B. Sawyer by Mosher, of Berrien county, Michigan, said assignment being recorded in the fourth day of March, A. D. 1886, in liber "M" of mortgages, in the records of said Charlevoix county, on page 396, by which said power of sale by said mortgage has become operative, and whereas, at the date of the said mortgage, there is claimed to be due upon said mortgage for principal and interest the sum of forty dollars and one dollar ($40.00) and no proceedings have been instituted at law for the recovery of the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and of the statutes of the state of Michigan in such cases made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage to wit: All the mortgagor's right, title and interest in and to the following described premises, viz: Lots Twenty (20) and Twenty-one (21), in block Twenty (20) and Lots Twenty (20) and Twenty-one (21) in block Twenty-one (21) in the village of Bay View, according to the plat of Bonsa, town of Bonsa, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan.

Dated December 8th, A. D. 1886.

FIVE LAKE IRON CO.,
Mortgagee.

CHENOWETH & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Harbor Springs, Mich.

Notice of Stray Beasts.

To the township clerk of the township of Hayes, Charlevoix county, Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that on or about the twenty-ninth day of October, A. D. 1886, one black mare, white spot in forehead, the mare is about eight years old, with one hind foot and ankle white, white spot in forehead and is of medium size, was found in my inclosure, and said mare is now in my possession, and I reside in the said township of Hayes.

Dated November 4th, A. D. 1886.

ALBERT E. BENNETT,
Hayes, Charlevoix County, Mich.

The above mare was taken up in my inclosure on October 30, A. D. 1886, and was found on my premises on October 30th, A. D. 1886.

A. W. CHEW, Township Clerk.
Hayes Township, Charlevoix County, Mich.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a valuable sample box of articles that will put you in the way of making more money than anything else in this world. Any one can do the work. Capital not required. You can devote your time or spare time only, or all your time to the business. The work is pleasant, easy, and honorable, and such as will pay every person who works at it, large profits. Many have made fortunes by it. Many others have made large incomes from their time. The business we offer you is entirely new, and very profitable. Some have made over $100 in a single day. Any one can do the work. We have no doubt that any industrious person can make from 50 cents to $5 per day at home. Many have made more than the ordinary wages we pay, while others have met with good success in a much larger business. We will explain the business we offer you, and show how all who are willing to work may earn the large wages we pay, and we also offer to send some of the articles free, which will enable you to see for yourselves that we do not ask you to make a single cent's worth of anything we do not pay you for. We do not ask you to buy a single article, or to risk a single cent in any way. All who see our business think it contains more money than any other business they have ever seen offered them. Many who have been in business for themselves, and others who are in business now, have made their fortunes by the business we offer you. Some have made over $100 in a single day. Many others have made from $50 to $100 in a week. We can show you how to make money fast, in your own locality, without being away from home. We have a large number of persons who are now making their fortunes at work for us in their own localities. Any person who is not well satisfied after they have earned $10 at the work we offer, we will pay for their time for their trouble. Many have made $10 before they have spent an hour at the work. Some have made more than a dozen times this amount in a day. We do not ask you to take our word for all we say, but we ask you to prove all we say to be false if you can find any one who will do so. We know of no one who has been deceived by our business, who has been willing to follow our directions. We do not ask you to do any thing that is not perfectly honorable and proper in every respect. Many have made their fortunes at work for us who were at first entirely destitute of money or any other property than their willing hands and good hearts. Many who are now in the business we offer you, have not any more capital than you have when you begin. We do not ask you to do any business with us that you think you do not see your way clear to do. We do not ask you to do any business that will not bear the strictest investigation. We do not ask you to do any business that will not prove a source of great profit to you, even if you devote your whole time to it. We do not ask you to do any business that will not pay you handsomely for every hour you may choose to devote to it. We do not ask you to do any business that will not pay you handsomely even if you do but a little or a portion of your time. We do not ask you to do any business that will not pay you handsomely even if you do not make a single cent's profit for anyone else but yourselves. We do not ask you to do any business that will not pay you handsomely even if you do not make a single cent's profit for yourselves beyond what you may choose to make from your own business

A YEAR'S HISTORY.

A Chronology of the Important Events, Political and Otherwise, of 1885.

The Calendar Year One of Comparative Peace Throughout the Circuit of the Globe.

The year 1885 has added few political events of a startling nature to the annals of the world's history. It has been a year of peace, though there have been considerable rumors of wars in Europe—wars which, had they broken out, would evidently have assumed gigantic proportions and resulted in vast destruction of life and property. This very fact has no doubt caused the crowned heads of the old world to pursue a cautious policy and hesitate long before letting slip the dogs of war. The only serious disturbances of the peace of the world in or the extreme eastern confines of Europe, and that promises to be settled without involving any of the great powers in a conflict of arms. France and China have been fighting each other at long range, entailing very slight damage. England had a brush with Burmah, which was "short, sharp, and decisive," the Burmese king throwing up the sponge and ingloriously surrendering to the red-coats without firing a gun. Russia, war with the Indian breeds and Indians in the Northwest, and the chance of a disturbance at Washington by the retiring of a Republican and the inauguration of a Democratic President, constitute the chief events near home. Below will be found the record:

JANUARY.

The Blizzery family formed a syndicate at Shenandoah, Pa., for the purpose of buying property worth $100,000 in England, Scotland, and India. A Turin, Ills., newspaper contained with leagers, 20,000 people out of employment, Twenty-three of the younger graduates of the classes of the Boston Theological Seminary were refused ordination because they could not conscientiously subscribe to doctrine, but Trustees said such hair-splitting in the New York Assembly of as 300 young men called by Lyman Beecher, Hill, Immediate cash deposits, said to be the largest in the world, were made in the Mint of Paris, China, Tacks, Ind., is a place to be avoided by people who have a fondness for noises, for within the town are four steam and two locomotive whistles, one mine with the M. E. Church at Cambridge, Exeter, Mass., of South Carolina, released four prisoners at Detroit, and surrendered on the charge of swindling Gen. T. W. Higginson and other Bostonians. Amount of gold claimed from United States by Alaska Commercial Company, Sitka, Alaska, Russia and Mexico, Legislatures adopted resolutions petitioning Congress to open Oklahoma to settlement. News received of a hard-fought battle between Gen. Stewart's command and the Apache chiefs, in which three of the Indian users were killed. Stewart was badly wounded in the shoulder. Mrs. Mary Ann Cunningham, Mrs. Hannibal Tanner, of Brooklyn, being married Mrs. James A. Garfield, left $25,000 in trust for a marriage. Thirteen Louis Pasteurians, a gramme of King Menelaus of Tunis, found working, as a result, tender near Immanuel, Ga., Mrs. Mary Ann Cunningham, of Boston, failing in attempt to increase or distribute the market price of cereals. After a dead-lock lasting two legislative days, the lower house of the Illinois Legislature organized by the election of Hyde M. Haines on Republican, a party of tricks. Jesse Bonnett committing the parents disposed of his wife, Ellen, to the Illinois Asylum, and a month later he died in Chicago, leaving a bankrupt estate and on the coveted secretary March 4.

FEBRUARY.

Mrs. Laura De F. Gordon, of California, adjudged to be dead of the United States Supreme Court at Washington—the second woman accorded that privilege. Dispatches show that New York by an English woman calling herself Lord Cecil, a great reputed in Parliament, and the news, Queen Victoria offered to contribute to the fund for the relief of the sufferers. Government certain to offer for arrest of perpetrators of dynamite outrages. During a severe windstorm, the Colorado Central train from Denver to Georgetown was blown from the track. Children possessing more or less injured. Intense excitement in England caused by report that Gordon's relief expedition had been cut off. Government by a group of Democrats in Michigan. The United States land patents in gross carriage from at $2,000. Repeated disturbances in the Mormon Church, causing the greatest disappointment to Gentiles. Gen. Grant's physician from overdosed of rule. Authorities in Berlin have forbidden the publication of the life of Lafayette, the Jesuits, the Pope, the Emperor, and on entering the church numerous and sacred to people. Gen. Grant's physician, among the latter, said his final was carried out, and on Washington's birthday, Mr. Cleveland with super warm affection. Michael Davitt complained of the treatment of Irish prisoners in Portland prison. Dr. Congressman B. J. Mowell, of Ohio, Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio, Fort Wayne, Ind., said to a lunatic asylum. The Texas House passed a bill forbidding the every log of small size, etc. Lumber exports of Canada for the year 1884 were $10,000,000 in excess of those of the year 1883. Mr. Cleveland Association will not hold a convention in Chicago, Ills., Mr. Cleveland's Secretary of the Interior, Lamar, Mr. Cleveland's Secretary of the Interior, Lamar, Mr. Cleveland's Secretary of the Interior, Lamar,

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Drinking Women.

The following is in keeping with the remarks of Rev. J. D. Potter in his Sunday evening discourse on the prodigal son. Let us rejoice that if we have not all the conveniences of a great city, we escape some of its evils:

An editorial appeared in a morning paper in Chicago recently, in which the writer expressed himself greatly shocked upon going into a restaurant with his young daughter to obtain a lunch, at seeing two young ladies at a table directly in front of him drinking ale. He also noticed, during the time that he was in the restaurant, several other young ladies came in, and, in most instances, the first thing ordered was a bottle of beer.

What the editor saw that day in that restaurant, may be seen any and all days in hundreds of restaurants in Chicago. There are more than six times as many drinking women in Chicago as there are members of the W. C. T. U. in the city. They are not confined to any one class, although it is a sad truth that they are found largely among the working women, shop girls, and clerks in business houses.

Beer is their standard beverage, and we believe the cast-iron of beer drinking, from its half-way recognized respectability, is responsible to a greater degree for the increase of dram drinking among women than any other cause.

But beer is by no means the exclusive beverage of the women. Those who can afford it indulge in the stronger and more costly drinks. Nor is drinking confined to restaurants. A writer in the New York Journal has this to say of "Bar rooms for women" in New York:

"But let me tell you a curious fact, of which you are probably not aware. I could name a dozen or so thoroughly respectable dress makers establishments in New York where the whole of the business is not dress making. Some of the profits of these places come from the sale of beverages. The love of conviviality is not confined to men alone. Men have their saloons where they can go every time they feel inclined to do so. But a lady who wants a glass of champagne or a brandy julep, what is she to do? She can not take it in her own house because the servants would talk, or the children being around would see the bad example, and no lady can, of course, go to any ear room or restaurant to drink. Her lodge then is in the convenient dress maker's.

"The bills sent in by the modiste, therefore, as you may readily see, are not as exorbitant as they seem. The business exclaims at the outrageous charges of $400 for a dress that lasts one so nothing extraordinary about, but the wife knows, though she can not admit it, that $200 on that bill represents champagne and so on. The drinks are occasionally given gratis, but you may be sure that they appear in some form in the bill.

"A lawyer who has had several cases which he has compromised very cleverly for one of these big dress-makers was asked about this, and he said: 'Of course you won't quote me, but she is a great deal of truth in what you say.' I know that my client, in detailing her business, had told me that she could not get on at all if she did not satisfy the demands of her customers in this way. They would leave her and go to the dry goods houses, where they would have to pay less for their work. These feminine bar rooms have become a necessity of the dress-making trade."

Now, we are not charging any class of people engaged in business in Chicago of "moonshining," but we are assured by a lady friend, who has been connected with business houses in Chicago for ten years, who never indulges in drink herself and who is to-day at the head of a department in one of the finest retail houses in that city, that if a lady wants her champagne, beer, brandy, or any other beverage in Chicago, there is many a business house where she knows how to get it, and they are not all dress-making establishments either.

It is a sad truth that drinking among women is increasing much more rapidly than among men, and it opens up a field for investigation and temperance work fully as important as any now occupied. Who will organize it and develop it into a system that shall make it effective?

AT HOME AND ABROAD.

At church and theatre, in the counting house and work room, in fact everywhere is heard that hacking cough which soon developes into consumption or inflamation of the lungs, bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. Be wise in time. Immediate relief and cure can be cheaply obtained. HAMLYN'S GERMAN BALSAM will surely give relief from throat and lung troubles that often terminate in death. Instant relief in croup, and a substitute of whooping cough. Your consumptive friend will be greatly benefited. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

TOBACCO.

Systematic Experiments Needed To Test Different Localities for Tobacco-Growing.

Tobacco was almost the first crop that engaged the attention of the early settlers of this country. It probably exerted more influence on the settlement of the country than any other vegetable production. The colonists in Virginia and Maryland relied on it chiefly for support. For nearly a century it generally took the place of money. In some cases taxes were paid in tobacco. Ministers received their salaries in tobacco, and in Virginia tobacco were begun for a given number of pounds of tobacco. The colonists of Massachusetts gave as much attention to raising tobacco that they neglected the culture of food crops, and were at times in danger of starvation. The rulers of the colony found it necessary to compel the settlers to plant a certain amount of land each year to food crops in order to prevent distress among the people. The early prosperity of Virginia was largely due to the production of tobacco, a large proportion of which was sent to Europe. The first settlers of Maryland became rich by raising tobacco. In early days tobacco was by far the most profitable crop in Kentucky and Tennessee, as it could be transported down the Mississippi and its tributaries to New Orleans to much better advantage than grain. The first settlers of Illinois and Missouri found tobacco to be the best market crop, and it exerted a powerful influence on the settlement of those states.

The cultivation of tobacco in the northern states is of somewhat recent origin. For more than a century it was raised to a limited extent for home consumption in Pennsylvania and New York, but it did not take its place among the crops raised for market till the period of the late civil war. Some experiments made in the valley of the Connecticut river were very successful. A leaf was produced which was very desirable for cigar-wrappers. It is somewhat deficient in fine flavor, but it is large, strong, thin, and free from blemishes. For the purpose for which it is generally used it is superior to the tobacco produced in any other part of the world. The culture of tobacco was undertaken in Michigan and Wisconsin almost as soon as these states were settled, and has continued till the present time. In several counties in Wisconsin it has during the past few years become a leading crop for the market. In many places it has taken the place of hops, that were till lately extensively cultivated. The seasons are so short that it is necessary to cut and house the plants before they have obtained their full growth, in order to escape injury from the frost. Still the crop is a profitable one, as is shown by the prosperity of the farmers engaged in raising it. A visit from the assessors and their districts of Wisconsin will convince anyone that tobacco is a source of substantial wealth.

Although tobacco is of tropical or sub-tropical origin, experiments have demonstrated that it can be produced in every state and territory in the country. Perhaps it can not be profitably produced in all of them, but this fact has never been determined. No plant is so greatly influenced by peculiarities of soil and climate as tobacco. Meteorological observations and soil analyses have accomplished very little toward determining whether a good quality of tobacco can be produced in a given locality. Experiments are necessary to decide this matter. That there are many places in the country capable of producing as fine tobacco as any ever raised in Connecticut or North Carolina is very likely. Considering how important a factor tobacco is in the accumulation of the wealth of the nation it seems somewhat remarkable that no systematic attempt has ever been made to ascertain where it can be produced at a profit. The department of agriculture has expended enormous sums in attempts to introduce the culture of the tea plant and in trying to build up a sugar industry in the northern states, but it has done very little toward increasing the production of tobacco or in ascertaining where the best soil and climate are. Very few of the state agricultural societies or boards have done anything toward answering, in the past, one of the questions which is a vast source of wealth to the country. The adaptability of the soil and climate of any locality to the production of tobacco of good quality has generally been determined by accident. Some new settler coming from a part of the country where tobacco is a leading crop, brought a little seed with him and planted it in a garden bed. He raised a few plants which he cured in a shed and found the quality to be good. The next year he planted more and demonstrated that it would succeed as a field crop. Having succeeded in finding a market for it, he engaged quite extensively in its cultivation. His neighbors then followed his example and in a few years tobacco became a leading product, in the neighborhood. In the course of time its culture extended into all the adjacent sections of country having a similar soil and climate. It is likely that the Indians showed greater enterprise in introducing tobacco into new localities than the whites have. Had the national department of agriculture shown as much interest in tobacco culture as it has in the raising of tea and sorghum the value of this country in the country for the production of this crop would have been determined years ago. But tobacco has never been a pet crop with any of our commissioners of agriculture.

It is not likely that tobacco will ever prove to be a very suitable crop for the large unprotected prairies. The tobacco plant may make a very rank growth on black prairie soil, but the quality of the leaf will not be likely to be good. It may be used for making plug tobacco, but it will not be fit for cigars. The high winds that sweep across the large prairies are almost certain to injure the leaves of tobacco so that they will be unfit for cigar-wrappers. Observation shows that a broken, partially-wooded country, where there is protection from winds, is the most suitable for tobacco-raising. Cheap lumber, suitable for the erection of drying barns, is essential to the success of the tobacco industry, as is a supply of timber for making poles to hang the plants on. Tobacco-raising requires an expensive outfit of implements. A common plow, hand-hoe, and a large cutting knife are all the tools necessary for raising and harvesting the crop. In many respects it is a good crop for farmers of small means to raise. Most of the work of raising and harvesting the crop is light. The operations of priming, topping, worming, suckering, and stripping can be performed by persons too young or too old to do most kinds of field work.

Beer and the British Laborer.

In the county of Herts I stopped to talk with a farmer who was cutting down his tall, handsome hay rick and heaping the hay for the London market. He was a lively, progressive sort of a man, who had been an emigrant to Australia, and after a long residence there had again returned to the home farm in England, and like many others who had lived years away from England, he had returned with many broad ideas in his mind. Speaking with him of the bad beer-drinking habits of the English laborers, he said the great trouble was they would not use the beer in moderation. A moderate use of beer he thought might be beneficial to them. I asked him to tell me what his idea of moderation in this regard was. He replied that in haying time, which in old as in New England is a period when the farm-hand is expected to work unusually hard, a laboring man ought to be able to get along on a gallon of beer a day. If the men would put up with about that quantity beer would not hurt them.

These very astonishing "temperance" views I afterward found advanced by other quite intelligent English farmers. In giving the statement of the vast number of arrests for drunkenness that are annually made in England, an American might be tempted to think laws are probably more strictly enforced in England than in any other country on the face of the earth. I found that many English laborers seemed to live almost entirely on beer. A very little bread and a large amount of beer seemed to make up their daily sustenance. I remember seeing an English laborer, who had himself plowed and hoed a large amount of beer, holding up before me a very small piece of bread and saying: "See this, one of our hard workers will make a day's food of this, if you will give him beer enough to go with it." I used frequently to see these beer-drinkers sitting in the taprooms at all times of the day, but they were in the habit of swarming into these places at night. It is often the custom for a little clique of British workmen to sit down around the plain pine table in the beer-house and begin the evening by ordering a quart or two-quart pot of beer between them. They pass this around from mouth to mouth with a "drink, mate," chatting the while. When the time for a second pot is, "Here, mister, another pot of beer!" and so they keep it up until the evening is over. The quantity of beer a English workingman will get away with is certainly astonishing. A Redfordshire man told me of a neighbor of his who was what they there termed a "moral quiet sort of a man," who, he said, "drinks the-lish carpenter," that is, a carpenter who has no regular job of it's own, but who did odd jobs at his trade out of doors, who made a regular practice of drinking two quarts of beer at a time. He would do this year in and year out and keep steadily at his work.—London Commercial Bulletin.

Shying Horses Are Near-Sighted.

"Why it is that shying in horses should be set down to an ugly disposition I don't know," said a prominent veterinary surgeon yesterday. "It must be because horsemen don't know what else to lay it to. The fact is that it seldom is met with unless the horse is near-sighted. I have noted scores of shying horses for near-sightedness, and in nearly all cases found what I expected. And now when I am asked to give points on buying horses I give this as one of the requisites. Never buy horse which is near-sighted. There are, however, two exceptions to this rule. If the horse is to have a mate, then it doesn't make any difference about the sight. One horse can go blind if the other is clear sighted. It is because he is so lonesome for relying on sidle be careful that he is not near-sighted, for he will throw you sooner or later.

"The reason why a near-sighted horse shies is very simple," the surgeon continued. "Of all animals the horse is the most gentle, and even timid. He is a strange object, and his susceptible mind magnifies it into a monster that he thinks to destroy him. Look at a white paper at the roadside in the night is a ghost, and it is only by the light which is a dragon. Every horseman knows that if you drive the animal near enough to the object the horse cools down at once. It is supposed that it is because the horse makes a closer acquaintance with the object. That is true, but not in the sense in which it is generally understood. The animal has not been able to see it from a distance. He is near-sighted."—New York Sun.

Wear and Tear of Gold.

The annual loss of gold, by attrition, shipwreck, fire, etc., is very small, not quite two tons, or £820,000. According to Soetens, gold coin loses 2 per cent in 100 years—that is £147,000 per annum on the actual amount, £736,000,000. The loss by shipwreck can not possibly be higher than one-sixth of the ratio of loss in sea-borne merchandise—say £2 for every £1,000 shipped, and as the quantity of sea-borne gold in 1871-83 averaged £50,000,000 per annum, the loss by shipwreck would be £100,000. If we allow £392,000 for loss by fires, we make up a total wear and tear of £980,000, or two tons, the existing stock being a trifle under 14,000 tons. McCulloch used to reckon for jewelers, loss, wear and tear, etc., about 1 per cent, which would be nearly £1,600,000 a year of our present stock.

The "consumption" by jewelry is probably even more now, but this now affects the question of a possible gold famine, since the jewelers' consumption goes to swell the unused reserve. It would appear that eighty years ago Birmingham jewelry was better made and stood than now, for I find in the Birmingham Journal of 1853 the following passage: "The pinchbeck metals have a twofold use—for manufacturers and for show. Its use is deficiency of color, the plate will be melted and colored. If it be gilt, after a long residence there had again returned to the home farm in England, and like many others who had lived years away from England, he had returned with many broad ideas in his mind. Speaking with him of the bad beer-drinking habits of the English laborers, he said the great trouble was they would not use the beer in moderation. A moderate use of beer he thought might be beneficial to them. I asked him to tell me what his idea of moderation in this regard was. He replied that in haying time, which in old as in New England is a period when the farm-hand is expected to work unusually hard, a laboring man ought to be able to get along on a gallon of beer a day. If the men would put up with about that quantity beer would not hurt them.

These very astonishing "temperance" views I afterward found advanced by other quite intelligent English farmers. In giving the statement of the vast number of arrests for drunkenness that are annually made in England, an American might be tempted to think laws are probably more strictly enforced in England than in any other country on the face of the earth. I found that many English laborers seemed to live almost entirely on beer. A very little bread and a large amount of beer seemed to make up their daily sustenance. I remember seeing an English laborer, who had himself plowed and hoed a large amount of beer, holding up before me a very small piece of bread and saying: "See this, one of our hard workers will make a day's food of this, if you will give him beer enough to go with it." I used frequently to see these beer-drinkers sitting in the taprooms at all times of the day, but they were in the habit of swarming into these places at night. It is often the custom for a little clique of British workmen to sit down around the plain pine table in the beer-house and begin the evening by ordering a quart or two-quart pot of beer between them. They pass this around from mouth to mouth with a "drink, mate," chatting the while. When the time for a second pot is, "Here, mister, another pot of beer!" and so they keep it up until the evening is over. The quantity of beer a English workingman will get away with is certainly astonishing. A Redfordshire man told me of a neighbor of his who was what they there termed a "moral quiet sort of a man," who, he said, "drinks the-lish carpenter," that is, a carpenter who has no regular job of it's own, but who did odd jobs at his trade out of doors, who made a regular practice of drinking two quarts of beer at a time. He would do this year in and year out and keep steadily at his work.—London Commercial Bulletin.

OVER A MILLION A WEEK.

The Greatest Newspaper Success of the Age.

The New York World

Has a Circulation of over

1,100,000

COPIES PER WEEK.

This has been secured by making it

The Best Newspaper

Published Anywhere on the Globe.

ITS WEEKLY EDITION.

THE WEEKLY WORLD,

$1.00 Per Year.

Is a Complete and Perfect Family Newspaper

Club Agents make from 30 cents to $2 on each subscription, by its grand premium offers. Agents make from $2 to $50 weekly by participating under special contracts made by THE WORLD. Send for Circulars.

It Pays to be an Agent for The World.

The World's Grand Premiums

AND

The World's Grand Combinations

Have Never Before Been Equalled.

Every person should know what they are, for they are of great value to them, usually saving from $2 to $50.

Address THE WORLD,

31 Park Row, New York.

For Hard Times.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL

AND

DEMOREST'S

ILLUSTRATED · MONTHLY

MAGAZINE

With Twelve Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR,

$3.10 (THREE TEN).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

OF ALL THE Magazines.

CONTAINING Stories, Poems and Sketches of literary attractions, combining Artistic, Scientific and Household matters.

Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and Fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a COUPON ORDER, entitling the holder to the selection of ANY PATTERN illustrated in that number, from our Bazar.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly entitled the World's Model Magazine. Its Lorgest in Form, the Largest in Circulation, and it's head TWO Dollar Family Magazine issued. 1886 will be the Twenty-Second year of its publication, during which time it has maintained and enhanced its position as to place it in the front rank of Family Periodicals and equal to any magazine. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8 x 11½ inches, elegantly designed and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York, AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE Charlevoix Journal at $3.10 Per Year.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Cigarettes, Pipes, Fancy Articles, Confectioners, Fruits, And Temperance Drinks. Corner Jefferson and Michigan Avenue, Jackson, Mich.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

We invite all to examine our Stock of Fine Cigars and Cheap Cigars. We will sell cheaper than any house in the trade. Largest assortment.

Also a Line

Made in N. Y.

For Sale by F. H. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00.

$100 REWARD

FOR

Every Ounce of Adulteration

IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

ESTABLISHED 1845.

The most popular Weekly newspaper devoted to the interests of Science, Mechanics, Inventions, Industries and patents everywhere. Illustrated with 100 engravings in each issue. Contains a large amount of useful information which no person should be without. Subscription price, $3.20 per annum. Discount to Clubs. Specimen copies sent free. Address MUNN & CO., Publishers of the Scientific American, 37 Park Row, New York. Also publishers of the Scientific American Supplement, a large 16 page paper, containing 100 engravings in each issue. Contains valuable information not in the regular edition. Subscription price, $5.00 per annum. Discount to Clubs. Specimen copies sent free. Address, MUNN & CO., Publishers of the Scientific American Supplement, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS.

Eighty Years' Experience. The Patent Office Work being transacted by the Publishers of the Scientific American, they are in a position to secure patents on the most favorable terms. Information and Advice Free. Patents secured by us are advertised in the Scientific American, the largest circulation of any paper devoted to patent matters. Our Hand-Book on the Patent Laws of the United States, 100 pages, sent free. Address, MUNN & CO., Publishers Scientific American, 37 Park Row, New York.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 131. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL

Published every Thursday,

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

Office on Bridge Street,

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Voyne, Kan., will collections promptly attended to.

JEW KRANK & GRIER, Attorneys at Law and Solicitors in Bankruptcy. Office in Rotterdam Block, Detroit, Mich. C. J. GRIER.

JOHN A. CALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agent. Office on Lake St., east of post office, Charlevoix, Mich.

FRANK M. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Rooms promptly attended to. CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

C. J. STRANG, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake St., Boyne, Mich.

J. M. SUNDERBY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate and Circuit Court Commissioner, Petoskey and Ex Rapids Stages.

HARRY J. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Circuit Court Commissioner, Grand Rapids, Mich. Post Jordan, Mich.

W. S. WEBB, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Abstracts a Specialty.

A. SAUBERT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at close of morning service. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. J. Y. VAN CLEEF, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School at close of morning service. Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. T. T. TOMPSON, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

BOERICKE'S Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Sponges, Syringes, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

LUDEN M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office and residence in Rockport, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. H. PEARSON, M. D. Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HENRY S. HUSSELA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

F. & A. M. Boyne Post No. 116, meets second Wednesday each month, at Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F. Round Lake Lodge No. 291, meets every Saturday evening. H. Gerlf, Sec.

F. & A. M. Boyne City Lodge No. 187, meets Saturday even'g on or before full moon.

I. O. O. F. Iron River No. 457, meets Saturday on or before full moon in Barnard's school house.

HAYNES Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets Friday on or before full moon. Hall over Hines'.

F. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.

BROWN & CO'S

BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,

Will receive for facilities and prompt attention which is larger than any other banking house in Northern lower Michigan. Interest on time deposits. Our facilities for collections are equal to any other house in Northern Michigan. Our efforts to collect promptly claims left with us, and our charges will be found as low as any house. Our facilities for buying and selling exchange on Europe are equal to any house. Our facilities to and from all points in Europe by Steamship tickets.

CORRESPONDENTS.

Chase National Bank, New York.
First National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. JERRIS, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class Sample Room for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House.

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,

RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Finest location in town, giving good view of lake and resorts. Express office, and headquarters for Petoskey and Ex Rapids Stages. Sample rooms for commercial travelers adjoining hotel.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

HATCHER & BLAIR, Proprietors.

East Jordan, - Michigan.

Have taking business at the county seat will do this the best conveyance place to stop, and by employing the best of hostlers to give the best satisfaction. TELEPHONE CONNECTIONS.

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton Michigan.

Very convenient for the traveling public.

GET THE BEST

Your neighbors want a clean, handsome, newly newspaper, giving all the latest and most complete news from all parts of the county, and being only 25 cents for this paper two months, or for four months, 25 cents for six months, $1.50 per year. Address,

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising may be taken for it IN NEW YORK.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING

Dr. CROUTER'S

BAKING POWDER

Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.

If you use it your biscuit will never taste of Soda.

It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.

It is made from PURE GRADE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops.

It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using freshened with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by

Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,

Chemist and Druggist,

BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

"TERRACE FARM,"

Charlevoix, Mich.

J. R. & J. S. DIXON,

DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.

Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins

A SPECIALTY. 118

New Goods!

I would call the attention of the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity to my new fall stock of

MILLINERY

AND

Fancy Goods.

Have also just received a fine stock of outside patterns in Dress Goods, such as Cashmeres, Serges, Silks, Satins and all the latest novelties, Ribbons, Ruchings, Laces, Handkerchiefs, and Collars. Call and examine my stock. I design to sell cheap for cash only.

Dress-Making Done to Order.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

DAILY STAGE

BETWEEN

Boyne City and Charlevoix.

LEAVES BOYNE CITY at 8 a. m., arriving at CHARLEVOIX, 11:30 a. m.

LEAVES CHARLEVOIX at 2 p. m., arriving at BOYNE CITY at 5:30 p. m.

Good Accommodations for Everybody.

W. H. COON, Proprietor.

WM. J. STEVENSON,

HORSE-SHOEING,

Wagon Shop,

BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Henry Wagons on hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons, of the best material, and WARRANT ALL WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CARPENTER, BARTHOLOMEW & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

The celebrated WHITE SEWING MACHINE for sale cheap for cash. 12

The Charlevoix Improvement Association

OFFICERS.

President—Byron Ross.
First Vice President—Rev. T. T. Tompson.
Second Vice President—Edson Sther.
Recording Secretary—Jas. Strang.
Financial Secretary—B. Sutfelds.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Executive Committee—J. Mitt Eaton, A. D. Crawlesmak, and A. L. Hurd.
Correspondence Committee—H. Lee Billings, W. A. Brown, and C. V. Case.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Bugbee, W. S. Webb, Jas. Strang, Geo. W. Crouter, A. Saubert, M. S. Sherwood, W. C. Cowan, E. M. Clark, H. Boeder.

OBJECTS.

To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises in Charlevoix, and to advance the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.

REGULAR MEETINGS.

At Charlevoix Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7:30 p. m.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

A GIFT Send 16 cents postage, and we will send you free a valuable box containing samples of goods that will put you in the way of making more money at once than anything else in America. Both sexes of all ages can live at home and work in spare time or all the time. Capital not needed. We will start you. Some have made over $50 in a day. Write at once. Address, TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine.

A Girl's Horoscope.

The summer is over. The season
Was cool at its beginning, you know;
This weather perhaps was the reason
That none of us enjoyed it so.

For the news found it cool in the city,
And the farmers were blue, it was thought
So we had every chance (what a pity!)
To wear our woolens and furs.

So Maud and Madeline and Lillie,
Viola, Narcissus, and I,
Were left in the whole (sad I admit)
To wait for next year—and to sigh.

For nothing is done in the winter
But hang up your fur and your clothes;
We hum aye, "My dear Arcturus,
And some be late out in prunes."

And when you walk out by the water,
And moonlight falls soft on the shore,
The prettiest moonlit pastoral daughter
Sings manfully heart-off a score.

I hope if we go three next seasons,
To girls, let half-moons and twelves,
Will come, and the moonlight be serious,
To just sing a song with themselves.

Of girls who were finishing and twenty,
With some who were near twenty-five,
There's ways enough to make a plenty,
And yet not a man would arrive.

Of all the sad things that happened
We wandered by moonlight and tide,
And found our sweetest conscience
A bridegroom, perhaps, with his bride!

We would stroll to the depot and steamer
Or down to the Narrows and back,
And the moon would be mighty generous,
And in, a new bevy of girls!

The coats and the hats were all wanting,
So we stayed indoors (sad to say),
And some gray-headed old noodle were mount
On our trail.

Do not (I thought) it was seven.

Another year's over (and be sorrful,
For a year one lose feathers and clothes,
Not to make it worse) I'm sorrful
For girls to be furnished with beaux!

The summer has vanished (sad fickle)
The forests are withered and sere;
So let our sweets be buried—
"The laurel is now a wooden spear."

—Joe Howard, in Harper's Magazine.

THE BENEVOLENT MILLIONAIRE.

A Visit to the Baroness Burdett-Coutts—Her Pets and Her Manners.

To Americans the Baroness Burdett-Coutts has always been a person of singular interest. Her wealth, her generous benefactions and romantic nature all appeal to us, for our sympathies are doubtless keener and finer than those of the English. At one of the very last receptions of the season, sitting somewhat apart in a fashion she drawing-room, I saw a slight old lady, then everybody arose to their feet. There was an instant and universal recognition in the attitude which she shown to royalty, but a unanimity and almost affectionate respect. The instant advanced with smiling face, and said: "How good of you, Baroness," and the hum of conversation was resumed again. Songs were sung by a great singer, and the musicians delivered by a well-known music actor, and the most interested and amused face—the most enjoying face in all the assembly—was that of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts.

When the people thinned out a little and I had an opportunity of talking with her, she shamed my heart. She has a very small, sweet face, deep blue eyes, soft, dark brown hair, without a gray thread in it, and her complexion, free from all artificialities, is perfectly fresh and healthy. Her manner is very quiet, simple and unassuming, and she is an excellent and sympathetic listener. We made famous headway together, and she said she would be happy to receive us on Saturday at her place near London, Holly Lodge.

It is a lovely drive to the lodge, past some of the model dwellings and through green lanes. We were met by a footman and asked if we had an appointment with "my lady?" We said no, but gave our cards, and a short walk on inlaid marble brought us to a long room covered with matting and draped in red and white bunting. The large French windows, close together, opened to the ground, and wicker-work chairs, tables and settees of every conceivable shape and design furnished the room. At the back was a line of cases filled with geological specimens, all labeled and numbered in the neatest manner. This room opened into a small, light, well-filled conservatory, and the again communicated with the drawing-room. Such a pretty, quaint, restful, old-fashioned room it was. A carpet with a white ground, covered with roses, covered the floor; the furniture was enamel in bright, fresh, flowered chintz. Several uncovered chairs, in dainty embroidery, bore on their faces loving gifts to the owner. A large photograph of a beautiful and distinguished-looking lady in a frame hung close to the door, and on the white margin, in a careful, pretty hand, was written: "Miss Coutts, from her friend Sophie" (Queen of the Netherlands). The grand piano in the center was covered by an Japanese and very ugly piece of fancy work. The facings of cloth used in the soldiers' uniforms were shaped in small diamonds and sewn together; red, black, blue, yellow, lilac, green, all toppled against each other in the most inartistic manner. This, too, was doubtless a gift from grateful hands to the ever open-hearted owner. Large looking-glasses and many pictures covered the light walls, and tables laden with priceless bric-a-brac stood here and there about the room. On one was a beautiful specimen of Bellak china, a rose-tinted shell resting on the graceful necks of three swans.

We had waited fifteen minutes, when the Baroness appeared. She had been some distance in the garden, and had walked hurriedly; so her cheeks were flushed with exercise, her eyes were bright with health. She seemed manifestly glad to see us, and after a few moments' conversation, said she must show us a little more of her home. The ordinary rooms are large and delightfully arranged. The wall pictures were especially interesting to a lover of animals. All the Baroness' pets, those by famous artists, adorn the walls. Cows, birds, cockatoos, dogs, donkeys and sheep live on canvas. Her own favorite mantel-piece is a singular-looking black dog with an almost white breast. "Yes," the Baroness said, "he was very strange in appearance, and very accomplished. My sister bought him from some German players. One of his tricks was taking a rolled coin out of his mouth, and his teeth were quite worn down." He had a heroic face, a square jaw and intense eyes that spoke of past suffering. It is pleasant to think of his last days, prosperous and happy, with nothing harder to do than to carry a lady's dainty beaded bag in his jaws every month.

"Ben," a small fox terrier that had not left the Baroness' side, listened jealously to the conversation, for he snuggled close and presently triumphantly returned, carrying a round white stone in his mouth. The Baroness says her favorite amusement is their pets for her when ill or troublesome, for she is as kind to animals as to humanity.

In the second drawing-room there are some wonderful pale aquamarine windows, with grandly stately groups on them of draped and rounded female figures; the hangings are all of the same pale tint, and the whole room is a suggestion of the earliest and tender eve of Spring days. Out of this room is a fernery, and then into the garden, where we had tea in beautiful old-fashioned flowered china. There was a great political discussion going on, in which the Baroness was animated and interested; like every true woman, she looks at her husband's opinions from a purely personal view. Mr. Burdett Coutts was away laying a corner stone or opening a railway. She speaks of him with a sureness that indicates the complete congeniality between them. Indeed, she is a woman whose age no man or woman would stop to consider, intelligent and conversant with a great variety of subjects, she has gathered about her life friends for whom life seems always busy and kind and useful. Her income is occupied mainly in taken memorial times, as time has passed her lightly by, going on to bless those women who watch with heart-breaking anxiety for crows' feet.

Her pets are famous. The flower beds are more unstudied than curious roses, pinks, geraniums, lilies, larkspurs, all pets each other.—From the New York Sun.

A sad accident at Lisshonvarna, County Clare, is reported. It appears two sisters, named Anne and Mary Connell, were gathering seaweed. To reach some which was near the water one of the young women lowered the other down the face of a cliff by means of a rope tied around her body. At length the strain of the weight became too much for the strength of the girl above and she was dragged over. Both girls were killed. Their dead bodies were found locked in each other's arms.

GREAT GUNS.

Ordnance at the London International Exhibition of Inventions.

The department of military ordnance forms one of the most important, if not the most interesting, features of this exposition.

It may seem deplorable to the non-combatant, says a London correspondent of a German paper, that the inventive genius of the last twenty-five years has applied itself so extensively and successfully to the improvement of engines of destruction, and it also may furnish a singular comment upon the English claim of leading the world in peaceful pursuits that she has given to the engines of peaceful industries so marked a prominence in this exhibition. This is probably largely due to the late Russo-Afghan difficulties, the object, doubtless, being to astonish the foreigner, as well as gratify the pride of the native.

Just back of the main entrance, and next to the hall decorated with twenty-four frescoes representing the historical development of industry, and where such a surprise would be least expected, the modernest form of a breech-loading steel cannon meets the eye of the visitor.

The muzzle is over 7 inches in diameter, and its projectiles weigh 250 pounds apiece. The velocity of the projectile at the muzzle is nearly 2,000 feet per second, and at a distance of 3,000 feet has still a velocity of 1,600 feet. According to the report of the special catalogue of the English war department, this rifled piece of ordnance will pierce a steel plate 15 inches in thickness at the muzzle and one 10 inches at a distance of 3,000 feet. From this exhibition and report, doubts are expressed in military circles on the continent as to whether the manufacture of English ordnance is quite up to the times. Of course this suspicion is scouted at by the English, who point with pride to the above-described piece, weighing about ten tons, and declare it is but a baby compared with the monsters that are manufactured at the Armstrong ordnance works; that two of these enormous cannons, constructed for the new English man-of-war Benbow, are each ten times the weight of this, with over a three-foot bore, throwing a projectile of 2,000 pounds, and capable of piercing a steel plate more than 24 feet thick at a distance of 3,000 feet.

A large number of guns of smaller caliber, with all their appliances, are also here on exhibition. But specimens of the most modern inventions of repeating artillery—regular shooting engines—attracted the greatest interest.

The French "mitrailleuse," most famous during the Franco German war, seems to have been but the embryo of the automatic gun now on exhibition.

The Gatling gun, an American invention, is also here. It is constructed of ten rifled barrels, revolving upon an axle. The cartridges are placed in a reservoir above the barrels and fall into place in the breech-piece as required. This engine of destruction is capable of firing from 800 to 1,000 shots per minute.

Another gun of similar construction is the invention of Mr. Hotchkiss, an American, also. Some of the Gardner and Nordenfelt guns are present. But Maxim, another American, is the most prominent and most perfect of this variety of artillery. The firing rapidity of all these guns is indeed astonishing. With one of the lettered Nordenfelt, 100 consecutive shots of 10 shots each, or 1,000 in all, were fired in 90 seconds. All of this class of guns, with the exception of the Maxim, are constructed with two or more parallel barrels, and require for their manipulation the services of several men. The loading, firing, and withdrawing of the bulls is accomplished, of course, through the turning of a crank, or as with the Nordenfelt through the movement of a lever. But the Maxim guns have the advantage over all the others, in that they are entirely automatic. Maxim makes use of the power developed by the recoil and of the pressure of the escaping gases to force out the bull as well as to load and fire. It requires but once the services of a gunner, the operation of loading and firing proceeding unaided at the rate of six hundred

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

FORTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

CONGRESS reassembled after the holiday adjournment, on Tuesday, Jan. 5, and at once opened business in a lively fashion. Numerous bills were introduced in both houses. In the Senate the credentials of John W. Daniel, of Virginia, were presented. A bill was passed to legalize the Ninth Territorial Assembly of Wyoming, and the House was informed to substitute all the duties on gold coin and currency in reserve funds for the present, and to report measures for a permanent disposition of surplus revenues. Times in the House: to repeal so much of Edmunds' act as limits the right of people to vote for the election of commissioners in Washington; to authorize the issue of U. S. Treasury notes to the amount of $5,000,000 to establish a national university in the District of Columbia; to provide for the issuance of gold and silver; to provide for the adjustment of banks in Indiana to accounts. A number of bills were introduced from the States of Illinois, a number relative to ex-President Garfield. The Senate Committee on Appropriations, reporting the Pendleton bill to provide for the disbursement of unappropriated money in the Treasury at the end of the present fiscal year, gave notice of intention to bring up the bill for action. Mr. Hoar, from the committee on Elections, reported the Dawes bill to provide for the protection of the Chief Executive of the United States in the exercise of his duties, and to provide for the succession in case of his death, inability, resignation or removal from office. Mr. Edmunds, from the committee on Judiciary, reported the bill to provide for the succession in case of the death of the President and Vice President. Mr. Wilson introduced a joint resolution to amend the Constitution so as to make the Secretary of the Treasury a member of the Cabinet. Mr. Sherman, from the committee on Finance, reported back the House bill to provide for the issue of certain gold and silver certificates, with a recommendation that it be passed. The bill was subsequently taken up and passed. The act was simply to authorize the issue of certificates against gold and silver bullion and standard silver dollars. Mr. Plumb, from the committee on Pacific Railroads, reported back the House bill to provide for the forfeiture of the unearned portion of land grants

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Notes and News.

There is a good deal of chuckling in the ultra republican shops over the vote by which the rules of the house of representatives were amended. It is plainly intimated that the republican vote, by the help of which the amendment was carried, was given in the belief and hope that the democracy under the new rules will be unduly lavish in expenditure. And the inference is frankly drawn that the combination which will then be visited upon the democracy will insure to republican benefit. This may be a true statement of the motive which prompted republicans who voted for the amendment of the rules. If so, it is not creditable to them. If the democrats were to become extravagant under the new rules, the people would not be likely to find them any more responsible than the party which boasts of endeavoring to make them extravagant. But it is not at all likely the democracy will tolerate extravagance under the new rules any more than it did under the old. The republican schemers will take nothing by their scheme but the opprobrium which is rightly visited upon reckless and dishonest. — Free Press.

In conversation with a Herald reporter, President Cleveland said recently: "I believe the most important benefit that I can confer on the country by my presidency is to insist upon the entire independence of the executive and legislative branches of the government and compel the members of the legislative branch to see that they have responsibilities of their own, grave and well defined, which their official oaths bind them to solemnly perform." The correspondent gives as his interpretation of the president's meaning that he will confine himself to making recommendations to congress as required by the constitution and signing or vetoing bills, and that he will require members of congress to confine themselves to the constitutional duties and not allow them to interfere with executive duties by soliciting or suggesting appointments to office, or, in other words to mind their own business.

The third assistant postmaster general has given the following hint which if acted upon would keep thousands of letters out of the dead letter office, and prevent boundless vexation: "Write or print your name and address, and the contents, if a package, upon the upper left hand corner of all mail matter. This will insure its immediate return to you for correction, if improperly addressed or insufficiently paid; and if not called for at its destination it can be returned to you without going to the dead letter office."

The first official act of the president was his signature to the commission of General U. S. Grant as general of the retired list of the army. The first law of congress which he was called upon to approve was the bill to pension the widow of General U. S. Grant.

It is said Miss Cleveland is as pronounced in her views on the temperance question as Mrs. Hayes.

There has been a rise in the price of iron of $1 per ton.

Presidential Succession.

The presidential succession bill reduces the importance both of the presidency of the senate pro. tem. and of the speakership of the house. Both are omitted from the line of succession. The secretary of state is made third in succession, coming after the vice president, who is docked by the people. It will no longer be proper to speak of the president of the senate pro. tem., as the vice president. The effect of the bill is to preserve to the people the administration of affairs in the hands of the party which succeeds at the election. The dangers of assassination from party motives and for party purposes are entirely removed. In case of President Cleveland's death or disability, Mr. Bayard will succeed until a new election for the remainder of the term can be held. The republican senate, in conceding to the passage of this bill, has acted in a very worthy spirit, and removed all occasion for uneasiness.

Michigan in the House.

Speaker Carlisle in making up the house committees, selected Mr. Eldridge chairman of the committee on pensions; Maybury, ways and means, and education; Carleton, rivers and harbors; Winans, agriculture; Cutcheon, military affairs; Burrows, post-offices and post roads; Tarsney, commerce and labor; Fielser, patents; Conntock, war claims and shipbuilding. All the Michigan men have bills or improvements in their special interests.

Hard Times.

While money is close, wages and prices low, everyone should be cut down every household, money the watch word for Mothers, head off doctors bills, by always keeping in the house a bottle of Dr. Bonsacks Cough and Lung Syrup which is a Cough Insurance Policy. Guaranteed. See Circus and notice in the Circus page. Price 25 cents and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by druggists. 3

Sunset Review.

From George S. Merriam's "Study in Independent Journalism" in the October century, we quote the following:

"The locality in which Mr. Bryan first showed eminence was skilling gathering news. Said Mr. Bryan, who was added to the paper's force in 1852: 'He and I would go into a little restaurant on Sanford street, and one and another would drop in and exchange a few words, and while we were eating our lunch he would pick up half a column of news.' Said a friend in a neighboring town: 'I would meet him on the street, we would chat a few minutes about the events of the day, and next morning I would find in the paper everything I had told him.' In the political convention which he attended and reported, he was in his native element. He buttonholed everybody, and offended nobody; found out the designs of every caucus, the doings of every secret caucus, got at the plans of the leaders, the temper of the crowd, and of the whole situation; and the next morning's Republican gave a better idea of the convention to those who had stood at home than many of the reports had gained. These reporting expeditions were full of adventure to him. His tide of growth was by absorption. Other people were to him sponges out of which he deftly squeezed whatever knowledge they could yield.

"It was commonly said that to seek redress from the Republican did more harm than good. The trait was partly due to deliberate mischievousness to weaken the paper's authority by omission of error. But it was probably due to a personal idiosyncrasy. In many ways a most generous man, Mr. Bryan always hated to admit that he had been in the wrong. Sometimes he did it—not often—in private life; but in his paper never, when he could help it. We sometimes discussed this," said Dr. Hallanan, and he once said: 'I sympathize with the Boston editor, to whom a man came with the complaint, 'Your paper says that I hanged myself, and I want you to take it back.' 'No,' said the editor, 'we're not in the habit of doing that, but we will say that the rope broke and you escaped.'"

"But it must be said that this fault lies at the door of a great many papers besides the Republican. It is a characteristic sin of journalism—one of the vices of irresponsible power."

An enterprising couple of New Orleans is said to have had three hundred articles rejected before one was published.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

HARDWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON TONGUES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Grant Streets.

A. J MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially in the neighborhoods of the southwestern part of town, and all others who may favor him, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Grant streets, and repeats all to give him a call.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a writ of fieri facias, issued out of the circuit court, for the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, against the goods and chattels and real estate of Susan Walker, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, to me directed and delivered, I did on the fifth day of November, A. D. 1886, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, levy on all the right, title and interest of the said Susan Walker, in and to the following described property, viz: The south ½ of sec. 36 (ten certain pieces and parcel of land described as follows, to wit: The n. w. ¼ of the n. w. ¼ of sec. 25, south, range 7 west, all of which I shall expose for sale at public auction or vendue, to the highest bidder, at the south door of the court house, in the village of Boyne City, in said Charlevoix county, that is the place of holding the circuit court of the said county of Charlevoix, on the 25th day of February, next at one o'clock, in the afternoon.

Dated this 5th day of January, A. D. 1886.

HIRAM GIDLEY, SHERIFF.

CHAPOUSKI & LEACH,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send 10 cents for 1886 Cosmopolitan, postage, and you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in gifts with each box. Agents wanted everywhere of either sex, of all ages, for all the time or spare time only, to work for us at their own homes. Business new, pleasant, and strictly honorable. Address TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine. 1m

Farm for Sale or Exchange.

One hundred acres of the best farming land, 40 acres improved, over 400 maple trees tapping, good buildings, seven miles from Charlevoix, will take horses, cattle or sheep in exchange for other property. For further particulars inquire at this office. 1m

WIN some money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 4m

CURE—We have for distribution a number of copies of the annual report of the Michigan State Board of Health for 1884, which may be had by subscribers of the JOURNAL on application at this office.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed by Ira Davis, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Ira Davis, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, of the second part, recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in and for the county of Charlevoix, on the twelfth day of September, A. D. 1881, in liber "A" of Mortgages, page 86, which mortgage was on the second day of March, A. D. 1885, assigned by said William H. Davis, of Charlevoix county, Michigan, to Mary Mckinnon, of Detroit, Michigan, assignee of said mortgage, recorded on the fourth day of March, A. D. 1885, in the office of said register of deeds, in said county, on page 526, by virtue of which default the power of selling said mortgage contained in said mortgage has become operative, and whereas, at the date of the said mortgage there was claimed to be due and payable on said mortgage and the notes and debts secured thereby, and interest thereon, the sum of twenty-six hundred dollars, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted at any time to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the whole thereof is now owing and payable, and whereas, there is claimed to be due on said mortgage, at the date of sale hereinafter mentioned, the sum of twenty-six hundred dollars, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted at any time to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the whole thereof is now owing and payable, and no suit or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover the debt now remaining secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof, whereupon the power of sale contained in the said mortgage has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises herein described at public vendue, at the house of Ira Davis, in the village of the Town Hall, in the township of South Arbor, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, which is the place of holding the circuit court for said county, on Friday, the 23d day of April next, at one o'clock in the afternoon, which premises are described in the said mortgage as follows, to wit: Lots twenty (20) and twenty-one (21) in block number twelve (12) in the village of Charlevoix, according to the recorded plat thereof, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan.

Dated December 30th, A. D. 1885.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.,
Mortgagee.

CHUBBS AND A. GRIFFIN,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Notice of Stray Beasts.

Came into the enclosure of the subscriber, Hayes, Charlevoix county, Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that on about the 25th day of October, A. D. 1885, one dark bay mare, about 7 years old, with no brand or mark, about eight years old, with one horse colt, light sorrel color, white spot in forehead, colt about six months old, strayed on my premises and came in said township of Hayes and now remains in my enclosure, and that I claim the same.

Dated November 4th, A. D. 1885.

JAMES W. BENNETT.

The above notice was filed in township clerk's office November 4th, A. D. 1885, and copy sent to county clerk November 4th, A. D. 1885.

HIRAM GIDLEY, Township Clerk.
Hayes Township, Charlevoix Co., Mich.

HELP for all who are in need of money, we will send free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and do the work in your spare time or all the time. Some have made over $50 in a single evening. Many have made from $5 to $10 in a day. All who see your sample box are astonished at the ease and rapidity with which they can make money. Any person can do the work and live at home. Any person who is not a fool can easily make a fortune by devoting their whole time to our business, we make this unparalleled offer. To those who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Some have made more than the amount we ask for a day's work. Now is the time. You should commence at once. You can't do anything else in this world. All of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the worker, ready to make us rich. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 4m

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage, and we will send you free a valuable box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the worker, ready to make us rich. Address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen, at the Old Stand.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.

Have a full Assortment of

WOOLEN BLANKETS AND LUMBERMEN'S SUPPLIES.

Six, Six and a Half, and Seven Foot Saws. Double and Single Bitted Axes, Steel Sledges and Wedges. Rubber Goods of all Kinds. Felt Boots, Mackinaw and German Socks, etc. etc. Women and Childrens Buckle Arctics, Olivetts, Snow Excluders, Imitation Sandals, and in short everything of use in the Camp or Household.

PINE LAKE IRON CO., Ironton, Mich.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES & RANGES

BARGAINS.

The Perfection Axe.

BEST SIX FOOT SAWS.

Cant Hooks and Steel Wedges.

STOVES, HARDWARE AND TINWARE, TIN AND JOB WORK.

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more used than any other plug in the State. It is always in good order, NEVER TOO HARD AND NEVER SWELLS; GIVE GOOD SATISFACTION, and is sold by all dealers. ASK YOUR GROCER FOR THE PURE, OLD, MELLOW, NEVER SICKS ON THE DEPOT'S HANDS. Beware of any other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.

Petersburg, Va.

ANOTHER INVOICE

JUST RECEIVED.

SILVERWARE

CLOCKS,

JEWELRY.

C. R. BELLINGER.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

Upright & Harlbut Addition,
Charlevoix,

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Jan. 7, 1886.

Watch Your Address Label.

Into which each subscriber is paid up or credited. Here is the system: On the address label every person's account stands, and it and others are respectfully requested to examine it.

Slides

Show to what time the subscription is paid for, in the following form: From this evening, January 7, 1886, subscriber will be entitled to the JOURNAL as follows:

Those whose label does not show a date subsequent to this, will please consider themselves in arrears, and if any mistake may be found, report it to Editor.

CHARLEVOIX POSTOFFICE.

Winter Arrangement.

Mails Close.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

Mail Closes.—Boyne City 12.45 p. m. Boyne City Arrives 1.00 p. m. Boyne City, p. m. Ironton 1.00 p. m. Ironton, p. m. Boyne City 1.00 p. m.

Postmaster will please to properly report and correct if necessary to close of Send 15 days' notice of discontinuance of any service.

Boyne City, p. m. Ironton 12.45 p. m. Ironton, p. m. Boyne City 1.45 p. m.

CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

Lady's gold watch and necklace, with tiger's eye charm and locket between the jaws of the tiger, found in Lake Michigan. The finder will have interest at this office and be suitably rewarded.

Do you want an eighteen paper? The New York Weekly World is one of the most noteworthy newspapers in the United States. Furnished with the JOURNAL for only $2.00 per year.

We wish to call special attention to our combination snow-scraper and lumberman's rubber. A very exclusive article. LITSINGER & EMERY.

Buy a pound of New Era Baking Powder of L. & E. and get a box of cigars, scissors and plate, for Steele Upright & Emery.

We have one of underwear review today. Gents' caps, soft, warm, comfortable. Upright & Emery.

Springfield house blankets, 84 per pair at J. L. Hurd & Co.

New J. L. Hurd & Co's great bargains in CANNED GOODS.

Look for Indes at Jefferies' Lake.

Fresh Oysters at Jefferies' Lake.

Best fresh butter at Jefferies' Lake.

Local Notes and News.

GEORGE J. STRANG, Editor.

Ed Parmelee and wife returned to Petoskey Tuesday.

C. W. Dunsmore, of East Jordan mills is a mill set Tuesday.

Jos Ingalls, of Boyne City, made the JOURNAL a call last Saturday.

A. C. Freeman, agent of the Detroit Salt Co., was in town Monday.

Jas Gaskins moving into the mill yard at the rate of about 20 M. ft. per day.

Ryan want to buy a lot of old papers, cheap, call at the JOURNAL office.

Sinking and ice boating were freely indulged in on Round Lake last Sat urday.

Seven men are kept constantly at work at Edinburg's mill setting nails.

Henry Aldrich left yesterday for Grand Rapids where he will take a course in business college.

Mr Parker has his fishhouse on ice on Pine Lake, and reports good success in fishing in the trout.

Geo Van Duzen, of Petoskey, has finally succeeded in convincing the authorities that he deserves a pension.

Hugh Ingalls has closed his hackery for the winter and returned to Harbor Springs. He will return in the spring.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 19th, will be the regular meeting of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A. M. A full attendance desired.

A minstrel troupe, all home talent, will camp the boards in Charlevoix in the near future. The boys will no doubt draw full houses.

The prospect is good for a new industry in Charlevoix, in the form of a market garden. Mr. P. A. Earl, Lansing, Ill., is here prospecting with a view to locating.

What means this beautiful day, with no bright sunlight? Shall we look for a January thaw, or is it only a transit of mists from the southern to give us another storm?

The G. R. Grand March by Wagnal is certainly one of the most delicate and fascinating little marches on record. Price 40 cents. Ignatz Fabian, publisher, Toledo, Ohio.

A good report comes in from school district No. 3, Edith Cole teacher, in which it appears that the following pupils have been neither absent nor tardy for the term ending Dec. 31: Annie Ingalls, John Galbreath, Frank Shirley, Lucretia Hagerman, Ella Shirley, Richard Freeman. She speaks well for both teacher and scholars.

By an arrangement with the Blakely band, our boys' cornet band take an interest in the masquerade at the opera house on Feb. 22d, and propose to make it one of the most successful parties of the season.

Our friend and class mate, E. O. Lashl, of Old Mission, has read a paper before the Peninsula Farmers Club, that is attracting a great deal of merited attention. His subject was, "The Influence of the Press upon Agriculture."

Last Friday, being the birthday of Miss Gladys Jefferies, in the evening the young people (and some who were older) called upon her in squads of a dozen or more, bringing baskets of good things for the occasion. All seemed to have come in the spirit of the poet who said, "And mirth is an contrived," and went away with the wish that birthdays came oftener than once a year.

Clement J. Strang, of Dowagiac, brother of C. J. Strang, of the Charlevoix Journal, has accepted a position in the editorial and business departments of that paper. We believe Mr. Strang is a Delta boy from cimpter Iota and we extend our hand to East Jordan Enterprise. We are happy to grasp the sleeve of your jacket in agitation, and live in hopes at same not very distant day to perform the same feat in reality.

A card from L. D. Bartholomew shows that his party, consisting of his family, E. Carpenter and family, and M. J. Stockman and wife, arrived at New Orleans on Jan. 2d, visited various places of interest on the 3d, the exposition on the 4th, and started for Jacksonville, Fla. on the 5th. They found the weather quite warm, and experienced a severe thunder storm the first night in New Orleans.

Sunday afternoon was cold and stormy yet there were seventeen readers of papers at the public reading room. During the week there were eighty two patrons. This is an encouraging beginning; yet how many more might avail themselves of the benefits of this institution. Mr. Eaton, observing the need of a clock, has taken his office clock over and hung it up for the benefit of the public. Now, if the good people of the village would look again and if goes slide find another picture or two which they can hang upon the walls for a time, the equipment will be complete.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat of Jan. 3d, contained the following items of interest concerning our people now on a visit in the south: "Mr. L. D. Bartholomew, of Charlevoix, Mich, is on a visit to the Exposition. Mr. Bartholomew is accompanied by his wife and three children, and is quartered at the European Hotel, 76 St. Charles street. This gentleman is one of Michigan's most prominent merchants, and is a citizen that that progressive state may well be proud of." * * * "Arrivals at European Hotel: L. D. Bartholomew and wife, Miss Minnie Bartholomew, Miss Winnifred Bartholomew, Master Bartholomew, Egbert Carpenter and wife, Miss Lillian Carpenter, M. J. Stockman and wife, Charlevoix, Mich."

The Historical Society.

Since the beginning of long evenings the interest in the historical society has increased, although never in its history has there been any very perceptible wane of interest. We are indebted to Al. Washburn for the following program for last Friday evening:

Violin Solo—P. A. Cochran.

Select reading—Mrs. W. A. Brown, "Man was Made to Mourn."

Vocal duet—Al. T. Washburn and Miss Hettie Mills, "Go where the Mists are Sleeping."

Select reading—Miss Alice Cochran, "Tint Cloon."

Intermission.

Vocal duet—Al. Washburn and Miss Aggie Miller, "Oh yah, don't dat yas fine."

Paper—H. Lee Iddings, "Sir Walter Scott."

Vocal duet—Mrs. E. M. Clark and Mr. A. F. Dreyer.

Select reading—Dr. J. A. Carlstein, "Ayah."

Especial praise was elicited by the paper. Scotland's great novelist and poet holds a place in the minds of the English speaking people that is held by few thoroughbred Englishmen. Those with a metaphysical turn of mind incline to Tennyson; but those who delight in pen pictures of character and human nature can find what they delight in, nowhere better than in Scott.

The next meeting is at Mrs. Nelson Ainslie's. The paper is upon "Alfred the Great," by Miss Lena Washburn.

"What Tommy Did."

We are in receipt of a little volume from John B. Alden, publisher, New York, entitled "What Tommy Did." Our comments on it are from a lady's journey. John Habbecoles, author of "Helen's Babies," says: "'What Tommy Did' would be worthy of the serious consideration of parents if it were possible for anyone to be other than wildly unfitful over the saintliness and dreadfulness of the little hero. Tommy is an ideal boy—one of the kind which are by turns unendurable and angelic, which changes parents from young to old, and from old to young again many times a day. We pity parents who fail to read this book, there is no time in the day, nor any day in the week, in which its pages will not dispel care." The Chicago Tribune pronounces it a book that "will delight every boy and girl, and every mother, too, who will find in it a book that can be read over and over again to suit the insatiable appetites of youthful listeners, and yet never sicken the reader with any weakness or nonsense in its composition." It has just been published in dainty, delightful shape, fine cloth, richly ornamented binding, by Alden, the "Revolution" publisher, at half its former price, 50 cents. Alden's 128-page illustrated catalogue (price 4 cents—condensed catalogue free), of its immense list of standard books, is a wonder as well as joy to book lovers. John B. Alden, Publisher, New York.

Charlevoix Telephone Exchange.

The JOURNAL reprints this week the list of subscribers to the Charlevoix telephone exchange, with the suggestion that it be clipped and pasted upon each instrument for easy reference:

1. Stockman & Iddings, Hardware, Stoves, Tinware, Pipe, Pumps, Oils, Machinery.
2. J. T. Bell, Residence.
3. Chicago Lake Resort.
4. Charlevoix City House.
5. A. C. Loveday, Residence.
6. J. A. Carlstein, M. D. Office and Residence.
7. Shanley Mill.
8. Geo. W. Miller, Grocery.
9. For the Telephone, Stratford Office and W. U. Telegraph.
10. City Hall, Fire Alarm.
11. L. Lewis, M. D., Office and Residence.
12. L. D. Hurd & Co., Groceries, Crockery, Fruits and Provisions.
13. Charlevoix Hotel.
14. Charlevoix Summer Resort.
15. Upright & Emery, Dry Goods, Groceries, Supplies, Wood, Bark, Etc.
16. A. J. McLeod, Meat Market.
17. Chas. A. Cox, Bank.
18. W. T. Stone, M. D., Office and Residence.
19. John S. Cook, Dairy Farm.
20. H. Bishop, County Sheriff and Village Marshal.
21. N. W. Jefferies, Meat Market.
22. Geo. A. Leonard & Co., Brush-handle Factory.
23. Burns & Stewart, Livery Barn.
24. G. W. Crooker, Residence.
25. F. J. Monroe, Residence.
26. A. Bertram, Residence.
27. Cooper, Office at East Jordan, S. B. Thatcher, Clerk; O. Blair, Treasurer; F. J. Cooper, Superintendent.
28. C. W. Crooker, soaps and Stationery.
29. H. C. Cooper, Furniture and Undertaking, Office.
30. H. J. Harbor, Residence, East Jordan.
31. MAY LAKE SERVICE. Old Mission, Traverse City Exchange (subscribers): Arnee, Elk Rapids Exchange (subscribers): Round Lake: Alwood, Norwood, Wheeler, Ellsworth, Subscribers; H. & O. Telegraph Office, Barber Siding (subscribers); Cross Village Exchange, Ironton, Rock, Elm, East Jordan, Twilight's Landing, Advance, Boyne City.

C. W. CROFTER, Manager.

Judicious Advertising

Creates many a new business,
Enlarges many an old business,
Revives many a dull business,
Resents many a lost business,
Saves many a failing business,
Preserves many a large business,
Secures success in any business,
Stamps the advertising world, men of business. Ex.

There is more truth than poetry in the above, when due emphasis is given the word "judicious."

Episcopal Visitation.

On Sunday, January 24th, Bishop Gillespie expects to be in Charlevoix. He wishes to meet all persons interested, but any candidates for baptism or confirmation. Divine service morning and evening. Place announced next week.

Florence, the actor, tells this little story: "I can remember," he said, "years and years ago, going to a dinner given at Fourteenth street, given to Morse, the telegraph inventor. He was an elegant old gentleman, but when he got on his legs to talk he was awful long-winded. I had a friend with me. We listened to Morse's speech, which he predicted great things for electricity. I remember he predicted, too, that some day man would be able to talk over the wires for distances of fifty miles, and that every ship that left harbor for an ocean voyage would be connected with the land by wires. When he got that far my friend said: 'What rot!' and we went out. I have obtained renownedness now foolish his talk sounded to me! Yet it has been all realized, except as regards ships at sea. I believe even that will come about some day."

MARY FARMAN, the unsuspicious Oxford professor and literary man, lately deceased, gave this account of his meeting an American young lady at a foreign table d'hote: "She was only 19, but she knew everything. She told me she exact amount of affection which the Princess Louise—has for her future husband, and she gave me a full account of the divorce laws in all the states of America. She appealed to me sometimes; of course I agreed. At last she asked whether I did not think she was the prettiest girl I ever saw! But I took care to say so in such a way that she couldn't mind it."

"The Feeding of Infants" is the title of an article by Dr. J. Lewis Smith in Babyhood for January, in which the writer graphically describes certain evil effects of artificial feeding, and gives important directions for weaning and nursing. Among other articles are: "The Baby's Mother," by Helen P. Grafton; "Our Baby and How we Undid Her" (the first of a humorous series), by Marion O. Inglis; "Cat-Naps and their Causes," "Baby's Curls," etc., etc. [$1.50 a year; 15 cents a number. 18 Spruce Street, New York.]

J. L. HURD & CO'S

SPECIAL PRICES.

We regret that our high priced neighbors are grieved because we are quoting low figures in the public prints, but have no time to shed tears when sympathy is undeserved. They prefer the old plan. Keep the customer in ignorance of real values, least of "square deals," fossilization, low prices in the abstract and great facilities for having cheap, but it would not do to commit themselves to a price. In these times, when money is scarce, and every community low, the public is not to be gulled with any such chaff. Our prices are acceptable to the people and our business is to serve them.

WE ARE SELLING

Manitowoc Patent Flour, per bbl	$5.75	Hiawatha Fine Cut Tobacco	75
Mess Pork, Layton's New	0.07	Spearhead Plug Tobacco	48
Chief Pork	8	Peerless Smoking Tobacco	28
Lard	8	1 lb Bar Soap	20
Granulated Sugar	5	3 lb Can Peaches	25
White Sugar	5	3 lb Can California Apricots	26
4 lbs Arbuckles Coffee	1.00	3 lb Can Beef Tomatoes	10
Good Roasted Rio Coffee	25c	3 lb Can Corn	10
7 lbs Best Starch	25	3 lb Can Apples	8

Our Guarantee. Below competition in prices and as good or better in quality.

We are selling all our Winter Goods, such as Flannels, Blankets, Woolen Underwear, Gloves and Mittens, Hosiery, Dressgoods, etc., at great reduction to close. A word to the wise is sufficient.

J. L. HURD & CO,

Pioneers in Low Prices.

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

MISSING LINKS.

In Roumelia, now much talked of, there are 15,500 Turkisms.

There is a building in New York in which 3,000 persons find office room.

Lord Wolseley is declared to be one of the most unpopular men in England.

H. W. Shaw ("Josh Billings") is reported to have made $40,000 by his writings.

Canon Farrar's sentences sometimes contain 70 words, almost as many as do Mr. Evarts.

A monument to commemorate emancipation is to be erected by the colored people of Vicksburg, at a cost of $50,000.

A crank, according to Dr. Howard Crosby, is "a man who has a capital idea without sense enough to work it out."

The 500 Lords of England have an average income of $125,000 each. Their united income is about $75,000,000.

Professor Barthelow says that chloral is the most effective remedy for cholera, and that its power is vastly increased by the addition of morphine.

Clemens D. Conway defines his religion in the sentence, "God is good," and says that the first task of religion is to convert Christianity.

Beaconsfield talked in a soft, low voice. Gladstone talks distinctly in medium tones, and Lord Salisbury loudly, often boisterously.

The latest musical freak is a surgical operation for the benefit of piano players—tipping a cord between the third and fourth fingers to lengthen the touch.

The story of the Sorioris estrangement is said to be confirmed by an interview from Mrs. Gerard, that her daughter's marriage has resulted unhappily.

English soldiers in Egypt are housed in mud huts. The ease with which they were constructed shows that there is no special difficulty in making bricks without straw.

People living in pine forests are said to have immunity from climatic and contagious diseases, and singers have found their influence beneficial to the voice. So says the Medical Record.

The following notice appears in a late number of the Hoskely (Ga.) News: "We will allow 20 cents apiece for young hens to parties whose paper has been stopped and are still owing us for it."

The legacy of £2,000 which Victor Hugo left in his will to the poor of Paris has the curious history of lacking his signature, although the clause was written entirely with his own hand.

The walls of Fort Sumter are reduced to a mass of ruins, over which twelve guns are still mounted. The government pays $200 a month for watchmen, who keep lights burning for the guidance of mariners.

An Indiana man assented to his daughter's marriage in the following note attached to the marriage license: "Mr. ——has permission to go ahead. The girl is not of age, but she is so headstrong that we have caved."

The subscribers of the Hugh Conway memorial fund have decided to have a medallion and a tablet of the author, at a cost of $500, and to found an intermittent scholarship at the Bristol University College, amounting to about $3,000. The scholarship will be for English literature.

A kite 16½ feet high and 14 feet wide has been built at Yorkville, N. Y. It is made of white, red and blue cloth, mounted on cross sticks 1½ inches square, with a center stick of 1½ inch stuff. The tail is of rags and 400 feet long, and the cord, 1,050 feet long, is as big as a clothes line. So far it hasn't been a success, the tail being too heavy, but starting results are promised.

The late Mr. Calverly has told us that those who smoke tobacco grow brainless as chimpanzees and acrveless as lizards, and that most of them go mad and beat their wives, and plunge, after shaving Aves, razors and carving knives into their grandsires. On the other hand, two German savants, after minute and exhaustive investigation by the most approved scientific methods, arrived at the conclusion that smoking is nothing at all except watching the smoke.

The famous Victoria Bridge at Montreal is to be supplemented by another bridge crossing the St. Lawrence from Lachine to Caughnawaga, four miles above the city. It will be of iron trusses, the eight piers measuring 3,000 feet, and will cost, with its approaches, a million and a quarter of dollars. The owners are the Canadian Pacific Railway, who expect to have it finished by November of 1886. The bridge is to be the Victoria (a tubular one) will ever be built again.

An Eastern paper thinks that if all the wise suggestions made about the public schools are carried, their course of study, by the year 1900, will be about like this: One hour, sewing; one hour, washing and ironing; one hour, cooking; one hour, table setting and other branches of housekeeping; one hour, music; one hour, dancing; one hour, painting; one hour, modeling and sculpture; one hour, reading; one hour, writing; one hour, arithmetic; one hour, book-keeping; one hour, industrial education; one hour, civil government; one hour each on geography, algebra, trigonometry, Latin, Greek, French, German, botany, astronomy, tariff and free trade, farming and the weather.

Continued experiments are reported as being made by the Prussian government with new and improved seige guns, one of the most recent among these being of prodigious power—the most effective, probably, of its class yet constructed. It is described as made of steel and nearly thirty feet in length. The tube is strengthened with tea coils of plated wire one millimeter, or 1.69 inch, in diameter. The composition is said to be such that the cannon, after a few discharges, becomes elongated to the degree of three millimeters. The weight of this gun is fifty tons and it projects a shell weighing nearly 200 pounds, capable of penetrating armor plates nearly six inches thick at a range of seven and one-half miles.

John Gyumber, the Hungarian, who established a world-wide reputation several years ago by sleeping continuously for 163 days, has at last found a rival in the person of a woman named Shiffert, residing in Allentown, Pa. For the last eighteen months Miss Shiffert has made it an unvarying practice to go to bed at 9 o'clock in the evening and sleep soundly all night and until 9 o'clock in the afternoon. Although wicked neighbors have attempted to arouse the woman during her period of slumber, their efforts have been useless. The woman is in excellent health and spirits.

IN THE OLD ORANGE GARDEN.

BY C. W. COBURN.

We were in the old Orange garden
Where Love dreams stood for warden
Where Love dreams stood for warden
And the gates of Love were wide and gay
And the golden sunshine fought to win
Drifted through the branches a lightly,
Making pay the odorous glooms.

On the lawn a sun-dial oldden
Caught the shadows endeavor golden,
Which, with sweet and enthralling grace,
Were wont to cheer a lonely leader,
Those their strange reflexive splendor
Over human years, time-worn face.

You were humming a love-ditty,
And you whispered, "O, the pity
That the roses fade so soon!"
O the glowing summer weather!
O the days when we be alther
Fill the world and life in tune!

Pealing rock the branches trolling
All across the dial, and voicing
Its quaint i-gend from our sight—
Head you in a tone of scorning,
"If unclouded be love's morning,
Love will die at fall of night."

Saying softly, roses ending
Over the words, time is lending,
Making words you speak, O, Dad,
Know you not, love born in pleasure,
Never life its habitual measure,
Until darkness comes, and trial?"

Sweet those days of summer brightness,
When our hearts enjoyed the lightness
Of the summer-hearted lyric!
Dear, I thus render thanks!
You recall those days together,
With those days, O love, your words!

When the glowing summer glory
Faded from our love's event story,
Will is worried as I fill the night,
You, gentle as a star, cried wakeful,
"I—I cried! we are parted,
Yet I love you, love you despite!"

When the future's veil was lifted,
Fo is hard from the river dotted,
Down life's river, for apart,
Yet your love, with every gentleness,
Silence across the divery distance,
And has linked in yet lovelier!

THE RED-HAIRED ENGINEER.

By the Author of "So Blue: The Story of a Gilton Girl," Etc., Etc.

CHAPTER I.

"Estelle, are you ready?"

A little sighs of terror is the answer, and in another moment Estelle Vertier comes flying down, with boots buttoned, necktie half unfastened, hat and gloves in hand.

"My angelic Mary, if you could see I shall die! Hunt the chair you have put into my room. It is positively too seductive."

"I could not keep awake in it. Seriously I have a good stake of the cheek! I jump up and find I have only a little tiny two minutes to dress in! Ah! dear, patient Mary, forgive the foreigner and her absurdities!"

"Never mind about apologizing, child, but hunt your boots and put your hat on."

"My boots!" Estelle looks down at them in despair, and then dropping on her knees to the hall, runs to do them up with her weak little fingers.

Mary Cotterell pulls her up, orders her peremptorily into a hansom cab, and drives a bottom-hook from her own pocket, presents to do up the high German boots.

"There! Now run slowly round, and let me see what you can do right."

Estelle obeys submissively. "I hadn't time to do my hair again," she explains.

"So I see; but as it is always rough, that makes very little difference. I suppose you mind do me? Put on your gloves; and where's your parasol?"

"Up-stairs. I don't want it."

"Yes, you do. I'll get it for you."

Estelle doesn't object at all; but when Mary comes down again she flings both arms around her, and calls her her heartbelved cabbage.

"Tell me, Mary," she asked, as they walked down the garden on their way to Mrs. Charlesworth's tennis party, "will that doubtful redhaired engineer be there—you know; the man who is so stupid and prosy?"

"Sure to be," said Mary dryly. "He's devoted to Eva Charlesworth."

"Poor girl! I pity her," observed Mlle. Vertier, emphatically.

"Oh, you needn't do that; she doesn't care a fig for him. And, besides, the dreadful red-haired engineer, as you politely call Arthur Rivers, is a very good fellow."

"I call him a beast!" said Estelle, with exceeding frankness.

"Now, Estelle," said Mary sharply, "I won't have you pick up bad words from my young brothers, and I won't have you speak rude of my friends."

"Do you like him?" inquired her companion, stopping forward, so as to get a good look at her face.

"Certainly," replied Mary, not the least disconcerted by the mischievous scrutiny of the dark eyes.

Estelle let go of her arm, and held up both hands in amazement.

"You are funny, you English! You positively like people because they are good!"

"Certainly," replied Mary again.

"But men never are good" answered Estelle, changing her ground.

"Oh, indeed!"

"My mother says so, and she knows."

"Your poor mother was unfortunate in her experience of the genus!" Mary, because one Englishman was a wicked husband to her, she wants to put contempt all the rest!"

"Oh, that is only part of what she knows," said Estelle, confidentially. "She has seen a great deal of life, and she has always taught me never to trust any man at all, however good he may seem."

Mary, one silent, not liking to say what she thought of such training.

Estelle's French mother had been forced, when barely more than a child, into a marriage with a wealthy Englishman, who had heard of her with neglect and brutality, and finally deserted her. Released from galling bonds by the intervention of the law, she had immediately quitted his hated country, and retired with little Estelle to a quiet suburb of Paris, where the child was brought up to call herself French, and to hate everything that was English. Yet, when an invitation came from Mrs. Cotterell for Estelle to spend a whole summer with her at Coppenham, the girl's reluctance to go was overridden by her mother, who never forgot that the Cotterells, husband and wife, had been the only people in England whose sympathy she had been able to accept or rely on. So Estelle nerved herself for a visit to her native country, and, once at Coppenham, found to her surprise that she was going to enjoy herself. She found English country life charmingly novel; she particularly liked the admiration accorded to her beauty and vivacity; and she took at once to Mary Cotterell, who had much of her mother's intelligent tact and thoughtfulness.

The two girls had walked on another hundred yards or so without speaking, when Mary was roused from her reflections by feeling her arm suddenly pinched. Looking up, she discovered rapidly approaching from the young man whose "greatness" had been so summarily disposed of by Estelle a few minutes previously.

He Centaur was not a beauty.

Slightly above the average height, and disproportionately large, he not only had no good looks to boast of, but carried himself particularly badly, with a kind of misdirected shamble, his head forward and his hands forward in his pockets. Estelle managed to convey her opinion of him to Mary by a rapid little grimace and shrug of the shoulders before he came up to them.

"How do you do, Mary? How do you do, Mademoiselle—or—I really forget your name.

He put out his hand in an mithinking way, much to her displeasure. He ought only to have bowed; and how dared he to forget her name! Her reluctant little fingers just touched his.

Rivers saw now, and his lips twitched with amusement.

"Beg your pardon, I'm sure. I'll only bow another time," he said, bluntly. "Made shaking hands myself; it is a habit—contagious. I suppose you are bound, like me, for Charlesworth's, Mary."

On her assenting, he turned and walked beside her, without asking whether his company was desired or not.

"If you were polite, Arthur, you would offer to carry my racquet and shoes." observed Mary, laughing. "You can't imagine what a bad opinion Mademoiselle Vertier is forming of you."

He took the things from her, rapidly glancing up and down Estelle, who looked bewitchingly pretty under her rose-lined parasol.

"Quite right, too," he returned, with a sand. "You see, Mademoiselle, I've no sister to lick me into shape."

Estelle was not sufficiently well up in English slang to understand quite what he meant by this but gathering from the pleasantness of his smile that it could mean nothing rude, she contd scornful to answer.

"You are sisters, or brothers, either," she said quietly.

"Ah! I thought so."

"Why?"

Rivers had guessed it from her accuracy, which was very much that of a spoiled only child, but he managed to escape blunder-ing from telling her so. By this time they had reached Mrs. Charlesworth's house, and with a shout, "Oh, can't say, indeed, I suppose," he hastily crossed over to where the lawn was laid out for tennis, and where a group of young people were standing, racquet in hand, talking to the hostess and supposedly of the game. Hal Armitage. Neither of these two particularly wanted him, and he knew it; the whole Eva group fully so far as look to Estelle, who had not yet been introduced to him, and who had been left stranded on a garden chair, while the rest of the gaiety were occupied with the game. She felt so neglected and uncomfortable that it was quite a relief when Mary came up and introduced him.

"We ought to fraternize," he said, drawing his chair rather forward, so as to get a good view of her face, "since neither of us is play this afternoon's game. Are you from Paris or Brussels?"

Estelle allowed herself to be gradually drawn into conversation, and was getting quite interested in comparing notes with him about the Rivers, when an amused, approving little nod and smile from Mary sent her back in the cold fit. She was a complete child in many respects, and her vexation at finding herself blushing was so great that the tears started to her eyes. Rivers wondered what on earth had happened, but if his manners were abrupt, his good feeling was rarely at fault, and he showed it now.

"I brought home an end of mourning," he explained, quietly, "and amongst them some flowers from Madame—, I suppose, or some friend of the family, and for Miss Charlesworth. Would you like to see them?"

Estelle sprang up, ready to go anywhere rather than continue to sit with her face in full view of all the players. She was sure every one must be looking at her. But in a very few minutes, thanks to Rivers' tactics, she was herself again, and decidedly determined to pay Mary one.

This little episode had cured her of her dislike to the young engineer, and before the evening was over her feelings had settled herself, in a manner, into liking. Mary were asked, with some of the other guests, to stay to the eight o'clock supper at Mrs. Charlesworth's, and later on there was a general vote for music. Estelle was known to have a beautiful voice, but she was exceedingly nervous, and could not be prevailed upon to sing till Eva suggested that she should be supported by a violin obligato.

"That would give me courage," Estelle admitted, "and I know this song for voice and violin; but who is the virtuoso?"

"Oh, my fiddle and I are at home in this drawing-room," said Rivers, coming up quickly, and drawing out the case from under a low settee.

Estelle regarded him doubtfully, making up her mind that she should stop singing at once if his playing was bad enough to alarm Mary. She need not have been alarmed. He was a thorough musician, and soon she confessed to herself that she had never been accompanied with such instinctive sympathy. Her audience were gathered strength and enemies as she felt she could rely on the response of his violin to its faintest inflections, and at length, at the end, she ventured on a glance of mutual understanding and astonishment.

Hal Armitage turned to Eva Charlesworth with a spoilsport chuckle.

"Your good Arthur is smitten," he said—"spoiled and done for."

Eva followed the direction of his eyes, and spoonfed Estelle critically.

"I hope it may be so," she answered gently.

CHAPTER II.

For a week or so Estelle went about in a frame of mind which is apt to upset the calmest natures, and which, in a girl of her excitable temperament, took the shape of extreme fitful alternations between turbulent gaiety and tearful depression. She would have worked herself into a fever had it not been for the sincere good sense and unobtrusive sympathy of quiet Mary Cotterell, who condemned her visitor well.

Then one day she darted into the house, dragged Mary to her room, and there burst out crying and laughing wildly. "I am so happy!—so happy!—oh, Mary, can't you guess why?"

"What a child you are, Estelle! Of course I can guess, and I'm so glad so ever I can be, dearie. Tell me all about it."

"I was in the garden, and we met on the path—oh, I can't go on now—I'm just overwhelmed with frantic—my heart's leaping all over me!"

"That dreadful red-haired man?" said Mary, mischievously.

"How dare you call him dreadful! Yes, yes, I know that's what I said, but that began to like him just a tiny little, and then we went on conversation—conversation—fortissimo!"

"She waved her hands as if conducting an orchestra, and ended on tiptoe, tossing the high above her head.

"So, after all, you have found a man you can trust," said Mary, half-pikingly, and not at all prepared for the sudden cloud that settled on Estelle's face. She did not answer at once, and then her tone had changed.

"Mary, you told me he was devoted to Eva Charlesworth."

"Oh, did I?" said Mary, much embarrassed. "Well, I used to think so, but I don't now, dearie."

"No, you were not. He told me about it himself. He says a long time ago he asked her to marry him, but she wouldn't. She thinks he's a good sort of fellow, but he doesn't be angry with her; they must always be friends. So he took it very quietly, and stayed on just as before, and he has found out he only cared for her like a brother, and he is in quite a different state of mind. You see he's very good, but I take her. I am frightened of him, he is so good, so sweet, and I'm such a rough, undisciplined baby."

"Do you mean that you are going to leave off being a baby, Estelle?" asked Mary, coldly.

"I have told him he must wait for me a little longer yet." declared Estelle, with sleepily.

Mary's first impulse was to be indignant, but the memory of Estelle's training come to her mind, and the resolve to be very patient and gentle with her. For the moment she dismissed the subject lightly.

"As to Arthur Rivers, he walked away, too full of his happiness. Estelle had confessed upon him to think seriously of her profession of a person inspection. In the confessions of his simple, honest, disinterested love, he had thought of everything but that she must quickly learn to trust him. They were other conclusions that seemed to have escaped her imagination, and especially he had on his mind the difficult interview that must be immediately written to Madame Vertier. But gradually he became aware that Estelle's desire was for deep and sealed than he had conceived possible, and it has had to say which of the two suffered most. Estelle, alternating between jealousy and remorse, was in a state of mental insanity of behaving not only to Eva Charlesworth, but to all women, with particular familiarity, and of renouncing Arthur in angry betrothal. The honestly sincere to crush the unworthy feeling down, but the deep roots in her temperament were too strong for her fresh shoots as soon as the old ones were killed off. At last a crisis arrived.

Eva Charlesworth had long ago promised to marry Hal Armitage as soon as she could be able to keep a wife, but her parents would allow no open engagement, as Hal was a humble personal friend, and a dependent for hard work, and corresponding. Hal was a good fellow, and Eva was genuinely fond of him, and he was the only person in the world who could rouse her from the dreams of her heart. Her parents had hoped that she might quickly learn to trust him. They were other considerations that seemed to have had some influence

Around the County.

Ironton.

Andrew Shoffen of this place met a sad death while walking from East Jordan, on the 16th. The night was bitter cold and he was obliged to face a strong wind from the north. He was met by several parties during the evening whom he saluted and was apparently in good health. He was found about 9 o'clock Sunday morning almost within call of his own house frozen to death. Deceased was well known in this vicinity and leaves a large family to mourn his untimely death.

We hear good reports from the protracted meetings being held in the neighboring district south of Ironton, by Rev. J. F. Wakely, and others, and we wish them God speed in their efforts. Meanwhile the good work in Ironton, begun by Rev. Van Anken and seconded by Rev. Potter, is still going on.

A meeting was called to organize a G. A. R. post in Ironton, Monday Jan. 4th. In the absence of expected speakers the evening was given over to informal remarks and rehearsals of camp and prison experiences by the old soldiers present, and the meeting was adjourned to Wednesday evening the 13th. The G. A. R. post at Ironton will no doubt enjoy the distinguishment of being the only post in the state which held a "campfire" before its organization.

The principal of schools in Ironton is contemplating a singing school. There is room for improvement here and we wish him success.

The cold weather of the past week has converted Pine Lake and South Arm not only into a public highway, but also a vast skating rink.

The sleighing is complete, the woods are full of music of the axe and the lumbermen are prosperous and happy.

Burgess.

Cold, Colder, Coldest about these days. It appears now as though "the false prophet of Hayes" is coming out ahead in his weather predictions.

A little son of A. R. Struthers got a bad cut, and will lose two fingers from it.

Two Hamlin Bros. have several Indians cutting wood for them.

Moses Cooper has quite a gang of hands, including several Indians, getting out ties, posts and logs.

Lizzie Willis, who has been visiting her sister in Cheboygan, has come home for a short stay, then she will return to teach school.

The Methodist society met at school house district No. 6, last Sunday and organized a Sunday school, with A. W. Chow, superintendent, S. W. Solter treasurer, and Miss Cora Chew secretary.

Mr. Wm. Irving and wife, Mr. John Bird, Mrs. Bird and Mrs. Pierce, of Hortons Bay, were visiting at I. S. Webster's last Friday.

Hayes.

School has commenced in the new school house in Hayes, with a larger attendance than ever before. Miss Gladys Jefferies, of Charlevoix, teacher. It is believed to be known as the Hoyyard school house.

The youngest son of Andrew Struthers, of Hayes, while playing with a hatchet, accidentally cut two of his fingers. On being by a little muscle, and there is some question whether it can be saved, but the others were not entirely severed, and the doctor hopes to save them.

E. M. Clark is dealing quite extensively in the lumber business on Susan lake.

Miscellaneous.

Dakota has a case of leprosy.

Chicago fears a smallpox epidemic.

Reed City boasts of a new cigar factory.

An exchange says there ain't a colored citizen in Cadillac.

During the last 40 years 40 Monroe liquor sellers have died drunkards.

Successful revival meetings are being held in Petoskey by the United Brethren.

The libraries of the state university contain 56,000 bound volumes, and 12,204 pamphlets.

There were 1295 students at the university last year, 15 per cent of whom were women.

Lansing boasts a two-headed infant, born within its limits. It is needless to say its life was short.

Cadillacers are chock full of faith that the Toledo & Ann Arbor and the C. & W. M. railroads will both reach Cadillac before Jan. 1, 1887.

An English physician furnishes these cheerful statistics: Select 100,000 healthy boys in the public schools of our country. Let each be 10 years old. At 23, 10,000 will be dead; at 50, 30,000; at 75, 60,000; at 85, 90,000; at 93, 99,000; at 95, 99,000—only 10 alive, and in 100 years, 99,999 will be dead.

It took 80 gallons of oysters to furnish the Jackson convicts with a New Year's stew. Kalamazoo Telegraph. There is many a man in Michigan who has neither committed murder, stolen a horse, nor forged a note, who could afford oysters for New Years day.

No fortuitous circumstances can make the career of a lazy man brilliant.

The salvation army has been marching through the southern part of the state with varying success. Charlotte, Eaton Rapids and Albion are the present battle fields of note.

Ruglandt's business depression is very great; 700,000 spindles are idle in Lonsdaire, 40,000 looms are idle, and 16,000 operatives earn nothing. The situation in many other places is almost as bad.

Chief Justice Chas. P. Daly, of the Court of Common Pleas of New York city, has held the office for over 40 years, and now retires by reason of the limitation of his age, with well earned honors of universal approval.

The Lansing Journal has a six col umn article on the prosperity of the capital city. Nearly $500,000 have been expended in building during the year 1885. 117 new residences and 15 new stores were erected during the year.

A reliable exchange says; The Lansing National Bank pays out three silver dollars for every one received over its counters, and makes monthly drafts upon the treasury department for 6,000 of these cart wheel coins, to meet the demand.

One Cadillac couple were not happy over their Christmas presents it seems. A shrewd book agent in Cadillac succeeded in buy a book to present to his wife, and then sold a copy of the same book to the wife as a gift to her husband.

The Susquehanna river and tributaries have been overflowing their banks for the last few days, sweeping away houses, barns and fences, bridges and everything in their courses. Besides the delay to travel and destruction of property, many lives have been lost.

Capt. Stephens is building a new yacht on the bay shore in front of Captain Madison's place, of about 35 feet keel, which is said to be a fine model, and will doubtless prove an excellent sailer, as the captain has built several that have proved such.

Traverse Bay Eagle.

Reports come from all parts of the country to the effect that the storm we have been having for the past few days, is one of the severest for many years. Many cattle are frozen to death in the ranches of Texas. The thermometer registered -52° in Manitoba. In many parts of the west and some parts of the east, trains are behind time, and in a few instances entirely blocked.

At Gilmore, ten miles south of Oneida, a company has started a cattle "factory." They have expended $75,000 in the erection of big stables. There are 3,800 stalls, and by winter they will have 5,200 stalls. In each stall they will place a "critter," and they will be fed will food placed before them through a system of pipes and cooked in enormous steam vats having a capacity of 1,000 barrels of feed an hour. They will ship in cattle from the Western Nebraska ranches, and fatten them in these stalls.

Instead of giving the parson a silver water pitcher or a donation of dried apples and pumpkins, our ancestors made him the present of a negro slave. This was done in Maine. Although it is not agreeable to be compelled to believe that slavery had existed in this State, the parish records of the town of York show that at a meeting the 5th of January, 1752, it was "Voted that there be a Slave purchased by the parish to be employed for the use of said parish in laboring for the Rev. Mr. Samuel Moody."—Lewiston Journal.

The fact that the chief of the Duke of Nonilles has been discovered into the service of a Republican shows once more, declares a contemporary, the truth of that well-known dialogue by Hoffman: "Papa, I should like to have your opinion on the choice of a profession." "My boy, I should advise you to be a cook." "A cook! But suppose there is a revolution, and no more great houses are kept?" "Revolution! I save so a more than one. Kings have been beheaded. Princes, noblemen, and Bishops refused to beggary, but I have never heard of gluttony being at a discount. Believe me, my boy, be a cook."—Foreign Jr.

A rich man in Davenport hired a man to dig a cistern, agreeing to pay $12 for the job. After it was done the rich man seized the laborer's tools and locked them up, alleging that the cistern leaked. It was really a ruse to make the working man take less pay. The latter dissembled his rage and induced the rich man to accompany him to the cistern to examine it. No sooner had he (the latter) lower down into the ladder and stood guard over the cistern with a club, vowing that the other should not come up until he had settled the bill. The imprisoned one yelled "Mutiny!" and "Fire!" and a crowd of his neighbors gathered, but when they learned the trouble no one would interfere, and they let him stay until he capitulated.—Davenport (Ia.) Journal.

☞"Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and loss up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 35 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Boush, the national press superintendent of the W. C. T. U., says in one of her most excellent leaflets: "I mused over this wonderful priestess, the W. C. T. U., benificent, wise, powerful, walking through the earth and scattering blessings everywhere; searching among the laws that govern our country, and pleading for protection for the helpless children; without money, without influence of position and power, establishing her claims upon the heart of the nation. She compels us to do good, and brings us the larger good of the doing. No home so poor but she can enter therein; no prison so dark but she brings light, no heart so lonely but she brings cheer. She is no respecter of persons. She lays an embargo on the rich woman's time and purse, and both are given to her service. She says to the poor woman "Come to me and I will make you rich in good deeds" She has walked over church fences and leveled them down, and taken the bar-posts away. She has folded up the pages of musty creeds and written thereon "Love thy neighbor as thyself." "Love worketh no ill, therefore love is the fulfilling of the law." She is answering the prayer of Christ himself, "That ye may all be one." Such is the mission of the white ribbon. Is it not one to be desired? Might not angels covet the work given to woman's hands to-day? "True christian women do not wait for popularity except with the Lord," said one of our W. C. T. U. workers when the question was made that the light of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union went out with the last election.

Charlotte Prohibitionist.

The following is a brief extract of the remarks of Rev. F. H. Peckham before the temperance union at the recent anniversaries in Providence, R. I.:

The indifference of people to the great evil of intemperance is fairly illustrated by the police of a western city chasing a little mad dog out into the country, and in their chase passing eighty-four rum shops. The liquor problem involves some of the gravest questions before us as a nation. While it is true that the drink bill of the nation costs as much as the bread and meat consumed by the people, and, in addition all the cost of education, and while so much of capital and of industry is diverted from useful channels and made to be wasted, this problem must remain one of the gravest financial questions for those interested in the welfare of our people. The use of intoxicating liquors involves the gravest questions of our day. No other evil at so many points touches with so grave questions the moral sentiment and the moral condition of the people. Again it presents the gravest question there is in politics today. Many will say, it must and be maintained with politics. Glad would we be if it could be kept out of politics and remain a moral question. But the liquor force has already put it into politics, and temperance people must meet the question there. Politics rightly understood is the science of the nation working for the highest good to the greatest number. Liquor more than night else interrupts this object. By debauching the voter, by temptation, by with the ballot, the rum power is acting as a mighty force, especially in large cities, in the interests of bad government. Other grave evils that threaten so would be easily controlled could the liquor question be eliminated. The remedy must be as broad as the disease—moral suasion in the field of morals, by the ballot and wise legislation in the field of politics. Much as I am interested in the record we as a people have made on this question, I am more interested in the record we ought to make, and I fear we shall ever be found with those who labor for a "government of the people, by the people, for the people," in place of what is now so common—a government of the people, by the saloons, and for the saloons.—Charlotte Prohibitionist.

AT HOME AND ABROAD;

At church and theatre, in the courting parlor and the street, in the city, everywhere is heard that hacking cough which soon developes into consumption or inflammation of the lungs, bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. Be wise in time. Immediate relief and cure may be by simply obtained. HAMILTON'S COUGH BALSAM will surely give relief from those throat and lung troubles that often terminate in death. Instant relief in croup, and a sublimer of whooping cough. Your consumptive friend will be greatly benefited. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Wild Cherry and Tar.

Every body knows the virtues of Wild Cherry and Tar as a relief and cure for any affections of the Throat and Lungs, combined with these two specifics, we have a few simple healing remedies in the compounds of Dr. Hoxsahe's Cough and Lung Syrup making it just the article you should always have in the house. Price 50 cents, Large Bottles, Prompt and Sure Relief. Sold by druggists, Price 50 cents and $1.00. Sample Free. Sold by G. W. Crouter.

Railroad War.

A fierce struggle has been going on for the last week between the T. & A. A. and D. L. & N. railroads at Howell. The first named by dint of the charter granted by the state. The T. & A. A. crossed D. L. & N. by tunneling under and bridging up. The D. L. & N. not being satisfied with the bridge filled up the cut, which brought on a struggle, both parties putting over a hundred armed men on the ground. No bloodshed but constant fear. The citizens of Howell held an indignation meeting, greatly censuring the D. L. & N. road. The matter has now gone into the courts for settlement.

To have the power to forgive,
Is empire and prerogative:
And 'tis in crowns a nobler gem
To grant a pardon than condemn.

The above is only a half-truth. Michigan has become naked through out the union as the state of murders and horrible tragedies, and the good people of the state are beginning to cry out for penal justice.

☞The Detroit Weekly Free Press for six months on trial 25 cts. Specimen copies free at this office.

THE THROAT

Is often diseased on account of catarrh, producing dryness and a constant desire to cough. That tickling sensation and the hoarseness that is so common to public singers and speakers especially, is relieved at once by HAMILTONS COUGH TOKENS which are prepared from the most approved formula. Do not wait till acute bronchitis or even consumption takes firm hold of you. Price only 25c per box. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

EATING AND STARVING

It is all the same, for you are sure to suffer from piles. No worse torture can be conceived of. Blind or bleeding piles are unequaled for annoyance, but for a few applications of PARMELEE'S PILE SUPPOSITORIES they entirely disappear. The knife is often resorted to by physicians for the removal of protruding piles, but such barbarity is not a necessity for PARMELEE'S SUPPOSITORIES used according to directions, quickly reduce, replace, and drive them away. Warranted to cure. Price 50 cents per box.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

WHY WASTE TIME AND MONEY

On that which does no good. Your children have worms and are cross, always hungry, sleepless, pinny and weak from the presence of worms in the stomach which prevents the food being taken up to nourish the body. PARMELEE'S SANTONINE WORM CANDIES will dissolve and remove the worms and then all will be well. You cannot do better by your children than to attend to their health. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, costiveness, and the bowels are generally very disagreeable bidding other parties, so as to be a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Benanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly on the part affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Druggists. 152

OVER A MILLION A WEEK.

The Greatest Newspaper Success of the Age.

The New York World
Has a Circulation of over 1,100,000
COPIES PER WEEK.
This has been secured by sending it
The Best Newspaper
Published Anywhere on the Globe.

ITS WEEKLY EDITION,
THE WEEKLY WORLD,
$1.00 Per Year.
is a Complete and Perfect Family Newspaper.

Club Agents make from 30 cents "on a dollar" on each subscription, by its grand premium offers.

Subscribers save from 50 to 300 yearly by purchasing under special contracts made by THE WORLD. Send for Circulars.

It Pays to be an Agent for The World.

The World's Grand Premiums
AND
The World's Grand Combinations
Have Never Been Equaled.

Every person should know what they are, for by the knowledge every family can save from $2 to $50.

Address THE WORLD,
31 Park Row, New York.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
		7 30am	3 30pm
Petoskey, lv		8 00	4 00
Port Wayne, ar	4 30pm	2 05	7 30	11 45am
Kalamazoo, ar		4 45	9 00	1 15am
Kalamazoo, lv		4 50	9 05	1 20
Battle Creek, ar		5 28	9 38	1 58
Battle Creek, lv	5 00am		9 40	1 18
Marshall, ar	5 15		9 55	1 33
Howard City,	6 30		11 50	3 34
Big Rapids,	7 15		12 40	4 24
Reed City, ar	8 35		2 05	5 54
Cadillac, ar			3 40	7 20
Cadillac, lv	11 00		3 41	7 30
Walton,			4 40	8 29
Kalkaska,			5 10	9 00
Mancelona,			5 36	9 30
Boyne Falls,			5 54	9 48pm
Boyne City,			7 35	1 20
Harbor Springs,			8 10	1 55
Mackinaw City,
			9 50pm	3 15am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City		7 00am	5 50pm
Harbor Springs,			6 25
Petoskey,		8 20	11 12
Boyne Falls,		8 36	11 29
Mancelona,		8 45	12 54am
Kalkaska,		10 27	1 54
Walton,		11 20	2 50
Cadillac, ar		12 25pm	3 15
Cadillac, lv		12 35	3 25	8 15 am
Reed City, lv		2 05	5 00	9 50
Big Rapids,		2 46	5 40	10 40
Howard City,		3 34	6 31	11 15
Marshall, ar		4 50	8 14	12 35pm
Battle Creek, ar		5 00	10 20	12 20
Battle Creek, lv	7 15am	5 05	10 25
Kalamazoo, ar	7 55	5 35	11 00pm
Kalamazoo, lv	7 58	5 38	11 05
Port Wayne, ar	12 00pm	10 30	4 30am
Port Wayne, lv	1 00	12 10am		3 30am
Chicago, ar	7 00pm	7 30am		10 00am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Detroit.
HENRY MONON, Gen'l Superintendent.

DE LAND & CO'S
CAPITOL LEAF
SALERATUS
SODA
For Baking Purposes.
Best in the World.
Sold by Upright & Emrey.
W. M. WAGAR. C. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smoking Tobacco. Also the celebrated Dr. Benanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly on the part affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by druggists. 152

Warranted to cure Biliousness, Constipation, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia. Sugar Coated, Small and Easy to Take. Always Reliable. Long Lasting. Purely Vegetable. Price 25 cts. Sold by Druggists.
ALBERT J. ELIS,
Sole Proprietor,
Buffalo, N. Y.

For Sale by F. R. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

$100 REWARD
FOR
Every Ounce of Adulteration
IN THE
U. G. Soap
The Great 5c Cake,
Made only by
GOWANS & STOVER,
BUFFALO, N. Y.
For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
Established 1845.
The most popular Weekly newspaper devoted to science, mechanics, engineering discoveries, inventions, and industrial pursuits. Every one illustrated with splendid engravings. The publication includes a semi-monthly supplement, issued on the first and third Saturdays. The subscription of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is such that its circulation nearly equals that of all other publications in the world. Terms, $3.20 per annum, including postage. Sent to MUNN & CO., Publishers, No. 361 Broadway, N. Y.

PATENTS.
In the Patent Office and have prepared over 50,000 Patents for Inventors. Eighteen years' practice. Hand-Book about Patents, Caveats, Trademarks, Copyrights, etc., sent free. Address, MUNN & CO., OFFICE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, 361 Broadway, New York.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 132. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich. Collections promptly attended to.

E. D. SWAN & CHIER, Attorneys at Law and Real Estate Agents. Office in Mitchell's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.
E. D. SWAN. C. J. CHIER.

JOHN A. WOODWORTH, Attorney at Law, and Real Estate Agent, Lake St., east of Postoffice, Charlevoix, Mich.

JOHN W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Collections promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

H. J. MESNY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office in Opera House, Petoskey, Mich.

H. N. WEBBER, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Boyne City, Antrim county, Mich.

J. MICH LAVIN, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

GEO. F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Circuit Court Commissioner, Boyne City, Antrim county, Mich.

W. A. MOORE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Collections a specialty.

A. GARRETT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

CHRISTIAN REFORMED CHURCH.—Services every Sabbath at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Sunday School at 12 m. Prayer meeting at 7:00 p. m. every Thursday evening. J. T. VAN ANKEN, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH. Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at 12 m. Prayer meeting at 7 p. m. every Thursday evening. J. T. DINNINGS, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. R. TITUS, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Magnetic Cures, etc., Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

J. DOTY, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, office in Dr. Taylor's new block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. J. HUSTON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HIRAM S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix, Mich.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

C. K. Easter Post No. 149, meets second Monday in each month, at Odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. O. F. Round Lake Lodge No. 293, meets every Saturday evening, in the Hall.

K. O. T. M.—Everett Tent, No. 126, meets second and fourth Tuesday in each month at Odd Fellows' Hall.

I. O. O. F.—Time Honored Lake Lodge No. 167, meets on or before full moon in each calendar month.

W. O. W.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 382, meets every Monday on or before full moon. Hall over Crouter's.

N. E. BROWN, Cashier. W. A. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.

BROWN & CO'S
BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,
Capital, $25,000.
Will receive deposits, make prompt settlements, make large and growing patronage. Drafts bear interest from the original date of deposit. Collections receive prompt attention. Interest allowed on time deposits. Exchange drawn on all the principal cities of Europe. Money to loan on approved security. Money always on hand. Abstracts of Title to lands in Antrim county can be found in our office. Conveyancing done in the best manner, and with dispatch. Collections made in Europe by first class.

CORRESPONDENTS.
Chase National Bank, New York.
The National Bank of Commerce, New York.
Merchants and Manufacturers' National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

D. B. TERRUE, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Entirely rebuilt and refurnished. First-class in every room for guests. Good Stable in connection with the House. 75

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, - Michigan.
Rooms heated to 70°, giving good view of lake and resorts. Express office and hotel omnibus to Passenger and Excursion Steamers, and sample rooms for commercial travelers. Rates $1 per day.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE,

TRAUTMAN & BEAHM, Proprietors.
East Jordan, - Michigan.
Thus having business at the county seat will find this a pleasant place to stop. Our proprietors will make no extra charge for conveyance to and from the depot. 12

PIONEER HOUSE,

A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

GET THE BEST

If some neighbors want a clean, handsome and acceptable paper, giving all the latest and most complete news from all parts of the country, let them send 25 cents for this paper two weeks on trial, or $1 for three months, or $3 for six months, $5.00 per year, and address

The Charlevoix Journal,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it in NEW YORK.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING
Dr. CROUTER'S
BAKING POWDER
Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.
If you use it your biscuit will never look of Stale.
It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.
It is made from PURE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops.
It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.
Price 40 Cents per Pound
Manufactured and Sold only by
Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,
Chemist and Druggist,
BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of
BOOTS AND SHOES.
FOX & MILLER.

"TERRACE FARM,"
Charlevoix, Mich.
J. R. & J. S. DIXON,
DAIRY, VEGETABLE, AND STOCK FARM.
Thoroughbred and Grade Holsteins
A SPECIALTY. 118

New Goods!
I would call the attention of the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity to my new fall stock of
MILLINERY
AND
Fancy Goods.
Have also just received a fine stock of materials for fancy work, such as Felts, Canvas, Embroidery Silks, Silk Floss, Fancy Beads, Gimps, Fringe Beads, &c., also Embroideries, Laces, Handkerchiefs, and Collars. Call and see my goods. I design to sell cheap for cash only.
Dress-Making Done to Order.
MISS L. SPAULDING.

DAILY STAGE
BETWEEN
Boyne City and Charlevoix.
Leaves Boyne City at 8 a. m., arriving at Charlevoix, 11:30 a. m.
Leaves Charlevoix at 2 p. m., arriving at Boyne City at 5:30 p. m.
Good Accommodations for Everybody.
W. H. COON, Proprietor.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.
Horse Shoeing a specialty. Satisfaction guaranteed. Prices reasonable. Shop on Bridge St., Charlevoix, Mich.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CROUTER'S, BARNEBEY & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.
☞The OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE cuts hard and for wide. —Albert E. Smythe. 12

The Charlevoix Improvement Association
OFFICERS.
President—Byron Sec.
Prest'l Vice President—W. A. Smith.
Rec'ding Secretary—Fred Weiss.
Recording Secretary—Chas. J. Strang.
Financial Secretary—E. D. Swan.
Treasurer—Albert E. Mason.
STANDING COMMITTEES.
Executive Committee—J. Mitt Falon, A. D. Crawhanks, and J. L. Hurd.
Corresponding Committee—H. Lee Billings, W. A. Brown, and F. W. Cook.
Reception Committee—F. W. Mayne, L. D. Rogers, Dr. J. Doty, Dr. W. J. Huston, Geo. W. Crouter, R. W. Miller, S. M. See, W. C. Newman, E. M. Clark, H. Berger.
OBJECTS.
To aid and encourage the establishment of manufacturing enterprises within this village; to advance the material growth and prosperity of Charlevoix and vicinity.
REGULAR MEETINGS.
At Charlevoix, Village Hall on the Third Monday of each month, at 7:30 p. m.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

A GIFT Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money at once than anything else in America. Both sexes of age, and all ages. Live at home and work in spare time, or all the time. Capital not required. We will start you. Some have made fortunes at work for us. Address at once, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 1(2)

To Lodgings.
Now Alice would smile if she saw me retiring
In my custom chair to look over my pecunia.
And rouse at one portrait that isn't divine,
Yet I should regret any critical criticism,
She would say what a fool I was doting on Phillis
Yet my own round her waist would grow very contented—
Now you'd almost suppose it was naughty to kiss
When she wants to be very dogmatic.

If Alice were here she would probably smile
At my poor little sofa's unusual interior;
She'd compare it with quarters I've had, and the style
Is decidedly shabby and wholly inferior.
But you see not the sheen in clover and
Nor while making one's fortune abide in a palace
Nor while making one's fortune abide in a palace
Is always fresh and wholly inferior.
But you see not the sheen in clover and
Nor while making one's fortune abide in a palace
To waxing a thought of gone-off or of mature,
The bee in the bonnet have that remain
Flavish on thoughts about Alice.
—Albert E. Smythe. 12

THE CARRIER PIGEON.
Its Habits, Uses, Nature and Training.
Pigeon-flying is of such ancient origin that it is hard to say where it began. In Egypt their domestication dates as far as 2,000 years before Christ, and in a coronation scene of Rameses III., the king is represented as having assumed the crown of Upper and Lower Egypt, and a priest lets fly four pigeons, commanding them "to announce to the south, the north, the east and the west that the son of Ra has put on the splendid double crown of the upper and lower country."
Pliny says of it: "Many persons are insane in their love of these birds." While ones were the rage if they were good flyers, and that they were highly prized may be judged by the prices which were asked for them. There is one instance where a good price was offered for a fine pair, but the owner refused to take less than five denarii for them, a sum equal in our money to about $65. It was their custom to carry pigeons to theaters and when out walking, and throw them into the air, rivals betting heavily on whose bird would get home first.
To become good and reliable they must be taken from the nest as soon as they are able to fly, and carried a short distance away, probably a quarter or a half mile. All those that get home quickly are further trained, and the slow ones are killed. In this way the best are preserved. When they find their way home from short distances they are taken further and further, until they cover any distance within the limits of power. They can fly about fifty miles an hour, but more is sometimes claimed. Instances are known where they have flown 1,000 miles without a rest.
As soon as they are thrown into the air they go to a considerable height, and fly round and round until some familiar landmark is seen, from which they take their course and start in a straight line for home. If not well-known mark can be seen they are lost, and often come back to the starting place. In instances where carriers were let go from balloons and could not find their way they have returned to the balloon, as the dove did to Noah when they could find no place to rest.
It is through no love of flying or keenness of pedigr that makes the carrier return to its cote, but its love of home. It is this instinct that makes it fly with missing wing for hours and hours, to rest at last in familiar places and among friends.
Among the Romans, and the Asiatics before them, it was the custom to tie letters around the leg or foot, and many a letter from distant friend and absent father or lover was carried in this way. Travelers going from Rome to other times, or soldiers departing for distant wars, frequently carried pigeons, releasing them at intervals, that they might be the bearers of good tidings to the folks at home. Tying the message around the neck or wing had been tried, but both were found to impede the bird's flight. At present, when they are used, the message is tied around the leg, high up, where it does not interfere at all.
In England and France, old writers speak of the frequent use of these birds, but for private correspondence as well as public, especially in time of war, when cities were besieged and there were no other available means. At such times the attacking party kept a large stack of falcons, and it was the duty of the falconers to keep a sharp look-out for carrier pigeons. As soon as one would be conserved the falcons were let go, and usually they rushed in last pursuit. It is described as intensely interesting to see both pursuer and pursued cleaving the air like arrows; the speed of the fugitive and the eager for his life. The falcons frequently proved victorious, and would bring the bird down to the feet of their master of great value.
To circumvent this the besieged sometimes let fly five or six birds at a time, which bore no message, and when the falcon was either engaged with the other too tired to fly fast, another bearing the real bird let loose, and run the gauntlet with ease.
During the siege of Paris this was very much the way of bearing news, and many were the actors which reached outside lines and carried leaders far beyond the walls. Sharp-sinsters were at the business for their continually, but as a usual thing were of no avail. It was in this way that much news was carried between the Duke of the coalition within the city. The French, not wishing to an number the pigeons any more than necessary in order that they might enhance the chances of their getting through all right, made very small micro-photographs of newspapers, letters and military orders, the entire budget weighing but a few grains.
The only use they are put to at present is in flying matches. Birds belonging to different owners are kept long enough in the same dove-cote to convince an attachment for it, and then taken a long distance away. At this "pigeon meet" books are kept with a description of each bird entered and who it is owned by. The owner's name and the exact moment of flying are stamped quickly upon the vane of one of the wing or tail feathers and the birds set off. At the other end of the "fly" a committee of judges are assembled to record the incomers. It is usually arranged that the entire distance be traveled in daylight, so the birds are apt to go astray if allowed to fly by night. Large sums change hands yearly in England and France at the pigeon flying—Fancier's Gazette.

A Remarkable Description.
The New York World says that the other day a lady was deploring the death of an acquaintance with one of the latter's most intimate friends. During the course of their conversation the son of the deceased gentleman entered the room and conversation became general. On his departure, however, free and personal comment was passed upon him. Said lady No. 2, "That boy has his mother's eyes." "Yes," subscribed No. 1, decidedly, "and I noticed that he had his father's umbrella." This remarkable description has stuck to him ever since, and he is known as the boy with his mother's eyes and his father's umbrella.

IMPROVEMENTS IN GUNS.
We deal with admitted facts alone, facts which every citizen should carefully weigh, if he has any regard whatever for the safety and welfare of his country.
At the end of our war we were possessed of the most powerful artillery the world had ever seen.
Peace came at last, and we sank into that condition of repose which nature demanded after the fearful struggle we had waged for so many years.
But it was not so with other nations. The lessons of our war they took at once to heart, and one and all strove to improve their means of attack and defence in every way they could devise. Gunpowder was no longer used in comparatively small grains, but in compressed masses as large as a child's fist. Nor was improvement confined to form alone, or to increase in density. Changes in its composition were also introduced, using less sulphur, and a charcoal which, compared to the former proches, was much under-charred, thus producing the so-called "brown" or "coarse" powder of the Germans. This powder is said to give less smoke than the ordinary variety, and, while possessed of abundant energy, to develop the same gradually, and in a manner most favorable to the integrity of the gun.
That portion of the bore of cannon which was to receive the powder was toughened, and given a diameter greater than that of the remainder of the bore. The important principle of "air spacing" was discovered; that is, but partially filling the powder chamber, thus leaving a vacant space therein—the air space.
Sometimes the powder charge is introduced in two or more separate parcels, but one of which is ignited by the act of discharge, the subsequent combustion of the others successively adding their impulse to the already moving projectile. By thus, through these various devices, starting the projectile with a moderate pressure, and following it with pressure enough until it leaves the bore, it is found that while the strain upon the gun is at all times moderate velocities can be imparted to the shot before unheard of. No longer is the charge for rifled guns confined to one-tenth the weight of the shot, as was the rule during our war; one-fourth, one-third, one-half that weight, and even more, is now employed with safety, and with an advantage apparent at once upon consideration of the following rough-and-ready rule for computing the penetration of iron armor: A pointed shot of proper construction will perforate in direct fire as far for every thousand feet per second of its velocity of the incident shot; i. e., 2000 feet a second velocity will perforate a thickness of twice the diameter of the shot.
This one thing reacted on another, till it has culminated in the production of a gun of 110 tons, 17.7 inches calibre, 33 feet length of bore, firing 850 pounds of powder behind a 2110-pound projectile, which is estimated to be able to perforate thirty and a half inches of iron at 1000 yards.
Excluding those of the majority of heavy guns, we have, it is believed, but two 38-inch guns, both muzzle-loading rifles, three of 16-inch, and 110 smaller guns of the same description, and 140 muzzle-loading 8-inch rifles altered from 10-inch cast-iron smooth-bores by the insertion of a wrought metal tube. Two 12-inch and one 10-inch are now under contract. Our other guns, if considered as a defense against modern iron-clads, are beneath notice.
The 12-inch gun, when loaded with 120 pounds of powder and a 850-pound chilled shot, will, it appears, penetrate ten inches of iron at 1000 yards distance. The 8-inch rifle, with a 183-pound chilled shot and 35 pounds of hexagonal powder, will penetrate eight inches of iron at the same distance.
These are our most efficient guns.
Compare them with those against which they would be compelled to contend, and how pitiable must be the result. Krupp's new model high-power 48-ton 12-inch rifle, 35 feet long, takes 356 pounds of powder and a 1000-pound projectile, and will penetrate 20.5 inches of iron at the muzzle, and 21.4 inches at 2,000 yards, and gives a range of six miles at fifteen-degree elevation. Rifles of 80 and 100 tons have been mounted on shipboard.
The strength of the carriage and the enormous of its platform upon which it r

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

FORTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

A SENSATION originally introduced by Mr. Harrison calling for an investigation of the Pensions Commissioner's office was adopted by the Senate on the 5th inst., after the unanimous consent had been offered by Messrs Voorhees and Sherman. The Senate then resumed the consideration of the bill to amend the act of Mr. Black's statement that under his produce exchange scheme farmers would be paid a premium and so is the present incumbent's management of the Pension Office. Mr. Hoar said that the Utah bill, and Mormon matters in general, aroused bitter denunciation at the hands of Senators Morgan and Hoar. Mr. Ingalls proposed severe repressive measures, and spoke in the apologetic of the Saints. The House of Representatives passed Senate bill to provide for the relief of Mrs. Mary Lincoln, by granting a postal letter frank, to repay the income tax, by a commission on the war profits, for widows and orphans in the Civil War, to facilitate public land sales, for the Pacific land grants, to authorize silver dollars, and from hundred or two other things. Mr. Morrill introduced a bill to provide for a Joint Committee on Ways and Means, Bills of Appropriations, Board of Trade, and Department Revenue Office.

SENATOR BARRYS' Utah bill passed the Senate on the 6th inst. It is curious all the same as the Repealed, with the addition of a section providing that marriage between persons of the fourth degree of consanguinity, had not included, but had the contrary in view. Mr. Edmunds offered a concurrent resolution with a preamble to the effect that the action of the Congress of Utah declared the silver dollar of 412½ grains of silver, and that the national faith of the United States was solemnly pledged to the payment in coin or its equivalent of all public obligations not bearing interest, etc., and that the silver dollar of 412½ grains, the price of which is now 77 cents, is the only dollar in the coin and in the standard value, that a silver dollar of 412½ grains, and that from the practice of the Secretary of the Treasury, and that for Secretary of the Treasury, and that for Secretary of the Treasury, and that the silver dollar of 412½ grains, and that it would be the best for the public, and that it would be the best for the public, and that it would be the best for the public

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

Another Republican Outrage.

The committee on privileges and elections of the Ohio house of representatives, on Jan. 12th, reported a resolution to unseat nine of the democratic members from Hamilton county. The resolution was amended, providing for hearings to be recorded the unseated members. The resolution was adopted under the previous question. The seats were then declared vacant, amid the greatest confusion and in the midst of a howling mob. Nine republican members came forward and were sworn in by the speaker, and were cheered by the republicans and jeered by the democrats. The action assured the election of John Sherman to a seat in the United States Senate, and gave him twenty-one majority on joint ballot in the convention of the two houses.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., }
Jan. 14, 1880. }

Special Correspondence.

"The powers that be" are evidently averse to allowing government employees to use their positions as a means for swindling innocent people. In September last Oliver P. Burger, of Quincy, Ill., was appointed to a $1,000 position in registry division of the postoffice department. Mr. Burger appears to be an enterprising man, quick to take advantage of an opportunity to rapidly acquire wealth. He has been sending postal cards to school teachers and others over the country, stating that "about 2,000 vacancies occur yearly" in clerical positions under the government. After stating in glowing terms the great advantages of these places, and that they are filled by those who pass the civil service examinations satisfactorily, he says: "A pamphlet has been carefully prepared by the undersigned, giving full instructions and useful suggestions to those who desire to take the examination, and will be sent to any address on the receipt of fifty cents in postage stamps." Letters to be directed to him at the postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., thus making it appear that the authorities know and sanctioned his scheme. His proceedings being brought to the attention of the postmaster general, that official has been directed his removal, and he now has an opportunity to make a practical application of his valuable knowledge.

It would be well for those who desire to make application for civil service positions and examination to remember that they can obtain all necessary information free, by addressing the commission. Those who send money to parties advertising to furnish "full instructions how to obtain situations under the government," will make a poor investment.

Congress is in full working order and the affairs of the nation are receiving prompt attention. The Michigan representatives have been assigned positions on committees as follows:

Hon. W. C. Maybury is on the committee on ways and means and the committee on education.

Hon. T. F. Tarsney, committees on commerce and on labor.

Hon. E. C. Carleton, on the rivers and harbors committee, and the select committee on alcoholic liquor traffic.

Hon. E. B. Winans, on the commitee on agriculture and the committee on invalid pensions.

Hon. B. M. Cutcheon, committee on military affairs.

Hon. J. C. Burrows, on postoffices and post roads committee.

Hon. Jas. O'Donnell, committee on education, and select committee on ventilation and acoustics.

Hon. S. C. Moffat, the militia committee, and committee on election of president and vice president.

Hon. S. J. Fisher, committee on patents.

Hon. N. B. Eldridge, chairman of the committee on pensions, and member of the committee on private land claims.

Hon. C. C. Comstock, committee on war claims, and select committee on American shipbuilding and ship owning.

For a state that "anybody can carry," it would appear that Michigan has been very liberally dealt with by the democratic speaker of the house.

Washington is decidedly unfortunate in having the poorest, stalest daily papers of any prominent city in the country. Many towns with less than half as many inhabitants are supplied with better edited and more enterprising dailies. But then, what it lacks in quality it tries to make up in numbers.

The "wild west" blizzard, which came from the northwest, struck Washington Friday evening, and the "oldest inhabitant" informs us that there is more snow on the ground than at any one time for twenty years. It is about four inches deep, and everyone who owns, or can buy, beg, borrow, or steal a horse may be seen sleigh riding. This is a luxury that can be indulged in but once in a long while, as it is seldom that there is snow enough.

JOHNSON.

Sweetness and Politeness.

In Africa the bees have a very hard time; for there man has a sharp-eyed, active little friend to help him find their carefully-hidden honey. This little friend is a bird,—a rascally, shiftless fellow, that not only fails to build a home for its little ones, but even goes so far as to make other birds have all the trouble and worry of hunting up and feeding them. Like the cuckoo, it puts its eggs in the nests of other birds.

The "honey-guide," as it is called, is exceedingly fond of honey; or, if it may not have that, is very well satisfied with young bees. It is only about the size of a lark, and so is not specially fitted for encountering a swarm of bees fighting in defense of their home. Once in a while, it tries to rob a nest, but is usually well punished for doing so. The little bees seem to know that their stings can not injure the leather-covered hide of the bird, and accordingly they direct their attacks at the eyes of the robber; and if the bird does not escape in time, it will be blinded, and so perish of starvation.

However, the honey-guide is seldom so foolish as to run any such risk. It prefers to have some one else steal the honey, and is content with a small portion for its share.

When it has found a nest, it darts away in search of a man. As soon as it sees one, it hovers over him, flies about his head, perches near him, or flutters here and there in front of him, all the time chirping vigorously. The native knows in a moment what the little bird means, and as he loves honey as a child does candy, only something that is very enough will prevent his accepting the honey-guide's invitation. When he is ready to follow, he whistles, and the bird seems to understand the signal, for it at once flies on, for a short distance and waits till the man is near, and then flies on a few yards farther. In this way the bird leads the man until the place is reached. Then it suddenly changes its twitter for a peculiar note, and either hovers over the nest for a moment, or complacently sits down and lets the man find the nest, the best he can.

When it is found, the bees are smoked out with a torch or with a fire of leaves according to the height of the nest from the ground. A small portion of the honey is given to the bird as its share of the plunder. If the little fellow has had honey enough, it disappears; but if, as is usually the case, it receives only enough to whet its appetite, it will lead to another nest, and sometimes even to a third.—From "Wonders of Bees," by John G. Wood, in St. Nicholas for October.

Queer Matches of Businessmen.

Most people the moment they enter a partnership or get married become embarrassed, and do hardly recognize the world in a day. One fellow I heard of was dreadfully afflicted in this way, and without realizing his act pulled a cigar from his pocket, and twirled it around in his hands. We in that portion of the ceremony was reached in which the lady and gentleman join hands to begin to make the cigar in half a right hand. What to do with the cigar he evidently didn't know. The clergyman paused for a moment and then repeated the instruction that they join hands. By this time the poor fellow's embarrassment had increased so that it was painful to behold. He gave one agonized look at the minister and then stuck the cigar in his mouth. Before the ceremony could be concluded the minister had to take the cigar from between his lips. Another prospective groom was in the same dire condition of mind. He was making a great effort to grab his companion by whirling around on his outstretched finger a twin lost when the minister announced his readiness to begin the service. The fellow quickly jumped up. For a second he did not know what to do with his hat, but only for a second, for he solved the problem by sticking the castor between an arm-pit. The clergyman told me he could hardly restrain from laughter as he marked that man standing in the rollicksome position he was forced to take.—Salem (Ind.) Record.

How Texas Came Into the Union.

The usually accurate and judicious paper, the Chicago Times, says: "When Texas was admitted into the Union it was under a solemn contract that whenever she desired to withdraw from the Union she could do so." Could the Chronicle produce such a contract it would rank as one of the most curious secrets in diplomacy. The articles of annexation passed by the United States Congress simply provided for the admission of Texas "as one of the States of this Union" under certain conditions; but not a word was said of the right of the State to secede. As the precise manner in which the Republic of Texas became a State of the American Union is unknown to most of the present generation, a brief recapitulation of the facts may be of interest to many. After various negotiations on the subject the United States Congress passed a joint resolution declaring that the territory belonging to the Republic of Texas might be erected into a new State and be admitted into the Union on certain conditions, including the cession by Texas to the United States of public edifices, such as fortifications, barracks, forts and harbors, navy and navy yards, docks, magazines, armament and all other property and means pertaining to public defense; Texas to retain all her public lands, funds, debts, taxes and dues of every kind. Texas, through her Congress and a convention, accepted the conditions. The final act of the United States Congress on the subject declares that Texas "is admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever." Nothing was said in the act of any State to withdraw from the Union when Texas was admitted.—Chicago Times (Dem.) News.

Proper Treatment for Coughs.

That the majority now fully understand what constitutes a good Cough and Lung Syrup, as well as that Parsons' White Lungs is the leading best remedy to relieve and cure. Thousands with several bottles testify as effectively, every month, as does the proprietor, of the wonderful curative powers of the most reliable medicine in the market. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter. 2

AT HOME AND ABROAD;

At church and theatre, in the counting house and work room, in fact everywhere is heard that hacking cough which unmistakably betrays congestion or inflamation of the lungs, bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. Be wise in time. Immediate relief and cure can be cheaply obtained. HAMLTOCK'S COUGH BALSAM will surely give relief from these throat and lung troubles that often terminate in death. Immediate relief in croup, and a sidecurer of whooping cough. Your consumption friend will be greatly benefited. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

EATING AND STARVING

It is all the same, for you are sure to suffer from piles. No worse torture can be conceived of. Blind or itching piles are insupportable for anyone not had by a few applications of PARSONS' PILE NINTMENT they entirely disappear. The knife is often resorted to by physicians for the removal of protruding piles, but such barbarity is not a necessity for PARSONS'NINTMENT is used according to directions, quickly reduces, replaces, and drives them away. Warranted to cure. Price 50 cents per box.

Sold by G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

WHY WASTE TIME AND MONEY

On that which does not good, when your children have worms and are crazed, always hungry, sleepless, puny and weak from the presence of worms in the stomach which prevents the food being taken up to nourish the body. PARSONS' SPECIFIC WORM CANDIES will dissolve and remove the worms and then all will be well. You can do no better by your children than to attend to their health. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.

Have a full Assortment of

WOOLEN BLANKETS AND LUMBERMEN'S SUPPLIES.

Six, Six and a Half, and Seven Foot Saws. Double and Single Bitted Axes, Steel Sledges and Wedges. Rubber Goods of all Kinds. Felt Boots, Mackinaw and German Socks, etc. etc. Women and Childrens Buckle Arctics, Olivetts, Snow Excluders, Imitation Sandals, and in short everything of use in the Camp or Household.

PINE LAKE IRON CO., Ironton, Mich.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

Sold Only by

L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

PERFECTION AXES.

6 ft. Saws,

CANT HOOKS

Steel Wedges.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more used than any other plug in the trade. It is made of the best leaf, and is SWEETENED, FLAVORED AND CANNED, and is CUT AS YOU WANT IT, fine or coarse, as it is ever ordered. NIMROD is kept in stock by THE CHEWER, never sticks on the dealer's hands. This caused quite a sensation among other Manufacturers of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.

Petersburg, Va.

ANOTHER INVOICE

JUST RECEIVED.

SILVERWARE

CLOCKS,

JEWELRY.

C. R. BELLINGER.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

Upright & Harmed Additions, Charlevoix.

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

John Nicholls,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.,

Manufacturer of and dealer in

H. HYWOOD AND PINE

LUMBER!

ALSO

Dressed lumber, Oar Blades,

WAGON BOXES, SHINGLES, LATH, ETC.

LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Great Streets

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the south, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Great streets, and respects all to give him a trial.

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

THE JOURNAL

CHARLEVOIX, MICH., JAN. 31, 1880.

Watch Your Address Label.

The time to which each subscription is paid is printed on the address label. If the address label is not correct, the person's name should always be reported to us. Arrears are respectfully reported to us if we have not understand the system, or any mistake occur.

STOPPED

When persons find the subscription is paid to a time in the future, from this explanation, their choice would now be readily understood.

Those who do not find their paper stopped when their time is up, may be sure that it is because we have received no order to stop it, and any mistake may be corrected if reported.

CHARLEVOIX POSTOFFICE

WINTER ARRANGEMENT.

OFFICE HOURS 7.30 A. M. to 7.00 P. M.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

GOING NORTH. STANDARD TIME. GOING SOUTH.

Mail leaves 10.45 a. m. | Mail arrives 12.45 p. m.
Express leaves 1.05 p. m. | Express arrives 1.00 p. m.
Sunday 1.00 p. m. | Sunday 2.00 p. m.

Express office will be properly closed and sealed at the time of leaving the mail. Express matter should be delivered for departure.

Mail for Ironton leaves 12.30 p. m.
Mail for Ironton arrives 1.15 p. m.

OLIVER A. STRANG, P. M.

1881 lady's gold watch and earrings, with tiger eye stone and brilliants between the pastoliere and lady. Jedewell's. The finder will please leave it at this office and be suitably rewarded.

Do you want an eastern paper? The New York Weekly World is one of the best democratic newspapers in the United States. Furnished with the JOURNAL for only $2.00 per year.

We wish to call special attention to our consultation snow excluder and Dandelion cyclopedia. A very excellent article. TRUMBY & EMREY.

Buy a pound of New Era Baking Powder of U. G. E. and get a long tea cup, saucer and plate, for 35 cents. Upright & Emrey.

A new line of underwear received today. Gents' caps, socks, mittens, etc. Upright & Emrey.

Look for rides at Jefferies' Music.

Fresh Oysters at Jefferies' today.

Best fresh butter at Jefferies' today.

Local Notes and News.

STRANG, EDITOR.

The register of deeds was in town Monday.

Snow is now about two feet deep in the woods.

Tally and Mrs. John Cook, Jun., is a daughter.

Tyler and Mrs. Smith Campbell, Jan. 24, a daughter.

Preaching at Ironton next Sunday at 2.30 by Rev. J. T. Iddings.

John Hogan returned home from Upper Peninsula last week.

F. W. Crouter, of Cadillac, is in town today, calling on his family.

A Lyceum is exerting an adjunct to its store building at East Jordan.

South Arm is considered the best hickory now between Ironton and East Jordan.

The boys's band tendered a serenade to Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Neil, Monday evening.

A snow drift driven through the streets to day makes decided improvement in the sleighing.

The Ladies of the M. E. Church, will meet at the home of Mrs. J. T. Iddings, on Friday, at 3 o'clock.

Orlando Hunt and J. H. Stone, of East Jordan, were down Tuesday, sold and made the JOURNAL a call.

Robert Gillespie, of Grand Rapids, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church next Sunday morning.

E. A. Berdan, of Detroit, attended the funeral of his sister in Charlevoix the week, returning home to day.

Ladies, you are invited to meet with Mrs. Iddings, at the parsonage Friday afternoon, Jan. 22. All are welcome.

The pleasant party of the season was at Mrs. R. W. Knipe's, on Monday evening, on the occasion of her birthday.

In lieu of a gospel sermon, Rev. Mr. McCartney gave his congregation a ride to the war to a full house, on Friday evening.

Atha Howard removed his household goods this week to Saline, where he is to engage in business on his own account.

Atha Howard, of Saline, was in town over Sunday, and took part in the K. O. T. M. installation of officers last Thursday evening.

The Charlevoix Mfg. Co. have a card in another column of interest to many of our readers. Look the matter up and give it attention.

The voice of the chimney sweep is heard in the land once more. William Horton and Elmer Mayne have returned from the south part of the state where they have made quite a success at sweeping chimneys.

J. A. Cameron, of Bayne City, expects to make another trip to Texas and New Mexico in about two weeks, to be absent several months.

The young people's society in connection with the M. E. church is doing some good literary and christian work, and having a good social time.

The ladies of Charlevoix will be pleased to learn of the unexpectant big establishment opened on Antrim street, by Mrs. Josie Dart. Call and see her.

An institution is about to be established in Charlevoix which will bring more people here than any other one industry now here. More concerning it later on.

Six inches of snow fell Friday night, the right kind to make good sleighing. A little more nearly every day since has made the roads almost perfect.

A day or since, Ed. Bedford went out for his seine, and asked a friend to look after his nets. He had a fair catch, but not a very delightful time handling the wet nets.

Wouldn't it be "a good scheme" to put the runners on to the fire engine? Eight or ten men would find pretty hard pulling to take it to a fire with suitable speed.

Episcopal service will be held at the Congregational church next Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m. Time and place of evening service announced at the morning service.

On the occasion of her birthday, Tuesday evening last, the friends of Miss Lottie Mason came in such numbers as to completely surprise her. An evening of pleasantries and glee.

The little son of A. R. Dixon, in trying to amuse himself with a feed cutter, one day last week, got his hand between the rog wheels bruising it badly; but it is now healing rapidly.

A crowded house at Ironton waited a full hour for a minister last Sunday, and waited in vain. The disappointment was the result of a misunderstanding, for which it is impossible now to blame any one.

Rev. J. T. Iddings leaves for our publication special notice of his next Sunday's services at the M. E. church, both morning and evening. The young people's meeting at 6 o'clock will be led by Miss Jefferies.

The firm of D. C. Loveday & Co., hardware dealers, East Jordan, has been dissolved, Mr. D. C. Loveday continuing the business. Mr. Auburn, however, expects to remain in the store with him until spring.

The little daughter of Henry Sugerman was severely burned a day or two since. Running too near the stove her dress took fire, but by the efforts of her brother, a little older, the flames were extinguished.

W. S. Johnson, of Sutton's Bay, was in town last Thursday and Friday. He reports his office now at Ann Arbor, and apparently making good recovery, after having been given up as hopeless by friends and physicians at home.

The new telephone line is completed between Traverse City and Sutton's Bay. It is already found to be a great convenience there, and we may confidently look forward to the day when it will be connected with our system here.

Horton & Mayne call attention in another column to a matter of considerable interest to almost every householder in town. Examine your chimneys, and if they need cleaning, have it done before it is too late. Delays are sometimes dangerous.

With the building boom sure to come in the spring, and the natural increase of business sure to follow the new flour mill and other business houses soon to be opened, Charlevoix people may look for the liveliest summer in the history of the town.

A little girl came down town the other evening bringing her baubled with her, which she left on the sidewalk while she went into a store on an errand. When she came to look for her sled it was gone. Diligent search discovered it in use on Round Lake by a party of small boys. This is an example of gallantry which should not be imitated.

Just before the close of navigation a cinder row boat was missed from a Charlevoix Resort boat house, and a careful search by warden Kelly at first failed to discover it, but a letter from Boyne City this week, states that the boat has been found at that place, and taken care of. This is the first item of loss under Mr. Kelley's management and he is fortunate in recovering it so soon and in good order.

Mr. John Lang, late of Toronto, and Al. F. Draper, well known to our citizens from his long connection with the firm of Upright & Emrey, in Charlevoix, and the Pine Lake Iron Co., in Ironton, have joined their with times and established themselves in the dry goods and grocery trade at South Arm. They have a large stock of groceries now open in the building formerly occupied by P. LeCuyer, and a complete stock of dry goods will be opened next week. As soon as spring opens they will make a change in the building, adding a larger and better salesroom, and will aim to take the lead in trade in that community. Mr. Draper's acquaintance with the people and the needs of the community, will assist materially in doing this. The firm will pay the highest market prices in cash for everything the farmer has to dispose of in the line of ties, posts, wood, bark, produce, etc. We wish them success in their enterprise.

Some of the daily papers, in reporting the death of Mr. Sheffer, stated that he was intoxicated at the time. We have taken pains to get at the truth of the matter, and think that while it is a slander upon the county to state unpalatably that the man froze to death, it is also a slander upon the man to say he was intoxicated. He was probably sick and becoming suddenly faint, lay down and could not rise, and then froze.

W. F. Palmiter, of East Jordan, is supposed to be a brave man, but last Thursday evening when the party came down to the K. O. T. M. installation, he was pretty thoroughly frightened by the ice which cracked and seemed to give way under the sleigh. He jumped out and ran behind rather than ride with the load. Considerable more than this is said of him by the boys in the party.

There is a constant increase of patronage of our public schools. We have this term seven foreign scholars—five in the high school and two in the intermediate. One of these is a resident of Ohio, another of Harbor Springs, and the remainder of neighboring townships. Considering the closeness of times, and the rate of tuition this is a good showing; for it must be borne in mind that foreign scholars have board bills, as well as tuition to pay.

Tuesday evening Harry Chamberlin came home from Charlevoix to visit his folks, and brought a young lady of that place with him, who stopped with Mrs. Chamberlin over night. In the evening a fire was started in a room up stairs for the young lady's benefit. About ten o'clock, just as the family were about to retire, smoke was discovered in the house and an investigation showed that the ceiling up stairs, next to the chimney, was caught fire from the stove pipe. An alarm was given, but by the time the hose cart reached the house the fire had been extinguished.—Petoskey Democrat.

Boston Harbor is a place of between 4,000 and 5,000 inhabitants, yet during the month of December only 40 were drawn from her public library. This fact was noticed by a Buchanan editor, and the statement made, that during the same month, Buchanan, with a population not more than half as large, furnished 80 patrons for her library, which was an exceedingly good showing; but Boston has 500 patrons for her library, which we cannot help thinking, if we compared the record of Charlevoix. Our library has been open only 77 days, and there have been drawn 306 books, which for 30 days would be 540 books, and yet our population is only about 1,500. In a friendly way we would say to Benton Harbor: "Brace up."

Cornish & Francis are putting these wintry days to good account in their shop by fitting up the inside finishing for our Stalbaum cottage, and getting everything ready for a prompt start on the building as soon as weather with the return of spring. In addition to this, they are pushed with an unusual amount of miscellaneous job work for this time of year. This shop is supplied with a very complete set of Jones' latest improved mitre chimney, and even with the help of these this firm are unable to keep up with their work as they desire. In the Smithson cottage they will put up some elaborate and richly carved finishings, in native wood, which will stand as a monument, not only to the skill of the builders but to our wood resources of building material.

Several parties promised us wood, "say, drop down tomorrow" and "next week," but failed us in the end. When we had put the last stick in the stove and the mercury began to draw itself in, like an offended snail or a land tortoise hoed, a farmer on south promised to bring us a load right away, and went home after it. On reaching home he found it had not been cut in his absence as he expected so he loaded a little on from his house and brought it along. "That's the stuff" friend and we'll remember you. Since the above was in type several of our friends whom we feared had forgotten us, drove up and took us by surprise and now just might be as we smile while we toast our shins. But when we now have won't last long with five stoves, "who's next.

New Dry Goods House.

We understand that F. W. Crouter's visit to Charlevoix this week was not altogether to visit friends, as he concluded arrangements by which, about the first of April, E. R. Green's new brick store will be occupied with a complete stock of dry goods and ladies' furnishing goods. Frank's long experience in the business, and his wide acquaintance in Charlevoix, gained during his connection with Geo. W. Miller's clothing house, are a guarantee that the demands of the community will be diligently studied, and satisfactorily supplied. We wish him every achievable success.

J. L. HURD & CO'S

SPECIAL PRICES.

We regret that our high priced neighbors are grieved because we are quoting low figures in the public prints, but have no time to shed tears when sympathy is undeserved. They prefer the old plan. Keep the customer in ignorance of real values, hand of "square deals," fossilization, low prices in the abstract and great facilities for buying cheap, but it would not do to commit themselves to a price. In these times, when money is scarce, and every commodity low, the publicis not to be gulled with any such chaff. Our prices are acceptable to the people and our business is to serve them.

WE ARE SELLING

Manitowoc Patent Flour, per bbl	$5.75	Hiawatha Fine Cut Tobacco	75
Mess Pork, last year's New	6.00	Specialized Fine Tobacco	40
Lard Pails	8	Peerless Smoking Tobacco	50
Lard	8	3-lb Raz Soap	25
Granulated Sugar	8	3-lb Can Peaches	25
White Sugar	8	3-lb Can California Apricots	30
4 lbs Arbuckles Coffee	1.00	3-lb Can Best Tomatoes	19
Good Roasted Rio Coffee	22½	3-lb Can Corn	15
3 lbs Best Starch	25	3-lb Can Apples	8

Our Grammar. Below competition in prices and as good or better in quality.

We are selling all our Winter Goods, such as Flannels, Blankets, Woolen Underwear, Gloves and Mittens, Hosiery, Dressgoods, etc., at great reduction to close. A word to the wise is sufficient.

J. L. HURD & CO,

Pioneers in Low Prices.

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

The Historical Society.

The society met this week at Mrs. Alnslie's. The night was stormy and Elder McCartney was billed for a war lecture at the M. E. church; nevertheless the rooms were well filled.

The program was as follows:

Vocal duet—"Oh, Mayest Thou Dream of May" by Mrs. Frederick Mayne and Miss Flora Ainslie.

Select reading—"The Testing of Azmel," by the President, E. R. Green.

Intermission.

Vocal solo—"Polly," by Gard. Brown.

Select reading—"The Missouri on Tap," by John Burns.

Vocal Solo—"Summer Evening Memories," by Mrs. E. M. Clark.

Paper—"Alfred the Great," by Miss Lunn Washburn.

The paper by Mr. Green was an exceedingly lumpy one. It was a story of the rebellion; or rather, an episode of the late war, as the ensuing dedicated actually transpired. Mr. Green himself having personal knowledge of the facts. During the reading there were many moist eyes, including those of the major himself.

The paper by Miss Lunn Washburn echoed extensive study and excellent judgment in separating fact from fiction, and panstaking composition; and being well rendered was received with hearty applause.

K. O. T. M. Installation.

A lustily prepared but altogether very pleasant and successful entertainment occurred last Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' hall, on the occasion of the installation of officers of the Knights of the Maccabees. During the forenoon a number of East Jordan knights decided to accept an invitation previously extended to them to attend the installation of officers to be held here on that evening. They were to be accompanied by the East Jordan band, and the exercises were to be public. The society here were notified of their acceptance, and arrangements were lustily made for entertaining them with supper. The first intimation of the affair to most of our people was the playing of the East Jordan band on our streets, when they arrived about seven o'clock, two hours of visitors having came down on the ice. The ceremony of installation began about 9 o'clock, in the presence of a company of invited guests, after which the Charlevoix knights spread a most generous feast. The revelry continued until nearly midnight, when the visitors returned to their homes, and the Charlevoix tent concluded its labors in secret.

Nuptials.

On Tuesday last at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. J. T. Iddings, Miss Mary E. Berdan and Capt. Robert O'Neil, were united in the bonds of wedlock. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock p. m. after which the cake and its accompaniments were served.

The plan was for a private wedding, only the families of the bride and groom being invited, but the Charlevoix Boy's Cornet Band, could not resist the temptation to wish the couple lifelong joy "in notes almost divine," and were rewarded by a cordial welcome, a luscious repast, and each a morsel of wedding cake.

We unite with the host of friends in wishing the young couple "a world of happy days and an eternity of bliss."

THE THROAT

Is often diseased on account of catarrh, producing dryness and a constant desire to cough. That tickling sensation and the hoarseness that is so common to public singers and speakers especially, is relieved at once by HAMLTOCKS COUGH TOKENS which are prepared from the most approved formula. Do not wait till acute bronchitis or even consumption takes firm hold of you. Price only 25c per box.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton. w-149

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently generated by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to imagine he has sent a stitcher of the kidneys or neighboring organs. A dull heavy pain or uneasiness generally follows. A measure, the perspiration, the sensation of a sharp gravel, gives rise to great anxiety, and is a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the part affected. Sold by druggists at 75 cents, and by the inventor, Philadelphia, on receipt of price. Sent free on receipt of stamp. Call at druggists. Crouter.

DO YOU OWE

THE

CHARLEVOIX MANUFACTURING CO.

If so, and your account is due, or past due, an immediate settlement will save trouble and expense.

As the Directors have ordered all out standing accounts collected, Mr. Sec may be found at Stockman & Iddings' store for the purpose of making settlements.

By Order of the Directors.

HEATH & FRANCIS,

Builders and Jobbers,

Charlevoix, Mich.

Plans, Specifications, and material furnished, and houses built complete. Repairing and rebuilding done to order.

FINE FURNITURE

Built to order, and finished to suit of hands neatly and short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

Will take lumber or block wood in part payment for furniture. Shop on Antrim street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. JOSIE DART,

Is prepared to do

Dressmaking

In a neat and stylish manner, and would respectfully solicit a share of the public patronage. Rooms at the residence of Capt. J. J. Gaul, five doors east of Stanley's grocery on Antrim.

MRS. JOSIE DART, Charlevoix.

FIRE! FIRE!!

Avoid all danger by keeping your chimney in good order.

HORTON & MAYNE, Chimney Sweeps.

Will do the work promptly, carefully, and successfully, without dirt or litter on the premises. Get it done before the spring rushes, ordering a good and reserve prompt attention.

HORTON & MAYNE, Charlevoix, Mich.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Another Republican Outrage.

The committee on privileges and elections of the Ohio house of representatives, on Jan. 12th, reported a resolution to unseat nine of the democratic members from Hamilton county. The resolution was amended, providing for hearings to be accorded the unseated members. The seats were then declared vacant, and the greatest confusion, and in the midst of it howling mob. Nine republican members. The resolution was adopted under the previous question. The seats were then declared vacant, and the greatest confusion, and in the midst of a howling mob. Nine republican members came forward and were sworn in by the speaker, and were cheered by the republicans and jeered by the democrats. The action assured the election of John Sherman to a seat in the United States Senate, and gave him twenty one majority on joint ballot in the convention of the two houses.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., }
Jan. 11, 1886. }

Special Correspondence.

"The powers that be" are evidently averse to allowing government employees to use their positions as a means for swindling in second people. In September last Oliver P. Burger, of Quincy, Ill., was appointed to a $1,000 position in registry division of the postoffice department. Mr. Burger appears to be an enterprising man, quick to take advantage of an opportunity to rapidly acquire wealth. He has been sending postal cards to school teachers and others over the country, stating that "about 2,000 vacancies occur yearly" in clerical positions under the government. After stating in glowing terms the great advantages of these places, and that they are filled by those who pass the civil service examinations satisfactorily, he says: "A pamphlet has been carefully prepared by the undersigned, giving full instructions and useful suggestions to those who desire to take the examination, and will be sent to any address on the receipt of fifty cents in postage stamps." Letters to be directed to him at the postoffice department, Washington, D. C., thus making it appear that the authorities know and sanctioned his scheme. His proceedings being brought to the attention of the postmaster general, that official at once directed his removal, and he now has an opportunity to make a practical application of his valuable knowledge.

It would be well for those who desire to make application for civil service positions and examination to remember that they can obtain all necessary information free, by addressing the commission. Those who send money to parties advertising to furnish "full instructions how to obtain situations under the government," will make a poor investment.

Congress is in full working order and the affairs of the nation are receiving prompt attention. The Michigan representatives have been assigned positions on committees as follows:

Hon. W. C. Maybury is on the committee on ways and means and the committee on education.

Hon. T. E. Tarsney, committee on commerce and on labor.

Hon. E. C. Carleton, on the rivers and harbors committee, and the select committee on alcoholic liquor traffic.

Hon. E. B. Winans, on the committee on agriculture and the committee on invalid pensions.

Hon. B. M. Cutcheon, committee on military affairs.

Hon. J. C. Burrows, on postoffices and post roads committee.

Hon. Jas. O'Donnell, committee on education, and select committee on ventilation and acoustics.

Hon. S. S. Moffat, the militia committee, and committee on election of president and vice president.

Hon. S. O. Fisher, committee on patents.

Hon. N. B. Eldridge, chairman of the committee on pensions, and member of the committee on private land claims.

Hon. C. C. Comstock, committee on war claims, and select committee on American shipbuilding and shipowning.

For a state that "anybody can carry," it would appear that Michigan has been very liberally dealt with by the democratic speaker of the house.

Washington is decidedly unfortunate in having the poorest, dullest daily papers of any prominent city in the country. Many towns with less than half as many inhabitants are supplied with abler edited and more enterprising dailies. But then, what it lacks in quality it tries to make up in numbers.

"The wild west" blizzard, which came from the northwest, struck Washington Friday evening, and the "oldest inhabitant" informs us that there is more snow on the ground than at any one time for many years. It is about four inches deep, and everyone who owns, or can buy, beg, borrow, or steal a horse may be seen sleigh riding. This is a luxury that can be indulged in but once in a long while, as it is seldom that there is snow enough.

JASSESS.

Succotash and Beatbeas.

In Africa the bees have a very hard time; for there man has a sharp-eyed, active little friend to help him find their carefully hidden honey. This little friend is a bird,—a racally, shiftless fellow, that not only fails to build a home for its little ones, but even goes so far as to make other birds have all the trouble and worry of bringing up and feeding them. Like the cuckoo, it puts its eggs in the nests of other birds.

The "honey-guide," as it is called, is exceedingly fond of honey; or, if it can not have that, is very well satisfied with young bees. It is only about the size of a lark, and so is not specially fitted for encountering a swarm of bees fighting in defense of their home. Once in a while, it tries to rob a nest, but is usually well punished for doing so. The little bees seem to know that their stings can not pierce the feather-covered body of the bird, and accordingly they direct their attacks at the eyes of the robber; and if the bird does not escape in time, it will be blinded, and so perish of starvation.

However, the honey-guide is seldom so foolish as to run any such risk. It prefers to have some one else steal the honey, and is content with a small portion for its share.

When it has found a nest, it darts away in search of a man. As soon as it sees one, it hovers over him, flies about his head, perches near him, or flutters here and there in front of him, all the time chirping vigorously. The native knows in a moment what the little bird means; and as he loves honey as a child does candy, only something that is very important will prevent his accepting the honey-guide's invitation. When he is ready to follow, he whistles and the bird seems to understand the signal, for it at once flies on, for a short distance and waits till the man is near, and then flies on a few yards farther. In this way the bird leads the man until the nest is reached. Then it suddenly changes its twitter for a peculiar note, and other birds come to the nest for a moment, or exceptionally sits down and lees the man find the nest, the best he can.

When it is found, the bees are smoked out with a torch or with dried leaves, according to the height of the nest from the ground. A small portion of the honey is given to the bird as its share of the plunder. If the little fellow has had honey enough, it drops pears; but if, as is usually the case, it receives only enough to whet its appetite, it will hop to another nest, and sometimes even to a third.—From "Bonaparte Island," by John R. Coryell in St. Nicholas for December.

Queer Mistakes of Bridegrooms.

Most people the moment they enter a parsonage to get married become embarrassed, and make horrid messes of what they do. One fellow I heard of was dreadfully affected in this way, and actually pocketing his pet pulled a cigar from his pocket and twirled it around in his hands. When that portion of the ceremony was reached in which the lady and gentleman join hands he hopped to place the cigar in his right hand. What to do with the cigar he evidently didn't know. The clergyman paused for a moment and then repeated the instruction that they join hands. By this time the poor fellow's embarrassment had increased so that it was painful to behold. He gave one agonized look at the minister and then stuck the cigar in his mouth. Before the ceremony could be concluded the minister had to take the cigar from between his lips. Another prospective groom was in the same dire condition of mind. He was making a great effort to regain his composure by whirling around on his attractive fingers a silk hat when the minister announced his readiness to begin the services. The fellow quickly pinched up. For a second he did not know what to do with his hat, but only for a second, for he solved the problem by sticking the castor between his knees. The clergyman told me he could hardly refrain from laughter as he married that man standing in the ridiculous position he was forced to take.—Toledo Blade.

How Texas Came Into the Union.

The usually accurate and judicious paper, the Chicago Chronicle, says: "When Texas was admitted into the Union it was under a solemn contract that whenever she desired to withdraw from the Union she could do so." Could the Chronicle produce such a contract it would rank as one of the most curious secrets in diplomacy. The articles of annexation passed by the United States Congress simply provided for the admission of Texas "as one of the States of this Union" under certain conditions; but not a word was said of the right of the State to secede. As the precise manner in which the Republic of Texas became a State of the American Union is unknown to most of the present generation, a brief recapitulation of the facts may be of interest to many. After certain negotiations on the subject the United States Congress passed a joint resolution declaring that the territory belonging to the Republic of Texas might be erected into a new State and be admitted into the Union on certain conditions, including the cession by Texas to the United States of public edifices, such as fortifications, barracks, forts and barracks, navy and navy yards, docks, magazines, armament and all other property and means pertaining to public defense. Texas to retain all her public lands, funds, debts, taxes and duties of every kind. Texas, through her Congress and a convention, accepted the conditions. The final act of the United States Congress on the subject declares that Texas "is admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever." Nothing was said of the right of any State to withdraw from the Union when Texas was admitted.—Chicago (Ind.) News.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.

Have a full Assortment of

WOOLEN BLANKETS AND LUMBERMEN'S SUPPLIE

Six, Six and a Half, and Seven Foot Saws. Doub
and Single Bitted Axes, Steel Sledges and Wedge Rubber Goods of all Kinds. Felt Boots, Mac inaw and German Socks, etc. etc. Women a
Childrens Buckle Arctics, Olivetts, Snow Exclude
Imitation Sandals, and in short everything of u
in the Camp or Household.

PINE LAKE IRON CO., Ironton, Mich

PERRY WEED,
DRUGGIST AND STATIONE
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES
Sold Only by
L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & CO.

PERFECTION AX
6 ft. Saws,
CANT HOO
Steel Wedges

HENRY C. COOPER
Undertaker
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmin
Always in Stock.
Come and See my Stock of Furnitu
ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTEN

John Nicholls,
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.
Manufacturer of and dealer in
HARDWOOD AND PINE
LUMBER!
ALSO
Dressed Lumber, Oar Blades,
WAGON TONGUES, SHUCKLES, LATH, ETC.
LUMBER SAWED AND BILLS FILLED TO ORDER.

New Grocery!
Cor. Antrim and Great Streets
A. J. MUDGE
Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the resident Lake southwestern part of town, and all coming in from the north, that he has opened a stock of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Great streets, and requests all to give him a trial.
BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED
Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

"Facts to be Remembered."
NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO
Is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and now used than any other CHEW in the Market. It is made of the BEST LEAF TOBACCO GROWN, and is sold at a less price than any other first class chew of its size. It is a fine, rich, and a lasting chew, and is the cheapest chew in the dealer's hands. This is not a cold leaf or other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.
S. W. VENABLE & CO.
Petersburg, Va.

ANOTHER INVOICE
JUST RECEIVED.
SILVERWARE
CLOCKS,
JEWELRY.
C. R. BELLINGER.

At the Old Stand.
A. J. McLe
Can be found at the old stand with
FULL STOCK OF MEATS
of all kinds
At Wholesale and Retail.
HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
Upright & Hurlbut Additions,
Charlevoix.
HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Hanger,
And Decorator.
PINK AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

Watch Your Address Label.

The figures which each subscription is paid to, will show the name on the address label, and every person's account, always stands in advance. All arrears are respectfully requested to pay.

Which means that the subscription is paid to the end of the month and year indicated. Any person receiving a paper with a wrong date upon the address label, does not show a mistake, but is receiving a paper stopped for some reason. Please examine your address label and see if the date is correct, and if not, report the matter to us at once.

Subscribers who do not receive their papers regularly should also report the matter to us at once.

CHARLEVOIX POSTOFFICE.

Winter Arrangement.

OFFICE HOURS. ..... 7.30 A. M. to 7.30 P. M.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.
(GOODS SHOULD BE MARKED THUS, AGENT, etc.)

At Boyne City, Leaves daily at 7.45 a. m.
At Boyne City, Arrives daily ..... 5.00 p. m.
At Boyne City, Leaves Tuesday ..... 2.00 p. m.

Office closed one hour to properly assort and mail. It is necessary to close at least 15 minutes before departure of mails for distribution.

Leaves for Boyne City ..... 12.30 p. m.
Leaves for Boyne City, Tuesday ..... 1.45 p. m.
Leaves for Boyne City ..... 12.30 p. m.
Leaves for Boyne City, Tuesday ..... 1.45 p. m.

J. A. Cameron, of Boyne City, expects to make another trip to Texas and New Mexico in about two weeks, to be absent several months.

The young people's society in connection with the M. E. church is doing some good literary and christian work, and having a good social time.

The ladies of Charlevoix will be pleased to learn of the new dressmaking establishment opened on Antrim street, by Mrs. Josie Dart. Call and see her.

An institution is about to be established in Charlevoix which will bring more people here than any other one industry now here. More concerning it later on.

Six inches of snow fell Friday night, the right kind to make good sleighing. A little more nearly every day since has made the roads almost perfect.

A day or since, Ed Bulford went out for the last time this winter to look after his nets. He had a fair catch, and on a very delightful time hauling the wet nets.

Wouldn't it be "a good scheme" to put the streets out to the fire engine? Eight or ten men would find pretty hard pulling to take it to a fire with suitable speed.

Episcopal service will be held at the Congregational church next Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m. Time and place of evening service announced in trade in that community. Mr. Draper's acquaintance with the people and the needs of the community, will assist materially in doing this. The firm will pay the highest market prices in cash for everything the farmer has to dispose of in the line of ties, posts, wood, bark, produce, etc. We wish them success in their enterprise.

Some of the daily papers, in reporting the death of Mr. Shaffer, stated that he was intoxicated at the time. We have taken pains to get at the truth of the matter, and think that while it is a slander upon the county to state unquestionably that the man froze to death, it is also a slander upon the man to say he was intoxicated. He was probably sick and becoming suddenly faint, lay down and could not rise, and then froze.

W. F. Palmiter, of East Jordan, is supposed to be a brave man, but last Thursday evening when the party came down to the K. O. T. M. installation, he was pretty thoroughly frightened by the ice which cracked and seemed to give way under the sleigh. He jumped out and ran behind rather than ride with the load. Considerable more than this is said of him by the boys in the party.

There is a constant increase of patronage of our public schools. We have this term seven foreign scholars—five in the high school and two in the intermediate. One of these is a [illegible] of Harbor [illegible] of neighdering the the rate of wing; for it hat foreign , as well as y Chamberowax to visyoung lady who stopped e night. In turted in a oung lady's k, just as the t to retire, the house ard that the the chimney, stove pipe, by the time to house the bed.—Petosso of between ula; yet durshor only 40 a her public noticed by a he statement same month. ulation not e furnished ear,—which ed showing: th which we the record of ry has been t there have s, which for oks, and yet about 1,500. would say to e up."

putting these ount in their inside finishcottage, and y for a prompt and resolute ng. In addipushed with miscellaneous d year. This very complete improved unit h the help of ble to keep up ry desire. In they will put ickly carried ad, which will not only to the ut to our vast material.

nised us wood, w" and "next in the end. last stick in the t began to draw del said on a ame on south n a hold right t after it. On and it had not n able expected from his home g. "That's the

Mr. John Long, late of Toronto, and Al. F. Draper, well known to our citizens from his long connection with the firm of Frigell & Emrey, in Charlevoix, and the Pine Lake Iron Co., in Ironton, have joined their fortunes and established themselves in the dry goods and grocery trade at South Arm. They have a large stock of groceries now open in the building formerly occupied by P. LeClair, and a complete stock of dry goods will be opened next week. As soon as spring opens they will make a change in the building, adding a larger and better salesroom, and will aim to take the lead in trade in that community. Mr. Draper's acquaintance with the people and the needs of the community, will assist materially in doing this. The firm will pay the highest market prices in cash for everything the farmer has to dispose of in the line of ties, posts, wood, bark, produce, etc. We wish them success in their enterprise.

Some of the daily papers, in reporting the death of Mr. Shaffer, stated that he was intoxicated at the time. We have taken pains to get at the truth of the matter, and think that while it is a slander upon the county to state unquestionably that the man froze to death, it is also a slander upon the man to say he was intoxicated. He was probably sick and becoming suddenly faint, lay down and could not rise, and then froze.

W. F. Palmiter, of East Jordan, is supposed to be a brave man, but last Thursday evening when the party came down to the K. O. T. M. installation, he was pretty thoroughly frightened by the ice which cracked and seemed to give way under the sleigh. He jumped out and ran behind rather than ride with the load. Considerable more than this is said of him by the boys in the party.

There is a constant increase of patronage of our public schools. We have this term seven foreign scholars—five in the high school and two in the intermediate. One of these is a [illegible] of Harbor [illegible] of neighdering the the rate of wing; for it hat foreign , as well as y Chamberowax to visyoung lady who stopped e night. In turted in a oung lady's k, just as the t to retire, the house ard that the the chimney, stove pipe, by the time to house the bed.—Petos-

so of between ula; yet durshor only 40 a her public noticed by a he statement same month. ulation not e furnished ear,—which ed showing: th which we the record of ry has been t there have s, which for oks, and yet about 1,500. would say to e up."

putting these ount in their inside finishcottage, and y for a prompt and resolute ng. In addipushed with miscellaneous d year. This very complete improved unit h the help of ble to keep up ry desire. In they will put ickly carried ad, which will not only to the ut to our vast material.

nised us wood, w" and "next in the end. last stick in the t began to draw del said on a ame on south n a hold right t after it. On and it had not n able expected from his home g. "That's the

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Jan. 21, 1886.

A Faithful Executive.

On Christmas, 1884, a letter from President Cleveland was made public in which he expressed the determination to carry out in good faith the civil service law, and beyond that to do what might be in his power to abolish the spoils system, to curb and discourage the strife for patronage and place, to establish and maintain a non-partisan civil service, and to base appointments to office on character and fitness rather than upon "personal importunity or self-solicited recommendations."

A little over one year has elapsed since that letter was indited, and two months of that time has been passed by Mr. Cleveland in the highest office within the gift of the people. We find in a recent issue of the New York Herald some interesting information as to how the promises above referred to have been carried out. "There are," the Herald states, "over four thousand places to which the president can appoint only with the advice and consent of the senate. Of these four thousand places, all filled by republicans when he came in, he has "suspended" not six hundred and forty-three to put new men in their places. That is to say, of four thousand he has made only six hundred and forty-three removals." There are 15,000 fourth class postoffices, all non presidential appointments, and of these only about 2,000 have been changed under the two months of democratic administration. Under previous republican administrations not a single postmaster was left one of these offices, a fact which effectually disposes of the charge that President Cleveland has been engaged in making a "clean sweep." that he has spent the last ten months busily in removing republicans and filling their places with democrats. In corroboration of this view the Herald says:

In its cautious and conservative course the president has not only avoided a misdemeanor and dangerous disturbance of the public peace, but he has, as republican partisan zealots, covered the great number of offices holders whom he has not removed to cause to be what is his better by rightly called "offensive partisans and unscrupulous manipulators of local party management." A republican senator recently confessed this to Washington, saying:

Confessing that he has completely demoralized the republicans in my state, and has broken up our organization, I cannot complain of the action of the most active politicians I have. Of course, they want to hang on as long as they can, and have, therefore, been afraid to do anything to help us lest they might be removed for offensive partisanship. One static committee sent out letters to all of the men who usually looked after the canvass, and of the seven hundred persons to whom they wrote only one or two hundred replied, and some of those hurriedly stated that they were unable to furnish the information sought, because their entire time was engaged in their official duties. We never received such a response before, and a similar letter sent out a year previous to the same men was responded to almost unanimously. The president would doubtless be surprised to learn how holding office in my state has made Democrats of so many of our republican workers than we have now.

It is true that many good democrats who adhere to the principle that the offices should all be filled with men in political sympathy with the administration, oppose the policy of the president and are so disposed to criticise him for "going too slow." Yet it must in the face of the figures, as to appointments herein presented, be admitted that Mr. Cleveland has been thoroughly conscientious, that he has been faithful to the pledges made before and since his election, and that his course has redeemed the people of both parties, in a large measure, from the bondage of political lessons. However much democrats may differ with the president as to his policy it can not be truthfully charged that he has proved recreant to the policy he pursued while governor of New York, and which he outlined when he contested to accept a higher position. That policy contributed largely to his nomination and election, and those who expected him to depart from it have evidently mistaken the temper of the man.—Saginaw Courier.

It is earnestly to be hoped that Michigan's representatives in both branches of congress will exert themselves strenuously during the present session to procure favorable action in relation to the improvements of the Great Lakes waterways route, for which appropriations will be required. The growth of our lake commerce in the past few years has been enormous, and the general government has hardly do too much in the direction of rendering navigation cheaper and safer on the chain of lakes composing this magnificent water way. If congress appreciates the national character of the work to be provided for by appropriation, it is hardly conceivable that it will deal with the matter in a niggardly spirit. To enlighten their colleagues on this point should be regarded as a sacred duty by our representatives and senators, who can in no other way render their constituents so great a service as by promoting the action desired on the bills providing for the improvement of the lake route.—Mining Journal.

$230 per annum is the common rink license in Dakota, the same as saloons.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Jan. 21, 1886.

A Faithful Executive.

On Christmas, 1884, a letter from President Cleveland was made public in which he expressed the determination to carry out in good faith the civil service law, and beyond that to do what might be in his power to abolish the spoils system, to curb and discourage the strife for patronage and place, to establish and maintain a non-partisan civil service, and to base appointments to office on character and fitness rather than upon "personal importunity or self-solicited recommendations."

A little over one year has elapsed since that letter was indited, and two months of that time has been passed by Mr. Cleveland in the highest office within the gift of the people. We find in a recent issue of the New York Herald some interesting information as to how the promises above referred to have been carried out. "There are," the Herald states, "over four thousand places to which the president can appoint only with the advice and consent of the senate. Of these four thousand places, all filled by republicans when he came in, he has "suspended" not six hundred and forty-three to put new men in their places. That is to say, of four thousand he has made only six hundred and forty-three removals." There are 15,000 fourth class postoffices, all non presidential appointments, and of these only about 2,000 have been changed under the two months of democratic administration. Under previous republican administrations not a single postmaster was left one of these offices, a fact which effectually disposes of the charge that President Cleveland has been engaged in making a "clean sweep." that he has spent the last ten months busily in removing republicans and filling their places with democrats. In corroboration of this view the Herald says:

In its cautious and conservative course the president has not only avoided a misdemeanor and dangerous disturbance of the public peace, but he has, as republican partisan zealots, covered the great number of office holders whom he has not removed to cause to be what is his better by rightly called "offensive partisans and unscrupulous manipulators of local party management." A republican senator recently confessed this to Washington, saying:

Confessing that he has completely demoralized the republicans in my state, and has broken up our organization, I cannot complain of the action of the most active politicians I have. Of course, they want to hang on as long as they can, and have, therefore, been afraid to do anything to help us lest they might be removed for offensive partisanship. One static committee sent out letters to all of the men who usually looked after the canvass, and of the seven hundred persons to whom they wrote only one or two hundred replied, and some of those hurriedly stated that they were unable to furnish the information sought, because their entire time was engaged in their official duties. We never received such a response before, and a similar letter sent out a year previous to the same men was responded to almost unanimously. The president would doubtless be surprised to learn how holding office in my state has made Democrats of so many of our republican workers than we have now.

It is true that many good democrats who adhere to the principle that the offices should all be filled with men in political sympathy with the administration, oppose the policy of the president and are so disposed to criticise him for "going too slow." Yet it must in the face of the figures, as to appointments herein presented, be admitted that Mr. Cleveland has been thoroughly conscientious, that he has been faithful to the pledges made before and since his election, and that his course has redeemed the people of both parties, in a large measure, from the bondage of political lessons. However much democrats may differ with the president as to his policy it can not be truthfully charged that he has proved recreant to the policy he pursued while governor of New York, and which he outlined when he contested to accept a higher position. That policy contributed largely to his nomination and election, and those who expected him to depart from it have evidently mistaken the temper of the man.—Saginaw Courier.

It is earnestly to be hoped that Michigan's representatives in both branches of congress will exert themselves strenuously during the present session to procure favorable action in relation to the improvements of the Great Lakes waterways route, for which appropriations will be required. The growth of our lake commerce in the past few years has been enormous, and the general government has hardly do too much in the direction of rendering navigation cheaper and safer on the chain of lakes composing this magnificent water way. If congress appreciates the national character of the work to be provided for by appropriation, it is hardly conceivable that it will deal with the matter in a niggardly spirit. To enlighten their colleagues on this point should be regarded as a sacred duty by our representatives and senators, who can in no other way render their constituents so great a service as by promoting the action desired on the bills providing for the improvement of the lake route.—Mining Journal.

$230 per annum is the common rink license in Dakota, the same as saloons.

J. L. HURD & CO'S
SPECIAL PRICES.

We regret that our high priced neighbors are grieved because we are quoting low figures in the public prints, but have no time to shed tears when sympathy is undeserved. They prefer the old plan. Keep the customer in ignorance of real values, head of "square deals," fossilization, low prices in the abstract and great profits for buying cheap, but it would not do to commit themselves to a price. In these times, when money is scarce, and every community wise, the public is not to be gulled with any such chaff. Our prices are acceptable to the people and our business is to serve them.

WE ARE SELLING

Manitowoc Patent Flour, per bbl	$5.75	Hiawatha Fine Cut Tobacco	75
Mess Pork, Layton's New	9.00	Spearhead Plug Tobacco	49
Clear Pork	8	Peerless Smoking Tobacco	56
Lard	8	1 gal Pickles	25
Granulated Sugar	8	2 lb Can Peaches	25
White Sugar	7	3 lb Can Pie Peaches	25
Good Japan Tea	50	3 lb Can Pie Pumpkin	19
Good Roasted Rio Coffee	25c	2 lb Can Corn	10
7 lbs Best Starch	25	3 lb Can Apples	8

Our Guarantee. Below competitum in prices and as good or better in quality.

We are selling all our Winter Goods, such as Flannels, Blankets, Woolen Underwear, Gloves and Mittens, Hosiery, Dressgoods, etc., at great reduction to close. A word to the wise is sufficient.

J. L. HURD & CO,
Pioneers in Low Prices.

F. G. HINES & CO.,
Druggists and Stationers.

The Historical Society.

The society met this week at Mrs. Ainslie's. The night was stormy and Elder McCartney was billed for a war lecture at the M. E. church; nevertheless the rooms were filled full.

The program was as follows:

Vocal duet—"Oh Mayest Thou Dream of Me," by Mrs. Frederick Mayne and Miss Flora Ainslie.

Select reading—"The Testing of Azrael," by the President, E. H. Green.

Intermission.

Vocal solo—"Polly," by Gard. Brown.

Select reading—"The Missous on Tap," by John Burns.

Vocal Solo—"Summer Evening Memories," by Mrs. E. M. Clark.

Paper—"Alfred the Great," by Miss Lana Washburn.

The selection by Mr. Green was an exceedingly happy one. It was a story of the rebellion, or rather, an incident of the late war, as the scene depicted actually transpired. Mr. Green himself having personal knowledge of the facts. During the reading there were many moist eyes, including those of the author himself.

The paper by Miss Lana Washburn evinced extensive study and extract reading, and was separating fact from fiction, and painstaking composition; and being well rendered was received with hearty applause.

K. O. T. M. Installation.

A hastily prepared but altogether very pleasant and successful entertainment occurred last Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' hall, on the occasion of the installation of officers of the Knights of the Maccabees. During the forenoon a number of East Jordan knights decided to accept an invitation previously extended to them to attend the installation of officers to be held here on that evening. They were to be accompanied by the East Jordan band, and the exercises were to be public. The society here were notified of their acceptance, and arrangements were hastily made for entertaining them with supper. The first intimation of the affair to most of our people was the playing of the East Jordan band on our streets, when they arrived about seven o'clock, two hours before the ceremony came down on the ice. The ceremony of installation began about 9 o'clock, in the presence of a company of invited guests, after which the Charlevoix knights spread their most generous feast. The revelry continued until nearly midnight, when the visitors returned to their homes, and the Charlevoix tent concluded its labors in secret.

Nuptials.

On Tuesday last at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. J. T. Jennings, Miss Mary E. Reeden and Capt. Robert O'Neil, were united in the bonds of wedlock. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock p. m. after which the cake and its accompaniments were served.

The plum was for a private wedding, only the families of the bride and groom being invited, but the Charlevoix Boy's Cornet Band, could not resist the temptation to wish the couple lifelong joy "in notes almost divine," and were rewarded by a cordial welcome, a luscious repast, and each a morsel of wedding cake.

We unite with the host of friends in wishing the young couple "a world of happy days and an eternity of bliss."

THE THROAT

Is often diseased on account of catarrh, producing dryness and a constant desire to cough. That tickling sensation and the hoarseness that is so common to public singers and speakers, especially, is relieved at once by BARLTROSS COUGH TOKENS which are prepared from the most approved formula. Do not wait till acute bronchitis or even consumption takes firm hold of you. Price only 25c per box. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, caused by the gallstones in those has sent attention of the kidneys or neighboring organs. Heaviness, suppression of urine, pain, fever, inflammation of the stomach, etc. A measure, then, of prevention is worth a dozen cures. Dr. Bonsell's Pills, after acting worry, is a common intestinal, Bilious, Bleeding and Itching Piles, yield at once to the application of Dr. Bonsell's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, and effects a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter.

☞ Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton. 22-1-43

DO YOU OWE
THE
CHARLEVOIX MANUFACTURING CO.
If so, and your account is due, or past due, as immediate settlement will save trouble and expense.

As the Directors have ordered all out standing accounts collected, Mr. See may be found at Stockman & Jiddings' store for the purpose of making settlement.

By Order of the Directors.

HEATH & FRANCIS,
Builders and Jobbers,
Charlevoix, Mich.
Plans, Specifications and material furnished, and mines, both complete, designing and refitting done to order.

FIRE FURNITURE
Built to order, and repairs of any kind made on short notice. Fired cases work guaranteed.

Will take Lumber or Block wood in payment for furniture. Shop on Antrim street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

MRS. JOSIE DART,
is prepared to do
Dressmaking
In a neat and stylish manner, and would respectfully solicit a share of the patronage of the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity. Rooms at the residence of Mrs. Dart, five doors east of Mudge's grocery on Antrim.
MRS. JOSIE DART, Charlevoix.

FIRE! FIRE!
Accident danger by keeping your chimneys clean.
BORTON & MAYNE, Chimney Sweeps.
Will do the work promptly, carefully, and successfully, without dirt or litter on the floor. Get it done before the spring winds. Orders by postal card receive prompt attention.
BORTON & MAYNE, Charlevoix, Mich.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - - MICHIGAN.

Another Republican Outrage.

The committee on privileges and elections of the Ohio house of representatives, on Jan. 12th, reported a resolution to unseat nine of the democratic members from Hamilton county. The resolution was amended, providing for hearings to be accorded the unseated members. The resolution was adopted under the previous question. The seats were then declared vacant, amid the greatest confusion and in the midst of a howling mob. Nine republican members came forward and were sworn in by the speaker, and were cheered by the republicans and jeered by the democrats. The action assured the election of John Sherman to a seat in the United States Senate, and gave him twenty-one majority on joint ballot in the convention of the two houses.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
Jan. 11, 1892.

Special Correspondence.

"The powers that be" are evidently averse to allowing government employees to use their positions as a means for swindling innocent people. In September last Oliver P. Burger, of Quincy, Ill., was appointed to a $1,000 position in registry division of the postoffice department. Mr. Burger appears to be an enterprising man, quick to take advantage of an opportunity to rapidly acquire wealth. He has been sending postal cards to school teachers and others over the country, stating that "about 2,000 vacancies occur yearly" in clerical positions under the government. After stating in glowing terms the great advantages of these places, and that they are filled by those who pass the civil service examinations satisfactorily, he says: "A pamphlet has been carefully prepared by the undersigned, giving full instructions and useful suggestions to those who desire to take the examination, and will be sent to any address on the receipt of fifty cents in postage stamps." Letters to be directed to him at the postoffice department, Washington, D. C., thus making it appear that the authorities know and sanctioned his scheme. His proceedings being brought to the attention of the postmaster general, that official at once directed his removal, and he now has an opportunity to make a practical application of his valuable knowledge.

It would be well for those who desire to make application for civil service positions and examination to remember that they can obtain all necessary information free, by addressing the commission. Those who send money to parties advertising to furnish "full instructions how to obtain situations under the government," will make a poor investment.

Congress is in full working order and the affairs of the nation are receiving prompt attention. The Michigan representatives have been assigned positions on committees as follows:

Hon. W. C. Maybury is on the committee on ways and means and the committee on education.

Hon. T. E. Tarsney, committees on commerce and on labor.

Hon. E. C. Carleton, on the rivers and harbors committee, and the select committee on alcoholic liquor traffic.

Hon. E. B. Winans, on the committee on agriculture and the committee on invalid pensions.

Hon. B. M. Catchings, committee on military affairs.

Hon. J. C. Burrows, on postoffices and post roads committee.

Hon. Jas. O'Donnell, committee on education, and select committee on ventilation and acoustics.

Hon. S. C. Moffat, the militia committee, and committee on election of president and vice president.

Hon. S. O. Fisher, committee on patents.

Hon. N. B. Eldridge, chairman of the committee on pensions, and member of the committee on private land claims.

Hon. C. C. Comstock, committee on war claims, and select committee on American shipbuilding and ship owning.

For a state that "anybody can carry," it would appear that Michigan has been very liberally dealt with by the democratic speaker of the house.

Washington is decidedly fortunate in having the poorest, stalest daily papers of any prominent city in the country. Many towns with less than half as many inhabitants are supplied with abler edited and more enterprising dailies. But then, what it lacks in quality it tries to make up in numbers.

The "wild west" blizzard, which came from the northwest, struck Washington Friday evening, and the "oldest inhabitant" informs us that there is more snow on the ground than at any one time for many years. It is about four inches deep, and everyone who owns, or can buy, beg, borrow, or steal a horse may be seen sleigh riding. This is a luxury that can be indulged in but once in a long while, as it is seldom that there is snow enough. JONASSES.

Sweetness and Feathers.

In Africa the bees have a very hard time; for there aman has a sharp-eyed, active little friend to help him find their carefully hidden honey. This little friend is a bird,—a rosy-tail, shrike fellow, that not only feels to build a house for its little ones, but even goes so far as to make other birds have all the trouble and worry of bringing up and feeding them. Like the cuckoo, it puts its eggs in the nests of other birds.

The "honey-guide," as it is called, is exceedingly fond of honey; or, if it can not have that, is very well satisfied with young bees. It is only about the size of a lark, and so is not specially fitted for encountering a swarm of bees fighting in defense of their home. Once in a while, it tries to rob a nest, but is usually well punished for doing so. The little bees seem to know that their stings can not injure the feather-covered hide of the bird, and accordingly they direct their attacks at the eyes of the robber; and if the bird does not escape in time, it will be blinded, and so perish of starvation.

However, the honey-guide is seldom so foolish as to run any such risk. It prefers to have some one else steal the honey, and is content with a small portion for its share.

When it has found a nest, it starts away in search of a man. As soon as it sees one, it hovers over him, flies about his head, perches near him, or flutters here and there in front of him, all the time chirping vigorously. The native knows in a moment what the little bird means, and as he loves honey as a child does candy, only sometimes that is very important will prevent his accepting the honey-guide's invitation. When he's ready to follow, he whistles, and the bird seems to understand the signal, for it at once flies on, for a short distance and waits till the man is ready, and then flies on a few yards farther. In this way the bird leads the man until the nest is reached. Then a suddenly changes its twitter for a peculiar note, and either hovers over the nest for a moment, or conspicuously sits down and lets the man find the nest, for it cannot do so.

When it is found, the bees are smoked out with a torch or with a fire of leaves, according to the height of the nest from the ground. A small portion of the honey is given to the lad as his share of the plunder. If the little fellow has had honey enough, it disappears; but, as is usually the case, if receives only enough to whet its appetite, it will lead to another nest, and sometimes even to a third.—From "Honey-Hunting," by John H. Speke, in St. Nicholas for Dec.

Queer Marriages of Bridegrooms.

Most people the moment they enter a parsonage to get married become embarrassed, and are hardly conscious of what they do. One fellow I heard of was dreadfully affected in this way, and without realizing his act pulled a ring from his pocket and turned it around in his hands. When that portion of the ceremony was reached in which the lady and gentleman join hands he happened to have the ring in his fingers and forgot all about the cigar he evidently didn't know. The clergyman passed for a moment and then repeated the instruction that they join hands. By this time the poor fellow's embarrassment had increased so that it was painful to behold. He gave one agonized look at the unlucky cigar and then stuck the cigar in his mouth. Before the ceremony could be concluded the member had to take the cigar from between his lips. Another prospective groom was in the same fine condition of mind. He was making a great effort to regale his companions by twirling around on his outstretched finger a silk hat when the minister announced his readiness to begin the service. The fellow quickly jumped up. For a second he did not know what to do with his hat, but only for a second, for he solved the problem by sticking the crown between his knees. The clergyman told me he could hardly refrain from laughing as he married that man standing in the ridiculous position he was forced to take.—Saturday's Record.

How Texas Came Into the Union.

The usually accurate and judicious paper, the Chicago Chronicle, says: "When Texas was admitted into the Union it was under a solemn contract that whenever she desired to withdraw from the Union she could do so." Could the Chronicle produce such a contract it would rank as one of the most curious secrets in diplomacy. The articles of annexation passed by the United States Congress simply provided for the admission of Texas "as one of the States of this Union" under certain conditions, but not a word was said of the right of the State to secede. As the precise manner in which the Republic of Texas became a State of the American Union is unknown to most of the present generation, a brief recapitulation of the facts may be of interest to many. After various negotiations on the subject the United States Congress passed a joint resolution declaring that the territory belonging to the Republic of Texas might be erected into a new State and be admitted into the Union on certain conditions, including the cession by Texas to the United States of public edifices, such as fortifications, barracks, forts and harbors, navy and navy yards, docks, magazines, armament and all other property and means pertaining to public defense, Texas to retain all her public lands, debts, taxes and dues of every kind. Texas, through her Congress and a convention, accepted the conditions. The final act of the United States Congress was that "the State of Texas is hereby admitted to and shall be one of the States of the Union." That concluded the negotiations, and every schoolboy knows the rest. The Texans were allowed to form a State out of their own territory, and it became a slave State. Not a word was said about the right of secession, and it was not thought of by the Congress that passed the act of annexation. The Texans had fought for the right to own slaves in the territory ceded to them by Mexico, and the question of secession was not raised by them. The Congress that admitted Texas was the same Congress that passed the act for the admission of Iowa, Wisconsin, California, Oregon and Minnesota, and not one of the States then admitted claimed the right to secede from the Union. The Congress that admitted Texas was the same Congress that passed the act for the admission of Vermont, Kansas, West Virginia, Nevada, Nebraska, Colorado and Dakota, and not one of those States claimed the right to secede from the Union. The Congress that admitted Texas was the same Congress that passed the act for the admission of Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Washington, New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma, and not one of those States claimed the right to secede from the Union. The Congress that admitted Texas was the same Congress that passed the act for the admission of Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Utah, Alaska, Arizona, Dakota, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Washington, Nebraska, Nevada, West Virginia, Kansas, Vermont, California, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Oregon, Colorado, Nebraska, Nevada, Dakota, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Washington, New Mexico, Arizona

A PREHISTORIC LEGEND.

BY PERPETUA.

Upon this plain, where tall Chicago stands
And roars adrift her palaces of trade,
The primeval savage roved the virgin land,
The primeval deer roved the primeval wild.
Then Wabansine was king of all the lands
That wander on the hill side and the glade.
A mighty people were the Illinois then,
Wabansine was chief of fifty thousand sons.

He roamed his lodge down by the mighty lake
Where gleaming waters change and with the moon
The young moon of his little lo off would take
And school them how to take their hopes and sorrows
In the broad glory, and for glory's sake,
But that it seemed well to elder sons
That he had lost his lodge against the Moon,
And gave Wabansine, my boy, and taught them, too.

Wabansine, on many a field had shown his might,
Well was he skilled in Indian ways,
Towering march and then an boldly fight,
So was he the first in these forty days
Whether in council, pleasure or necke,
Wabansine was chief of fifty thousand sons.
He was a Chief, the highest in the land,
Born to the purple, and used to command.

He lived in times, and then Wabansine died,
The Chieftain grand, the grandest of his race.
His warrior ground, his wife and children
cried,
Then with the earth they covered up his face.
To hunger hunting grounds Wabansine lied,
And a new Chief ruled over the Illinois
The saddest tribe that passed over this earth
And left no record of its death or birth.

LUCIA'S DUTY.

BY CATHARINE CHILDAR.

"You do not love me, Lucia."

The speaker was a tall, good-looking young fellow, dressed in the picturesque costume of the shepherds of the Albano Mountains, but his handsome features were spoilt by an expression of petulant ill-humor.

"The girl whom he addressed as Lucia sighed deeply, but she did not raise her eyes nor make any answer.

"Is this your last word?" continued the young man. "You mean to say you prefer that wretched foundling—that miserable, nameless cripple, to me?"

"She knew, Enrico: what you ask me is impossible! How can I turn out of doors a helpless child of six years old? Who is to feed him? Who is to take care of him?"

"But we are poor people. Why are we to keep a stranger's child?"

Lucia lifted her head eagerly; the "we" sounded encouraging.

"Dear Enrico, you shall have no expense. He shall not cost you a farthing. The English signora who taught me to knit has promised to buy all I do. I shall earn a good deal, I am sure. See, I have already begun a stocking, and the work goes on—goes on, whether I watch the goats, or the soup upon the fire, I knit and knit. Look, how fast it goes!" and Lucia made the steel needles glitter in the sunlight.

"Dish! That is nonsense, and the English lady will very likely never come again. Those foreigners are not to be relied on. Besides, when we are married you will have more to do. There will be my clothes to see to, and who, say you to be saddled with a foundling? He is no relation of yours."

"True, but he is almost like a brother. Did not my dear mother find him lost among the hills five years ago? Did she not take care of him as if he were her own? Have we not always shared our food and our home? And now that she is dead—she that was his best friend, always patient when I was angry, always gentle when I was severe—now, before she has been a month in her cold grave. I am to turn out the poor child also rescued from death! No, Enrico mio, such a thing is not possible. As for loving you, ah! you know——" Here the poor girl's voice broke, and she said no more.

But Enrico did not seem convinced either by her glowing words or her silent tears. He made no attempt to console her; he stood there frowning, and kicking the loose stones of the road, looking just what he was, a bad-tempered, selfish fellow. He had been brought up with Lucia, and had lord her after his own fashion ever since they were children—that is to say, he had tyrannized over her himself, but had fought her battles with others—and Lucia had repaid his championship with the deepest love and admiration of her little heart.

Enrico had taken to spending his winters in Rome, picking up what he could get as a model, and returning to his native mountains during the summer months. His affection for Lucia had become a habit, though, as she was poor, he looked upon himself as a very magnanimous young fellow for offering to marry her, considering how many girls was fascinated by his personal manners. But as to the cripple, the little orphan that Lucia's mother had taken in out of charity, he was quite sure he ought to adopt, that was quite another matter. He wasn't going to be saddled with him, a useless creature, that could never be turned to account.

Just then the poor child who was the cause of the lovers' estrange ment came hopping and wriggling toward them. The big draggled, perfectly useless, but he had a crutch, and by means of this and his uninjured leg he managed to get over the ground tolerably fast. Enrico saw the child coming, but took no notice; he only kicked the stones more viciously than before.

"Take care, Enrico!" cried Lucia, anxiously; "you very nearly hit his head."

She spoke too late. Enrico had sent a sharp flint full into the little cripple's face. It struck his lip and made him cry. Without a word of regret or farewell, Enrico turned on his heels and strode quickly away.

The two creatures he had wounded so cruelly wept in each other's arms. Little Pipino's face was red, and the smart was hard to bear, but what was that compared to the pain in the true and loyal heart of Lucia?

"Do not cry," whispered Pipino, forgetful of his own hurt, and stroking Lucia's face with his small, thin hands, "do not cry. He is a bad man. When I grow big and strong I will kill him!"

"No, dear little one, you must not say such things. It is very wicked to be revengeful. Enrico did not mean to hurt you."

"Yes, he did. He told me yesterday he should like to wring my neck." He would should like to wring my neck." He would have loved my sister, if Nicolo Pinto had not come up just in time. Enrico is a coward; he ran away when he saw Nicolo."

"Hush, Pipino!" said Lucia, sagely. "Little boys know nothing about men. Nicolo Pinto can box people's ears too, I dare say."

"Ah, but not ours," said Pipino, with such a comic expression that Lucia could not help smiling and blushing. She knew very well why big, rough Nicolo Pinto was so kind to the little cripple, but she had to pretend ignorance.

"Come, come," she said, when she had washed Pipino's face and dressed his wound, "a plate of soup, and then off to bed."

"I don't want any soup. Nicolo gave me some, and I food it all, because I knew there would be more for you."

"That was very naughty of you! You are never to do so again—do you your?"

The child made no answer. He took his request with an air of tolerant superiority, and walked off to his garret in comfort.

He was soon asleep, but Lucia lay awake all night. Her love for Enrico was deep and earnest, and now an end had come to and to all her fond hopes and bright plans for the future.

Enrico had never been a model character by any means, but his visits to Rome had made him worse. He had come back more selfish, more spiteful, more careless than ever; he knew that he had never talked of marrying poor Pipino's sister. It was a night of sorrow and tears for Lucia, but she soliloquized finally to her pillow, "It was a true, and just thing that Enrico wished her to do, and great or was her love for him, she dared not yield.

The autumn days drew on. Visitors were flocking to Rome. Without a word of farewell to Lucia, Enrico left Genzano and went down to Rome.

It was a long dreary winter. People never remembered so much snow. There was much distress about, and Lucia, in spite of her hard work and her constant knitting, beg in to drag in. The English lady had not given her a full order, and could not find food for herself and Pipino. But Nicolo Pinto was in power still; he was always bringing small presents, ostensibly for Pipino, and Lucia could not find courage to tell the child how fearless. She recollected with shame and regret how often she had laughed at the big, rough peasant—how she had encouraged Enrico to make fun of his awkward ways, and how she had mimicked his bashful speech. And now he was the only friend who stood between her and starvation.

News came at last of Enrico. It was a cold winter, and Rome was crowded with strangers; the models were "coining money," so Enrico sent word. But never a message for her; she was nothing to him now. She had only the tiny, clinging hands of the little orphan to caress her, and his baby talk to give comfort for the future. And while she sat and grieved in silence, Nicolo, the warm-hearted, awkward peasant, stood timidly aloof, longing, but not daring, to cast his love and devotion at her feet.

One evening Pipino was later than usual. Lucia grew alarmed. What could have happened to the child? The twilight grew deeper, still Pipino did not appear.

Suddenly a firm, heavy tread was heard, and Nicolo stood in the doorway.

"What is it?" cried Lucia. "Where is the child?"

"Don't be alarmed," said Nicolo, standing awkwardly on the doorstep, uncertain whether to retreat or advance. "He is at my house——"

"Your house? Why? Has anything happened?"

"It is nothing serious. His crutch slipped upon a stone; I carried him home."

"But why did you not bring him here?"

It was too dark for her to see the flush of embarrassment which passed over the honest fellow's face as he stammered his reply.

"It was so much better—my house is bigger—he thought—I thought——"

"Whatever you thought, it was foolish," cried Lucia, dropping her foot impatiently. "If the child is in your house, how can I go and nurse him?"

"Ah, Signorina Lucia," sighed Nicolo, and then he was silent. Lucia grew embarrassed in her turn—neither spoke for a few seconds.

"This is folly," exclaimed Lucia. "Why are we wasting time while the child is suffering? I must go and fetch him here."

Nicolo felt it was now or never. He stepped further into the room and seized her two hands eagerly. Lucia was too amazed to utter a word.

"Yes, Lucia," he said, "it is go, but if you come to my house, you must never leave it again. I want you there—to stay there as my wife—that is to say, to be my work for you both. I am strong. I can earn enough for all. You will not mind my mother living with us. She loves you already, and she is not old; she is no trouble. You can mind the house together."

Lucia was bewildered by this rapid flow of words that she could not speak. The shy, bashful Nicolo, emboldened by her silence and the semi-darkness, came closer still, and put one arm around her, holding fast her other hand.

"Come!" he said gently, drawing her to him—"Pipino wants you."

"Ah, me!" she said, suddenly rousing herself with a cry, and pushing Nicolo violently away. "How can you say such things to me? It is only a few months since——"

"You were betrothed to Enrico. I know, do not think I forget it. I know, too, I am a poor, rough, ugly fellow by the side of him, but I will take care of the child."

Lucia sank panting into a chair. Her old love for Enrico, her affection for Pipino, her gratitude to Nicolo, all fought and struggled in her heart. Nicolo stood waiting.

"Why do you keep me talking here and the child is suffering? Is it a bad accident?"

"It is not dangerous, and my mother is with him. Give me an answer, Lucia. I love you with my whole heart; will you marry me?"

The girl burst into a paroxysm of tears. She knew what Nicolo said was true. Even when she had laughed and scoffed at him the most she had always known he loved her. And yet—and yet her foolish head clung to Enrico.

"Nicolo," she cried, and at the sound of his name the honest fellow's face lighted all over—"Nicolo, forgive me. I can not forget Enrico."

"Ah!" came like a gasp from the breast of Nicolo. Then he was silent, and nothing was audible but Lucia's sobs.

"I know," she said presently—"I know I am foolish. He is perhaps careless and light, but I have loved him so long and cry for him, and he may come and marry me, why, then, Nicolo——"

"He will never say so," interrupted Nicolo bitterly. "Yesterday he married Maddalena."

"Maddalena!" gasped Lucia, a hot flush succeeding her pallor. It was the name of the worst girl in Genzano, who had gone to Rome that winter.

"Tell me that again," she said quietly—"Enrico has married Maddalena?"

"Yes," answered Nicolo, very quietly also.

A wave of outraged love and indignation swept over Lucia, and overwhelmed for ever in its depths the memory of Enrico.

"I did not speak before," said Nicolo, in a broken voice. "I was afraid I should have no chance, but I have loved you so!"

"I don't want any soup. Nicolo gave me some, and I food it all, because I knew there would be more for you."

"That was very naughty of you! You are never to do so again—do you your?"

The child made no answer. He took his request with an air of tolerant superiority, and walked off to his garret in comfort.

He was soon asleep, but Lucia lay awake all night. Her love for Enrico was deep and earnest, and now an end had come to and to all her fond hopes and bright plans for the future.

Enrico had never been a model character by any means, but his visits to Rome had made him worse. He had come back more selfish, more spiteful, more careless than ever; he knew that he had never talked of marrying poor Pipino's sister. It was a night of sorrow and tears for Lucia, but she soliloquized finally to her pillow, "It was a true, and just thing that Enrico wished her to do, and great or was her love for him, she dared not yield.

The autumn days drew on. Visitors were flocking to Rome. Without a word of farewell to Lucia, Enrico left Genzano and went down to Rome.

It was a long dreary winter. People never remembered so much snow. There was much distress about, and Lucia, in spite of her hard work and her constant knitting, beg in to drag in. The English lady had not given her a full order, and could not find food for herself and Pipino. But Nicolo Pinto was in power still; he was always bringing small presents, ostensibly for Pipino, and Lucia could not find courage to tell the child how fearless. She recollected with shame and regret how often she had laughed at the big, rough peasant—how she had encouraged Enrico to make fun of his awkward ways, and how she had mimicked his bashful speech. And now he was the only friend who stood between her and starvation.

News came at last of Enrico. It was a cold winter, and Rome was crowded with strangers; the models were "coining money," so Enrico sent word. But never a message for her; she was nothing to him now. She had only the tiny, clinging hands of the little orphan to caress her, and his baby talk to give comfort for the future. And while she sat and grieved in silence, Nicolo, the warm-hearted, awkward peasant, stood timidly aloof, longing, but not daring, to cast his love and devotion at her feet.

One evening Pipino was later than usual. Lucia grew alarmed. What could have happened to the child? The twilight grew deeper, still Pipino did not appear.

Suddenly a firm, heavy tread was heard, and Nicolo stood in the doorway.

"What is it?" cried Lucia. "Where is the child?"

"Don't be alarmed," said Nicolo, standing awkwardly on the doorstep, uncertain whether to retreat or advance. "He is at my house——"

"Your house? Why? Has anything happened?"

"It is nothing serious. His crutch slipped upon a stone; I carried him home."

"But why did you not bring him here?"

It was too dark for her to see the flush of embarrassment which passed over the honest fellow's face as he stammered his reply.

"It was so much better—my house is bigger—he thought—I thought——"

"Whatever you thought, it was foolish," cried Lucia, dropping her foot impatiently. "If the child is in your house, how can I go and nurse him?"

"Ah, Signorina Lucia," sighed Nicolo, and then he was silent. Lucia grew embarrassed in her turn—neither spoke for a few seconds.

"This is folly," exclaimed Lucia. "Why are we wasting time while the child is suffering? I must go and fetch him here."

Nicolo felt it now or never. He stepped further into the room and seized her two hands eagerly. Lucia was too amazed to utter a word.

"Yes, Lucia," he said, "it is go, but if you come to my house, you must never leave it again. I want you there—to stay there as my wife—that is to say, to be my work for you both. I am strong. I can earn enough for all. You will not mind my mother living with us. She loves you already, and she is not old; she is no trouble. You can mind the house together."

Lucia was bewildered by this rapid flow of words that she could not speak. The shy, bashful Nicolo, emboldened by her silence and the semi-darkness, came closer still, and put one arm around her, holding fast her other hand.

"Come!" he said gently, drawing her to him—"Pipino wants you."

"Ah, me!" she said, suddenly rousing herself with a cry, and pushing Nicolo violently away. "How can you say such things to me? It is only a few months since——"

"You were betrothed to Enrico. I know, do not think I forget it. I know, too, I am a poor, rough, ugly fellow by the side of him, but I will take care of the child."

Lucia sank panting into a chair. Her old love for Enrico, her affection for Pipino, her gratitude to Nicolo, all fought and struggled in her heart. Nicolo stood waiting.

"Why do you keep me talking here and the child is suffering? Is it a bad accident?"

"It is not dangerous, and my mother is with him. Give me an answer, Lucia. I love you with my whole heart; will you marry me?"

The girl burst into a paroxysm of tears. She knew what Nicolo said was true. Even when she had laughed and scoffed at him the most she had always known he loved her. And yet—and yet her foolish head clung to Enrico.

"Nicolo," she cried, and at the sound of his name the honest fellow's face lighted all over—"Nicolo, forgive me. I can not forget Enrico."

"Ah!" came like a gasp from the breast of Nicolo. Then he was silent, and nothing was audible but Lucia's sobs.

"I know," she said presently—"I know I am foolish. He is perhaps careless and light, but I have loved him so long and cry for him, and he may come and marry me, why, then, Nicolo——"

"He will never say so," interrupted Nicolo bitterly. "Yesterday he married Maddalena."

"Maddalena!" gasped Lucia, a hot flush succeeding her pallor. It was the name of the worst girl in Genzano, who had gone to Rome that winter.

"Tell me that again," she said quietly—"Enrico has married Maddalena?"

"Yes," answered Nicolo, very quietly also.

A wave of outraged love and indignation swept over Lucia, and overwhelmed for ever in its depths the memory of Enrico.

"I did not speak before," said Nicolo, in a broken voice. "I was afraid I should have no chance, but I have loved you so!"

"Ah, but not ours," said Pipino, with such a comic expression that Lucia could not help smiling and blushing. She knew very well why big, rough Nicolo Pinto was so kind to the little cripple, but she had to pretend ignorance.

"Come, come," she said, when she had washed Pipino's face and dressed his

PISCATORIAL STATISTICS.

Universal Fish Culture Necessary to Supply the Harvest of the Sea.

From Turf, Field and Farm.

If Mulhall's statistics are reliable, says an angling journal, there are not far short of 1,000,000 vessels engaged in Europe and North America in fishing. Between 850,000 and 900,000 men are employed in this industry, and the total annual product of fish is not far short of 1,500,000 tons. Few people have the faintest idea of the latter figures. A ton of fish is equal in weight to about twenty-eight sheep; and hence, if Mulhall's estimate is approximately correct, a vessel's fish supply for his European countries, included in this estimate, and the United States and Canada might be represented by 42,000,000 sheep. Of the amount the United Kingdom Canada, Russia, and the United States alone aggregate 1,000,000 tons, equivalent to 28,000,000 sheep. It has been truly said that we talk in a metaphor of the harvest of the sea, but we have only lately been able to realize what the metaphor means. The Fisheries Exhibition of 1883 did a great deal to encourage the study of marine biology, and it is with no small degree of satisfaction that we are able to say that in this much-needed study the United States ranks second to no other.

In the other hand, Great Britain, whose fisheries are of vital importance to her, for food, has done little, and not yet found a laboratory on the seashore. Indeed, Professor Lankester, an eminent authority on marine biology, declares the British fishing industries are still barbaric. The produce of the sea is recklessly seized, regardless of the consequences of the method, the time, or the extent of the depredations. According to English authority, the old proverb that there are as good fish in the sea as ever came out of it no longer holds good. The harvest of the sea is the unique, like the harvest on land, needs cultivating. It was shown not long ago that in eight months twenty-eight boats engaged in the haddock fishery at Brownsith, England, used 2,240 tons of mussel—about 47,040,000 mussels—in the capture of the haddock. Yet Professor Lankester says that no pains are taken to cultivate or preserve the mussel, and knowledge of its production and growth is still incomplete, as it is of other bait. Soles are every year becoming scarcer, and oysters are becoming more difficult to obtain. At present, and the same authority, absolutely nothing is known of the spawning of the soles; the male fish are not even recognized. The habits of oysters being scarce are not known, and yet they are in Japan in abundance. There are many economists in England who maintain that the haphazard and unimproved methods of fishing are exhausting the fish supply of that country, and that the supply is exhaustible. To what extent these facts, which are causing considerable discussion in England, may affect the United States we are not prepared to say. The excellent work for many years of our fish commission exonerates our Government from the accusation of being negligent of this important industry.

The great variety of colors and dyes obtained from common plants, growing so abundantly almost everywhere, is comparatively known to but few persons except chemists. The well-known blue dye of the indigo plant, when boiled down, with an addition of a little alum and a solution of copperas, will develop an excellent blue color; the same treatment, with a solution of nut galls, produces a clean dark brown tint, while with alum, verdigris, and sal ammoniac various shades of purple and red are obtained. The fruit of the elder, so frequently used for coloring purposes, will also produce a blue color when treated with alum. The privet, boiled in a solution of salt, furnishes a serviceable color, and the over-ripe berries yield a scarlet red. The roots of the common burning bush (evonymus), when treated with sal ammoniac, produces a beautiful purple red. The bark of the current bush, treated with a solution of alum, produces a brown. Yellow is obtainable from the bark of the apple tree, the root of the ash, the buckthorn, the poplar, elm, etc., when boiled in water and treated with alum. A lively green is furnished by the broom corn.

For an American to marry in Mexico is a somewhat serious business. He must be three times married, twice in spanish and once in English, besides having a public notice of his intention of marriage placed on a bulletin board for twenty days before the ceremony. This is the law. The public notice can be gotten around by the payment of a sum of money, but a re dered of one month is necessary. The three ceremonies are the contract of marriage, the civil marriage—the only marriage recognized by law since 1858—and the usual but not obligatory church service. The first two must take place before a judge, and in the press of at least four witnesses and the American Consul. The civil ma rriage is the legal form of marriage. These ceremonies are necessarily in Spanish. Most weddings are confirmed by a church service.

Love is a little confidence game in which both parties are taken in by the clergyman.

HUMOR.

A TIGHT fit—a drunken one.

DARKNESS visible—a negro taking a sun-bath.

A RUSSIAN prefers lemon-juice in his tea to sugar. Perhaps it may be an acidulous in their Nihilist c ocker.

HOW WORTH you likes to be the owner on a Bible when a pretty woman witness in court kisses it with a smack?

The only persons in the world who do not like to see something cun ding in the human race are sawmakers.—National Hardware.

WHEN Shakspeare wrote "My kingdom for a horse," he showed that, with all his great knowledge, he was not ignorant of the ruling charges of the Long Branch backman.—Puck.

QUINN, ain't it? A man who will swallow any kind of a dish with an imposing French name will be scared to death if he catches a cold with a Greek or Latin title.—Lowell Citizen.

IT NEVER comes hit once. Her face she seeks from his gaze to hide,
And her heart is vainly beating
Like a bird in a cage, like a fish in a net,
Or a butterfly pinned for mounting.
Her lips are formal with hours first kiss,
Her cheek is a rose-leaf, pale,
Her eyes are downcast, her hand is in mine,
Her heart in the wind's wide sail.

"WHAT do these letters stand for?" asked a curious wife of her husband, who was reading the paper. "Super-Well really, my love," he replied, very sagely. "I presume it is because they can't sit down." She postponed the question ing.—Merchant Traveller.

"I DON'T wonder that people talk of the good old times," said the President of the gas company. "At one time it was dark for three days and three nights on a stretch in the land of Egypt. What a big thing it would be for the gas company if it would have something like that in these days!"—Boston Courier.

THE BAD BOY'S FRIEND.

Grandma is old and wrinkled and gray,
The blossom of her beauty has faded away,
But the words of affection still fall from her tongue,
And her heart is as warm as when she was young.
She's kind to the young, and it makes her heart glad
To behold the bad boy from the wrath of father.
All he has to be grateful to her while he may
Will lose a warm friend when she passes away.
—Chicago Herald.

A PRIEST's seat in Russia, called the "Folk of the Godly Nest," d g graves, which they ca' nests, in their portion floors or gardens, into which they retire at certain times and "fast and see visions of saints and devils." It is a comfort to know that in this country "folk" can see saints, if they want to, by simply cutting a mince-pie and a pickle before retiring to their nests.

"MR. PIPKIN is a beautiful woman, isn't she?" "Yes, she is quite handsome, but they are coming back." "Well, suppose she does, what of it?" "I don't like to see a woman ashamed of her dodges to make herself attractive." "I don't see why she shouldn't. When it has got to be a fact that the most potato-mashers, asparagus-tongs, and tea, you can't tell a woman for sure by herself a dab with the hands now and then."—Chicago Ledger.

LITTLE Charley was present with one of these new brand of cheap watches which keep pretty good time, but one hour half the distance of a day is winding them up. The other morning he was from home early, and when he came home to supper from Chicago to Nashville in sixteen hours—then lost his way computing time. With this advantage over the old watch, or, rather, the one minute to minute the head of the Dunville does it. Here, you see, is an opportunity offered Southern travelers, of a redeem of the fittest and quickest. Dunville, Tenn., is the highest town of several hays—considered their shrine to the pepsin. Charley's case is a fair sample of the sort of time this line. No charge of cars to Nashville, and but one change to New Orleans and all points in Florida. Send a timecard stamp to William Hill, General Passenger Agent, Louisville, Ky., for the new Railroad, Chicago, and get a copy of the new illustrated work, "Florida—A Siesta."

The Great German Physician.

The remarkable success in the practice of Dr. Peter W. Schmidt (frequently called Dr. Peter, or the German Physician) is due to the fact that he tells each one their trouble without asking a question. He discovers in his practice a specific remedy. He is sought after by hundreds sufferers in good, honest, he cries when they other physicians and remedy have failed. Dr. Peter's German Cough Drops and Pills are the results of his long and laborious Pills are the results of his long and laborious Lung and Liver Food for Consumption, is to be found in every household in the land. Dr. Peter's German Cough Drops and

Around the County.

Ironton.

The sleighing is good. Wood is coming in fast in the yard of the Pine Lake Iron Co. Their kilns are about full.

The Pine Lake Lumber Co. has a large pile of logs on the beach. They had a senker here two weeks but he leaves to-day.

There was no preaching last Sunday at the church. The minister failed to put in his appearance; but Rev. Bird supplied the pulpit.

There will be a meeting at the school house at Ironton, Wednesday evening, Jan. 26 for the purpose of organizing a literal society. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Our prominent young druggist succeeded in getting to Charlevoix last Saturday night to see his "best girl." He has worn a smile on his face ever since.

The society Willing Workers now meet in one of the rooms of the hotel every Saturday afternoon, to work.

Mrs. Walter Mumey left for Lincoln, Neb., to visit friends. She will remain about three months.

Al F. Draper and A. H. Upright passed through town to-day on their way to East Jordan.

Prof. Howe's singing school is under quite a headway.

Two years ago Geo. Robb was a well-to-do farmer; to-day, a broken down old man. He is making arrangements to go to the soldiers' home in Grand Rapids, having lost all of his property through domestic difficulties and bad management. Mr. Robb was shot through the head in the war and at times his mind seemed clouded.

Wm. mulland who was badly hurt by a falling tree on the 7th inst. is still very low for he was injured internally.

Rev. Mr. Parmenter addressed the G. A. R. boys and their friends Friday evening. Saturday evening, the 23d, they meet again to further consider establishing a post in Ironton.

Pine Lake and South Arm are navigable (to stage coaches) in all directions. Mercury high, sleighing good, and barometer indications for fair weather.

Because of a misunderstanding, Rev. C. F. VanAinlen's appointment for Sunday afternoon was not filled. It seems he invited Rev. Mr. Strang to preach in his place but failed to put in his appearance, and Rev. Bird supplied the pulpit.

There will be a meeting at the school house at Ironton, Wednesday evening, Jan. 26 for the purpose of organizing a literal society. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Our prominent young druggist succeeded in getting to Charlevoix last Saturday night to see his "best girl." He has worn a smile on his face ever since.

The society Willing Workers now meet in one of the rooms of the hotel every Saturday afternoon, to work.

Mrs. Walter Mumey left for Lincoln, Neb., to visit friends. She will remain about three months.

Al F. Draper and A. H. Upright passed through town to-day on their way to East Jordan.

Prof. Howe's singing school is under quite a headway.

Marion.

Rev. J. T. Iddings preached at Black's school house last Monday evening.

Mr. James Adams is getting out timber for a large barn.

Mr. John Ward is improving in health.

Mr. Wm. Black, our school inspector, has lately been visiting the schools in his district.

Farmers around here are, for the most part, very busy hauling logs, of which the Pine Lake Co. get nearly all. Wood is not moving very freely this winter.

There is now and then a surprise party out here to break the stillness of the otherwise monotonous evenings.

We now have an established road on the section line direct from the county road to Johnson's school house.

The firm of McIntosh & Lynde are running their mill every day. They have a new Emerson & Smith planer toothed saw which works to perfection. The mill has a stock of 150 M now, which they intend to increase to 400 M before spring. The above firm are getting out timber for a barn to be built on the Upright place.

One of our young men was chased by a wildcat recently while returning home from a visit to his best girl. That is his story but some are inclined to think there is another fellow who might have made the mill man think there was more than one "wild cat" around. At any rate rumor saith said mill man's hair was standing straight on end when he arrived home.

Burgess.

The timber business is just booming.

15 teams are busy hauling logs in to Whitford & Crane's mill.

E. M. Clark is taking all the timber of the Sam Omey place.

J. J. Bennett has bought 150 acres of timbered land just south of Lewis' farm and has a large force of men and teams getting out logs on it.

The friends of Mrs. C. Whitford will be sorry to learn that she is quite sick.

Dr. Lewis is attending her.

J. A. Bacon has entirely regained his health, and proposes to take an active part in our township affairs the coming spring. He is one of our heaviest tax payers.

Every taxpayer in sayes should consider every item on his tax receipt and see where his money has gone to.

Miscellaneous.

Cadillac is to have a new roller process flouring mill.

Boston has caught the tobogganing craze. It has a club of 200.

Tobogganing on the part of females is interdicted by catholicism.

The new salt well at Manistique is 1,600 feet deep and still going down.

Big Rapids folks are making arrangements for a fourth of July celebration.

The recent poultry exhibition in Battle Creek, is the largest ever held in Michigan.

Judge Fallas was called away yesterday by the illness of his father.—Cadillac Democrat.

H. Hoag of Hawkins, has bought the flouring mill at Baldwin and will remove to that place.

The discovery of potter's clay in Lake county, has created considerable excitement there.

The Cadillac Democrat claims to have the largest circulation of any paper in Wexford county.

Theodore York of Cheboygan, committed suicide a few days ago. The jury's verdict was temporary insanity.

Kalamazoo has shipped 200,000 lbs of cookery during the last six months, bringing the growers from $800 to $500 per acre.

John B. Gough is again on the platform for temperance, after a three months vacation trying to become accustomed to a new set of teeth.

The ostrich farm at Los Angeles, Cal., is proving a grand success. $8,000 worth of feathers have been sold from the 21 birds during the last 7 months.

Cadillac village schools are so crowded as to make evening sessions necessary to accommodate some of the classes. Why not build more houses and hire more teachers?

It is estimated that the lumber left on the dock at Muskegon when navigation closed will not exceed 100,000, or 50 per cent as compared to 200,000,000 feet at the close last year.

The rise of them water saved the city of Cleveland from a water famine. Three out of four of the pipes by which the city is supplied from the lake, were frozen up for three days.

The officers of the U. S. senate have forwarded to Mrs. Hendricks the inkstand used by her husband in his private room at Washington. It is a massive unique work of art worth $300.

Can't fool Cadillac any more with the yarn that the mysterious light seen in southwest just after sunset is a reflection of the Chicago electric am. She is rejoiced to know that it is from the planet Venus. An enterprising citizen clubbed a tree and discovered the fact.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

It is reported that Joseph Bushy is soon to receive a pension with back pay amounting to $1,728. We think this is the proper treatment Uncle Joe should receive at the hands of Uncle Sam.

For appreciation of the necessities of small boys the school board of Kalkaska takes the ribbon. Under its direction an artificial hill has been built on the school ground for coasting purposes.

The heirs of Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., have 175,000 acres of military road lands in the upper peninsula. Upon this tract it is reported that there are 500,000,000 feet of pines, besides iron, copper, and silver mines.

Statistics show that during the year 1885, there were 1,808 murders and 978 suicides, committed in the United States; and yet our per cent of murders and suicides, considering our population, is much lower than in any foreign country.

A new industry has been begun in the Ionia Home of Correction this fall. Sixteen knitting machines have been placed in the tailor shop and when the boys get used to knitting them there will be fifty dozen pairs of socks turned out daily.

Mr. Sly, manager of the Petoskey Lime Co., has invented a new hard finish and will engage in the mana facture of the same at the corner of Fulton and Ionia streets under the style of the Combination Hard Finish Co.—Michigan Tradesman.

Suspense is agonizing! The editor of the Kalkaska Leader, after hanging from a nail over the eaves of his house by the "basement of his pantaloons for what seemed like half a century," thinks chimney sweeping should be done only by professionals.

Montgomery Thorpe, father of Col. T. J. Thorpe, died last week at Cadillac, at the ripe old age of 93. Mr. Thorpe was one of the pioneers of Wexford county, and built the first log house ever erected there, a structure that still stands.—Kalkaska Leader.

Jackson city shows a building record for 1885 of $501,660 including $45,900 improvements on the state prisons, and challenges the state to show equal prosperity in a city of equal size. Kalamazoo accepts the challenge and foots up $626,950, both are good records.

Kalkaska county appears to be very unfortunate in its selection of town treasurers. Nearly every year some of them skips out with the funds. This year it is Mr. Smith, treasurer of the town of Glade, who is reported missing with three thousand dollars of the people's money.—Traverse Eagle.

A satisfactory item in the commercial reports of the Tribune is published in the statement that while the failures of the year were only 3 per cent less than in 1884, the liabilities show a decrease of nearly 50 per cent. This is an unmistakable indication of a revival of business prosperity.

Traverse City is very much elated over the electric light recently put into the northern asylum located there. The wiring was a difficult job as the work was not begun until the building was nearly finished but the skill of Mr. Bateman overcame all difficulties. The building required 182,500 feet of wire.

E. A. Stowe, of the Grand Rapids Tradesman, has formed a partnership with W. N. Fuller, wood worker, and job printer, and has established a job printing business in connection with the Tradesman. Fuller's reputation as an engraver is such as to give the new firm the inside track for commercial printing.

"During the last cold snap, a great change has resulted in the livestock regions of northern Michigan," said a prominent lumber merchant recently. "Should this cold weather continue with the present fall of snow up north, there need be no apprehension as to all of the logs reaching the streams. The output will more likely exceed that of last winter. Reports from across the lake are that the late storm gave the lumbermen all the beautiful they want, and in some localities a little more so. The prospects in general are decidedly bright, and a rise in price is looked for in the spring."—Ex.

Farmers and Mechanics.

Save money and time by using Believe your Mothers, Wives and Sisters by a timely purchase of the Remnants Cloth and Dress Goods, known recently for Cooper, Leslie, Cooper & Co., at Auction prices. Also Children's Cloth for boys' clothing, now on the branches of industry. Price 50 cts. and $1.00. Samples free. Address, A. W. Cooper.

Notice of Stray Beasts.

To the township clerk of the township of Hayes, Charlevoix county, Mich.

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 25th day of October, A. D. 1885, one dark, mare, white spot in forehead, the mare is about eight years old, weighs about 1,000 lbs., owner unknown, a white-spot in forehead, weight about 800 lbs., owner unknown, my address is in said township of Hayes, and now remains in my possession, and that I reside in the said township of Hayes.

Dated November 4th, A. D. 1885.

JAMES W. BENNETT.

The above notice was filed in township clerk office this 4th A. D. 1885, and copy sent to county clerk November 6th, A. D. 1885.

A. W. FIELW, Township Clerk.

Hayes Township, Charlevoix Co., Mich.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a valuable sample box of goods which will help you to earn money right away than anything else in this world. Any of either sex can easily earn from 50 cts. to $5 and upwards. At home address, True & Co., Augusta, Maine. (29y)

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed by Ira Miles Fulton and Ellen J. Fulton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary J. McIlhattan, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "A" of Mortgages, on page 67, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of one hundred and fifty-eight and 50-100 Dollars, on principal and interest and no other proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured in said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the township of South Arm, in said county of Charlevoix, which township is the place of holding the circuit court for said county, so much of the premises described in said mortgage, and all such portions of the same as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs, and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, to wit: and described as follows, to wit: Commencing at the quarter post between sections twenty six (26) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four north of range eight west; thence due south twelve (12) and 75-100 chains; thence east twenty (20) chains; thence north twenty (20) chains to the shore of the lake; to the section line between sections twenty-six and thirty-five; thence west twenty (20) chains to the place of beginning, containing eight and 5-10 acres, more or less. Also the south half of the south east quarter of the south west quarter of section twenty-six (26) in township thirty-four north of range eight west, containing twenty-eight and 50-100 acres, more or less, together with hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 25th, A. D. 1886.

MARY J. McILLAHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Ira Miles Fulton and Jeden A. Bacon, dated October 20, A. D. 1884, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 31 day of October, A. D. 1884, in liber "A" of mortgages, on page 52, by which said mortgage, was on the 20th day of December, A. D. 1884, assigned to Frederick W. Mayne, and said assignment being on file and recorded in the Registers office for Charlevoix county, in liber 15 of mortgages, on page 136, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of one hundred and ninety six and 50-100 dollars, as principal and interest, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the twenty-second day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town hall in the village of East Jordan, (that being the place where the circuit court for said county is holden,) the premises described in said mortgage, or such thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs, and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, to wit: Commencing at the quarter post between sections twenty six (26) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four north of range eight west; thence due south twelve (12) and 75-100 chains; thence east twenty (20) chains; thence north twenty (20) chains to the shore of the lake; to the section line between sections twenty-six and thirty-five; thence west twenty (20) chains to the place of beginning, containing eight and 5-10 acres, more or less. Also the south half of the south east quarter of the south west quarter of section twenty-six (26) in township thirty-four north of range eight west, containing twenty-eight and 50-100 acres, more or less, together with hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 25th, A. D. 1886.

MARY J. McILLAHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Ira Miles Fulton and Ellen J. Fulton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary J. McIlhattan, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "A" of Mortgages, on page 67, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of one hundred and fifty-eight and 50-100 Dollars, on principal and interest and no other proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured in said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the township of South Arm, in said county of Charlevoix, which township is the place of holding the circuit court for said county, so much of the premises described in said mortgage, or such thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs, and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, to wit: Commencing at the quarter post between sections twenty six (26) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four north of range eight west; thence due south twelve (12) and 75-100 chains; thence east twenty (20) chains; thence north twenty (20) chains to the shore of the lake; to the section line between sections twenty-six and thirty-five; thence west twenty (20) chains to the place of beginning, containing eight and 5-10 acres, more or less. Also the south half of the south east quarter of the south west quarter of section twenty-six (26) in township thirty-four north of range eight west, containing twenty-eight and 50-100 acres, more or less, together with hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 25th, A. D. 1886.

MARY J. McILLAHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Ira Miles Fulton and Jeden A. Bacon, dated October 20, A. D. 1884, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 31 day of October, A. D. 1884, in liber "A" of mortgages, on page 52, by which said mortgage, was on the 20th day of December, A. D. 1884, assigned to Frederick W. Mayne, said assignment being on file and recorded in the Registers office for Charlevoix county, in liber 15 of mortgages, on page 136, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of one hundred and ninety six and 50-100 dollars, as principal and interest, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the twenty-second day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town hall in the village of East Jordan, (that being the place where the circuit court for said county is holden,) the premises described in said mortgage, or such thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs, and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, to wit: Commencing at the quarter post between sections twenty six (26) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four north of range eight west; thence due south twelve (12) and 75-100 chains; thence east twenty (20) chains; thence north twenty (20) chains to the shore of the lake; to the section line between sections twenty-six and thirty-five; thence west twenty (20) chains to the place of beginning, containing eight and 5-10 acres, more or less. Also the south half of the south east quarter of the south west quarter of section twenty-six (26) in township thirty-four north of range eight west, containing twenty-eight and 50-100 acres, more or less, together with hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 25th, A. D. 1886.

MARY J. McILLAHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Ira Miles Fulton and Ellen J. Fulton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary J. McIlhattan, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "A" of Mortgages, on page 67, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of one hundred and fifty-eight and 50-100 Dollars, on principal and interest and no other proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured in said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the township of South Arm, in said county of Charlevoix, which township is the place of holding the circuit court for said county, so much of the premises described in said mortgage, or such thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs, and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, to wit: Commencing at the quarter post between sections twenty six (26) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four north of range eight west; thence due south twelve (12) and 75-100 chains; thence east twenty (20) chains; thence north twenty (20) chains to the shore of the lake; to the section line between sections twenty-six and thirty-five; thence west twenty (20) chains to the place of beginning, containing eight and 5-10 acres, more or less. Also the south half of the south east quarter of the south west quarter of section twenty-six (26) in township thirty-four north of range eight west, containing twenty-eight and 50-100 acres, more or less, together with hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 25th, A. D. 1886.

MARY J. McILLAHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a writ of fieri facias, issued out of the circuit court, for the county of Charlevoix, in favor of Allen S. Hurd, against the goods and chattels and real estate of Sylvester Walker, in said county of Charlevoix and state of Michigan, to me directed and delivered, I have levied on all the right, title and interest, of the said Sylvester Walker, in and to the following described real estate, to wit: Lot eleven (11) and parcel of land bounded as follows: Commencing at a point on the north line of said lot eleven (11), one hundred (100) feet west of the north east corner of said lot, which point is also the north west corner of a parcel of land conveyed by Ira Miles Fulton to Ellen J. Fulton, by deed of record in liber "A" of deeds, on page 100; thence west, on said north line of said lot eleven (11), one hundred (100) feet; thence south, parallel with the east line of said lot eleven (11), to the north line of said parcel of land conveyed by said deed; thence east, on said north line of said parcel of land, to the north east corner thereof; thence north, on said east line of said lot eleven (11), to the place of beginning, and that I shall on the 25th day of April next, at twelve o'clock at noon of said day, at the front door of the Town Hall in the Village of East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix, (the place of holding the circuit court of said county,) sell the said real estate, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said writ, with interest and costs.

Dated this 12th day of January, A. D. 1886.

HARMON PERRIN, Sheriff.

CRUCKSHANK & GRIER,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

Farm for Sale or Exchange.

One hundred acres of the best farming land, 40 acres improved, over 40 apple trees bearing, good buildings, seven miles from Charlevoix. Will be sold cheap for cash, or will exchange for other property. For further particulars inquire at this office.

(29)

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. Some ladies make from $50 to $100 a month. Address Hallett Book Co., Portland, Maine. (29y)

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, Ls.	.....	7 20am	7 20pm	.....
Fort Wayne, ar.	4.35pm	12 40pm	12 30am	.....
Fort Wayne, lv.	.....	3 05	2 15	.....
Kalamazoo, ar.	.....	7 45	7 00	12 00am
Kalamazoo, lv.	.....	7 55	7 30	7 15
Battle Creek, ar.	5 40pm	8 28	8 00	8 10
Battle Creek, lv.	5 45	.....	8 10	8 08
Marshall, ar.	6 15	.....	8 38	8 36
Albion, ar.	6 28	12 50pm	8 50	8 48
Jackson, ar.	7 20	1 40	9 40	9 37
Grand City, ar.	.....	2 05	2 50	5 15
Grand City, lv.	.....	2 05	3 00	8 10
Detroit, ar.	11 00	5 40	6 20	11 20
Chicago, lv.	.....	7 00	7 00	7 00
Walton	.....	.....	5 50	10 32
Kalkaska, lv.	.....	.....	6 35	11 15
Mancelona	.....	.....	6 50	11 27am
Bear Lake	.....	.....	7 18	1 04
Boyne City, ar.	.....	.....	8 15	1 05
Boyne City, lv.	.....	.....	.....	2 00pm
Markland Cliff	.....	.....	9 00pm	5 00am

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No 2	No. 4	No. 6
Markland Cliff	7 00pm	8 00pm	.....
Harbor Springs	.....	8 05	11 12
Petoskey	.....	8 45	11 56
Boyne Falls	.....	9 05	12 16am
Mancelona	.....	10 00	12 56am
Kalkaska	.....	10 40	1 35
Walton	.....	11 10	2 05
Traverse City, ar.	12 25pm	2 00	5 15
Traverse City, lv.	12 35	4 00am	8 10pm
Grand City, ar.	2 05	6 15	10 15
Grand City, lv.	2 05	7 00	10 15
Big Rapids, ar.	2 40	8 45	8 25
Big Rapids, lv.	3 15	8 50	8 35
Howard City, ar.	3 45	9 20	9 05
Howard City, lv.	3 55	9 30	9 15
Cadillac, ar.	4 45	10 15	10 05
Cadillac, lv.	4 50	10 20	.....
Kalkaska, lv.	5 50	11 15	.....
Mancelona	6 20	12 07am	.....
Bear Lake	7 18	1 04	.....
Boyne City, ar.	8 15	1 05	.....
Boyne City, lv.	.....	2 00pm	.....
Markland Cliff	9 00pm	5 00am	.....

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Chicago, lv.	.....	12 00pm	12 00pm	.....
Detroit, lv.	.....	7 00am	7 00am	.....
Grand City, ar.	.....	12 05pm	12 05am	.....
Grand City, lv.	.....	12 05pm	12 05am	.....
Big Rapids, ar.	.....	2 40	3 15	.....
Big Rapids, lv.	.....	2 45	3 20	.....
Howard City, ar.	.....	3 15	3 50	.....
Howard City, lv.	.....	3 25	4 00	.....
Cadillac, ar.	.....	4 15	4 50	.....
Cadillac, lv.	.....	4 20	4 55	.....
Walton	.....	5 10	5 45	.....
Kalkaska, lv.	.....	5 55	6 30	.....
Mancelona	.....	6 25	7 00	.....
Bear Lake	.....	7 18	7 55	.....
Boyne City, ar.	.....	8 15	8 50	.....
Boyne City, lv.	.....	.....	9 00	.....
Petoskey, ar.	.....	9 45	9 55	.....
Harbor Springs	.....	10 05	10 15	.....
Markland Cliff	7 00pm	8 00pm	8 00pm	.....
Cincinnati, ar.	.....	7 00am	7 00am	.....
Fort Wayne, ar.	12 40pm	11 30	5 30am	.....
Fort Wayne, lv.	1 00	11 35am	.....	5 35am
Chicago, ar.	7 00pm	7 30am	.....	12 40pm

O. W. RUGGLES, G. P. & T. A.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars And Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, Nuts, Canned Goods, etc. Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

For Sale by F. O. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

$100 REWARD

FOR

Every Ounce of Adulteration

IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

BUFFALO, N.Y.

For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

HELP for working people, send 10 cents for postage, and we will mail you, free, a valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making money enough in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. We lead all others in this business, and offer a grand royal road to fortune. Some have made fortunes at our business. Any one can do the work. All succeed who follow our plain directions. Business pleasant and strictly honorable. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send 10 cents for 3 cents worth of silver and you will receive a package of goods of ten times value, that will start you in business that will bring you more money in a week than you ever thought possible in a whole lifetime. Nothing like it for those willing to work. Address Tru & Co., Augusta, Maine.

FREE.—We have for distribution a number of copies of the most fascinating work of the Michigan Northwoods ever published. It is a handsome book of 176 pages, profusely illustrated, and we will send a copy free to any one who will send us their address. Address Pub. JOURNAL office.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 133. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ALFRED E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Commissioner, Real Estate Agent. Office in Antrim's Block, Petoskey, Mich. C. L. CHASE.

CHAS. E. KLANK & CHASE, Attorneys at Law and Practicers in Chancery. Office in Antrim's Block, Petoskey, Mich.

JAMES E. CALL, Attorney at Law, Real Estate Land Loan Agents. Lake St., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

JOHN W. MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Chancery practice, practicing attorney for CHEAPEST TO LOAN.

H. L. ROBY, Attorney and Counselor at Law. Office on Lake St., Petoskey, Mich.

J. L. WORTHEY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Emmet Co., Petoskey, Mich.

J. WILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

ISAAC F. WISNER, Attorney at Law and Notary Public, Circuit Court Commissioner, Boyne City, East Jordan, Mich.

W. S. MCCRIE, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan, Antrim County & Specialty.

A. S. SLAFFT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Mich.

CHURCHES.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL: Preaching every Sabbath at 10 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Sabbath school at noon. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. Rev. F. W. NASH, pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH: Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday school at close of morning service. Prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. J. T. JOHNSON, pastor.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

H. C. PRICE, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Boyne City, Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. DEVO, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office for the present at residence, East Jordan, Mich.

W. M. FERGUSON, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

HOBART S. HARSHA, Notary Public, Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agt., Charlevoix.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

A. O. U. W.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 186, meets every Wednesday evening, in their hall.

R. O. T. M.—Edward Paul, Jr., Sir Commander; Wm. Bennett, Lieutenant Commander; Chas. Hayes, Record Keeper. Meets every Friday night, in Odd Fellows' hall.

I. O. O. F.—Star Rising No. 157, meets Saturday on or after each full moon, in Odd Fellows' hall.

MASONIC.—Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, meets Wednesday on or before full moon. Hall over postoffice.

W. P. SHOWN, Cashier. W. A. SHOWN, Ass't Cashier.

BROWN & CO.'S
BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,
Capital, $25,000.

With capital and business experience, we now have large and growing patronage.

We offer special inducements to depositors of the Ninth Ward, Chicago, and Northern Michigan. Special efforts to collect doubtful claims. Interest allowed on time deposits. Also have Property Bond securities bought and sold. Check on all points in Illinois for sale in Boyne City.

CORRESPONDENTS:
First National Bank, Chicago.
Merchants' National Bank, National Bank, Detroit.
Fourth National Bank, Grand Rapids.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE

B. B. JERRIS, Proprietor.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Street cabs and refreshments. Best cigars. Single rooms for agents. Good Stable in Connection with the House. 25

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE,
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.

Charlevoix, - Michigan.

Fine location in town, giving good view of lake and country. Express office and boat landing close by. Good Sample Rooms for commercial travelers. Good supply team for commercial travelers adjacent hotel. 13

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE.
THATCHER & BEALE, Proprietors.

East Jordan, Michigan.

Have having business at the county seat will find this house convenient, place to stop, have the best livery and stable in connection and best satisfaction. HIGHWAY CONNECTIONS.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.

Ironton Michigan.

Every convenience for the traveling public.

GET THE BEST

OF

The Charlevoix Journal,

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co.'s Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertising contracts may be made for it in NEW YORK.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING
Dr. CROUTER'S
BAKING POWDER
Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.

If you use it your biscuit will never taste of soda.

It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.

It is made from PURE CRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the Shops.

It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.

Directions for using furnished with every package.

Price 40 Cents per Pound

Manufactured and Sold only by

Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,

Chemist and Druggist,

BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES.

FOX & MILLER.

New Goods!

I would call the attention of the ladies of Charlevoix and vicinity to my new fall stock of

MILLINERY
AND
Fancy Goods.

Have also just received a fine stock of materials for fine work such as Fifts, Cushions, Embroidery silks, Tinsel and Tube wool embroidery, Fancy Ribbons, Fancy Feathers, Laces, Handkerchiefs, and a variety of fancy goods too numerous to mention. Call and judge for yourselves. Dress-making done to order.

MISS L. SPAULDING.

DAILY STAGE
BETWEEN
Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Leave Boyne City at 8 a. m., arriving at Charlevoix, 11.30 a. m.

Leave Charlevoix at 2 p. m., arriving at Boyne City at 5.30 p. m.

Good Accommodations for Everybody.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACKSMITHING, ETC.

Heavy Wagons hand and made to order. I manufacture my own wagons of the best seasoned material. MARTIN'S ALE WORK. Call and examine before buying elsewhere.

SHOP ONE BLOCK WEST OF CHARLEVOIX, EASTBROOKWOOD & CO.'S STORE, CHARLEVOIX.

☞ THE OSBORNE MOWING MACHINE on hand and for sale. 13

New Grocery!

Cor. Antrim and Bridge Streets.

A. J. MUDGE

Would respectfully announce to the people of Charlevoix and vicinity, especially to the residents of the north end of town, and all those coming in from the south, that he has opened a store of Groceries in his building on the corner of Antrim and Bridge streets, and requests all to give him a trial

BUTTER AND EGGS WANTED

HEATH & FRANCIS,
Builders and Jobbers,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Plans, Specifications, and material furnished, and house built complete. Repairing and rebuilding done to order.

FINE FURNITURE

Built to order, and repairs of all kinds made on short notice. First-class work guaranteed.

Will take Lumber or Block wood in part payment for furniture. Shop on Mitchell street, west of Village Hall, Charlevoix, Mich.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

"TERRACE

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

FORTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

THE Hoar Presidential bill passed the House of Representatives on the 19th inst., by a vote of 165 to 7, precisely as it came from the Senate. Following are the provisions of the bill: "In case of removal, death, resignation or inability of both the President and Vice President, the United States, the Secretary of State, or if the office of State be vacant or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Treasury shall act as President in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of War; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Attorney General; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Postmaster General; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Navy; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Interior shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected: Provided, that whenever the powers and duties of the office of President of the United States shall devolve upon any of the persons named herein, if Congress be not then in session, or if it would not be in accordance with law within twenty days thereafter to convene for the duty of the person upon whom such powers and duties shall devolve in issue a proclamation calling Congress to assemble at such place within the United States as he shall think fit, or if Congress shall happen to be assembled and ready to act within twenty days after the happening of any of the events aforesaid, such duty to be so performed shall devolve upon the President pro tempore of the Senate, or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then upon the Speaker of the House of Representatives, who shall forthwith upon the happening of any of the events aforesaid, if Congress be then in session, or if it be not in session at the time when such duty would devolve upon him, then upon the President pro tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, respectively, who shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected. And, whenever the powers and duties of the office of President of the United States shall devolve upon any of the persons named herein, if the Congress be in session, or if it would comply in accordance with law within twenty days thereafter to convene for the duty of the person upon whom such powers and duties shall devolve in issue a proclamation calling Congress to assemble at such place within the United States as he shall think fit, or if Congress shall happen to be assembled and ready to act within twenty days after the happening of any of the events aforesaid, such duty to be so performed shall devolve upon the President pro tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, respectively, who shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected. And, whenever the powers and duties of the office of President of the United States shall devolve upon any of the persons named herein, if the Congress be not then in session, or if it would not be in accordance with law within twenty days thereafter to convene for the duty of the person upon whom such powers and duties shall devolve in issue a proclamation calling Congress to assemble at such place within the United States as he shall think fit, or if Congress shall happen to be assembled and ready to act within twenty days after the happening of any of the events aforesaid, such duty to be so performed shall devolve upon the President pro tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, respectively, who shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected. Provided, that whenever the powers and duties of the office of President of the United States shall devolve upon any of the persons named herein, if Congress be in session, or if it would comply in accordance with law within twenty days thereafter to convene for the duty of the person upon whom such powers and duties shall devolve in issue a proclamation calling Congress to assemble at such place within the United States as he shall think fit, or if Congress shall happen to be assembled and ready to act within twenty days after the happening of any of the events aforesaid, such duty to be so performed shall devolve upon the President pro tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, respectively, who shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected: Provided, that whenever the powers and duties of the office of President of the United States shall devolve upon any of the persons named herein, if Congress be not then in session, or if it would not be in accordance with law within twenty days thereafter to convene for the duty of the person upon whom such powers and duties shall devolve in issue a proclamation calling Congress to assemble at such place within the United States as he shall think fit, or if Congress shall happen to be assembled and ready to act within twenty days after the happening of any of the events aforesaid, such duty to be so performed shall devolve upon the President pro tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, respectively, who shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected. In case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of State; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Treasury; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of War; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Attorney General; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Postmaster General; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Navy; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Interior shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected: Provided, that whenever the powers and duties of the office of President of the United States shall devolve upon any of the persons named herein, if Congress be not then in session, or if it would not be in accordance with law within twenty days thereafter to convene for the duty of the person upon whom such powers and duties shall devolve in issue a proclamation calling Congress to assemble at such place within the United States as he shall think fit, or if Congress shall happen to be assembled and ready to act within twenty days after the happening of any of the events aforesaid, such duty to be so performed shall devolve upon the President pro tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker of the House of Representatives, respectively, who shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected. In case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of State; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Treasury; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of War; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Attorney General; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Postmaster General; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Navy; or if there be none, or in case of his removal, death, resignation, or inability, then the Secretary of the Interior shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President shall be removed, or a President shall be elected.

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Honest Convictions.

A late number of the New York Evening Post says that President Cleveland has made a great many converts and silenced a great many detractors since he entered the White House, but they generally keep their change of heart to themselves. Among the few who have spoken out, and 'cheerfully acknowledged that they were mistaken in the view they took of him during the canvass, is Judge Noah Davis, of the supreme court, also, as every New Yorker knows, was, in spite of his place on the bench one of the most ardent supporters of Blaine, with all that the term implies, in 1884. Judge Davis now says, in a speech he made at the marine society's dinner Monday night:

"So far as I am capable of judging the man who is at the head of the government of the United States, a term whom I submitted to the bar in western New York not so many years ago, who, in the various offices he has been called upon to fill, has exhibited power and a capacity to do justice between man and man, and who has reached, almost at a bound, the highest office in the gift of the people I say to you, republican as I am, no man has ever sought more ardently than he to do his duty, or, in my humble opinion, has succeeded better than the president of the United States."

We trust others will follow Judge Davis's example and come out with what they now think about the administration. The little men who thought Cleveland was "a small man," and the great rascals who thought he was not moral enough, and the blockheads who thought he was not bright enough, ought all to unite in a general shout of recantation. They ought to do it in their own interest, for things do not go well with Cleveland's enemies. Look at our esteemed contemporary the Sun, for instance. It opposed his election bitterly, and has never retracted or apologized. Well its circulation at once began to decline, and has been declining ever since the election. It is never too late for a Blaine man to repent.

If it do not result in a return of temporal prosperity, it will at least be good for the soul.

Cleveland Endorsed.

In his speech at the recent banquet tendered him by the democratic business men's club of New York city, Gov. Hill said:

Those who expect me to antagonize the national administration will also be disappointed. That administration needs no defence at my hands. It is administering the government wisely, safely, successfully, and to the satisfaction of the people. Of President Cleveland's honesty, courage, and true democracy there can be no question. I had the honor of being associated with him in the state government for two years, and our relations were and have ever since been of the most pleasant and cordial character. I respect his sincerity of purpose, his sterling integrity, and party fealty.

This cordial endorsement of President Cleveland's administration by Gov. Hill is a complete refutation of the charge that there are bitter antagonisms between these eminent democrats. That is not true any more than is the statement that there are irreconcilable differences in the party in this state. The democracy will everywhere present a united front to the opposition next fall.—Lansing Journal.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
Jan. 18, 1886.

(Special Correspondence.

The weather for the past week has been this second winter for many years. A week of passably good sleighing has been enjoyed by lovers of "the beautiful." Several cases are reported of people being frozen to death during the week. A warm wave put in its appearance Saturday, and was given a hearty welcome by the citizens.

The position of sub-treasurer at New York, with its annual salary of $8,000, is apparently going a begging. It has again been declined—this time by Hon. W. F. Rockwell. The president will make another selection, and then he will have to go outside of the city for a man who will accept. Perhaps and possibly—based on the ex editor of the N. Y. World, is more than likely to be offered the place.

A senate committee is soon to investigate the street car companies and their methods in this city. It is proposed to find out the reasons why these corporations do not furnish better accommodations to their patrons and pay their taxes.

At a semi-social session it has been decided that the senate has a right to, and will insist upon knowing the reasons for discharging or removing republican officials and appointing democrats in their places, and that this information is to be demanded from the president. If this policy is carried out there is a possibility that republican senators may learn more of the characters of their office holding friends than they care to have made public.

The railroad rate war, recently begun by the B. & O. on west bound passenger traffic, is being met by the Pennsylvania line, and a cut on through tickets of $8.00 is in effect. It is expected that this will be followed by still greater reductions, and that a similar cut will be made by the B. & O. on east-bound traffic.

It is reported that an exodus of 3,000 colored people has taken place from North Carolina. That number could be easily spared from the national capital and not be missed.

There was a general feeling of sadness Saturday upon the announcement of the sudden death of Miss Kate, eldest daughter of senator Bayard. Friday evening Miss Bayard assisted her father at a reception and party, and appeared in excellent health and spirits. The party did not break up until late and it was one o'clock before she retired. When her sister went to the room to call her, Saturday, she was found to be dead. The cause of death was heart disease. Miss Bayard was a great favorite in society, and her loss will be sincerely mourned by hosts of warm friends.

There is a movement on foot to place the Washington navy yard, which, it is claimed, is one of the best in this country, again in active operation. There are many good and sufficient reasons why this should be done, and it is said that Secretary Whitney heartily favors the plan, as do several members of the house and senate naval committees.

Sporting people here are highly elated by the admission of the Washington club into the National Base Ball League. Nearly three months time has been consumed in accomplishing this result, but it is at last an established fact, and the club and its friends are jubilant. JONASSON.

Notes and News.

The action of the Ohio senate in unseating nine democrats, has given that body two complete organizations, with prospects for an interesting parliamentary conflict in the near future.

That republican outrage in Ohio so excited the political editor last week that he forgot to read the proof, and the article went through the press in bad shape,—but of course there is no use to speak of it, everybody saw it and mentioned it to me.

Congressman Catchem voted against the "presidency succession bill." The representative from the ninth district has a facility for getting on the wrong side of important questions. It is stated that he is preparing another speech assailing Fitz John Porter.—Big Rapids Herald.

The question of presidential succession is finally settled, the bill having passed the house as it came from the senate. By the provisions of the bill in case a vacancy occurs in both offices of president and vice-president, the succession passes to the secretary of state, from him to the secretary of the treasury, and so on through the other members of the cabinet.

The Ypsilantian of Jan. 21st contains an interesting article on the state normal school located there. We have not space to publish the article in full, but cannot refrain from stating that the institution was never more prosperous and efficient than at present. The great need is more room to accommodate the constantly increasing attendance. It is hoped that at the next opportunity, our legislators will generously consider this certainly send for a catalogue before deciding where to send those under their charge for a complete education.

President Cleveland has respectfully informed the senate that his reasons for the removal of any officer, is none of its business. Senators are entitled to all the information they can obtain concerning the qualification of any man named for appointment, and that is all they can look for from him. What an interesting fund of information would be opened up if such a rule as the senators demand were enforced.

Criminal Neglect.

Jackson county is apparently guilty of criminal neglect in allowing an empty reservoir to be the only fire protection in a $12,000 poor house. Last Sunday morning the building took fire and was totally destroyed. Five of the inmates were burned to death in the catastrophe, and several others will probably die from exposure, having escaped in a nude condition with the mercury at 16° below zero.

Three Cheers for Tarsney!

Harbor Springs Independent.

We clip the following from the Evening News of Thursday:

"WASHINGTON, Jan. 14. Mr. Tarsney will introduce a resolution in the house this afternoon calling upon the treasury for information as to how much money there is in the treasury which can be legally used for the payment of interest-bearing obligations of the government, and why such surplus has not been used in calling in the bonds. The resolution is carefully prepared, Tarsney is in earnest, he says the surplus is big, and when the democrats declared on the stump that they would use it to reduce the debt they meant what they said. He says there is about $105,000,000 held to pay coin certificates and also of $53,000,000 held to pay silver certificates, and altogether a surplus of about $230,000,000 which ought to be used in calling in interest-bearing bonds and paying off the public debt. When the secretary's reply is received Mr. Tarsney means to have a bill passed, compelling him to call in 3 per cent bonds and pay off the surplus in reducing the debt as rapidly as possible. The resolution will be given to the press and news."

Every Michigan man who believes in reducing the debt and restoring to the people the money that has been extorted from them, should throw up his hat and hurrah for Tim Tarsney.

His prompt action on these vital questions has done more to secure another fission next fall than all the official patronage in Michigan. Even those who have hitherto dubbed the policy of fission nutsi now be convinced of the wisdom of the action which sent brave, keen far-sighted, self-made "Tim" to congress—to leave the seat which the Saginaw clown disgraced. Next year there will be no balting ticket in the eighth district.

Hook 'er up, Tim; hook 'er up to the last notch and throw her wide open! The people have given you four balls and the jingler, and now the time to push the old boat off the shoals where she is grounded.

"I Want to Inform You."

Washington, Jan. 18.—To a republican senator who called on the president to day, the latter said: "I am led to believe that the majority of your body intended to insist that I shall give my reasons for suspending an office holder at the time I nominate his successor. I want to inform you that I shall do nothing of the kind. Nominations are made by and with the consent of the senate. It is fitting in such cases that the senate should have all the information they desire regarding the men whose nomination they are asked to confirm, but when they insist up n my reasons for making removals they are usurping a privilege that belongs to the Executive alone and their request will in every case be denied. That is the position I propose to take and I am ready to abide the consequences."

WHY WASTE TIME AND MONEY

On that which does no good. Your children have worms and you are always hungry, sleepless, puny and weak from the presence of worms if the stomach which prevents the food being taken up to nourish the body. Dr. Jacobs's Sweets of Vermin Caviness will dissolve and remove the worms and then all will be well. You cannot do better by your children than to attend to their health. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by Dr. O. W. Crosier, Charlevoix, and Crosier & Harris, Ironton.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.

Have a full Assortment of

WOOLEN BLANKETS AND LUMBERMEN'S SUPPLIES.

Six, Six and a Half, and Seven Foot Saws. Double and Single Bitted Axes, Steel Sledges and Wedges. Rubber Goods of all Kinds. Felt Boots, Mackinaw and German Socks, etc. etc. Women and Childrens Buckle Arctics, Olivetts, Snow Excluders, Imitation Sandals, and in short everything of use in the Camp or Household.

PINE LAKE IRON CO., Ironton, Mich.

PERRY WEED,
DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES
Sold ONLY by
L. D. BARTHOLOMEW & Co.

PERFECTION AXES.
6 ft. Saws,
CANT HOOKS
Steel Wedges.

HENRY C. COOPER
Undertaker!
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.
Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.
Come and See my Stock of Furniture.
ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

Is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and more used than any other plug in the market. It is always in good order; NEVER DRY HARD AND SHAVE SWELL; GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION, and will last one of 3 ordinary sized SMOKING TOBACCOS; CHEWERS ALWAYS GET ENOUGH; several chews on the dealer's hands. This is sold at one other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.
Petersburg, Va.

ANOTHER INVOICE
JUST RECEIVED.
SILVERWARE
CLOCKS,
JEWELRY.
C. R. BELLINGER.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS
Of all kinds
At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,
Upright & Dwelling Additions,
Charlevoix.

HOUSE PAINTER,
Calciminer,
Paper Harger,
And Decorator.

PINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING GOOD WORK.

THE JOURNAL

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., Jan. 28, 1886.

Watch Your Address Label.

There is which each subscription is paid and to what time the status on the address label of each person's account always stands. The publishers are respectfully requested to examine their labels and see that they not misinterpret the systems, as follows:

Sent Off.

When the date of subscription is paid in advance (month, day and year) the publication will be sent off regularly each month, unless ordered to be discontinued.

Discontinued.

Each subscriber whose label does not show a credit beyond the current month should notify the publisher at once that any mistake may be corrected in season.

Renewal.

Subscribers should give time for property renewal and prevent their papers being sent off, by ordering discontinuance of the paper at the time for its expiration.

Time Table.

CHARLEVOIX POSTOFFICE.

Mails are made up as follows:

Closes at 7.30 A. M. to 7.30 P. M.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

CHARLEVOIX, STANDARD TIME.

ARRIVE.		DEPARTURE.
10.00 a. m.	Boyne City	12.45 p. m.
3.00 p. m.	Petoskey	7.00 a. m.
10.00 a. m.	Petoskey	2.00 p. m.

Allow ample time for properly assort and mail the mail matter. Office open at least 15 minutes before the departure of each mail.

Stages.

Leave Ironton 12.30 p. m.
Arrive at Petoskey 4.45 p. m.
CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

Call special attention to Gordon's dentulum short excluder and rubber. A very excellent article. UPRIGHT & EMREY.

A pound of New Era Baking Powder at A. E. and get a free cup, saucer and plate, for 25cts. Upright & Emrey.

Check line of underwear received today. Goods cups, socks, suspenders. Upright & Emrey.

Cloth for ladies at Jefferies'.

Cloth, Oysters at Jefferies'.

Fish food butter at Jefferies'.

Local Notes and News.

MRS. J. STRANG, Editor.

Mr. Hall Gibson is sick this week.

Lost two Buffaloes in Fort Ancient.

J. L. Hurd started for Chicago last Friday.

Mr. Upton is on the sick list for a week.

Lewis Jones now cross the straits daily.

Old Grier went to East Jordan Monday on legal business.

Boyne has ordered an organ for its new village schools.

Mr. A. L. McLean is visiting relatives in Boyne City this week.

Jay Woodbridge is making slow recovery from his recent severe illness.

A Wyandotte is in Detroit at meeting of Masonic grand lodge.

Friday was bright and warm—a welcome change from the cold weather.

The boys enjoyed a "social hop" on T. D. Smith last Thursday even ing.

Benkowski shops crowded these days with horse shoeing and sleigh repairing.

The editor of the Statesman is greatly incensed by "a wretch" who stole his cane.

The local boys expect some new rigs and uniforms, and we may hit upon a style.

The county seat remains at East Jordan the prospect is good for another winter there.

Boyce & Scruggins's snow plow does good service in keeping the streets free from an excess of snow.

N. S. Spencer has returned to Cadillac, Mr. Ryan leaving the store in charge of his brother.

Boyne was a grand muster of the war-clad brigade on Saturday evening. Out on dress parade.

Rev. J. T. Iddings preached in Boyne on Tuesday evening, and rode a pale tall horse and increasing gloom.

The farm of W. C. Mears, of Ellsworth, has been rented to M. D. Kitchen of Boyne City, who will soon take possession.

Mr. Lipke dokes, of Eveline, recently took a contract to deliver 2,500 cords of furnace wood for the Pine Lake Iron Co.

A large party of young people indulged in a candy pull at E. G. Wilson's on Saturday evening. They report a good time.

Married—By the Rev. J. T. Iddings at Boyne, 23d inst, at Charlevoix, Mich., Samuel Clark, and Edith M. Brown, both of Charlevoix.

W. H. Francis, of the firm Heath & Francis, met with an accident last Friday, which kept him from work until yesterday. His right arm was badly lacerated, but is healing fast now, and will soon be as sound as before.

The young people's society enjoyed a pleasant meeting on Tuesday evening in the "upper room" of the M. E. church. The literary portion of the program consisted of a few select readings, and a paper entitled "The News Boy," bristling with "locals," "contributions," and "winders."

Ben Davis insists on making Elk Rapids famous for its gamy fish, and keeps up the stories even in mid winter, like the following: "Joe Minnis and a woman living on Torch lake made some good catches last Saturday. Joe caught five trout weighing about nine pounds each, and the woman caught a muskallonge weighing sixteen pounds and five trout weighing eight and nine pounds." Will Charlevoix fishers let this pass without showing a better catch?

It will interest you to step in and see the new clocks and silverware just arrived at Mr. Bellinger's. He has taken a new departure in getting in a fine assortment of walking sticks. His gold headed ebony, certainly cannot fail to please the most fastidious. His order was each direct to the manufacturers, and saves to his patrons the jobber's profits. He is also just now fitting up a new optical case which will be ready for use in a few days.

Last Saturday was an interesting day for some of the boys and girls of Ironton, and with the teams we might include some who felt disdain in other relations, to be called boys and girls. The object of interest was a Jersey calf, at the Iron Co's stables, less than a day old. It's a beauty,—only about two and a half feet long, and perhaps two feet high to the top of his back, with its head enough higher to give it a graceful appearance. Add to these its pale color, fawn like expression, and quick nervous movements, and you have a good idea of what caused an almost constant stream of visitors to the Ironton stables.

Every farmer's boy knows what it is to be plowing along, thinking of what he is going to do next Sunday evening, when all at once, the plow striking a stone, he finds himself lying several furrows away, and feeling as though he had been kicked by a mule. Well, that's about the way an editor felt when he looked over the files of the JOURNAL for an item he supposed was published in the issue of Jan. 7. The item was, that O. D. Hilton spent the 4th day of January plowing. We were going to challenge the south part of the state to show equal evidence of a mild climate. It's a cold day to put a man out of doors now, but we're going to give it a try, if it gets badly frozen.

The Enterprise Reporter.

A "reporter" from the East Jordan Enterprise recently visited Ironton, and "wrote up" a glowing account of the present business, and business prospects of that thriving little town. The article would be considered fairly exact by the average reporter, and in terms not so exceedingly glowing as to "make the judicious grieve, the censure of which one, must in your allowance, o'erweigh a whole theatre of elves." Ironton appreciated the article, and ordered all the extra copies the Enterprise had on hand; and through one of her citizens wrote a letter of appreciation, from which we clip the following:

"We willingly and gracefully concede East Jordan's right to the county seat, the "Windy" factory, and to the paper with the largest circulation in the county, and all other desirable enterprises she may get. We are also glad to acknowledge that Boyne City and Charlevoix have three other newspapers, each, no doubt, with the "largest circulation in the county." And also admit Charlevoix's pre-eminence as a summer resort. As for ourselves we modestly claim to make the best quality of Lake Superior charcoal pig iron, and as regards the beauties and advantages of our situation, we invite our friends to come and see us. Of course we know we are the "Hub of the Lake" and that the steam yachts in summer, and stage coach in the winter, passing from the three extremes of Pine lake—East Jordan, Charlevoix and Boyne City—must revolve around us. Our friends who travel on the lake can't help seeing us and with the return of spring and the aid of the big whistle, we intend they shall hear us also."

Last week the "reporter" put on his cap and overshoes and went out again for a stroll in the balmy air; apparently in deep meditation over the county seat problem. His reverie came to an end by finding that he had arrived at "a beautiful village of about 320 inhabitants, located on the G. R. & I. R. R. in the township of Boyne Valley, in this county." He immediately catches inspiration from the scene before him, and "with the pen of a ready writer," describes the natural advantages of the place, the blessings which flow from the rail road, the various church societies and the well conducted schools, and the conveniences and material prosperity, derived from a good supply of hotels, stores, mills and manufacturing establishments,—all of which reminds us of the hero of Carlyle's Clothes Philosophy, describing the little German village as seen by moonlight. Well, or the whole, brother reporter, we think your wanderings have not been unsuccessful, even though your meditations have been frequently interrupted.

J. L. HURD & CO'S
SPECIAL PRICES.

We regret that our high priced neighbors are grieved because we are quoting low figures in the public prints, but have no time to shed tears when sympathy is unobserved. They prefer the old plan. Keep the customer in ignorance of real values, boast of "square deals," fossilization, low prices in the abstract and great facilities for buying cheap, but it would not do to commit themselves to a price. In these times, when money is scarce, and every commodity low, the public is not to be gulled with any such chaff. Our prices are acceptable to the people and our business is to serve them.

WE ARE SELLING

Mauthaway Patent Flour, per bbl	$5.75	Hiawatha Fine Cut Tobacco	75
Mess Pork, Layton's New	8.00	Spearhead Plug Tobacco	39
Clear Pork	8	Peerless Smoking Tobacco	28
Lard	8	7 3-8 Bar Soap	25
Granulated Sugar	8	3 lb Can Peaches	15
White Sugar	8	3 lb Can California Apricots	20
Java Arbuckles Coffee	1.00	3 lb Can Best Tomatoes	15
Fancy Mocha and Java Coffee	35	3 lb Can Corn	15
3 lbs Best Starch	25	3 lb Can Apples	"

Our Guarantee. Below competition in prices and as good or better in quality.

We are selling all our Winter Goods, such as Flannels, Blankets, Woolen Underwear, Gloves and Mittens, Hosiery, Dressgoods, etc., at great reduction to close. A word to the wise is sufficient.

J. L. HURD & CO,
Pioneers in Low Prices.

F. G. HINES & CO.,
Druggists and Stationers.

List of Jurors.

The circuit court convenes at East Jordan, Feb. 22. The following is the list of jurors drawn:

Norwood—Thomas Marshall, Harmon Stafford.

Resort—Byron Willoughby, H. McCennell.

South Arm—E. A. H. Cole, Dan Isaman.

Springvale—J. Leveck, Geo. Ensing.

Wilson—E. Harp, L. Hull.

Bear Lake—A. Krause, O. Clapper.

Boyne Valley—J. W. Barnes.

Charlevoix—A. J. Mudge, A. Stever.

Chandler—W. Tingle, W. J. Pearson.

Eveline—A. Campbell, A. J. Beers.

Evangeline—W. B. Jenkins.

Hayes—G. VanSchoick.

Hudson—C. F. Hoffman.

Melrose—H. Bennett.

Marion—B. Barnes.

The Historical Society.

Friday evening was "a terrer," nevertheless there were about twenty come to Mr. Brown's to enjoy the usual literary treat. It was finally considered best however to postpone the program one week, and to meet at the same place. Those present then spent a very pleasant evening with music, games, and social chat.

The paper next week is by Mrs. E. M. Clark, subject, Longfellow. Remember when your name is called you will be expected to respond by reciting a passage from the poet of the evening.

Reduced R. R. Fare.

At a recent meeting of passenger agents of the various railroads of Michigan in the city of Detroit, it was decided to give reduced fares for the following meetings:

Y. M. C. A. at Bay City, Feb. 3-7; convention of superintendents of the poor, and conference of sheriffs, at Ionia, Feb 16-18; Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F. at Bay City, Feb. 15-17; Masonic Mutual Benefit Association at Grand Rapids, Feb. 9-11; Michigan Club Banquet, Detroit, Feb. 22 Particulars may be had by writing to the various companies.

M. E. Church.

Sermon at the M. E. church in the morning, by the pastor, on "Daniel, the true hero."

Young people's meeting at 6o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Parmeter will preach at 7 o'clock.

Preaching at Black's school house next Sunday at 12:30 o'clock.

"Brighter than ever," is the testimony of all concerning Vick's Floral Guide for 1886. Besides its usual description and priced list of nearly everything grown in vegetable and flower gardens, and ornamental grounds, it has bound with it the January number of Vick's Magazine, which is growing in its beauty and usefulness with the growth of art, and its union with nature in house adornment. There is nothing shoddy about this farm or anything it sends out. We have patronized them for several years and never sent them an order that was not filled in scripture quantity and quality. The price of this beautiful and useful book is only ten cents, but this amount is deducted from your first order, and next year you get it free about Christmas time. Address James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

THE THROAT

Is often diseased on account of catarrh, producing dryness and a constant desire to cough. That tickling sensation and the hoarseness that is so common to public singers and speakers especially, is relieved at once by HAGEMAN CATARRH CURE which are prepared from the most approved formula. Do not wait till acute bronchitis or even consumption takes firm hold of you. Price only 25c per box. Sold by Dr. O. W. Crosier, Charlevoix, and Crosier & Harris, Ironton.

☞ Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25cts. Sold by Dr. O. W. Crosier, Charlevoix, and Crosier & Harris, Ironton. 27-13

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. Often, symptoms of indigestion are present, such as constipation, loss of appetite, etc. A sudden, fine protrusion, producing a very disagreeable feeling, often getting worse in a common splendid. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the part affected, relieving at once and allowing the inflamed tissues to heal, in the most natural way. Price 50 cents. Sold by Crosier & Harris, Ironton. 27-4

THE HEART WILL HAVE ITS WAY.

Dear Reason owes her laws to rules,
Yet Love will sometimes lord the fool,
And wanders wide the slip,
Lightly laughing at her chaste lip,
And Conscience, the tyrant,
Almost Conscience, the tyrant
Sometimes, for a time, yields to them,
And gives the fool the sway.
But soon, delightful way!
In spite of all that Duty wonders,
In spite of Judgment, tried and true;
And in spite of Reason's chiding,
The heart will have its way.

So Nature wills it—and our poesy
The sound and the fury of the day
Have quelled the strain Indo Dasenon's tongue,
And left her heart untuned
'Tis well to be of lonesome kind.
To obey their Nature's sway,
For, amid the dim, cold realms of mind,
Life's joys are few and wan.
But when delightful way
In spite of Wisdom's haughty calm,
In spite of sneers and ridicule
In spite of reason, we to our fodder
The heart will have its way.

Nor under child, by Nature led,
Nor under Hope to guide,
Nor Prudence with her thoughtful head,
Can hold the heart in pride
All this, reason's boasted lore,
And after years of care,
At every age, in every place,
The heart will have its way.
Its one delicious way,
In spite of all the fond Conscience
In spite of judgment, tried and true;
In spite of age and experience, too,
The heart will have its way.

Alas! for when connected, had never learnt
Or, had learnt, but to be a slave,
Never spoke he'll meet
Who hath not felt the force
The fatal force of Love
Who hath not felt the force
And free the heart as was
Or, felt the force of Love
In spite of Wisdom's calm rules;
In spite of sneers and ridicule
We give the heart its way.

THE TRAMPS.

BY EDWIN GRADDY.

Is there any more enjoyable feeling in life than to be under a bright morning sky, comfortably equipped, on the road through a pleasant country, a world of meadows, sunshy dales—a stretch of brown, billowy moorland? The pulse beats freely, thoughts chase each other like summer butterflies, and you seem to amble easily and pretty out of sorrow, very quaint, homeabout, every living thing about you, with an enlarged and conquering philanthropy. Crowds oppress, cities fret, books worry; but on the road you are free to enjoy to receive, and to compose. The jaunty tramp, however, is a limited individual, and he never gets far away from society and civilization in our island home. The senior tramp, on the contrary, takes ship over sea, and has a wider range. He is everywhere at home. This elder brother is justly entitled a traveler; the junior has to be content with the less ambitious and sometimes shady designation of a tramp. Wandering and little-known tribes are not few in fact, the force it at home, with good hope of reaching railways and lots to eat, where, if he runs his luck against an ill, with three weeks, and a philosophy warranted sculpture for twelve or fourteen hours, but good enough while it lasts, and two cakes with morning light.

Also there are others on the tramp, whose philosophy has little warrant at all, and whose brothers are ever pressing strangely left behind! Apart from fine scenery, freedom, and rude health, it is in chance meetings with such specimens of the junior troop, bright or dull-eyed, that an observing man will find much of the manner his result against scene of lands and nature and the shaking of crowds. The dull seen just enough is an induction from a pretty large experience.

The bright-eyed tramp is always a man with an object and a character. He has either a home before him or behind, or perch or to brighten. He will converse freely with you, tell you his history, and accept little kindnesses in a manly spirit. The dull-eyed man does not like you to look him in the face too closely. Society seems to oppress him. He sinks into the thought the finest bits of it he were passing, down a bank, thinks. He is a waif; he has no home—only a native parish. He hogs, whines, loafers, and I fear he also steals—so true is it that home has its subtle effect on the eye, the thoughts and the conscience of Nature. Meeting such men on a lonely moor, we pick ourselves and strains them from robbing, and perhaps murdering! The answer comes clear

"The other idea that says their minds, the Law?" Cruel Nature, and almost cruel present time—these are the only two ideas that rule them.

Walking across a lonely moor, the white, road winding ribbon-like over distant brown hills, I was once thinking, in a dreamy way, over some scenes in Scottish history, whereon the sound of a pipe's sudden drill an apparently deserted hill-side with human life, when two men, who had been lying on the dry roadway, hoisting a pillow of their backs, started up, and sent my heart into my mouth. I was never so startled in all my life, for it seemed as if my thoughts had been heard. Looking straight into their steady eyes, and noting their a hopeful look, though the men were almost as startled as I was, I said:

"Good morning. How's work, mates?"

It was a policeman's hint. I was acting spies. To know anything about a man, I had told me—his name, occupation, object—always gives you a certain command over him in a critical moment. Exchanging, then, the usual compliments—

"Bad—awful bad! Do you know of a job, gentleman?"

I wished I did. They were making a new road seven miles off at P——; they might inquire there.

Work-seekers' stories are often most pathetic.

"What, you on the tramp?" was my remark one day to a young fellow, out at elbows, and with frayed garments, who visited me at home, handing me an envelope addressed to him in my own handwriting. Yes, he had left his situation in a cotton mill in Lancashire, and had trudged southward through many centuries found in London, and then through the Midlands, without getting a single job. Of late he had lost it; his clothing worked in. He was clever; a hard, philosophic student; an honest man in every way. Yet he had been loafing with the inconvenience, sleeping anywhere, mostly out-of-doors, living in a strange fashion on raw vegetables, and necessarily sharing what other tramps had. His wife and child had gone home to her friends, and he had never heard of them for nine months, though he had written to his wife at first regularly. She might be dead.

How had he endured it all? He could scarcely say. He dare not think. Then followed a charming bit. As he had tramped since, it had been his custom to recite all the prose and poetic passages he could remember from his favorite authors—sound he had a well-stored memory, to preserve his "sanity," to prevent him from sinking to the level of his surroundings and from his conversational companions, thousands of times he could repeat the little pieces they had learned as children at school—sometimes "stuck" ballads, bought in penny sheets at fairs. One companion had stuck to him for months, and when every friend seemed to be dull, or the way was dreary, or people were uncivil, this ready-thick-coated "chum" would say to him.

"Give us a bit of poetry, mate."

Can we ever fail to admit men we may so feed and in early youth? They may perhaps some day, sorely tried, do as much for us.

Here is another story. A tanned face, sinkered hair, intelligent eyes, clothes worn into a fluffy softness of texture, lines with loose colors obviously have made for all this, manners, a bashful man, and after a long talk, I asked him, at every age, in every place,

The heart will have its way.
Its one delicious way,
In spite of all the fond Conscience
In spite of judgment, tried and true;
In spite of age and experience, too,
The heart will have its way.

Also for when connected, had never learnt
Or, had learnt, but to be a slave,
Never spoke he'll meet
Who hath not felt the force
The fatal force of Love
Who hath not felt the force
And free the heart as was
Or, felt the force of Love
In spite of Wisdom's calm rules;
In spite of sneers and ridicule
We give the heart its way.

THE TRAMPS.

BY EDWIN GRADDY.

Is there any more enjoyable feeling in life than to be under a bright morning sky, comfortably equipped, on the broad through a pleasant country, a world of meadows—sunshy dales—a stretch of brown, billowy moorland? The pulse beats freely, thoughts chase each other like summer butterflies, and you seem to amble easily pretty out of sorrow, very quaint, homeabout, every living thing about you, with an enlarged and conquering philanthropy. Crowds oppress, cities fret, books worry; but on the road you are free to enjoy to receive, and to compose. The jaunty tramp, however, is a limited individual, and he never gets far away from society and civilization in our island home. The senior tramp, on the contrary, takes ship over sea, and has a wider range. He is everywhere at home. This elder brother is justly entitled a traveler; the junior has to be content with the less ambitious and sometimes shady designation of a tramp. Wandering and little-known tribes are not few in fact, the force it at home, with good hope of reaching railways and lots to eat, where, if he runs his luck against an ill, with three weeks, and a philosophy warranted sculpture for twelve or fourteen hours, but good enough while it lasts, and two cakes with morning light.

Also there are others on the tramp, whose philosophy has little warrant at all, and whose brothers are ever pressing strangely left behind! Apart from fine scenery, freedom, and rude health, it is in chance meetings with such specimens of the junior troop, bright or dull-eyed, that an observing man will find much of the manner his result against scene of lands and nature and the shaking of crowds. The dull seen just enough is an induction from a pretty large experience.

The bright-eyed tramp is always a man with an object and a character. He has either a home before him or behind, or perch or to brighten. He will converse freely with you, tell you his history, and accept little kindnesses in a manly spirit. The dull-eyed man does not like you to look him in the face too closely. Society seems to oppress him. He sinks into the thought the finest bits of it he were passing, down a bank, thinks. He is a waif; he has no home—only a native parish. He hogs, whines, loafers, and I fear he also steals—so true is it that home has its subtle effect on the eye, the thoughts and the conscience of Nature. Meeting such men on a lonely moor, we pick ourselves and strains them from robbing, and perhaps murdering! The answer comes clear

"The other idea that says their minds, the Law?" Cruel Nature, and almost cruel present time—these are the only two ideas that rule them.

Walking across a lonely moor, the white, road winding ribbon-like over distant brown hills, I was once thinking, in a dreamy way, over some scenes in Scottish history, whereon the sound of a pipe's sudden drill an apparently deserted hill-side with human life, when two men, who had been lying on the dry roadway, hoisting a pillow of their backs, started up, and sent my heart into my mouth. I was never so startled in all my life, for it seemed as if my thoughts had been heard. Looking straight into their steady eyes, and noting, there

Around the County.

Ironton.

In reading the latest issue of the East Jordan Enterprise, we notice that it does not confine its kind words to the immediate vicinity of East Jordan, but Ironton, Boyne City and other places come in for their share of attention. Some say that the favorable description of Boyne City's industries was actuated from a kindly desire, on the part of the editor, to console that village for its manifest (not) disappointment in not securing that county seat contest. Be manly seat. Meanwhile if it is the destiny of our wandering county seat to take another excursion on the lake, we would in time in inviting it to stop in Ironton long enough to obtain the necessary repairs contingent to constant distractiness.

If it should be our duty to chronicle a happy event in the lives of two of our young friends in next week's JOURNAL, we will do it without a murmur. Mind we say, if, as this is only a slender cast before a coming event.

Rev. Mr. Iddings preached to a full house Sunday afternoon, and Rev. Mr. Strang was also well received in the evening. An appointment was made for Rev. Mr. Iddings Tuesday evening, also every second Sunday afternoon. We hope to welcome home Rev. Mr. VanAuken next Sunday afternoon. Rev. Iddings and Strang will be welcome at all times.

The Grand Army boys announce their determination to proceed with the necessary measures for establishing a post in Ironton, and the G. A. R. ladies have determined to second them by giving an entertainment for their benefit at an early date.

Preaching at the church last Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. J. T. Iddings, and in the evening by Rev. G. J. Strang.

Five weeks closes the term of school at Ironton. There is plenty of applicants for the summer term.

Rev. Mr VanAuken will fill his appointment here next Sunday at 3 o'clock. Come out and give him a full house, and welcome him back.

The fourth of Ironton is exceedingly good. No case of contagious disease during the last year.

Burgess.

There will be a social and oyster supper in district No. 6, Jan. 28th, for the benefit of the church. All invited.

The tax collector earns his per cent getting around these times.

A. R. Struthers' little boy had to have one of his fingers amputated below where it was cut off with the axe. It has been the source of constant suffering since he was hurt.

It is reported that Wm. Seager, of this township, having inherited some property in England, is going to look after it soon.

Marion.

The stormy weather of the past few days has rather retarded the logging operations among our lumber kings.

Peter McFarlane has sold his farm of twenty acres to Mr. Nickson for $750, taking a team of horses in part payment therefor.

A sleigh load of young folks came down to Charlevoix last Sunday evening, to attend the young people's meeting. They met, as always, a cordial welcome.

Miscellaneous.

Work is begun on the new dock at Petoskey.

The G. R. & I. ice houses at Cadillac are being filled.

Muscelona is to have a new tara table. It is now being built at Cadillac.

Snowplow over the G. R. & I. three times a day part of the time last week.

A certain Petoskey gentleman, recently returned from Florida, thinks northern Michigan can't be beat after all.

Dr. Miller, of Battle Creek, refused $100 for a Langsdon pullet,—an offer made him during the recent poultry show held there.

"Well," said an Irish attorney, "if I plead the court, if I am wrong in this, I have another point that is equally conclusive."

St. Ignace is jubilant over the success of her salt well scheme. They say strong brine flows freely from the bowels of the earth.

The law in Florida has established the fact that alligators cannot freeze to death. When they thaw out they are as lively as before.

"Is ducky darling sick? What will to do for ducky?" was heard issuing from a neighbor's window. "Try some quack medicine," came the response from five pair of strong lungs.

We are in receipt of another excellent piece of music from Igc. Fisher, Toledo, O. It is a waltz, entitled "Forget Me Not," suitable for either piano or organ, brilliant and fascinating. Price only 40 cents.

Detroit, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo and Bay City are all striving hard for the state fair for next year. Kalamazoo seems likely to come out ahead, as the agricultural society already has fine buildings located there.

A young man, whose knowledge is based on actual experience, says that when calling on their sweethearts young men should carry affection in their hearts, perfection in their manners, and confection in their pockets.

The editor of the Leelanau Enterprise "takes the liberty of announcing that henceforward the Enterprise shall be an independent newspaper." We think we can see in this the benign influence of the present administration. Having come to the anxious seat, we have hopes our being, to use in our fellow craftsman a brilliant convert to democracy.

A curious instance of what a simple change of column can procure has been noticed of late. It runs as follows: Lord Palmerston then entered on his hand, a white hat upon his feet, large, but well-polished boots upon his brow, a dark cloud in his hand, his faithful walking-stick in his eye, a menacing glare saying nothing.—Ex.

The following from the pen of the late J. G. Holland, says the Chicago Current, possesses the essential elements of pathos and truth: Labor is the honorable thing among men. There is not a nearly graded lawn, a pretty garden, or a well trained tree that does not tell of it. It builds magnificent cities, and creates navies and bridges rivers, and lays railroad tracks, and infuses every part of the flying locomotive. Wherever a steamer plows the waves, or the long canal bears the nation's inland wealth; wherever the wheat fields wave and the mill wheel turns, there labor is the conqueror and the king. The newspaper, wherever it spreads its wings, bears the impress of toiling hands. Should not the man who produces all that he can eat and wear be honored? Should not the laborer be well honored? To us there is more true poetry about the laborer's life and lot than any other man's under heaven. It matters not in what calling a man toils, if he toils manfully, honestly, and contentedly. The little tin pail should be a badge of nobility everywhere, and in the "good-time coming, boys," it will be.

One of the greatest trials of the newspaper profession is that its members are compelled to see more of the shams of the world than any other profession. Through every newspaper, day after day, go all the wicked sins of the world; all the vanities that want to be puffed; all the revenges that want to be reached; all the mistakes that want to be corrected; all the dull speeches wanted to be thought eloquent; all the inanimate things that wants to get its name noticed gratis in the editorial columns, in order to save the tax of the advertising columns; all the men who want to be set right and were never so; all the crooked financial philosophies with stories hung as their hair, and gloomy as their finger nails in the morning because benefit of soap—all the bores who come to stay five minutes, talk five hours. Through the editorial and reportorial rooms all the follies and shames of the world are seen, day after day, and the temptation is to believe in neither God, man, or woman. It is no surprise to me that this profession there are skeptical men; I only wonder that journalists believe anything. De Witt Talmage.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

An Eloquent Appeal to Young Ladies by the Mistress of the White House.

J. G. Holland wrote in an album which belonged to Mrs. Hayes, the wife of the ex president, these words: "Women, only, can make wine drinking unfashionable and heal the nation of its curse." If this be true, what a great and awful responsibility rests upon the women of our land! But, girls, do we realize this? Where and how do we stand with regard to this terrible curse of our country which is dragging our brothers and fathers down to ruin?

In 1862, Miss Cleveland, now mistress of the white house, at Washington, wrote as follows in the Youth's Temperance Banner:

"I wish some strong, bright angel stood before you just now, while you read, girls, to think before you, as no words of mine can, the power you possess to help or hinder the cause of temperance, to make you feel your responsibility, because you are girls, in the matter; to shudder at its weight, and to never cease trying to fulfill it! Doubtless you have heard a great deal about the value of your smiles; but do you know the value of your frowns? I wish I could make you feel this value of knowing just what to frown upon. What a man must do by a blow a woman can do by a frown. When the time comes that the young man who now shares his time in your society and the saloon, who jokes about temperance in your presences, and takes a glass socially now and then, is made to feel that these things cannot be if you are to be his companion at a party, ride, or church; that good society cannot tolerate these things in its members; in short, that this kind of man is unfashionable and unpopular—then alcohol will tremble on its throne, and the liquor traffic will hide its cancerous face.

"When Mrs. Hayes became mistress of the white house she did an unheard-of thing. She banished wine from all her entertainments, with just one exception. Secretary Evarts made a fuss. He was mortified. He could not endure to have Lord and Lady English, Count and Countess French, Baron and Baroness Gerhard come to the white house dinners and have nothing fit for them to drink—not a drop of poison! It was utterly queer! So Mrs. Hayes made one exception in favor of those great foreign highnesses, and allowed wine upon her table in their presence. But only for once. Her conscience—highsoulled woman that she is—smote her for that one little cowardly compliance with wrong. She could better endure to have Secretary Evarts and the Smiths scandalized for her than to be ashamed of herself. So she quietly and forever after prohibited wine from her table, and cheerfully endured the lifted eyebrows and shrugged shoulders of the diplomatics. British, French, Russian—all, the little short lived lilies of fashionable society until that lines turned to a sneer, and fashionable society turned around, like the spaniel it is, and trotted on behind its mistress. It became unfashionable to serve wine and offer wine in fashionable society while Mrs. Hayes was in the white house."

Farmers and Mechanics.

Save money and doctor bills. Relieve your children of worms by using Dr. Crouter's Vermifuge and Lung Syrup, best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Bronchial affections. Relieves Children of Croup in one night, may save you hundreds of dollars. Price 25 cents, and $1.00. Samples free. Sold by G. W. Crouter. 2

AT HOME AND ABROAD;

At church and theatre, in the counting house and work room, in fact everywhere is heard that hacking cough which soon developes into congestion or inflamation of the lungs, bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. Be wise in time. Immediate relief and cure can be cheaply attained. HAMILTON'S COUGH BALSAM will surely give relief to those throat and lung troubles that often terminate in death. Instant relief in croup, and a sufeiter of whooping cough. Your consumptive friend will be greatly benefited. Price 25 and 50 cents.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

EATING AND STARVING

It is all the same, for you are sure to suffer from piles. No worse torture exists, and thousands of, Blind, bleeding piles are unequaled for annoyance, but by a few applications of PARKER'S PILE SUPPOSITORIES they entirely disappear. The knife is often required by physicians for the removal of protruding piles, but such barbarity is not a necessity for PARKER'S SUPPOSITORIES used according to directions, quickly reduce, replace, and drive them away. Warranted to cure. Price 50 cents per box.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the principal sum secured by a mortgage dated the thirteenth day of October, 1884, executed by Hiram Hopkins and Ann Eliza Hopkins, his wife, of Allegan county, Michigan, to Sarah A. Harding, of Allegan county, Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber 5 of mortgages, on page 99, on the 22d day of October, A. D. 1885, and whereas the amount now remaining unpaid upon said mortgage and debt secured thereby is the sum of three hundred and forty-six dollars, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law, or in equity, to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, one of the conditions of said mortgage is a power of sale in the event of default in payment of principal or of the interest due thereon, or any part thereof, on any day whereon the same is made payable, and should the same remain unpaid and in arrears for the space of thirty days, the principal sum secured by said mortgage, with all the interest then accrued and payable thereon, shall be taken and deemed to be forfeited, and the whole principal sum and the interest due on the same, and all moneys paid for insurance, and all moneys paid for taxes and other purposes, and all costs and charges of suit, and the attorney fee hereinafter mentioned, shall be and become immediately payable, and the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises hereinafter described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of East Jordan, in said county, on the 27th day of April, 1890, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: The west half of the southeast quarter of section twenty-six (26) in township thirty-four (34) north of range ten (10) west, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan.

Dated January 26th, 1890.

SARAH A. HARDING,
Mortgagee.

ZENAS W. ROBINSON,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Mich.

Notice of Stray Beasts.

To the township clerk of the township of Hayes, Charlevoix county, Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 8th day of October, A. D. 1885, one dark bay mare, white spot in forehead, she mare is about 7 years old, weighed about 1,000 lbs., was when taken, with harness on, and had been at work on the farm of the undersigned, strayed upon my inclosed land in said township of Hayes and now remains in the possession, and that I reside in the said township of Hayes.

Dated November 4th, A. D. 1885.

THOMAS BENNETT.

The above notice was filed in township clerk's office November 4th, A. D. 1885, and copy sent to county clerk November 6th, A. D. 1885.

A. W. CHEW, Township Clerk.
Hayes Township, Charlevoix Co., Mich.

A GIFT Send us your name and address and we will send you free a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money at once than anything else in America. Both sexes of all ages can live at home and work in spare time or all the time. Capital not required. We will start you. Some have made over $50 in a day at this. Address TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed by Milo Eaton and Ethel L. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary J. McGlashan, dated February fourth, A. D. 1882, and recorded in the register's office in and for the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1882, in liber 2 of Mortgages, on page 47, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Two Thousand Four Hundred and Fifty-eight and 50-100 Dollars, (2,458.50), principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, the twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1890, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in South Arm township, located in the village of South Lake, commonly called East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix, the place of the place and building in which the Circuit Court for Charlevoix County is holden, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount so remaining due on said mortgage, with interest at ten per cent, and all legal costs, including an attorney fee of Fifty Dollars, and the costs and charges of the sale, in such case made and provided, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, described as follows, to wit: The east half of the quarter post between section twenty-four (24) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four (34) north of range eight (8) west, thence south twelve (12) and 25-100 chains, thence east to the shore of The Lake, thence north along shore of Pine Lake to the section line between said sections twenty-four and thirty-five, thence west along said section line to the place of beginning, containing eight and 50-100 acres, more or less. Also the west half of the north east quarter of the north west quarter of section twenty-six (26), in said township thirty-four (34) north of range eight (8) west, containing twenty (20) acres, more or less, together with the appurtenances, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 26th, 1890.

MARY J. McGLASHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee.
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Hopkins to John A. Hand, dated October 22, A. D. 1883, and recorded in the register's office in and for the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 30 day of October, A. D. 1883, in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 82, which said mortgage was on the 22d day of December, 1883, assigned to Sarah A. Harding, by John A. Hand, which said assignment being recorded in the Registers office in and for said county of Charlevoix, in liber 10 of mortgages on page 622, and on the 12th day of December 1885, was assigned by said Frederick W. Mayne to Hugh Miller, which assignment being recorded in the Registers office in and for said county of Charlevoix, in liber 10 of mortgages on page 18, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of one hundred and ninety-six and 75-100 dollars, as principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 5th day of March, A. D. 1890, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town hall in the village of East Jordan, that is the place where the Circuit Court for said county of Charlevoix, on the 25th day of February, A. D. 1890, is holden, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest at ten per cent, and all legal costs, including an attorney fee of Fifty dollars, covenanted for therein, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of lot 1, in block 2, in the village of East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and the south west quarter (¼) of the south west quarter (¼) of section twenty-six (26), in township thirty-four (34) north of range seven (7) west, containing forty acres more or less, in the United States survey.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1889.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Assignee of Mortgage.
HUGH MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Hopkins to John A. Hand, dated October 22, A. D. 1883, and recorded in the register's office in and for the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 30 day of October, A. D. 1883, in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 83, which said mortgage was on the 22d day of December, 1883, assigned to Sarah A. Harding, by John A. Hand, which said assignment being recorded in the Registers office in and for said county of Charlevoix, in liber 10 of mortgages on page 622, and on the 12th day of December 1885, was assigned by said Frederick W. Mayne to Hugh Miller, which assignment being recorded in the Registers office in and for said county of Charlevoix, in liber 10 of mortgages on page 18, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of one hundred and ninety-six and 75-100 dollars, as principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 5th day of March, A. D. 1890, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town hall in the village of East Jordan, that is the place where the Circuit Court for said county of Charlevoix, on the 25th day of February, A. D. 1890, is holden, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest at ten per cent, and all legal costs, including an attorney fee of Fifty dollars, covenanted for therein, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of lot 1, in block 2, in the village of East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and the south west quarter (¼) of the south west quarter (¼) of section twenty-six (26), in township thirty-four (34) north of range seven (7) west, containing forty acres more or less, in the United States survey.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1889.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Assignee of Mortgage.
HUGH MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Hopkins to John A. Hand, dated October 22, A. D. 1883, and recorded in the register's office in and for the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 30 day of October, A. D. 1883, in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 83, which said mortgage was on the 22d day of December, 1883, assigned to Sarah A. Harding, by John A. Hand, which said assignment being recorded in the Registers office in and for said county of Charlevoix, in liber 10 of mortgages on page 622, and on the 12th day of December 1885, was assigned by said Frederick W. Mayne to Hugh Miller, which assignment being recorded in the Registers office in and for said county of Charlevoix, in liber 10 of mortgages on page 18, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of one hundred and ninety-six and 75-100 dollars, as principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 5th day of March, A. D. 1890, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town hall in the village of East Jordan, that is the place where the Circuit Court for said county of Charlevoix, on the 25th day of February, A. D. 1890, is holden, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest at ten per cent, and all legal costs, including an attorney fee of Fifty dollars, covenanted for therein, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of lot 1, in block 2, in the village of East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and the south west quarter (¼) of the south west quarter (¼) of section twenty-six (26), in township thirty-four (34) north of range seven (7) west, containing forty acres more or less, in the United States survey.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1889.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Assignee of Mortgage.
HUGH MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Hopkins to John A. Hand, dated October 22, A. D. 1883, and recorded in the register's office in and for the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, on the 30 day of October, A. D. 1883, in liber 2 of mortgages, on page 82, which said mortgage was on the 22d day of December, 1883, assigned to Sarah A. Harding, by John A. Hand, which said assignment being recorded in the Registers office in and for said county of Charlevoix, in liber 10 of mortgages on page 622, and on the 12th day of December 1885, was assigned by said Frederick W. Mayne to Hugh Miller, which assignment being recorded in the Registers office in and for said county of Charlevoix, in liber 10 of mortgages on page 18, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of one hundred and ninety-six and 75-100 dollars, as principal and interest, and no suit or proceeding at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof; Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 5th day of March, A. D. 1890, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town hall in the village of East Jordan, that is the place where the Circuit Court for said county of Charlevoix, on the 25th day of February, A. D. 1890, is holden, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest at ten per cent, and all legal costs, including an attorney fee of Fifty dollars, covenanted for therein, the premises being described in said mortgage as follows, to wit: The south half of lot 1, in block 2, in the village of East Jordan, in said county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, and the south west quarter (¼) of the south west quarter (¼) of section twenty-six (26), in township thirty-four (34) north of range seven (7) west, containing forty acres more or less, in the United States survey.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1889.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Assignee of Mortgage.
HUGH MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the principal sum secured by a mortgage dated the thirteenth day of October, 1884, executed by Hiram Hopkins and Ann Eliza Hopkins, his wife, of Allegan county, Michigan, to Sarah A. Harding, of Allegan county, Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber 5 of mortgages, on page 99, on the 22d day of October, A. D. 1885, and whereas the amount now remaining unpaid upon said mortgage and debt secured thereby is the sum of three hundred and forty-six dollars, and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law, or in equity, to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, one of the conditions of said mortgage is a power of sale in the event of default in payment of principal or of the interest due thereon, or any part thereof, on any day whereon the same is made payable, and should the same remain unpaid and in arrears for the space of thirty days, the principal sum secured by said mortgage, with all the interest then accrued and payable thereon, shall be taken and deemed to be forfeited, and the whole principal sum and the interest due on the same, and all moneys paid for insurance, and all moneys paid for taxes and other purposes, and all costs and charges of suit, and the attorney fee hereinafter mentioned, shall be and become immediately payable, and the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises hereinafter described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of East Jordan, in said county, on the 27th day of April, 1890, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows: The west half of the north east quarter of section twenty-six (26), in township thirty-four (34) north of range eight (8) west, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan.

Dated January 26th, 1890.

JOSIAH E. HARDING,
Newberry, Mich.
Mortgagee.
Attorneys for Mortgagee.
Petoskey, Mich.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a writ of fieri facias, issued out of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in favor of Hugh Miller, plaintiff, against Mary Hopkins, in the estate of Susan Walker, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, to me directed and delivered, I did on the 4th day of November, A. D. 1889, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Town hall, in the village of East Jordan, in said county, the following described real estate, that is to say, all that certain piece and parcel of land described as follows, to wit: The west ½ of the south east ¼ of section twenty (20), in township thirty-four (34) north of range seven (7) west, containing eighty acres, and further will take notice that I shall sell at public auction or vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house, in the village of East Jordan, in said county, that being the place where the Circuit Court for said county of Charlevoix is holden, on the 25th day of February, A. D. 1890, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, of said day, the above described premises, or so much thereof as will satisfy said writ, and all costs and charges of sale, which said writ is returnable in the Circuit Court for said county of Charlevoix, at the Court House in said county, in the village of East Jordan, in said county, that being the place where said court is holden.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1889.

FREDERICK W. MAYNE,
Assignee of Mortgage.
HUGH MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

Farm for Sale or Exchange.

One hundred acres of the best farming land, good buildings, seven miles from Charlevoix, near Ironton. Will sell cheap for cash, or will exchange for city property. For further particulars inquire at this office. 1617

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Bigger than a covered grandly. Your fall. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. 1597

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in effect June 21, 1885.

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No 1	No. 3	No. 5	No. 7
Cincinnati, lv		7 35am	7 20pm
Fort Wayne, ar	8 55pm	2 40pm	1 20pm
Fort Wayne, lv		2 50	1 30	12 01am
Kalamazoo, ar		6 25	5 20	4 45
Kalamazoo, lv		6 35	5 30	4 55
Grand Rapids, ar		7 30	6 30	6 05
Grand Rapids, lv	7 40am	7 35	6 35	6 10
Ionia, ar	8 35	8 20	7 20	7 05
Howard City,	8 50	8 35	7 35	7 20
Edmore,	9 02	8 47	7 47	7 33
Sheridan,		8 55	7 55	7 40
Reed City, lv	9 57	9 40	8 40	8 25
Cadillac, ar	11 05	10 45	9 45	9 35
Cadillac, lv			3 45	9 45
Walton,			4 30	10 32
Kalkaska,			4 55	11 00
Grayling,			5 43	11 51
Frost Valley,			7 20	1 20pm
Pellston, ar			7 35	1 40
Harbor Springs			8 45	3 00
Mackinaw City			9 50pm	3 10am

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Mackinaw City		7 00am	5 30pm
Harbor Springs		8 20	6 45
Pellston, lv		8 35	7 00
Boyne Falls		9 05	11 50
Mancelona		10 05	12 50am
Kalkaska		10 27	1 28
Grayling		11 15	2 15
Cadillac, lv		12 25pm	3 15
Cadillac, ar		1 45	4 35	5 20am
Reed City, ar		2 45	5 40	6 25
Reed City, lv		2 55	5 50	7 05
Sheridan,		3 44	6 46	7 56
Edmore,		3 51	6 54	8 04
Howard City,		4 03	7 06	8 16
Grand Rapids, ar	7 35am	5 20	7 45	10 20
Grand Rapids, lv	8 00	5 35	8 05
Kalamazoo, ar	9 05	6 35	9 05
Kalamazoo, lv	9 10	6 50	9 40
Fort Wayne, ar	12 40pm	10 25	1 40am
Fort Wayne, lv	1 00	11 00am		1 50am
Cincinnati, ar	7 00pm	7 00		7 00pm

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

DeLAND & CO'S

CAPITOL LEAF
SALERATUS
SODA
For Baking Purposes.
Best in the World.
Sold by Upright & Emery.

W. M. WAGAR. G. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, and Tropical Products. Corner of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

Gem Cracker Co.
Manufacturers and Jobbers of Crackers, Biscuits, Cakes and Confectionery. Gem Cracker Co. Chicago.
Albert A. Lull, Agent.
Sample Draughts.
Gem Cracker Co.
Chicago.
Mention this paper.

For Sale by F. G. HINDS & CO., Charlevoix.

$100 REWARD
FOR
Every Ounce of Adulteration
IN THE
U. G. Soap
The Great 5c Cake,
Made only by
GOWANS & STOVER,
BUFFALO, N. Y.
For Sale by all Grocers.

HELP us to spread the news! Send our price, cents postage, and we will mail you 10 of the most valuable articles that will put you in the way of making money fast at home. Some have made over $50 in a day. Any one can do the work. Capital not needed. We start you in business, furnishing everything. Many are making fortunes who began in this way. Now is the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful. Secrets to $5.00 easily made. Costly outfit free. Address TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine.

$200,000 in prizes given away. Send 10 cents postage and we will mail you a package of goods that will put you in the way of making money enough to satisfy you for a time. Address TRUE & CO., Portland, Maine.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to make money right away than anything else in this world. Many have made fortunes by the use of our goods. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers. Absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 1597

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 134. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN
Entered at the post office at Charlevoix, Mich., as second class matter.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

JEROME HARTE, Attorney at Law, Crown Block, Petoskey. Collections promptly attended to.

THEODORE SHERRARD, Attorney at Law, Petoskey, Mich. Practice generally. Office in Hitchcock's Block.

C. L. SHIPIRO, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Real Estate and Collections. Office in Mitchell's Block, Petoskey, Mich.

W. A. WAYNE, Attorney and Counselor at Law, Petoskey. Collections promptly attended to.

L. C. SMITH, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Office in Court House, Petoskey, Mich.

J. MCCLURE, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. L. COOK, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Collections a Specialty.

A. J. CAMPBELL, Attorney at Law, Boyne City.

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY.

E. GRIFFITH Homœopathic Medicines, Books, Supplies, Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

H. BOSWORTH, M. D., Physician and Surgeon, Office and residence, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. J. GORDON, M. D., Surgeon and Homœopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.

H. S. HAYDEN, Notary Public, Real Estate, and Insurance Agent, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. A. BROWN, Asst. Cashier.

BROWN & CO'S
BANK OF CHARLEVOIX,
Capital, $25,000.

We respond to inquiries and present all approved business paper for discount. We receive deposits and allow interest on time deposits. We make collections on all points in the United States, and remit promptly at current rates of exchange. We loan money on long and short time on approved security, and sell exchange on Chicago and New York, and all the principal cities in Europe by the Anchor Line.

Correspondents: National Bank of Commerce, New York. Chemical National Bank, New York. Merchants' National Bank, Chicago. Second National Bank, Toledo. First National Bank, Detroit. First National Bank, Grand Rapids.

COMMERCIAL HOUSE
D. B. TERRILL, Proprietor.
East Jordan, Michigan.
Most central and convenient house in town. Sample Rooms for Commercial Travelers. Good Stable in connection with the House. 19

FOUNTAIN CITY HOUSE.
RICHARD COOPER, Proprietor.
Charlevoix, - Michigan.
First Class in every respect. Living good view of lake and surrounding country. Good Stable for Drivers and Ice Cutting Stages. Sample Rooms for Commercial Travelers. Bus to and from all trains.

JORDAN RIVER HOUSE.
HAYES & ALLEN, Proprietors.
East Jordan, - Michigan.
Finest fishing business of the country, and will be the most convenient place to stop, and the best place to board. Rates, $1 per day. Special rates by the week. Satisfactory accommodations guaranteed.

PIONEER HOUSE,
A. B. NOYES, Proprietor.
Ironton - Michigan.
Every convenience for the traveling public.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association
OFFICERS.
President, Byron Sears.
First Vice President, W. A. Smith.
Second Vice President, Emery Miller.
Treasurer, Jerome Harte.
Recording Secretary, Chas. J. Strang.
Corresponding Secretary, Chas. Hayden.
Attorney, Alfred E. Mason.
STANDING COMMITTEES.
Charlevoix, Village and Harbor, Mrs. Ellis, A. D. Chalkwell, and C. L. Hinds.
Ironton, Chas. Hayden, H. Lee Hidings, W. A. Brown, and F. Y. Cook.
Greenlake and Bellaire, F. W. Mayne, L. D. Rapp, Chas. H. Stackman, E. Cooper, Geo. W. Cooper, and Geo. S. M. See, W. C. Newman, William H. Brecher.
The Association meets every second Tuesday in each month.
The Association encourages the establishment of manufacturing industries, and will do all in its power to aid any such enterprise. Its members are prepared to offer inducements to parties who may wish to locate in this building on the course of Antrim and Grant streets, and respectfully solicit a share of public patronage.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MRS. JOSIE DART,
is prepared to do
Dressmaking
at her residence on Antrim street, near the school house. Cutting and fitting a specialty. Terms cash. Satisfaction guaranteed. Dresses cut to measure for a small charge. Orders solicited. Cutting done for others at reasonable rates. Mrs. JOSIE DART, Charlevoix.

FIRE! FIRE!!
Avoid all danger by keeping your chimneys
BURTON & MAYNE, Chimney Sweeps,
Will do work promptly, carefully and reasonably, without dirt or litter on premises. Leave orders before the spring winds. Orders by mail receive prompt attention.
BURTON & MAYNE, Charlevoix, Mich.

A FEW FACTS CONCERNING
Dr. CROUTER'S
BAKING POWDER
Or Quick Yeast.

If you use it you will never have yellow biscuit.
If you use it your biscuit will never litter of Soda.
It contains no alum, and is absolutely free from anything of a deleterious nature.
It is made from PURE CREAM OF TARTAR and NOT from the Common Cream of Tartar of the shops.
It is always fresh and will never disappoint you.
Directions for using furnished with every package.
Price 40 Cents per Pound
Manufactured and Sold only by
Dr. GEO. W. CROUTER,
Cheapest and Druggist,
BRIDGE STREET, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Come and See our Immense Stock of
BOOTS AND SHOES.
FOX & MILLER.

New Goods!
MILLINERY
AND
Fancy Goods.
Dress-Making Done to Order.
MISS L. SPAULDING.

DAILY STAGE
BETWEEN
Boyne City and Charlevoix.
Leave BOYNE CITY at 8 a. m., arriving at CHARLEVOIX, 11:30 a. m.
Leave CHARLEVOIX at 2 p. m., arriving at BOYNE CITY at 5:30 p. m.
Good Accommodations for Everybody.
W. H. COON, Proprietor.

WM. J. STEVENSON,
HORSE-SHOEING,
Wagon Shop,
BLACK

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

FORTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

The two political parties came to a deadlock in the House soon after the reading of the journal on Jan. 22, when Chairman Herbert, of the Naval Committee, asked the passage of a bill to change the Rightly resolution calling on the Secretary of the Navy for information touching the conduct of investigations and the discharge of officers connected with the Navy Yard. The bill, or two hours' debate on it, was objected to. Mr. Herbert took the position that the resolution was simply one of inquiry of the Secretary of the Navy in regard to the propriety of twenty-three discharges of Union soldiers, among which the Secretary had reported that no cause that might take place before the war should stand in the way. The Democrats claimed that this was sought to be made a political issue. Nevertheless, the House, by a vote of 160 to 77, suspended the rules and passed a resolution calling on the President for information touching the suspension of Lieutenant Colonel Dunlap, of the Fifth Cavalry, and the breaking of a lieutenant of the same regiment, for the alleged killing of an unarmed Indian. The Senate spent the entire day in executive session on the nomination of Mr. Sanborn to be Navy Yard Commissioner, and adjourned without taking action. The House devoted its time to the consideration of the Senate bill to provide for the purchase of 4,000,000 ounces of silver bullion, and the bill was finally passed by a vote of 172 to 43. The Senate bill to provide for the purchase of $1,000,000 worth of silver bullion was then taken up and passed, and the matter of $2,000,000 of silver certificates thus were also introduced in the House to establish life-saving stations outside San Francisco, for the relief of railway mail clerks who have been in the service twenty years, suspend the rank of commander upon Chief Engineers of the Navy, and to provide for the issuance of notes of national banks to $350,000,000 to provide for the importation of lumber, to give preference to American citizens in employing laborers on the public works, and to limit the jurisdiction of Federal Courts in certain cases. A resolution was introduced directing the Secretary of the Navy to report the reasons for closing the naval station at Carson, Nevada.

A minority of the Legislature of Kansas paying for the establishment of two additional military stations in that State as a protection against the Indians, a resolution was passed in the Senate by 31 votes against three, calls. Mr. Plumb presented a memorial from the Kansas City body praying for an extension of the auxiliary facilities at Fort Riley, Kan. The papers were appropriately referred. Bills were introduced to appropriate $500,000 for the purchase of a site and erection of a public building at Omaha, to house the surveyor of the Omaha land office, by petition. Mr. Harrison made a speech favoring the admission of Dakota to the Union. The House of Representatives passed a bill to forfeit certain lands granted to the States of Minnesota, Michigan, and Louisiana, to aid in the construction of railroads, which lands were adopted during the time necessary for the Interior to furnish copies of all contracts on file regarding the Southern Pacific Railroad and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. The Senate resolution touching the death of Vice President Hendricks was presented to the House by Speaker Carlisle, who also laid upon the table for the present a resolution from the House when the chaplain, in his opening prayer, referred to the late Vice President and called him a statesman, and the silver bill was defended by one of the Democrats in the House before gold an indictment was made, the position was in favor of a double standard.

EASTERN.

A Boston dispatch says "a notable strike ended yesterday, when it was announced at Lynn that the firm of Morgan & Dow, which operates six factories in Lynn, Richmond, Me., and Fitzfield, N. H., had yielded to the demands of the Knights of Labor. This strike, which has been in progress a year and a half, originated with the factors in the Richmond factory. The firm has now decided to discharge all men who had belonged to the unions who have been hired in their place of workers, and to adopt a scale of wages satisfactory to the Knights of Labor. This is one of the most decided victories won by the Knights in New England, and causes great rejoicing."

The workingmen of New York propose to ask special legislation at Albany, especially the passage of an arbitration law. The Commissioner of Labor Statistics has formally pronounced boycotting better than striking.

The St. Cloud Hotel and six stores on Arch street, Philadelphia, were wiped out by fire. The loss is estimated at over a quarter of a million dollars.

Peachboats in the Hudson River Valley have been killed by the frosts, and for the third successive year there will be no crop.

The strikers in the Pennsylvania coal regions have ordered out the engineers at the water pumps. This will cause the flooding of the different mines and great destruction to property.

WESTERN.

In a bicycle contest at Minneapolis, Minn., Woodside broke all records from 5 to 175 miles.

A portion of Stockton, Cal., was flooded by an overflow of the St. Joaquin River. The Mormon wheat, 5,000 acres, was submerged, and the breaking of a levee placed 12,000 additional acres of wheat and orchards under water, the loss being placed at $250,000.

The Mississippi River, says a St. Louis dispatch, is blockaded by a solid mass of ice from this point as far as south as the mouth of the Illinois River and as far north as Stillwater, a distance of nearly five miles. The gorge is stationary or occasions inches in thickness. Navigation is at a standstill, and the Mississippi is in the occupation of ice cellarage and Health, of the Interior, has received

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHARLES J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

The Record of John Sherman.

The following timely remarks appeared in the Grand Rapids Leader of Jan. 16:

"We ask workingmen to glance over the record of this man Sherman whose sentiments so highly please the republican organs of Michigan. See him in 1873 as father of the Crime act, resulting a measure for the destruction of the greenback and the enhancement of bank circulation a measure which became a law, and under which over thirty million dollars in greenbacks were destroyed, when under the pressure of public sentiment the infamous law of Sherman's was repealed. See him as secretary of the treasury under Hayes recommending time and again all the schemes of the bankers and bond holders for a gold basis, the supremacy of the banks and the demonetization of the greenback. See him in veniently calling in and paying bonds exclusively in gold. This is the man the republicans of Michigan are urging every the enemy of the silver dollar, the enemy of the greenback, the friend of the bondholders and the sentimental agent of the money power. And yet the republicans, who are so happy over his election, profess to favor the cause of the working people."

"This powerful arrangement of John and John" and his obsequious flatterers in this state clearly expose the utter hollowness of the republican talk—hitherto indulged in by that intermediate body of political parasites, the Michigan class—as to the solicitude of that party for the wage workers. It is all cant and pretense. The republican party never fails to send a compliant to Washington when it has the chance to elect a United States senator. It send millionaires from Palmer from this state, Spooner, a wealthy railroad attorney, from Wisconsin, Stanford, the Central Pacific railroad magnate, from California and only last week it resorted to the grossest form of outrage to return John Sherman to his old place in the senate! What a pretty list of disinterested champions of the people's interests! In the light of such a record who will deny that there is a startling discrepancy between the promises and the performances of our republican friends, and that they are not to be trusted in matters involving the rights of the masses on one hand and the selfish interests of the corporations on the other?—Lansing Journal.

The Question of Foreign Labor as Handled by Congressman Tarsney.

Washington, Jan. 29.—In a conversation with Representative Tarsney, of the eighth district, this morning in relation to the status of the contract and alien labor bill, which is intended to prohibit the employment of the class of both, he said:

"We do not mean to close the doors to foreign immigration, but rather to invite it and to require all those who come to this country and expect employment upon government works to be Americanize themselves; in other words, to become a part of ourselves. I believe it is wrong to expend money upon public buildings and improvements when in many cases the principal cost is the labor that goes into the work and permit the contractor to place the American workingman in competition with the world. With all our talk about the protective policy of the government and its benefit to American labor, the fact is that American labor has never been protected. The only two things that are essential to our existence that flow across the national boundary lines are through the customs houses free of duty, are the air we breathe, and the labor that performs our work. The manufacturer has been protected. We propose, if we can, to protect American labor, and this law, without deviating one iota from the principles underlying our system, which has always invited foreigners to come here. We still invite them, and we propose in the interest of Americanization to require all those that come to us to become one of us.

"Let me illustrate. You have $1,000,000 appropriated for public buildings in Detroit. Efforts are being made to increase that appropriation to $1,500,000. Suppose the contract is let for the erection of that building. The contractor will hire his men as cheap as he can, earing not from whence it comes, or where it goes when he is done with it. Within a month, as it were, the Detroit labor only separates Detroit from Canada. The Canadian laborer and artisan would be placed in free competition with our people, who have come to Detroit and Michigan to make it their home. I do not want to witness the spectacle of people coming from a foreign land and taking our money back to their country and leaving our workmen out of employment because of their presence. Let the employees of the government and the employees of contractors (for we intend to make this condition a clause of every contract) that the persons employed on all public works shall be: First, not convicts; second, that no material the product of convict labor shall be used in the construction of any public work; third, that no person shall be employed on any such work unless he be an actual resident within the limits of the United States, and he has declared his intention to become a citizen thereof. This will prevent the importing Canadian, the impossible American Chinese and all other classes of people not in sympathy and harmony with American ideas coming in competition with honest American labor. But to these we would say, 'Come, but Americanize yourselves.'"

The Democratic Senators.

Next in importance to the approaching destruction of the silver president, will be the debates, which we are told the republican senators will direct against President Cleveland's nomination.

The fact that the white house is now inhabited by a democrat has made no change in the feelings of those gentlemen as to their responsibilities under the constitution. They must still advise the president upon certain questions just as though he were a pure blooded republican, and give their consent to his proceedings as they think fit.

But what is expected to make a peculiar stir among the republicans while debating the new candidates for office, and to produce an energetic and solemn exhibition of eloquence, will be their conclusion that they are the special keepers of the civil service law and the appointed prosecutors of its spirit and enforcement. It was invented and sustained by their party, and they must look after its interests. The way to do this will be to keep the republicans in and prevent the representatives of the democrats from taking their places.

It will develop upon democratic senators to the extent of such an attempt, to resist it with the greatest vigor and indignation. Besides maintaining the action of the president by the following course, they will be last—which cannot be too strongly—in favor of the most fundamental principles of democracy. This is that the people have the right, through their proper representatives, to choose their own agents of government, and that the expressed wishes of a popular majority must be fully and faithfully observed. It was the intention of the democratic majority in 1884 to take the control of the government from the republicans into their own hands; and this desire must be respected now, and furthered by every justifiable exertion possible on the part of the democratic representatives. The fact that Mr. Cleveland regards himself as in some sense the chosen magistrate of the whole people, and in consequence as not holding precisely the same relations to the democracy as democrats elected by narrower constituencies, should not lessen a whit the interest of that party's senators in their devotion to its principles, or weaken their determination to stand immovable against the assaults of its enemies. They must fight for the democracy and against the hauling propensities of the republicans at every opportunity that is afforded.

To such a contest they will have the people at their back.—New York Sun.

The Ohio Revolution.

The republican conspiracy to steal the control of the Ohio state senate has been carried out, as far as was possible, with the audacity and lawlessness that characterized the conception of the scheme. The lower house of the state legislature, in defiance of the plain provisions of the constitution and of the unanimous decisions of the courts of justice, ruled that the cases of all four of the sitting members from Cuyahoga shall be considered at once, and that those members are conspicuously declared from voting. This simply means that the presiding officer of the senate may, if he thinks it necessary to choose a sufficient number of democratic senators to reverse the majority in that body, which is just the situation which can owed to settle the vote question at issue.

This is revolution, and there are but two ways of meeting it. One is by force and the other is that adopted—the refusal of all the democratic senators to participate in any further business of the body, thus leaving it without a legal quorum. The lieutenant-governor will, however, rule that the minority is a quorum, and the revolutionary scheme will probably be carried through. There has come a brief halt, however, as the republican camp has adjourned to consider the matter. There is talk about violence, but since the originators of the lawless proceeding still live, we presume that there is no likelihood of such aggression by the democrats as could alone cause violence or prevent the consummation of the scheme.—N. Y. Sun.

The wage workers are gaining in strength by organizing, and just so long as their organizations steer clear of the socialists and other lawless concerns, and make their fight from principle, just so long they will continue to gain strength, and have popular sentiment with them. The peaceful fight now waging for eight hours a day is a just fight, and will win in the end, unless bad leadership should cause them to take a wrong course. That the democratic administration is in sympathy with the movement, every few days furnishes evidence. Only last week President Cleveland was asked his opinion concerning the new law limiting government laborers and workmen to eight hours a day, and he replied: "I believe the law is a good and sound one, and that it should be enforced to the letter. It all becomes a good interest to evade the spirit and letter of its open constitutes. Many instances of non enforcement are presented to me. I shall see that the abuse is remedied. My understanding of the law is that a full day's wages are to be paid for eight hours' work."—Big Rapids Herald.

Congressman Tarsney wants to know why some of the $150,000,000 lying idle in the treasury cannot be used in the payment of the public debt, and has offered a resolution to that effect. The inquiry is legitimate and ought to be answered. Let us have light on this subject. No good business man would let the principal of a debt run on from year to year with the right to pay and the means to do it just for the kind of paying interest. We hope the resolution will pass the house and the information sought will be forthcoming.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Mr. Tilden's Late at Greystone.

About a mile and a half above this town is "Greystone," the palatial residence of Samuel J. Tilden, and near to are the beautiful country residences of the Fields, the Cooper's, the Hewitt's, McCombs, Jay Gould, John Jay, Alexander Hamilton, Chauncey M. Depew, Collector Bouvier, Wm. Bigelow Dwyer and many others, recognized as the history of a great city. Hamilton never married. Mr. Tilden does at "Greystone" for most of the time, his companion being Colonel Green, who resides on the line. Mr. Tilden's home is exactly what it is represented to be, a palatial home of great grandeur. His park is laid out in beautiful drives and walks, and is free to the public. Mr. Tilden himself is rarely seen in a visitor, being guarded in his seclusion so much as an overzealous mother guards her Mr. Green, as he is called, is always at his door or in driving. It is said he has had a stroke of paralysis, which has been succeeded by a weak palsy, so that his right hand is never in repose, but trembles continuously. In ordinary conversation Mr. Tilden's voice is low, sinking at times almost to a whisper. But he is free as regard any question put to him, I have no doubt. He is a tolerable talker, and is all his intellectual faculties. He was evidently much shaken up, due to partial palsy. At home he is hospitable and kindly. His collection of engravings is an immense one. Some of his treasures are unmatchable. His autographs are numerous, and the man who could be bored or crammed if left for hours alone in Mr. Tilden's library would be just the sort of a man that I should imagine would go to a masquerade ball in a lady's dress. At the present time Mr. Tilden is greatly interested in the consideration of an immense colonization plan in the propagation of lime stone. His new conservatory will be finished with perhaps the largest and most complete in this country. It is several hundred feet long, and will be heated by steam. In open section the pipes will be so arranged that the temperature can be lower imperceptibly of the adjoining members are conspicuously debarred from voting. This simply means that the presiding officer of the senate may, if he thinks it necessary to choose a sufficient number of democratic senators to reverse the majority in that body, which is just the situation which can owed to settle the vote question at issue.

This is revolution, and there are but two ways of meeting it. One is by force and the other is that adopted—the refusal of all the democratic senators to participate in any further business of the body, thus leaving it without a legal quorum. The lieutenant-governor will, however, rule that the minority is a quorum, and the revolutionary scheme will probably be carried through. There has come a brief halt, however, as the republican camp has adjourned to consider the matter. There is talk about violence, but since the originators of the lawless proceeding still live, we presume that there is no likelihood of such aggression by the democrats

Miss Gilder, who writes New York letters to the Boston Gazette, says that all the statements attributing the authorship of the "Saxe Holm" stories to the late Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson are now without any authority, and are as unauthorized as the same statements made after the death of Mrs. Jackson's literary

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.

Have a full Assortment of

WOOLEN BLANKETS AND LUMBERMEN'S SUPPLIES.

Six, Six and a Half, and Seven Foot Saws. Double and Single Bitted Axes, Steel Sledges and Wedges. Rubber Goods of all Kinds. Felt Boots, Mackinaw and German Socks, etc. etc. Women and Childrens Buckle Arctics, Oliveits, Snow Excluders, Imitation Sandals, and in short everything of use in the Camp or Household.

PINE LAKE IRON CO., Ironton, Mich.

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

Sold Only by

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

PERFECTION AXES.

6 ft. Saws,

CANT HOOKS

Steel Wedges.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

is the BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, is a 10 cent plug and sells for 10 cents, is the LARGEST and NEATEST PLUG, and SATISFIES THE TASTE of the CHEWER; NIMROD is THE HIGH GRADE TOBACCO, every chewer is the dealer's friend. Ask your dealer for it and not other brand of Tobacco. For sale by jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.

Petersburg, Va.

ANOTHER INVOICE

JUST RECEIVED.

SILVERWARE

CLOCKS,

JEWELRY.

C. R. BELLINGER.

At the Old Stand.

A. J. McLeod

Can be found at the old stand with a

FULL STOCK OF MEATS

Of all kinds

At Wholesale and Retail.

HIDES, PELTS & FAT STOCK WANTED.

JAMES HEMMINGS,

Upright & Harlbut Addition, Charlevoix,

HOUSE PAINTER,

Calciminer,

Paper Hanger,

And Decorator.

FINE AND HARDWOOD FINISHING. GOOD WORK.

THE JOURNAL

CHARLEVOIX, MICH., FEB. 3, 1888.

CHARLEVOIX POSTOFFICE.

[illegible] of Mails.

[illegible] Grand Rapids 12:00 m.

[illegible] 2:00 p. m.

[illegible] is properly addressed and [illegible] in back's [illegible] for delivery.

[illegible] 12:30 p. m. [illegible] 4:00 p. m.

[illegible] Office open from 7 A. M. to 7 P. M.

[illegible] attention [illegible] exchange [illegible] cigars. A very [illegible] Emmons & Emery.

[illegible] of New Era Bak[illegible] A. E. and get a [illegible] and piano, for [illegible] Upright & Emery.

[illegible] undertaker re[illegible] caps, socks, [illegible] Upright & Emery.

[illegible] the ladies at Jefferies'

[illegible] dresses at Jefferies'

[illegible] Jackets at Jefferies'

Local Notes and News.

[illegible] was a busy day for the [illegible]

[illegible] reached 30° below [illegible]

[illegible] Lumber from Cha[illegible]

[illegible] came on G. H. & I. will [illegible] week.

[illegible] has been appointed [illegible] at Ironton.

[illegible] for Mrs. Spoul[illegible] last week.

[illegible] in Clare this [illegible] Republicans.

[illegible] announcing the [illegible] for the boys' band.

[illegible] will shortly [illegible] social [illegible]

[illegible] Jordan, Sun[illegible] this week, on [illegible]

[illegible] new measure had [illegible] last Saturday [illegible]

[illegible] and spent Sun[illegible] Mrs. Shep[illegible]

[illegible] will preach at [illegible] Sunday afternoon at [illegible]

[illegible] recently purchased by [illegible] has arrived and is [illegible]

[illegible] Kelly started for Port[illegible] to visit her parents. [illegible] Mrs. E. [illegible]

[illegible] barometer will deliver [illegible] union temperance [illegible] Sunday evening.

[illegible] Wesser, late with Upright [illegible] has found a fine at the [illegible] school in East Jordan.

[illegible] are at the school [illegible] next Sunday after [illegible] 3 P. M. All are welcome.

[illegible] and Frank Lam[illegible] to Wednesday for Chi[illegible] they expect to labor an [illegible]

[illegible] Phelps arrived home from [illegible] Harbor. He reports loss [illegible] and weather in New [illegible] than here.

[illegible] the last Statesman, demon[illegible] that Boyne is the [illegible] geographical center of all the [illegible] in this county.

[illegible] post received a snow [illegible] about two days this [illegible] nothing nothing to [illegible] on publication day.

[illegible] Gypsy Queen at the opera house last Thursday night, was well attended, considering the amount of advertising done. The playing was fairly well done for amateurs and the plot is not one to draw out the full appreciation of our people. Miss Myrtle Parrie, as Bess, the fortune teller, seemed to have the best conception of her character, and evidently gave the best support to Mr. and Mrs. Park, the principal characters of the play.

It is expected now that the Ribelung mill will be completed, and begin making fine flour in the early part of next week, probably on Monday. It is the purpose of the Hatch-[illegible] Manufacturing Company, by which it is built, to make the first day a test of its perfection. They will give it a fair and even under their own supervision and management. We expect to be there at frequent intervals next week give our readers a description of the mill and its workings.

C. G. Lewis, of East Jordan, and Miss Grace Watson, of this place, were joined in matrimony at the residence of the bride's parents yesterday, Rev. W. Watson, the father of the bride, officiating. Mr. Lewis is well known throughout this section, having been in business at Boyne City for almost four years. Mrs. Lewis is a most estimable young lady, whose friends are countless. We wish the happy couple an abundance of good luck and prosperity.—Boyne Statesman. The journal desires to add its congratulations to those above.

Mrs. Reuben T. Nicholls, of Torch Lake, died on Saturday, Jan. 30th, and was buried on the following Monday. Mrs. Nicholls was a pioneer in this region, having settled with her husband near the present site of Boyne City in 1855, and afterwards, in 1859, at Brownstown, Antrim county. In 1882 they settled on section 36, Torch Lake, where they have ever since resided. Mrs. Nicholls was a member of the Mormon church on Beaver Island, and bore with patience all the sufferings of those times, living and dying a devoted adherent to the faith of her early choice. She leaves a husband and one son, besides many friends, to mourn her death. The funeral services were conducted by W. Watson, of Boyne.

Subject at the Congregational church next Sunday morning: "Prospects." All are invited and a special invitation to all the members.

J. E. Wood received quite a shaking up last week Wednesday, by falling into down cellar at Dr. Cramer's. He says he broke his neck, his back, and one of his legs.

Rev. C. F. Van Anken arrived home from Reed City last Thursday night, and was greeted by an unusually large audience at the Congregational church Sunday morning.

No mail from the south on Tuesday. On the same day the Petoskey stage was delayed until 3 o'clock having shoveled through the big drift just out of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Peck are at East Jordan this week, organizing a company to play "True to the Heart" for the benefit of Stevens Post G. A. R. at that place next Friday and Saturday nights.

O. W. Smith has invented a runner for use on baby carriages in winter, by which wheels may be changed to runners in three minutes, and vice versa. It can be applied to every style of carriage made.

The firm of Clark, Winchell & Co., bankers, of Petoskey, has been dissolved, Mr. Winchell having disposed of his interest to Wm. L. Curtis and James R. Wylie, who will conduct the business hereafter.

If convenient, hear the sermon at the M. E. church next Sunday morning, on "Home Recreation." Young people's meeting at 6 o'clock. On account of the union temperance meeting at the Congregational church, at 7 o'clock, there will be no sermon at the M. E. church in the evening.

The Detroit Weekly Free Press has reached the enormous mail circulation of 122,000 papers per week, to illustrate which they send out a hand some lithograph, showing mail wagon with packages sent to all showing circulation by states. The Free Press is truly the people's paper.

The entertainment of Cynthia, the Gypsy Queen, at the opera house last Thursday night, was well attended, considering the amount of advertising done. The playing was fairly well done for amateurs and the plot is not one to draw out the full appreciation of our people. Miss Myrtle Parrie, as Bess, the fortune teller, seemed to have the best conception of her character, and evidently gave the best support to Mr. and Mrs. Park, the principal characters of the play.

It is expected now that the Ribelung mill will be completed, and begin making fine flour in the early part of next week, probably on Monday. It is the purpose of the Hatch-[illegible] Manufacturing Company, by which it is built, to make the first day a test of its perfection. They will give it a fair and even under their own supervision and management. We expect to be there at frequent intervals next week give our readers a description of the mill and its workings.

C. G. Lewis, of East Jordan, and Miss Grace Watson, of this place, were joined in matrimony at the residence of the bride's parents yesterday, Rev. W. Watson, the father of the bride, officiating. Mr. Lewis is well known throughout this section, having been in business at Boyne City for almost four years. Mrs. Lewis is a most estimable young lady, whose friends are countless. We wish the happy couple an abundance of good luck and prosperity.—Boyne Statesman. The journal desires to add its congratulations to those above.

Mrs. Reuben T. Nicholls, of Torch Lake, died on Saturday, Jan. 30th, and was buried on the following Monday. Mrs. Nicholls was a pioneer in this region, having settled with her husband near the present site of Boyne City in 1855, and afterwards, in 1859, at Brownstown, Antrim county. In 1882 they settled on section 36, Torch Lake, where they have ever since resided. Mrs. Nicholls was a member of the Mormon church on Beaver Island, and bore with patience all the sufferings of those times, living and dying a devoted adherent to the faith of her early choice. She leaves a husband and one son, besides many friends, to mourn her death. The funeral services were conducted by W. Watson, of Boyne.

Dr. E. E. Thompson, the specialist, from Romeo, Mich., arrived on the Tuesday stage and meets her patients yesterday and to-day at T. D. Smith's. She reports an increased acceptance of Dr. Brinkerhoff's methods of treating rectal complaints, and the train of evils which follow, such as fistula, ulcer, cancer, stricture and consumption. We dislike to speak the name "doctor," just as we dislike to complain or hear complaints of the various aches and pains flesh is heir to, yet the diseases exist, and just to the healer of souls, there is no person who stands in position to be a greater blessing to the community in which he resides, than the learned, sympathetic, and virtuous physician. For the sake of the afflicted we overcome our natural sensitiveness and advise them at least, to examine this new system, based upon recent discoveries, and judge for themselves as to its merits.

The Historical Society.

The historical society and its friends to the number of about sixty persons, met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Brown, for the purpose of devoting one entire evening to the study of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The literary part of the program was as follows:

The Vienna March, a piano duet, by Miss Cochran and W. A. Brown.

The Skeleton in Armor, recited in a very impressive manner by H. L. Iddings.

Vocal solo, Daybreak, by Dr. Carl stein, accompanied by Mrs. Kane.

Intermission.

Vocal solo, Living Poems, by Mrs. Mayne.

Biographical paper, Henry W. Longfellow, by Mrs. E. M. Clark.

Vocal solo, The Day is Done, W. A. Smith. Accompanied by Miss Cochrane.

Quotations from the poet of the evening were recited by nearly every person present. They varied in character from sublime and beautiful sentiments to hits of humor and mimicry thereof, and contributed largely to the interest of the program.

Mrs. Clark's essay on Longfellow, deserves special mention, both on account of its completeness as a biography, and the finished style of its composition. In the course of its delivery, the writer read several apposite quotations from various poets.

The music was all so well rendered that no encomendation could be praised.

Have there.

The executive committee deserves great credit for the successful planning of the whole program.

The society now numbers forty members in good standing, and we think all who were present at its last meeting, whether members or not, will vouch for its prosperous condition.

All former members of the society will please to understand that they are still entitled to membership on condition of paying their dues for this year, $1.00, and signing the new constitution, without being voted upon, as are new members.

The society will meet on Friday evening, Feb. 6th, with Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Clark. Prof. Ross will read the biographical paper on Oliver Cromwell.

Rev. C. F. Van Aken's Work at Reed City.

We find the following in the Reed City News, which together with the fact that so many were converted, compensates our people for their sacrifice in allowing their pastor to be absent so long:

Rev. C. F. Van Aken of Charlevoix, who has preached with great acceptability at the Congregational church every evening for the past ten days, Saturday excepted, closed his labors here Wednesday evening, and left for his home, accompanied by his wife, on the two o'clock train Thursday afternoon. At a meeting of the church Thursday evening the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Rev. C. F. Van Aken, of Charlevoix, has preached with great clearness and power the gospel of Christ in this church for the past ten days, thereby proving his efficiency as a master workman in "winning souls" and leading believers to a higher plane of Christian living, therefore,

Resolved, That we recognize in him one especially adapted in rescuing the perishing, by presenting Christ as an all sufficient Saviour, that we will receive his work in our midst with delight, and ever pray that the blessing of Almighty God will rest upon him and his work wherever he may go.

Resolved, That we send greeting in the church with which he is connected, thinking them for their kindness in giving the services of their pastor and praying that God will abundantly bless and reward them.

DR. D. S. TAYLOR, Clerk.

Reed City, January 28, 1888.

Report of the Charlevoix Public Schools.

The following is the report for the school month ending January 29th:

ENROLLED.

In the primary, 50 in Grammar, 49, 40 in second, 34 in third, 36 in fourth, 36 in fifth, 32 in sixth, 26 in seventh, 32 in eighth, 32 in ninth, 24 in tenth, 16 in eleventh, 12 in twelfth, 10 in high school. Total, 408.

PERFECT ATTENDANCE.

In primary, 30, in Grammar, 30, in second, 30, in third, 30, in fourth, 30, in fifth, 30, in sixth, 30, in seventh, 30, in eighth, 30, in ninth, 30, in tenth, 30, in eleventh, 30, in twelfth, 30, in high school, 30. Total, 330.

DEPORTMENT AND PROPRIETY.

In primary, 30, in Grammar, 30, in second, 30, in third, 30, in fourth, 30, in fifth, 30, in sixth, 30, in seventh, 30, in eighth, 30, in ninth, 30, in tenth, 30, in eleventh, 30, in twelfth, 30, in high school, 30. Total, 330.

LANGUAGE AND PROPRIETY.

In primary, 30, in Grammar, 30, in second, 30, in third, 30, in fourth, 30, in fifth, 30, in sixth, 30, in seventh, 30, in eighth, 30, in ninth, 30, in tenth, 30, in eleventh, 30, in twelfth, 30, in high school, 30. Total, 330.

The above has been the highest record of the school since the school year began.

Little Wood, Jeffie Pike, Ella Kenny, Lizzie Lewis, Ella Lawrence, Hattie Washburn, Hattie Sullivan, Jessie Dow, Ella Dow, Ella Bennett, Ella Bennett, Ella Cook, Lottie Moore, Aggie Shepard, Charlie Lawrence, George Nye, Mandolene Nye, Nellie Nellis, Nellie Vanspan, Hettie Johnson.

Firemen's Meeting.

Firemen are hereby notified that, in accordance with a resolution passed Feb. 7th, 1885, making the first Saturday of February of each year, the time for the annual election of officers, a meeting for that purpose will be held on Saturday night next at the engine rooms.

B. F. BISBEE, Secretary.

BEWARE.

Coughs, colds, and slight throat diseases often develop into bronchitis, assumed cough, consumption, etc., and should have immediate attention and be removed in the first stages. Not only public speakers, but all, are liable to throat troubles, and to obtain relief should use HAMLTON'S COUGH TABLETS, which relieve coughs, and hoarseness, making the articulation clear. Warranted to give satisfaction. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by L. D. W. Crozier, Charlevoix, and Crozier & Harris, Ironton.

WHEN A COUGH IS GRANTED

Why will you continue to be relieved of that cough which is liable to become settled on your lungs, and to cause you many a suffering day and sleepless night? Your children are liable to be taken with croup, and the hopes of life can be summoned. Be wise and obtain a remedy that will not fail to give relief from coughs, colds, whooping cough, croup, and all other lung difficulties. HAMILTON'S COUGH BALSAM is the thing. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by L. D. W. Crozier, Charlevoix, and Crozier & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the gravel to complain for his wrong direction of the kidneys or urinary organs. Whoever has a pain in the back, should not wait for gravel, Bright's disease or diabetes to set in. A specimen, this prepared, producing a very disagreeable itching, stinging, burning, is a certain attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which gets directly at the seat of the disease, allays the intense itching, stinging and burning, and effects a speedy and permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by L. D. W. Crozier. 124

J. L. HURD & CO'S

SPECIAL PRICES.

We regret that our high priced neighbors are grieved because we are quoting low figures in the public prints, but have no time to shed tears when sympathy is undeserved. They prefer the old plan, keep the customer in ignorance of real values, boast of "square deals," "cheapness, low prices in the abstract and great facilities for buying cheap, but it would not do to commit themselves to a price. In these times, when money is scarce, and every economy must be practiced, the public is not to be guided with any such chaff. Our prices are acceptable to the people and our business is to serve them.

WE ARE SELLING

Mantlecone Patent Flour, per bbl	$5.25	Honeydew Fine Cut Tobacco	75
New Pork, Lard on Side New	8.00	Superfine Chewing Tobacco	50
Meat	8	Best Chewing Tobacco	50
Lard	8	14 lbs Rice Soap	25
Granulated Sugar	8	3 lbs Can Peaches	25
White Sugar	7	3 lbs Can California Apricots	25
Ellis Arbuckles Coffee	1.00	3 lbs Can Best Tomatoes	20
Best Blended Mo Coffee	25	3 lbs Can Corn	20
The Best Starch	7	3 lbs Can Apples	20

Our Guarantee. Below competition in prices and as good or better in quality.

We are selling all our Winter Goods, such as Flannels, Blankets, Woolen Underwear, Gloves and Mittens, Hosiery, Dressgoods, etc., at great reduction to close. A word to the wise is sufficient.

J. L. HURD & CO,

Pioneers in Low Prices.

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

SECURE ADMIRATION.

Who can help admiring a lovely face, a clear, smooth, beautiful complexion? These can be easily obtained by the use of HAMILTON'S ORIENTAL BALM. It will surely remove freckles, tan, pimples, and blemishes of every part and is in no way injurious to the skin, but is the most harmless and elegant preparation of its kind. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by L. D. W. Crozier, Charlevoix, and Crozier & Harris, Ironton.

TOOTHACHE.

Money is a great cure for aching hearts, but a twenty dollar gold piece pinned on an aching tooth don't seem to have the least effect. In fact, nothing is sure cure but HAMILTON'S TOOTHACHE DROPS, which are warranted to remove one minute. Price 25cts.

Sold by L. D. W. Crozier, Charlevoix, and Crozier & Harris, Ironton.

Hard Times.

While money is close, wages and prices low, economy is the order of the day. Economy demands the widely sold Cor Medicines, head of business. It knows no equal for the home, it heals of 10. Hamilton's Cough and Lung Syrup cures coughs, colds, and lung troubles. Hamilton's Kidney and Liver Pills are unsurpassed. It's just the remedy for Sold Dumps. Price 25c and 50c. Samples free. Sold by Geo. W. Crozier. 2

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and keep up the system you will find Hamilton's Condition Powders unrivaled. Full pack 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crozier, Charlevoix, and Crozier & Harris, Ironton. 8-10

Wild Cherry and Tar.

Every body knows the virtues of Wild Cherry and Tar as a cough remedy, but not so generally known that Hamilton's Wild Cherry and Tar is the compounded of the Hamilton's Cough and Lung Syrup making it a combination not usually always have in the house, for Coughs, Colds, Croup, and Bronchitis. Price 25 cents, 50 cents and $1. Sold by L. D. W. Crozier. 2

Unclaimed Letters.

The following letters remain unclaimed in the postoffice at Charlevoix, Mich., for the week ending Jan 28th, 1888. If not called for in one month, they will be sent to the Dead Letter office.

Wood, Mrs. Margaret Hopkins, Herbert
Brown, Marion Holmes, Harry Wilhelm
Bennett, Mrs. Mary Hoyt, Mrs. Mary
Brown, Miss Sally Hancock, Miss Clara
Bennett, Miss Clara Kenny, John
Bennett, Miss Ella Jennings, John P.
Bell, Miss Hannah Lewis, Miss Jennie Sue
Bass, J. A. Lewis, Miss Lizzie
Bass, Mrs. Marshall Mayne, Mrs.
Brabner, A. McMillan, Miss Mary
Brown, Miss Nettie M. Mercotte, John
Collins, Miss Mercotte, Miss Ella
Chamberlain, Jennie Nye, Miss Minnie J.
Cook, Mrs. Joseph Nelson, Miss
Crane, Miss Nellis, Miss Ella
Davis, Amanda Nye, Miss Hattie
Dow, Miss Hannah Reed, Hiram
Dewey, Miss Minnie Sullivan, Miss Ella A.
Dewey, Miss Ella Smith, Miss Ella
Elliott, Nelson Sullivan, Miss Martha
Fowler, Miss E. J. Sullivan, Charlie
Fisher, Mrs. Sarah Vercoe, Charles
Fuller, William Williams, William
Gilger, Wm. T. Wright, H. P.
Hall, Miss Ella Wright, Miss Lizzie

CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

A GIFT. We will send our pamphlet and valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making money enough at once. There anything else in America. Both sexes of all ages can live at home and do the work. Capital not needed. Some have made over $50 in a day at the business. Any one can do the work. Address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 1231

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to make money right away than anything else in the world. All of either sex succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the worker, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. 1231

THE REST OF DEATH.

BY JOAQUIN MILLER.

What is the rest of death, never friend?
What is the rest of day and night?
Lies death in a hallowed prayer,
A happy night, a holy call.

Hear me the hours I mine learned;
I lived, I loved a mother-child
Through death, forever, restful sleep—
She was and then, and I returned.

I say, the shores of death and sleep
Are one; that when we reached cross
The death, we sleep, both are to be
The death, we sleep, both are to be.

Yes, we lie dead for need of rest,
And so the soul drifts out and far
Where rest will waken to the sun
Begun, in pleasant, tranquil quest;

It waits, sleep alone, forgetting pain,
Its labors of peace, to gather fruit—
Now weave it for a sister or lost
Helions and take up life again?

And that is all of death there is,
Believe me. If you find your love
By that fair land, then like the dove
Alide and turn not back to this.

Yet if you find your love not there,
Or find not love, then wait and pray
Have faith and hold your soul in fee,
Why, then return to life and care.

Death is an mystery. This plain
If death is mystery, then plain
Is mystery, three times, mystic deep,
For, oh, this coming back sound

Ah, sombre foreground of mystic
I see the phases of solid dust
I hear the sighs of dead, cold
Over the widows and orphans.

(Oh, hand! Hot! Hot another sigh!
We come with no other sound, no balm,
Nor silver phrase in open palm,
For lips, kiss silence, come sigh.

A TALE OF THE RED PIKE.

"I thought I should find you with the girls, Mr. Loafish. You should have been with us. We've had such a wonderful ride over the Hunter Cup, and brought back an end of flowers for Gertrude. But one thing I must say, that fellow Leafford is a jolly nuff, though he doesn't look it. Just a funk girls, and nothing else. Will you give me some?" Mrs. Goslin said.

"What nonsense you talk, Bob!" cried his sister, coming to our Dominion further that her friend's face was better than a moment before. "You are a perfect mauvais-ton-fool bursting in like that. I wish Mr. Leafford would bench you manners."

"I'd like to see him try. He would take a plucker more than he is. Why, he wouldn't come within yards of the edge, Mrs. Goslin."

"He showed his usual good sense, Master Robert," was that lady's tart reply. She had her response for Bobby, forcibly upon Walter Leafford, of Leafford Court, Montcambers, by no means least amongst great at Mr. Goslin's lake villa. And they were a very merry and pleasant party, the pleasantest, in fact, Gertrude thought, that her mother had ever gotten together, and Gertrude was a young lady of decided tastes and somewhat difficult to please. Even Bob Marston, when he was not talking nonsense and aspirating sheets, he was not wanted at inopportune moments, was as amusing as any other Eton boy. Nevertheless, at the moment two people at least were decidedly longing to rule his curt tongue.

And what is the programme for to-morrow, Mr. Goslin?" continued Mrs. Goslin, turning to her, and which dominated by the unfavorable reception of his last remark. "Can we please on the Red Pike? It would be jolly fun."

The host hummed and hawed; he rather preferred an open-air entertainment at a place accessible in an open carriage. But if you have a house among the mountains, on them you must go. The climbing disease is infectious, and there is no avoiding it until by a permanent residence you become proof against its attacks. Mr. Goslin would have to succumb sooner or later.

"Yes, Bob," said Gertrude, suddenly laying down the fan with, which she was playing, "we will go to the Red Pike to-morrow."

And Bob, who thought he had rather put his foot in it, as he would say, was exultant, for he knew that to the Red Pike he would go.

Gertrude's force, as she went up to dress for dinner, was thoughtful. "He showed his usual good sense," Mrs. Goslin had said, and the words kept ringing in her daughter's ears until her lip began to curl with scorn. If there was one thing which Gertrude admired it was courage. Was she beginning to like a man who could be called a coward even by a boy? And the inspiration chimed in with other things. Walter Leafford was hardly one to please a romantic girl at first sight. Cold, sensible, and wanting in enthusiasm even in his ambition, by no means overtaxing by the arguments of reason, he would have made a just and not too merciful judge. And yet when Gertrude met him at dinner the honour she assumed melted away, and she blushed and smiled at his glance, for what is so fascinating as the homage of one who seems utterly conscious of all besides?

The Red Pike was red indeed in the evening sunlight, every cliff that buttressed its ragged lip burnished to ruddiness, and yet the party lingered, reluctant to abandon the view of the sun and land from Forth to Windermere that held them entranced. It was Bob only who was on the move, skirmishing about unusually.

"I say, Gertrude, here's a specimen for you! It is a blue pentun growing on this cliff, and a rare good climb it will be to get at."

The party hastened to the edge of the cliff. In a crannied rifle about twelve feet down grew the flower Gertrude had been longing to find. A slight opening in the wall of the cliff made it just feasible, if somewhat dangerous, to reach it.

"Robert, don't go too near!" cried Mrs. Goslin.

Gertrude turned, with her face a little flushed, to Leafford.

"Can you get it for me Mr. Leafford?" she said, gently.

"Not without a rope," he answered calmly. "We will bring one to-morrow."

"To-morrow!" cried Gertrude, with sudden heat. "I want it now. Bob would go if he saw me in amount, if I asked him. Mr. Leafford."

"Bob's head is steadier than mine, perhaps," the other said.

He was in no way discomposed until, as he finished, his eyes met the girl's full of contempt and anger. Stung by the look he made a hasty step toward the edge of the cliff and bent down to make the attempt. For a moment he remained in that position, then, with a quick shudder, he recoiled, white to the lips.

"I can't get it for you," he said, hoarsely, falling back, while the others looked at one another in astonishment.

"And quite right, too, Mr. Leafford; don't try it. I begs," cried Mrs. Goslin, loudly, lest anyone that he failed to hear the word "coward" or its distinct equivalent of contempt in which it fell from her daughter's lips. The next instant he was like old calm self again, but lackeys that he had his manhood.

As for the list of false genuine, Bob, brought up in a twinkling, and hoisted on in such a way as to earn every one's gratitude. Yet it was a dull party that wended its way down the hill, the little blue pentun nestling in Gertrude's tair hair, much to her mother's disgust.

If it was only an awkward hour at dinner that Mrs. Goslin feared, fate was to save her hospitality from—to do her justice—an unusual slip.

"Where is Leafford?" she asked pettishly, after helping the soup. "Do you know, Violet?"

Miss Marston did not. Bob was not wont to be punctual, and she was about to say so, when the latter entered hastily and whispered something in his master's ear.

Mr. Goslin rose quickly, saying:

"My dear, this is bad news. There has been a fall at the lead works."

"How unfortunate. I am thankful the men were not at work. Or, even worse, we might have been visiting them, as Robert has been plugging to do, and been all smashed together. Like any common laborers. But where can Bob go?"

"Here the butler spoke.

"I fear, ma'am, that Master Robert—handsome he was that two when he came in—is in the fire, and dohn has gone to the village for help.

The gentlemen rose and hurried from the room, but always as they passed the scene the women were there too. The boy's sister could not be restrained, and Mrs. Goslin signed to Gertrude to let her go. Anything was better than inaction.

Mr. Goslin's workshop and works were hardly a quarter of a mile from the house, though hidden by a shoulder of the hill. He guessed at once that the low cool taken the key that he mislaid about to the ladies the wonders of the workshop, and probably had gone to make his preparations. A second glance showed him when dinner was ready had drifted together and alarmed the village.

"Is there any help?" asked Gertrude, in trembling voice.

"No," replied her father, with a groan. "The people at the end are gone, and the men say the hill is crumbling down. We must wait for help from Keswick."

Gertrude was turning to the group indignantly, but one was taken her.

"Now, mea, I can handle a pick, though I am a Londoner. Tin pounds to every man who pays me. Don't let them say that the Cockney lines with fire in our veins, guest to perish because they were all afraid."

The cold, impressive face was aglow with energy and excitement. Was it Gertrude's imagination, or did that warm, in his voice, strike her like a whip?

"The hill is on the move, master, and he is dead, too," said the foremost man.

"Heads, the water be here!" cried a woman, in a low voice.

There was an instantly hush, as while the whole crowd watched the big water.

"Yes, he was with us, master," said a second, as the silence ended, "and he's dead, too."

"Dead, the water be here!" cried a woman, in a low voice.

"Dead, the water be here!" cried a woman, in a low voice.

"Dead, the water be here!" cried a woman, in a low voice.

Around the County.

Ironton.

We have had breezy weather for a day or two, but barometer indications are for fair weather; sleighing holds good; business is thriving, and a promise of still better times ere long; plenty of wood coming in; and the man who grumbles or is dissatisfied is not to be found in the "Hub of the Lake."

The G. A. R. held an enthusiastic meeting Saturday night, and hope to have their charter in a few days.

The daughter of Leon Quisiquabe (an Indian) died Friday night. The ladies aided the family in arrangements for the funeral, the expense of which was borne by the G. A. R., Leon having been a sharpshooter during the war, and is a member of the post just established.

Rev. C. F. VanAuken preached at 3 p. m. Sunday, in the M. E. church. As usual, a good audience. Mr. Van Auken appointed Wednesday evening the 3d to give a prosperity lecture when all who are to unite with the Congregational church will be accepted and the Sunday following the the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered. Services in the school house at 3 o'clock, instead of at the church in the evening, as was announced last Sunday. This arrangement has been made to accommodate parties who wish to be baptised and unite with the church, who cannot well attend in the evening.

The W. C. T. U. is a band of earnest Christian women organized for temperance work. Their meetings are well attended and are pleasant and profitable, and promise to be a blessing to the community.

The ladies' prayer meeting is also becoming a power for good. Every meeting increases the number who take active and intelligent part.

East Jordan.

Correspondence of The Journal.

Lumber is coming in from Ellsworth now.

Al Draper and family, late of Charlevoix, are now settling in their new home in South Arm.

We have been told that the rail road company will put in a stock of goods at Ellsworth in the spring.

G. C. Stowe informed your reporter Monday night, that he had thus far this winter cut and hauled 14,000 cedar ties and posts.

Allen & Hastings, the South Arm machinists, are busily engaged sawmilling and repairing the North Star's machinery.

"True to the heart," will be produced by A. E. Peck, under the auspices of Stowe's post G. A. R., in this place, Feb. 5th, and 6th.

When the Wilson Hoop Co. and the railroad company have completed their docks in South Arm, they will be about one fourth of a mile in length.

A Shakespeare club has been organized, and met for the first time at Mrs. Ida A. Keath's, last Saturday. A large attendance and a good time is reported.

H. H. Miller, who has been employed in the register's office for some months past, is now being instructed in the mysteries of the printing art in this office.

County Clerk Thatcher has received a record-court order for Mirkinwood giving time and date of each session of circuit court in every county of the state.

The Pere Tabe Lumber Co. start their wood yard for the season's run about the 10th of February, the logs are now coming into operation about a mile off shore.

Glenn, Porter, we understand start their mill next Monday morning. Their yard now is as full as it was last winter and teams hauling at a rapid rate yet.

The appearance of things in South Arm indicate a lively business. This is what we like to see. The streets on Monday last presented quite a metropolitan air.

D. B. Jerome has lately added several fine horses to his livery outfit. Dan thus far has shown to the public that he pulls the reins over no horse that has not got a "git thar" gait.

The Vance saw mill, located about four and one-half miles south and east of this place is cutting considerable hardwood lumber now, which is being hauled to this place for shipment in the spring.

Some days, moon, low level whelp pinched Philip L. Lamoney's large Newfoundland dog last Monday night. This dog was an especial favorite among the children in South Arm, for being strong, kind, and very playful.

The land lookers are spreading themselves now a days preparing for their concert. We know when the hayseed comes the date, that every citizen of East Jordan will secure at least one ticket. They deserve it and it will be a rare treat.

On Tuesday, of last week, Gustave Knapp drew 1,700 feet of hardwood logs, which was followed by Sam Richardson, with a load scaling 1,618 feet. Mr. Richardson drew 5,300 feet in four loads. Considerable rivalry is apparent as to who will draw the biggest load.

Notes and News.

Cadillac has the promise of superintendent S. E. Watson, for direct telephonic communication with Grand Rapids as soon as the weather moderates sufficient to put up the wire.

A German boy of Reed City, by the name of Randolph Batin, was getting shavings at the shaving pile near Horner's mill, when the pile caved in, crushing and burying him. He was missed after about four hours and in two hours more his body was discovered and returned to his stricken parents.

Judge Fellows was in Lowell last week, summoned thither by the death of his father.

Tuesday was the first day of the February term of the circuit court in Emmet county.

There was an interesting group of long faces, Tuesday, at the Petoskey station until the Harbor Springs train hove in sight.

Petoskey had a $2,500 fire last Tuesday. Fell Hill & Co's shingle mill caught from a stove in the drying room and was entirely consumed. The company will rebuild and have a new mill running in 30 days.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Dakota and the Brewers.

The national brewers' association is using its influence with members of congress, to prevent the admission of Dakota as a state. The reason for their opposition is not far to seek.

When the constitution of the proposed state was submitted to the people, several provisions were submitted separately. One of these, article 24, prohibits forever the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. It was adopted by a small majority of 233. But it must be remembered that while 26,000 votes were cast, there were 20,000 citizens engaged in threshing and plowing at a distance from the polls, who did not cast their votes. The larger towns cast their full votes, so that we may say that a very full vote against prohibition was cast, while the vote for prohibition was small. Prohibitory legislation can be enforced in Dakota, as it contains not a city of ten thousand inhabitants, and Minnehaha county, which contains the largest city (Sioux Falls), voted for prohibition.

The enemies of Dakota are doing their best to convey the impression that the people of the proposed state are not agreed among themselves in desire for a state government. This is certainly not the case. The vote stood 20,081 in favor of the state constitution, to 6,760 against it. It was by a practically unanimous vote of the legislature of the whole territory, a year ago, that permission was given for the people of the district south of the 46th parallel to hold a constitutional convention and form a state government. Under these conditions the provisional legislature has elected its senators, and, having time formed a state, the people ask congress, in the language of the United States constitution, to "admit" the state thus formed. The object of the brewers' association is to defeat the admission of Dakota, because it puts a new limit upon their traffic. They now oppose the division of the territory, hoping that prohibition might be defeated upon a vote by the two sections combined. But we may be sure that the people south of the 46th parallel will not consent to the admission as a whole. John A.Ocen, Esq., who was chairman of the committee on prohibition in the Dakota constitutional convention, and drafted the article on the subject, writes us:

"If we must wage war against the money of the organized liquor interest of the United States in our efforts to enter the union with prohibition in our constitution, is there not occasion for friends of good morals through out the union to help us through press and pulpit? Our battle is your battle. There is many a doubtful congressional district in which the people will, at their next election, change their member of the house, if they realize that in obedience to the dictates of the brewers' association he voted to keep Dakota, with her 200 billion constitution, out of the union.

"In spite of our sovereignty, our character as a people, our educational institutions, our area, and our 250,000 population, as appears by the official census of June, 1885, shall we not have the active support of the religious press of the country?"

A Munificent Gift.

General A. W. Riley, of Rochester, N. Y., who for fifty years has been a temperance worker, rising early and speaking whether men would hear or whether they would forbear, crowns his noble life by giving eight acres of land a mile out of Rochester to the W. C. T. U. of that city. The property is valued at $10,000. Gen. Riley is in his ninety second year, a veteran of the war of 1812, as well as a veteran in temperance work. His heart is still warm and his mind so clear that he chooses to be his own executor and while living places his property where he believes it will do the most good to the cause to which his life has been devoted. This is one of our "luckests," we can stand a great many such and we believe we shall have them. The stronns have set this way and we have firm faith that they will continue to blow, till their tide becomes mighty enough to float our temperance hospital and training school. Union Signal.

"Three sisters of presidents are W. C. T. U. women, Mrs. Rev. Dr. Cramer, whose husband was recently appointed dean of the theological department of Boston University, is the youngest sister of General Grant and a devoted Christian. She now lives at Auburndale, the home of the Gordons, and takes an active part in the local W. C. T. U. work there, besides being state superintendent of evangelistic work for Massachusetts. Mrs. R. M. Cox, sister of President Arthur, is one of our workers in Albany, and Miss Cleveland, to-day the most conspicuous temperance woman in America, has been associated with the state W. C. T. U. of New York for years.—Union Signal.

To the Auditor General:

The following is a full and complete report of taxes collected or received by me, at my office in the township of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, upon the business of manufacturing, selling, or keeping for sale, liquors, during the year ending October 1st, 1886.

County Treasurer's Office, Charlevoix, County, Dec. 1st, 1886.

Name of Person Business	Kind of Business	Amount of Special Tax
William A. Bennett	Dealer	$25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Dealer	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Distiller	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Rectifier	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Brewer	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Wholesale Liquor Dealer	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Wholesale Liquor Dealer (Malt)	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Retail Liquor Dealer	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Retail Liquor Dealer (Malt)	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Keeper of Drug Store	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Selling or offering for sale, barter or exchange, intoxicating liquors	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Selling or offering for sale, barter or exchange, intoxicating liquors (Malt)	25 00
Mrs. Jennie Bennett	Keeper of Drug Store

BIRDS-EYE VIEW OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH., SHOWING HARBOR AND SUMMER RESORTS.

and five streams started at once. Protruding through the roof of the engine room, can be seen the vocal organ of the mill, by which we can "talk back" to the Iron Co., of Ironton, and if the wind is right perhaps be heard at the county seat (or geographical center of the county) after the 5th day of April next.

In the basement is one of the John Hutchison Manufacturing Company's Improved Rolling Screens, which removes all impurities which vary in size from the wheat kernel, and a Richmond Horizontal, Adjustable Brush Scut Machine, which removes the fuzz and dust which adheres to the grain.

On the first floor are: 1st. A Barnard & Leas wheat separator, which by wind, screens, and sieve combined, removes straws, sticks, oats, weed seed and the like. This machine, together with the two mentioned as located in the basement, constitute the grain cleaning machinery, which fit the wheat for the clean wheat bin.

2d. Six pair of Cobble stand of Nordyke & Marmon Co.'s Roller Mills, five pair of which are corrugated, and all of which rotate with differential motion. These are the grain crushers or grinders.

3d. One Eureka Flour Packer, adjustable to sacks or barrels. An exceedingly ingenious and handy machine.

4th. A beautiful Buffalo mill scale capable of weighing 60 bushels of wheat to a draught, and so graded but one may read off both bushels and pounds.

5th. In the northeast corner is fitted up a snug and cozy business office which, besides a desk and chairs, will contain a large Detroit Safe Co's safe, and a telephone. This office is heated by steam from the boiler below, the radiator for that purpose being put in by Washburn & Ackert, of this village.

6th. In the corner of the first floor opposite the office is a little room over the door of which we read the inscription, "Corn Cracker's Office," in here we find a hand stone for crushing feed and corn meal. This, like all the rest, is the best of its kind, and suffices to remind the miller that he has not absolutely graduated from the picking business.

Here too, in stately phalanx, are the 18 elevators, made from clear timber, all tongued and grooved, put up with round headed blued screws, all shellacked and varnished. They, with the exception of one, are provided with 34 in. doors, inlaid and banded in black walnut, with glass fronts. All the spouting is of the same material, and finished the same, as the elevators.

Proceeding to the second floor we find Centrifugal Reels, the cloth of which makes 20 revolutions to the minute and the beaters 200. They are the product of American genius and have given distinctive character and a name to the milling process manufactured in this country. Rollers have been used in Hungary for 40 years, but these reels are of recent date, and by them the system is known abroad as American.

Digressing at this point for a little money, we would say that the great mill of Minneapolis which exploded in 1876 with terrific violence and complete destruction, led to the introduction of the roller process in this country. The new mills put rolls in the place of stones; and the experiment made by Gov. Washburne, at an outlay of $100,000, proved so successful as to lead to all the modern improvements in the process, and completely revolutionize our American practice.

But to return to the second floor of the mill, besides the centrifugals, there are two purifiers which cleanse the opened berry, and two grading reels whose purpose is indicated by their name. On this floor also are the clean wheat bins and feed bins.

The upper floor contains five scalping reels, a bran duster, and a purifier, besides being the terminus of the numerous elevators. Here also is the great storage bin now containing nearly 10,000 bushels of wheat, purchased in Sheboygan, Milwaukee and from the farmers of our vicinity.

THE WHEATS IS MOVED.

To illustrate the practical working of this machinery we will suppose it possible for our readers to fasten their eyes upon a particular quantum of wheat and follow it through from the vessel that brings the grain from Milwaukee to the vessel that takes the flour to Buffalo. The line is landed in the vessel secured, the hatches opened, the spout put down into the vessel's bin, the belt put on, the pulley and the cups begin carrying up the grain and deposit it into the weighing hopper. The little berries are not at all terrified at the prospect before them for they have already experienced the savage handling of the twine binder and the threshing machine. When the hopper is full, the valve is closed, the beam stay turned, and the balance made, the weights read off and recorded; then the rod is pulled and the little grains seen to be tumbling down cellar, but soon find themselves in a neat bin, from which they are caught up and carried to the upper story and deposited in the storage bin.

The monotony of this existence is broken to the little grains at the mill's choice, and they go down the big toboggan slide to the hopper and are weighed again, and again elevated. This time instead of going to the bin, they take a side route and pass through the Barnard & Leas's separator where by a thorough blowing and shaking up they are made to part company with bad companions, such as oats, corkle, chess, straw, sticks, and thistle heads. Rejoicing in their purer society they descend to the basement, and pass through the Hutchison Improved Rolling Screen, which removes substances too heavy to be blown out by the separator, and whatever may have passed the separator's screen. Being in a purer society they have a keener sense of their personal unfitness, and are perfectly willing to go to the Richmond Brush Scuttling chine, from which they emerge with all dust and scut brushed and scrubbed away. Then they ascend in another set of cups to the second story, and rest awhile, "just to take breath," in the clean wheat bin. Again at the call of the miller, they find themselves in motion, going down another toboggan slide to the first break. This break is a coarsely corrugated one with considerable differential motion, but it is the tightest place the little kernels ever got into. They all have to split open along the seam in order to get through. Being thus open they find they were not exactly clean in this seam and there is a sort of fuzz on the coat that attached them to the stalk they grew upon. Resolving, first of all, to be clean, they skip along to the 5 ft scalper which removes the seam impurities, which are carried away at the very first so they can't get mixed with the good flour. After this cleansing the broken berries return to the first floor and pass through the second break. These rolls are the same size of the first (12 in. long by 6 in. diameter) but with finer corrugations and with slightly increased differential motion, then up to a second scalper, then down to another break until the whole five corrugated breaks have been passed, each of which has been more finely corrugated, and increased in differential motion. The scalping reels have each been of finer wire than the preceding.

It is needless to state that the little kernels no longer recognize themselves.

The little granules of starch and fragments of wheat gluten have passed through the wire cloth, and are now known as "wheat meal." All that remains from the fifth and last corrugated break is bran and millings flour. Formerly, by the old-fash ioned belts, all this adhering flour went into the bran for stock feed; but the 75 pulley here has given it to 190 feet of polished shafting, and 3,000 feet of the best leather belting, smooth and intricately connect them, and 1,200 elevator cups begin the work of carrying the first wheat through this circuit, from hopper to packer, in the presence of a crowd of citizens, eager to see the first patent flour made in Charlevoix. Many and curious were the reflections of the spectators. Some, we may suppose, were amazed at the flight of bolts and the whirl of wheels, others stood in wonderment at the mighty triumphs of the human intellect, in view of the fact that, not only each intricate machine there in motion, but the whole acting in unison and perfect harmony, have been grasped and held by the mind of an individual man, the designer of the mill, before the ground was broken. Still others, we may suppose, of a historical turn of mind thought of the ancients with their hollow stone to hold the grain and a stone to pound with, which despite refinement in the manner of doing it, the women among the Hebrews, and the mortar and pestle operated by captive slaves among the Romans, which was not much improved in the time of good King Ethelbert (560-616 A. D.) who imposed a fine of 12 shillings "upon any man who should corrupt the king's grinding sand." Then, no doubt, the various successive improvements of wind and water mills came to these historical minds, leading them to the hand stones of yester day and the hollows of to-day.

But all, whether historically inclined or not, could but reflect upon the future of Charlevoix, as affected by this enterprise. The fields of waving grain will mean more to the farmer than formerly, and the laboring men will find that better bread costs him less money; and indeed there is no end to the inferred benefits that is not enhanced in value by its establishment here. Moreover one could read in the countenances of all present a conscious pride in the new institution, that seemed to say, Success to the Improvement Association, through whose exertions this project was undertaken. Success to Mr. Rifenburg, who has invested his money here and made his home among us. Success to the John Hutchison Mfg. Co. who have taken pride in making every part of their work perfect, and success to every individual workman, through whose painstaking habits the whole is complete to-day.

Science and time, we are told, are infinite. If we were in full possession of the wisdom of such, we would enlarge upon this article; but ours being limited to here and now we cannot further than to say that it will do farmers good to call and see this mill and learn Mr. Rifenburg's system of exchange, by which no man is required to wait for a grist, but can weigh out his wheat and weigh back his flour, bran and middlings, and proceed to other business at once.

The Republican Desperadoes in the Ohio Senate.

The high handed action of Lieutenant Governor Kennedy of Ohio in setting himself above the democratic majority in the state senate and making arbitrary rulings that have no justification either in reason or parliamentary practice, fitly illustrates the audacious recklessness of the republican party in its efforts to obtain possession of place and power. The question at issue is not whether the three democratic members from Cuyahoga were elected by fraud. The real question involved is whether they can be thrown out before any steps have been taken to legally ascertain if they are holding their seats by fraud. The supreme court of Ohio has decided that the Cincinnati senators have a prima facie right to their seats, and until it is fairly determined by lawful and proper methods that their election was secured by the grossest form of outrage on popular suffrage there is not only no decent pretext for removing them but there is absolutely no legal power to do so. The utterly indefensible course of Lieut. Gov. Kennedy is undoubtedly due to the republican fear of the results of an investigation into the Cincinnati elections. Republicans well know that the elective franchise has never been so debauched as in that city by republican money and bludgeons. For the last 15 years they have carried the election there only by terrorism and the open purchase of votes. Lew Wright and his murderous deputies have uniformly been depended on to secure the republican majorities. These facts can be established by the most positive kind of evidence, and it is because they do not want to see them paraded before the country by an investigating committee that the republicans have resorted to methods in the Ohio senate that should stamp them as political desperadoes of the most infamous character. Lansing Journal

TOOTHACHE.

Money is a great cure for aching hearts, but a twenty dollar gold piece placed on an aching tooth don't seem to have the least effect, in fact, nothing is sure cure but Hobson's Toothache Drops, which are warranted to cure in one minute. Price 25cts. Sold by Dr. C. W. Cramer, Charlevoix, and Crosier & Harris, Ironton.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Feb. 11, 1886.

Local Notes and News.

CLEMENT J. NEBRING, EDITOR.

Next Sunday is St. Valentine's day.

Men acknowledge that it takes a superior woman to be an old maid.

The toothed sickle has been thrust in for the ice harvest on Round lake.

Thursday was a "cold day" for horse plants. Several ladies report losses.

The young folks enjoyed their youth on Monday evening, coasting on Allen's hill.

A hand grenade fire extinguisher saved Eli Thomas' house in Petoskey a few days since.

Lieut. Gov. Buttars returned last Tuesday from visiting friends and relatives in Port Austin.

Capt. Joseph J. Bennett has sold the schooner Fleet Wing to Capts. J. J. Stevens and John H. Wilson.

Carpenter, Bartholomew & Co. have planked the extension to their dock, and have it already nearly filled with ties.

Mr. McNelly, of Hayes, had the misfortune recently to fall a tree across his team, killing both animals instantly.

The workmen are putting in the furnace in E. H. Green's new block. It is a good one from the Detroit Stove Works.

The question has been asked where the "proceedings of the justice court" with reference to that feed dealer were to be found?

Dr. Beach has been home from East Jordan, and is confined to his bed. He is improving now and hopes soon to be at work again.

Wm. H. Wood, of Charlevoix, who was severely injured by a falling tree some time ago, has partially recovered and was in town this week.

Mrs. C. Pearsie suffered another serious attack of her old enemy, neuralgia, last Friday night, and is still in a critical condition, though apparently improving.

Davis H. Wood, of Charlevoix, pays us from 50,000 acres of land. On his farm near Norwood he has 50 head of cattle, 25 horses and 100 sheep. Kalamazoo Telegraph.

The engine on the Harbor Springs weel collided with the snow plow and was derailed as she had to go to the shop for repairs. It was in no way a case was to blame for. Petoskey Democrat.

On Monday last we noticed our village marshal hauling five lawyers in the direction of the chalkbeds. He took them without indictment because they just lay in his way, and could not extricate themselves.

Before buying your boots or shoes call at Fox & Miller's and look at their screw-fastened goods. They out wear any sewed or wood pegged shoe made. Besides it is quite a comfort to know that you will be free from absolutely no legal power to do so. The utterly indefensible course of Lieut. Gov. Kennedy is undoubtedly due to the republican fear of the results of an investigation into the Cincinnati elections. Republicans well know that the elective franchise has never been so debauched as in that city by republican money and bludgeons. For the last 15 years they have carried the election there only by terrorism and the open purchase of votes. Lew Wright and his murderous deputies have uniformly been depended on to secure the republican majorities. These facts can be established by the most positive kind of evidence, and it is because they do not want to see them paraded before the country by an investigating committee that the republicans have resorted to methods in the Ohio senate that should stamp them as political desperadoes of the most infamous character. Lansing Journal

Mr. J. Goss, and daughter, Ada, from Charlevoix, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hoffins last week.

J. R. Dixon, of Charlevoix, was in town Tuesday, having been called here to survey a piece of land for Glenn & Porter. He informs us that Charlevoix bay has been frozen over for three days.

Ben Smith, and J. Evans, who have been cutting logs on Glenn & Porter's land, three miles west of town, were brought here Monday night, in charge of Deputy Sheriff Rogers. We understand the charge against them is trespass, they continuing to cut logs on a portion of the land upon which they had been recently notified to suspend operations.

M. E. Church.

At the M. E. church next Sunday morning, sermon by the pastor. Subject—Our Heavenly Home. The young people's meeting at 6 o'clock. Mr. J. Strang will preach at 7 o'clock.

Come to the Sunday school at the close of the public service. It is full of interest.

Do not overlook the prayer meeting on Thursday evening, it will do you good to come.

Dancing at Black's school house, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Fire Department.

All members, and other persons who wish to be considered as firemen for the ensuing year, are requested to be present at the engine room Monday night, Feb. 15.

By order of the company.

B. F. BISHOP, Secretary.

Recently the dwellers on an island in Lake Champlain obtained permission of a surveyor to look through his telescope. He adjusted the glass so as to cover a particular farm house about three miles off that was pointed out. The islanders were unusually long faces. The one who was peering through the glass became deeply agitated. The other islanders took their bankleterchiefs from their pockets. The observer called out: "There they are getting through the services; now they have put him in the hearse." With every new announcement the little group of friends got up a new wail. There was a pause till the processor had disappeared behind a hill. The telescope was then turned with as much gravity as it had been borrowed and used.

The census in Massachusetts shows that out of about 840 towns 150 lose in population. The gains are in manufacturing centers, the marked losses in the agricultural districts, and certain compensatory gains in towns which would be expected to lose are due to their being convenient homes for those whose business is in the cities. Nantucket threatens to become depopulated in time. The population of the island has fallen from 8,904 in 1855 to 3,143 in 1885.

Experiments made in Paris show that the crocodile can bring its jaws together with the force of over three hundred pounds.

Entered at the post office at Charlevoix, Mich., as second class matter.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR.

ADVERTISING RATES:

Transient advertisements, 10 cents per line for first insertion, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

Business notices, 10 cents per line.

Yearly advertisements, $30 per column, $20 per half column, $15 per quarter column.

Local notices, 15 cents per line.

Job printing, cash on delivery.

Editorial.

Dr. Holmes.

Dr. Holmes, the author, and one of the most celebrated men of America, died at his residence in Boston, on the morning of the 7th inst., at the age of 86 years. He was born at Cambridge, Massachusetts, August 29, 1809, and was the son of a Congregational clergyman. He was educated at Phillips Academy, Andover, and at Harvard College, and graduated at the latter institution in 1829. He then studied law, but soon abandoned it for medicine, and after a course of study in Europe, began the practice of his profession in Boston, in 1836. In 1838 he married Miss Sarah Wendell Crowninshield, of Boston, and in 1840 he became Professor of Anatomy and Physiology in Dartmouth College, but resigned the chair in 1842, and returned to Boston, where he lived the remainder of his life. He was a contributor to the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, and in 1842 published a volume of medical essays. In 1857 the first number of the Atlantic Monthly appeared, containing the first of a series of papers by Dr. Holmes, which were at once recognized as the production of a man of genius. The series of papers thus begun were continued in the Atlantic for many years, and were collected and published in book form in 1858, under the title of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table." The success of the book was immediate and decisive, and it at once took its place among the classics of American literature. The author followed it with "The Professor at the Breakfast Table" in 1860, and "The Poet at the Breakfast Table" in 1872. He also published a novel, "Elsie Venner," in 1861, and a series of papers on the relations of science to the practical affairs of life, under the title of "Mechanism in Thought and Morals," in 1871. He also published a life of his friend, the author, John Lothrop Motley, in 1878, and a life of his friend, the poet, John G. Whittier, in 1882. He was a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and was President of the Massachusetts Society of Medical Observation. He was also President of the Massachusetts Society of Medical Observation. He was also President of the Massachusetts Society of Medical Observation. He was also

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - MICHIGAN.

"The-Public-be-D———d!" Policy Denounced.

A railroad charging reasonable rates is one of the greatest blessings to the country it passes through that can be imagined; and indeed it may be said, that the time has come when a town must always make a sort of crippled growth until it has a railroad. We do not hesitate to say that the population and wealth of Charlevoix would double in two years if we had direct connections with the G. R. & I. or the Michigan Central, and through them with the principal cities of Michigan, Ohio, and Illinois. The price of our products would be increased by all that is saved in transportation; and the articles of home consumption would be lessened in price for the same reason,—besides the facilities to business by quicker freights, and cheaper and quicker passenger travel. So long as a railroad thus bastes or cheapens travel and traffic it is a blessing. But when it ceases to bring about these results—and just so far as it hinders the bringing about of these results—it is a curse.

The Michigan Central in getting a monopoly of storage and dockage in Detroit, and by charging exorbitant freight rates to the east, is just now proving itself a nuisance. The company is perfectly aware that this extortion comes principally from the producers of the grain. It also knows that the farmer has power to punish the company at the polls, but it insults the newspaper men of the state by saying that the farmers will remain entirely ignorant of their loss, through the influence of the passes annually issued to the country editors. We assure that company that its statement is not only a gross insult, but it is a lie. We take pride in our road, the G. R. & I., because we believe in it; we believe it deals fair with its patrons generally. But when it exchanges its policy and practice for the extortion policy of the Central, we shall say: Keep your pass, and time table too; we can publish something else in the space occupied that will bring us the money to buy what tickets we need to use. The Detroit Evening Journal is doing a glorious work in bringing the policy of the Central before the people.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1, 1886.

Special Correspondence.

The principal topic of discussion, outside of legislative halls, has been for several days the publications of the N. Y. World regarding the Pan Electric Telephone Company and its stock holders, who are shown to include several U. S. senators and high government officials, and the demand made by the senate committees for information relative to President Cleveland's reasons for the removal of certain republican office-holders, and the refusal of the president to furnish the same.

By the advice of the secretary of the interior suit has been commenced by the government against the Bell Telephone Company, to test the validity of the Bell patent. The success of this suit is of the utmost importance to the Pan Electric Co., and some sharp criticism is indulged in, especially regarding the attitude of Attorney General Garland, who owns a large amount of the Pan Electric stock, many people believing that he should dispose of this stock or send in his resignation as attorney general at once.

The attempt of republican senators to compel the president to make public his reasons for the removal of republican office-holders is looked upon simply an effort to manufacture cheap campaign timber for their canvass of 1888. That the attempt will result in a disastrous failure to them there can be little doubt.

The president's public reception Friday night was one of the most successful affairs of the kind for many years. It was attended by over six thousand people. The rooms in the white-house were beautifully decorated. The two large mantels in the east room were banked with fragrant flowers, and foliage plants filled every available space. The marine band enlivened the occasion with music and the president was assisted in his duties by Miss Cleveland, Secretary and Mrs. Manning, Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Vilas.

Grave fears have been entertained recently of a repetition of the disastrous floods of '83, and steamers and tug-boats have been kept busy for several days clearing the river of ice to prevent such a catastrophe. They have been so far successful in their efforts that the danger is believed to have passed, for the present at least.

Michigan's well-known and popular poet, Will Carleton, delivered his interesting lecture, "The Chain of Success," to a large and appreciative audience Friday evening. The lecture receives flattering comments from those who heard it.

A strange superstition prevails to a great extent among the negroes, regarding what they term "slaps" or "night doctors;" and many of them can not be prevailed upon to leave the house after dark. They believe that these dangerous characters roam about the country in search of colored victims for dissecting tables and pounce upon any of their race regardless of age or sex, who may be so unfortunate as to be caught out after dark. What inspires them with greater horror of these myths of the night is the manner in which they overcome and make away with their victims. A large plaster is clapped over the unfortunate's mouth and nose and he is hurried away to the dissecting table where he is carved up scientifically before the blood fairly ceases to circulate through his veins. An old colored man who claims to have been chased by these ghouls of darkness, upon being asked if he believed there were such men, replied promptly: "Dwel I dnz. Oh cose dar am slap doctabs, plenty ob dem. Dar am bofe cullud and white, and dey go in droves, unsly fo' in a row. Ef dey kotch yo' its good bye. Dey sleered mos' deff kum dahk. Dey gets twenty or twenty-five dollahs fo' ebery wun dey kotch. I dean blame de white folks so much of its dir business, but I'd jest like to kill dem ob my own callor. But den, yo' knah hahm 'em, kas dey's sleeted from head to toe. Shooten 'em is no good, and dey turn de age ob a razor jest like a stone wall."

This seems to be an exception to the rule that "ignorance is bliss."

JOHNSON.

Notes and News.

Counterfeit Canadian quarters have been discovered in circulation at Ovid.

The copper mines of Houghton county, u. p. paid $1,970,000 dividends last year.

Berrien Springs is bound to have a railroad, every citizen voting to bond the town therefor.

The Frankfort Express is much improved for the past few months. It is a w a six-column quarto.

Mr. Bayard has been prevailed upon not to resign his portfolio as secretary of state, at least for the present.

Flattery need to be called soft soap, now it is called taffy. The style was changed because the lye was so plainly visible in the former.

Detroit is next to Minneapolis and St. Paul in the per cent of increase of business during 1885 over 1884. This puts her third on the list.

Adjt. Gen. Robertson thinks the militia appropriation bill will pass in congress. Michigan's annual portion will be $10,000 to $12,000.

A reporter of the Grand Rapids Democrat meets Prof. Beal, of the agricultural college, on a train and then puts an article in the paper, the tone of which would suggest that the college was established just last summer.

The St. Ignace Republican says: The Algomah can go through anyice we are likely to have this winter like a steer through a patch of green corn. She leaves St. Ignace at 8 p. m., or immediately on the arrival of the Marquette express and runs to Mackinaw City, there connecting with trains on the Michigan Central and G. R. & I. R. R's. She lays there until morning, when she crosses with mail, freight and passengers, connecting here with the train for Marquette, Hancock, Houghton, etc.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

Science and Alcohol.

Ten years ago, at the request of the Edinburgh society of Arts, Dr. B. W. Richardson, F. R. S., delivered before that body six lectures on alcohol, presenting the result of a protracted scientific investigation of the subject. Among the facts thus scientifically established were the following:

1. Alcohol, instead of raising, lowers the temperature of the body. After a drunken stupor it has sometimes taken three days to restore the natural warmth, under the most favorable circumstances. Even moderate drinkers are peculiarly exposed to dangerous "colds."

2. Alcohol is not, in any proper sense, a food. The development of fat from its use is simply due to structural degeneration of the vital organs.

3. Alcohol accelerates the action of the heart from one hundred thousand beats a day to, say, one hundred and twenty-five thousand, followed by a proportionate weakening that necessitates, successively, additional draughts. Hence the heart becomes enlarged and its valves disordered; and the brain, by the increased flow of blood to it, is rendered for the time more active, and is succeeded by greater feeblenes, which demands the repetition of the stimulus.

4. The whole internal cavity of the body, all its organs, every bone and joint, the brain and spinal cord, are wrapped in membranes, through which as filters, everything has to pass for the sustenance of the respective parts. These membranes must be just porous enough, and be kept perfectly supple. Now, alcohol causes them to thicken and shrink, and thus effects a general deterioration of the organic structures.

5. Among the effects of this deterioration, in those who drink moderately, are various neuralgic pains, the worst form of indigestion, and wakefulness.

6. At a later stage of drunkenness, not a single organ of the body escapes disorganization of its vital structure, though heredity or other conditions may cause a seeming concentration of disease on some particular organ—the liver, the kidneys, the lungs, the heart, the brain, or the spinal cord.

7. If this agent do really for the moment cheer the weary and impart a flush of transient pleasure to the unwearied who crave for mirth, its influence—doubtful even in these modest and moderate degrees—is an infinitesimal advantage, by the side of an infinity of evil for which there is no compensation and no human cure.

The above are the teachings of science. We will add, the teachings of actual observation. Sir Andrew Clark, one of the most eminent medical authorities in Great Britain, says that in seven out of ten of his hospital patients the disease was caused by drink, and in the three others was aggravated by it. He had sometimes thought of giving up his practice and going about the country in a crusade against intoxicating drinks.—Youth's Companion.

The Texas Advocate says: "Merchants at Bedias and Iola say they would not have whiskey sold again in these towns for $1,000 a year. Fourteen thousand dollars' worth was sold per year, it is said, at Iola. Now men pay their debts and have something left, who did but little more than pay their whiskey bill."

A large number of saloonists at Delpsening cannot get bondsmen and will have to go out of business. This state of affairs has been brought about by the heavy damages recently given a married woman on charges preferred by her against certain saloon-keepers for selling her husband liquor.

The Japanese say: "A man takes a drink, then the drink takes a drink, and next the drink takes the man."

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, with a dull pain mistaken by many for some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of piles closely simulate, painfully, diseases of the stomach, etc. A sudden, free perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, often getting worse, is a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy. It acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter. 6-p

The Chicago Daily News

Has the Largest Daily Circulation in America.

Its issue for the year 1884 averaged 125,128 copies daily, and it is now regularly printing over 130,000 papers a day.

The magnitude of this unequaled circulation is best appreciated when it is said that it exceeds the circulations of all other Chicago dailies combined. Taking from the three standard newspaper directories—Ayer & Son's Annual, Rowell's Directory and Hubbard's Directory—the quotations which most nearly represent the actual circulations of the Chicago press, the following diagram correctly illustrates their relative positions as to extent of circulation.

From these figures it appears that the circulation of THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS exceeds the combined circulations of all the other Chicago dailies by 19,873 copies daily. The proofs for this phenomenal success are conclusive.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is a complete newspaper in all that could form the best type of American journalism.

It is a member of the Associated Press, and is the only 2 cent paper in the West that possesses this first essential to a complete news service. In addition, it has its own private wire the lease from the Western Union Telegraph Co. connecting its Chicago office with New York and Washington, at both of which points it has its own news bureaus. THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS prints all the news.

It is an independent paper. It recognizes the utility of political parties as means for the accomplishment of proper ends, but it declines to regard any party as a fit subject for unquestioning adoration. It seeks the patronage of intelligent, thoughtful home people, who love country more than party.

THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS is a "2 cent and 10 the point" paper. It believes that every proper reading fact has an incident of the day, and its chief business is accordingly leaves by the "limited shelves" the memories of tiresome and worthless miscellanies. It seeks to omit all that the reader should care to read, and to cop it in the shortest possible manner. It is a daily paper for busy people.

It is a clean paper, fit for the family circle. It is a cheap paper—2 cents per copy, $12 a year for seven days a week, or $6.00 per year. Sold by all news dealers throughout the Northwest. Mailed to any address, post paid, upon receipt of price.

Where the facilities of a daily mail are not enjoyed THE CHICAGO WEEKLY NEWS is recommended as "the next best." It is a larger paper, 64 columns, and is fairly made up to meet all the varying needs of the family circle. It is the largest "dollar weekly" in America. It is equal to the best.

OVER A MILLION A WEEK.

The Greatest Newspaper Success of the Age.

The New York World

Has a Circulation of over

1,100,000

COPIES PER WEEK.

This has been secured by making it

The Best Newspaper

Published Anywhere on the Globe.

ITS WEEKLY EDITION,

THE WEEKLY WORLD,

$1.00 Per Year.

Is a Complete and Perfect Family Newspaper.

Club Agents (make from 20 cents to $2 on each subscription), by its great premium offers.

Subscribers save from $2 to $50 yearly by purchasing under special contracts made by THE WORLD. Send for Circulars.

It Pays to be an Agent for The World.

The World's Grand Premiums

AND

The World's Grand Combinations

Have Never Before Been Equaled.

Every person should know what they are, for by the knowledge every family can save from $5 to $50.

Address THE WORLD,

31 Park Row, New York.

A GIFT Send 10 cents postage, and we will send you free a rich, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money at once than anything else in America. Both sexes of all ages can live at home and work in spare time or all the time. Capital not required. We will start you. $5 outfit free. Address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. (2)

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All of either sex succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine. (2)

A Live Detroit Paper!

THE DETROIT EVENING JOURNAL

Has been GREATLY IMPROVED during the last six months and is now THE BEST EVENING PAPER published in this State.

IT IS THE ONLY AFTERNOON PAPER IN MICHIGAN THAT RECEIVES AND PUBLISHES THE FULL DAY

Associated Press DISPATCHES.

THE EVENING JOURNAL

Provides a greater number of TELEGRAMS FROM THE STATE than any other paper in Detroit.

THE EVENING JOURNAL'S

Details of the Doings of Our Neighbors and New York GRAIN AND STOCK MARKETS Make it the most desirable commercial paper that comes to the Detroit market.

This is our Opinion of the Merits of Our Contemporary and Partner of Misfortune.

THE EVENING JOURNAL'S

LOCAL NEWS is Bright and Accurate; its EDITORIALS are Independent, Comprehensive and Fearless.

THE EVENING JOURNAL

In URBAN and PROHIBITION questions is SPECIAL INTEREST TO EACH PARTY.

THE EVENING JOURNAL is delivered BY CARRIER at 20 Cents per Week, or sent BY MAIL at the rate of $3.00 per Year, postage prepaid.

For Hard Times.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL

AND

DEMOREST'S

ILLUSTRATED · MONTHLY

MAGAZINE

With Twelve Cut Paper Patterns of your own selection and of any size.

BOTH PUBLICATIONS, ONE YEAR,

$3.10 (THREE TEN).

DEMOREST'S THE BEST

Of all the Magazines,

CONTAINING Stories, Poems and other Literary attractions, sparkling Articles, Sensible and Practical Articles, Illustrated with Original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures and Four Hundred, ranking it the Model Magazine of America.

Each Magazine contains a COUPON GIVING the right to the holder to the selection of ANY PATTERN illustrated in that number, in ANY SIZE.

DEMOREST'S MONTHLY is justly called the World's Model Magazine. The Largest in Size, The Largest in Circulation, and the best TWO-Dollar Family Magazine issued. Its will be the Aim of the Publishers to make it as continually improved and as admirably up to place it in the front rank of Family Periodicals and equal to any magazine. It contains 72 pages, large quarto, 8 x 11½ inches, printed on fine paper, and fully illustrated. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, New York, AND BY SPECIAL AGREEMENT COMBINED WITH THE Charlevoix Journal at $3.10 Per Year.

ADDRESS

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL,

Charlevoix, Mich.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

ESTABLISHED 1845.

The most popular Weekly newspaper devoted to science, mechanics, engineering discoveries, inventions, and industrial pursuits. Each number is illustrated with splendid engravings. The combination furnishes a most valuable encyclopedia of reference for the mechanic, manufacturer, and the professional man. SCIENTIFIC AMERICA is such that its circulation nearly equals that of all other publications of its class combined. Terms, $3.20 per year, including postage or subscription. MUNN & CO., Publishers, No. 361 Broadway, N. Y.

PATENTS. Since 1845 they have been the Patent Office and have prepared over 50,000 Patents for inventors in the United States and foreign countries. Caveats, Trade-Marks, Copyrights, Reissues, Assignments, Rejected Cases, Infringements, Interferences, advice as to patentability of inventions, and all matters relating to patents promptly given without charge. Hand-books of information and Abstracts of Patents sent free. Hand-Book of the Patent Laws of the United States, and Abstracts of Patents, free. The advantages of such notice in the Scientific American are known to all persons who seek to dispose of their patents.

Address MUNN & CO., Office SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, 361 Broadway, New York.

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

IS THE BEST CHEW, the GREATEST SELLER, and satisfies more men than any other plug in the market. It is always in good order; NEVER TOO HARD AND NEVER SPONGY; GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION, and not a piece of it is overpraised. NIMROD is THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER, and is in stock on the dealer's hands. This caution is said to induce dealers to recommend Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.

Petersburg, Va.

THIS PAPER Printed with Ames Cylinder Press, Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.) New York, contracts may be made for it in NEW YORK.

CHARLEVOIX POSTOFFICE.

Winter Arrangement.

OFFICE HOURS ——7.30 A. M. to 7.30 P. M.

MAILS AND DEPARTURES OF MAILS.

(Special Attention STANDARD TIME.)

EAST.

R. R. Times. R. R. Times.

Det. & Mac. 11 30 a. m. | Boyne City 12 35 p. m.

Petoskey 2 30 p. m. | Ft. Wayne 7 00 p. m.

Chicago 7 00 p. m. | Detroit 7 00 p. m.

Intermediate time to properly assort and put up mail is necessary to close at least 10 minutes before the schedule time for departure.

WEST.

Boyne City 12 00 p. m. | Petoskey 12 30 p. m.

Ft. Wayne 10 45 p. m. | Petoskey 1 45 p. m.

CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

Local Notes and News.

CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

The night watch earns his money this weather.

The ancient Dame is perspiring profusely to-day.

Byron Sees and wife returned home from Philadelphia to-day.

C. J. Pailthorp, of Petoskey, made us a pleasant call to-day.

D. I. Wheat expects to return to Charlevoix from St. Johns in a few days.

Sim. Wood, of Atwood, died Monday. Funeral to-day, with Masonic ceremonies.

Those desiring extra copies of this week's JOURNAL should order as soon as possible.

Capt. Eli Tenlouse returned home this week, from his visit with friends in another part of the state.

The telephone announced the death of Gen. W. S. Hancock last Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. C. F. VanAuken will preach a sermon to the young men next Sunday evening. All are welcome.

Messrs. R. R. Tyler, H. L. Jones, and E. R. Beebe, mill wrights on the new mill, will leave as soon for other fields of labor.

A new millinery firm went into operation Tuesday, Mrs. Ella Smith and Anna Cooper, proprietors. Their rooms are in the Ingleside.

A few tax payers not being able to meet the demands of the collector, the time for payment in this township has been extended to Feb. 27th.

We desire that every subscriber to the JOURNAL in Charlevoix buy at least one copy of this issue of the paper and send to friends at a distance. Order early.

On Wednesday, W. A. Atchison loaned out with his small team the champion log on the job at Oyster Bay. It was an elm, 14 feet long, and scaled 1134 feet.

The new life-saving station at Frankfort was burned Saturday evening. The loss was $4,000, and insurance $3,500. The cause is not known.

Traverse Journal.

On Monday last, while the young people of Charlevoix were enjoying the sport coasting on the Allen hill, news came that a young daughter of Mr. Pinsonneau, of Petoskey, had been run over and killed by a big coasting sled, just a few minutes before the news was sent. A later account stated that the child, although badly hurt was still alive and would probably recover.

The members of the G. A. R. post are making arrangements to give a coffee and hard tack entertainment at their next regular meeting, the second Monday in March.

Mr. W. A. Reynolds, of the Hatchinson Mfg. Co., of Jackson, Mich., is in town this week, looking after the completion and delivery of Rifenburg & Co.'s North Star Roller Mills.

The G. R. & I. coach shops and lumber sheds located at Grand Rapids were burned last Friday night. Six beautiful coaches including the sleeper, Petoskey, were also consumed. The loss is $67,000.

Six below zero yesterday morning, which is the coldest record yet for this village.  Last night was a stinger—twenty-eight below zero. To-day the air is cool and crisp, in fact nice sunny winter weather. Lewiston Enterprise.

The ladies' society of the Baptist church, will give an oyster supper at the Congregational church next Tuesday evening, February 16th. They extend a cordial invitation to all the people of Charlevoix. Supper served from 5 to 9 o'clock.

A very fine collection of oil paintings were shown us a few days since by Mrs. A. M. Parmenter, the product of her own genius and skill. She is thinking of organizing a class soon, here in the village. "'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished."

A large number of papers having taken up the fight against the St. Andrews Bay, Fla., colony, and denounced it as an unmitigated swindle, we should like to hear from Mr. Wm. Glover on the subject. He has been there long enough to enlighten us.

"There is quite a colony of Charlevoix, Mich., groves in the Dun Lawton hammock near Fort Orange belonging to Messrs. E. Carpenter, M. J. Stockman, Ackert Bros., L. D. Bartholomew, R. W. Miller and Harrison Bedford, all of that place. These groves are on excellent land originally in wild trees and are doing finely." Halifax Journal.

"A pleasant party of visitors took us by surprise Saturday. We hadn't on our best clothes, and were washing the forms, but put a bold front on it and faced the music. The party was composed of Mr and Mrs. J. E. Carpenter, of Appleton, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Stockman, and Mr and Mrs. E. Carpenter and daughter Lillian, Charlevoix, Mich. They are all comfortably settled for the winter at Fort Orange."—Halifax Journal.

The Charlevoix Improvement Association had a special meeting last Monday evening, to consider matters which the executive committee wished to bring before the whole association. The matters were referred to special committees, to report at the next regular meeting, which occurs next Monday evening. The Improvement Association, gratified by the success of the Rifenburg Mill enterprise, is putting forth great efforts on other schemes that promise equally gratifying results.

At the close of the preparatory lecture delivered by Rev. Mr. VanAuken at the M. E. church, Ironton, Wednesday evening, Feb. 3d, a business meeting of the Congregational church was called after prayer by the pastor. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Fifteen names were then submitted for membership and by vote of acclamation were received into the church. Officers were then elected and the meeting dismissed with the benediction. He previously announced the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered Sunday, Feb. 7th. This was the first communion service of the church just organized with a membership of thirty nine uniting by letter and twenty-one on confession of their faith. At the close of the service Rev. Mr. VanAuken announced communion for the second Sunday in April, when an opportunity will be given for any wishing to identify themselves with the church.

☞ Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pound 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton. 8-2-tf

Burgess.

[We beg the pardon of our correspondent from Burgess, for mislaying his items intended for last issue. We print the greater part of them this week.—Ed.]

The church social held in district No. 6, was a grand success.

The time for the next church social has not been appointed yet.

The tax gatherer reports collections slow, and the town board have been asked to extend the time of collection to the first of March. Think they have granted the time asked for.

Moses Cooper has contracted to furnish some parties with 5,000 ties to be delivered at Oyster Bay.

E. M. Clark will have the logs nearly all off from the Sam Olney place by the last of the week.

The item last week about Mr. Wm. Sager should have been Mr. Wm. B. Sayers, who was formerly clerk of the Cushman House in Petoskey.

A prominent young man of Hayes, who has been backing it for a long time, being too constitutionally tired to get a house keeper in a legitimate manner, was supplied thusly: Last fall he got a man and his wife to come and keep house. About a week or so ago he fired the man out, but not the wife. Better look a "leedle out" young man. There are shooting stars and no hanging for murder in Michigan.

Republican Love Feast.

Great preparations are being made for the banquet to be given by the Michigan club at Detroit on February 22. The Detroit Tribune says that it will be the biggest political blow out since the presidential election. A special train will run from Washington on Feb. 20 to convey Senators Palmer, Evarts, Mandelson, and other notables to the "city of the straits." The Tribune condescends to inform rural republicans that the dinner "will not be a formal event, and dress suits will be in bad taste." However, as none but "members of the Michigan club will be invited to the feast," and as the matter is in charge of authorities Palmer and Alger, it is not probable that the plebeian contingent of the g. o. p. will be very largely represented.—Lansing Journal.

Fire Department Election.

The Charlevoix Fire Co. met last Monday evening, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

President—Gurley Bank.

Vice President—J. W. Kirby.

Secretary—H. F. Bates.

Treasurer—Horace S. Harsha.

Foreman of Engine—A. J. McLeod.

Asst. Foreman of Eng.—H. Burli.

Foreman of Hose—Mantie Lewis.

Engineer—Gurley Bank.

Asst. Engineer—Geo. Pappin.

Nozzleman—Ed. Bagg, Harry Nicholls, and Smith Campbell.

BEWARE

Coughs, colds, and sight throat diseases often develop into bronchitis, seated cough, consumption, etc., and should have immediate attention and be removed in the first stages. Not only public speakers, but all, are liable to throat troubles and to obtain relief should use HAMILTON'S COUGH TROCHES, which relieve coughs, and hoarseness, making the articulation clear. Warranted to give satisfaction. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

SECURE ADMIRATION

Who can help admiring a lovely face, a clear, sunsilne, beautiful complexion? These can be easily obtained by the use of HAMILTON'S ORIENTAL BALM. It will surely remove freckles, tan, pimples, and blemishes of every sort and is in no way injurious to the skin, but is the most harmless and elegant preparation of its kind. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

A Reliable Article

For enterprise, push and a desire to get such goods as will give the trade satisfaction, Geo. W. Crouter the Druggist leads all competitors. He formerly sold Kemp's cough and lung syrup, because it was the best article he could find, but now he sells Cough, Croup and Pulmonary Consumption, Price 50 cents and $1.00. Samples free.

New Advertisement in This Space Next Week.

J. L. HURD & CO,

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.

Have a full Assortment of

WOOLEN BLANKETS AND LUMBERMEN'S SUPPLIES.

Six, Six and a Half, and Seven Foot Saws. Double and Single Bitted Axes, Steel Sledges and Wedges.

Rubber Goods of all Kinds. Felt Boots, Mackinaw and German Socks, etc. etc. Women and Childrens Buckle Arctics, Olivetts, Snow Excluders, Imitation Sandals, and in short everything of use in the Camp or Household.

PINE LAKE IRON CO., Ironton, Mich.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

and Only to

L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

PERFECTION AXES.

6 ft. Saws,

CANT HOOKS

Steel Wedges.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

1/3 OFF SALE AT Miss Spaulding's Millinery Room.

Commencing Monday, Feb. 15, and continuing two weeks. I will sell my entire stock of goods (except yarns and crewels) at greatly reduced prices for cash only. Any lady purchasing goods to the amount of $3 will receive a present of her choice of any untrimmed felt hats in the store. Come early and secure a bargain.

MAKING MONEY.

It does not need to be asserted that money making is a topic of universal interest and acceptance with all classes of people from the self-assertive rich to the humblest poor. Money is a god universally worshiped. Its altars are on every hilltop and valley; at every humble and fireside. Money is the cuphoim or sesame of all human comfort, luxury or advantage; the possession of it stamps its holder as a man of power in the community, and has become an essential in the organization of business. It is a topic always discussed; never laid aside, ever present and of enlarged interest day by day, in the factory and field, in the church and forum. It has ever been so since the dawn of civilization and must ever remain so as long as civilization lasts.

Money is the solvent of trouble, the chorm for the hungry, the solace of him that is ready to die; for the troubled soul feels that with money he could remove disquietude; the hungry knows he could buy food; the man just going into the unknown feels that his grave will be paid for, and not in the Potter's field. And as long as "earth has its price for what it gives up," and "the beggar must pay for a corner to die," we may expect no change in this apparent law of nature. In earlier days, when money, or the medium of exchange, was less plentiful than now, and the labor of man was held at a rate surprising for its smallness—when it required a huge quantity of work or merchandise to purchase a piece of gold now valued at a dollar, there was small opportunity for one to amass a large sum.

The law of supply and demand ruled then with all its severity, and as land, cattle and ordinary property were a drug in the market, while gold and silver were rare metals, the record shows a general condition of what now would be called poverty. A herdsman with a thousand cattle or sheep was not worth more than an owner of a small farm now; perhaps a market gardener with his two or three acres could buy him out as to values in the market. Nor is this condition of lowness in values so very remote; nor does the present generation lack demonstration of its applicability now; for when a surplus of a useful article is piled upon the market how rapidly prices decline.

Nor does the recent discovery of the richest mines of gold and silver ever known cause the great fact. And now few of all the adventurers into the business of mining come out with even a competence. It is a fact well attested that of the men reported worth their millions made in mining scarcely every one made his money by hand in manipulating the shares of mining companies, and oftentimes the millions gained were stripped from hard-working people in humble life, not excepting the mother and servant girl. And after all the fleecing and stealing indulged in by these sharpers, not a baker's dozen have succeeded in holding a fraction of the wealth imported to them.

Could we investigate the history of all great fortunes we should be surprised to find how few have been accumulated without the incidental advantage of some fortunate or fortuitous accident or incident. Up to 1840 the two wonderful accumulations were those of Girard and Astor. Now Girard, though a wonderfully wise and thrifty manager, had the good luck to have uncounted thousands thrust into his hands by the insurrection of the negroes in Hayti or Guadaloupe, who slew a number of wealthy men who had deposited their money and jewels on board Girard's vessel to bring them to the United States. Now this luck was not in consequence of Girard's shrewdness, it was what we call an accident—unusual, and perhaps never to be repeated.

The pith of Astor's fortune was also the result of an accident or several accidents (but have never been duplicated. So we may readily see that what are called great fortunes resulted more from fortuitous circumstances than from an inherent ability of good management. Yet it must not be forgotten that these men held on to what they got and increased their gains by adhering closely to the rules of economy and simplicity taught them in the schools of poverty.

While very rich men are scarce, and the condition of the millions remains just about as it was fifty years ago, the people are slowly being educated to a better comprehension of the true method of accumulation. It is easily seen that the economy and frugality that governed the lives of those who have succeeded in gathering large fortunes will give every man competence in due time, while waste and multiplied wants surely to poverty.

The royal road to wealth has never changed, it lies through the vale of self-denial, saving small sums, invested in living permanent property and adding annually to the sum gained. Misfortunes may sweep it all away, but this chance must be taken in all ventures.—Junction (Mass.) Gazette.

Gypsy Peculiarities.

Few more fatalistic scenes can be conceived than a gypsy wedding. The place usually chosen is a sand pit. In two long rows, fronting each other, the attendants take their stand, leaving a path in the middle, half way down which a broomstick is held up about eighteen inches above the ground. The bridegroom is called, walks down the path, steps over the broomstick and waits the maiden's arrival. She, too, is called, walks down between the two rows of gypsies, lightly trips over the stick and is then received into the arms of her husband. A few days of feasting follow and then the wild wandering life is resumed. Children grow up in the tent or van, and as the wants become greater, the gypsy matron adds another to her resources for making a livelihood. The fortunes she predicts to the farmer's blooming daughter bring many a meal to her hungry family, and the elegant lady who allows her sleeklitly to enter the dark home regards her with money or cast off clothes when from the lines of her hands she is foretold a future full of splendor. Old age comes slowly to the gypsy race; weakness, pain and suffering are strangers among them, and the physician's craft is despised, as are all the other institutions of the Gorjos. But when death at length enters the gypsy's tent he is borne uncovered to his last resting place, deep in the forest or on the lonely heath, and as often as their wanderings bring the gypsies to the place where one of "our people" is laid to rest they stop and pay a short tribute to the memory of him who sleeps beneath the turfs of heather.

The Gnomes of Fashion-Plates.

In these plates every line is charged with meaning. The carriage of the head and arms, the way of holding fans or parasols is that of well-bred demoiselles or ladies. The lissome waists, the shapely necks and compact hairdressing, belong to the well-born class who follow the fashions abroad, and it is as much a pleasure to study the groups and expressions as any pictorial story by Williams or Mathews. Turn the page in the same number, and Berlin is apparent in the stiffer, more careless figures and outre inventions of dress which seek novelty rather than grace. The drawing is poorer, the faces those of German shopgirls, or low-class women who only dress for occasions, who by the hand in view on the bodice or hold it up with that and little fingers out to improve the shape, who wear preposterous nettlesome gathered all round the bell, or Marguerite costumes with girdles that spoil the waist, or broad bands of trimming which cut up the whole figure, or corsages of the pretty milliner style. English-drawn figures are from seven to thirteen feet high in proportion, drawn by pupils of the schools of design, who make half a guinea by copying customs mounted on wire stands, sibling lace and accessories of their own fancy. The faces are foolish, with big, dark eyes, like opera girls, and vicious temper under lines of dowdiest modesty, suggesting the younger sister or impatient alongside who tried on the cloak and dress for models. The drawing grows worse and worse, till it is a mere shadeless outline, less affective than the meanly-sketched figures which tell of ill-placed economy in the boxes, which are, as a rule, conducted on the principle of paying little for illustrations and nothing for contributions—and show it, too. In the country the fashion journal, which appears on tinted and hot-pressed paper, with contents of every feminine interest from Abraham's wife down, presents its readers with costume figures of impossibly hard drawing, hence set at right angles with the neck, wooden shoulders, potent grin, and amputated hands with some things to replace. Now they be better, though as they are by a 14-year old boy from one of the central drawing classes, who is glad to earn ten cents to $1.25 an hour at such work. The wonderful work passed off in the most pretentious papers is enough to afflict the nerves of the very persons most interested—the manufacturers of hard, ill-drawn, ill-printed, ill-placed illustrations. Perhaps for all concerned it is better that

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

FORTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

A RESOLUTION directing the Secretary of the Treasury to report whether the Assistant Sub-Treasury at New York had been authorized to refuse deposits of silver dollars for certificates, was adopted by the Senate on Monday. A bill was passed to remove the political disabilities of George S. Shaw, of Texas. The Attorney-General sent a letter to the Senate, in answer to the resolution calling for all the documents and correspondence in the investigation and suspension of the office of United States Attorney for the Southern District of Alabama. The letter acknowledges the receipt of the resolution in question, but says: "In response to said resolution, the President of the United States directs me to say that the papers called for are not in the department relating to the affairs of J. B. Bancroft, recently nominated for and confirmed as United States District Attorney for Congress to Act Upon Them, and the papers and documents which are mentioned in said resolution, and still remaining in the custody of this department, have not been relied upon in the action of the President in the matter of the charges of Judge Jones, and the duties of the office of United States Attorney for the Southern District of Alabama. It is not considered that the public interests would be served by a compliance with said resolution, and the transmission of the papers and documents called for by said resolution." A resolution passed a bill to pay the Family of Judge Crouse, amounting $22,000, distributed among eleven states. All the counties south fifty years ago submitted votes pro and con.

A BILL providing for the division of the Sioux Reservation, Dakota, and a relinquishment of the Indian title to the remainder passed the Senate on the 1st. Bills were introduced to appropriate $10,000 for buildings and machinery used or destroyed in the Federal union in Seattle, and for a public building at Beatrice, Nebraska. In the House Mr. Hoxland, of Kansas, moved the adoption of a concurrent resolution, which provides that "the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice be empowered to make full inquiry into the cause of the failure of the Committee of Ways and Means to report the bill and Pacific Telephone Company." The bill was for the purpose of the investigation and to use the money for the purpose, he felt, without the authority of law. Mr. Hoxland said the resolution was not aimed at any person in the Department of Justice, but was to be applied and investigation. Mr. Hoxland said he was opposed to the part of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. Mr. Matson, of Indiana, moved to amend the rules and repeal the rule to prevent the bill from being reported to the House from the Ways and Means Committee without the action of the committee. The motion was lost. Mr. Hoxland said he was opposed to the Government of Territories. The Dakota bill was first reported by the Committee on Territories and Elections. The Dakota bill was then taken up and passed. The House then took the vote in favor of the admission of the Territory as a State. Mr. Springer moved the adoption of the Senate bill to admit Dakota, Montana and Washington Territories as States. The Senate bill was passed by a vote of 154 to 1. The Senate then passed the bill to pay the Family of Judge Crouse, of Ohio, $22,000. Mr. Springer moved the adoption of the House bill for the admission of Dakota, Montana and Washington Territories as States. The Senate bill was then

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

The Sum of All Folly.

If we could get all our goods by wishing for them, would it not be better than by toiling and spending money? If foreign ships brought all kinds of manufactures here and gave them away, who would object? No same person, surely. Now, because foreign ships come here and offer half their goods for nothing (or all of them so cheap that it amounts to the same thing), a certain few object, and put such a heavy fine or tax on their imported goods as to keep them from coming here. The same wicked selfishness that has upheld persecution, tyranny, slavery, war, despotism, now upholds the tax on trade and decries cheap imports. If slavery was "the sum of villainies," our tariff is the sum of all stupidities.

A sample of the execrable hypocrisy of protection is seen in the silk business. "American industry is not to be allowed to compete with foreign cooper labor." No! no! A heavy tariff is put on imported silk manufactures, so that a few thousand persons in silk factories, not over ten in second in all, and mostly children and girls, may get big wages ostensibly, but in reality to favor a half-dozen employers. They are American laborers, and theirs is an industry our goodness. They must be protected, and more joy is made over their paltry product ten thousand times than over all the results of agricultural itself, whereas in fact the loss of any half dozen counties surpass it. But the poor creatures who try to produce the raw silk here are left to compete with Chinese and Italians, in their foreign homes, who work for ten to twenty cents per day. Get into a factory and work up the raw material, and you become an industry and are to be protected; but go out and toil to create the wealth out of which the manufacture exists, and you are a nonentity, except for taxation.

There is something so unutterably foolish in the belief that wages are higher because employers make high profit, that one knows not how to express it. But, says a large manufacturer to me, we don't pretend to pay more wages because we make more profit. The point is just this—if you don't protect us we can't pay at all, or can only offer so little wages that our workmen will leave us and go on farming.

And that is just the truth. Your occupation is no business at all. It is beggary, alms, and extortion. Good heavens! To believe that a vast number of people can do prosperously what no one can do without ruin. One man can not neglect his proper business to make his own shoes, wagons, harness, etc. But several millions can despise the opportunities that are all around and under foot; can waste millions' worth of raw material, the product of their own hard toil or of countless ages of nature's storing, and can violently displace, pervert the natural evolution of labor by vast numbers of their citizens—all to make a little silk and keep a dozen steel rail mills going, and a few hundred wooden factories and some thousand or two other mills, foundries, etc.

The waste and neglect of raw material in the west and south is something stupendous, all because manufacturing is invited or forced into developments that are unnatural to our present development. Manufactures should develop naturally, just as the flour mill follows upon the thresher. Natural home demand is the parent of manufactures, not a demand forced by embargo on parts and a rubber tax. Hostile states blockade each other's ports to ruin or distress his foe. A rubber congress has put an embargo on our ports, and punishes the smuggler as the belligerent punishes the blockade runner. Were we of the west under another flag, how long would we tolerate a tariff by the nation owning the ports that snapped our products—the exports—to pay it?

Although we are near sixty millions of people, we are not as great a nation as we were in 1860 with thirty millions. We are not so compactly settled as we were in 1860. Since 1865 the whole continent has been opened up by railways, and we are relatively a more dispersed, thinly settled nation. In 1865 lands had taken lower than for ninety years, owing to the countless millions of acres opened up by transcontinental railways, and by homestead laws. We were more crowded in 1860, and our manufactures had increased in less than ten years some eighteen thousand in number, and the investment one hundred per cent. From 1870 to 1880 we added less than eighteen hundred to the number, and only thirty-five per cent to the invested capital. From 1850 to 1860 was our free trade era. Then the agricultural implement business originated, created its own market by experiments in the fields, and grew to enormous proportions. In our then comparatively compact older settled conditions the word pump was as unknown as the thing; the pump was the creation in England, of her corn laws, and filled her highways by armies in 1816-48.

I have stated solid facts. Abolish this tariff, and there will no more be heard of strikes, labor riots, communism, socialism, or tramps, until our lands are settled up, and some other bad laws are felt. H.

A bill has been introduced recently by Senator Voorhees to admit Washington Territory as a state, and Montana as a state. When the senator was asked if he intended to make the admission of Dakota conditional on the admission of Montana, as it had been reported that the democrats were independent to do, he replied, "I can speak only for myself. I think the best argument that we can make is to admit Dakota, Montana and Washington together. They must all come in soon and might as well come in now. I do not see how we can prevent Dakotas coming in. She has a voting population of 80,000 and is certainly entitled to admittance. I thought at first that I should oppose the division of Dakota, but I do not see how I can. The territory has an area of five times my own state, and South Dakota would be as large as Ohio and Indiana. Montana has a voting population of 20,000, and Washington a voting population of 40,000. There are not fifteen congressional districts in the country with the population of Washington, and not a hundred with that of Montana. Dakota is republican. Montana is democratic, and I am sure will remain so. Washington is close and may be won by either party. If she comes into the union by democratic votes, under a democratic administration, our chances in the new state will be all the better. It seems to be much the best plan to take in those three territories at once. They are entitled to it, and politically it will be as fair and equitable an arrangement as can be made."

Pocket Money for the Young.

*Teach your children to pay, or use of money. Begin with a small allowance of pocket-money, which they shall feel as their own, and let an account of its expenditure be made to them. Carefully guard against any rifle unless it there have been honest purchases for that will soon beget distrust, then follows deceit, and very soon you will never know what has become of the money. Kindly advise, so that if your boy is tempted to spend his money in a way he knows is wrong, he will freely come to you and tell of it. And you will positively compelled to do it, do not withdraw your allowance. It may be that you will find no other way to cripple a career of wasteful and small extravagance, but let no effort be made in other ways first. Teach your boys to earn a little for themselves. Many little ways will suggest themselves. It is so much more delightful to them as well as to enjoy the pleasure that it is always well to encourage all such endeavor. We know a mother who pinches, shaves all her other possessions, a part of good sleeve buttons purchased with the best money she may ever earned, and though there is no business for himself, we fancy he never invested any money more cheerfully than just—ours, hers which plus interest, or equal thereto equity.

A Novel Bird-Trap.

A bucket filled with water was set in the yard of a Huntingdon street resident recently when a young 2-year-old of the house with nearline proclivities set in upon pell-mell in it. Next came a thirty-fourth pigeon, the pride of a neighbor's flock, when perched on the edge of the milk pail and leaned over to watch the whole with the water in the bucket. But lean Newton's law asserted itself, the pell centered with the weight of the pigeon, and carried the bird back towards its edge and the side of the bucket. The young duffer fairly surprised with astonishment as he saw the disappearing tail of the bird sticking up out of the water, and the amount of energy he was about to exert was not in proportion to the occasion. The pigeon came from a neighbor and—no pedigree. Exchange.

THE DETROIT

FREE PRESS

The Representative Michigan Newspaper

The Best, Largest, Cheapest, and Most Enterprising.

The Daily Free Press

will be found to contain

All the Telegraphic News,
All the Political News,
All the Commercial News,

All the State News,
All the Foreign News,
All the Domestic News,

All the Social News,
All the Sporting News,
All the Amusement News,

All the Literary News,
All the Religious News,
All the Educational News,

All the Live Ball News,

And all other kinds of News and Interesting Miscellany that men and women of intelligence want to read.

The Detroit Free Press is the only sheet in this whole wide land that pays for all the News. Nothing left out, regardless, or thoroughly! You look at your paper to find what you want. As to the one fifty pages of the Ledger.

That the paper, large, handsome, clean and small. The news is so condensed, so well arranged, so "Thoroughly and value just folded out of it."

The Free Press is a pure family newspaper that your wife and children can read without injury to their morals. It is an educator, and in order to keep up with the industrial, scientific and literary life of the day, every family should take it.

A paper for every day in the year. Price: $7.00 a year, or 15 cents a week

The Weekly Free Press

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

is a large eight page, fifty-six column family newspaper, suitable for the farmer, the mechanic, and all others who do not wish to take a daily paper. It is an epitome of the Daily Free Press, and is a live, progressive, and interesting weekly journal, full of good things. Note the following remarkable

COMBINATION OFFERS!

Farm and Home	$1 10
Weekly Inter-Ocean	1 70
Your Country Home	1 25
Weekly Detroit Tribune	1 50
Weekly Advance	1 25
Youth's Hearth	1 35
Detroit Weekly Union	1 50
Ladies' Home Journal	1 75
Free Press Magazine	1 50

SPLENDID PREMIUMS FOR CLUBS.

Send for a Free Sample Copy and Catalogue of our Special Combination and Premium Offers.

Address the Free Press Co. Detroit, Mich.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration.

Published in the City of New York,

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting

FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press;

Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and
Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability, the whole forming a paper crowded with good things from cover to cover.

Contributions by distinguished American and foreign writers will appear.

THE DAILY STAR,

The Daily STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondents in Washington, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Rome, give it a command of

Washington, Albany, and other news centers, and its editorial and other contributions by the ablest writers of the day, make it a journal of

Exclusive Influence

Its Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and reliable.

Its Telegraphic and extraordinary Incidents in agenda and correspondence, send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co.'s Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where we are authorized to contract for advertising in NEW YORK.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

Groceries and Provisions,
Dry Goods and Blankets,
Hardware and Queensware,
Boots, Shoes and Rubbers,
Hats, Caps and Clothing,
In Full Assortment at
Pine Lake Iron Company's Supply Store,
IRONTON, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

THE PLACE TO BUY SAP PAILS

SAP PANS, SAP SPILES

(Job and Tin Work) L. D. Bartholomew & Co. Opera Block.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

PERRY WEED,
DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,
OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

"Facts to be Remembered."

NIMROD PLUG TOBACCO

IS THE BEST CHEW, THE GREATEST SELLER, and more of it is used than any other plug in the State. It is always in good order, NEVER HARDENS AND NEVER SWELLS, and it is conceded by all who use it to be the NIMROD IS THE CHOICE OF THE CHEWER.

Never sold in bulk, always in a tin tag, and none of any other brand of Tobacco. For sale by all jobbers and retailers.

S. W. VENABLE & CO.

Petersburg, Va.

W. W. WAGAR. R. C. WAGAR.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars, and Confectionery. Agents for Lorillard's Tobacco, Fresh Bread and Temperance Drinks. Cor. Main and Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

The most popular Weekly Scientific Journal. Best illustrated paper in the world. Every man who reads should have a copy. Every intelligent man should read it. Every man who is interested in any art, science, or manufacture should read it. Every man who is interested in the progress of the world should read it. It contains the Scientific Discoveries, Inventions, Improvements, Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, Electricity, Mining, Agriculture, and Manufactures of the world. Its Editorial Department is conducted by a corps of the ablest scientific and practical writers in the country. Its Mechanical Department is fully given without charge, to patents obtained through Munn & Co. Hundreds of patents are allowed every week. The annual subscription to the Scientific American is three dollars a year, which includes the issue of over 500 pages of letter press, and 500 engravings. Sent free. Address, MUNN & CO., Office SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, 37 Park Row, New York.

A GIFT Send to cents postage, and we will send you free a valuable pamphlet containing the laws and decisions relative to patents, trade marks, and how to obtain them. Also, a brief description of the patent office and how to procure a patent in the United States and foreign countries. Address, MUNN & CO., Office SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, 37 Park Row, New York.

WIN money and honor. Any person can make big pay by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. Outfit free. Address, HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Feb. 19, 1886.

CHARLEVOIX POSTOFFICE.

Winter Arrangement.

OFFICE HOURS 7.30 A. M. TO 7.30 P. M.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

ARRIVE	DEPART.
11 00 a. m.	10 00 a. m.
12 30 p. m.	12 45 p. m.
3 00 p. m.	1 15 p. m.
7 00 p. m.	2 40 p. m.

Mails will not be delivered nor orders issued for money until the expiration of one hour after the arrival of the mail.

Mails are made up for the departure of trains as follows:

Chicago	12 30 p. m.
Petoskey	1 45 p. m.
Boyne City	1 45 p. m.
Boyne Falls	1 45 p. m.
Ironton	12 30 p. m.
Charlevoix	12 30 p. m.
Mackinaw	1 45 p. m.
Traverse City	1 45 p. m.
Alba	1 45 p. m.
Bellaire	1 45 p. m.
Central Lake	1 45 p. m.
Eastport	1 45 p. m.
Alden	1 45 p. m.
Kewadin	1 45 p. m.
Ellsworth	1 45 p. m.
Antrim	1 45 p. m.
Mancelona	1 45 p. m.
Alpena	1 45 p. m.
Detroit	1 45 p. m.
Grand Rapids	1 45 p. m.
Lansing	1 45 p. m.
Saginaw	1 45 p. m.
Bay City	1 45 p. m.
Alma	1 45 p. m.
Ludington	1 45 p. m.
Manistee	1 45 p. m.
Traverse City	1 45 p. m.
Petoskey	1 45 p. m.
Boyne City	1 45 p. m.
Boyne Falls	1 45 p. m.
Ironton	12 30 p. m.
Charlevoix	12 30 p. m.
Mackinaw	1 45 p. m.
Traverse City	1 45 p. m.
Alba	1 45 p. m.
Bellaire	1 45 p. m.
Central Lake	1 45 p. m.
Eastport	1 45 p. m.
Alden	1 45 p. m.
Kewadin	1 45 p. m.
Ellsworth	1 45 p. m.
Antrim	1 45 p. m.
Mancelona	1 45 p. m.
Alpena	1 45 p. m.
Detroit	1 45 p. m.
Grand Rapids	1 45 p. m.
Lansing	1 45 p. m.
Saginaw	1 45 p. m.
Bay City	1 45 p. m.
Alma	1 45 p. m.
Ludington	1 45 p. m.
Manistee	1 45 p. m.

CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

We wish to call special attention to our new and fashionable snow excluder and boot-tree rubber. A very valuable article. Uprichard & Emrey.

Buy a pound of New Era Baking Powder of U. & E. and get a beautiful cup, saucer and plate for 25 cents. Uprichard & Emrey.

A new line of underwear received daily. Gents' caps, socks, mittens, etc. Uprichard & Emrey.

Cash for hides at Jefferies'.

Fresh Oysters at Jefferies'.

Fresh fish, butter at Jefferies'.

Local Notes and News.

CHAS. J. STRANG, Editor.

A. W. Crouter is again out of town, at court at East Jordan this week.

Mrs. J. A. Gillett is on the sick list this week.

They have a regular old fashioned singing school at East Jordan.

Occasionally of K. of L. was organized at Ironton Monday evening.

A Washtenaw man in Cadillac on business, expects to return to day.

The weather was in town Sunday, to consider if he is homesick already.

Pop M. Jones meets Saturday evening at W. A. Smith's. All members expected to be present.

Michigan has 4,000 physicians and 2,500 health officers, and yet Ironton has a representative of either class.

O. I. Wheat and wife returned home from St. Johns to-day. W. H. Garland family are expected on Saturday next week.

The supply store at Ironton has a supply of ice, in this issue. Look it over, and when you are at Ironton examine the goods.

One stove takes 20 inch wood and we will accept any quantity of it, so, to accommodate those of our subscribers who have it on hand.

Moved—At the parsonage by the Rev. A. T. Iddings, February 15th, Mr. John S. McIntosh, and Miss Sergia Cooper. Both of Marion.

Steve Millard and wife, who have been visiting relatives and friends in Middlebury, this state, for two weeks, returned home Tuesday very much pleased with their trip.

Married—By the Rev. J. T. Id dings, at the residence of A. E. Myers, February 14th, Mr. Caleb Vanzant, and Miss Diana McClanahan. Both of Marion township.

C. H. Bellinger has not only added to his stock of jewelry during this past week, but exchanged much of Uncle Stock for new. He now has a fine display in the latest styles.

Rev. C. F. VanAken received a telegram Saturday night from his brother in Potterville, Mich., stating that his wife was not expected to live. He accordingly left for that place on Monday.

Frank Crane of this city, will open a dry goods store at Charlevoix April 1st. Cadillac Democrat. The work on Mr. Crane's new block, the building Mr. Crane is to occupy, is progressing rapidly.

Student "Heart expands and cold contracts." Prof.—"Correct. Given example." Student—"Turning the summer the affections of city people for their country relations expand and in winter they contract."

Lewis Lamphere went to Chicago Monday to work at his father's trade. Mrs. Lamphere having recovered sufficiently from the severe accident she met with last fall to be left under the care of friends for a short time.

A. D. Cruickshank, the popular Charlevoix attorney, was in town Saturday on his way home from the Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows, at Big Rapids. Petoskey Correspondent of the Harbor Springs Independent.

Manistique indulged in a $12,000 fire last week.

A. J. Mudge placed the first whole sale order for flour with the new mill.

We have tried the flour from the new mill, and know it to be equal to the best in the market. Last night they ran out fifteen barrels after supper to meet the immediate demand.

Paraphernalia is a word that came to us from the Greek through the Latin. But the Smith & Cooper millinery firm can surpass Webster in defining it to the ladies. They have exhibited excellent taste both in the selection of their goods, and in the arrangement of the same for the inspection of their patrons.

There will be a Night Cap Social at the Barnard school house, on Saturday evening of this week, the proceeds of which are to benefit Rev. G. W. Howe, who has been laboring in that place during the past few weeks. A good supper will be provided, and admission will be only 25 cents.

The oyster supper at the Congregational church, under auspices of the Baptist church was a success. The ladies wearied themselves, we were about to say overtoil, to entertain their guests sumptuously. He who could not get his money's worth, is a commercial failure in matters of diet.

Their Norwood friends, assisted by a notable company from Charlevoix, dropped in upon Mr. and Mrs. Meech last Saturday evening, bringing with them a fine array of silverware, that being the 25th anniversary of their marriage. Regardless of the complete surprise, the company was provided for with launtesque hospitality.

John B. Alden, the publisher of good books at low prices, is just now issuing a Cyclopedia of Universal Literature. The work has cost years of labor, in planning and preparation, and is a work indispensible to any complete library. The price brings it within the reach of all. Dr. Lossing, the eminent historian and author, says of it: "I am strongly impressed with the great intrinsic value of the work as a popular educator in a high department of learning. The plan is admirable. Combining as it does a personal knowledge of an author with specimens of his or her best literary productions, gives it an unstimable power for good among the people." The work is being published in parts of 160 pages each, paper covers, at the price of 15 cents, also in very handsome cloth bound volumes, gilt tops, 480 pages, for 60 cents. The parts can be exchanged for bound volumes, at any time. Four parts are now ready, also the first bound volume; volume two will be issued in a few days. The publisher's 132 page illustrated catalogue of standard books may be had for 10 cents, or condensed 15 page catalogue free. John B. Alden, Publisher, New York; G. W. Crouter, agent in this town.

The "Kicking" Era Past.

Speaking of our rejoicing in our new mill the Petoskey Record says: "Charlevoix folks and Charlevoix county farmers will be kicking in due time. No flour is ever popular in the town where it is made, and there are no farmers any where who don't think the miller gouges them. Milling is the quiearest business under the sun, and the notions of people about flour are wonderful and past finding out."

We think our friend is mistaken. The kicking era went out of date with the old process. Any just cause for kicking must be found either in shortage of quantity or defective quality. Shortage of quantity can not occur in the new Charlevoix mill, for this is not a custom or toll mill. The wheat is weighed in, and the flour, bran, and middlings weighed out. Defective quality could arise from either of two sources, poor wheat or poor machinery. Now Messrs. Rifenburg & Co. do not propose to flour any poor wheat. They will not sell their machinery with it. If a farmer allows his wheat to grow or become musty, he must sell it to shippers of poor wheat and not to makers of good flour, and then buy his flour. Or, if he wishes it ground here, in justice to the company he must bring 20 bushels of good grain to clean the mill with after his grist is ground. In this case the quantity and quality is just what there is in the wheat he brings, since you cannot get any more out of a thing than there is in it. As to machinery, fail are from this source is impossible. The best machinery made for the purpose is here, and working admirably, put in by a reliable firm, the John Hutchison Mfg. Co., of Jackson, Mich. Moreover, we are not writing out a plausable theory of the case. We can refer you to many examples in substantiation thereof. An instance we are most familiar with is that of Colby & Buskirk, of Dowagiac, Mich. Not less than nine-tenths of the flour used in the city is from that mill, and the other tenth is poor quality and pretends to nothing else. The roller process has made the saying that "the dust on an honest miller's back will cure sore eyes," no longer a proverb.

A Foul Murder.

Peter Higgins, a farmer, living about seven miles east from Eastport, was missed from home by his neighbors about ten days ago. Mrs. Higgins replied to their queries concerning her husband's whereabouts, that he was gone from home on business for a short time. But Mrs. Higgins intimacy with her husband's nephew, and a quarrel which had previously occurred, led to suspicions that all was not right. Mrs. Higgins and the nephew went to East Jordan, and the suspicious neighbors embraced the opportunity to search for the missing man. Their efforts were successful. The body of Mr. Higgins was found beneath the manure pile, covered by about two feet of earth and the manure replaced. The body was bruised and gashed, especially about the head. An old broken axe bearing blood stains, is evidently the instrument of death used.

An inquest was held early yester day morning, upon the strength of which the murdered man's wife and nephew were arrested in East Jordan yesterday and taken to jail at Bellaire, to await trial at the next term of circuit court.

The Historical Society.

As we were prevented from attending the meeting last week, we can give only the bare program in this issue.

Instrumental solo.—Miss Bertha Mills.

Select reading from various authors on Connecticut.—Mr. John Nichols.

Vocal quartet, "Molly Grame,"—Misses Minnie Lewis and Flora Nelson, and Messrs Al. Washburn and Gard Brown.

Paper, "Peter the Great." Miss Sada Miller.

Select reading, "The Yankee Schoolmaster."—Mrs. Dr. Curtistein.

Instrumental solo,—Miss Addie Campau.

Next Friday evening the society will meet at O. D. Wood's. Paper by Chas. J. Strang on "Chinese Gordon."

G. A. R. at Ironton.

Maj. R. H. Green, assisted by nine comrades of Baxter Post, G. A. R., mustered in the Ironton Post, No. 340, on the 16th inst. The following are the names of the officers:

C.—Wm. M. Smith.
S. V. C.—Edmund Jackson.
J. V. C.—Geo. E. Beardsley.
Adjt. Stephen McGregor.
Surg.—Lyon O-tash qua-hon-tee.
Chap.—Henning Frizzell.
Q. M.—James D. McKee.
O. G. Ernstus B. Hodge.
O. G. Robert F. Prosper.
G.—John Hammond.

M. E. Church.

Services at the M. E. church next Sunday, preaching at the morning hour by the pastor. Followed by the Sunday school, to which all are invited. The young people's meeting at 6 o'clock. It is taking on excellent interest, and is quite a factor in the church work.

A musical study and practice, led by the pastor, on Tuesday evening.

Rev. J. T. Iddings will preach at Ironton next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock, standard time.

Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unsurpassed. Full pounds 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

GRAND WIND UP!

Our recent Special Sales have far exceeded our expectations. The people know that We Live up to our Promises every time, and when we advertise an article below its value, we are not conveniently out of it. Deception does not pay! Now we have to say that, owing to a contemplated

CHANGE IN OUR BUSINESS

Recently decided upon, we are compelled to close out our entire stock immediately, and in order to save time and expense we have determined to limit the sale to sixty days. The first loss is the best, and so Everything goes

REGARDLESS OF VALUE.

Our stock is now the largest and best in Charlevoix, with a full line of Staple Goods, and nothing is reserved.

We Have a Fine Assortment

Of Foreign and Domestic Dry Goods, Silks, etc. Cottons of all kinds, Underwear, Hosiery, Gloves, Flannels, Shawls, Cloths, Trimmings, etc. Besides a Complete assortment of Crockery, Glassware, Lamps and Lamp Goods.

An Immense stock of

GROCERIES,

Of Every Description.

Flour, Feed, Meal and Provisions, Etc.

Come early, before any assortments are broken and we will show you a picnic.

J. L. HURD & CO.

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

Houssaye's Anecdotes.

The elder Dumas was asked to contribute a sou toward the funeral expenses of a poor cobbler, or bailiff. "Here are 40 francs," said Dumas; "bury two." He was, as everybody knew, most liberal. "I have never refused money to anybody except to my creditors." he would often remark. One day Houssaye was at breakfast with him at Monte Cristo, when an actor's wife, poorly attired, but too timid to ask for assistance, called upon Dumas. The latter understood the situation at once. "My poor child," said he, "the sun is very fierce just now. How can you walk without a sunshade?" And he slipped a 500-franc note into the young woman's hand, adding, "Go and buy yourself one." As she moved off he concluded merrily, "If you will come and see me on a rainy day I will give you enough to purchase an umbrella."

Count Colonna Walewski, an illegitimate son of Napoleon I., wrote a comedy, "L'Ecole des Femmes," which was acted with immoderate results at the Theater Francaise. M. Thiers said to Walewski: "Why did you do that? It is so difficult to write a five-act comedy and so easy not so write a five-act comedy."

Gen. Fleury was one of the emperor's boon friends. After the empire had fallen he gradually sank out of sight. One day Rouvayre had him at dinner, and assigned him the seat of honor. "I am not used to this," remarked Fleury. "See the uncertainty of things in this world. There was a time when old Baron de Rothschild gave me the seat of honor—perhaps because my wines were no worse than his. After the war he invited me, but I was placed in the second choir, then in the third, and finally I found myself at the lower end of the table. It was quite natural. I had to come after ambassadors, ministers, and other official personages. As scripture says, 'The first shall be last.'" Fleury, too, was the man who observed concerning a miserly senator, "Old he devotes himself nothing—in other people's houses.

Merlines was another wit. Referring to M. Vernet, of the academy, he observed: "We must not speak ill of his tragedies. At the siege of Leipsic he had one on his mind that he intended for Talma and the patient of Kinsea. A cannon ball removed the man from his mind but the tragedy saved him. The missile had not enough strength to go beyond the third act."

How They Trap Bears in Maine.

I usually build a cabin-house in the woods out of old stumps and decayed branches. I carry pine oil in around you know, and leave a little opening for the bear to go in, after he sees the coast and his courage is excited, catch some suckers or other kind of fish in the river in this cabin. Then I try to fix the trap so that the bear will have to step on the trencher if he gets the fish. A bear never steps on a log in his path, but always steps over it. I usually fix the trap on Turner side of a log or branch so that he will be pretty sure to step over the log and into the trap. A knowing old bear won't go into one of these cubbies. Sometimes after trying to catch an old sassy bear in this way and not getting him, I have caught the old fellow by hanging a string of fish in a careless way on some tree, as if left there accidentally by some sportsman, and putting a trap underneath. Sometimes I find a track where a bear has a habit of fording a brook. I take away the stone in the brook which the bear steps on when he crosses, and put the trap in its place. When the bear feels after his old mud familiar stone, his foreepaw is caught in the trap.

Some bears have learned to smell a trap, so we have to kill the smell. We do that by smoking it over with hard and beeswax. I have twelve traps and visit 'em once a week. The bear is usually caught by the foreepaw. He doesn't live more than twenty-four hours after he gets down on him, as a general thing. In warm weather he pelt would soon spoil if I did not get it pretty quick after the critter died. The fur's in the best condition when the bears are bousing, late in the Fall. Then it is as nice as a merino sheep's wool. I get $3 to $15 a piece for my pelts. The bears spend the Winter in the lodges about here and under the stumps. Since we and their ancestors that blew down so many trees, there have been a lot of cozy places for bears around here.—Mr. Knapp, Veteran Trapper, to Lewiston Journal.

BEWARE

Coughs, colds, and slight throat diseases often develop into consumption, seated cough, consumption, etc., and should have immediate attention and be nursed in the first stages. Not only public speakers, but all, are liable to throat troubles and to obtain relief should use HAMPTON'S COUGH TROCHES, which relieve coughs, and hoarseness, making the articulation clear. Warranted to give satisfaction. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

SECURE ADMIRATION

Who can help admiring a lovely face, a clear, smooth, beautiful complexion? These can be easily obtained by the use of HAMPTON'S ORIENTAL BALM. It will surely remove freckles, tan, pimples, and blemishes of every sort and is in no way injurious to the skin, but is the most harmless and elegant preparation of its kind. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

TOOTHACHE.

Money is a great cure for aching hearts, but a twenty dollar gold piece placed on an aching tooth don't seem to have the least effect. In fact, nothing is sure cure but HAMPTON'S TOOTHACHE DROPS, which are warranted to cure in one minute. Price 25cts.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, followed by pain resembling that from some other cause, but which is aggravated by exertion. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness in the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles are cured by a single application of Dr. Benedict's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crouter. 1y

Farmers and Mechanics.

Save money and doctor bills. Believe your children, Wives and Sisters by timely purchase of Dr. Benedict's Cough and Lung Syrup, best remedy in the world for Coughs, Colds, Sore Lungs and Bronchial affections. Relieves Children of Croup in one night, may save you hundreds of dollars. Trial bottle, and $1.00. Sample free. Sold by G. W. Crouter.

Proper Treatment for Coughs.

That the result may fully understand what constitutes a good cough and Lung Syrup, we will say that for and What Dr's Benedict's Cough remedies are discovered. These ingredients are the most healing, soothing, and strengthening balsamic ever introduced into a cough and lung syrup. Has sales running from one to two years on the market. Price 50 cts., and $1.00. Sample free. Sold by G. W. Crouter.

MY DARLING, WHERE ART THOU?

BY NATHAN C. TRYON.

"Oh, my darling, where art thou? All vainly I search the off'ring, silent now,
Where once heard to heart spoke so plainly,
My true love, why linger so long?
I'all, ah, well! There is naught in these paintings
Which can give me words prayers denied—
Affect with a thrill of joy my heart, which shrinks
Silently in darkness, and keep from my sight.

I see the words through the forest mass lonely!
They are those of Will Neil, who fer years
Thought of my darling, and loved her in secret,
Yet worship unseen, and hoped for no reward.
Hark again! "Oh, my darling!" Thus ever
Sounds the emphasis, and will ever sound
Till her love can return to her never,
Through her eternal rest, or wake and hand.

Will that parting which poor Neil thus dimly
Felt of a wicked hope and unexpress'd longs
Prove and father that pad or which dimly
Hovers with dark brooding wings
For with her was the fault that her lover
Had lost hope, and, in despair, the end
Which so seem his retreat night discover,
He to find means strangers a grave.

Too late, all too late did her reason
Rule to submit back the fell fate
That had dared in means of base reason
Her lover to shed life's last path to die;
The tale of some false, sad and unmerited,
Unemployed, and, in despair, ended
A thank in her mind disembodied!

Hark, again through the dim sodens forest,
Hark, ye! Hark, ye! Hark, ye! "Oh, cries,
"I am with Christ, beside my Father!"
Hush, hushe to me, light of my eyes!
Call me home to the, sweet, sweet home!
Where I wait the door and die dear!"
Poor Neil! There is nothing on earth
A grief so profound and severe.

THE WIDOW'S SON.

BY M. C. WALSH.

"Father, I have a favor to ask of you," observed Ann Archdale, a beautiful girl of twenty, as her father came home from business one summer evening.

"Well, Amy dear, what is it you wish?" asked Everett Archdale, who was nervous and in great very reasonable request his fair daughter made.

"Have you a vacancy in your office for Robert Alger?" she asked, timidly, looking up into his calm face, anxiously.

"Robert Alger," repeated Mr. Archdale, reflectively, "how happens it that you take so much interest in the young man?"

Amy blushed and said earnestly, "Oh, papa, if you know what a hard struggle his poor widowed mother has to get along, you would not need to ask that question; and now Rob—it has returned from the West and is anxious to support, or even assist her, but cannot get a position."

"Well, my dear child, that is really too bad, but it is no affair of ours; still I am disposed to what I can to alleviate distress; so if you will have Mrs. Alger send Robert to the office to-morrow, I will see what I can do for him."

"Oh, thank you! thank you, papa." And the young lady's face became radiant with a flush of pleasure.

Amy Archdale was the only child of Everett Archdale, Esq., and heiress to his fine fortune and extensive estate at Elmwood.

Mr. Archdale was a wealthy merchant, who owned quite a number of ships engaged in foreign trade.

After dinner Amy dispatched a servant with a note to her friend, the Widow Alger, notifying her to send her son to the merchant's office on Wolfe-street street the following day.

Accordingly the young man presented himself, and, after a brief examination, Mr. Archdale being very well satisfied with his penmanship and general business qualifications, as well as his neat appearance and gentlemanly deportment, at once engaged him at a salary of ten dollars a week, which the young applicant was very glad to accept.

He applied himself eagerly to his duties, and at the call of six months was promoted to the full charge of the books with a hugely increased salary.

At length Mr. Archdale was so satisfied with Robert Alger that, noticing his health was being impaired by too close application to business, he determined to send Robert away on one of his ships as supercargo, hoping that a change of air and scene would prove beneficial.

Both Robert and his mother esteemed Miss Archdale highly for her kindly assistance and their departure, and the former had learned to love her, though on account of the disparity in their social standing he felt obliged to suppress all tender feelings other than those of sincere friendship.

Still when at length he bade her adieu and sailed on the Elm Fairfax, it was with the fondly cherished hope that he might by a juste-ture investment of the funds saved from his salary be able to lay the foundation of a comfortable competence, and in the future reach that station which he felt it was essentially requisite to attain in order to aspire to her hand.

He was, however, mistaken in his interpretation of her character.

Shortly after his departure Amy invited Mrs. Alger, a bright, clever little woman, educated and refined, to take up her abode in the Archdale mansion and be her companion, to which the widow gracefully assented.

Amy had many eligible admirers, and one among their number, Gilbert Ashwood, was her favorite suitor.

This gentleman, an aristocratic young attorney, was engaged to be married to the vivacious little beauty.

Time elapsed, and the ship upon which Robert Alger had sailed was reported lost!

It was now nearly a year since that disparable event, and the Widow Alger was still dwelling at the Grange, her associates with Amy Archdale being in a measure a compensation for the loss of her son.

She still, however, maintained her belief in his escape; refused to abandon hope, and the conviction that Robert was yet alive was her greatest consolation.

One day a sad calamity befell Everett Archdale!

He became suddenly collapsed, and he found himself a bankrupt and almost penniless!

The fine mansion went with the rest, and the Archdales were obliged to take up their abode in a humble cottage. Poor Amy and Mrs. Alger opened a private school.

Before their departure from the Grange, however, Gilbert Ashwood had an interview with Amy, during which he coolly asked that in view of her recent change from affluence to poverty he could not reasonably be expected to marry her. Without waiting for the conclusion of her fervent lovely speech, Amy released him from the engagement.

She had loved him with all the lofty affection of her young heart, and thought him worthy of all his pride; but now that he had shown himself to have been actuated by the most mercenary motives in seeking her hand, she began to realize that after all it was a blessing that her father had lost his property, or she was thereby saved from a life of misery with one who did not love her.

The day appointed for the sale of the Archdale mansion at public auction at length arrived. A large crowd was assembled. It was too high, and the property, accordingly, after deliberate proceedings, "knocked down" to a tall young man with dark complexion and a foreign appearance, evidently a stranger at Elmwood.

He made the necessary deposit to the amount, promising to call at the latter's office in the afternoon with the balance, and requesting him to have the deeds ready to transfer at that time, after which he retired to his hotel.

Nobody seemed to know who the young man was, and when she heard the news Amy was as much astonished as the rest.

That night while she was reading to her father, a knock suddenly sounded on the street door.

She answered the summons, and behold a tall young man, singularly dark and handsome, standing on the porch.

"Does Mr. Archdale reside here?" asked the stranger, pleasantly.

"Yes, sir," replied Amy; "please come in." And she led the way to the humble little parlor, and, closed the door after which she retired to Mr. Archdale, entered the room.

"Mr. Everett Archdale?" queried the stranger.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, Mr. Archdale, I am the young man who purchased your estate today."

"Yes."

"Then you do not know me?" asked the visitor, standing up and coming aside his fine board and other disguises.

"As I live, it is Robert Alger!" exclaimed Mr. Archdale, in astonishment.

"That is my name, sir," admitted Robert (for it was indeed he) in reply.

Explanations followed.

The ship upon which Robert had sailed, nearly two years since, had foundered in the Indian Ocean on her outward voyage. Himself, one of the mates, and two sailors were the sole survivors.

They had subsisted on one of the quarter-boats, and after having drifted about under the brazen glare of the tropic tropical sun for three days, and spent four dreary nights tossing about on the desolate waste of waters, they were eventually picked up by a passing ship and landed at Alexandria, where Robert had until recently remained.

He had managed to secure his money before leaving the sinking ship, and at once engaged in business at Sidney, intending, if successful, to return home after a while and acquire his mother.

His business enterprise prospered; and at the end of the first year he had accumulated a snug little fortune.

He determined to return home, and then determined to return home, as he felt assured he had an ample competency to offer him a handsome capital with which to engage in business in his native city—Philadelphia.

Accordingly he came home, via San Francisco.

During his wanderings in the West in early youth he had staked several claims which had been left in charge of a reliable partner.

These were located in Idaho, but as he had heard nothing from his partner in some years, he determined to visit the place on his way home.

He did so, and was surprised to find his claims in the hands of strangers and paying handsomely.

On inquiring, he learned that his partner was dead and these strangers had taken full possession three or four years since, managing all rights.

As he still retained his papers, however, he placed the matter in the hands of a lawyer, who was instructed to institute immediate proceedings against the intruders.

Mrs. Alger was nearly overcome by the intensity of her joy when she was led into the room to meet her long lost son.

Amy was quite overjoyed that her lover had turned up safe and with great joy, the scene was indeed an affecting one to their witnesses.

Amy greeted the wanderer with the cordiality of sincere friendship.

Robert had heard the whole story of his mother's misfortunes, and was greatly pleased with the manner in her double service.

This was mainly the incentive that had induced him to assume his disguise and purchase the homestead when it was sold by the Sheriff.

"Oh, Mr. Alger, how kind you were to buy our home—and sure it was strange—I shall certainly feel privileged to visit you mother frequently when she takes up her abode there," said Amy, as she, following the time in the guide when he was about to return to his hotel.

"Do you shall, Miss Archdale," he faltered. "But—but—why can you not take up your abode there, too, so—"

He hesitated, for his heart throbbed so wildly that it seemed to check his faltering utterance.

Finally, however, he made a desperate effort to control his feelings and continued to measure:

"As my wife, dearest Amy, for God knows I love you with all my heart!"

An ecstatic feeling of joy thrilled through Amy's frame as she sweetly murmured:

"So be it, Robert; you are a noble man, and I can desire no better husband."

Needless to say that when they were married Mr. Everett Archdale returned to his former home.

Robert's lawyer and West soon after rendered with him, making a handsome figure which he had been able to find for right and title to the mines, and the young man instructed him to sell.

So after all the Archdales were restored to their old home through the instrumentality of the Widow's Son.

VOLTAIRE said of the English: "When I see an Englishman who is proud and sensual, I know he is of Norman descent—that his ancestors came over with William the Conqueror. The Englishman who is affable and friendly is of Saxon lineage. The brutal Englishman has Danish blood in his veins. Your nation is like your language—made up of many different elements.

THE number of the asteroids is now two hundred and fifty. No. 249 was discovered by the veteran Peters, at Clinton, N. Y., on August 14th, and No. 250 on September 24, at Vienna, by Palisa.

AN electrical signal travels at the rate of 16,000 miles per second.

RAILROAD TRAVELERS.

BY B. J. BURDETTE.

Now there shiloh on the railway car, and travel up and down the land heroes, the citizen whose name is Legion. This man is high, and the proper, sensible, Legion County, and this is the manner of man he is.

He of him fifteen politics. From the time he getteth upon the train until he departeth off he talketh the local politics of Beddingson County into the ears of the stranger from Jersey-ania, who knoweth about as much on politics far less than the dog at the top pen knoweth about the new star in Andromeda.

And moreover of him is the man who gets earwig-ly. Never a train yet ran upon wheels that did not carry some such by. The brakeman, with the rich bass voice, opens the front door and drinks, in ear-splitting falsetto, "Wood-ooo!" Blood-hoo!" Then the brakeman, with the deep bass voice, opens the rear door and roars, "Blood-hoo! Wood-ooo!" The train boy goes down the aisle with his books and apples and squeals, "Wood-hawwwooo-ooo!" A lady enters the conductor, who says in tones of cooing grace, "Tickets!" and oftentimes anthesis, "Blood-ooo! Wood-hoo!" Then the train stops, the passenger raises a window and looks out at the village. Ten miles further on the brakeman with the bass voice opens the door, a cinder flies into his eye, and he shrieks in agony, he gasps feebly and martyr-ably, "Washmanwashan." The astonished passenger springs to his feet. "Winchester Junction!" he howls; "why in the name of goodness didn't you tell me when we came to Woodawn? Now I can't get home till to-morrow morning! I'll report you for neglecting to call out stations, see if I don't!"

And there is the man who gets off the train every time it stops, rushes down the platform, gets in everybody's way, forms his way into the waiting-room and inquires of the agent if he can get out, pears into the ticket orifices, always wants to know "Where the answer-ing bell-rings?" and "Where the telegraph operator is?" Never wends a telegram; never knows what to do if the operator is at his post; always gogs into the baggage car to see if he can discover his own trunk, which was put on ten hours and a half ago; gets thumped with trunks and pinched by trucks, gets deeper in the way every time he tries to get out of it, never seems anybody he knows on the whole trip, and would be amused if he knew the miles in his seat so little of the time that it doesn't pay him to claim it when he gets off for fear of the impression that is the only time he wants it.

And there is the man who is familiar with all the train men; he calls the conductor "George" and the brakeman "Johnny," and stands in the door of the dining station by their first names. If, however, he speaks to a fellow passenger he calls him "Say, you." He stops the conductor when that colonel in the basinet to ask him about brakemen on freight trains of whom the conductor never heard; nor my other man, possibly. He calls the length of the car to the newsboy, to know if he has "ninety-seven," and if "Bill Sloat is runnin' her to-day? His withering contempt for passengers is something immeasurably painful to the unhappy people who are obliged to travel. This man, whom you have often met, has two or three origins. He usually lives on a trip pass, and he knows the ticket office, he knows the agent, he knows the Superintendent's place. He isn't a railroad man, but he's glad he's his agent. If he could make the people think he is.

There are two men in a seat near the stove exchanging recipes for rheumatism and other ills to which human flesh is heir. One of them had the "janders" all last spring. They "come near killin' him just as he was getting over a spell of "neuralgy" and left him just in time for two weeks' "kind with lumbago in the spine of his back." That isn't what ails him now, though. It's this "eczema in his system" and the things he has been and is yet taking for it are numerous enough and various enough to kill off a county almshouse. The other man has "a malignant tumor" on his hip all winter, and the only thing his doctor could do with it was to throw him into a "bunched fever," the effects of which were still painfully apparent in stiffness and "severated sore-throat." Every time he "swallows" he'd "drather die's swoller agin." So these two sufferers while away weary hours telling each other infallible cures for all the things the other man has.

And then there are four other people on the train; they are an open party that ever turned a wheel—the two young people have just been married, and the omnipresent other two young people, the two who want to be married.

Importance of a Trained Military Staff.

That we may be able to keep pace with the rapid and unceasing improvements of modern arms and weapons, and adapt them to our peculiar needs, it is necessary that we should have ready and have a permanent establishment whose officers devote themselves exclusively to the military profession, while the non-commissioned officers and men remain long enough in the service to be given a thorough discipline and instruction.

In measuring the value of such a permanent establishment it is to be borne in mind that as it only can it perform such duties as are the control of the Indians, very much more efficiently and economically than any temporary force, but that, if maintained at a sufficiently high numerical standard, it stands ready to bear the first brunt of hostilities until new troops can be organized and constructed, that it affords the means of infusing discipline and instruction among these new troops, and that it furnishes the robust frames of the various staff corps, whose business is to direct the movements and supply the needs of such a vast and new troops. It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of these staff corps of the regular army, and it is one of the unavoidable necessities of our position to maintain them on a larger scale than is demanded by the current needs of the army on a peace footing.

Our ability to increase the strength of the army with rapidity, and to improve new armies, depends chiefly on it may perhaps justly be said entirely upon our maintaining in time of peace a large and thoroughly trained staff corps. Far from having too many, our organization is still deficient in the lack of sensibility corresponding to the magnificent "General Staff Corps" of the German army—a corps composed of the ablest and most highly trained officers of the most perfectly organized army the world has ever seen, and forming the most admirable and efficient military instrument of which history bears record.

It must not for a moment be forgotten that the mere drill in the tactics of the line of battle forms a very small part—although a very essential part of the instruction required to prepare troops for war.

The proper feeding and clothing of the men, the care of their health, the collection of the various supplies required, to, other with the formation and management of the requisite details and trains to insure their being on the spot at the right time and place, the determination of the most efficient arms and ammunition, the establishment of hospitals and field-hospital trains, the provision of the means for crossing rivers, the use of heavy and light artillery, the conduct of sieges, the attack and defense of posts, the collection of information as to the theater of war and the supplies it affords, of the movements and intentions of the enemy, guard and outpost duty, reconnaissances, marches, handling troops on the field of battle—in other words, the means required to put troops to the best possible use, or, in fact, to any use whatever—all this requires for its proper execution a combination of theory and practice, of education and experience, that can be acquired only through a regularly established Bureau.

A Wise Reform.

The habit of administering quinine in powerful doses, as an antidote to malarial maladies, was once dangerously common. Happily this practice has undergone a wide reform. Not quinine, but its substitute, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is now the remedy for all malarial complaints, and the results are very satisfactory. The constipation which so often changes are most important. Now fever and ague sufferers are cured, instead of their complaints were only for the time repressed, as formerly. Nervous debility, usually failing to produce any appreciable effect, even after the quinine had been pushed to the limit of safety, is now effectually cured by the Bitters; persistently followed, breaks up the malady, and the patient recovers health, strength, and flesh. The Bitters is a specific and household medicine in of no ambiguous or doubtful character, and malarious districts the sufferer whose ill proceeds are very numerous.

AMONG the miscellaneous articles purchased for the use of the United States Senators, and by them charged to the republic, are baronial envelopes, the English (yellow) variety, the Illustrated America magazines, including several pink-lined ones for ladies, and numerous sunshades, slacks, tragic pencils, whistles, silver and porcelain toothpicks, gold-headed canes, fancy boxes, gloves-hooks, card-plates and cards, pick-scissors, sugar spoons, Apollinaris water, granulated sugar, ginger ale, lemons, lemon-squeezes, dippers, tumblers, vases, a bowl for lemonade, "salts of tartar, spirits of ammonia, cordial Peruvian, lemonade, soft soap, and r. pairs to a tricycle.

The Great German Physician.

Three remarkable cures in the practice of Dr. Peter W. Schlatter, the great German Physician, are now added to his already long list of cures that tells such one their troubles without. Dr. Schlatter's success in pleasant. He sought after by hundreds, and he is sought after by hundreds every other physician and remedy have failed. Dr. Schlatter's German Remedy cures Coughs, Colds and Lung Food for Consumption, to be the surest and safest remedy known. Sold for a successful contradiction that there is no disease that they will not cure. Thousands of bottles have been sold. Thousands of testimonials are received and lavish words. Sold by druggists. Address Schlatter Medicine Company, Holland City, Mich. Price for Schlatter's German Remedy, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per bottle.

Free to Ministers, Lawyers, Doctors, and Teachers.

A well-known house will send two bottles of WARNER'S WHITE WINE OF TAR SYRUP—best remedy in the world for Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung Diseases—if you will recommend it to your friends, and get your dealer to order a dozen bottles from his wholesale druggist. Send name of your druggist. Map of Holy Land free with each order. Address DR. C. A. WARNER, Chicago, Ill. All druggists.

One of our children, a girl about nine years old, had a very bad sore throat from a cold and most of a thick yellowish matter, which formed over it. We had two different physicians prescribe for her, without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and were in her surprise in three days there was no more matter formed. We continued the use of the balm a few days longer, and the disease was apparently cured.—A. Gary, Cortland, N.Y.

PHILADELPHIA LOCK AND TOOLS and shoes with LENOX Steel Stiffeners, and no other insole.

Our Progress.

As stages are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts. By druggists.

MOTHERS and middle-aged men, suffering from nervous debility and kindred affections, as loss of memory and hypochondria, should inclose 10 cents in stamps for large illustrated pamphlet suggesting sure cure. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A cause is one of the new caps coals has the general appearance of a perambulating pneumonia.

CHILDREN'S AILMENTS, such as "constipation," disordered bowels, worms, and many other diseases so prevalent, can be successfully treated by the occasional use of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS. It is as safe and pleasant to take as milk, upon children as upon adults. It acts on the liver and cleanses the blood.

BECAUSE the baby is a little yeller, it's no sign he is a Pi'ate.—Boston Journal.

The bottle of Ely's Cream Balm that I obtained of you last summer has entirely cured me. Catarrh of a severe kind of twenty years.—Mrs. Sallie Davis, Grand Rapids, Mich.

BROWN'S CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

WANTED An active MAN or WOMAN in every town to introduce Dr. Bunting's Celebrated Corsets. Per Month and Expenses. Exclusive territory. Address, with stamp, Dr. BUNTING & CO., 1 Bunting Block, Chicago, Ill.

FAT, HANDS, FEET, Reduced. Harmless. Sealed Particulars 10c. Dr. Bunting, 1 Bunting Block, Chicago, Ill.

JAMES A. PERRY, Agent, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

FRENCH DRAFT HORSES! I offer for sale my entire importation of French Draft Horses to be found in France. All stallions warranted to be sure foal getters. Also a few mares, which are without a doubt the best lot of horses ever brought to America, and prices to suit purchasers. All which and more I can show to the people of Iowa, and I feel confident of selling them if they will give me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Stable in the city. Address, or call on, JAMES A. PERRY, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

These Discs represent the opposite sides of DS B. H. DOUGLAS & SONS' Capsicum Cough Drops Allay Coughs, Colds and Sore Throats, an Allevator of Consumption. Sold by druggists in boxes and in Drugs. CAUTION! BEWARE OF IMITATIONS! They are the most wonderful cough medicine in the world. Sample sent free. DOUGLAS & SONS, Detroit, Mich. Send price (25 cents) for a box. Sold by all druggists.

GLYDESDALE AND ENGLISH SHIRE HORSES. Thoroughbreds and Standard-bred Horses of the best breeding. Importers and breeders of Clydesdale, English Shire, Percheron and Norman Horses. Write for catalogue. Mention this paper. Address, PATTERSON & MCNEIL, Bloomington, Ill. Large importation just arrived. Also a few choice Jersey Cattle. Barring facilities have made it necessary to offer these fine horses at a sacrifice. Parties wanting a bargain should call soon. Also a few choice Shetland Ponies. Address, PATTERSON & MCNEIL, Bloomington, Ill.

GALESBURG, Janesville, Wis.

DROPSY TREATED FREE. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists for Thirteen Years Past, Have treated Dropsy—Tapping Not Used—Thousands Have Been Relieved. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Have Relieved all sufferers of Dropsy in Twenty Days. Remove all symptoms of Dropsy in Twenty Days. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Have Cured Dropsy in the last of Dropsy. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Have cured even the worst cases of Dropsy. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Have Cured Dropsy. Nothing without benefit. Nothing but Dropsy. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Specialists, Have cured

Around the County.

Ironton.

Rev. VanAuken preached at the M. E. church Sunday, to a large and intent congregation.

The people of Ironton are a church-going people. One week ago Revs. Billings and VanAuken preached at the same hour, both had good congregations.

The following is the program in Ironton for the present week. Monday eve. Organizing a society to be called the "Knights of Labor." We have not learned the particulars. Suppose there was a large and enthusiastic meeting. When told the initiation fee was one dollar we turned sadly away. Tuesday eve. Mustering of the G. A. R. boys by Major Green, of Charlevoix. We understand that they are now a full rigged boat, sailing under the name "The Iron Post of Ironton." This being another occasion where our attendance was respectfully declined, we cannot write particulars, but will endeavor to learn some facts for our next letter. Wednesday eve. Prayer meeting at the Ironton hotel. Thursday afternoon. Ladies' temperance prayer meeting, and Thursday eve. prayer and conference meeting at the M. E. church.

On Friday evening there will be a basket social at the home of Mr. F. C. Bird, proceeds to go toward paying the church debt.

Saturday evening a temperance lecture by Mrs. Benjamin, of the W. C. T. U., is announced.

We are glad to note that our invalid friend S. M. McQueer, Esq. is on his feet again, and able to attend to the duties and responsibilities of the engine room.

Our friend A. M. Burdick has forty eight live hens in his new henery, and is very desirous of making it an even fifty. Pullocks are worth 15 cents and chickens 25 cents. A word to the wise is sufficient.

There will be an entertainment at the Ironton hotel, on Washington's birthday, Monday evening, the proceeds to go into the treasury of the young ladies' society. They will welcome any friends who may like to take advantage of the excellent sleighing and moonlight evenings.

Burgess.

No school in district No. 4, from Wednesday of last week until Monday of this week. The teacher, Miss Hannah Bell, had business in Charlevoix that required her presence there.

The lumbermen, who were broken off by the soft weather lay, week have quite a commenced operations.

A good time for hard colds, and quite a number of the inhabitants of our town are improving it.

Mrs. Hamlin has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Whitford, the past week.

A basket social at A. W. Chase's residence next Thursday evening, the proceeds to go for the benefit of Ben Wood who preaches at our school house.

We understand that I. Bacon, of Carpenter, is selling out, and intends to go into his farm, just out from Petoskey, in the spring.

The cold weather of week before last, has frozen a good many potatoes that were out in pits.

Marion.

Mrs. Reed is on the sick list.

Many of the farmers here are now hauling logs to Mr. Nicholls' mill.

We have quite good sleighing in this locality now.

Wood is beginning to move more freely than at any time before this winter.

Monday, the 15th inst., occurred the marriage of Miss Seraphs Coop er to John McIntosh, of the firm of McIntosh & Lynde. May they have a long and prosperous journey down life's pathway.

The G. R. & I. are clearing eight acres of land at Orlen and will make a beautiful park. They will also erect bath houses and run a "dummy" four times a day between that point and Petoskey.—Kalamazoo Telegraph.

"Baby Mine," a Long-limb pullet owned by Dr. W. J. Miller, of Hat the Creek won a $50 prize at Cairo, Ill.

The tug Pendleton went down at Cheboygan, by being caught in the ice.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. L. E. Allen, on Friday, at 3 p. m. All the ladies are cordially invited to attend.

Under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. S. C. Benjamin will deliver a temperance lecture at the Congregational church, next Sunday evening. All are respectfully invited to be present.

Rev. Mr. Parmenter's Address.

Our temperance matter being already in the hands of the printer, this synopsis of Mr. Parmenter's address was unavoidably postponed until this issue of the JOURNAL. In giving this synopsis we cannot expect to convey the full effect of the address upon the audience. If we can preserve the statistics and set the reflective imagination of our people upon them again, our purpose will be accomplished.

The text was Acts xxiv 25. A reason for the greater importance attached to the subject of temperance by christian people, and especially ministers is found in the increased activity of christians and the greater intensity of christian thought. Aroused and quickened by the missionary spirit of the age, christianity imitating the example of the Master, preaches, and practices a gospel of interference. Another reason is found in the fact that the evils of intemperance have increased out of all proportions, to the increase of population. From 1820 to 1870 the per cent of increase in population was 29, and that of intemperance was 31. From 1870 to 1880 the corresponding figures are respectively 33 and 70.

Fifty, or even thirty years ago the monster vice sneaked into its dens of desecration and seemed tolerably content to live a life of infamy and shame. Now the hydra headed monster, without a pretense to modesty, claims the protection of law. It rejoices in its privilege of paying its blood money to the government, and then demands its victims by thousands and tens of thousands, with a pride of power that outdoes God, despises law, and defies control; as an organized body it corrupts juries, corrupts judges and legislators, and intimidates and murders officers engaged in enforcing the law. It packs caucuses and conventions, and holding the balance of power, compels concession from political parties, controlling government both local and national. These crimes of organized evil come in only as additions to the private characters of individual drunkards, as insane persons, thieves, debauchees, and mid-night assassins. Lulling to sleep both congress and the courts by waving its golden wand forged in the fires of hell; with equal pride it snatches its victims from the hovels of poverty and the halls of wealth, from untutored youth and disappointed age. How can we call it other than the mammoth evil of our day.

The fact that there are 104 saloons on the street leading from the white house to the capitol, serves as an illustration of the frequent and mighty temptation before the intemperately inclined. And the question of how to save all, and especially the young, from misery and disgrace, and eternal death, that lurks behind the tasseled surface of these inviting institutions, appeals to all in whom there yet remains a spark of human feeling. The appeal is made to our manhood, to our christianity, and to our ambition, to be of use in the world. There must be work for all to draw the sweat of self sacrifice. The weapons used must be more efficient than moral suasion. Every instrument of warfare God has put into our possession, we must wield wisely and well. We must guard our influence, keeping off from the gambler's premises, (to use an illustration from Sturgeon) although we should not gamble if we were there, remembering that our presence there may make a gambler out of some one else. And remembering the preamble of the constitution of the United States, the appeal to us as patriots comes with exceeding force. Let us inquire, in the spirit of the constitution, what influence or power more constantly and efficiently opposes the "general welfare" of "the people of the United States" than the rum traffic? The conclusion is immanent that all license laws are unconstitutional, and if they were not unconstitutional, they would still remain contrary to God's law, which says, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth the bottle to him and maketh him drunken also." If drunkenness be not a sin, why tax it? If it is a sin, it is a crime, and to license it makes the government a partner in the crime. License laws are contrary to the statement of Gladstone, that "It is the duty of the government to make it easy for the citizen to do right."

Finally, consider the subject in the light of the Yankee question "Does it pay?" Opening the ledger we find credited to the rum traffic $2,000,000 license fees. On the debit side are, 1st, $900,000,000 paid for rum; 2d, 30 per cent of increase of taxes; 3d, prosecution and punishment of crime, $2,000,000,000. While we look in these figures with the question before us, "does it pay," let the words of our favorite poet inspire us to activity:

"Sail on, O Union, strong and great;
Sail on, nor fear to invest the sea.
Our hearts, our hopes are all with thee,
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
Our faith, triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee, are all with thee."

WHEN A CURE IS GUARANTEED

Why will you refuse to be relieved of that cough which is liable to become seated on your lungs and to cause you many a suffering day and sleepless night? Your children are liable to be taken with croup and die before a doctor can be summoned. Be wise and obtain a remedy that will not fail to give relief from coughs, colds, whooping cough, croup, and all other lung difficulties. HAMLTON'S COUGH BALSAM will do this and costs but a dollar. Prices 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by the G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Ironton.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed by Mary Blackwood to Mills Eaton and Edson J. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, on Mary J. Wednesday, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in Liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of Eighty-eight and forty-eight cents, including principal and interest and no action or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Thursday the twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz: The south half of the south east quarter of the quarter post between sections twenty-five (25) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four (34), north of range eight (8) west, thence due south twenty (20) and 75-100 chains, thence east twenty (20) and 75-100 chains, thence due north twenty (20) and 75-100 chains to the quarter post between sections twenty-six (26) and thirty-five (35), thence west along said section line to the place of beginning, containing eight and 58-100 acres, more or less. Also the south half of the north east quarter of the north west quarter of section twenty-six (26), in township thirty-four (34) north, range eight (8) west, containing twenty-eight and 75-100 acres, more or less, together with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 25th, 1886.

MARY J. MCLLAHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Blackwood to Mills Eaton and Edson J. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, on Mary J. Wednesday, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in Liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of Eighty-eight dollars and forty-eight cents, including principal and interest and no action or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Hayes, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz:

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1885.

HIRAM MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MANN,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage, made and executed by Jesse Bennett, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the twelfth day of November, A. D. 1883, to Hiram Miller, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourteenth day of November, A. D. 1883, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of Eighty-eight and forty-eight cents, including principal and interest and no action or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Hayes, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz:

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1885.

HIRAM MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MANN,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage, made and executed by Jesse Bennett, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the twelfth day of November, A. D. 1883, to Hiram Miller, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourteenth day of November, A. D. 1883, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 52, which said mortgage was on the 23d day of December, 1884, assigned by said John J. Hood to Frederick W. Mann, by instrument of assignment duly recorded in the Register's office for Charlevoix county, in liber 1 of mortgages on page 400, and on the 12th day of December 1885, was assigned by said Frederick W. Mann to Hugh Miller, said assignment being recorded in the Register's office for Charlevoix county, in liber 1 of mortgages on page 400, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of one hundred and ninety six and 15-100 dollars, so principal and interest, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Hayes, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz:

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1885.

HIRAM MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MANN,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Blackwood to Mills Eaton and Edson J. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, on Mary J. Wednesday, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in Liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of Eighty-eight and forty-eight cents, including principal and interest and no action or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz: The south half of the south east quarter of the quarter post between sections twenty-five (25) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four (34) north, range eight (8) west, thence due south twenty (20) and 75-100 chains, thence east twenty (20) and 75-100 chains, thence due north twenty (20) and 75-100 chains to the quarter post between sections twenty-six (26) and thirty-five (35), thence west along said section line to the place of beginning, containing eight and 58-100 acres, more or less. Also the south half of the north east quarter of the north west quarter of section twenty-six (26), in township thirty-four (34) north, range eight (8) west, containing twenty-eight and 75-100 acres, more or less, together with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 25th, 1886.

MARY J. MCLLAHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Blackwood to Mills Eaton and Edson J. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, on Mary J. Wednesday, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in Liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of Eighty-eight and forty-eight cents, including principal and interest and no action or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz:

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1885.

HIRAM MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MANN,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage, made and executed by Jesse Bennett, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the twelfth day of November, A. D. 1883, to Hiram Miller, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourteenth day of November, A. D. 1883, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 52, which said mortgage was on the 23d day of December, 1884, assigned by said John J. Hood to Frederick W. Mann, by instrument of assignment duly recorded in the Register's office for Charlevoix county, in liber 1 of mortgages on page 400, and on the 12th day of December 1885, was assigned by said Frederick W. Mann to Hugh Miller, said assignment being recorded in the Register's office for Charlevoix county, in liber 1 of mortgages on page 400, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of one hundred and ninety six and 15-100 dollars, so principal and interest, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Hayes, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz:

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1885.

HIRAM MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MANN,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Blackwood to Mills Eaton and Edson J. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, on Mary J. Wednesday, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in Liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of Eighty-eight and forty-eight cents, including principal and interest and no action or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz: The south half of the south east quarter of the quarter post between sections twenty-five (25) and thirty-five (35), in township thirty-four (34) north, range eight (8) west, thence due south twenty (20) and 75-100 chains, thence east twenty (20) and 75-100 chains, thence due north twenty (20) and 75-100 chains to the quarter post between sections twenty-six (26) and thirty-five (35), thence west along said section line to the place of beginning, containing eight and 58-100 acres, more or less. Also the south half of the north east quarter of the north west quarter of section twenty-six (26), in township thirty-four (34) north, range eight (8) west, containing twenty-eight and 75-100 acres, more or less, together with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

Dated January 25th, 1886.

MARY J. MCLLAHAN,
Mortgagee.

EDWARD H. GREEN,
Attorney for said Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, on the 5th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, wherein John A. Reed is complainant, and Alexander Reed, Jr., et al. are defendants, upon notice and proof of the due publication of a decree of said court, I shall sell at public vendue or auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the town hall, in the township of South Arm, in said county and state, which hall is the place for holding the circuit court for said county of Charlevoix, on Wednesday the 24th day of March, A. D. 1886, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon of said day, the following described premises, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said decree, viz: The south half of the south east quarter (½) of the south west quarter (¼) of section twenty (20), in township thirty (30) north, range seven (7) west, containing forty acres of land according to the United States survey.

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1885.

HIRAM MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MANN,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage, made and executed by Jesse Bennett, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the twelfth day of November, A. D. 1883, to Hiram Miller, of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourteenth day of November, A. D. 1883, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 52, which said mortgage was on the 23d day of December, 1884, assigned by said John J. Hood to Frederick W. Mann, by instrument of assignment duly recorded in the Register's office for Charlevoix county, in liber 1 of mortgages on page 400, and on the 12th day of December 1885, was assigned by said Frederick W. Mann to Hugh Miller, said assignment being recorded in the Register's office for Charlevoix county, in liber 1 of mortgages on page 400, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of one hundred and ninety six and 15-100 dollars, so principal and interest, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Hayes, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz:

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1885.

HIRAM MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MANN,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made by Mary Blackwood to Mills Eaton and Edson J. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, on Mary J. Wednesday, dated February fourth, A. D. 1885, and recorded in Liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, in the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "M" of Mortgages, on page 47, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice for principal and interest the sum of Eighty-eight and forty-eight cents, including principal and interest and no action or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the 13th day of March, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in said county, the place where the Circuit Court for Charlevoix county is held, of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest and costs and all legal costs, including such attorney fee provided for in said mortgage as is allowed by the statute in such case made and provided to sell. All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Hayes, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan, viz:

Dated Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 25, 1885.

HIRAM MILLER,
Assignee of Mortgage.

FREDERICK W. MANN,
Attorney for Assignee of Mortgage.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, made and executed by J. Mills Eaton and Edson J. Eaton, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Justin R. Whiting, of Detroit, Michigan, dated the twelfth day of October, 1882, recorded in the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber 1 of mortgages, on page 56, on the 30th of October, A. D. 1882, and which was the assignee of said mortgage was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Charlevoix county, in liber 1 of mortgages, on page 56, on the 30th of October, A. D. 1882, and which said mortgage was duly assigned by said Justin R. Whiting to the undersigned, by an assignment in writing of this notice is the same, of mortgage, dated the 30th day of April, A. D. 1883, and which said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the interest due on the mortgage for the sum of three hundred and ninety dollars, and no suit or proceeding has been instituted at law, or in equity, for the recovery of the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, a notice of the cancellation of said mortgage is required to be given by the mortgagee, in default of payment of the interest due thereon, or any part thereof, on any day, whereon the same is required to be paid, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the interest due on the mortgage for the sum of three hundred and thirty dollars, and which said interest has remained unpaid for the space of thirty days, the said default, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the interest due on the mortgage for the sum of one hundred and thirty dollars, and which said interest has remained unpaid for the space of thirty days, the said default, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the interest due on the mortgage for the sum of one hundred and thirty dollars, and which said interest has remained unpaid for the space of thirty days, the said default, and whereas, default has been made in the payment of the principal and interest due on said mortgage, and more or matured, and payable, wherein, the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative. Now therefore, notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the entrance to the building in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in the village of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the place where the Circuit Court for said county is held, on Friday, the 23d day of April, 1886, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, which said premises are described in said mortgage as follows. The west half of the south east quarter of section twenty (20), township thirty-four (34) north, range seven (7) west, in the county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan.

Dated January 4th, A. D. 1886.

JOHN E. HARDING,
NEWTON & MORSE,
Attorneys for Mortgagee.

Petoskey, Mich.

Notice of Stray Beasts.

To the township clerk of the township of Hayes, Charlevoix county, Mich.

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 25th day of October, A. D. 1885, one dark bay mare, white spot in forehead, the mare is about eight years old; with one horse, set, 3yrs old, black, white spot in forehead, set 3 years old; strayed on my premises as owned land in said township of Hayes, and I request the overseers, and shall reside in the said township of Hayes.

Dated November 4th, A. D. 1885.

JOHN DENNETT.

The above notice was lodged in the township clerk's office November 4th, A. D. 1885.

A. M. CHEW, Township clerk.

Hayes Township, Charlevoix Co. Mich.

Grand Rapids & Indiana R. R.

Time Table in Effect January, 1886.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	No. 1	No. 5	No. 3	No. 7
Cincinnati, Lv.		7 35am	3 30pm
Fort Wayne, Ar.	6 30pm	1 45	9 45
Fort Wayne, Lv.		2 05	9 50	8 45am
Kalamazoo, Ar.		5 25	1 40	12 15
Kalamazoo, Lv.		5 40	3 pm	12 30
Grand Rapids, Ar.	10 0pm	9 10	7 30	4 45
Grand Rapids, Lv.	10 0pm	9 15	7 35	4 50
Ionia, Ar.	10 45	9 55	8 15	5 30
Ionia, Lv.	10 50	9 57	8 20	5 35
Owosso, Ar.	11 35	10 40	9 10	6 25
Owosso, Lv.	11 40	10 45	9 15	6 30
Flint, Ar.	12 20am	11 25	9 55	7 10
Flint, Lv.	12 25	11 30	10 0pm	7 15
Bay City, Ar.	3 0	2 35pm	3 0am	10 0pm
Bay City, Lv.	3 10	2 45	3 10	10 10
Saginaw, Ar.	3 35	3 10	3 35	10 35
Saginaw, Lv.	3 40	3 15	3 40	10 40
Alma, Ar.	4 45	4 20	4 45	11 45
Alma, Lv.	4 50	4 25	4 50	11 50
Muskegon, Ar.		7 15am	9 50am
Muskegon, Lv.		7 30	10 0
Grand Haven, Ar.		8 15	10 45
Grand Haven, Lv.		8 20	10 50
Allegan, Ar.		9 0	11 35
Allegan, Lv.		9 5	11 40
Kalamazoo, Ar.		9 55	12 30pm
Kalamazoo, Lv.		10 0	12 35
Battle Creek, Ar.		10 35	1 10
Battle Creek, Lv.		10 40	1 15
Jackson, Ar.		11 35	2 10
Jackson, Lv.		11 40	2 15
Chicago, Ar.		7 0pm	7 0am
Chicago, Lv.		7 5	7 10

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	No. 2	No. 4	No. 6	No. 8
Chicago, Lv.	7 15am	3 50pm
Jackson, Ar.	7 50	4 35
Jackson, Lv.	8 0	4 40
Battle Creek, Ar.	8 45	5 25
Battle Creek, Lv.	8 50	5 30
Kalamazoo, Ar.	9 35	6 15
Kalamazoo, Lv.	9 40	6 20
Allegan, Ar.	10 20	7 0
Allegan, Lv.	10 25	7 5
Grand Haven, Ar.	11 0	7 45
Grand Haven, Lv.	11 5	7 50
Muskegon, Ar.	11 45	8 30
Muskegon, Lv.	12 0pm	8 45
Saginaw, Ar.	4 0	12 0am	3 0pm	10 0am
Saginaw, Lv.	4 5	12 5	3 10	10 10
Bay City, Ar.	4 30	12 35	3 35	10 35
Bay City, Lv.	4 35	12 40	3 40	10 40
Alma, Ar.	5 35	1 40	4 45	11 45
Alma, Lv.	5 40	1 45	4 50	11 50
Flint, Ar.	6 15	2 20	5 25	12 25am
Flint, Lv.	6 20	2 25	5 30	12 30
Owosso, Ar.	7 0	3 0	6 10	1 10
Owosso, Lv.	7 5	3 5	6 15	1 15
Ionia, Ar.	7 50	3 55	7 0	2 0
Ionia, Lv.	7 55	4 0	7 5	2 5
Grand Rapids, Ar.	8 45	4 50	8 0	3 0pm
Grand Rapids, Lv.	8 50	4 55	8 10	3 10
Kalamazoo, Ar.	10 15	6 20	9 35	4 35
Kalamazoo, Lv.	10 20	6 25		4 40pm
Fort Wayne, Ar.	1 0pm	12 10am		7 45pm
Fort Wayne, Lv.	1 10pm	12 20		7 55pm
Cincinnati, Lv.	9 0pm	7 0am

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. A., Grand Rapids, Mich.

SODA
For Baking Purposes.
Best in the World.
Sold by Upright & Emrey.

$100 REWARD
FOR
Every Ounce of Adulteration
IN THE
U. G. Soap
The Great 5c Cake,
Made only by
GOWANS & STOVER
BUFFALO, N. Y.
For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

Cures in 1 to 3 Days the worst forms of Gleet, Whites, or any of the Urinary Organs. No Cure, No Pay. Most speedy and complete cure and only one bottle needed in most cases. Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00.
Alvah A. Kirk, Rochester, N. Y.
Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00.
For Sale by F. G. HINES & CO., Charlevoix.

Old newspapers, five cents a dozen.

THE CHARLEVOIX JOURNAL.

NUMBER 137. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.: THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1886. $1.50 PER YEAR.

THE JOURNAL
Published every Thursday,
BY CHAS. J. STRANG.
Office on Bridge Street,
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN
ENTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHARLEVOIX, MICH., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

ATTORNEYS.

ARTHUR E. MARTIN, Attorney at Law, Voyna Block, Collections promptly attended to.

CROSS, LUNN & SMITH, Attorneys at Law and Proctors in Admiralty. Office in Butler's Block, Chicago, Ills. C. J. CROSS, LYCURGUS LUNN.

JAMES TAYLOR, Attorney at Law, Real Estate and Loan Agent. Lake st., east of postoffice, Petoskey, Mich.

FOSS & MAYNE, Attorney and Counselor, Office in Smith's Block, promptly attended to. MONEY TO LOAN.

L. M. SHERRY, Attorney at Law and Judge of Probate, Office in Court House, Petoskey, Mich.

J. MILO EATON, Attorney at Law, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. K. JONES, Attorney and Solicitor, East Jordan. Admiralty a Specialty.

A. S. WAIGHT, Attorney at Law, Boyne City, Michigan.

HOMEOPATHIC PHARMACY.

HOUGHFIELD, Homeopathic Medicines, Books, Humphrey Cures, etc. Charlevoix, Mich.

PHYSICIANS.

L. LEGUN, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in Legun's Block, Charlevoix, Mich.

W. J. STEVENS, M. D., Surgeon and Homeopathic Physician, Charlevoix, Mich.

REAL ESTATE A

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

FORTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

THE SENATE closed its long and wrangling debate over the admission of South Dakota into the Union as a State on the 5th inst., by passing the bill as the Commission on Territories and Wyoming had taken it, the amendment which was added to the proper Dakota bill in frame a state constitution, etc., and the Wyoming bill, which provided for four years 25, Mr. Edmunds was then taken up the bill itself, which provides for admission of Dakota. The affirmative vote was made by Democrats. The Republicans voted against the Territory. The bill as it was passed divides the Territory of Dakota into two States, and provides for its admission, provides for the admission of the southern portion as a S. E. to be the title of Dakota, and the establishment of the northern portion into a separate Territory to be known as Lincoln. The Fifty bill for the admission of Dakota contained in no respect interfering with the Senate. It provides for the appointment by the President of five persons in Dakota to form a constitution and State government, and there is strong reason to believe that the House will concur in this. The House will oppose against the Harrison bill because it provides for the admission of the southern half of Dakota, which contains about 425,000 inhabitants, with two members of Congress and two United States Senators. This will leave only about 200,000 inhabitants north of the river to be added to the Territory of Lincoln. Research is let out of the north half of Dakota, which is Republican, and Territory. The bill provides that Congress can hereafter, when the Indian reservation rights are extinguished, make the Territory of Lincoln, and Dakota is required to convert into her constitution. Mr. Weaver addressed the House upon the subject question. In the course of his speech he made a plea for the national banking system. There are 2,000 idiots, he said, relating to finance which the Congress must enact. First it must provide for unrestricted coinage of American silver. Second, a law must be passed for the issue of Treasury notes to take the place of bank notes. Third, a law must be passed for the issue of Treasury notes to pay part of the expenses of the government, and provide a sinking fund to pay the principal of the bonds. Fourth, it must refund to law any taxes discriminating against silver coin.

A BILL to provide for the control of the reservation of Hot Springs, Arkansas, and the dedication of water rights was introduced in the Senate on the 9th inst. The Senate passed bills appropriating $500,000 each for public buildings at San Francisco and Portland, Oregon, and appropriating $50,000 for Pueblo, Fort Smith, Dubuque, San Antonio, and Muskogee, $40,000 for Fort Scott, Kansas, $30,000 for Fort Dodge, Iowa, and $20,000 for Fort Gratiot, Mich., and Fort Gibson, I. T. The Speaker laid before the House the resignation of the Secretary of the Treasury to the House resolution. Referred. The Secretary said: I have the honor to inform the House of Representatives that I have received the House resolution requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish the House with information in regard to appointments and removals and in regard to financial policy and business and all questions but one, and that was as to what I had recommended. The resolution agreed to a resolution offered by Mr. Ingalls, which directs the Finance Committee to inquire into the propriety of making such an amount from the Revised Statutes as may be deemed necessary for the use of the Senate and House of Representatives. Mr. Blanchard introduced a resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury for a statement of all moneys acquired or collected in the Department of the Gulf by the Treasury, and the Gulf Coast. Mr. Dawes introduced a bill to enable the people of Dakota east of the Missouri River to form a Constitution and State Government, and there is strong reason to believe that the Senate will concur in this. The House will oppose against the Harrison bill because it provides for the admission of the south half of Dakota, which contains about 425,000 inhabitants, with two members of Congress and two United States Senators. This will leave only about 200,000 inhabitants north of the river to be added to the Territory of Lincoln. Research is let out of the north half of Dakota, which is Republican, and Territory. The bill provides that Congress can hereafter, when the Indian reservation rights are extinguished, make the Territory of Lincoln, and Dakota is required to convert into her constitution. Mr. Weaver addressed the House upon the subject question. In the course of his speech he made a plea for the national banking system. There are 2,000 idiots, he said, relating to finance which the Congress must enact. First it must provide for unrestricted coinage of American silver. Second, a law must be passed for the issue of Treasury notes to take the place of bank notes. Third, a law must be passed for the issue of Treasury notes to pay part of the expenses of the national banking public debt. Fourth, it must refund to law any taxes discriminating against silver coin.

A BILL to provide for the control of the reservation of Hot Springs, Arkansas, and the dedication of water rights was introduced in the Senate on the 9th inst. The Senate passed bills appropriating $500,000 each for public buildings at San Francisco and Portland, Oregon, and appropriating $50,000 for Pueblo, Fort Smith, Dubuque, San Antonio, and Muskogee, $40,000 for Fort Scott, Kansas, and

THE JOURNAL.

BY CHAS. J. STRANG.

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

Capital Punishment.

Much is being said throughout the state by the press and otherwise in favor of the establishment of the whipping post, capital punishment, and other means of more severe modes of dealing with our criminals. This we think is all wrong. The trouble is not with our modes of punishment, nor the severity of the punishment, when convictions are had, but the trouble is with the machinery for the trial of criminals. It is almost impossible to convict one of crime at the present age of the world, as our laws governing the trial of criminal cases are all in favor of the criminal. Courts and juries seem to forget that the people have any rights to be subserved, and the benefit of every doubt, whether in the law or the evidence, is given to the prisoner. The people have no right of appeal to a higher court, no matter what errors are committed by the trial court, and a motion for a new trial will not be entertained no matter what new evidence may be discovered or what frauds may be perpetrated upon the people by the trial jury. These things are all wrong. The people should have some rights which courts and criminals are obliged to respect.

Lawyers are sent to the legislature who are interested in making defenses in criminal cases as easy as possible. Thus laws are framed and passed which are decidedly in favor of the criminal; and should a law be passed which savors of a subservicncy of the people's rights, with reference to crimes, the court in the trial of the case under it, will so construe the law as to deprive it of all utility, and the people are again without remedy. We think legislation is needed in this matter, but it should be in the direction of simplifying the rules of evidence, and regulation of the trial of cases, and not by inflicting more severe penalties for the violations of laws.

"Michigan Lumber."

"A Grand Rapids lumberman predicts that Michigan lumber will be used up in five years."—Roscommon News. The prophecies of the Grand Rapids man will certainly be fulfilled if many such contracts as the following are filled from our forests:

A contract has been made by the Michigan Central railroad company with a lumber manufacturing firm on the Mackinaw division north of Bay City. It calls for the drawing to market five hundred million feet of timber in the next ten years. The terms are private, but satisfactory to both parties.

Five hundred million feet of lumber! Hesitate a moment and think of that immense quantity.

An ordinary flat car is two rods long and is capable of carrying ten thousand feet of lumber. To transport five hundred million feet it will require fifty thousand cars, or a train over 312 miles long, or 2,500 trains of twenty cars each, exclusive of locomotives.

Five hundred million feet of lumber will build twenty thousand ordinary houses, or four cities of 20,000 population, and it would build a fence nearly four feet high around the entire globe.—Bay City Tribune.

The Telephone Suits.

Fault is found with the administration for bringing a suit to invalidate the Bell telephone patent, simply through the ignorance or depravity of the fault finders.

Bell obtained two patents—one in March, 1876; the other in January, 1877. The first one was held to be invalid, because it was not a working practical telephone, and the second one becomes it embodies ideas and inventions already established by other inventors, including especially that of Professor Philip Reis, of Germany. Since his first and useless patent, he did indeed produce an instrument which transmitted words, and under his second patent has used it. But this instrument was based, it is claimed, upon Reis' instrument and upon discoveries made by Edison and other inventors. In addition to this is the charge that he fraudulently secured from Gray's caveat ideas which he proceeded to embody in his patent of 1876, and exhibited at the Philadelphia Exposition a telephone substantially the same as that described in Gray's caveat, but wholly unlike that described in Bell's patent. Every claim in the invention or discovery described in the Bell telephone was shown before Secretary Lamar to have been used prior to 1876 by a score of different inventors; not that any one of them invented a telephone, but that their discoveries and inventions of various kinds in that direction were used by Bell in developing his instrument.

Such is the case against Bell, and upon this showing the interior department ordered the suit begun. If it is successful it will throw open the whole field of telephony and abolish or prevent all monopoly.

The Bohemian Oat Swindle.

Noticing a great many items concerning the Bohemian oat swindle, we wrote to Prof. Johnson, of the Agr'l college, asking the methods of procedure by which the farmers have lost half a million. The following is Prof Johnson's reply:

STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Lansing, Mich., Feb. 12, 1886.

EDITOR JOURNAL, Sir:—The Bohemian oat swindle is carried on in different ways, but mainly, as I am able to learn, as follows: A smooth tongued agent offers the farmer the oats at $10.00 per bushel, cash or note, usually the latter method of payment and agent agrees to take, or sell for the purchaser, all the oats raised from the seed bought of the agent, at so many dollars per bushel. The notes are sold, the contracts prove worthless, the farmer has to pay his note and concludes that he has been badly sold. At a farmer's institute I attended at Eaton Rapids last week it was stated that one bank in that city had $4,000 of these notes given by the farmers in the vicinity, and that $50,000 worth had been sold in three of these central counties. It is a marvel that farmers can be duped in this way after the repeated warnings of the press and those who have suffered.

The oats shell badly, I am told, and are not worth either for seed or feeding purposes any more, if as much, as our ordinary white oats.

Yours truly. SAMUEL JOHNSON.

BEWARE.

Coughs, colds, and slight throat diseases often develop into bronchitis, seated cough, consumption, etc., and should have immediate attention and be removed in the first stages. Not only public speakers, but all, are liable to throat troubles and to obtain relief should use HAMILTON'S COUGH TROCHES, which relieve coughs, and hoarseness, making the articulation clear. Warranted to give satisfaction. Price 25 cents per box.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crosier, Charlevoix, and Crosier & Harris, Ironton.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, with a dull pain, followed by an acute affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A tendency, like procrastination, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. DR. BOSANKO'S PILE Ointment and Bolus Pills yield a cure to the aged and the Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Sold by Geo. W. Crosier. 152

Keynote to Health.

Health is wealth. Wealth means independence. The keynote to P. Benedict's Cough and Lung Syrup, the best Cough Syrup in the world. Cures Coughs, Colds, Pain in the Chest, Bronchitis and incipient consumption. One dose gives relief in every case. Take no other. Price 25 cents and 50 cents. Samples free. Sold by L. W. Crosier.

FIFTY CENTS A YEAR

THE PHILADELPHIA

Weekly News

THE WEEKLY NEWS is the cheapest first class weekly in the world. It is a family newspaper in the best sense—full of bright and entertaining reading. Both old and young people like it, and one of its most popular features is its own original method of illustrating its articles. Portraits of all the prominent men of the time are printed in it regularly. It has all the striking features that have made THE DAILY NEWS the most brilliant success ever known in Philadelphia journalism. Colonel A. Wilson Norris is writing for it a series of articles called "Pen Pictures of the War."

☞ Specimen copy free to any one.

THE WEEKLY NEWS,

THE NEWS BUILDING,

815 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

THE DETROIT

FREE PRESS

The Representative Michigan Newspaper

The Best, Largest, Cheapest, and Most Enterprising.

The Daily Free Press

will be found to contain

All the Telegraphic News,
All the Political News,
All the Commercial News,

All the State News,
All the Foreign News,
All the Domestic News,

All the Social News,
All the Sporting News,
All the Amusement News,

All the Literary News,
All the Religious News,
All the Educational News,

All the Base Ball News,

and all other kinds of News and Interesting Miscellany that men and women of intelligence want to read.

"The Detroit Free Press is the only sheet in this whole state that gives us all the News. Nothing left out, cut down, or incomplete. The latest news in paragraphs you look for, as in the smaller papers of the town. That city, pure, simple, stronger and swift. The news you want you don't want to hunt down. Fair sense and Valor are united with it."

The Free Press is a pure family newspaper that your wife and children can read without injury to their morals. It is an educator, and in order to keep up with the industrial, scientific and literary life of the day, every family should take it.

A paper for every day in the year. Price: $7.00 a year, or 15 cents a week

The Weekly Free Press

☞ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.☜

is a large eight page, fifty six column family newspaper, suitable for the farmer, the mechanic, and all others who do not wish to take a daily paper. It is an epitome of the Daily Free Press, and is a live, progressive, and interesting weekly journal, full of good things. Note the following remarkable

COMBINATION OFFERS!

PAPER AND PREMIUMS.	"Farm and Home," $1 10
	"Home Circle," 1 10
	"The Country Home," 1 10
	Any one of the Above 1 25
	"White Acre," 1 50
	"Vantage Earth," 1 50
	"Ben Hampton," 1 50
	Author Made to Order Work 1 50
	Free Press Atlas of the World 1 50

SPLENDID PREMIUMS FOR CLUBS.

☞ Send for a Free Sample Copy and a Catalogue of our Special Combination and Premium Offers.

Address the Free Press Co. Detroit, Mich.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration.

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

To contain the latest news, down to the hour of going to press.

Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its earnest pages will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.

Editorial science by distinguished American and foreign writers of fashion.

THE DAILY STAR,

The DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence is gathered from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Rome, as a reasonable fashion.

At Washington, Albany, and other news centres, the STAR's correspondence is unsurpassed. The New York STAR prides itself on its telegraphic news. Its city features are unequaled.

The financial and Market Reports are usually full and reliable.

Special letters and extraordinary industrious agents to agents and canvassers.

Send for specimen.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR (in Sub-scriptions, name or club rate to be paid in United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City):

Single Copy, ...	$1 25
Clubs of Ten, ...	10 00
Clubs of Twenty (and an extra to organizer),	20 00

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR (to Subscribers):

Every day for one year (including Sundays),	$7 00
Daily, without Sundays, one year, ...	6 00
Daily, six months, ...	3 50
Daily, three months, ...	2 00
Sunday Edition, ...	1 50

Address, THE STAR,

Nos. 165 and 167 Nassau St., New York.

THIS PAPER may be found on file at Geo. P. Rowell & Co.'s Newspaper Advertising Bureau (10 Spruce St.), where advertisements may be taken for it in NEW YORK.

My Fall and Winter Stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Caps, Trunks and Valises, just received, and a finer line you wont often find. I keep adding to my stock all the time. I am bound to make it an object to call and see me. Good Goods and lots of them is bound to bring the trade, and my price I will guarantee to be satisfactory.

GEO. W. MILLER.

Groceries and Provisions,
Dry Goods and Blankets,
Hardware and Queensware,
Boots, Shoes and Rubbers,
Hats, Caps and Clothing,

In Full Assortment at

Pine Lake Iron Company's Supply Store,

IRONTON, MICH.

GARLAND STOVES AND RANGES

THE PLACE

TO BUY

SAP PAILS

SAP PANS, SAP SPILES

☞(Job and Tin Work) L. D. Bartholomew & Co.

Opera Block.

HENRY C. COOPER

Undertaker!

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN.

Coffins, Caskets, and Trimmings Always in Stock.

Come and See my Stock of Furniture.

ALL ORDERS BY TELEPHONE RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION

PERRY WEED,

DRUGGIST AND STATIONER,

OPERA BLOCK, CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Wagar Bros.

Wholesale and Retail dealers in Tobacco, Cigars and Smokers' Articles. Also a full line of Confectionery, Nuts and Tobacco. Opera House, Third door west of Bridge Street House, Charlevoix, Mich.

$100 REWARD

FOR

Every Ounce of Adulteration

IN THE

U. G. Soap

The Great 5c Cake,

Made only by

GOWANS & STOVER,

BUFFALO, N. Y.

For Sale by all First-class Grocers.

For Baking Purposes.

Best in the World.

Sold by Upright & Emrey.

THE JOURNAL

Charlevoix, Mich., Feb. 25, 1886.

CHARLEVOIX POSTOFFICE.

Winter Arrangement.

OFFICE HOURS: 7.30 A. M. to 7.30 P. M.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

GOING EAST.

Ex. Mail, 7.30 a. m.; Bay City, 12.05 p. m.
Day Exp., 11.50 a. m.; Ed. Rapids, 2.00 p. m.
Night Exp., 4.00 p. m.; Petoskey, 3.00 p. m.

GOING WEST.

Ex. Mail, 12.30 p. m.; Boyne City, 7.00 p. m.
Day Exp., 11.50 a. m.; Petoskey, 3.00 p. m.
Night Exp., 12.30 a. m.; Ironton, 12.30 p. m.
Ex. Mail, 7.30 a. m.; Petoskey, 7.30 p. m.

Sundays, 4.00 to 5.00 p. m.

CHAS. J. STRANG, P. M.

There was an old woman, and she was oh so poor;
She lived in a house that had but one door;
Her husband bought a can of Crocker's Baking Powder—
The effect of it was that
The old woman grew healthy and happy, contented and fat.

☞ GOOD COW WANTED.

I have two sets of sleighs and a pair cutter to trade. Will take a good low milch cow, or will trade for wool or grain. W. J. Stevenson.

☞ We wish to call special attention to our combination snow excluder and horseman's rubber. A very excellent article. UPRIGHT & EMREY.

☞ Have a pound of New Era Baking Powder of U. & E. and get a baking cup, saucer and plate, for points. Upright & Emrey.

☞ Mr. Alexis Bedard, L. D. Bartholomew & Co. will manufacture a portable furnace that beats the world.

☞ A new line of underwear received to-day. Gents' caps, socks, mittens, etc. etc. Upright & Emrey.

☞ Cash for hides at Jefferies' store.

☞ Fresh Oysters at Jefferies' store.

☞ Best fresh butter at Jefferies' store.

Local Notes and News.

CHARLES J. STRANG, Editor.

W. H. Mason was in Manton last week.

Mr. O. W. Holly, of Bellaire, was here last week.

A. G. Noyes takes possession of the Ironton postoffice to-day.

G. E. Sneedland and wife expect to return to Charlevoix this week.

A man aged 22 years, belonging in Mr. Dalton, the postmaster at Inwood, died recently.

Dr. Ramsay, of Atwood, was seriously injured recently by the dynamite kick of a horse.

The Congregationalists of Cadillac are planning to launch a small newspaper devoted to their interests.

Upright and Emrey hold them all down on buying time and posts. Their store presents its usual appearance of neatness and thrift.

The Jeff sale Miss Spaulding is making is showing up some facts. So they are not to remain vacant long. New goods are on the way.

A card from Rev. C. F. VanAmburgh states that he will be here to fill all his next Sabbath appointments. Come out and give him a rousing reception.

The Blakeley skating band furnished excellent music for the masquerade, and their caller had no difficulty in making himself heard all over the room.

John Saveland, of Milwaukee, the commission merchant to whom is shipped a large part of the posts and ties put out here, made us a pleasant call Monday.

Mr. Gossett and family, of Norwood, who have been visiting relatives and friends in New York state during the past winter, returned the last Thursday.

In a late Florida paper the principal advertisement, which is six times larger than any other advertisement in the paper, is devoted entirely to the sale of coffins and undertaker's goods. Healthy country, that!

A gold locket about the size of a lady's watch was lost last Sunday morning by a little girl on her way to the Congregational Sunday school. The finder of the same will be suitably rewarded by leaving it at the Journal office.

Wm. Miller returned last week from his visit to his Arkansas home. He has over 300 acres of land there, through which a railroad is being built and on which a station will be located. It promises to become a mine of wealth for him.

The ladies of Charlevoix will give a social entertainment and supper at the Newman House next Tuesday evening for the benefit of the boys' band, to help them buy uniforms. Tickets 15 cents. Turn out and help a worthy cause.

Mr. Joseph Pappin is preparing to start an asbery in the spring as soon as the snow is gone, and advertises in another column to save your hardwood ashes. In the beginning he expects to pay cash, but after he gets started he will trade soap on a generous basis.

Some of Prof. Allen's old pupils who have been teaching during the winter, as their schools close, are organizing a normal class with him as teacher. The class meets daily at the parlors of the various students, and the professor reports enthusiasm and efficient work.

The case of Roberts vs. the Township of Charlevoix, for illegal assessment and collection of tax on the log J. L. Higgie, which was decided in the circuit court last summer in favor of the township, came before the supreme court last week, and the decision of the lower court was reversed.

"The last issue of the Charlevoix Journal—Charlie Strang's paper—contains a six column description of a flouring mill just completed at that place, with a wood-cut picture of the building. The people of Charlevoix have at least one newspaper that has enterprise and public spirit, and they ought to give it a liberal support. Mr. Strang is an old Lansing boy."—Lansing Journal.

The February number of the Library Magazine is at hand, and has its usually attractive array of contents. There are seventeen articles in this number, all by our ablest scientific and literary men. Its contents compares well with that of any of our $4 monthlies, though its price is only $1.00 per year, or send 15 cents for a sample copy to John B. Alden, Publisher, New York.

Mr. M. Scott, late of Harbor Springs, has bought Geo. Pappin's lease of the blacksmith shop in Washburn & Ackert's foundry building, and proposes to become a permanent citizen of Charlevoix. He claims an experience of 35 years in the business, which ought to place him in the front rank as a skilled workman. He gives especial attention to horseshoeing, and desires to meet the farmers of the surrounding country.

We have received a copy of "Midsummer Wandering in Northern Wisconsin and Michigan," which in addition to excellent engraving, is full of interesting and well-written articles descriptive of the scenery. The book is a model of typographical beauty, and, in addition to the information it contains for tourists, is worthy preservation as a work of art. It will be mailed free to any address on application to Chas. V. McKinley, Milwaukee, Wis.

A. D. Crinckshank and G. W. Crosier have each been promoted by the I. O. O. F. Mr. Crinckshank went to the Grand Encampment as Grand Sentinel, to which position he was elected last year; but he returned as Grand Marshal. Mr. Crosier attended the Grand Lodge and was appointed Grand Conductor and nominated for Grand Junior Warden. The Grand Encampment is to be held in Muskegon next year; and the Grand Lodge in Jackson.

A late correspondent of the Albion Republican writes some facts from Florida not usually found in guide books and real estate circulars. At Orlando, hay sells for $30 a ton, milk 15 cents a quart, cabbage 5 cents a pound, small fowls 60 cents a piece, northern beef 25 cents a pound. If these articles were raised there in abundance it would be well enough, but they are not, all having to be shipped in from the north. To keep the orange trees and vegetables thrifty 10,000 barrels of commercial fertilizer are required annually, at a cost of $50 a ton. It requires a steady stream of fresh blood and capital from the north to keep the country healthy. The chief product of the soil is malaria. Before moving there to settle we would advise our neighbors here to compare this with some of the flowery real estate circulars, and then calmly compute the real difference in advantages between that state and this, and see if the benefits will warrant the expenses of a change. It is also a fact that the orange groves, which produce such large crops, cost all they are worth to bring them up to the high standard, and are a continual expense to keep them up. Good land is high priced; cheap land will raise nothing and is worse than useless. It would be well to state that the gentleman who writes the letter is not a transient, but has invested considerable property there, and is doing as well as anyone in the community.

The new covered stage recently put on the Petoskey and Charlevoix route, reminds one of the age in which he lives,—a thing which cannot be said of every stage. Of course it is not quite like a palace car, although so tastefully painted. It is substantially and tightly made, well lighted with windows and such doors, well ventilated, and heated by a nice little sheet iron stove that could not spill fire if the coach should capsize. The floor is double and carpeted and the seats cushioned. He who wants a better conveyance ought to be obliged to stay at home winters until Charlevoix has a railroad.

The masquerade was a great success, netting the Boy's Band a handsome profit, besides furnishing an abundance of genuine sport to a large party of young people, and older people with young hearts. The boys deserve their success too, for they have given long hours of hard work in their practices. Their new caps and torches gives them quite a dazzling appearance on the street in the evening, and their playing shows steady improvement. They gave the masquerade the same persistent labor they do their music, and have the satisfaction of the largest attendance, except possibly one, of any dance ever held in Charlevoix.

The Historical Society.

The "howling elements" were entirely excluded from the covered hall; the ladies arriving like feathers in a bandbox. The spacious parlors of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Wood were soon filled and the meeting called to order by the genial president, E. H. Green. Mr. Kane read a selection from a famous speech of Daniel Webster, in which the present conflict between senate and executive was foreshadowed and suitable remedies suggested. W. A. Smith, accompanied by his daughter, Florence, favored the audience with a tenor solo. After intermission a beautiful piano duet was executed by Mrs. O. D. Wood and Mrs. F. A. Smith. Then came the paper of the evening on "Chinese Gordon," by Chas. J. Strang; after which Dr. Carlstein gave a bass solo, "I Cannot Sing the Old Song." Mrs. E. M. Clark then read a beautiful poem from Longfellow, which closed the program, except the matter of getting home, which proved to be the fun-producing feature of the evening.

The next meeting is with Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Upright. Paper by Mrs. O. S. Washburn; subject, "Isabella of Spain."

Wedding Bells.

On Monday evening, Feb. 22d, Mr. Lyman B. Price, of Charlevoix, and Miss Frances M. Norris, of Elk Rapids, were married by Rev. Mr. Morell, at St. Paul's church, Elk Rapids, in the presence of 250 invited guests. After the wedding, a reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. Price, which was also attended by a very large number of friends of the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Price returned to Charlevoix on Tuesday, where they expect to make their future home. "May they live long, and prosper."

The Murderers of Higgins.

The parties arrested for the murder of Peter Higgins,—his wife and nephew,—proved to be the right ones. Mrs. Higgins confessed to have gone after the mattock, while the nephew held her husband down and clubbed him. And then she stood by and saw him dealt the ten blows which caused death, after which she stood guard while the remains were buried, putting a rosary and cross over his face.

The nephew, finding all had come out, made substantially the same confession. Both are held for trial.

GRAND WIND UP!

Our recent Special Sales have far exceeded our expectations. The people know that We Live up to our Promises every time, and when we advertise an article below its value, we are not conveniently out of it. Deception does not pay! Now we have to say that, owing to a contemplated

CHANGE IN OUR BUSINESS

Recently decided upon, we are compelled to close out our entire stock immediately, and in order to save time and expense we have determined to limit the sale to sixty days. The first loss is the best, and so Everything goes

REGARDLESS OF VALUE.

Our stock is now the largest and best in Charlevoix, with a full line of Staple Goods, and nothing is reserved.

We Have a Fine Assortment

Of Foreign and Domestic Dry Goods, Silks, etc. Cottons of all kinds, Underwear, Hosiery, Gloves, Flannels, Shawls, Cloths, Trimmings, etc. Besides a Complete assortment of Crockery, Glassware, Lamps and Lamp Goods. An Immense stock of

GROCERIES,

Of Every Description.

Flour, Feed, Meal and Provisions, Etc.

Come early, before any assortments are broken and we will show you a picnic.

J. L. HURD & CO.

F. G. HINES & CO.,

Druggists and Stationers.

Around the County.

Letter from D. C. Loveday.

Charlevoix, Feb. 22, 1886.

EDITOR JOURNAL, Sir: Will you allow me through the columns of your valuable paper, in justice to myself and the citizens of Charlevoix county, to correct a false report that is in general circulation in this county, to the effect that the county has had to pay me the sum of $100 for use of my hall in East Jordan for court purposes.

Mr. B——, of the township of Eveline, made it his business to call on me a short time since to learn the facts in the case, as it was told to him as a fact by a leading citizen of the township of Wilson, who took dinner at his house on the second of February, that I presented a bill of $100.00 to the last session of the board of supervisors of Charlevoix county, for rent of my hall for county purposes, and that said bill was allowed and an order drawn to pay it.

I have never presented a bill to Charlevoix county for anything, as the county records will show; and furthermore, the county holds a lease of my hall for the nominal sum of $1 per year, for as long as East Jordan retains the county seat.

Now, Mr. Editor, whether the parties stating this base falsehood, had been misinformed, and did it innocently, or whether it was done with malicious intent, either to injure me individually, or the people of our neighboring village of East Jordan, I could not say; but if the latter was the intent, (as it seems to be by the story's being used so generally in connection with county seat arguments), the originators must have been so shortsighted as they were when they got up the Traverse City & Boyne Falls Branch of the G. R. & I., via Elk Rapids, Norwood, Charlevoix, Ironton, Boyne City and Cape Horn.

The county records will show in this case, as in the letter of the officers of the G. R. & I. did in the other.

Truth, rather than falsehood, will win the people's votes.

D. C. LOVEDAY.

Barnard.

William Clark's youngest child has the whooping cough.

Robert Matchett has sold his fine horse team to McNally for $300.

Will Oldham has gone to Canada to visit friends.

Our school closes in two weeks.

The Cap Social, Saturday evening, was one of the pleasantest gatherings ever held in this place. The supper was excellent, and he who came away without his money's worth is a commercial failure in matters of diet. The receipts of the evening were $14.50.

Ironton

That Jersey calf which has received notice far beyond what is usually accorded to calves of the common herd, feels its oats and is thriving accordingly, while the little Durham, which has lately arrived to act as its companion, suffers from a feeling of neglect and mourns the lack of appreciation on the part of Messrs. Ed Jones of the JOURNAL and Enterprise, who have failed to extend to it the hand of journalistic fellowship.

The entertainment given by the young ladies' society Monday evening was well attended and passed off pleasantly. The object of the gathering was more for social enjoyment than profit, but a bountiful supper was provided, which afforded both pleasure and profit, increasing the deposits of the young ladies' treasury over twenty-five dollars.

Mrs. Benjamin, who lectured under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., was received by a crowded house and made a most favorable impression.

Our school has closed. The principal gave a farewell address at the church, in the form of a carefully prepared lecture on the advantages of graded schools.

The ladies of the "Willing Workers," out of their abundance, have given $50 to the Congregational church building fund, which is increasing to goodly proportions under the solicitations of Messrs. Lewis and Dunlap.

M. E. Church.

Preaching at the morning hour, by the pastor; subject, "Jacob's Ladder." The Young People's Meeting at 6 o'clock, lead by Wm. Stover. Preaching at 7 o'clock, by Rev. J. R. Robenson, the Indian orator.

Preaching at Black's school house, at 3 o'clock.

All are invited to all the services.

TOOTHACHE.

Money is a great cure for aching hearts, but a twenty dollar gold piece placed on an aching tooth don't seem to have the least effect. In fact, nothing is sure cure but HAMILTON'S TOOTHACHE DROPS, which are warranted to cure in one minute. Price 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crosier, Charlevoix, and Crosier & Harris, Ironton.

☞ Now is the time your horses and cattle need attention. To prevent disease and tone up the system you will find Parmelee's Condition Powders unexcelled. Full pounds 25 cts. Sold by Dr. G. W. Crosier, Charlevoix, and Crosier & Harris, Ironton. 9-10

Save Your Ashes

JOSEPH PAPPIN will start an Asbery and begin to buy ashes as soon as the snow is gone in the spring, and wants all who use wood stoves to save their hardwood ashes. Will pay cash.

FOLDED IN

BY WILLIAM WASHINTON.

God gives us our own loads, so fair,
So beautiful was she
That we asked perpetual prayer
That she might happy be—
Safely sheltered from the world's unrest,
The storms and its sin—
The Saviour called her to His breast,
And she was folded in.

Ah! Then my heart was desolate,
And I bowed down and wept;
Sadness and gloom and despair
Outside the Shepherd's fold;
And yet, I knew a crown none fair,
So life prolonged could win,
As which, in answer to that prayer,
My lamb was folded in.

For her reason was I to bear the cross,
The trial and the pain,
For mine is but an earthly loss,
And her's a Heavenly gain.
Her home is in the world's unrest,
Its sorrow, and its sin,
She sleeps upon the Shepherd's breast,
Forever folded in.

THE COLONEL'S SECRET.

A little more than two years ago, when the Jesse James gang and other organized bands of train robbers and desperadoes were being wiped out pretty rapidly throughout Missouri, I was still, notwithstanding years of experience, young and ambitious dreams, nothing more than a locally popular detective in St. Louis, with but little prospect of a sudden, high-tumbling adventure to the public eye.

However, both Maisel and I were in fine spirits. At best she could fulfill her vow of teaching more than pay the long-deferred rent-free of her family homestead before marrying, and I was soon to be the fortunate possessor of her hand, as I had long been of her heart.

Mabel was not an actress, though her father, Colonel Dearborn, had made his fortune as a theatrical manager, and her earliest associations had been allied with the realities and traditions of the stage.

Our marriage engagement had been a peculiar one.

Five years previously, Colonel Dearborn's elegant country-seat, occupying a commanding but isolated position on the Iron Mountain Railroad, had, during the family's temporary absence, been attacked, sacked and dishonored by unknown robbers, presumably of the James band. The desperadoes for the time being had full swing, and the communities thereabout were wholly terrorized.

Exasperated at the failure of the authorities to suppress the outlaws and protect law-abiding citizens, the old Colonel had but more revisited Glenwood, as the place was called, and then taken up his residence in St. Louis, there to remain until more settled times.

He was accompanied by Mabel, his motherless child, then a lovely girl of sixteen, and by his sister, a maiden lady of uncertain age, who had been an actress of prominence in the old days of Ben Deburl's New Orleans and St. Louis managements. Mabel's mother had died in bringing her into the world, and this lady, Miss Theodora, had nobly and conscientiously filled the maternal place.

Colonel Dearborn had known no Frankie children, both my father and mother having lifted professional positions under his management. He now welcomed me as a visitor to his city home. I was soon on terms of intimacy with the transplanted household. The latter was further increased about this time by the arrival of the Colonel's nephew, Clifford Wharton, a young, strolling actor of about my own age, but of cloudy and presumably disreputable antecedents, from somewhere along the Canada border.

But the old manager's cherished hope of at last realizing his dad in his power and selection of his beloved Glenwood was cut short by an interference as sudden provided for as it is vaguely feared. Sudden death by an apoplectic stroke carried him off just as the moral atmosphere of the rubber-clothed interior was clearing up, and he was beginning to think of returning to his home.

As a near friend, I was hastily summoned to his death-bed, but reached it accompanied by his physician, barely in time to receive his last sigh. We found only his daughter present. Miss Winslow being absent on a brief visit. Mabel was untidly undressed, and had a slightly scorched letter, important communication from her father before the fatal stroke had deprived him of speech. The dying man managed to shake his head hopelessly as the physician approached, though upon perceiving me his face lighted up.

By a great effort, he seized his daughter's hand and mine, and joined them together across his body.

"All I leave is here, and she is yours!" he gasped. "Love one another—You will see to everything!" Then, turning his glazing eyes on Mabel, bound to her, faintly but impressively, "Remember!" after which he breathed his last.

My own sense of bereavement was great, for I had come to regard Colonel Dearborn as my best friend. But this sense was relieved by the sad but just taken place, for, though I had not commended my growing passion for his daughter, I had not yet ventured to ask him for her hand. But the closing act of his life had at once dispelled my doubts, and it was steady sure of Mabel's heart, led me to believe that she would be happier my wife after the usual period of mourning should have elapsed.

As I led her, weeping, from the chamber of death, I saw her cousin, Clifford Wharton, cross the passage from the vicinity of another door looking out of the same room. This gave me an impression that he might have been an unperceived witness of the interview between the old manager and his daughter before my arrival with Dr. L——. However, I thought little of this at the time, for, though I did not like Wharton, and knew that his uncle had never fully trusted him, I had no reason to doubt his sincerity. Nevertheless, as he was the nearest male relative of the deceased, without Mabel having entered him, he assumed from his attitude, which had repelled both grief and terror, and threw me a glance of such malevolence and triumph that I was both puzzled and placed on my guard, for it was not unknown to me that he had strenuously executed to make love to his cousin before her preference for me had been so plainly indicated as to leave him without a shadow of hope in that direction.

I left Mabel at the door of her chamber in charge of Miss Winslow, who had just got back home to learn the sad intelligence. After sending an M.D. the frightened servants, who had assembled on the staircase landing, and saying something to soothe their fears, I was returning to the death-chamber, when I met Dr. L—— coming out of it, with something troubled and stern in his face.

"I don't understand Colonel Dearborn's death," said he, taking me into a recess. "It seems that Mabel found him lying peaceably on his bed, grasping a cup that had held a composing draught, which he had kept in readiness to take upon feeling the dangerous symptoms against which he had been frequently warned. He had just drunk off the contents, and was yet past help when you and I were summoned. This is what I do not understand."

"Tray-asphalt," said I, myopically.

"The stroke he received was not necessarily fatal in itself," said Dr. L——. "The composing draught must have relieved it unless—he looked at me significantly, "unless it may have been hastened, with, however, I can not wholly certain of this, but I think that you will agree with me that a post-mortem should be had."

"I should decidedly!" I exclaimed, astonished and horrified.

"Good! We'll get Miss Dearborn's consent to the examination, but without evoking her suspicions of foul play. You know how reluctant she was at first to such measure. In the meantime, I shall neither say nor do anything."

I promised, not doubting an effort to bring Mabel to a proper realization of the subject, and the physician went away. But in this I was mistaken. Neither that I could say, or hint, or urge could induce either Mabel or Miss Winslow to consent to a post-mortem examination. Young Wharton, to my surprise, supported me strongly in an effort to persuade them through with hypocritical over-eagerness, father-and brother, and that they were jealous of feminine association of such an examination with the idea of dissecting the dead was invincible. They even caused Dr. L—— to forego his assistance toward the last, a certificate of death from natural causes was given, and the remains of the old theatrical manager were borne to their last resting-place without it being generally known that anything suspicious had attended his death.

Now came another surprise for me, for Dearborn had left no written will. In this case Mabel was of course his heiress, as, indeed, she would have been without the injunction embodied in her father's dying words, and which had likewise constituted me his executor. But to my own surprise, and that of nearly every one else, it proved that he had left hardly anything available. He had lived expensively, drawing from time to time upon a large sum of money which he had deposited in two of the St. Louis National Banks. Of this sum, only twelve hundred dollars now remained, and as his farming lands about Glenwood had lain in neglect, it seemed that this modest sum was, for some time at least, to constitute Mabel's sole fortune. However, she continued to draw upon it with great complacency, after reducing her household expenses, as though in anticipation of a windfall of whose nature she would only hint to me in a mysterious way, having been pledged to secrecy, as she said, by her father before my arrival with Dr. L——, at his death-bed. I was so deeply in love that I would have cared nothing for this if she would only have married me without delay. But she had also promised her father that she would put off her marriage until she should have once re-established with safety as the mistress of Glenwood.

Well, I had submitted with the best grace I could, and now here at last, having freed my engagement with the—"Iron Stock Company," I was apparently on the threshold of my reward.

It was six months after Colonel Dearborn's death. The organized bands of train-robbers, safe-breakers and house-thieves were said to have been nearly broken up or scattered, all the southern counties were supposed generally safe and quiet to warrant Mabel in resuming the occupancy of Glenwood, which her infancy was lived upon, and I was to set out forthwith for the locality that lone held so the fruition of my fondest hopes, as escort of my betrothed and her maid.

I should have mentioned that Clifford Wharton, who had been accustomed to absent himself frequently and unexpectedly from Mabel's home, in which he still held a nominal place, had, to my disgust, been absent from the city for some time, and completely that nothing had been heard of him for several weeks.

Ordinarily, nothing would have been thought of this. The fellow was a theatrical, especially in serio-comic, fopish parts, if he had cared to accept them, and had his opportunities, and I had twice secured him good engagements at the—Theater. He had accepted them successively, though his indolence and dissipated habits, and I had grown to regard him as a worthless, ingratiating young man, indeed, of further, sinister, antecedents, but no there came rumors of his having committed a downright forgery, in connection with the signature of Mr. Whitcombe, the Treasurer of the——Theater. It was only to small amount, indeed, but still sufficient to explain his continued absence, and to cause both Mabel and her aunt mortification and distress, should they come to hear of it.

This however, I took care to conceal, as the wedding-day was near at hand, and I was anxious that no shadow of a cloud should interfere with our happiness; but it was hard to be otherwise.

Early on the morning of the day we were to set out for Glenwood, I was breakfasting with Mabel and Miss Winslow, in high spirits. Suddenly Mabel, who had been the first to appreciate the morning newspaper, gave an almost exclamation.

"What is it?" I cried.

She received herself, laughed nervously, and, handing me the journal, pointed to a telegram.

It was to the effect that a recognized band of mounted desperadoes, doubtless the James band, was of course in the house-James and other gangs, had just made a raid and in the vicinity of Glenwood, where they had robbed and despoiled right and left, even digging up house-grounds and orchards, in the hope of unearthing hidden treasure, before being once more scattered by the vigilance of the mountain line, with a loss of many killed, wounded and captured, by the combined sheriffs posses of three counties.

"Why, this means—this means," said I, slightly. Glenwood mansion could offer little to the rascals' cupidity, after their ransacking of long ago, and as for any treasure having been buried there, the idea is absurd.

Mabel changed the topic, and, by the time breakfast was finished, had quite recovered her spirits.

But just then the servant brought her a telegraphic dispatch, which she had no sooner read than she seemed ready to faint.

"Oh, old read it!" was all she could say, as she threw me the dispatch.

It was from Wharton, was dated Bonne Courage (a village near Glenwood), and ran as follows:

"Robbers have ripped up everything at Glenwood. Could your father have buried any money there? Come immediately if spaded up. Not even your birthday lunch had been frequently warned. He had just drunk off the contents, and was yet past help when you and I were summoned. This is what I do not understand."

"Tray-asphalt," said I, myopically.

"The stroke he received was not necessarily fatal in itself," said Dr. L——. "The composing draught must have relieved it unless"—he looked at me significantly, "unless it may have been hastened, with, however, I can not wholly certain of this, but I think that you will agree with me that a post-mortem should be had."

"I should decidedly!" I exclaimed, astonished and horrified.

"Good! We'll get Miss Dearborn's consent to the examination, but without evoking her suspicions of foul play. You know how reluctant she was at first to such measure. In the meantime, I shall neither say nor do anything."

I promised, not doubting an effort to bring Mabel to a proper realization of the subject, and the physician went away. But in this I was mistaken. Neither that I could say, or hint, or urge could induce either Mabel or Miss Winslow to consent to a post-mortem examination. Young Wharton, to my surprise, supported me strongly in an effort to persuade them through with hypocritical over-eagerness, father-and brother, and that they were jealous of feminine association of such an examination with the idea of dissecting the dead was invincible. They even caused Dr. L——to forego his assistance toward the last; a certificate of death from natural causes was given, and the remains of the old theatrical manager were borne to their last resting-place without it being generally known that anything suspicious had attended his death.

Now came another surprise for me, for Dearborn had left no written will. In this case Mabel was of course his heiress, as, indeed, she would have been without the injunction embodied in her father's dying words, and which had likewise constituted me his executor. But to my own surprise, and that of nearly every one else, it proved that he had left hardly anything available. He had lived expensively, drawing from time to time upon a large sum of money which he had deposited in two of the St. Louis National Banks. Of this sum, only twelve hundred dollars now remained, and as his farming lands about Glenwood had lain in neglect, it seemed that this modest sum was, for some time at least, to constitute Mabel's sole fortune. However, she continued to draw upon it with great complacency, after reducing her household expenses, as though in anticipation of a windfall of whose nature she would only hint to me in a mysterious way, having been pledged to secrecy, as she said, by her father before my arrival with Dr. L——, at his death-bed. I was so deeply in love that I would have cared nothing for this if she would only have married me without delay. But she had also promised her father that she would put off her marriage until she should have once re-established with safety as the mistress of Glenwood.

Well, I had submitted with the best grace I could, and now here at last, having freed my engagement with the—"Iron Stock Company," I was apparently on the threshold of my reward.

It was six months after Colonel Dearborn's death. The organized bands of train-robbers, safe-breakers and house-thieves were said to have been nearly broken up or scattered, all the southern counties were supposed generally safe and quiet to warrant Mabel in resuming the occupancy of Glenwood, which her infancy was lived upon, and I was to set out forthwith for the locality that lone held so the fruition of my fondest hopes, as escort of my betrothed and her maid.

I should have mentioned that Clifford Wharton, who had been accustomed to absent himself frequently and unexpectedly from Mabel's home, in which he still held a nominal place, had, to my disgust, been absent from the city for some time, and completely that nothing had been heard of him for several weeks.

Ordinarily, nothing would have been thought of this. The fellow was a theatrical, especially in serio-comic, foppish parts, if he had cared to accept them, and had his opportunities, and I had twice secured him good engagements at the—Theater. He had accepted them successively, though his indolence and dissipated habits, and I had grown to regard him as a worthless, ingratiating young man, indeed, of further, sinister, antecedents, but no there came rumors of his having committed a downright forgery, in connection with the signature of Mr. Whitcombe, the Treasurer of the——Theater. It was only to small amount, indeed, but still sufficient to explain his continued absence, and to cause both Mabel and her aunt mortification and distress, should they come to hear of it.

This however, I took care to conceal, as the wedding-day was near at hand, and I was anxious that no shadow of a cloud should interfere with our happiness; but it was hard to be otherwise.

Early on the morning of the day we were to set out for Glenwood, I was breakfasting with Mabel and Miss Winslow, in high spirits. Suddenly Mabel, who had been the first to appreciate the morning newspaper, gave an almost exclamation.

"What is it?" I cried.

She received herself, laughed nervously, and, handing me the journal, pointed to a telegram.

It was to the effect that a recognized band of mounted desperadoes, doubtless the James band, was of course in the vicinity of Glenwood, and had made a raid, in which

"Prospects."

Having been deeply interested by Rev. Mr. Van Anken's sermon, on the above topic, preached at the Congregational church, Feb. 7th inst, and after consulting others, find them similarly affected, we have determined to give an abstract of it for the benefit of our readers:

"Prospects" is the subject announced for our consideration this morning. Anticipation, expectation, ground or reason for hoping, are some of Webster's definitions of the word. When we are on the point of undertaking some new project we always ask, "What are the prospects?" and "Will it pay?" This last question we deem necessary to answer in the affirmative before we enter upon the project. The prospects of success have inspired individuals, societies, armies, and nations to their mightiest victories and achievements. Not one present would be where he is in his present vocation, had the prospects of other days been different.

Moses never could have led the Israelites from their awful bondage to perfect liberty if God had not first increased the prospects of success by His revelation of himself in the burning bush. With God for him his prospects were infinite.

I ask you to-day, What are your prospects? And by the question I do not refer to your plans, schemes, and projects of a worldly nature (not that I have no sympathy and wishes for you in these matters), but we have a weightier subject for consideration this morning; a subject that affects us not in time only, but in eternity.

What are the prospects of this church for usefulness? Are they made bright by the reasonable hope of a rich in gathering for Christ the coming year? On what grounds does that hope rest? Have we a live membership, of which every individual has a deep, realizing sense of his obligations to the church and to his God, or do we seem to think that because God has showered his blessing upon us in the past, he will forever, without our effort? Once our prospects were dark to outward appearance, compared with what they might be to-day. We had one-sixth our present membership, and no house of worship. But our hearts were bound together by the strong ties of christian love, and went up unitedly to God for his Spirit to enable us to perform aright all the duties enjoined upon us, and the prospects of this church on the day it was born, have been more than realized. The bright visions of the most sanguine, have become a reality. The secret of success has been faith in God, coupled not only with a willingness, but a desire to work for him.

Dear friends, shall we continue to flourish and prosper in a remarkable manner for the coming three years and six months, as we have in the past? If so, we must unload some of the rubbish and lop off the dead branches. Some of us stand as soldiers with our weapons laid down. The church, the world, and our own hearts, condemn us; and our prospects are darkened thereby. Oh, that we might have a realizing sense of the awfulness of the sin of hindering the gospel! I ask of you to-day, my brother and my sister, if the prospects of this church are dark, what shall we do to brighten them; I ask of each of you, what will you do? But if you count them bright already, may they not be made brighter? If you say in your hearts as was said at the prayer meeting last Thursday evening, "For Zion's sake will I not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake, will I not rest, until the righteousness thereof goes forth as brightness, and the salvation thereof as a lamp that burneth," surely our prospects will be greatly enlarged.

Some of you who are here to-day, not long since, made solemn vows that you would be more faithful, and seek to do more for Christ; what are the prospects of your keeping those vows?

For a moment I turn to you who are strangers to the Savior, and ask, what are your prospects for eternal life, and for paying the vows you made when you were in distress or affliction? Are you nearer God and Heaven to-day? Is it not true that some of you are further from the divine life than ever before! It gives me painful thoughts and a sad heart to think of it!

It may seem unkind of me to express myself thus to you; but in the presence of an open Bible, standing as a watchman to give signals of approaching danger, with the eye of the Eternal resting upon me; and before you whom I shall one day meet at the judgment throne, I can but tell you the truth, that I believe that your real prospects are growing darker every day. Every day you delay makes it harder for you to change your mode of life. "Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard his spots; then may ye do good that are accustomed to do evil."

Are you fearful that you will not hold out if you begin now?—look away from yourself unto the Lord Jesus, who has said: "My grace is sufficient for thee;" and, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end." My friends, come to Jesus to-day; that dark prospects may give way to brighter ones; that "the peace of God that passeth all understanding," and the love of God that surpasseth knowledge," may dwell in your hearts. You can conquer, as did the emperor Constantine, by the sign of the cross.

Do you know the story, "The sign of the cross is the countersign to night"? "It was in the war twenty years ago. The sentry challenged someone who was creeping within the lines, 'Who goes there?' A feeble voice answered, 'A tired friend.' 'Advance and give the countersign,' was the reply. A worn out and jaded looking unarmed man, slowly made his appearance and said, 'I am a union soldier, and just escaped from a rebel prison. I have threaded the woods by night and swam the rivers by day, until I am well-nigh exhausted.' There was no chance for doubting the pathetic story, but the sentinel could only make reply, 'The orders are rigid to night, that every man coming to the line without the countersign must be shot in his tracks. You must give the countersign, or die. You know the severity of the rules;' he added sorrowfully. The man hesitated. 'I did not expect this,' he said; 'I am not ready to die: I must have time to pray.' A five-minute's respite was granted by the sentinel—a christian himself, he hoped and prayed for divine interposition through the delay. The tired man knelt, and began to talk quietly to his Father in heaven. But while he was praying, he made the sign of the cross in the air, as if to strengthen himself with the thought of a dying Savior. The sentry saw it, and with a cry of gladness clasped the praying man in his arms, saying, 'You are saved, and so am I! The sign of the cross is the countersign to-night!'"

Ye men and women, the condition of all pence in God is found in atonement. Will you take this countersign,—this watchword? If so, it will pass you safely through the evils and dangers of this life, give you victory at death, and admit you to the presence of the Lord, and the King on his throne.

Temperance Column.

Conducted by a Committee of the W. C. T. U.

No More Tea.

In 1762, the English government received less than $1,500 from the American colonies as its revenue from the tea tax. Yet the American colonies voted that the sale of tea should be prohibited, and the people refused to drink tea rather than pay to the mother country $1,500 a year tax on tea.

Two hundred thousand liquor dealers, half of them foreigners, have imposed heavy burdens upon the American people. Communities without liquor saloons have little use for policemen, jails or poor-houses. In one district in Liverpool, of 50,000 inhabitants without liquor saloons, there were only forty-five persons who had to receive out door relief. In another district of about the same size, with liquor saloons, nearly 2,000 had to receive out-door relief. When a small town in Illinois excluded the liquor saloon, it reduced its pauper bill from $1,100 to $2,50 per year. In Boston, seventy-three per cent of all the arrests made by the police are due to the presence of the drink-houses in the city. Eighty per cent of the criminals, and seventy five per cent of the paupers in this country can be fairly charged to the business of the 200,000 liquor dealers, half of whom are foreigners. What benefits do these liquor dealers confer upon the nation to compensate the people for tolerating their presence? What right have they to so greatly increase the taxes of the people in order to raise the money which is necessary to take care of their victims?

Has the character of the American people changed in these hundred years? Are we the worthy children of forefathers who refused to drink tea and prohibited its sale rather than pay a $1,500 tax to the mother country, when we bow down before 200,000 liquor dealers and bear what ever burdens they may impose upon us? When the American people realize that their taxes would be reduced one half by blotting out the liquor saloon, I believe the people will make short work of the modern grog-shop. As our forefathers said, "No more tea" so the time is near at hand when the cry of our people will be, "No more rum! No more money to take care of the worn-out victims of the rum shop! No more young people from our homes, to become the slaves of the liquor dealers?"

W. H. H.

Royal Beauty Rare.

Royal beauty is so rare in Europe that the fair face of the Princess Victoria of Teck, said to be the prettiest royal maiden to be found in all European countries, will doubtless make her a fortune. A London letter to the Philadelphia Telegraph says.

The Empress Eugenie and Elizabeth of Austria, the Princess of Wales and Queen Margarette of Italy were famous beauties, and the two latter are still charming enough to merit the admiration of the world. But the fair Alexandra is beginning to look like the mother of a grown-up family, and it is whispered that her profuse tresses are not the growth of her own simply head. None of her daughters, except, perhaps, the youngest, Princess Maud, gives any promise of inheriting even a portion of her charms. The future Empress of Austria, the Princess Stephanie of Belgium, has a neat graceful figure, but a hopelessly plain face. The Queen of Spain has no beauty whatever to good looks. Her predecessor, the faciless Mercedes, was a very pretty girl, but the Princess Christine, the sister of Mercedes, who died on the eve of her betrothal to the young King Alfonso, was a positive fright. Some of the Orleans princesses are pretty. The three surviving daughters of Queen Isabella of Spain, are all very pains, being thin and sallow and angular. The Empress of Russia is a beauty, despite her small stature, and she has the loveliest and softest brown eyes in the world. But her younger sister, the Princess of Thyra, Duchess of Cumberland, was homely enough to scare the poor young Prince Imperial into going to Zululand rather than to make her an offer of his hand, as M. Rouher and the Empress Eugenie had planned that he should do. The Princess Louise of Wales has a heavy jaw and hanging under lip, and looks hopelessly dull and stupid. Altogether the present generation of young royal ladies is sadly deficient in physical comeliness. "If things go on like this," remarked the Princess Beatrice, then a young and saucy girl, on the occasion of her sister's betrothal to the Marquis of Lorne, "my brother will wind up by marrying me to a Yankee!" This is what her cousins and her nephews may be forced to come to if they are positively set upon espousing none but a beautiful girl.

Two Mormons have gone into Dakota where one has gone to Arizona.

WHEN A CURE IS GUARANTEED

Why will you refuse to be relieved of that cough which is liable to become seated on your lungs and to cause you many a suffering day and sleepless night? Your children are liable to be taken with croup and die before a doctor can be summoned. Be wise and obtain a remedy that will not fail to give relief from coughs, colds, whooping cough, croup, and all other lung difficulties. HAMILTON'S COUGH BALSAM will do this and costs but a trifle. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Boyne.

SECURE ADMIRATION.

Who can help admiring a lovely face, a clear, smooth, beautiful complexion? These can be easily obtained by the use of HAMILTON'S ORIENTAL BALM. It will surely remove sunburn, tan, pimples, and blemishes of every sort and is in no way injurious to the skin, but is the most handsome and elegant preparation of its kind. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by Dr. G. W. Crouter, Charlevoix, and Crouter & Harris, Boyne.

A Reliable Article.

For enterprise, push and a desire to get ahead of competitors, we take the premium. We, Brooks the Druggist leads all competitors. Dr. Brooks's Cough and Lung Syrup, because its the best Medicine on the market, for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Primary Consumption. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Sample free.

WIN more money in an evening, than by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Maine. (3m)

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage, made and executed by Sylvester Ewing and Lucinda Ewing, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary J. McGlashan, dated the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1882, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "e" of Mortgages, on page 477, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Two Thousand Four Hundred Eight Dollars and Twenty-two cents, for principal and interest and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Thursday the twenty-first day of April, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in South Arm township, located in the township of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, in said county of Charlevoix, (that being the place and building in which the Circuit Court for Charlevoix County is holden), the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest, at ten per cent, and all legal costs and expenses allowed by the statute in such case made and provided, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, described as follows, to wit: Lots numbered six (6) and seven (7) in block number twelve (12) in the Pine Lake Iron Co's plat of Boston, town of Eveline, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan.

Dated December 26th, A. D. 1885.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.
Mortgagee.

CHUCKNUSKAN & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

CHANCERY SALE.

In pursuance and by virtue of an order and decree of the circuit court for the county of Charlevoix, in Chancery, in the state of Michigan, made and entered on the twelfth day of July, in the year A. D. 1885, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein John A. Reed is complainant, and Abraham Shepaw, Frederick W. Maynes, quasi-ynes, are defendants.

Notice is hereby given that I shall sell at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the town hall, in the township of South Arm, in said county of Charlevoix, (which is the place for holding the circuit court for said county, on Wednesday the 7th day of April A. D. 1886, at eleven (11) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, the premises in said decree mentioned, or so much thereof as is sufficient to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest, and costs of sale, to wit: Lots numbered one (1) and two (2) in block number twenty (20) in the Pine Lake Iron Co's plat of Boston, town of Eveline, county of Charlevoix, and state of Michigan.

Dated December 26th, A. D. 1885.

PINE LAKE IRON CO.
Mortgagee.

CHUCKNUSKAN & GRIER,
Attorneys for Mortgagee,
Charlevoix, Mich.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the money secured by a mortgage, made and executed by Sylvester Ewing and Lucinda Ewing, his wife, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Mary J. McGlashan, dated the 3rd day of May, A. D. 1882, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the county of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, on the fourth day of February, A. D. 1885, in liber "e" of Mortgages, on page 477, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of Two Thousand Four Hundred Eight Dollars and Twenty-two cents, for principal and interest and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the money secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on Thursday the twenty-first day of April, A. D. 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, I shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Town Hall, in South Arm township, located in the township of Charlevoix, county of Charlevoix, in said county of Charlevoix, (that being the place and building in which the Circuit Court for Charlevoix County is holden), the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due on said mortgage, with interest, at ten per cent, and all legal costs and expenses allowed by the statute in such case made and provided, to wit: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in the township of Charlevoix, in the county of Charlevoix, in the state of Michigan, described as follows

THE JOURNAL

BY CHAS. J. STRANG,

CHARLEVOIX, - - MICHIGAN.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Concise Record of the Week.

EASTERN.

The effect of a decision of the New Jersey Supreme Court declaring the railroad tax law unconstitutional has been to practically bankrupt the State Treasury. There is not enough money on hand to meet the ordinary expenses, and the State Comptroller has shut down on all demands, refusing to sign warrants of any description. Even members of the Legislature are not permitted to draw their pay.

While attempting to cross the Susquehanna river in a row boat, forty young men were drowned at Harrisburg, Pa.

The destruction of Pollard's liquor store at Pittsburg, Pa., caused a loss of $100,000.

F. A. Smith, formerly of St. Louis, is now in prison for debt at New York, with no apparent chance of ever regaining his liberty. He moved his money to a relation-in-law, but is now penniless. If he could pay $10,000 more than his case would be collected on the docket.

Samuel Brigham, a bank cashier at Newark, Ohio, has been held in $75,000 bail for larceny.

The second and concluding volume of Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress" has been published. It embraces the period between Johnson's installation as President and Garfield's inaugural. The earlier chapters are occupied mainly with the reconstruction problem, the contest between the President and Congress, and the impeachment trial. Grant's eight years' administration is discussed in a generous and catholic spirit, and the closing chapters deal with current questions of political discussion.

A passenger train was derailed at Tamaqua, Penn., some of the cars falling over an embankment and being consumed by fire. Two passengers were probably fatally injured, and a number of others were badly hurt.

In thirteen years the creditors of the Sprague estate have received but fifteen per cent of their claims. During the same time Trustee Clafin has drawn over $500,000 for his services.

Silas Blakeslee, an aged man living near Wallingford, Conn., gave 10 cents to a stranger who saved him from drowning.

James Haumer, a leading citizen of Zanesville, Ohio, committed suicide by strychnine, his disappointed, having squandered a fund of $10,000 of which he was trustee.

WESTERN.

Four of the men who recently broke jail at Carthage, Missouri, have been recaptured near Greenfield. Another of the party was picked up in Kansas, and was shot while attempting to escape at Galena.

Dr. J. H. Gheenn, of Cleveland, died in ten minutes after drinking a solution of carbolic acid in a drug store on St. Clair street. Habitual bouts the fatal potion was a genuine outpouring whisky, and his mind seems to be deranged on unmentionable ones.

The New Albany Road paid $200,000 for the Medford and Bloomfield narrow gauge line, furnishing miles in length, and will take possession April 1.

Martin Brockman and Fred Herman, directors of the City Sentinels of Cincinnati, who had last week, have been officially removed for nonfeasance.

The employees of five shoe manufacturing firms at Milwaukee struck, owing to a disagreement with the proprietors on the wages question.

Fire in Manheimer's marble dry goods store at St. Paul, Minn., destroyed fabrics worth $150,000, and damaged the building $6,000. The insurance is about $100,000.

Frank Smith, a convict in the Stillwater (Minn.) prison, assaulted his keeper, threatened to kill one more, and, breaking away from the dungeon, secured Joseph Wooden Head, and was shot killed by the latter.

Abbott Lawrence, assistant cashier of the National Exchange Bank of Milwaukee, was dangerously shot by George Wordner, bookkeeper for the same institution. The wretch has a mania claimed that his victim had been annoying him.

Lumbermen who have returned to Dubuque from the Wisconsin pineries report that in forty years the production of logs has not been as expensive as this season. The cut will not be more than fifty per cent of last fall's anticipations.

It is announced that the local whisky pool at St. Louis is on the verge of dissolution, and that all the distillers will be running to their full capacities in a short time. The meeting of the Western Export Association at Peoria was harmonious and all difficulties were arranged, the pro rata of output promising at former figures. The members feel elated at the success of the gathering.

The national convention of coal mine operators and miners at Columbus, Ohio, agreed upon a scale of prices for the different sections, and also made provision for a board of arbitration to settle disputes of a national character.

Thomas A. Edison, the electrician, and Miss Sara Miller were married at Menlo Park, and will spend the spring at Fort Myers, Fla.

John Glab, Mayor of Dubuque, Iowa, announces that he will organize a stock company for the erection of a large distillery in the suburbs of that city.

Joseph Alsup, of Black Oak, Missouri, having a wife and several children, killed himself with a shot gun when ordered to vacate a rented house.

Charley Maurice, a cow-boy, amused himself at Logansport, Ind., by riding his horse into saloons and demanding drinks at the point of a revolver. When he attempted to ride into the Pendleton pavilion barred the way and landed him on the cooler.

Martin O. Simons, tried at Baraboo, Wis., for arson, was acquitted on the ground that there is no law prohibiting the burning of one's own house.

SOUTHERN.

A negro man named Burns, who had recently had an assault upon a respectable white girl, was forcibly taken by a mob from the Harrisburg (Va.) jail and executed as a grave, slating the town, where the mob formed themselves in a circle. What followed is thus described by a telegram from Martinsburg:

The negro was mounted on a horse and led to the center of the ring. When a halter was placed about his neck. The leader then addressed and in a voice loud enough to be distinctly heard by all said: "Burns, you are guilty of the crime charged against you. Have you anything to say? You deserve the punishment you are about to receive. Take, said Burns, "and I ask for your prayers."

This was answered from the circle by a number of fervent ones and shouts of "from him!" "Get on with the work!" "Let the law take its course!" mingled with the crack of revolvers from the outskirts, however, the mob grew tense upon what follow is now supposed to be the signal of the circle at desperate pain, fanned the horse to conspiracy, and followed up Burns quickly as the doomed man, Burns sating quietly for the prayer to be ended, and the horse, upon the lash of the leader, and the throwing over the branch of a tree a few steps from the circle, whose fifty men were hard held the horse, and it sound to be four, one, and the poor wretch was suspended and was swinging back and forth with the breeze, when, at the sight, a yell went up and shots from the mob. A woodsy emerged, and then, while the dangling wretch was endeavoring to grasp the rope which was chasing out his life, a shot rang out, and he fell, dying, with the rope about his neck, and a bullet in his side.

A colored insurance over Savanah, Ga., strangled two boys in a church yard and left their bodies to be discovered by bazzards.

The Panama Canal Company will ship from New Orleans a third party of 250 negro laborers.

Samuel Kaiser, of Fort Worth, Texas, has been awarded damages of $25,000 against H. H. Cullin & Co., of New York, who attached his stock and ruined his business before his indebtedness to them had matured.

A. A. Steagall, of Henrietta, Texas, charged with incest with his daughter and with murdering her baby, was hanged by a mob, but was cut down by the Sheriff before life was extinct.

A fire which originated on a cotton steamer at Wilmington, N. C., swept along Water street for three blocks, causing losses estimated at $1,500,000. The First Methodist Church and two freight depots were among the buildings burned.

It is intimated that Secretary Bayard may soon retire from the Cabinet and that he will be succeeded by ex-Senator Pinchback.

T. R. Hudd, Democrat, has been elected in the Fifth Wisconsin District to succeed the late Joseph Bunkin in Congress.

A liquor bill—practically the same as the old Scott law—has been passed by the Ohio House.

The President has nominated John H. Shafroth to be Postmaster at Leadville, Col.

Washington special: "There is decidedly war between ex-Speaker Randall and Representative Hepburn. The story is about that the former grossly insulted the latter a month ago at a banquet in Philadelphia, at which they were among the invited guests. Mr. Hepburn, in speaking of the late Jim Blaine, made some remarks to which Mr. Randall took exception, and the story goes that the ex-Speaker went so far as to make a personal attack upon Mr. Hepburn, saying at the same time: "I owe you a thrashing and I'll give it to you soon." It was only by the intervention of their friends that a row was averted. The matter has been the subject of considerable comment for several days, but all those who were witnesses to the affair refuse to talk on the subject, although they admit that the statement above given is substantially correct."

MISCELLANEOUS.

It is reported that the suit to decree the validity of the Keely and telephone patent will be tried at Columbus, Ohio.

The Ontario Provincial Government has adopted high license on a modified form. It has decided that in cities over 50,000 inhabitants the license fee shall be $300; in towns of 5,000 to 50,000, in towns the fee is fixed at $250; in villages at $150, and in townships at $100.

Washington's birthday was observed at the National Capital by the closing of the Executive Departments. Congress held no session. The American colony in the City of Mexico celebrated the day by laying the corner stone of a hospital in the suburbs, at which occasion Joaquin Miller read a poem. The Soldiers' Memorial Hall at Toledo, Ohio, was formally opened with patriotic speeches. At night a grand military promenade concert and a ball were held in the building. The Michigan (Ind.) Republican organization, held its first anniversary at Detroit in the shape of a banquet, covers being laid for more than 1,000 persons. Senator Palmer presided, and Senators Logan, Frye, Conger, Manderson, Gen. Alger, Gen. Sherman, and others were present and made speeches.

It is not true that the Chinese Consul-General has advised Chinamen to quit America and return home. The report originated from a humorous joke being made with a membership companion to carry back poor, sick, and unemployed Chinese at half rates.

The Circuit Court of Columbiana, Ohio, affirmed the judgment in the Dalton contempt case, and the sailor was at once referred to the county jail in lieu of the State for first settlement.

According to the New York Produce Exchange the visible supply of wheat and corn is, respectively, 52,841,938 and 8,802,528 bushels.

FOREIGN.

Socialists of London, to the number of ten thousand, assembled in Hyde Park, London, last Sunday, listened to speeches from three platforms, and passed resolutions cursing the Government for its failure to commence public works in behalf of the unemployed. Thirty thousand persons have applied to the Mansion House for relief.

The Irish party will hold a meeting in London on St. Patrick's Day, Parnell presiding, the object of which will be to issue to England the ultimatum of the Irish people concerning home rule. Messages of the same nature will be held throughout Ireland the same day.

Sylvia Dumont, a queen of the Paris demi-monde, was stabbed by her polisheover, Emile Duble, whom she discharged and now a revolver. Both died.

The loyalists of County Tyrone at a monster meeting resolved to oppose home rule and nominate no man.

The new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland made his state entry into Dublin, and reports say there was no display. A body of students following the procession were attacked, and some of them were seriously injured.

The Greek Ministers of War and Marine directed to resign because their action in ordering the punishment of two officers of the Greek navy, who had been ordered for the purpose of forcing the hand of the Greek Government, was disapproved by the King.

The Ottoman Parliament has adjourned until the 10th of March, the object of the adjournment being to allow the Ministry to prepare the budget, which cannot be ready before that date.

A local option law has passed the Victoria Legislature.

The National Editorial Association, in session at Cincinnati, elected C. H. Jones, of Florida, President for the ensuing year, and decided to hold the next convention at Pueblo in June next.

A man named Peronnier, believed to be insane, caused a sensation in the French Chamber of Deputies by drawing a revolver and firing twice with a downward aim, at the same time throwing a letter toward M. Clemenceau. Peronnier was quickly seized, and hurried to prison.

The bill granting lands in severalty to certain Indians passed the Senate Feb. 25. Mr. Edmunds introduced the bill reported last year from the Judiciary Committee, providing for the disposition of lands for report their purchase by the United States Government, and for the distribution of the proceeds of the lands to be included in the reservation, and to be included by proclamation of the President, and of Canadian Indians, in the same manner as Indians proper. Mr. Dawes from the Indian Committee, reported back the bill and moving the exact substitute of a bill which he had introduced, and which, in substance, is a compromise between the two bills. There is the message to which the Hallinan & Davis case of Montana, decided against the New York City. The bland international bill passed the House Feb. 25, providing for the payment of the expenses of the Government of the Indian Territory, and for the sessions of the United States Courts therein, and for the appointment of a Commission to treat with the Indians of the Territory for the cession of their lands, and for the opening of the Territory to settlement. The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs reported a substitute for the House bill, providing for the appointment of a Commission to treat with the Indians of the Territory for the cession of their lands, and for the opening of the Territory to settlement. The Senate Committee on Public Lands reported back with a recommendation that it pass, the bill to provide for the sale of lands in the Indian Territory. The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs reported back with a recommendation that it pass, the bill to provide for the sale of lands in the Indian Territory. The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs reported back with a recommendation that it pass, the bill to provide for the sale of lands in the Indian Territory. The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs reported back with a recommendation that it pass, the bill to provide for the sale of lands in the Indian Territory.

LATER NEWS ITEMS.

On a ranch near Deming, New Mexico, General Crook and the Apache Chief Geronimo held a conference, in which the latter asked leave to return to his reservation. Crook demanded an unconditional surrender, but the Indian leader rode away with a white flag from Three ranches at Wheatland, Cal., were visited by masked men, who drove out the Chinese, marched them to Wheatland, and then set them at liberty. At one ranch the Chinese quarters were fired and destroyed.

The deposits in the Government savings banks of Canada during January were $56,528. The amount standing to the credit of patrons is $10,056,295.

The Illinois Central Railroad is selling round-trip tickets from Chicago to New Orleans, good for forty days, at $22.50.

Gen. Hazen, of the Signal Service, lays said the New York Times for $100,000 damages for libel.

A man named Lullin owns a mill at Shamokin Hill, Pa. His twin daughters, Katie and Annie, aged 6 years, stayed in a deserted coke oven where a shaft was sinking. The little ones ventured too near the machinery, and their clothes caught in the shaft. After having been thrown around for an hour they were found by an adjoining miner. The machinery was stopped their bodies were found terribly lacerated. Katie was dead, and Annie has little chance of recovery.

The House Ways and Means Committee have recommended the passage of a resolution requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to investigate the undervaluation of goods in New York City, and more particularly the charges that a conspiracy has existed in the custom house by which invoices were illegally made.

A local option law has passed the Victoria Legislature.

The National Editorial Association, in session at Cincinnati, elected C. H. Jones, of Florida, President for the ensuing year, and decided to hold the next convention at Pueblo in June next.

A man named Peronnier, believed to be insane, caused a sensation in the French Chamber of Deputies by drawing a revolver and firing twice with a downward aim, at the same time throwing a letter toward M. Clemenceau. Peronnier was quickly seized, and hurried to prison.

The bill granting lands in severalty to certain Indians passed the Senate Feb. 25. Mr. Edmunds introduced the bill reported last year from the Judiciary Committee, providing for the disposition of lands for report their purchase by the United States Government, and for the distribution of the proceeds of the lands to be included in the reservation, and to be included by proclamation of the President, and of Canadian Indians, in the same manner as Indians proper. Mr. Dawes from the Indian Committee, reported back the bill and moving the exact substitute of a bill which he had introduced, and which, in substance, is a compromise between the two bills. There is the message to which the Hallinan & Davis case of Montana, decided against the New York City. The bland international bill passed the House Feb. 25, providing for the payment of the expenses of the Government of the Indian Territory, and for the sessions of the United States Courts therein, and for the appointment of a Commission to treat with the Indians of the Territory for the cession of their lands, and for the opening of the Territory to settlement. The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs reported back with a recommendation that it pass, the bill to provide for the sale of lands in the Indian Territory. The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs reported back with a recommendation that it pass, the bill to provide for the sale of lands in the Indian Territory. The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs reported back with a recommendation that it pass, the bill to provide for the sale of lands in the Indian Territory.

NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS.

Brief Summary of the Proceedings of Congress.

